SECRETARY WILSON IS DECLARED TO HAVE MISCONSTRUED LAW

Report Exonerating Dr. Wiley From Blame Goes Yet Farther.

Policy of Compromise With Manufacturers Alleged By Committee.

Washington, Jan. 22.—Dr. Harvey W. Wiley is held not guilty of conspiracy to evade the law in a report filed with the house today by the committee which conducted an investigation last August into the charges upon which President Taft was asked to dismiss the nation's chief chemist from the government service.

Not only does the committee absolve Dr. Wiley from criticism for the employment of Dr. H. H. Rusby of New York as a government expert at a technical rate of $20 a day, but it attacks the whole administration of the national pure food law, and demands of congress action to change the method in the department of agriculture by which the law is now applied.

The so-called Wiley investigation arose from charges made in the agricultural department that Dr. Wiley, Dr. W. D. Bibelow, and Dr. I. F. Keibler, all of the bureau of chemistry, had secretly arranged with Dr. Rusby of New York so that the latter need work only eighty days in the year for an annual salary of $1,600. This

REBATES GIVEN BY OCEAN CARRIERS?

Federal Government Contemplates Prosecution of Pacific Line.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 22. — The department of justice contemplates the prosecution of a certain trans-Pacific steamship company for giving rebates to favored shippers. This was admitted here today by A. H. Dickinson, special agent for the department, whose presence in San Francisco became known only after he had spent a week investigating local shipping conditions.

Dickinson admitted that he was interested in learning why freight rates to Salt Lake City and other Western towns are lower from foreign countries than from Eastern cities of the United States. He said his work would take him as far east as the Rocky mountains and perhaps further.

"While in Seattle," he said, "I found that steel could be shipped more cheaply from Pittsburg to Manila than from Pittsburg to San Francisco, and that freight could be shipped from Germany to Salt Lake City cheaper than from Cincinnati to the same destination."

MODERN WOODMEN IN SESSION IN CHICAGO.

Chicago, Jan. 23.—Eight hundred representatives of various camps of Modern Woodmen of America convened here today to begin the rerating of the 1,200,000 members of the order. Sixteen state legislatures have within recent months passed laws requiring all fraternal orders to collect adequate rates, and this is the cause of the meeting. Since the bills were passed thirty-two fraternal societies have called similar meetings. The meeting here may last a week.

HANECY TOO ILL TO WORK

Detective Burns Offers Evidence on Duluth Man's Story.

Washington, Jan. 22.—The Lorimer case is being held up indefinitely because of the illness of Judge Hanecy, Senator Lorimer's counsel.

The evidence of alleged bribery of a witness, which Detective William J. Burns claims to have discovered, will not be presented until Senator Lorimer finishes his testimony. This evidence relates to the testimony of Charles McGowan, a contractor of Regina, Can., concerning a conversation which C. F. Wiehe, a brother-in-law of Edward Hines, is said to have had with Will-

Wilson-Harvey Incident Significant Sign of the Times.

By Willis J. Abbot.

Washington, Jan. 22. — (Special to The Herald.) — The little controversy between Woodrow Wilson and George Harvey, editor of Harper's Weekly, is a significant sign of the times. Harvey is beyond doubt a personal devotee of the New Jersey governor. To the mere onlooker, acquainted with the two men, it does seem too strange to say that Harvey is responsible for Wilson's present place before the American people. Years ago when the president of Princeton university was that and nothing more, Harvey discerned in him the qualities of a public man and began sounding his praises. Col. Harvey is emphatically a man of the world, endowed with a sense of humor. I fancy in the early days when he was booming Wilson for governor and president, and all the time listening to a general chor-

PRICE OF OIL IS GIVEN NEW BOOST

Third Advance Made Since the Day Following Christmas.

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 22.—Oil men were surprised today when announcement was made by the Seep Purchasing agency that the price of the Pennsylvania crude had been advanced to $1.45 a barrel, an increase of 5 cents over the close of the market on Saturday. This is the third advance since the day following Christmas, each being of 5 cents. Other grades were announced as follows:

"CHRIST COMING IN TWENTY YEARS"

"He Will Have Brown Body," Says Chicagoan to Theosophists.

Kansas, City, Mo., Jan. 22.—Lecturing before the Kansas City Theosophical society on "The Coming of Christ" last night, D. S. M. Unger of Chicago declared he knows for a fact that Christ is coming back to earth within the next twenty years.

"Whenever a nation or the world needs a great leader real badly he turns up," Mr. Unger said. "The world is sadly in need of a great religious leader these days, and so I know Christ is coming back within the next twenty years."

In order that humanity might have less trouble in being certain of the presence of Christ, Mr. Unger said he would have a brown body.

THREE PROMINENT RAILROAD MEN KILLED IN WRECK ON THE I. C.

J. T. Harahan, F. O. Melcher and E. P. Peirce Are Dead.

Son of Gen. Luke Wright Also Victim of the Collision.

Centralia, Ill., Jan. 22.—James T. Harahan, Sr., former president of the Illinois Central; Frank O. Melcher, second vice president of the Rock Island; E. P. Peirce, general solcitor of the Rock Island, and Eldridge E. Wright, son of Luke E. Wright, former secretary of war, were killed in a collision of two Illinois Central trains at Kinmundy, Ill., early today.

Two trainmen were injured and the passengers in the coach were badly shaken and bruised.

Two Trainmen Hurt.

Engineer Robert Stuart and —— Vert, fireman of the Panama limited, were the two trainmen injured. Both are from Champaign and were taken to their homes. Stuart was cut and bruised and Vert's leg was broken. The bodies of the dead were taken through here this morning to Chicago.

The cause of the wreck is ascribed to scarcity of water along the road. A special order makes it necessary for all trains to take water at Kinmundy, and a freight train which took water before the express held the express longer than customary.

Stuart and Vert were a freight crew lately put on a passenger train. It is believed they forgot about the order for all trains to take water. The flagman on No. 25 did not have time to flag the limited.

Train No. 25, known as the New Orleans Express, was taking water at Kinmundy at 1 o'clock when train No. 3, the Panama Limited, ran into the

RAILROADS MUST CARRY BEER, EVEN TO DRY COUNTIES

Washington, Jan. 22.—Beer is a commodity and railroads must carry it, when offered for transportation from one state into "dry" counties of another, regardless of the laws of the latter states.

The supreme court of the United States made this ruling today regarding a proposed shipment from Indiana into "dry" Kentucky counties.

WONDERFUL ENGINEERING FEAT IS COMPLETED

FLORIDA KEYS RAILROAD.

Key West, Fla., Jan. 22.—When the cross-over span at Knights key was closed yesterday afternoon and the great concrete trestle into Key West was finally tested, everything was in readiness for the celebration here today of the opening of the over-seas extension of the Florida East Coast railway. Among the warship here are a Portuguese cruiser, German cruiser, and the Cuban flagship Hatner. The United States is represented by the Fifth division of the Atlantic squadron. Assistant Secretary of War Oliver represented President Taft, and accompanying him was a congressional delegation numbering sixty-eight.

The Florida Keys railroad is one of the most remarkable of engineering works. The work has been in progress for many years. Two years ago it was partly wrecked by a fearful storm, but it is believed, that, as completed, it will withstand almost any demonstration of nature. It is one of the costliest railways ever constructed. It steps from Key to key, far out into the gulf, at some points being out of sight of land. Between the keys are long stretches of concrete viaducts, steel and draw-bridges.

OPEN TURKEY TO OUTSIDERS

New Policy Is Proposed By Said Pasha at Constantinople.

Constantinople, Jan. 22.—Hadji Adil Bey, secretary general of the Committee of Union and Progress, permanent under-secretary at the ministry of the interior and former minister of the interior, has accepted the portfolio of minister of the interior in the cabinet, while Talaat Bey, formerly minister of the interior, has now become minister of posts and telegraphs and Djavid Bey minister of public works.

The grand vizier, Said Pasha, in the course of an interview today, said that he purposed introducing entirely new administrative methods into the government, for which purpose new functionaries were necessary, the old ones having committed many mistakes. After this reform had been established, he said, steps would be taken to preserve order and peace in the Balkans.

Appears With Records Before the Stanley Committee.

Attorney Reed Asks That No Trade Secrets Be Made Public.

Washington, Jan. 22.—President J. J. Farrell and Attorney J. A. Reed of the United States Steel corporation, appearing today before the house "Steel trust" investigating committee, produced books and records ordered by the committee.

Mr. Reed said the corporation had not abandoned hope that the committee woul davoid unnecessary publicity of the operating costs of the corporation's business. Chairman Stanley told the Steel officials that it was not the committee's purpose unnecessarily to make public trade secrets, but that all the facts essential to show the corporation's standing under the Sherman anti-trust law would be made public.

"There will be no unnecessary or spiteful use of these records," he added.

"That is all I can ask," replied Attorney Reed.

Profit and loss figures from 1902 to date were supplied and Mr. Stanley announced they could be used "without restriction."

Los Angeles Storage Plant Manager Detained By the Police.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 22.—J. G. McKinney, manager of the Los Angeles Ice & Cold Storage company, was arrested today in the downtown hotel where he resides, following the sudden death of Richard Smith, aged 50, a wealthy Comptron rancher, who was found dead in his fields a short distance from the Dominguez aviation field yesterday. The police are searching for Lee Hawkins, McKinney's chauffeur.

Smith's body was found immediately after an altercation when McKinney's chauffeur started driving through the field.

No formal charge will be made against McKinney until the actual cause of the Smith death is ascertained by an autopsy.

IRON ORE IS PUT ON FREE LIST

Also Sewing Machines, Cash Registers, Nails and Other Articles.

Ad Valorem Basis Established for All Not Directly Specified.

Democratic Bill Is Completed and Will Go to Caucus.

Washington, Jan. 22. — Reductions of from 30 to 50 per cent on all items in the iron and steel tariffs and the placing on the tariff free list of iron ore, sewing machines, printing machinery, cash registers, nails and many other articles against which a tariff is now levied, are proposed in the Democratic steel revision tariff bill, made public today.

Democratic Leader Underwood estimated that the bill would reduce the average tariff on steel imports from 34.51 per cent to 22.42 ad valorem; would reduce the government tariff revenues from steel products by $823,597 from 1911, and by $4,000,000 from 1910.

Imports of steel products, it is said, would be increased by nearly $20,000,000.

MINNEAPOLIS WINS FREIGHT RATE CASE

Tariffs Between There and Denver Are Declared Unreasonable.

Washington, Jan. 22.—In a decision of the interstate commerce commission in the case of the Minneapolis Traffic association against the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad and other lines, the class freight rates between Minneapolis and Denver, Colo., are held to be unreasonable.

The existing first-class rate of $1.80 per 100 pounds was ordered reduced on March 1 to $1.62. Proportionate reductions were ordered by the commission on other classes of freight.

DUCAL PARTY AT REID HOME

His Royal Highness of Connaught and Wife and Daughter in New York.

Visit Is Declared Not Even of Semi-Official Nature.

Washington, Jan. 22.—The Duke of Connaught will make a flying visit to Washington and pay his respects to President Taft, it was learned here today. His original plans did not include a call upon the president, which fact provoked considerable comment.

New York, Jan. 22.—The duke of Connaught, uncle of King George of England; the duchess of Connaught, and their daughter, Princess Patricia, and their suite, reached here from Ottawa today for a social visit of four days in New York city.

The vice-regal party are the guests of Ambassador and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid. The visit marks the first call of royalty to this country since the tour nearly ten years ago of Prince Henry of Prussia. The duke and Ambassador Reid have let it become known that the visit is a purely personal one, and there is nothing even semi-official about it.

The journey of the vice-regal party was made on two special cars, the

DR. WEBSTER IS SENT UP FOR LIFE

Oregon, Ill., Jan. 22.—Dr. Harry E. Webster of Chicago was today sentenced to life imprisonment by Judge Richard S. Farrand for the murder of Bessie Kent Webster last October.

In pronouncing sentence the court reviewed the crime, declaring that "no greater continuing punishment could be inflicted upon a young, intelligent man, than to imprison him for life."

The court delivered a bitter denunciation of Webster, and said that in only one thing—the withdrawal of certain charges in his suit for divorce—did the prisoner indicate that he "possessed any of the attributes of manhood and of honor."

"It is the sentence of this court," he concluded, "that you be imprisoned in the penitentiary at Joliet for and during your natural life, the first day of that imprisonment to be in solitary confinement, the balance of the time at hard labor; and that you pay the costs of the prosecution."

SIMPLE MIXTURE USED IN DULUTH

Many in Duluth are now using the simple buckthorn bark and glycerine mixture known as Adler-i-ka, the new German Appendicitis remedy. A SINGLE DOSE relieves constipation, sour stomach or gas on the stomach almost INSTANTLY. This simple mixture antisepticizes the digestive organs and draws off the impurities and people are surprised how QUICKLY it helps. W. A. Abbett, druggist.

CLEANED.. ALONG THE POLICE RUN

"Old Mogey" died at the county poor farm Saturday.

Probably several hundred people in Duluth and vicinity remember "Old Mogey." They'll recall him from the time they were "kids," for until he went to the county institution to pass the rest of his days, he was a character who attracted considerable attention, particularly in the western end of the city.

"Old Mogey" was a sort of "bogey man" to the youngsters. When Duluth was no more than a wee spot on the map he was farming on a piece of land some miles back of West Duluth. He used to drive into town with his ramshackle rig and single horse, the whole outfit about as decrepit as himself. He would tie the animal to a telegraph post, and leave it while he finished his business in Duluth. That was his invariable custom whenever he came in. It was before the days of the humane society, and that old horse must have excited more expressions of sympathy than any equine which has ever come inside the corporate limits. And the limits are extensive. One prominent man recently said that they were determinedly tieing a tin can to a dog's tail and turning him loose, the route which he followed then being fixed as Duluth's boundaries.

But to get back to "Old Mogey" and his horse. No matter what the weather, rain, or shine or now, he would generally stay until his available cash, and his credit, were exhausted. If he couldn't unhitch the horse somebody would do it for him and pile him into his vehicle and cluck to the horse. Whether "Old Mogey" had the reins or not he would always start for home at the same old pace, while his master either slept or sat hunched up. Many a time the horse took him to the place he called home when he didn't know anything about it, coming to himself to find that he was in his own yard.

"Old Mogey" was an old man in those days. When he died he was past 80 years of age. Up till four years ago, when he was taken to the poor farm, he was often seen about town. He was eccentric and had peculiarities which seemed to make him feared by the "kids," harmless as he was. They would yell at him to tease him, sometimes, but never would they seek his immediate neighborhood. He came to the Head of the Lakes about forty years ago, and most of that time, up to the date he died at the poor farm, he lived on his place back of the hills.

The records give his right name as Hugh Mongy, a widower. It is stated that he was married several times, and had several children, whom the authorities are trying to locate. If none of them can be found "Old Mogey" will be laid away in the paupers' field at Greenwood cemetery, at the expense of St. Louis county.

Examine carefully any check bearing the name of the Western Scrap Iron & Metal company of 209 Lake avenue south, which you may be asked to cash. They may be worthless.

Last week a large number of blanks were stolen from the office of the company. Since that time the police have been informed of three forged checks which have been passed in Duluth on the stolen blanks. The numbers of the stolen blanks are 5,373 to 5,447, inclusive, and 5,475 to 5,499, inclusive. Two of them for comparatively small amounts were passed in saloons, one being received by John Landahl and the other at the Kaiserhof.

Those who accepted the paper must have been careless. A careful scrutiny of the checks would have shown that they were worthless, judging from one which was brought into the station. At the line for the signature the name of the company was stopped. Underneath it bore the countersign, "A. Moose & Co." But those who cashed the checks evidently went on the theory that they were all right as they bore the name of a reliable firm, and did not look at the signature. They were made payable to "Jhon Cone."

Although his wife recently secured a divorce from him, Otto Anderson believed that he had a perfect right to go to Mrs. Anderson's home to sleep. He also thought that if she did not greet him with open arms, but locked the door in his face, he was entirely justified in kicking the door down and making himself comfortable.

According to the police that is what he did Saturday night. They assert that he demolished the door of the house in Oneota and then sought consolation in the arms of Morpheus until rudely awakened by a policeman Sunday morning. Since that time he has been ruminating on the perversity of fate in the "bull pen" at police headquarters. When arraigned in police court this morning he pleaded not guilty to a charge of trespass and his case was set for hearing this afternoon. He denied that he was drunk, but admitted that he "had a few under his belt."

When Anderson forced his way into the house Mrs. Anderson sought refuge in the home of neighbor. In the morning she called the police.

Charles Thomas, the 19-year-old boy who was recently arrested the second time within two weeks for passing worthless checks, is fortunate. Although he had been given an opportunity to "make good" the first time he was arrested and arraigned in police court, he was again placed on parole when his case was called in the district court Saturday.

Previous to his first arrest young Thomas had put out about $400 in worthless checks. He signed them with his own name, but he had no funds in the bank with which to meet them. He caused his parents much suffering, and they went a long ways to keep him out of jail. His father tried to settle all the checks which his son had passed. For a time he was able to do so, but towards the end he obligated himself to pay them up.

In police court Thomas was allowed to plead guilty to petty larceny. He was placed on parole with a sentence of sixty days in the county jail hanging over him. Inside of two weeks he got drunk, according to his own statement. Then he passed another check. Before that he said that he had never done any drinking. He was again arrested and the case carried to the grand jury, which indicted him. But through the efforts of his parents and others he was given a second chance.

This time it is hoped that the young man has come to a realization of the seriousness of his past actions and will never again give any one an opportunity to criticise his conduct. He passed the checks to satisfy his craving for gambling.

Rosa Perkovitz, accompanied by two small children, was brought to the police station from Virginia yesterday afternoon and booked on a charge of selling liquor without a license. It is claimed that she illegally sold twenty-seven quarts of beer and a pint of whisky. She pleaded not guilty and her trial was set for tomorrow morning. She was unable to furnish $100 bail and was committed to the county jail. There she and the two little children will have to be confined with the other women, some of them disreputable in the extreme, who are either serving sentences or awaiting trial. The babes will have to be thrown into contact with them, for it appears that with the present facilities, there is no other place to put them unless some special arrangement is made.

James Marion, the colored man arrested last week on a charge of having stolen some flannel shirts from the show case of the Twin Ports Clothing company, after breaking the glass, was discharged after a hearing in police court today. He denied his guilt and claimed that he had been hired by another to carry the shirts. The police were also unable to identify him.

James H. Parker, a laborer, was tried in police court this morning on a charge of assaulting Mrs. Cora Merry, an old lady who lives downstairs in the same house. Mrs. Merry claimed that Mrs. Parker had come downstairs to borrow some money from her for her husband. She alleged that Parker wanted the money for booze. She said that she had no money and had accompanied Mrs. Parker upstairs to so state to Parker, as his wife claimed that he would not believe her. When she got upstairs she asserted that Parker grabbed her by the arm, shaking and so frightening her that she fainted. Later, she said that Parker helped her downstairs and was all contrition. Parker denied that he had any intention of assaulting or scaring Mrs. Merry. The court did not pass on the case this morning, but set it over until this afternoon for consideration.

Ladie Doliva, Harry McKay, Simon Johansen and Frank Smith, arrested Friday night as they stepped from the Iron Range train on a charge of drinking liquor on a passenger train, were discharged in police court Saturday. They promised not to repeat the offense, but they expressed themselves forcibly, wondering why a passenger in an ordinary coach couldn't quench his thirst without breaking the law, while nothing would be said to a person taking a drink in a Pullman.

Patrolman Dave Olson and Detective Toewe, both of whom have been on the sick list for many weeks, are back on the job. The former started work again Saturday and the latter this morning.

Frank Dowe was arrested Saturday afternoon on a charge of vagrancy. He claimed that he had a job waiting for him and he was released to go to work.

John Newton, arrested on a charge of having assaulted his mother-in-law, will have his hearing in police court this afternoon. The principals tell conflicting stories and the court desires to give both sides an opportunity to be heard.

RAILROADS

INTERIOR POINTS WELL SUPPLIED WITH COAL.

W. W. Broughton, vice president of the Pittsburg Coal company of St. Paul, who was in the city Saturday, declared that the railroads of the Northwest had accomplished a remarkable feat in moving coal from Duluth and Superior to interior points during the severe weather of early January.

Unless there are thirty more days of below zero weather, coal stocks at the Head of the Lakes will be ample, according to Mr. Brougton. Interior points, he says, seem to be well supplied with coal and there will be no shortage except in the case of extreme and continued cold weather.

There is, of course, a shortage in some grades of coal, but at this time there are no indications of a general shortage.

MARINE

STEAMERS ARE STUCK IN THE ICE.

Grand Haven, Mich., Jan. 22. — The steamers E. G. Crosby, Nyack and Conestoga of the Crosby line have been stuck in ice several days off this harbor. The Grand Trunk car ferry steamer Milwaukee arrived in the ice early yesterday morning. The tug Dornbees has gone to her assistance. The Grand Trunk car ferry Grand Haven left port early this evening and may be able to release the imprisoned steamers. It was reported here that the Goodrich steamer Alabama reached Muskegon harbor last evening.

PLAY IN REGULAR EVENTS IS RESUMED.

After a week of continuous work in the Northwestern bonspiel, the members of the Western Curling club will again take up the various events at local rinks. This evening Olson will meet Clark and Iltis will play against Wieland in the Esterly event. Method and Ashley are matched this evening in the Commercial club event, the winner entering the finals with Dr. Judson.

OBJECT TO STREET BEING GIVEN AWAY.

The special railroad committee of the West Duluth Commercial club consisting of Emil J. Zauft, Louis Ransted, Thomas Olafson, W. B. Getchell and L. A. Barnes, appeared before the city council committee this afternoon and protested against the vacation of Lesure street for a railroad right-of-way. The committee acted according to the instructions of the Commercial club which adopted resolutions at the Friday meeting.

The action is the result of the request sent into the council several weeks ago in which the West Duluth Land company, the Island Creek Coal company, Lesure Lumber company and the Virginia & Rainy Lake Lumber company asked for a right-of-way on the street to build an independent track from the Northern Pacific main line. All the above firms have extensive holdings and the club members are objecting to their claim on the ground that the companies should use their own land for track purposes without taking the only street in this section of the city.

NEIGHBORHOOD HOUSE IDEA TAKING FORM.

Members of the West Duluth branch of the Women's Christian Temperance union are already perfecting the plans for the proposed Neighborhood house in this end of the city, and from the present outlook it will be a reality within a few months.

The new home for the young people of West Duluth was first suggested at the meeting of the union branch last week, and the special committee appointed for the club is now working in co-operation with the Twentieth Century club. Clubs will be organized among the boys of West Duluth ranging in age from 6 to 16, and allowing a membership of fifty in each club. The clubs will choose officers, to be under the supervision of the W. C. T. U.

Several girls' clubs have also been suggested and it is probable that a sewing class may also be established. The local branch of the union plans to finance the house and will not go out of their organization for financial aid. The members are now conducting a silver medal oratorical contest and they hope to realize a large sum of money before the contest is over. If available funds are secured, the members will appoint a physical director who will have charge of the house and the work of the members of the various clubs.

The committee which consists of Mrs. H. H. Phelps, Mrs. C. R. Keyes and Mrs. W. F. Bailey will look about this week for a desirable location for such a house and will report at the next meeting of the union

WOMAN'S REALM.

The members of the Red, White and Blue society have done some excellent work during their first organized year of effort. At the first annual meeting, which was held Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. August Anderson, 211 East Fourth street, reports of the work accomplished were given and officers for the year elected.

The club, which was organized for the purpose of working for the children's pavilion of the anti-tuberculosis hospital, now under construction at Midway, has met regularly and Saturday reported a fund of $40 set aside for a children's library in this hospital. At their regular meetings they have dressed dolls and made picture scrapbooks and at Christmas time they sent baskets to each child at St. Luke's hospital, gave prettily dressed dolls to all of the little children who are under the care of Mrs. Florence Lee, anti-tuberculosis nurse, and subscribed for The Herald for one year, the paper to be sent to the poor farm. The scrap books are to be kept for the library which they will give to the hospital.

The bulk of the fund raised was obtained from a supper which they gave last summer and from a clam sale.

During the coming year the activities of the society will be centered in four entertainments to be given by the young people and their sewing will be done at home.

A vote of thanks was extended to the members of the advisory committee, consisting of Mrs. Josef Longren, Mrs. August Anderson, Mrs. A. B. Bosom and Mrs. Gust Carlson, for their help and advice during the year.

The three girls who have held the offices during the past year were presented with bouquets of flowers at this meeting as an expression of the appreciation of the work which they had done. The officers elected for this year are: President, Miss Fern Wanderly; secretary, Miss Helen Murray; and treasurer of the flower fund, Miss Mina Asbjornson. Mrs. Joseph Lonegren was elected treasurer for the society.

While the members of this club are young they are faithful and their report shows that they have worked to good advantage.

After the business session a musical program was given and the guests enjoyed games and refreshments.

SOCIETY EVENT.

"The Adventurer" Will Be Given at Lyceum.

The society play this evening, "The Adventurer," which is being given by local talent for the purpose of raising money to start a Drama league in this city, will be quite the event of the week, and the audience will be one of the largest of the season.

M. Benedict Papot of Chicago, who has been coaching the players, and who takes the leading role, is delighted with the work shown in the rehearsals and promises a finished production.

SAGINAW SMART SET.

Take Healthful, Useful Morning Exercises.

Get a hand vacuum cleaner, use it for a few minutes in the morning. It will develop arms and chest, sharpen the appetite, and at the same time keep rugs and carpets in a neat, clean, sanitary condition. At least, this is what a set of society women in Saginaw, Mich., are doing since the introduction there of the E-Z Suction hand vacuum cleaning machine. Many of these people who have large vacuum cleaning machines in their homes are using this little hand machine, which they claim is a marvel. The same machine has just been brought to Duluth and may be seen at any time at the offices of the E-Z Suction Cleaner company, Christie building.

THE EVENING STORY

TOLD IN THE RESERVE ROOM

By Carl T. Hueston.

"Kelly'll live," said Patrolman Jennings, interrupting the game of checkers which involved six of his brother officers of the Twelfth precinct, four as highly interested spectators and two as bitter combatants.

Various exclamations of satisfaction greeted his declaration, and Rooney, an enormous man with huge, hairy hands and the ruddy kindly countenance of his race, said musingly: "He was close called, was Kelly."

"That last night wasn't so much of a fire and I can't see how he was caught," said Jennings, "for everyone else got out and except him nobody was even hurt."

"I don't suppose you do," said Rooney, "but it was a mighty big wonder we were able to get him at all."

"How did it happen?" some one asked and while the checker game proceeded with the group's divided attention, Rooney began:

"Kelly and me ain't very good friends since his ten days' suspension and last night just after I came on, when I met him at the far end of my beat, he hardly spoke to me. As I turned back I saw the fire in the rear elevator shaft of the Renfrew hotel and I yelled to Kelly to turn in an alarm.

"I ran in and told the sleepy clerk to ring the bells in all the rooms, and as the elevator boy had it out at the first peep Kelly, who had come in, and I got the people down. There weren't many, and when the clerk called the roll from the register he said we had 'em all. Just then in run a woman and says: 'Me daughter's in the last room on the top floor and she hasn't come down. She's the housekeeper's assistant and she's all alone up there.'

"It turned out afterward that she wasn't in the hotel when the fire started, but we were due for another ascension.

"And up we went as the apparatus started to work. By this time the power was giving out and as we reached the last floor but one the elevator stuck and just left us room to climb out. The girl was on the next above, we thought, and we got there by a narrow stairway. The rear of the place was all afire from top to bottom and the smoke was getting pretty thick where we were but we looked in all the rooms; couldn't find anyone and turned to go down the stairs. A roll of heavy smoke, with little glimmers of flame coming through it, cut us off from the front of the building, and the fire at the back left only one door we could make. We got through it and in a second were looking out a window into an alley six stories below. There wasn't anyone in sight, and the smoke was too thick to see us anyway.

"'We'll have to jump,' says I, thinking of a man I picked up that fell from the roof of the Franklin building and who was all crumpled to bits.

"Kelly looked around out of the window and reached to an iron conductor pipe. It was heavy and solid-looking and had joints every two feet or so clear to the street. He gave a pull at it to see if it would hold. It was terribly shaky.

"'The pipe won't hold us both together,' he says, bringing his head in from the window, his face white in the light of my lanterns, but his voice quiet and steady. 'Dont talk but get out and down. If you hurry maybe there'll be time for us both. I could not look your Nellie in the face if I made that cool white street and you didn't.'

"What with him being single and me seeing my baby's curly head shining before me I made the trip, as I went out of the window and we knowing Kelly's chance was slim if he kept off that pipe till I was safe.

"I jumped the last two floors and made 'em run an extension ladder to the window, for he made no sign of coming after me. He was badly burned when they got him, and I thought he was dead, but he knew me and said: 'You were a long time climbing and I was afraid I couldn't wait, but I did all right.'

"My wife, Nellie, has been with him all day at the hospital. She says she is going to nurse him through and I guess she will, for she says he's a hero."

"Drown him," said one of the checker players to his opponent, and another incident of reserve room history was closed.

WILL MEAT PRICES GO UP AGAIN?

Many Duluth people do not care if meat prices are up or down, because they have found that "Minnesota" macaroni and spaghetti, with their delicious nut-like flavor, take the place of meat very largely and are more easily digested.

Good macaroni and spaghetti are four times as nutritious as beefsteak, and they are the best and most nourishing foods known. They can be easily prepared in many appetizing ways and are suitable for the daintiest luncheon as well as the heartiest feast.

But if you want that rich, nut-like flavor be sure and get the delicious "Minnesota" brand macaroni or spaghetti — made from the finest Northern Durum wheat, with all the nourishing Gluten left in. It is easily digested and never gets soggy. All good Duluth grocers sell it.

FRENCH MUSIC AT FREE CONCERT

Compositions of Ambroise Thomas Featured—Mrs. Flaaten Soloist.

The free concert given at the auditorium of the Masonic temple yesterday afternoon was representative of the French school of music, as exemplified by the composition of Ambroise Thomas, so far as the instrumental portion was concerned, and the first song of Mrs. Alphin Flaaten from its daintiness might also be claimed in that class.

The "Nymphs and Fauns" by Bemberg, was the first vocal selection, and Mrs. Flaaten sang it with a dainty grace and artistic appreciation, showing flexibility and good execution in the runs and cadenza. It was well received by the large audience, and deservedly so, and as an encore the singer chose "My Laddie," a Scotch song by W. A. Thayer, redolent of heather and Highland moors, together with a strong sentimentality which good Scotch songs contain.

The second vocal number was an artistic setting of a poem by Will Stanton, the Southern dialect poet, "Let Miss Lindy Pass," splendidly and feelingly sung, and for an encore the ever beautiful favorite of Thomas Moore, "Believe Me if All Those Endearing Charms," whose grace does not stale nor its poetic charm diminish by age or usage. The singer entered fully into the spirit of the song and showed an artistic conception of the piece. In fact, all of Mrs. Flaaten's work shows hard, conscientious work with energetic rendition and intelligent understanding.

The organ music, being all from the compositions of Thomas, "Mignon," "Hamlet" and "Psyche," was, as might be expected, dainty, tuneful and simple each portion seeming to be more melodious than that which preceded it and all most enjoyable. In fact, for tuneful music there has seldom been a more pleasant program. It was not what is generally considered to be organ music—as the common idea is that only sacred music or heavy, ponderous compositions are suited to the organ—but those present yesterday heard the daintiest hits and brilliant passages run off on the organ as distinctly as they were on a piano.

Next Sunday afternoon the special numbers will be supplied by Miss Wally Heymer, violinist, and Miss Alice Mae Brown, pianist and vocalist, with the usual organ numbers. Those talented musicians have been in the city but a short time, but have entrenched themselves in the musical heart of Duluth by their ability and charming personalities and the program should be a rare musical treat.

Ten days more sheet music sale. Boston Music company.

St. Louis Police Have Another Murder Mystery to Solve.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 22.—Search for the head of Salvatore Leoni, whose headless body was found in an ash pit Friday, was interrupted today by the hunt for the slayer of Edmonda Carobilli, who was shot and killed last night. Police claim they see an Italian feud in the killing of Carobilli. The police had difficulty in finding any person who would talk. The real motive for the slaying of Carobilli is not known.

SUFFRAGE PARTY DISBANDS.

But Suffrage Association Will Continue Minnesota Fight.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 22.—The Woman's Suffrage party of Minnesota, has disbanded and the Minnesota Suffrage association, an older organization, will continue work for equal suffrage.

The dissolution of the party will be a surprise to the suffragists of the state in general, as the campaign for membership has been widespread. The workers have used as an argument in procuring signatures to pledges of support, that there are no dues. The membership cards gave the legislative number, ward number and precinct number of the signer, and several hundred of them have been sent in.

It was announced a month ago that the party would bring to the Twin Cities as lecturer, Max Eastman of New York. Mr. Eastman is coming to St. Paul under the auspices of the St. Paul Political Equality club.

Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst appeared in Minneapolis last fall under the auspices of the party, and it was planned to have a series of similar events during the winter.

WOMAN SERVES PAPERS IN $1,800,000 SUIT.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 22.—Miss Lillian Hall, deputy United States marshal has obtained service on John I. Maddox, county clerk of Dallas county, Missouri, in a suit in the federal court to collect $1,800,000 on old railroad bonds.

Posing as a book agent, she served the papers after two men deputy marshals had failed. She readily approached the county officers, who usually are suspicious of strangers in the town.

The bonds upon which the suit was based were issued by Dallas county in 1868 to aid in building a railroad. The road was not built, but the bonds have been standing against the county.

Tomorrow is the second registration day for the city election to be held Feb. 6. Saturday of this week will be the last registration day, and anybody who fails to get his name on the poll list this week will not be able to vote at the election Feb. 6.

Only 5,009 voters registered at the primary election Dec. 19, so that a majority of the voters have not registered. Carmichael, president of the Young Men's Republican club, was the principal speaker. He reviewed Dr. McCuen's platform and charged Dr. Cullum with inconsistency in his attitude towards laboring men. * * *

A Fifth ward Democratic meeting will be held at Duluth Heights Friday evening of this week. Alderman John Hogan, who is standing for re-election, will be one of the speakers and other prominent Democrats of the ward will also address the meeting.

The organization of the Republican city committee has been completed, chairmen for each ward having been named by Dr. McCuen and the candidates for aldermen. J. Fuller Staffard is the campaign manager and chairman of the whole committee, and Walter H. Borgen is secretary. The ward chairmen are: First ward, Haris Tux; Second wad, E. H. Conkey; Third ward, Frank E. Randall; Fourth ward, David Cone; Fifth ward, A. H. Deeks; Sixth ward, Peter Olson; Seventh ward, Joseph W. Cummings; Eighth ward, Thomas S. Olafson.

The West Duluth Republican club members will also attend.

GOOD YEAR IN SIGHT FOR THE IRON TRADE.

The presidential election has already been discounted and a good year is in sight for the iron and steel trade, according to Hugh Kennedy, vice president and general manager of the Rogers-Brown Iron company, and W. T. Shepard, general manager of Rogers, Brown & Co. Mr. Kennedy and Mr. Shepard, who have their headquarters in Buffalo, are at the Spalding.

Mr. Kennedy says that the Susquehanna mine at Hibbing, operated by his company, will ship 500,000 tons of ore this year. The mine, which was originally opened as an underground proposition, is being stripped, only about 1,000,000 cubic yards of the total of 7,000,000 remaining to be removed. The mine will re-enter the shipping class this year.

DEMOCRATS OPEN HEADQUARTERS

The Democrats of the city have organized for campaign work, and the next two weeks will be busy ones. Democratic headquarters were opened today in the Torrey building, the rooms on the first floor formerly occupied by Paine, Webber & Co. being used for the purpose.

Charles E. Dice, who successfully managed Mayor Cullum's campaign two years ago, is again campaign manager and chairman of the city committee. The executive committee is made up of one man from each ward. The committee will hold a meeting tonight to choose the secretary and treasurer.

Campaign plans will be immediately laid out. Meetings will be arranged in all wards, and the contest will be carried to the voters by literature and speakers. The committee is to make a strong campaign for Mayor Cullum and all other candidates on the Democratic ticket, and they are hopeful for success.

OBITUARY

Kate Shelly, heroine of the Honey Creek flood disaster in 1881, is dead at her home, a quarter of a mile from the Moingona bridge across the Des Moines river from Boone, Iowa, the scene of her heroic act. Six months ago she was operated on for appendicitis, and before she recovered Bright's disease set in.

During a violent storm thirty years ago, Miss Shelly, who was station agent at Moingona, crossed the bridge over the Des Moines river on her hands and knees at midnight in order to flag a passenger train on the Chicago & Northwestern railroad and save it from plunging into Honey creek, the bridge over which had been washed away. A yard engine, with an engineer and two firemen, went through the Honey creek bridge, which is only a short distance from the Moingona bridge, and Miss Shelley realized that she must act quickly in order to save the passenger train from disaster. She succeeded in stopping the train with her lantern only a few feet from the broken bridge.

For her bravery the Iowa legislature awarded her a medal and a sum of money. She also received substantial recognition from the railroad company, as well as many contributions from various parts of the country. Although in comfortable circumstances, she preferred to work as station agent at Moingona up to the time of her illness.

Mrs. Fanny Portugal Hirschberg, author of many songs and lyrics, is dead at a hospital in Chicago after three days' suffering from peritonitis. Most of her songs and poems were of home and children.

Dr. William H. Treacy of Helena, Mont., one of the leading physicians of that state, died two days ago at Honolulu, where he went recently for his health. He was a native of Ontario, Can., aged 56, and educated at Toronto university and Rush Medical college, Chicago. He lived in Montana thirty years and was one of the head surgeons in the state for the Northern Pacific railroad. The body will be brought back on the steamer reaching San Francisco, Feb. 6, and buried at Helena.

W. A. Sutor, for many years prominently identified with steamboat interests on the Upper Mississippi river and engaged in business at La Crosse, Wis., is dead in La Crosse, at the age of 71 years.

RESUME TESTIMONY IN LUMBER OUSTER SUIT.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 22.—Taking of testimony in the suit brought by the state to oust twenty-six lumber companies charged with violating the anti-trust law by forming a combination to restrain trade, was resumed before Commissioner Reynolds of St. Louis, here today. All the state's direct evidence has been introduced, and the hearing of witnesses for the defense was begun today.

SHOOTS HIS NIECE BY MISTAKE; KILLS SELF.

Tacoma, Wash., Jan. 22.—T. B. Neff, a young rancher, accidentally shot and killed his 12-year-old niece, Annabell Bond, while hunting rabbits near here today. Overcome by remorse, he wrote a note to his sister explaining the tragedy, and committed suicide by swallowing strychnine. Neff had been left in charge of the child while her parents made a trip to Seattle.

A Missouri fruit farmer, whose orchard of 260 acres, contained about 10,000 apple trees, sold his crop this season for $100,000. A storage company bought the fruit on the trees.

NORTH SHORE BOULEVARD

Driveway From Duluth to Two Harbors Is Being Considered.

Efforts Made to Have Necessary Property Deeded to Park Board.

A boulevarded driveway, which will cost upwards of $800,000 to build, and which will, when completed, be one of the finest in North America, is now projected between Duluth and Two Harbors.

It will be a lake shore boulevard, some twenty odd miles in length, and will follow the general contour of the north shore of Lake Superior. In point of picturesque scenery, this winding driveway promises to surpass anything yet attempted in this part of the country.

For miles along the shore of the largest body of fresh water in the world, the boulevard will afford a natural panorma which would be unsurpassed.

Although the proposition is still in its infancy, no time is being lost in making it a reality. A complete survey of the driveway has been made and is now in the hands of the Little & Nolte company of this city.

The Little & Nolte company today sent letters to each property owner along the north shore between Duluth and Two Harbors. Each has been asked to donate the land needed for the roadway and to have it deeded over to hte park board of the city. There are no mercenary motives connected with the proposition on the part of the promoters, it is claimed. Just how the building of the boulevard will be financed has not been announced.

At some distant period of time in the past, when the great inland sea was at a much higher level than at present, the action of the waves formed a natural terrace covered with gravel some distance above the present surface of the lake. A natural driveway exists on this formation and comparatively little labor would be required to provide the grade for the proposed lake shore boulevard. Much money, however, will be required for the building of bridges to span the rivers and creeks.

The drive would be practically an extension of London road and at no time would its course be diverted so that the lake would be lost sight of. The general contour of the shore line will be followed as closely as possible and the road will wind in and out among the various rocky promontories and inlets.

The letters which have been sent to the property owners explain that all that is needed for the driveway is a strip of land varying in width from 150 to 200 feet. Those of them who can look into the future may be able to see where such a boulevarded driveway will be of vast benefit to each property holder, through whose land the road passes. To make this a success, the co-operation of every interested property owner is essential.

The driveway will consist of an automobile road, a carriage road, a bridle path and a foot path. Such trees and shrubbery as may be needed to beautify the road, will be added.

Maps and surveys showing the proposed course of the boulevard, as laid out by the surveyors who have been working on the proposition for the past year are accessible at the office of the Little & Nolte company, American Exchange bank building.

SAYS PACKERS TRADED DATA

Chicago, Jan. 22.—Inquiry into the business affairs of the National Packing company was resumed at the opening of court when the direct examination of William E. Weber, general auditor of the company, was continued by District Attorney Wilkerson.

Weber said the test cost on beef and departmental transfer sheets of the company were sent each week to the heads of the different plants.

In response to a series of questions he admitted that the methods used by the National Packing company in figuring the test cost of beef and the credits given for by-products from 1907 to 1910 practically were the same as those used by the other members of the alleged packers combine.

Original Sheets Shown.

District Attorney Wilkerson used original departmental transfer sheets of the corporation to refresh the memory of the witness on the specific allowances made for certain by-products. At one point the witness said:

"Three cents a pound for fat seems pretty low, but I suppose that is the current figure or it would not appear on these departmental transfers."

The defense asked to have this remark stricken from the record, but was overruled.

The witness said changes in the killing charges and the allowance for by-products were made from time to time, but he was unable to give dates and figures.

ADDITION TO GIDDING BLOCK

Three Additional Stories Will Be Built in the Spring.

Plans are being drawn for three additional stories to the Gidding block.

Since his return from the East, J. M. Gidding has taken up the plans for the proposed addition and an architect is now at work on them. Construction will begin early in the spring. The front of the store will also be remodeled, making it one of the most attractive in the entire Northwest. The firms' stores in Cincinnati and New York are noted for their artistic fittings, and the plans made for the Duluth building show that the home store of the firm will not be neglected. The addition was found necessary in order to permit the firm to keep pace with increasing business.

News and Views of Minnesota Politics

Governor Eberhart may be opposed for renomination by his own city of Mankato and county of Blue Earth, according to an interview given out in Minneapolis by F. F. Ellsworth, Republican candidate for congress in the Second district in 1910 and a prospective candidate this year.

Instead of presenting Governor Eberhart's name to the state convention, Blue Earth county may come forward with a favorite son in the person of William F. Hughes. Mr. Ellsworth said:

"The welfare of the Republican party in this state ought to be above the interests of any man's personal candidacy. The people of this state, in my opinion, and the Republican party, are by a large majority against the nomination and election of the present governor. They believe that he is tied up with the interests and that he has absolutely failed to make good. Nowhere in this state is that feeling stronger than where he is known the best, in Mankato and Blue Earth county. There is a feeling there which is anything but pride. It is more like a feeling of apology if not protest, and this feeling may become crystallized so that Blue Earth county will present a solid delegation to the next Republican state convention for the candidacy of a man in whom they can take genuine pride. There are several names mentioned, and among others Edgar Weaver, the veteran county auditor, and Judge William F. Hughes. Should either one of these men but give his consent, the administration forces in the next Republican convention would find themselves in a position of forwarding a candidate for re-election as governor of this state who would not be able to control a single delegate from his own home county, and with the possible coalition of the Gordon and Lee and Holmberg forces, this would present a practical solution of what seems to me to come pretty close to being a political crisis for Minnesota."

The first step towards obtaining a Woodrow Wilson delegation from Minnesota to the Democratic national convention has been taken in Minneapolis. A call, signed by thirty-one representative Democrats, headed by John Lind, has been issued for a meeting to be held in Minneapolis tonight for the organization of a Woodrow Wilson club. Similar action will be taken in other parts of the state and the Wilson clubs will make a campaign for delegates.

Friends of other presidential candidates are taking notice of Minnesota. A story went the rounds a few days ago that William R. Hearst had offered a Minneapolis man $10,000 to spend on a campaign for a Champ Clark delegation. Governor Harmon has some friends among Democratic leaders, but his candidacy is not popular with Democratic voters generally. The Democratic press also reflects strong Wilson sentiment.

With the exception of the new pro-Eberhart papers, which can see no good in anyone but their candidate, the newspapers of Minnesota have received the announcements of Sam Y. Gordon and W. E. Lee as candidates for governor with high tributes for the two men, particularly for the former.

At the same time, many editors sound a note of warning that a split in the Progressive vote at the state convention will only make the task of Smith and the interests easier in nominating Eberhart. There is talk of the elimination of Progressive candidates and the crystalization of anti-Eberhart sentiment on one man.

There is another view of the situation, which would encourage the multiplication of anti-Eberhart candidates. Such candidates as Gordon, Lee and Holmberg are able to obtain delegates opposed to Eberhart, as well as favorable to their own candidate. Lee can get delegates where Gordon can not and vice versa. Holmberg may get counties that Lee or Gordon cannot make an impression on. Several candidates, all opposed to Eberhart and what he stands for, would increase the Progressive strength in the convention and cut down the Eberhart strength. If it were found at the convention that any one Progressive could not be nominated without aid from others, an elimination would take place before Eberhart would be allowed to walk off with the nomination.

The Gordon and Lee platforms are somewhat alike. They both stand for the elimination of brewery control from state politics. Other Progressive candidates would have to stand for the same principles in order to obtain a hearing. There will have to be an elimination in the end, but the fact that several candidates are in the field for the time does not improve Eberhart's chances as much as some people believe.

The pro-Eberhart press has searched long and earnestly for a club to use on the Progressive candidates for governor. They have found it. Gordon and Lee do not mention county option. Ergo, they have thrown down their friends by forsaking an issue that is unpopular with a large number of voters.

As a matter of fact, of course, county option can't be an issue in the coming campaign. The senate that was as a stone wall for the county option forces to butt their heads against at the last session of the legislature will not be changed this year. There is no hope of a change of sentiment on the part of the senate, so that the views entertained on county option by any candidate for governor do not count.

Both Lee and Gordon have come out against brewery domination in politics. They both attack the brewery-owned saloon. Their attitude on that point is clear and they will not suffer for their failure to mention county option.

A boom has been started for W. B. Parsons of Winona for lieutenant governor. Mr. Parsons receives favorable mention from the newspapers that have commented on the boom, but Bob Dunn is still in the limelight as the state candidate and the man most likely to get the nomination. Dunn's allegiance to Eberhart has alienated many of his friends, but he has the organization with him and probably a sufficient number of supporters outside of the organization to gain him the place on the ticket.

The mention of W. H. Eustic, former mayor of Minneapolis, as a candidate for the Republican nomination for congressman-at-large hasn't awakened any very promising degree of enthusiasm. Alvan Eastman seems to have the pole and other booms are being discouraged. If the Republican editors of the state could have their way, Mr. Eastman would be given the nomination without a struggle. Democratic candidates for the office haven't come out in the open, but it is certain that the Republican nominee will be opposed at the polls.

A story is going the rounds of the state press and it begins: "It is said that Governor Eberhart in his message to the next session of the legislature." Evidently the governor is certain that destiny will put him in a position to write another message to the legislature. The people may influence destiny to do otherwise.

J. G. Armson of Stillwater is again being mentioned as a Democratic candidate for governor. Favorable mention of P. M. Ringdal continues. Now and then the names of J. B. Galarneault of Aitkin, Congressman W. B. Hammond and Judge C. W. Stanton are connected with the nomination. In the meantime the Democrats do not seem to be worrying about settling upon a suitable candidate when the right time comes.

In regard to T. T. Hudson's interview in The Herald favoring Woodrow Wilson's nomination by the Democratic party as its candidate for president, the Little Falls Herald says:

T. T. Hudson of Duluth, who is probably closer to W. J. Bryan, personally and politically than anyone else in Minnesota, is for Wilson for president. Those who know the sterling democracy of T. T. Hudson, his fundamental honesty, entire absence of self-seeking, and earnest patriotism, know that he would not lightly make such an announcement, and his support of Wilson will help the New Jersey governor immensely in this state.

Sam Y. Gordon gives evidence of brotherly love in a tribute to William E. Lee, his rival as a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor. Mr. Gordon writes in the Browns Valley Tribune:

Aside from the announcement of the editor of this paper as a candidate for governor, first made public in the Twin City papers Monday morning, came the announcement of William E. Lee of Long Prairie in the afternoon papers of the same day based on a similar platform. Mr. Lee is a well known citizen of the state, having been a member of the legislature and at one time speaker of the house. He has on previous occasions been in the field as a candidate for governor and in 1910 was a tentative candidate for lieutenant governor. His business is that of banking and he is said to be a large owner of real estate, showing that he has faith in Minnesota soil. While we do not wish to be accused of sounding the praises of the editor of this paper, we wish, nevertheless, to heartily commend Mr. Lee on his platform and further commend him because he takes the voters into confidence by telling them what he stands for and what may be expected of him. The voters are demanding of candidates today more than mere generalities. Neither do the people have much faith in the candidate who hides behind the subterfuge, that he will "stand squarely on the party platform." Sometimes a party platform meets the will of a majority of a party, but too frequently they are vague, and many times a "straddle" on important issues before the people.

SIMPLE WAY TO KNOW

If the Kidneys Are Really Affected; Also Gives This Simple Prescription Which Anyone Can Prepare at Home at Nominal Cost. Makes the Kidneys Act Naturally, Forcing Them to Filter Out Uric Acid, Curing Worst Forms of Dyspepsia and Rheumatism.

There are more cases of kidney trouble here now than ever before, while recent reports show that more people succumb each year to some form of kidney diseases than any other cause.

When there is sickness, examine the urine. Rheumatism is only a symptom of stomach and kidney trouble. It is nothing more nor less than excessive uric acid in the blood, which the sluggish, inactive kidneys have failed to sift out, leaving it to decompose and settle about the joints and muscles, causing intense suffering, frequently resulting in deformity; often reaching the heart and death ensues.

Pains across the back, frequent, painful and suppressed urination and other symptoms of weak bladder are not the only signs of kidney trouble; many cases of stomach diseases, headache, pain in the heart, inactive liver, etc., are but symptoms; the cause of which can be traced to feeble, clogged kidneys.

A simple test of this urine is to void a small quantity in a bottle or glass and let it stand over night; next morning, if there is a reddish brick-dust sediment, or white fleecy substance present, either consult some reputable physician or take a good prescription treatment. The following prescription is recommended highly in these cases and the sufferer can mix it at home: Fluid Extract Juniper Berries, one ounce; Compound Fluid Balmwort, one ounce; Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites, four ounces. Shake well and use in teaspoonful doses before each meal and at bedtime.

Where any of the symptoms enumerated above are present, good results are sure to follow immediately the use of this simple treatment.

CLUB ROOMS SCORCHED

Fire Causes $8,000 Damage to the Commercial Building.

Starts in Cigar Store and Spreads Through Ventilating Shaft.

Fire of unknown origin caused a loss estimated at $8,000 to the Commercial building, Fourth avenue west and First street, about 10:30 o'clock last night.

The blaze started in the wall between the Commercial cigar store and the show room of the L. C. Smith Typewriter company. The flames ran up through an unused ventilating shaft that was lined with wood and spread rapidly to the second and third floors, igniting the ceilings of the clubroom in a few minutes.

The Commercial club is the heaviest loser, the damage last night being roughly placed at $5,000 by Secretary H. V. Eva. It was due largely to smoke and water, which ruined some of the furnishings, draperies and rugs. The damage to the building is estimated at $1,500. The cigar store was the heaviest loser among the other tenants. Some damage was also sustained by the typewriter company and the water and light department, which has its offices on the First street floor in the rear. Practically all losses are covered by insurance.

When the fire was first discovered it was confined to the partition between the cigar store and the typewriter office. The firemen gave this their first attention, squelching it with chemicals. A few minutes later it was found to have reached to the upper floors. Several lines of hose were in operation by that time and the firemen made quick work of extinguishing what threatened to be one of the largest fires of the year. They were hampered considerably by the heavy, suffocating smoke.

The roomers on the third floor made their escape to the street before the smoke became overpowering, with the exception of Ray Higgins and D. C. Kinkead. They had already retired. When they tried to go down the stairway after dressing they were driven back by the smoke and flames. They sought refuge in Mr. Higgins' room. Shouting for help from the window they attracted the attention of the firemen, who placed ladders against the window, down which they made their way safely to the street.

The cigar store was owned by Miss Ollie M. Poissant until Saturday, when she sold out. The store was to have been turned over to its new owners this morning.

Secretary Eva of the Commercial club complimented the department highly upon its rapid and efficient work in extinguishing the fire. He stated that no change will be made in the club meetings which have been scheduled.

N. J. Upham, agent for the building, stated this morning that the ventilating shaft had not been used recently, and that it would be walled up.

was declared to be a deliberate evasion of the established limit of $9 per day.

Conspiracy Charge False.

"We find from the evidence that the charges of conspiracy have not been established," says the report of the committee, "but on the contrary, that the accused officials were actuated throughout solely by a desire to procure for the bureau of chemistry an efficient assistant in the person of Dr. L. H. Rusby, under terms and conditions which those officials believed to be in entire accordance with the law, regulations and practice of the department of agriculture."

The report of the committee on expenditures in the agricultural department is signed by all of the members, Democrats and Republicans alike. It declares that Dr. Wiley and his associates communicated the facts of Dr. Rusby's employment fully to Secretary Wilson. It holds, however, that the contract for the employment of Dr. Rusby is technically illegal, and recommends that congress make specific provisions for the employment of experts in the agricultural department.

Policy of Compromise.

"The administration of the pure food law began with a policy of negotiation and compromise between the secretary and the purveyors of our national food supplies," declares the report. "Your committee does not question the motives of the secretary of the secretary of agriculture, whose long service as the head of the department of agriculture has been of signal service to the American people. From the beginning, however, the honorable secretary has apparently assumed that his duties in the proper enforcement of the pure food law are judicial in character, whereas in fact they are wholly administrative and ministerial.

"This misconstruction of the law is fundemental and has resulted in a complex organization within the department of agriculture and the creation of offices and boards to which have been given, through executive order, power to over-rule or annul the findings of the bureau of chemistry."

Charges were made during the committee's hearings that the word of Dr. Wiley and his associates was revised and often rejected either by Solicitor McCabe or by the board of food and drug inspectors, of which Mr. McCabe, Dr. Wiley and Associate Chemist Dunlap were made members. The position of Dr. Dunlap was variously stated to be co-ordinate with and superior to that of Dr. Wiley, who was supposed to be the supreme officer of the bureau.

Criticism of Methods.

The committee makes a sweeping criticism of the methods of the department. It recommends that the chief of the bureau be given the full power which the law supposes him to have over all employes of the bureau; that the board of food and drug inspection be made up entirely from within the bureau of chemistry; and that the power of the solicitor to pass upon the findings of the bureau of chemistry be withdrawn.

The hearings disclosed a condition of discord existing in the bureau of chemistry which has lowered the discipline, impaired the efficiency of the service and has added to the cost of administration," says the committee. "It will require positive and well-considered reorganization to restore the efficient service to which the house is justly entitled."

The Remsen referee board, around which much of the investigation centered last summer, is held to be legally constituted, but its activities as a supervising power over the bureau of chemistry are declared to be outside of the law. This board was created by President Roosevelt and is composed of eminent chemists to whom are referred debated questions arising under the pure food law. It reversed Dr. Wileys findings on benzoate of soda, and has before it other questions which the committee declares properly belong to the bureau of chemistry.

Authority Misconstrued.

"The secretary of agriculture seems to have regarded the findings of this board as conclusive in all cases over the opinions and findings of the bureau of chemistry, the tribunal which by express terms of statute is vested with authority to determine the questions of adulteration and mis-branding within the meaning of the act," says the report.

The committee declares the board should not be continued under the simple authority of an executive order to exercise such control over the pure food law.

"If such board be deemed necessary or advisable in the proper administration of pure food laws, its authority should be expressly conferred, its scope and jurisdiction clearly defined and the effect of its decisions declared by act of congress," says the committee.

The payment by the government of the expenses of the three members of the referee board who testified in the Indiana state cases involving the use of benzoate of soda, is declared by the committee to have been "wholly without warrant of law."

HANECY TO ILL TO WORK

lam Burgess of Duluth about a jackpot fund being used to elect Lorimer.

Hines Going East.

McGowan will be present when the committee listens to the Burns disclosures, and McGowan will have an opportunity to testify again if he wishes. McGowan's father is now in Washington. Burns also is here waiting for the hearing to resume. Edward Hines is expected from Chicago today.

The hearings probably will not go on for several days, as Senator Lorimer is unwilling to continue without his counsel.

Detective Burns was employed about a month by the senate committee and later was engaged by the interests fighting to unseat Lorimer. The committee discontinued his services, according to members today, because of the almost prohibitive expense.

Witness Paid $1,500.

In substance Burns is declared to have reported to the cobmmittee that he was prepared to offer evidence that one of the witnesses who testified in regard to the Wiehe incident had confessed he was paid $1,500 to come to Washington. A phonographic method by which Burns obtained the alleged confession is also said to have been laid before the committee. Burns came to Washington last Tuesday. His report was communicated to some of the members of the committee and it is said was later laid before the comittee in executive session.

It is not claimed that the evidence Burns promises to produce is intended to establish whether or not there was a $100,000 jackpot fund or that Senator Lorimer had knowledge of it. It affects solely the veracity of a witness called by the defense.

Cornwall and the York, and was without incident. The governor general and family were welcomed at the Grand Central station by Ambassador and Mrs. Reid, after which the party motored to the home of Mr. Reid on Madison avenue.

Three Automobiles for Party.

Princess Patricia was the first to alight from the train, and escorted on either side by Col. Lowther, military secretary to the duke, and another gentleman of the party, with a lady-in-waiting, they hurried to an automobile on Forty-second street and were whirled away to the Reid house.

A minute or so later the duchess with a member of her party and two railroad officials, stepped from the train and went to a motor in front of the station. In the meantime the duke, escorted by Ambassador Reid, walked unobserved to an obscure entrance leading to Madison avenue, where they took an automobile for the ambassador's house.

Col. Lowther said the visit of his royal highness was purely social in character and that the governor-general has no idea what will be done in the way of entertaining. The colonel remarked that the duke had long ago promised Ambassador Reid that he would be his guest in New York as soon as his government engagements permitted. He added that the return to Ottawa would be made next Thursday afternoon.

Sight-seeing Tour of New York.

The first social engagements for the Connaughts was a luncheon at noon today at the home of Ambassador and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, following which a sight-seeing tour of the city in automobiles may be taken. Tonight there will be a dinner at the Reid house at which Cardinal Farley, Bishop and Mrs. David H. Greer, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Choate, Mr. and Mrs. Robert T. Lincoln, Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Frederick D. Grant and others are invited. A musicale will follow the dinner.

In the viceregal party besides the duke, the duchess and Princess Patricia, whom the English affectionately call Princess "Pat," are Miss Pelley, lady-in-waiting; Col. Lowther, and Capt. Beaupre, controller of the viceregal household.

The viceregal party breakfasted at the home of Ambassador Reid immediately upon their arrival. The only guest at the breakfast was Ogden Mills Reid, son of the ambassador.

In regard to the question of Tripoli, the grand vizier said:

"I do not know that Tripoli has ceased to be part of Turkey. To drive out marauders is one way of cultivating one's garden and sometimes that is the most noble and morally the most fruitful way."

Nineteen to Die.

Saloniki, Turkey, Jan. 22.—A court-martial which is sitting with closed doors at Istib, about ninety miles north of here, has condemned to death eight Bulgarians, two Jews, three gypsies and six Turks in connection with the bomb outrage which was perpetrated early in December in the village mosque, causing the deaths of twelve persons.

Another court-martial is sitting at Veles, Macedonia, for the trial of a large number of prisoners charged with assassination and other outrages in the surrounding districts.

MAYOR TALKS TO MINISTERS

Behind closed doors at the Y. M. C. A. this morning the members of the Duluth Ministerial association heard Mayor Cullum in a speech supporting the charter amendments.

Newspaper reporters were barred. Rev. R. Edward Sayles, pastor of the First Baptist church, said that the ministers didn't care to appear to be taking an active part in the coming election.

Mayor Cullum appeared before the ministers at their own request. He asked them to support the amendments and work for their passage, in any way that they can.

"I'm not going to 'spring' anything," said the mayor before the meeting. "I am simply here to tell the ministers of the amendments and tell them why I think they should be supported."

Nearly all of the ministers of the city were at the meeting and at its conclusion several of them plied the mayor with questions.

MINNEAPOLIS WINS BIG "GRAFTING" CASE.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 22.—The city of Minneapolis was awarded a verdict of $3,500 by a jury in the suit against James R. Canterbury, former fire chief. The jury found that the defendant, as a public officer, had illegally profited from the sale to the city of two lots for department repair shop site. The verdict includes interest at 6 per cent on $3,000 from April 7, 1909, when Mrs. Sarah A. Gullo, cousin of Mrs. Canterbury, deeded lots to the city a few days after she is said to have purchased the contract from the former chief.

"SWIFTWATER BILL" ON DECK

Once Notorious Alaskan Character Gets Big Peruvian Mining Concession.

Crookston Friends of Polk County Native Hear of His Luck.

Crookston, Minn., Jan. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Local acquaintances of W. C. Gates, otherwise known as "Swiftwater Bill" of Alaskan fame, whose real name is William Anloff, a native of Polk county, have received word that that spectacular character is again in the limelight. He has a gold mining concession in Peru that may make him wealthy again.

Anloff left this section in 1888 when about 18, drifting West and in 1896, two years before the big Klondyke rush, went to the headwaters of the Yukon, where he staked out claims that made him a reputed millionaire.

He returned to Seattle, where he took a whirl in matrimony, marrying and divorcing three sisters in succession, each of whom secured a slice of his fortune.

Then he went to Peru.

Makes Peruvian Deal.

He opened negotiations with the Peruvian government, which was very friendly to Americans, and, contracting to build some railroads in the interior of the southern part of Peru, needed for the development of that section, was notified at Seattle a few days ago, that he had been granted a concession of 20,000,000 acres, embracing practically all the gold field of Southern Peru.

He is now interesting millionaires in Seattle in the proposition, having received a cablegram from the Peruvian government but a few days ago of the concessions being granted and will return to Peru within a week or ten days, after making arrangements for the shipment of cargoes of the latest mining machinery from Seattle.

Since Anloff's return from Alaska, and trouble with his numerous wives developed, his Crookston friends had lost sight of him. He was visited by many of them at Seattle between 1900 and 1905, and his latest venture, has just been made public.

Anloff says, and those who know him best do not hesitate in believing it, that the output of his Southern Peru gold mines will amount to from ten to twenty times the total output of the Klondike and all Alaska.

Secretary of Gopher Dairymen to Address North Dakota Dairymen.

Mandan, N. D., Jan. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Numerous states are being drawn on by the North Dakota Dairymen's association for speakers at the annual meeting of the organization which will be held here Feb. 15 and 16. Secretary F. D. Currier of the Minnesota Dairymen's association is one of the outside speakers who will come. Mr. Currier, it is expected, will tell the Flickertail dairymen wherein the Minnesota association has achieved its greatest results. "Important Points of Creamery Management" is the topic assigned to him.

There is a great deal of interest being shown in the butter contest, of which O. A. Storvick of Albert Lea, Minn., and Prof. G. L. Martin of the North Dakota agricultural college will act as judges. Two prize cups have been awarded by the Northern Pacific railroad, in addition to which there will be cash prizes, offered by the association. The two judges will also carry on a school of instruction during the time they are judging.

GEESE PREVENT SPEAKING.

Birds at Beloit Poultry Show Hush Suffragist.

Beloit, Wis., Jan. 22.—The cackling of a number of geese at the Beloit poultry and pet stock show prevented Miss Caroline McGill, instructor in political economy at the University of Wisconsin, from giving a talk on woman's suffrage. After trying bravely to make herself heard for fifteen minutes, Miss McGill yielded to the geese. The lecture was given the next day after the geese had been removed.

ANOTHER IRON LAND DEAL IN MORRISON.

Little Falls, Minn., Jan. 22.—Another iron ore land deal has been completed and the papers filed at the register of deeds' office. The southeast quarter of the northeast quarter of section 35 in Rail Prairie has been conveyed from Louis Lightner of Mitchellville, Iowa, to Paul M. Hale of Deerwood. The land was taken under option for drilling about a year ago and considerable work has been done on it. The result was evidently satisfactory as Mr. Hale has taken advantage of his option and purchased forty acres of the eighty acres on which he had an option. The property is located northeast of the land which was leased recently to the Ettiaw Mining company of Duluth.

MAHNOMEN PEOPLE WANT HEARING THERE.

Mahnomen, Minn., Jan. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—At a meeting of the Mahnomen Commercial club held Friday evening it was unanimously voted to invite the Graham Investigating committee to come to Mahnomen to hold a part of its hearings. The free use of the courtroom was tendered the committee. Mahnomen county has a new modern courthouse, electric lighted and steam heated. The Mahnomen house is also modern as to heat and light and the committee could find comfortable quarters here. The business interests of the villages on the reservation feel that at least a part of the hearing should be held on the reservation and court the fullest inquiry at the hands of the committee.

AVIATOR WARD TO QUIT GAME

This Will Be Last Year of Flying for Famous Crookston Boy.

Crookston, Minn., Jan. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. J. Ward, the aviator, who spent his boyhood here, has just returned to Chicago for a conference with the company which has backed him for flights during the entire season beginning June 1. Prior to that time he will return to Crookston, where he is known as "Jimmy Wilson," and give an exhibition flight here and make a cross-country flight to St. Hilaire and Thief River Falls. His parents now reside at St. Hilaire and operate a restaurant.

Wilson or Ward as he is known in the aviation world, ran away from home when but 10 years of age and never returned excepting on short visits, but his parents are very proud of him. He first beat his way to St. Paul, then to New York, and was a "stowaway" on a big liner crossing to England when 11 years of age, returning to New York the following year where he managed to get into the good graces of Barney Oldfield around whose garage he learned all the intricacies of racing automobiles and for a number of years was machinist for several noted automobile racers. As a chauffeur in Chicago he took up aviation, his license as a chauffeur having been revoked because of persistently exceeding the speed limit. It was then he changed his name to Ward, and he acted as a chauffeur between times. He married, and recently had trouble in Chicago with his wife. That trouble was settled in some way as he brought another wife to St. Hilaire, where she will remain visiting his parents for three weeks.

Ward received a beautiful medal for being the youngest aviator at an eastern meet, and is but 26 now, slight, keen-eyed, fearless and weighing but 120 pounds.

Ward wore $2,000 worth of diamonds when here, and spent the evening with C. L. Bang and other boyhood friends. He stated this would be his last year of flying, as he intended to take up the work of designing and manufacturing aeroplanes, after this year.

MANY FISH DYING.

Thief River Falls, Minn., Jan. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Daniel Shaw of this city attended a meeting of the immigration committee of the Northern Development association at St. Paul Saturday.

The fish in the Red Lake river are dying this winter by the thousands in the pools formed by the bars in this stream. Last week Maj. Shunk of St. Paul held hearings in this city and Crookston and Grand Forks, and the matter of the destruction of the fish was called to his attention. The chief reason which makes the death of so many fish important is that down river cities secure their supply of drinking water from the Red Lake river, and it will be so contaminated in the spring by the thousands of dead fish that an epidemic is feared. The fish cannot escape from these pools, as they are heavily coated with ice, and the river is too shallow in places to permit them to reach the great Red lakes where they ordinarily remain during the winter.

MERIDIAN ROAD MEET.

North Dakotans to Discuss Proposed Winnipeg-Gulf Highway.

Grand Forks, N. D., Jan. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—A Meridian road conference will be held here Feb. 14, when the counties in North Dakota, through which the proposed Winnipeg to the Gulf of Mexico highway will run, will be represented. The purpose of the conference, which has been called by the good roads committee of the Grand Forks Commercial club, is to get the North Dakota counties into a working organization for the purpose of carrying out the plan of operation that has been laid down for 1912.

At that time the annual meeting of the North Dakota Civil Engineers' association will be in progress, which will mean an increased attendance for the road meeting.

SEEKING VENDOR OF MORTGAGED PROPERTY.

Karlstad, Minn., Jan. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sheriff Anderson is looking for H. Cordon of Drayton, who is alleged to have sold a team of mortgaged horses to John Sandquist of this place last week. He sold the horses for $90 and gave a bill of sale, and three days later the sheriff came and foreclosed them, as Cordon had previously given a mortgage for $236 to a man at Roblin.

Webster's Diuretic

Prevents Serious Kidney Diseases

IN normal health the kidneys filter out the used up body waste matter, uric acid and other impurities from the blood. When from cold, overwork, illness or other causes the kidneys are so weakened that they cannot perform their work properly, these poisons saturate the system and diminish the vitality. Some become lodged in the kidneys, bladder and urinary tract, causing inflamed bladder, congestion of the kidneys, painful, scalding urination or scanty, highly colored or muddy urine. Some of the uric acid poisons are deposited in the muscles and joints, and rheumatism begins.

Works Hand in Hand with Nature

Webster's Diuretic removes the cause of kidney and urinary disorders. It contains diuretics like Juniper Berries and Buchu Leaves, which cause a flow of water from the blood to the kidneys, washing them out; such medicinal herbs as will soothe and allay the pain in the irritated surfaces of the inflamed bladder and urinary tract; and a disinfectant which purifies the mucous membranes of the bladder and urethra. Also an alkaline salt which dissolves the mineral deposits in the bladder and elsewhere. Combined with these and other valuable ingredients is a mild vegetable laxative for keeping the bowels open, and a tonic bitter for helping the digestive processes. After a few doses you should begin to feel much improved. That tired feeling, depression or irritableness will gradually pass away.

While certain serious kidney diseases are much helped by Webster's Diuretic, if properly taken, in such cases a physician should by all means be consulted.

Two sizes, 50c and $1.00; money refunded if results are not satisfactory after a fair trial.

Our forty years' experience as manufacturing chemists has taught us to make Webster's Diuretic and all other Webster preparations so good that we can absolutely guarantee them.

Under the Webster trade-mark and guaranty are sold 60 different articles, including most effective remedies for all such human ailments as do not require a doctor—household remedies that should be in the medicine cabinet of every family; also pure toilet preparations.

Your druggist has them or can get them for you.

NEW CUYUNA TOWN.

Is Called Orland and Is Near the Adams Mine.

Brainerd, Minn., Jan. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Oscar J. Carlsen and associates of Deerwood platted a new town, named Oreland, on the south range of the Cuyuna, about three miles south of Deerwood and a half a mile from the new Adams mine on the Cuyuna northern railway, in the southeast quarter of the southeast quarter of section 19, township 46, range 28. The county commissioners have approved the plat. Large ore bodies lie in the immediate vicinity of Oreland and its proximity to the Adams mine which will ship in 1912 further assists to give the environment to the town which insures its perpetuity. Freight trains are daily hauling steel, coal, cement and other building material to the Adams mine and the newly opened Cuyuna Northern railway is therefore a busy line. Sinking at the concrete shaft has progressed far enough to use "air."

The affair is in the hands of the West End Republican club, and the various other Republican clubs of the city have been invited to attend the meeting. One of the other features of the evening will be a special musical program to be given by the Adams Glee club, one of the West end organizations.

Among the other speakers this evening will be: Clement De Roche, candidate for Alderman in the Seventh ward; A. C. Anderson, aldermanic candidate in the Sixth, and Emil Zauft, candidate in the Eighth. J. F. Stafford, city chairman of the Republican party, Saturday evening announced that Peter Olson has been appointed chairman of the Sixth ward and Joseph Cumming, chairman of the Seventh ward.

The Fifth Ward Improvement club will meet tomorrow evening at the Emerson school, Eleventh avenue west and Third street, and hear various candidates for office. The club is non-partisan and will hold several other meetings during this week. This evening addresses will be made by Aldermen McDonell and Hogan, and Dr. W. H. Konkler, Republican candidate for alderman in the Fifth ward. D. C. Moore, president of the club, has extended an invitation to every West end resident who cares to attend the meeting.

On Thursday evening the Democrats of the Seventh ward will hold a ward meeting at the polling place, Twenty-eighth avenue west and First street. The various precinct captains will be announced and an active campaign begun. Charles E. Dice, who was appointed chairman of the ward, will be the principal speaker of the evening.

WOMEN WILL PRESENT SERIES OF FOUR PLAYS.

Under the auspices of the Interdenominational Missionary society of the West end, the first of a series of four plays will be presented tomorrow evening by the members of the Second Presbyterian church, 1515 West Superior street. No admission fee will be charged and an invitation has been extended to all the young women of this end of the city.

The play to be presented tomorrow evening is the dramatization of the first chapter of "Western Women in Eastern Lands," which was made recently by Mrs. Milton Fish, wife of Rev. Fish of the Central Baptist church. The characters of the play will be taken by the women of the Ladies' Aid society of the Central church and the cast has been arranged as follows:

Mrs. Doremus, a woman of wealth.....Mrs. J. H. Griffin
Miss Constance Lovejoy, a waitress.....Mrs. Wallace Leonard
Miss Ann Wilkins, home on a furlough .....Mrs. Irma Hutchinson
Aidella Siske, student at Mount Holyoke .....Miss Enid Shaw
Miss Grimke.....Mrs. Mary Bailey
Her sister .....Miss Goodhand
Prudence Lovejoy, a society girl.....Miss Ruth Glover

The Ladies' Aid society of the Second Presbyterian church will have charge of the performance and the musical program will be furnished by the Grace M. E. church. The Swedish Bapatist society will furnish the devotional part of the program. The play itself shows the conditions of woman during the nineteenth century and the forces that caused her emancipation. It also shows what influence missions have had in America. The society will present the next play the latter part of February at the Grace M. E. church, Twenty-second avenue west and Third street. The dramatization of the second chapter will be given at that time.

BROWN TALKS POTATOES.

Elk River Authority Enlightens Crow Wing County Farmers.

Brainerd, Minn., Jan. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Over 100 farmers and numerous business and professional men heard C. E. Brown of Elk River, discuss potato culture at the commercial club rooms. Every phase of potato growing and marketing was taken up. Mr. Brown counseled the farmers to agree on an early and a late variety. Potatoes in 1911 brought wealth to the extent of $250,000 to Elk River. Hand in hand with potato-raising went diversified farming, stock-raising and dairying. Land worth $20 an acre at Elk River fifteen years ago is now worth $85 an acre and the $'0 land of former years is now worth $50 an acre. The soil there was not much different from that in some places in Crow Wing county.

MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP MAKES ELECTRIC LIGHT A POOR MAN'S BURDEN

To convince you, Mr. Consumer and Mr. Taxpayer, that the real issues involved in the proposed municipal electric lighting question, in Duluth, are those of SERVICE and RATES, we submit, today, in this space, some FACTS about the RATES charged in Jacksonville, Fla., by its municipal electric lighting plant.

That this figures are authentic is assured by the fact that they were furnished by Mr. W. G. Cooper, Jr., Auditor of the Board of Bond Trustees of the Jacksonville plant.

In the first place, city lighting in Jacksonville is on a moonlight basis. The charge to the city for arc lamps is $60 a year, but if the lights were burned every night in the year, as in Duluth, the cost would be $80 a lamp.

The rate for incandescent lighting for residences and business buildings is 7 cents per kilowatt hour. The city of Jacksonville pays the same rate for lighting its buildings as do its citizens. All customers are required to make a deposit of not less than $4. This deposit is returned to the consumer, WITHOUT INTEREST, upon the termination of the service.

This rate of 7 cents per kilowatt hour is not as low as it seems, as the plant exacts a minimum charge of $2 per month for any service. If you lived in Jacksonville, you could not get electricity for your home for less than $24 a year, even if you used only $5 worth of current. That charge to the customer makes the REAL RATE 13.8 cents per kilowatt hour, for the whole year.

THE DULUTH-EDISON ELECTRIC CO. EXACTS NO MINIMUM CHARGE. Its receipts from all residence consumers average only $12 a year; we serve 2,505 such customers whose six months' summer bills total only $3; we serve 2,215 customers whose bills for the whole year amount to $8 or less, 4,285 whose bills are $12 or less, and 6,120 customers whose bills are $18 or less for the whole year.

Remember these figures when you vote on the bond issue next month.

MARY NORMAN AT THE ORPHEUM

Mary Norman, who terms herself a "society carricaturist," not only contrived to furnish her auditors at the Orpheum last evening with an unusual amount of downright fun, but in enacting a variety of eccentric feminine characters she proved herself to be an actress of no slight versatility. Her depiction of a nervous female in a speeding automobile convulsed the audience and brought the performer out before the curtain for the biggest "hand" of the evening.

Miss Norman is an artist and a very clever one at that. Her act is the highest type of vaudeville monologue, and she puts a lot of good comedy into her work and maintaining a high standard in selecting "types" for delineation that are as funny as comic valentines, although she never resorts to slapstick methods to get across the footlights.

The bill this week contains many real novelties in the vaudeville line, and while it contains no big feature acts, it is entertaining throughout.

Tow Nawn and his company of players present a little playlet called "When Pat Was King," which has some clean humor to it. The plot hinges on the theory of reincarnation. Pat, an Irish house servant, dreams of the time when he appeared on earth as the king of Munster. Mr. Nawn is well known as a portrayer of Irish types, and his Pat is a real Irishman, not overdrawn and not burlesqued. The playlet is full of good lines and amusing situations.

The Whittakers have an English novelty consisting of an excerpt from the famous English pantomime of "Dick Whittington and His Cat." They have made an amusing sketch out of the pantomime, and the antics of the cat kept the audience last evening in a good humor.

Two boys who occupy an obscure place on the bill as the opening act have one of the most enjoyable turns on the program. They are the Arnaud brothers, French tumbling clowns. They fiddle away on violins while they are going through some very difficult tumbling feats, and finish their act with a novel and amusing whistling duet. The act was a big hit last evening.

The Carson brothers are back with one of the best acrobatic turns on the circuit. They are two clean-cut young athletes, who appear in spotlessly white costumes before a black curtain. They open with some poses showing some famous Greek statuary, and then execute some difficult hand-balancing feats in finished style.

Another novel act is the singing turn of Harry Breen, impromptu song writer. Breen has a crazy jumble of songs all run together, which he sings at the top of his voice and as rapidly as he can say the words. Another feature of his act is a song which he composes as he sings, using the members of the audience as his subjects. This latter feature kept the audience in a roar of laughter last evening, and as far as applause went, Mr. Breen fared as well as anybody on the bill. The act is certainly different from anything yet seen at the Orpheum.

Stuart and Kelley present a neat little dancing turn, which is well costumed and contains many difficult steps. They present some good imitations of stage dancing celebrities.

The bill this week is remarkably clean and entertaining throughout, with no striking headliners and no weak spots. It will continue all week with a daily matinee.

NOT SALTS, OIL OR PILLS, BUT CASCARETS

No odds how sick your Stomach; how hard your head aches or how Bilious—Cascarets make you feel great.

You men and women who somehow can't get feeling right—who have an almost daily headache, coated tongue, foul taste and foul breath, dizziness, can't sleep, are bilious, nervous and upset, bothered with a sick, gassy, disordered stomach, or have backache and feel all worn out.

Are you keeping clean inside with Cascarets, or merely forcing a passageway every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil? This is important.

Cascarets work while you sleep; cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the decomposed waste matter and poison in the intestines and bowels.

A Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning—a 10-cent box from any drug store will keep your entire family feeling good for months. Don't forget the children. They love Cascarets because they taste good—do good—never gripe or sicken.

SPLENDID BILL AT THE EMPRESS

Miss Eva Ray Contributes Pleasing and Mysterious Mind Reading Act.

Miss Eva Ray, talented woman, who seems to be capable of reading the minds of the spectators, features the excellent vaudeville bill which opened for a week's run with three performances yesterday at the Empress theater.

Miss Ray answers any question asked her. She seems to know what every person in her audience is thinking about. Yesterday she kept her audiences in high good humor for a great number of her answers were spontaneously funny. Incidentally she predicted the re-election of Mayor Cullum, in answer to a question.

She is called the "White Mahata." In addition to her mind reading stunts she does wonderful and seemingly impossible tricks while her feet and hands are bound. In this condition she apparently plays on musical instruments, located some distance from her.

The engagement of this talented young woman is of particular interest in Duluth in that she is a neice of Mrs. Arthur J. Briggs of West Duluth. During her stay in the city she will be a guest at the home of Mrs. Briggs.

An acrobatic act of more than ordinary merit opens the bill this week. Three clever comedians, billed as Rice, Elmer and Tom, mix fun with the more serious work in a manner highly satisfactory to the audience.

Jennings and Renfrew have a musical dialogue, with several original parodies on popular songs that were well received yesterday. They also have a lot of clever lines which create good comedy.

The Hodges have about as good an act in the musical line as has been presented at the Empress in a long time. There are four members of the company and three of them are young women. They play horns, xylophones and other instruments.

The performance closes with the second part of Miss Ray's performance. A special performance for women is being planned for Friday afternoon at which time Miss Ray will devote her time to answering questions asked by women.

In connection with her work at the Empress this week, the management gives this explanation, Miss Ray is a skilled and scientific manipulator. She has spared no expense nor time in preparing and placing before the public a wonderful performance and while her exhibition is necessarily mysterious, she is not a spiritualistic medium and accomplishes her work scientifically only. There is nothing supernatural about her performance, neither does she boast of any miraculous gift, and those who witness her exhibition may draw their own conclusions as to the exact methods used.

There will be three performances each day, one each afternoon and two each evening during the remainder of the week.

SOME PREGNANT FACTS.

It will be well for the plain, ordinary citizen who is interested in politics only as politics serves the country and its people to bear well in mind several important facts about the Woodrow Wilson controversy—which is a wholly one-sided affair.

It is not the friends of Bryan who are pretending a fury about the Wilson-Joline letter of six years ago, which was lately given wide publicity. It is the enemies of Bryan.

It is not the friends of Bryan who are hoping that the publication of this letter will cause Bryan to break with Wilson. It is the enemies of Bryan, of Wilson, and of popular government.

It is not the people who are talking of Wilson as an "unsafe" man. It is the interests and their lackeys, to whom he is indeed an "unsafe" man.

It is not those who hope that Wilson will be nominated and elected who are working so hard to prove that he can't be. It's those who hope he won't be.

It is not the Democratic newspapers which are seizing on every straw that offers a possibility of injuring the Wilson candidacy. It is the partisan Republican—which means standpat—newspapers.

Enemies of popular government and those who fear Democratic success next November are contriving unconsciously to make it clear that Woodrow Wilson is exactly the kind of man the Democrats ought to nominate and the people ought to elect.

THE LINCOLN MEMORIAL.

Congress has $2,000,000 to spend for a memorial to Lincoln, and the question what to buy with it is to the fore again.

An organization headed by former Congressman McCleary of Minneapolis wants to build a fine road with it from Washington to Gettysburg; and it gives some pretty attractive arguments for its plan. With one of these arguments this newspaper is in thorough accord—that the memorial should be of practical use and benefit to the people whom this most splendid of presidents loved so well.

Artists, architects and a lot of citizens want a monument or something of that sort put up on the bank of the Potomac at the point where the Mall, which begins at the capitol, strikes it.

The selection of the site, which was recommended by such men as D. H. Burnham, Charles F. McKim, Augustus St. Gaudens and F. L. Olmstead, is ideal. The improvement of the Mall, at present, extends only a little beyond the Washington Monument. If a Lincoln memorial were placed on the bank of the Potomac, the Mall doubtless would be improved for its full length; which it would be a good thing to do.

A road from Washington to Gettysburg, while it has a practical look, wouldn't be of practical use to very many people. Besides, it is claimed that on the scale proposed it would cost about ten times as much as there is available to build it. The scheme contemplates three roadways for different kinds of traffic and four strips of parking. It would appeal principally to automobilists, and not many even of these would ever get a chance to use it.

What is needed is some form of memorial that will be fitting, that will be available for the use or admiration of as many visitors to Washington as possible, and that will be inspiring in its beauty even if it is not otherwise useful. We are not particularly impressed with the idea of adding another statue to the many more or less beautiful ones now on show at the capital. F. W. Fitzpatrick's idea of a beautiful permanent exposition building is sensible, because in it both use and beauty could be combined.

As to the site selected by the Washington park commission there can be no possible criticism. It is an ideal location, either for a monument or for a building.

THE ALDRICH PLAN.

Most citizens, even those most liberal in their views, approach the study of the Aldrich currency and banking plan with one very serious handicap—their distrust of its parentage.

In the monetary commission which proposed the pending bill there were Senator Aldrich, Burrows, Penrose and Hale—alacritous servants all of selfish special interests, three of whom have been removed from the senate by the breaking down of the old order and the coming of the new.

These names not only bring the average citizen to a study of the currency plan with a prejudice, but it brings the currency bill before the country under a strong handicap.

The measure, nevertheless, should be studied on its merits. The association of these men with it should make every citizen study it closely and carefully, but it should make no citizen impervious to reason.

Collier's, which is a pretty radically progressive paper, approves the plan and speaks thus about it:

"President Taft has spoken of the currency situation as the most important question now confronting the American public. This being true, it is an unhappy fact that the easiest way to get popularity and dramatic effect is to scold at Wall Street and shout to the public that 'Aldrich will get you if you don't look out.' Journalists with a yellow tendency will inevitably take this direction, as the line of least resistance, and many progressives will be genuinely unable to believe that anything bearing the name of Aldrich can fail to emanate from the devil.

"We heartily agree with Secretary McVeagh, President Taft, Paul Warburg, Professor Seligman and almost all the soundest and most careful students of the currency problem, that the Aldrich bill, whatever its defects in detail, is sound in general principle. There is comparatively little danger that any of the defects will be overlooked in the energetic criticisms which will be launched against it in congress. The danger is quite the opposite. The danger is that the immense value and fundamental soundness of the central principle will be lost in the fury of denunciation.

"One of the tiresome, cheap and easy weapons of current controversy is the assumption that anything that is approved by Wall Street must be wrong.

"Wall Street includes a number of tricky speculators and monopolists and a lot of hysterical brokers, but also a large number of sound and fairminded business men, and the phrase is often used with no conscience whatever, merely to produce a successful scare. We do not wish to conceal the fact that a straightaway central bank like the Bank of England would suit our own views, but as tradition, since the time of Andrew Jackson, in this country makes a single government bank politically impossible, we believe that it is a serious misfortune that the Aldrich plan is to be met in the main with demagogic yells. Some time we may point out what we think the defects of the plan in detail, but at the present time the important task is to induce the public to cease having fits of blind fear and come as near to studying the scheme fairly and impartially as it is able to come."

Possibly Collier's is about as unjustly severe on those who suspect anything coming from Aldrich as they are on Wall Street; but that's rather immaterial. The fact that the plan should be studied on its merits regardless of its source is beyond question. The distrust that exists as to its source should only make the scrutiny of the measure more searching; it should not create a prejudice so impervious to reason that a good principle will be sacrificed by it.

GOOD MEN AND BAD IN THE NEWS.

A speaker at a meeting of the Men and Religious Forward Movement held in Boston said there ought to be a law requiring every newspaper that prints the name of one man of prominence who goes wrong to publish also the names of nine equally prominent men who do not go wrong.

That would be easy to do, though we doubt if the nine men would like it very well.

Under such a law, if John Jones, merchant, set fire to his place of business to get the insurance, in recording that fact all the newspapers would have to print items like these: "James Smith, merchant, did not set fire to his store today." "James H. Perkins, banker, did not make away with any of the funds trusted to him today." "George F. Brimson did not commit larceny today." "Henry F. Bunkum did not beat his wife today."

The plan is, of course, absurd. It would accomplish no good purpose, and it would interest nobody—least of all those whose names the newspapers would have to publish as having failed to commit any crimes.

Newspapers publish news. That's what they are for. If a man, prominent or not, commits an offense against the peace and dignity of the state, that's news, and it is published. If nine other men behave themselves, that's not news, and so it is not published. But if one other man does something of real value to the public and to humankind, that's news also, and it's news of the best kind. There are not many newspapers that would not vastly prefer printing such news to printing news of crime.

Mere negative existence isn't news, and it isn't interesting. It's no great feat, especially if you are not tempted, to live decently and without violating the law. Only those who do things make news and so become interesting to the public.

The man who does no wrong is somewhat better, of course, than the man who does wrong. When one contemplates the example, however, of men who do good—real, valuable, constructive good—from a news viewpoint, and that's the viewpoint of human interest, there is a very clear choice between the man who does wrong and the man who, living a merely negative existence, does nothing but avoid wrong-doing.

THE CONGRESSMAN'S POSTAGE.

One prolific source of unremunerative expense to the postoffice department is free congressional mail. The third assistant postmaster general suggests that instead of giving congressmen unlimited use of the frank, they be made reasonable allowance of postage stamps, a record to be made and a public report given in each case.

This suggestion seems worth while; and while congress is about it, if it seems fit to adopt this change, it might also change the system of carrying government mail free so that each department would have to pay postage just as ordinary citizens or business enterprises do. This would be, it is true, a mere transfer of public funds from one pocket to another, but it would put the postal business on a truer basis, and it would reduce the abuses of the free postage privilege.

Up to the last few months there has always been a deficit in the accounts of the postoffice department which has had to be made up by congressional appropriations. Apparently the postoffice was losing money. But if at any time during the years when this seemed to be so the postoffice had charged up the cost of carrying government mail it would have been made clear that the postoffice department really had been on a self-supporting basis.

As to the congressional mail, each member of congress now gets an annual allowance of $125 for stationery. Very few members use this much stationery. What they don't use they "commute"—in other words, they pocket the difference as a sort of perquisite. It is very likely that this allowance would not have to be increased materially to cover legitimate postage expense.

BOYS IN POOL HALLS.

A mother recently addressed the Open Court on the danger of allowing young boys to frequent pool halls at all hours. The Herald's attention is called to the fact that this subject is fully covered by a law adopted at the last session of the legislature.

Chapter 133 of the General Laws for 1911 prohibits "all persons under the age of 18 years, or who are minor pupils in any school," from playing pool or billiards in or frequenting any public pool or billiard room. It also provides that boys who violate this law may be fined. Better still, it provides that proprietors of pool or billiard halls who allow boys under 18 to frequent their places of business may be fined or sent to jail. An amendment excepts from these provisions boys who have the written consent of parents or guardians.

This seems to be law enough to cover the subject; but of course no law is useful unless it is enforced. Interested parents will have no trouble in seeing that this law is enforced.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

THE RESOLUTION OF A WISE "LUMBERJACK."

To the Editor of The Herald:

The Lumberjack wail in your Saturday issue reminds me of what one lumberjack did in Minneapolis in 1883. What he did any sensible worker can do. I had just placed a new addition on the market and was advertising choice lots on Chicago avenue and Thirty-sixth street for sale at $250 each.

One day a typical lumberjack came into the office and at once broke out with the remark, "I have been a d—d fool long enough, and am going to turn over a new leaf and will begin now." What the trouble, I asked, expecting, of course, that he had been "drugged and robbed," and was looking for the price of a meal.

I came into the city last night, direct from the woods where I worked all winter and have about $500 cash saved up. For several years I have been doing this kind of work and always came down in the spring with a good roll, but invariably went "down the pike," "filled up on whisky" and in a short time had nothing to show for my winter's work. I am going to fool the fellows this time, and, counting out $300, said, "Take this as first payment on a couple of lots and next spring I will pay the balance."

The deal was quickly closed. Next spring he paid the balance. The next year he built a little house, got married and settled down. The last I knew of him he was still living there and had raised a family of several children. He was a sensible fellow and told me many times that his going in debt for the lots and being compelled to save his earnings, was the best step he ever took.

Your correspondent can do the same thing if he has a mind of his own and will-power sufficient to carry out a good resolution. Blaming others for his own short-comings is the fool's way of trying to excuse himself. With a home of his own, what need he care for what "well dressed people" think.

WHERE WERE THE FIRE ESCAPES?

To the Editor of The Herald:

Why no fire escape on the Commercial building? At last night's fire two men were in the Commercial club's rooms when the fire broke out. The smoke filled the building. These two men had no way to reach the street. They kept their heads out of the window and stood the smoke as long as they could. As there was no fire escape on the building six firemen had to run up a long ladder for them to come down. It was a hard fire to fight. The firemen couldn't get at the fire very well. If they had a fire escape one of the firemen could have put a ladder to the second floor for these two men to come down.

This fire might have happened any other night when the Commercial club was holding a meeting. Wouldn't it look nice to see our leading citizens coming down a ladder because there was no fire escapes on the building. If I am not mistaken there is an ordinance which requires a fire escape on all buildings over two stories high.

ONE WHO SAW THE FIRE.

Duluth, Jan. 22.

It Happens Too Often This Way.

From the Collected Works of Ambrose Bierce: A moral principle met a material interest on a bridge wide enough but for one.

"Down, you base thing!" thundred the moral principle, "and let me pass over you!"

The material interest merely looked in the other's eyes without saying anything.

"Ah," said the moral principle, hesitatingly, "let us draw lots to see which one of us shall retire till the other has crossed."

The material interest maintained an unbroken silence and an unwavering stare.

"In order to avoid a conflict," the moral principle resumed, somewhat uneasily, "I shall myself lie down and let you walk over me."

Then the material interest found his tongue. "I don't think you are very good walking" he said. "I am a little particular about what I have underfoot. Suppose you get off into the water."

It occurred that way.

Country Editor's Allegory.

Birnie, Mo., Star: A man who was too economical to purchase or to subscribe for a paper sent his little boy to borrow the copy taken by his neighbor. In his haste the boy ran over a $4 stand of bees and in ten minutes looked like a warty summer squash. His father, who ran to his assistance, and, failing to notice a barbed wire fence, ran into that, cutting a handful of flesh from his anatomy and ruining a $4 pair of pants.

The old cow took advantage of the gap in the fence and got into the corn field and killed herself eating green corn. Hearing a racket, the wife ran out, upset a four-gallon churn of rich cream into a basket of kittens, drowning the entire litter. In her haste she dropped a $25 set of false teeth. The baby, having been left alone, crawled through the spilled milk and into the parlor, ruining a brand new $20 carpet. During the excitement the oldest daughter ran away with the hired man, the dog broke up eleven setting hens and the calves got out and chewed the tails off'n four fine shirts.

Weyerhaeuser's Recipe.

New York Sun: The Hon. Frederick Weyerhauser, variously described in the curious written tongue of today as "the St. Paul millionaire," "the timber king," is reported, we hope erroneously, as indulging in recipes for wealth, whose wisdom may be judged by this specimen:

Any young man can get rich, can succeed in business, if he saves, if he has a definite and honest purpose and is so filled with the purpose that work ceases to be a hardship and becomes a privilege.

With more truth than urbanity the reader is forced to cry: 'In the name of the Prophet, stuff!' Not any and every young man, no matter if he saves a little more than he earns every day, is filled with definite and honest purpose, loves to work, and sweats all virtuous copybook sentences, can get rich. Not many men can get rich; and, barring luck and inheritance, they must have a genius for making money just as a few men have a genius for making statues, pictures, beautiful buildings, books, wars. The Mr. Whatshisname of the many moneybags might just as well say that any young man can be as tall as Cy Sullowav of New Hampshire or as ovely as Capt. Hobby of Alabama.

Can anybody wonder if there is a prejudice against wealth when so many plutocrats dish out so much confounded poppycock?

Neglect of Health.

Samuel Johnson: Health is indeed so necessary to all duties, as well as pleasures of life, that the crime of squandering it is equal to the folly; and he that for a short gratification brings weakness and disease upon himself, and for the pleasure of a few years passed in the tumults of diversion and clamors of merriment condemns the maturer and more experienced part of his life to the chamber and couch, may be justly reproached, not only as a spendthrift of his own happiness, but as a robber of the public—as a wretch that has voluntarily disqualified himself for the business of his station and refused that part which Providence assigns him in the general task of human nature.

DULUTH AND THE HERALD.

Indeed Not.

Bemidji Pioneer: Duluth is having a great bonspiel, but not all the export curlers are there, are they, girls?

Aw! Cut It.

Sandstone Courier: The Duluth papers might now truthfully advertise the fact that "it's Cool in Duluth" as they did last summer.

Pease Quotes Axioms.

Anoka Union: Duluth did well in reaching Louis W. Hill by his stomach. The banquet in his honor was a fine success.

Indeed Yes.

How would it be if its kind were in control of state affairs. A little skittish! Wouldn't it?

Base Libel.

Bemidji Pioneer: Over in Duluth it is so cold that they are using icicles for horse shoe nails.

A Suggestion.

Nashwauk Herald: The Duluth Herald is conducting another contest and offers prizes for the best answers to a question asked by one of its correspondents as to how he should invest $1,000 which he is said to have saved from his earnings during the past ten years. The correspondent says he is 35 years of age, is married and has two small children; that he has a fair position at a pretty good salary but the increased cost of living leads him to believe that it is time for him to start in some kind of business for himself and become independent. Dame Fortune is already knocking on the young man's door and this time the gentle dame hails from Itasca county. She suggests that he make his first payment on a tract of Itasca county land and come here with his family to reside. Let him purchase a good team, a cow, some hogs and a few farming implements, and if he is willing to knuckle down to hard work for several years there is no doubt but that his venture will prove successful.

Agrees With The Herald.

Thief River Falls News: We agree with The Herald when it comes to having twelve months of school—eight hours a day and six days a week. It is just as necessary for the children to have three months' vacation, as it is for a person to eat. We do not think that the state of Minnesota would be doing a wise thing if it adopted such outlandish laws. "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy."

And Many Other Places.

Stillwater Gazette: We would be willing to trade off a bathing suit, sleeveless undershirts and a straw hat or two for a cord of wood, half a ton of coal or anything that will supply warmth. Not alone is it cool in Duluth, but it is cool in Stillwater.

Horrible Thought.

Eveleth News: Down in Duluth a certain barber shop advertises 11 cent hair cuts. It may be safe enough for barbers to compete in hair cutting, but it is appalling to think of what might happen to the subjects if they should engage in a shaving race.

Baltimore and the Democrats.

Kansas City Star: The week of June 25 ought to be regarded as "Old Home Coming Week" for the Democrats at Baltimore. The decision of the national committee yesterday to hold the convention in that city takes the Democracy back to its old "stamping grounds," so far as national conventions are concerned.

The first national convention held by the Democrats, 1832, was at Baltimore, and they continued to be held there until 1856, when the convention, for political reasons, was taken to Cincinnati. In 1860 the first meeting of the Democratic national convention was at Charleston, S. C., and it was held as early as April 23. After fifty-seven ballots were taken without making a nomination the convention adjourned to Baltimore, where Stephen A. Douglas was nominated on June 18. The Southern Democrats who bolted the convention nominated Breckenridge in the same city.

The Democrats have not held a convention in Baltimore since 1872, when Horace Greeley was nominated. In 1876 the convention went to St. Louis; in the convention went to St. Louis; in 1880 to Cincinnati; in 1884, Chicago; in 1888, St. Louis; in 1892, Chicago; in 1896, Chicago; in 1900, Kansas City; in 1904, St. Louis, and in 1908, Denver.

The Republicans held their national convention in Baltimore in 1864, and the Whigs in 1844, 1852 and 1856.

The Genius of the West.

His passing was like the obliteration
Of some benignant star
That long hath thrown its light of consolation
Where pain and darkness are.

All that is pure and noble found a dwelling
Within his brain and breast,
And through him battled, victory compelling,
The Genius of the West.

In controversy's angriest upheaval,
Though malice might assail,
Courteous, unruffled, he of none spoke evil,
Nor did in duty fail.

Dishonor's aims were by his firm resistance
Deflected from their goal,
And never in the garden of existence
Hath bloomed a sweeter soul.

He loved all, all loved him. In fullest measure
His kindnesses outflowed,
Than his dear memory no richer treasure
On us hath been bestowed.

—John Talman's tribute to N. P. Langford.

A Settlement for the Rich.

A settlement near Central park, New York city, for no other purpose than the study of conditions among the rich was the serious suggestion of James Speyer, the famous New York banker, at the twenty-fifth annual meeting of the University Settlement which is the oldest neighborhood guild in America. Mr. Speyer, according to the Survey, said:

"Perhaps workers there would find that while the East side families are too large the uptown families are too small for real happiness, and that while the East side boy and girl get into trouble because they do not have enough opportunity for play and amusement, the uptown boy and girl get into trouble because they have too much of such opportunity. Perhaps also they would find that while the East side boy is too much in the streets the uptown boy is not enough in the street and does not learn to appreciate other boys."

Literary Taste.

Birmingham Age-Herald: "Say," remarked the hasty individual to the young woman in the book department, "have you a novel about a girl with slate-colored eyes?"

"I don't recall one just now," she said, "but we have a very good novel by Harold Grinders about a girl with tawny hair."

"Is her picture on the cover?"

"Yes, sir. Drawn by James Montgomery Twisty."

"Well, gimme that."

Fitting His Head.

New York Telegraph: A round faced, good natured looking man stepped up to the Columbia's box office window recently and said:

"Do you think you could fit my head with the proper kind of a seat?"

"Your head?" said the perplexed ticket seller. "What do you mean?"

As an answer the man lifted his hat and laughed. His head was absolutely bald.

THE UNRESTFUL HOLIDAYS.

New York Evening Post: With every year the holidays are coming to have a more distinctive character—especially as related to schools and colleges. In the long summer recess pursuits and pastimes vary widely. A few students stay at home; the majority depart at once on "vacation" in Europe or in the moutains or by the sea. But in the fortnight including Christmas and New Year this youthful current away from the seats of learning becomes an influx upon the home. This sounds ideal—a respite from the whirl of school activities, a pause during which the married son or daughter may have perfect rest and the chance to get acquainted with one's family. But is this the case? Is the family circle made complete by the holidays?

The very reverse is true. Instead of being a period for home life the coming of the holidays sounds the signal for an unbroken round of gayeties outside. The home is used for sleeping in and the family is assembled at the breakfast table; after that the parents catch a glimpse of the home-comers only as they flit to and fro between their round of engagements. On Monday is a dance, on Tuesday a bridge party, on Wednesday an all-day snowshoe trip, on Thursday a theater party, on Friday more bridge, on Saturday a matinee and more dancing, on Sunday a day spent partly in bed and concluded by querulous retrospection of the past week. So the welter continues to the close of the holidays. Before one knows it the last morning has come:

Past seven o'clock; time to be gone:
Twelfth-night's over and dawn shivering up:
A hasty cut of the loaf, a steaming cup,
Down to the door, and there is Coachman John.

Too often the youngster gets back to school not refreshed by his vacation, but utterly satiated, jaded, and ill prepared for work. For all this parents often receive a large share of blame than is rightfully theirs. Even if they wished, individual fathers and mothers cannot check their children without seeming to inflict real deprivation. Obviously they dislike to do this. Teachers are often partly to blame. In their anxiety to prevent the wholesale wasting of time, they sometimes load down pupils with directions how to spend the holidays profitably. In such cases, the latter will do nothing at all, regarding all that they might do with the hypocritical air of Barrie's schoolboy, Primus, who wrote—under compulsion—the following letter to his master:

"RESPECTED SIR: I venture to address you on a subject of general interest to all engaged in education, and the subject I venture to address you on is, 'My Holidays and How I Turned Them to Account.' • • • My first way of spending my holidays during the holidays is whatsoever my hands find to do doing it with all my might; also setting my face nobly against hurting the feelings of others, and minding to say, before I go to sleep, 'Something attempted, something done, to earn a night's repose,' as advised by you, my esteemed communicant. • • • We walks in Hyde park admiring the works of nature, and keeps up our classics when we see a tree by calling it 'arbor' and then going through the declensions; but we never climbs trees for fear of messing the clothes bestowed upon us by our beloved parents in the sweat of their brow; and we scorns to fling stones at the beautiful warblers which fill the atmosfere with music. In the afternoons I spend my days during the holidays talking with the housekeeper about the things she understands, like not taking off my flannels till June 15, and also praising the matron at the school for seeing about the socks. In the evening I devote myself to whatever good cause I can think of; and I always take off my boots and put on my slippers so as not to soil the carpet. I should like, respected sir, to inform you of the books I read when my duties does not call me elsewhere; and the books I read are the works of William Shakespeare, John Milton, Albert Tennyson, and Francis Bacon. • • • I am desirous to acquaint you with the way I make my uncle's home brighter; but the 500 words is up. So looking forward eagerly to resume my studies, I am, respected sir, your diligent pupil."

No one would wish to have the holidays anything other than what their name implies. But it is to be wished that home-coming youth might learn to give a little of themselves to their families. In time they may come to realize that holiday pleasure is actually enhanced by moderation.

A Mystery Solved.

Saturday Evening Post: A new congressman, having been elected to fill a vacancy, blew into Washington early in December. He was assigned to a room in the House office building. On the morning following his induction into the house he went to his own office. As soon as he entered the room he emitted a loud roar.

"Police!" he shouted. "Murder! Help!"

They came running from all directions. "What's the matter?" they asked.

"Why," he shouted, "when I left this room last night there was brand new typewriting machine standing there on that desk, and when I came in this morning it was gone. It has disappeared. Somebody has stolen it. I demanded a detective to trace down this foul crime."

So they had a look, and discovered that the desk on which the typewriter stood had one of those disappearing devices and that somebody had come along and turned the typewriter down into the bowels of desk.

"He Ain't One of Us."

Editorial in The World's Work: At one of the towns in Kansas where President Taft stopped during his long journey, a great crowd of country people came to hear him. His speech was an historical discourse which provoked no enthusiasm. As the crowd dispersed one countryman said to another: No, he ain't one of us." There is much testimony to show that this feeling prevails in many parts of the country which the president visited. At a club, surrounded by lawyers, where his good nature has free play at close range, he captivates the company; but, when he meets the masses of the people, they do not find themselves in direct contact with him. They do not feel sure that he knows them or understands their problems. He talks as an administrator might talk to his "little brown brothers" or as a judge to a jury.

Does he want tariff reform? It must come only in his own way, by his tariff board. Isn't the method of more importance to him than the substance? In spite of his apparent amiability and undoubted good intentions, he will presently have the house aroused against him in his tariff plans, as he has the senate unfriendly to his peace plans. If he could stir up public opinion to support him vigorously, congressional opposition might be turned into an advantage; but public opinion does not come to his rescue.

Again, his enforcement of the Sherman law (and it is his bounden duty to enforce it) displeases the world of "big business" without satisfying the world of "little business." Mr. Taft even in his most emphatic and vigorous declarations does not wholly convince the people. His thought moves in formal ways; theirs runs straight to conclusions.

Again, in the Ballinger case, the president's postponement of decisive action could not change the inevitable course of events, but it continually made a bad situation worse until it ended as everybody knew it was bound to end; so in the case of the agricultural department, a similarly unfortunate delay has a similarly unfortunate effect. Everybody knows that this great department must be reorganized under a new head. The president does not face difficulties decisively.

Yet no man has more patriotic intentions. The explanation seems to be temperamental—that "he ain't one of us."

How to Get a Husband.

Life: Having decided on the need (want) of a husband and made a wise selection, it becomes necessary to secure (catch) one. Imagine (persuade yourself) that you are beautiful, for what we think we are we seem to others.

Robe yourself in the gown that hangs close without wrinkles and with much lace and ribbon showing through, with many small buttons fastening with loops.

These things make a man to wonder (guess) and while he guesses without knowing, his heart is easily touched and he will seek to become as a slave who will prove himself an expert hooker-up.

If he takes (secures) your hand, seek to withdraw it gently (feebly) as though confused. To blush easily at this time is of good effect. Talk foolishly and ask him to explain baseball scores and tell of the games that he plays best. Request him to tell truly if there is not much risk (danger) in such sports. Tremble much and remark his muscle.

In riding in motors and in cable cars take advantage of all sudden curves and skiddings. Clutch his arm and lean heavily on his shoulder, apologizing much. Tell him you are but a weak woman.

For so often does a man propose without meaning to do so. Love is not directed by the brain. It is a fever that kindles without reason. Where there is reason (good sense), love is not.

But when he endeavors to hide his interest in you and talks of other girls or says that he does not care for girls at all, then you must be on the alert.

Sit then upon the arm of his chair and light his cigar, letting the match burn your fingers, for this (before marriage) will make him grieve afterwards he will think you only clumsy. When he grieves over your hurts, he is easiest (most amenable).

And when you convince him that you are foolish to the verge of imbecility, you will have him landed and in the basket. For he will be sorry for your lack of sense and will wish to give you of his own wisdom.

The stomach will go on patiently for years enduring abuse, overwork and general ill-treatment. So we're apt to think it can stand anything. But when the stomach does rebel, look out!

"Every Meal Smiles at Me Now Since I've Been Taking Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets."

The minute the stomach ceases to perform its functions properly the whole body begins to suffer. The food is only half-digested, the body only half-nourished. PROGRAM FOR "WEEKLY POP"

The annual vaudeville program given by the Y. M. C. A. "Pop" will be held Tuesday night. A complete program of vaudeville has been arranged by D. E. Giffin and J. D. Deighton. The program will be featured also by a basketball game between the Duluth Boat club team and the Y. M. C. A. Cliffords. The Cliffords won the series of games played in the Saturday night Basketball league at the Y. M. C. A., and are a fast organization. The boat club line-up is made up of strong players, and the contest will be a close one.

The first half of the program will be vaudeville and the second part the basketball game. The Adams Glee club, an organization of twenty voices, will appear on the program for different selections. Stanley Lamb will also give some new sleight of hand and impersonations. An excellent squad of gymnasts under the leadership of Assistant Physical Director Olson will give some apparatus work on the parallel bars. Miss Agnes Johnson, who is so well and popularly known as a reader, will read in Swedish dialect. A very clever sketch entitled "A Little Flirtation" has been especially written and prepared for this program. An orchestra from the Fiaaten Conservatory will supply the musical part of the program.

Free tickets are ready at the Y. M. C. A. office for any who care for them.

GOOD LUCK GROUP OF GOLD CLAIMS CHANGES OWNERS

Porcupine and Cobalt Operators Turning Attention to Western Ontario.

Mine Center, Ont., Jan. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Good Luck group of gold claims in the Van Horne belt of the Rainy River district, tributary to Dryden, has been sold to an English company for $75,000.

The property belonged to Alex McPhail and Dan Hutchinson and contains 233 acres. The English company was represented by C. H. James of London and the Ontario end of the deal was handled by E. G. Rognon.

The new owners will follow a vigorous and active policy. C. H. Rogers, a highly reputable man from Porcupine, will act as superintendent and already is on the ground.

This transaction bears out the statement made by The Herald some months ago to the effect that English capital would seek investments in the Rainy River gold fields and that there would be a heavy overflow from Cobalt and Porcupine in due course.

Concerning the Good Luck property, Prof. Parsons speaks as follows in the last report of the Ontario bureau of mines:

"Two veins have been exposed on this claim. The north one is about three feet wide and consists of banded quartz, siderite, talc and pyrite. The south vein is about three and one-half feet wide. It shows considerable free gold and at two spots on the surface of this vein, the writer found visible gold. A test pit has been sunk here and the samples taken out frequently show free gold."

Dr. T. Henry Tubman and E. P. Strong of Cleveland, Ohio, recently looked over gold properties in the Van Horne belt.

Sturgeon Lake Region.

The Sturgeon Lake region, tributary to Port Arthur, also is receiving attention from Porcupine and Cobalt operators. It is reported that a rich strike has been made in the Chimney mine near Graham station of the Grand Trunk railway. Charles Greer of Port Arthur is owner of the property and he recently sent a bag of samples to Toronto that made a sensation when assay returns were received.

As a result of the showing made, N. A. Timmons, former owner of the La Rose silver mine at Cobalt and now heavily interested in Porcupine gold mines, visited the Chimney mine in company with C. M. Hart of Montreal. They were accompanied by J. J. Carrick, M. P. P., and other men from Port Arthur.

It is believed that Mr. Timmins will take a heavy personal interest in the Chimney mine, but he states that a good deal of work will have to be done before he decides definitely on final purchase. Just now extreme cold and heavy snows in that region greatly handicap serious mining work.

Col. S. W. Ray, the Port Arthur banker, has important interests in the Sturgeon Lake belt, as also, have prominent people in Fort William. A considerable number of men in Duluth and Superior have held rich properties in that belt for a number of years.

Activity Around Goldrock.

There is deep interest and considerable activity around Goldrock north of here. E. E. Hedges of Detroit, who now is head of a syndicate owning the Laurentian gold mine, recently shipped a batch of ore samples from that property which was estimated to contains $25,000 in gold. It is declared that all Canada never has produced anything to beat those samples and they made a great sensation when exhibited in Boston. The Laurentian mine has produced over $100,000 in bullion and is equipped with a 20-stamp mill and complete auxiliary machinery. Financial difficulties of a former owner are held responsible for the idle condition of the property.

Maj. Lawrence Johnston of Winnipeg is working on an important deal in connection with the Big Master in the same belt as the Laurentian mine.

The Lost Mine recently was examined by Frank C. Looring, E. M., of Toronto. He was accompanied by J. C. Haimes, a mining operator of Eastern Canada. It is stated that both were well pleased with their visit and it is expected some important results will be the outcome.

Around Mine Center, the outlook for gold mining has not been better for ten years. The town is a lively place this winter as a result of heavy lumbering operations. The camps are numerous and considerable white pine will be cut. With an increased activity in mining and a further increase in farming, this part of the district soon will see great prosperity and possess a numerous and influential people.

The Olive Mine.

Some months ago, Maj. W. A. Preston stated that he would do further work at the Olive mine this winter and the commencement of that will be a welcome event. It will be remembered that the Olive produced many thousands of dollars' worth of bullion with a three-stamp mille and that the ore averaged about $44 a ton at that time.

The Elizabeth mine between Banning and Atikokan again is being worked. An experienced gold miner from Denver, Colo., is in charge. Work was started so quietly that very few people have heard about it. The Elizabeth mine was opened up by Alan Sullivan, son of a prominent Canadian bishop, but expenses under his regime seemed too heavy to warrant a real success.

East of La Seine station, Charley Gehl is working on a group of claims He has installed a boiler, hoist and power drills and the shaft is down about fifty feet. There is a schist formation, cut by a system of quartz veins, some of them not large but so strong and rich that it is hoped and believed they will unite in one large body with depth. The plan is to sink a reasonable depth and cross-cut the vein-bearing formation.

Mr. Gehl was a pioneer prospector in this region. Later, he operated in Nevada, Colorado, Cobalt and Porcupine. It is stated that a syndicate of twenty Pennsylvanians are back of this enterprise.

The Foley Mine.

At the noted Foley mine, the pioneer of the district, heavy operations are expected in early spring. Cold weather and heavy snows have somewhat halted work there. A number of minor problems are being worked out by the management and there is every reason to believe that quick, easy and rapid progress will be made after the back of winter is broken.

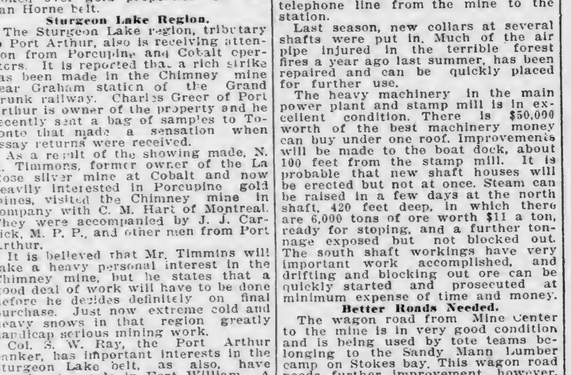

All the buildings have been put in good repair. Lumber has been purchased to enlarge the cookhouse. An ice house was erected last season and this will be enlarged and filled this winter. The big barn is filled with hay for teams and several stacks stand outside. This hay grew on the mine and was cut last season by the men. Several hundred cords of wood have been cut near the mine and fuel is available for use at the shaft houses. It is probable that coal will be used for fuel when the big boilers are fired up in the main power plant. This can be barged up from Ranier or hauled out from Mine Center station In the latter event, the use of a gasoline motor truck will be considered. Another proposed improvement is a telephone line from the mine to the station.

Last season, new collars at several shafts were put in. Much of the air pipe injured in the terrible forest fires a year ago last summer, has been repaired and can be quickly placed for further use.

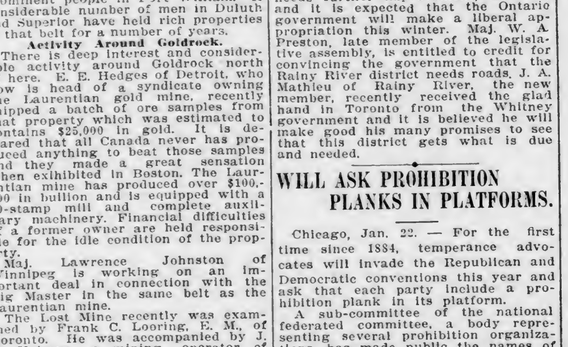

The heavy machinery in the main power plant and stamp mill is in excellent condition. There is $50,000 worth of the best machinery money can buy under one roof. Improvements will be made to the boat dock, about 100 feet from the stamp mill. It is probable that new shaft houses will be erected but not at once. Steam can be raised in a few days at the north shaft, 420 feet deep, in which there are 6,000 tons of ore worth $11 a ton, ready for stoping, and a further tonnage exposed but not blocked out. The south shaft workings have very important work accomplished, and drifting and blocking out ore can be quickly started and prosecuted at minimum expense of time and money.

Better Roads Needed.

The wagon road from Mine Center to the mine is in very good condition and is being used by tote teams belonging to the Sandy Mann Lumber camp on Stokes bay. This wagon road needs further improvement, however, and it is expected that the Ontario government will make a liberal appropriation this winter. Maj. W. A. Preston, late member of the legislative assembly, is entitled to credit for convincing the government that the Rainy River district needs roads. J. A. Mathieu of Rainy River, the new member, recently received the glad hand in Toronto from the Whitney government and it is believed he will make good his many promises to see that this district gets what is due and needed.

MINNESOTA UNIVERSITY

Several Changes in the Academic Curriculum Are Announced.

Less Number of Credits Now Required to Obtain a Degree.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The university officials have announced several changes in the academic curriculum. Chief among these changes is that hereafter only 120 instead of 126 credits will be required for a degree in the academic college.

According to some members of the faculty the change is due to the fact that the students have to extend their attention over too large a field. It is with an object of decreasing this tendency that the required number of credits were lessened.

The matter of combination law coures was also taken up. In the future a student who takes three years of academic work and then enters the law school will receive a B. A. degree at the end of the first four years and a LL. B. degree at the end of six years. This eliminates the necessity of a student taking some academic work, during his first year in law, to receive a B. A. degree.

A special combination five-year course has been arranged for also, and this, with the present five-year course, makes a total of three courses from which a law student may choose.

Next to the junior ball, the Pan-Hellenic dance, Friday night, was the biggest social function on the university calendar this year. Fully 150 couples attended, including active fraternity, alumni and pledges both in college and in high school.

The party was held at the Masonic temple, which was beautifully decorated in maroon and gold. Music was furnished by Squire's nine-piece orchestra which included a xylophone. Dean and Mrs. Downey and Prof. and Mrs. Nicholson chaperoned the party.

Arrangements are being made by the committee in charge of the annual Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. post-examination entertainment, which will occur on the evening of Feb 6. At a meeting held last week it was decided that the Minneapolis Boys' club would be asked to attend. Part of the program will be a vaudeville act provided for by the latter organization.

The junior ball is rapidly becoming the common conversation among members of the junior class. The girls are showing as much interest as the boys, and they have not overlooked their great advantage they have over the men, this being leap year.

The final examinations begin Monday, Jan. 29, and close Tuesday, Feb. 6. Students are kept on the jump in preparation for the finals, and college activities will be very quiet during the coming fortnight.

According to the plans of "Dick" Grant, the faculty quartet will sing sacred music at downtown dance halls and theaters Sunday evenings. Mr. Grant is also arranging for the ministers of the city to appear before the public in these places for five minutes each Sunday evening. This scheme has been approved by President Vincent and President emeritus Northrop and Mayor Haynes. The theater and dreamland managers have consented to give their co-opertion and allow the quartet to sing and the ministers to address their patrons.

RABENAU ADMITS HE SHOT MRS. KAUFMAN.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—The police say that further confessions have been secured from the men charged with the murder of Mrs. Battie Kaufman of the north side on the night of Dec. 2.

"George Rabenau and John Stacey, who were arrested at Los Angeles Jan. 6," said Capt. Hunt, "have added their confessions to those of Rollin Channell and Fred Boneham. "Rabenau admits that he fired the shot which killed Mrs. Kaufman. The quartet started out from the south side in Channell's automobile. People returning to their homes from downtown theaters were selected as possible victims. This was the way that Mr. and Mrs. Kaufman happened to fall prey to the gang."

TILLING THE SOIL AS AN ADDED DUTY OR AS AN OCCUPATION---WHICH?

Many Advise Young Man With $1,000 to Invest in Farm Land.

The advice most frequently given the man with $1,000 to invest is to buy a farm. Some contestants suggest that the man hold his position in the city and purchase land to be cultivated during leisure hours, but others would have him give up his work in the city and go into farming on a larger scale.

"Buy a Home" is also popular advice, while many suggest life insurance policies as additional provision for the family. An investment in a duplex house, with a small payment down and the rent to take care of subsequent payments, is also a favorite suggestion.

The entries in the contest are numerous and the possessor of the $1,000 will have a wide variety of suggestions from which to choose.

Some of the letters follow:

T. A. Taylor, Wadena, Minn.—My advice to the man 35, who has a $1,000 saved and has a wife and two small children to support:

Buy a $5,000 twenty-payment life policy. By doing this you have an estate of $5,000 cash for that good wife and the children in event of death or it will give her an annual income for life for nearly enought to support herself and children. It will also provide for a paid up policy in event of disability by accident or disease. It will cost an annual prefimum of about $180. This will provide for the children until they are old enough to provide for themselves and will also give you nearly $3,000 cash in twenty years or the age of 55. Invest your present $1,000 in a first morgtage at 7 or 8 per cent, which will also add to your income or the interest of the $1,000 will help pay for the $5,000 policy, as you are also saving all the policy costs each year, or buy a neat home and save rent and get the increase in value of the house. When you are 55 years old you have a policy worth $3,000 cash also a home paid for, and if you can save $1,000 each two years you will be comfortable at 55. It is a safe investment with the least chances and sure protection to loved ones in event of death of the father. The annual dividends will reduce the cost of this policy materially.

L. J. Larson, P. O. Box 6, Cotton, Minn.—If I had $1,000 I would go and pick up a nice homestead near a lake and build a little house and barn. Then I would buy a cow and some chickens and turkeys. I would pick up the homestead near a schoolhouse so the children could go to school. Then I would raise some chickens and turkeys and sell. I would raise potatoes and sell too.

George Hoffman, 411 West Fifth street, city.—Young man if I had $1,000 saved and a position of $15 per week, I would not hold my position until I was relieved by some younger person, which will surely come to the man who depends upon office work for a living, for office work is not a very manly occupation, when all is said and done. In a business house you are more liable than not to remain a mere cog in a money making machine. When you are old, you will probably be thrown out, like all other worn out cogs, and some younger person will take your place. Some day your employer may look at your salary envelope and say: "That man is getting $12, $15 or $20 a week," as the case may be. "I can get a woman to do his work for $8,' and you will be fired. Just take my advice, take your family while you have health, strength and manhood, to some section of our country where Uncle Sam has a nice piece of land you can cultivate. Be your own boss, use your muscles and brain and don't let the former run to seed over a typewriting machine, or office job. Get on to your farm raise fruit, grain or stock. Make the grass grow where it never grew before. Make old earth give her riches to you, not to another man. Be a producer, not a wage slave. Live in the open air for health, freedom and independence, as your portion. Co-operate, if you can, with your fellow farmers, open a warehouse in the nearest town, so that your products can be sold to the consumer and avoid the extortiation of the middle man who produces nothing.

J. B. Nygaard, Poupore, Minn.—How to make the most out of $1,000. Would say this: A man must first come to a conclusion about himself, what he is naturally best fitted for, and what he has a particular liking for.

One thing is sure we must get more tillers of the soil or it will be a good deal harder for the man in the city to lay by the next $1,000—and I am past 45 and ought to know whereof I speak—

My personad advice would be this: If you like farming and have a reasonable amount of ambition, buy a good piece of land in a new locality and adhere to the following rules: Never enter a saloon for the purpose of getting a drink, do not go into debt more than absolutely necessary, be square in all your deals, do not promise more than you are reasonably sure you can keep, and success will be yours.

Now, if you cannot put your hand on so many dollars every month, let not that discourage you. You are making money for every acre of ground cleared, and every rod of road built adds to the value of your property. In two or three years you may have doubled your money and taken no chances, like you would in business where you are dependent on the good will of the public, or in stocks or anything of that kind.

A. R. Chevalier, 1307 West Superior street, Duluth.—In answering to your Herald contest, my advice to the man with $1,000 is to always stay with your family if you can, and try to go to Western Canada and take a homestead. It will take but three years to get a clear deed of the land which would be 160 acres and then if you think that you cannot make good on a farm come back to Duluth and try to get your old job back or one justi as good and the value of your land will surely go up and you will have some money left of your $1,000. Now there are lots of hardships in going out West but there are good returns for the same. If you are not a practical farmer don't think about farming for farming is a good trade and has hard work connected with it, but you can learn to like it. There are lots of drawbacks in farming. You must risk your whole year's work without knowing what the result will be. There is sometimes frost or too dry or too much rain or hailstorm or fire, or ignorance of what will pay best, or failure to sell at the right time to get the biggest price or to sell to the right man to get the most money. Now if you buy a farm watch out for land sharks. I will advise the man with $1,000 to buy Duluth lots from some one in need of money. Watch the evening paper for real bargains and put in a want ad and take advantage of same and keep your old job and stay with your family.

Dorothy Behrens, Wright, Minn.: My adivce to the young man with the $1,000 is to buy a fair-sized rooming house in some large city, not paying over $500, and let his wife take charge of the same. The other $500 I would invest in five or six acres of land in Washington and plant an orchard of apple trees. Of course, the rooming house would keep all the expenses while the orchard would be maturing and at the end of three or four years the orchard would net him several hundred dollars per year on the crop and in case you would care to sell it would net you thousands of dollars. During all this time you could be banking all the money you make as your rooming house is clearing expenses.

Oscar Peterson, Lock Box 721, Thief Riery Falls, Minn.: For the gentleman with $1,000, rent a store building in a good location and start a second-hand store, buy and sell new and second-hand furniture, organs, stoves, etc. Many people move in and out of town each and every week. Some want new furniture, while others want to sell what they have. Some family may have $400 worth of nice furniture to sell at a sacrifice price because they have to move away or perhaps that they are hard up. You can easily buy it dirt cheap, varnish it up and sell it to someone else for new, whereby you will more than double your money. Don't buy too much stock, but buy as the business increases for a second-hand store, you do not have to invest in fixtures as they are not necessary. You can easily clear $100 a month besides expenses.

C. A. Remington, Hibbing, Minn.: My advice to the young man with the $1,000 and a good position in Duluth would be: To find a good location right in Duluth and buy himself two houses and lots, preferably, adjoining each other, paying from $1,500 to $2,000 apiece for them. Pay $500 on each and the balance in monthly payments of $5 per month less than they will rent for, keeping this $5 for taxes, insurance and minor repairs. Such houses should rent for from $20 to $25 per month. Move into one of them and rent the other. When spring comes put in his spare time setting out shade trees, fixing up lawns and making up as large a garden as his space will permit of. Hold on to his job by all means, and not let his or his family's wants grow with the feeling of importance that is bound to follow.

As soon as these properties are paid for invest in others. If this policy is carried out and good judgment used in selecting as to future growth of the city, at the end of ten years our young man will not need to go into business, as Duluth has a great future as sure as the sun rises and sets, and any man can win out who will invest judicially in her real estate, even in a small way.

Robert Lattore, 321 Eighth avenue west—To the young man with his first $1,000 wishing to make a good investmentI would advise him to buy forty acres of land near Duluth.

Land can be gotten within six or seven miles of the city limits for $12.50 per acre or $500 for the forty acres. I would advise him to pay about $200 cash and the balance in installments of $5 per month. A small comfortable house and barn can be built for about $500, and he would have $200 cash left.

For $175 he could buy a horse, a cow and necessary tools, he would then have $125 left to buy the family necessities and to meet the installments on the land until fall, then of course he would have his crop to sell and therefore have ample means for the winter. Land is easily cleared in this section of the country and he ought to have about three acres cleared and ready for planting the first spring. During the summer he should tend the crops and clear about five more acres for the planting next year.

Root crops vary from 100 to 250 bushels to the acre and he should have about 300 or 400 bushels for sale in the fall. The salable price of roots in Duluth and vicinity are from 50 cents to $1.50 and ho would have from $200 to $400 for his summer's work, besides part of the table necessities for the family. During the winter he could cut and market the ties, posts and wood from his own land which can be sold for a good price in Duluth, also cut posts to be used to fence the pasture for his stock in the summer.

William Fjellman, Minong, Wis.—In answer to your prize offer in The Herald I say invest your $1,000 in a small farm. We own a farm and we are getting along nicely and as for a young man of 35, I say the farm is the best place.

"I'VE GOT THE FIRST $1,000; WHAT SHALL I DO WITH IT?"

For the second of its series of contests The Herald has an interesting problem which comes to it in the form of a letter that explains itself:

To the Editor of The Herald:

We have often been told—at least we used to be—by rich men that the hardest work on the road to wealth is to get the first $1,000.

I've got that sum now—saved it out of my salary during ten years. Who will tell me how to go the rest of the way? How shall I invest it? Shall I go into business, and what kind, and how?

I am 35 years old, with a wife and two small children, and have a fair position with a living salary, but that's about all. Probably I could, if nothing happened, save another $1,000 in another ten years, but with the cost of living going up faster than salaries—and I can't expect mine to go much higher than it is—it is going to be harder. If I am ever going to start out for myself and gain independence or wealth, now is the time for me to begin, while I am strong and healthy and young.

What shall I do with myself and my $1,000—and my family?

Here's a real problem, a vital one that will interest everybody; and The Herald hopes to see a large and interesting variety of answers. It hopes, too, that men who have traveled the road that lies before this young inquirer will take part in the discussion. The prizes will, of course, be no temptation to them; but this is a subject of wide interest, and they should be glad to contribute their wisdom and experience to its solution.

Write out your answer, limit it to 300 words, put your name and address at the top of the sheet, write on one side of the paper only, and send it to the Contest Editor of The Herald before Feb. 1.

For the best answer to this young man's problem The Herald will give a prize of $10.

BREAKS A COLD IN A FEW HOURS

Nothing else that you can take will break your cold or end grippe so promptly as a dose of Pape's Cold Compound every two hours until three consecutive doses are taken.

The most miserable headache, dullness, head and nose stuffed up, feverishness, sneezing, running of the nose, sore throat, mucous catarrhal discharges, soreness, stiffness, rheumatism pains and other distress begin to leave after the very first dose.

Pape's Cold Compound is the result of three years' research at a cost of more than fifty thousand dollars, and contains no quinine, which we have conclusively demonstrated is not effective in the treatment of colds or grippe.

Take this harmless Compound as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine made anywhere else in the world, which will cure your cold or end Grippe misery as promptly and without any other assistance or bad after-effects as a 25-cent package of Pape's Cold Compound, which any druggist in the world can supply.

TWO DELEGATES FOR ROOSEVELT

First Illinois Precinct Captains Vote to Instruct for Him.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—Political leaders here express belief that Theodore Roosevelt has been assured of his first two delegates to the Chicago convention. The move was made in the First Illinois congressional district, which in 1908 was the initial one in the state to take a stand for the nomination of President Taft and which formally instructed delegates in his behalf despite the strong movement for Cannon. At a meeting of the precinct captains of the district, which comprises various South side wards of the city, it was declared that the district's two delegates to the national convention be instructed for Roosevelt. Voting resulted as follows: For Roosevelt, 119; Taft, 2; La Follette, 1; Foraker, 2.

At least 90 per cent of the committeemen, it is stated, will be re-elected at the April primaries, and will repeat this action officially when they meet to choose congressional delegates who will designate the convention delegates and will be instructed for Roosevelt.

A two-weeks legal battle for the possession of the new edifice culminated Sunday morning in an assault upon the preacher as he was going to church. The assailant was C. F. McGee, a contractor, who had been held in jail three hours to compel him to turn over the keys of the buildin gto the church officials.

The first copies of a pamphlet of which it was said 100,000 copies are to be distributed were sent out by Former Congressman John J. Lentz, president of the organization, and W. W. Durbin of Kenton, secretary. The pamphlet attacks Governor Harmon as being the choice of Wall Street, it professes that the time is ripe for a Democratic victory and warns Democrats not to lose the chance of this victory by the nomination of any but a Progressive candidate.

J., formerly state chairman of the New Jersey Democratic state central committee, who was forced from that position some months ago by Governor Wilson.

NEW CONCEPTION OF THE DEITY

That people of modern times should have their own conception in regard to the Deity, instead of thinking that they must adhere strictly to the ancient Hebrew idea, was the position taken by Rev. George R. Gebauer, pastor of the First Unitarian church, in his sermon last evening on "The Duty of the Preacher." He said, in part:

"I have no fault to find with the Hebrew faith, nor would I forget the great service Israel has done to the world, but I do not accept the theory that my faith was made for me on Mount Sinai or in Jerusalem. If I hold that the ancient God Jehovah fails to call forth in me reverence I do not proclaim this with the object of offending the Jew. I can well understand ther feelings in regard to the worship of the ancient tribal and national Deity, but I cannot share it. And many a Hebrew today but little worships the God his fathers worshipped. But if I thus proclaim my denial of Jehovah, it is for the purpose of awakening in my hearers a greater God conception than Moses made known to his people. I want my hearers to realize that we cannot adopt some other people's God, no matter how good that conception may be for them, but that we must recreate. Better form our own God conception out of the divine life, as it speaks to us today in our experiences. It was no blessing for Western civilization when Hebrew God and Hebrew scripture were declared the center of true faith. That infallible Bible handicapped human progress in spite of much good it wrought.

"Hebrew religion and scripture should be esteemed by us for what they are in themselves; they certainly should not receive a higher place even than the Jew gives to them. Our theology, our religious literature is so lifeless, because they are tied to ideas of God, which are dead to us. The old religion, good and noble as it was in its time and day, has become the tombstone of the new, and the spirit of Christian liberty is buried beneath notions of God, which are dead.

"And the same holds true in regard to our social life; many notions of former days have become obsolete and dead and will be set aside for the good of mankind."

S.S.S. RIDS THE SYSTEM OF CATARRH

Catarrh is a blood disease which causes a general inflammation of the inner linings or mucous membranes of the body. The diseasing of these delicate surfaces and tissues produces all the well known symptoms of the trouble, such as ringing noises in the head and ears, tight, stuffy feeling in the nose, pains above the eyes, irritation of the throat, sometimes slight fever, and a general feeling of weakness and ill health. Even the lungs become affected by the continual passage of impure blood through them, and there is danger of consumption if the disease is allowed to remain in the system. S. S. S. cures Catarrh because it purifies the blood. It goes into the circulation and removes every particle of the catarrhal matter, making this vital fluid pure, rich and healthy. Then the inflamed membranes begin to heal, every symptom disappears, the constitution is built up and health restored. S. S. S. rids the system of catarrh by attacking the trouble at its head and entirely removing the cause from the blood, thus making a permanent and lasting cure. S. S. S. is made entirely from health-giving roots, herbs and barks, and for this reason is an especially safe and desirable medicine. Book on Catarrh and any medical advice free to all who write.

PRISONERS SENTENCED

Daylight Robber Also Goes to Stillwater on Indeterminate Plan.

Judge H. A. Dancer of the district court Saturday afternoon pronounced sentences on those who have been convicted since the opening of the January criminal calendar.

May Harris, convicted of having induced two girls to go from Duluth to Grand Rapids to enter a house of illfame, was given a sentence on the indeterminate plan of from one to ten years in the penitentiary. Judge Dancer told the Harris woman that he realized that the moral character of the two girls involved in the matter was not very high, but the law did not differentiate, he said.

Harry McKenzie, alias Harry Carr, the bold daylight robber, who held up E. D. Ranck, assistant secretary of the Y. M. C. A., in front of the postoffice building in the middle of the afternoon of Jan. 2, was given from one to twenty years on the indeterminate plan. McKenzie is said to have quite a prison record.

Ole Olsen, the St. Croix avenue saloon keeper, who was convicted of violating the Sunday closing laws, was fined $100 or ninety days. In pronouncing sentence, Judge Dancer stated that disclosures which had been made during the week were anything but favorable to the reputation of the Olsen saloon. He was cautioned against any further violation of the law.

Clarence Dunn, whose right name is Joseph Quigley, was sentenced to the Stillwater penitentiary on the indeterminate plan on a charge of burglary. He was convicted on a charge of having broken into a box car in the Fifth avenue railroad yards.

John Schwartz, aged 22, who gave himself up to the police a short time ago and pleaded guilty to a charge of grand larceny in the second degree, was given a light sentence of sixty days in the county jail for the offense. Schwartz was frank in his story of how he had stolen a watch because he was short of funds, and claimed that it was his first offense. His mother lives in New York city.

Charles D. Thomas was given a suspended sentence on the charge of forgery. He will be paroled for one year, during which time he must keep away from the saloons, he must not gamble, and he must not stay out late nights in bad company. Thomas was also instructed to work and help his father meet some of the obligations, amounting to about $500, for which the young man was responsible.

Joseph Derosia, convicted of child abandonment, and who was sentenced to one year last week, was paroled on the condition that he provide a suitable home, food and clothing for the children and send them to school. Derosia's case was taken up by the pardon board and he was ordered resentenced.

SCARED OF THE TAINT

us of "Who is Wilson?" his sense of humor must have been touched. Perhaps that sense consoles him now that the statue he erected comes to life and swats its creator soundly.

Support Is Hurtful.

But what would you? Governor Wilson says that the support of Harper's Weekly is hurtful to him. In a sense I know, every man in politics knows, that is true. The great publishing house of Harper & Bros. is owned by Pierpont Morgan. Just how much the Morgan ownership attaches to Harper's Weekly and to what extent the editor of that paper is controlled by the banking house nobody the "parties immediate" concerned can tell. Knowing Col. Harvey fairly well I am not inclined to attach much importance to the theory that he invented and supported Wilson at Morgan's behest. Such a theory is equally discreditable to Harvey and to Wilson, and the former's record in journalism, since from a most subordinate position on the New York World he made his way to the topmost place, has not been that of a mere servile tool. That the Harvey devotion to Wilson was that of a journalist thoroughly convinced that he had found an unknown statesman worthy of the highest place, is certain.

Dread of Candidates.

All the same that service has lately been hurtful. The one thing that the Democratic presidential aspirants this year dread is the charge that they are affiliated with "the interests." It is one of the peculiarities of politics that nobody has to prove a charge — the burden of proof falls on the victim. Every man is held guilty of whatever is charged against him until he is proved innocent. Harmon is violently accused of being the candidate of "big business," even though the record shows that he increased the assessments of property in Ohio owned by the "interests" more than $500,000,000. Wilson, having been peculiarly sensitive to anything like the charge of alliance with Wall Street, found the activities of Harper's owned by Pierpont Morgan, embarrassing and requested Col. Harvey less zeal. The colonel with admirable philosophy acquiesced, and even published in his own paper, the order sending him to the rear. Perhaps in his own heart he felt aggrieved, but he admirably concealed his sorrow. Yet who can blame him, if thus accepting the harsh dictates of a difficult political situation, he should say to his recent hero:

"Perhaps it was well to dissemble your love,
But why need you kick me down stairs?"

Taint Thought Fatal.

It is curious enough that the support most dreaded by politicians today is that of the great captains of industry. Even Mr. Roosevelt is trying to show that the $260,000 raised by E. H. Harriman in the last days of the 1904 campaign was used for the state, not the national ticket. In a day when material success is worshipped as perhaps never before, when Carnegie, Rockefeller and Morgan are hailed as the nation's greatest men, the taint of association with any one of these is thought fatal to a politician's hope of advancement. It is this public sentiment which forced through an unwilling congress the bill compelling the publication of contributions made to national campaign funds. Mr. Bryan appeals to the same sentiment when he urges that money spent in securing nominations shall likewise be publicly accounted for and that newspapers be compelled to publish the names of their owners. It is from resentment against those who have used business strength to coerce public bodies that voters now and then rush to the opposite extreme and elect business smashers to the highest station.

Slowly, very slowly, Big Business is beginning to understand that it is unpopular. There is no such open rally of the interests to any side as under the marshalship of Mark Hanna in 1896. If there were it might be bad for that side. History has shown the interest taken by railroads and insurance companies in the Roosevelt candidacy of 1904. That action will not be openly repeated, though the friendly manifestations of the Steel trust are causing the Roosevelt idolators some uneasiness. In that 1904 campaign, too, certain famous Wall Street forces were aligned for Judge Parker. Word has come from their banking houses that they will take no part in politics this year. The dead line which Inspector Byrnes established to keep crooks out of the Wall Street district, is no more effective than the public sentiment which bars from that forbidden city presidential candidates, their journalistic champions and their political promoters.

GOLD NO MATCH FOR MANHOOD

Dr. Robert Yost Draws Lesson From History in Sunday Sermon.

Rev. Robert Yost, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, addressed a large congregation at the People's meeting at that church last evening on "Manhood vs. Gold." He declared that Bacon was right is saying that what the world needed was "improvement of the breed and condition of men," and he said Christianity was the greatest factor in achieving this development.

In speaking of the arrogance of gold, he referred to Babylon and Rome at the height of their power, and he declared that the overthrow of these powers by the Medes and Goths well typified the weakness of gold, when it was matched against the strength of manhood.

Godard's "Berceuse" and the "Meditation" from "Thais" were rendered on the violin by Miss Wally Heymar, with accompaniment by Miss Alice Mae Brown at the piano. De Kovens "Abide With Me" was sung by George Suffel. The musical program also included an organ recital by Miss Nordby and two anthems by the choir.

COURT FINDS BABY WAS ADOPTED TO LURE MAN.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 22.—That Mrs. Leona Batty practiced a fraud on the court when she represented that she had become a mother on Oct. 28, 1910, is the decision of Judge Joseph Collier of the superior court. The petition of Bernard R. Batty, the divorced husband of Mrs. Batty, asking that the court relieve him from supporting the child, was granted. The baby, which was exhibited in court, was claimed by a 19-year-old girl of Eaton, Ind., who averred the baby was born to her at a hospital here about ten days before the time Mrs. Batty said the child was born.

Judge Collier made much of the fact that a physician was not called by Mrs. Batty and that the latter had refused to submit to examination by a physician. Batty averred that his wife obtained the baby to bring about a reconciliation.

ST. LOUIS MURDER VICTIM WAS TO HAVE TESTIFIED.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 22.—Detectives say that Vincense Leoni was the man whose headless body was found in an ash pit in the heart of the Black Hand district. Leoni was to have been the principal witness in the defense of Tony Sansone, soon to be tried on the charge of murdering his business partner.

The police have not been able to find the head, which was missing when the body was found.

CLEVELAND CLIFF EMPLOYES ARE GIVEN PENSIONS.

Ishpeming, Mich., Jan. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fourteen men living in Ishpeming and one residing at Bessemer receive aid from the pension fund of the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company in sums up to $30.94 monthly. In addition to this number, twenty widows and their children draw on the company for amounts not less than $12 monthly.

How Far Will a Dollar Go?

It is largely a question of food knowledge and food sense. An intelligent selection of food means less waste, smaller grocery bills, better health, better nourished bodies. The least nutritious foods are often the most expensive. For breakfast take two and heat them in the oven to restore crispness and then pour hot milk over them, and you have a warm nourishing meal that will supply all the strength needed for a half day's work, at a cost of four or five cents.

Served with stewed prunes, baked apples, canned peaches or sliced bananas the meal is even more wholesome and satisfying.

IRON AND STEEL REVIEW

New York, Jan. 22.—The substantial character of the heavy business booked by the steel mills the latter part of last year, is shown by the large specifications on contracts received since the first of January, permitting further increase in mill operations by independents as well as by the steel corporation. The Carnegie Steel company now has all of its open hearth furnaces in commission and by the end of this month the steel corporation will have between 87 per cent and 90 per cent of capacity active, fully verifying the statements made in December.

The volume of new business in finished steel products since June 30 has naturally been smaller in volume than during the previous two months even so the Steel corporation's new business has average not far from 45,000 tons per day.

The railroads seem to have adopted a procrastinating policy in placing additional equipment contracts and have been cutting down new orders for rails below the 1911 purchases. The New York Central has distributed orders for 110,000 tons standard sections between the Carnegie Steel, Illinois and Bethlehem Steel companies. The Erie is on the point of ordering 35,000 and the D. L. & W., 15,000 tons.

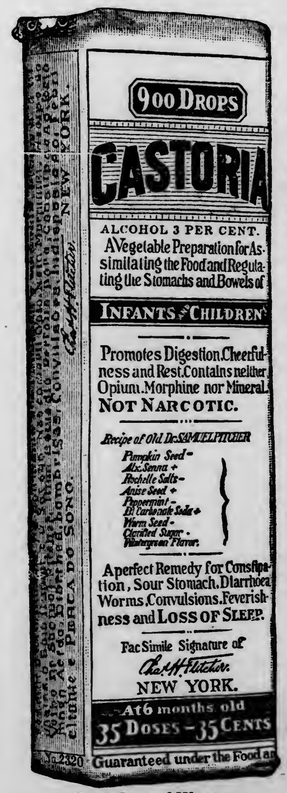

The total structural orders last week called for 24,000 tons of fabricated steel, of which only 5,500 tons were for railroads.

The volume of business in pig iron was light in the East, but there was some activity reported from Cleveland, and in the Pittsburg district, where contracts about aggregated 45,000 tons. In all districts about 85,000 tons were ordered.

DAY BELIEVES WILSON WILL GET NOMINATION

Former Minnesota Democratic Leader Admires New Jersey Governor.

FRANK A. DAY.

Frank A. Day, now of Missoula, Mont., but formerly of Minnesota, believes that Woodrow Wilson will be the Democratic nominee for president, that Roosevelt is in fact a candidate for the Republican nomination, that Roosevelt's chances of nomination are better than Taft's, and that any good, clean high-grade Democrat can be elected over Governor Eberhart in Minnesota. That is the summing up of his views of the political situation, as given by Mr. Day this morning.

Mr. Day, who has been in the East for some time, is in Duluth looking after his property interests.

Mr. Day was enthusiastic in his expression of admiration for Woodrow Wilson. "I do not think there has been a candidate for president in years, in which have been combined such qualities of ability, integrity, statesmanship and fearlessness as Governor Wilson. He is a unique character in American politics. Col. Harvey asked him to frankly state whether he believed his support was injuring him. Governor Wilson had the frankness and manhood to state that he believed it was. People respect the man who is frank, open and honest in all his relations."

Sentiment for Wilson.

Mr. Day said the sentiment is overwhelmingly for Wilson all through the West. In Missoula, which is a Democratic city, a Wilson club was organized. "We obtained the names of all Democrats except three, and the membership includes some high grade Republicans also," he said.

"It is a well-known fact that I am for Wilson for president, and while my judgment may be biased by my admiration for the man, I sincerely and firmly believe that he will be the nominee," said Mr. Day. "That is the feeling in the East. I attended the Jackson Day banquet at Washington and the feeling there was that Governor Wilson was the most available man and stood the best chance of obtaining the nomination.

"Clark and Folk are killing each other off by their contest in their own state. That contest is so bitter that neither could carry the state should he be nominated and it is necessary to name a candidate who can carry Missouri. The people believe Bryan when he says he will not be a candidate. In that respect their opinion of him is unlike their attitude towards Roosevelt, whom they do not believe. Whether justly or unjustly Governor Harmon's name has been coupled with the interests. He has made a great record as governor of Ohio, but many people believe Wall Street is back of him and his nomination is, on that account, out of the question.

Roosevelt's Chances Good.

"I do not believe Taft will be the Republican nominee. It is inconceivable to me that the Republican party, in which are the most crafty politicians in the world, will nominate a man for president, whom nobody believes will be elected. Taft is foredoomed to defeat if he should be nominated and the Republican leaders know it.

"I believe Roosevelt is a candidate. I would rather have his chance of nomination than Taft's. If there were general presidential primaries, La Follette would easily carry the West."

Mr. Day said that he is still interested in Minnesota politics, from an observer's standpoint.

Minnesota Situation.

"I have always considered that my removal from the state vacated the office of chairman of the state central committee," he said. "Although I am no longer chairman of that committee, I have not lost my interest in Minnesota politics, for I have been in touch with them for years, still have property interests in the state and conditions here will always hold an interest for me.

"I believe the people of this state have awakened. Any good, clean, high-grade Democrat can defeat the present executive at the polls. The influences that have taken possession of the administration of the state and are using their public positions for their own enrichment, have been exposed and the people are no longer blind to what has been going on around them."

WORE UNIFORM OF LIEUTENANT

Noah Lewis Waelchli, accused by the federal grand jury of impersonating a United States army officer, was placed on trial this morning before Judge Page Morris of the United States district court.

Attorney T. J. McKeon is defending. The entire morning today was devoted to drawing a jury.

Waelchli, it is claimed, was arrested in Duluth while under contract with the Star theater to give his "Army and Navy" show.

He wore a United States uniform, it is stated, and called himself a lieutenant. He is said to claim now that he was at one time a United States army officer although retired at the time of his arrest.

It is claimed that in contracting to appear at the theater, he obtained a written contract by unlawfully assuming and pretending to be an officer in the army. Ellis Dorfman, manager of the theater, had entered upon a three-day contract, understanding that Waelchli was really what he pretended to be.

Waelchli was wanted by the police of several other cities on similar charges at the time of his arrest in this city.

BEGINS TENTH YEAR AS MEMBER OF POOR BOARD

James H. Hearding, assistant general manager of the Oliver Mining company, has been reappointed to his fourth term as a member of the board of county poor commissioners and will serve another three years.

The appointment was made by the chairman of the county board and has been ratified by the judges of the district courts.

Mr. Hearding has already served as poor commissioner for nine years and is one of the oldest members of the commission. The position carries with it no remuneration.

During the past nine years Mr. Hearding has made a very creditable record as a member of the commission and in view of his willingness to accept a fourth term, there was no hesitancy about the appointment.

150 UNABLE TO GET WORK

When the Fitger Brewing company began cutting ice this morning on the lake, about 175 men were on hand bright and early to ask for jobs.

Twenty-five of the men were accommodated and the others could not be used.

The company had not advertised and the only way the men could have known operations were to begin this morning was by the fact that the marking was begun Saturday.

P. S. Anneke stated that at least 150 men were turned away after the crew has been obtained.

In spite of this fact, the employment agents claim to have unfilled orders for hundreds of men on their books.

MEETINGS AT SUNDAY SCHOOLS

Field Workers of American Union Visit Duluth Churches.

Meetings under the auspices of the American Sunday School union were held yesterday morning at the Grace M. E., Swedish Mission, Glen Avon Presbyterian, Union, Central Baptist and Evangelical association churches and in the evening at the Second Presbyterian church. These meetings were under the direction of John O. Ferris, superintendent of the Northern District, which includes Minnesota, North Dakota and Montana; George W. Andrick, general Sunday school missionary for Minnesota, and several field superintendents. Mr. Andrick also addressed the Bethany Sunday school at the K. P. hall yesterday afternoon.

It was shown by the reports that the state of Minnesota now had 889 schools affiliated with the American Sunday School union, these schools having an aggregate enrollment of 38,276 pupils. It was also shown that during the past year the missionaries of the union had organized 175 new schools with 5,170 pupils and nearly 600 teachers.

McFARLAND TO GO TO TRIAL SOON

Minister Refuses to Discuss Death of Former Secretary.

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 22.—The trial of Rev. W. D. McFarland of Cedar Creek, Tenn., formerly highly connected with educational affairs here, who is charged with performing two operations which resulted in the death of Miss Elsie Dodd Coe, his former secretary, is to be called within the next two weeks. The minister-educator, arrested several days ago at his Tennessee home, was brought to Pittsburg and immediately released when friends provided a bond of $4,000.

Before dying in a hospital Miss Coe made a statement to a deputy coroner to the effect that two alleged operations she underwent were performed by Rev. Mr. McFarland. Rollin McConnell of Chicago she also mentioned in the statement, and McConnell later appeared before the district attorney, confessed his relations with her and said that Miss Coe had refused to marry him when he had asked her to do so.

Except to say that he is eager to go to trial, Rev. Mr. McFarland has refused to discuss the case. He returned to face the indictment without a requisition.

FINAL ACCOUNTING IN JEFFERSON ESTATE.

Final accounting having been made, the estate of the late Ernest R. Jefferson, pioneer citizen of Duluth, was closed this morning in probate court.

Mr. Jefferson in his will divided his property, amounting to about $55,000, among his wife and children. Mrs. Addie M. Jefferson, the widow, was bequeathed the Jefferson home and an income on $18,000 invested in good securities. The rest of the estate will be converted into cash and divided equally among three children. They are: Grace A. Warfield, Robert E. and John J. Jefferson.

Mr. Jefferson was one of the earlier settlers of Duluth and was closely associated with the history of the city. He was one of the first trustees of the town of Duluth.

IN THE DAY'S WORK AT WASHINGTON

Taft Will Name Hook.

Washington, Jan. 22.—Among friends of President Taft it is generally understood that the nomination of United States Circuit Judge Hook of Kansas to the supreme court, succeeding the late Justice Harlan, will be sent to the senate during the present week. Objections to Judge Hook referred to Attorney General Wickersham, it was said, have not proved convincing to the president, and he is inclined to make the appointment shortly.

May Lower Oleo Tax.

The increase in the price of butter ordered by the Elgin butter board and the prediction that the commodity would go to 60 cents a pound has given impetus to the campaign in congress for a reduction in the oleomargarine tax. Chairman Lever of the sub-committee of the house committee on agriculture, which has been considering the oleomargarine bills, will recommend a bill to the whole committee designed to lower the tax on oleomargarine from 10 cents to less than 1 cent a pound. The bill provides a fine and imprisonment for the sale of oleomargarine under the guise of butter. The chairman hopes to get it through the house within a month. It is believed this will do something to lower the cost of living. Letters from women's clubs, labor organizations and various civic bodies have been sent to the committee in great numbers since the butter market quotations from Elgin have become generally known.

F. A. BEAN WAS KNOWN HERE

Champion Debt Payer Started Flour Mill at Head of Lakes.

Many Duluth people will remember F. A. Bean, the miller of New Prague, who is now paying up all his old indebtedness. He at one time had a prospect for a big flour mill on the old St. Louis townsite on the Wisconsin side of the river. Mr. Bean was one of the promoters of that project, when it was undertaken not long before the panic of 1893. The company went so far as to put in the foundation, but the panic struck the country before the enterprise was fully financed, and it never got any farther.

Before embarking on that affair, Mr. Bean was a prosperous miller of Faribault. Perhaps his idea of having a 5,000-barrel flour mill at the Head of the Lakes would have been realized, had it not been for the financial cyclone of nineteen years ago. As it was, Mr. Bean was for the time being rendered insolvent by the failure of the company.

Of late, however, Mr. Bean, finding himself again prosperous, has been looking up his creditors and paying his debts in full, with interest from the time the debts were contracted.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Jan. 22. — The arbitration board to which the wage dispute between the Coopers' International Union of North America and the Machine Coopers Employers' association had been submitted, announces that the matter has been settled. ON THE IRON RANGES

NEAR TRAGEDY AT ICE RACES

Virginia, Minn., Jan. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—The first heat of the horse races on the ice here Sunday afternoon nearly resulted in a tragedy when Better Promise, the third horse, in the home stretch, struck Billy McCanna in the head with one of his shoes, rendering the man unconscious. McCanna rushed too close to the tracks in his excitement and was unable to step aside in time to permit the horse to pass. He was taken, still in an unconscious condition, to the Lenont hospital, where he remained in that state several hours. McCanna is a lumberjack and is little known here.

Best time: 36, 37½, 40.

Best time: 40, 41, 42.

The local track is a straightway, lacking 240 feet of being a half mile in length.

Dr. Mason of Hibbing, Dan Coffey and Robert Metcalfe of Virginia acted as the judges.

Several hundred people attended the races.

ARE LINED UP FOR ELECTION

Virginia, Minn., Jan. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—As stated in Saturday's Herald, there are three complete tickets in the field to be voted for at the city election, Feb. 6, as follows:

Socialist: H. J. Durenberger, mayor; W. F. Earhart, J. G. Mattala, W. O. Snyder, aldermen-at-large; C. M. Jackson, judge of municipal court; R. C. Sermon, treasurer.

For municipal judge, those making the race independently are: Judge J. P. Carey, who is a candidate for re-election; W. J. Archer, A. N. Thompson J. H. Fleming, L. M. Osborn.

The candidates for special municipal judge are: C. G. Butler, A. L. Shipley, Peter Egan, H. S. Gillespie and A. W. Hubbard.

L. A. Peterson filed as an independent candidate for alderman-at-large.

A feature of the campaign is that three undertakers, J. H. Fleming, H. S. Gillespie and A. W. Hubbard, are candidates, the latter two being out for the office of special municipal judge, now held by Mr. Fleming, who desires to be elected municipal judge.

Between Johnson and Murphy.

It is expected that the real race for mayor will be between H. O. Johnson, now alderman-at-large, and M. A. Murphy, the latter running upon a platform declaring for immediate municipal ownership and the purchase of the water and light plant at a price fair to the present owners and to the city. Mr. Murphy's platform also calls for a fair and impartial enforcement of all the laws. Mr. Johnson has not yet made known his platform, but as he is the administration candidate, it is probable that his position upon municipal ownership will be about the same as that of the present administration, which has already taken several important steps having in view the purchase of the water and light plant. H. J. Durenberger, the public ownership or Socialist candidate for mayor, is a machinist by trade.

The various tickets follow:

MESABA RANGE HAS LOST A CHARACTER

Mary Skull, Who Ran Saloon and Dispensed Charity, Called at Gilbert.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 22.—(Special to The Herald.) — Old-timers are interested in the announcement of the death and burial of Mary Ann Skull, for years a character on the Mesaba range. She once lived and ran a saloon on Pine street. She died at Gilbert last week and was buried in the Virginia cemetery. It was said of her that she was a sort of godmother to many a lumberjack who she fed without possibility of getting her money back. She left this city about four years ago and went to Calumet, Minn., where she conducted a saloon and butcher shop. She was several times married and often in the lime light here. She also conducted a saloon at Chisholm and was burned out in the fire that destroyed the town.

Reported to Be Rich.

But little is known of her early life. She was a native of Austria, and had a large following among a certain class of her countrymen, by whom she was reported to be immensely wealthy, keeping most of her money in the old country. With local business men she had the reputation of being hard to collect amounts from, but when pressed for her bills would show certificates of deposit on banks in the old country and usually paid her accounts in time.

Duluthians Brave Cold.

Deer River, Minn., Jan. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Miller and two nieces came last week and drove out to their summer place at Bowstring lake to remain about two weeks. Low temperature has no terrors for this brave and healthy party, and they say they enjoy the mid-winter outing as much as they do the summer visits.

Curling Match Opens Feb. 22.

Virginia, Minn., Jan. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Annual play of the Eveleth and Virginia curling rinks for the McDonald trophy will begin Feb. 22. Sixteen rinks will participate.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

The mercury mounted to 14 deg. above zero yesterday and dropped to zero last night, indicating that Duluth is enjoying another almost-warm wave. Today is gray and a little soft, but not oppressively warm. Snow is promised for tonight with another turn to colder tomorrow afternoon.

The sun rose this morning at 7:44 and it will set at 4:55 this evening, giving nine hours and eleven minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"During the last twenty-four to forty-eight hours light snow fell over most of the Lake region, Southern and Western Minnesota and North Dakota, and rains fell over Washington, Oregon and Northern California. In the meantime, there has been, generally speaking, a decided moderation in temperature over most northern and central districts, particularly in the Northwest. A high pressure area centered over Idaho is causing a turn to colder weather in Wyoming and Montana, which condition will doubtless reach the Head of the Lakes during Tuesday afternoon and night."

General Forecasts.

Wisconsin—Mostly cloudy tonight and Tuesday; warmer tonight.

Montana—Fair tonight and Tuesday; not much change in temperature.

Shippers' forecast: Protect thirty-six-hour shipments of perishables against temperatures 5 to 20 deg. above zero in the Dakotas, Minnesota and Wisconsin.

Omega Oil

For Sprains and Bruises

It is the first thing to think about when you meet with an injury. Trial bottle 10c. Large bottles 25c., 50c.

The engine of No. 3 plowed its way through the private car which was attached to No. 25, and was stopped by the steel coaches immediately preceding. The impact shoved the standing train some distance down the tracks. The engineer and fireman were slightly injured, but were able to take the train south as soon as the wreckage was cleared away.

Harahan recently retired from the presidency of the Illinois Central on a pension. Melcher lived in Winnetka, Ill., and Peirce in Highland Park, a suburb of Chicago. Mr. Wright resided in Memphis.

Residents of Kinmundy, a town of 1,500 inhabitants, opened their doors to succor the injured soon after the news of the wreck spread.

Won Place Through Harriman.

New York, Jan. 22.—James T. Harahan came to the presidency of the Illinois Central railroad in 1906, through the influence of E. H. Harriman who had, after a long fight, succeeded in ousting Stuyvesant Fish from the presidency. That fight had its beginning late in 1903, according to the late E. H. Harriman, who, testifying before the interstate commerce commission, alleged that Mr. Fish had been using his position as president of the Illinois Central, "to further his own personal interests."

Mr. Fish succeeded in retaining the office of the presidency of the Illinois Central for a time, but Mr. Harriman continued his warfare against him. In 1906 Mr. Fish was superseded by Mr. Harahan as head of the Illinois Central, but the fight continued when Mr. Fish sought through the courts to enjoin the Harriman interests from voting Illinois stock held by the Union Pacific, the Railroad Securities company and the Mutual Life Insurance company.

Judge Ball in Chicago later dissolved a temporary injunction granted Mr. Fish, and that ended the Harriman-Fish war.

Started as Water Boy.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—James T. Harahan was born at Lowell, Mass., in 1843. He worked his way in the railroad world from water boy to president. His first employment was with the Orange & Alexandria railroad at Alexandria, Va. Subsequently he was with the Nashville & Decatur railroad at Nashville, Tenn., with which he held various positions. He then became superintendent of the Louisiana & Northern railroad with headquarters at New Orleans

For many years he was general manager of the Illinois Central, being made president in November, 1906, to succeed Stuyvesant Fish, after E. H. Harriman obtained control of the road. He was retired by the Illinois Central on a pension a few months ago. He was succeeded by C. H. Markham.

James T. Harahan, Jr., who in the first report was said to have been killed in the Illinois Central wreck, is confined in St. Luke's hospital here.

His arm was broken recently. Acting under the orders of his physician, hospital authorities have not notified him of his father's death.

W. J. Haranan, another son, who is vice president of the Erie railroad with offices in New York, was notified and he now is on his way to Chicago.

Mrs. Harahan is at the family home here, 3356 Michigan avenue. Her maiden name was Mary Mallory and her home was in Memphis. Mr. Harahan was married twice. Two daughters, Mrs. Mary Nichol and Mrs. A. N. Dale, both of whom are widows, now are in Paris. Cablegrams telling of their father's death have been sent them.

Melcher Born in Maine.

Frank Otis Melcher, killed with Mr. Harahan, was born in Maine in 1864 and graduated from Tufts college in 1887. He entered the railway service as an assistant in the engineers' corps of the Pittsburg railway.

He was successively instrument man, instrument engineer, chief engineer, division superintendent and general superintendent. He entered the Rock Island service in 1900 first as superintendent of the Illinois division, and then as general superintendent of the Choctaw district and later as general manager of the Central and Northern districts. He was made second vice president several years ago. His home in recent years has been at Winnetka, Ill.

Peirce a Southerner.

E. B. Peirce was born in Mississippi forty years ago. He received his education in his native state and began the practice of law in Little Rock, Ark. For several years he was assistant to the general counsel for the Choctaw, Oklahoma & Gulf railroad, which in 1902 was taken over by the Rock Island system.

Mr. Peirce immediately entered the law department of the Rock Island system, being made commerce counsel in 1907. Two years ago he became general solicitor. He was a member of the University and Union League clubs. His home was in Winnetka. He is survived by a widow, one son and a daughter.

Statement by Company.

"South bound train No. 25, with regular equipment and an additional Rock Island business car, stopped at Kinmundy station at 12:30 this morning to take water, and was run into by south bound train No. 3, between 12:30 and 12:35, resulting in instant death to F. C. Melcher, vice president of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific railway; Judge E. P. Peirce, general solicitor for the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific railway; J. T. Harahan, former president of the Illinois Central railroad, and Maj. E. E. Wright of Memphis, Tenn.

"Others of the party in the Rock Island car, who were M. Thomas Rusble, local attorney, Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific, Little Rock, Ark.; and Byram Curry, secretary to Mr. Melcher, also two porters, were uninjured.

"Formal investigation will be conducted as early as possible today, the board of inquiry consisting of officials of the company and business men from Centralia and Kinmundy.

"The bodies of Messrs. Melcher, Peirce and Harahan are being handled on a special train en route to Chicago, and will reach here about 1:30 p. m. The body of Maj. Wright will be forwarded to Memphis, Tenn.,

Son of Luke Wright.

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 22.—Elbridge E. Wright, killed in the Kinmundy wreck, was a son of Gen. Luke E. Wright, former secretary of war and made his home in this city.

Pugilism of Today Has Few Good Evenly Matched Fighters---The Sport of Skating---"Doc" Roller Is Defeated Again--- Fred Stone.

(BY BRUCE.)

SPEAKING of fighters and the modern warfare, it might be well to remark that at no time during the past two decades of ring fighting has a really great match—one between two men evenly matched—seemed so far off. Mention a fight and your neighbor, be he clubman, mission worker, bartender or even a philospher with long hair, will elevate his chin a little and inquire of the details. Human nature plays the lead over environment and the conventional role. Speaking purely profesionally, however, there seems no reason to fight except for a purse—and the public must be aroused before it will pay.

Who is there to fight Wolgast after he gets well? He sits in Venice—the American one—swathed in deep reflection and a fur overcoat, which is unusual for California. The overcoat, that is. Wolgast may not be modest, he is a frank youth and admits that there are not very many boys of the lightweight class left for his special picking.

Dropping over pugilistic elevation we come to the featherweights. In this class there are some great matches in sight. It doth appear that the veteran Attell has still lots of fight left in him. He has battled through the present decade and yet seems to be doing a first class imitation of the brook. Johnny Kilbane seems the logical man to face Abie. It's hard to tell about Attell; he is as mischievous about his true form as a black snake affected with ennui. He looks about as good as ever and he might thresh the Cleveland boy soundly—and again—well, there you are.

Johnny Coulon is king of the bantamweights, though Frankie Conley can give the Chicago boy a hard fight any time they hook up. These boys seem to stand out as the best of the small men.

Skipping blithely along to the bantamweight division, we see nothing Some promoters are at the present time trying to work up some interest in the Johnson-Flynn prospective go. While Flynn is probably the best of the white heavyweight brigade, it does look as if he will be a toy in the hands of the gigantic black. Johnson may be going back, for he is old counting time by the long list of down and out ex-champions of the past; yet he will have to go back far, clear beyond the confines of the pugilistic reservation, before any of the white crop will be able to hit him effectually, much less lick him.

There might be some even matches between the middleweights, but they are so poor that not many people want to see them fight. Aye there is the rub. Bob Fitzsimmons was by far the greatest middleweight that the present era of fight fans know anything about. If they ever produce a fighter anywhere nearly as good as the freckled one, he indeed will be the wonder of his time. Stanley Ketchel was a wonder whether right or wrong—we have not a man at the present time who classes with him.

Unless there is a new generation of fighting men to come and make the game more interesting, we may sigh in vain for the days of old.

WHILE the intense cold weather of the past month has hurt the roller skating game here, as it has hurt business and every side of the amusement game, Manager W. L. Downer of the big Auditorium rink says that during the remainder of the winter Duluth is to have some roller skating carnivals that will recall to the mind of the oldest inhabitants the days when people flocked to the roller skating rink of an evening.

With one of the finest rinks in the United States there is no reason why roller skating should not become a popular sport in this city. Skating is one of the popular forms of amusement that is beneficial. When to its natural advantages as an exercise are added the surroundings that give the sport the best possible tone, it should increase in popularity as the rigors of the winter's spasm diminish.

Manager Downer is also seriously considering bringing some of the big speed stars here who have been in attendance at the world's championships at the St. Louis rink. With the biggest floor space this side of Chicago upon which to lay out the track, some great time might be made between fast men here.

JESS PEDERSEN'S defeat of Dr. Roller serves to call to mind the most defeated wrestler in America. It also reminds us that the genial doctor has been rather quiet this progressing season. It may be that the Seattle surgeon is getting ready to go back to the city of hills by the long rolling Pacific and hang out his sign and ask the sporting editors to boost the game. No matter how many times he is defeated the genial doc seems to be able to get work. It is said that he has laid up a most substantial nest egg and can afford to tour Europe and walk through the chemical laboratories of several German universities. This gives one an air and boosts the fees. Doc Roller has been a card in the wrestling game, even thought he never came very near fulfilling the statements he has made to every sporting editor from Podunk to Palestine, Tex., i. e., that he was going to be the champion rassler of the world.

Reports from Chi do say as how Jess Pedersen gave the Pennsy alumnus somewhat of a setback in the mat game's progress and just about tumbled down the aspiration of the genial one. With all his faults we love him still, for Doc Roller is just about the smoothest mixer in the game, and when it comes to conversation and manners has Frank A. looking like a bashful boy presenting the young and handsome school teacher with a Christmas present.

FRED STONE is some athlete, yes. After watching with heaving sides and dyspepsia-destroying laughter, the antics of the actor man on the tight rope, and then as he climbed the rope against the scenic mansion, one is forced to admit that old man Darwin was somewhere within scenting distance of the genealogical trail when he said that monkeys had a right to be almost on speaking terms with some of our early forebears.

Fred Stone is a great athlete as well as a great comedian. He has the quickness of a cat and the agility of the simian serf of the chain and hand organ. The way he went around that tight wire reminded seatholders of a merry monkey taking a workout on the horizontal bar in the zoo.

One of the events of the futnre may be the meeting between Mahmout and Zbyszko. Let us all hope that this long discussed thing is to come to pass. Several more moves and they may have Frank A. Gotch placing Humboldt back in the toll service.

DULUTH MAN CHOSEN A. W. G. A. DIRECTOR.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—Denver County club got the Western amateur golf championship test for 1912, the Idlewild club of Chicago obtained the Western open championship and John D. Cady of Rock Island, Ill., was elected president of the Western Golf association at the annual meeting here Saturday night.

Discussion of the proposal to abolish stymie from golf and to standardize the balls used, resulted in no official action, it being the expressed sentiment of the members present that inasmuch as the United States Golf association in Philadelphia last week left the two questions as they were, the Western association would avoid confusion by doing likewise.

The full ticket elected is as follows:

President, John D. Cady, Rock Island, Arsenal Gulf club; vice president, Frank L. Woodward, Denver, Country club; secretary, Charles E. Willard, South Shore Country club, Chicago; treasurer, Brice D. Smith, Onwentsia Golb club.

Directors, A. W. Austin, Lamton Country club, Toronto; J. K. Bolt, Kansas City Golf club; S. T. Carnes, Memphis Country club, and W. W. Walker, Northland Country club, Duluth.

Nominating committee for 1912: K. L. Ames, Chicago; John Duffy, Grand Rapids, Mich.; W. J. Foye, Omaha; W. L. Yule, Kenosha, Wis., and C. Stanley, Indianapolis.

Pickering Will Pitch.

Terre Haute, Ind., Jan. 22.—Earl Pickering, the University of Minnesota athlete, has signed to pitch for the Terre Haute Central league club, according to announcement made here. Pickering was a football star last fall, but was barred from the Minnesota-Wisconsin game by Wisconsin's filing charges that he had played professional baseball in the summer.

BONSPIEL UNFINISHED

Only Two Events Were Completed By Saturday Night.

Play Continued in Other Five —Williams Wins Minneapolis Trophy.

With play in the International, Consolation or Steve Jones event, the Patrick, the Western Curling club event and the St. Paul Jobbers' event yet to be finished, the Northwestern bonspiel may not be completed by this evening. The officials of the association are going to make every effort to complete the play by late tonight, however, and it is probable that the spiel will come to an end at a late hour.

Perhaps the feature Saturday was the battle between McIvor of Port Arthur and Williams in the final of the Minneapolis event. The game went to the Winnipeg man by the score of 10 to 9 after one of the closest and hardest fought games of the spiel. This and the Duluth event are the only ones completed.

Williams came into the last head one down and the game looked like more than an even chance for the Port Arthur rink. But in this head Williams lay two and McIvor was unable to land the event his rink has made such a gallant fight for. This game attracted one of the largest galleries of the entire spiel and some of the best curling of the week was done.

Both skips made some great draws to the button, but the playing of Williams and his rink was a trifle steadier and the Winnipeg skip also seemed a trifle more sure of himself at critical points.

One of the feature games of the afternoon was the contest between Johnny Oldham and the Rochon rink. Without taking any credit from Oldham it must be said that the crack Winnipeg aggregation was certainly off in its play. Had Oldham's men taken advantage of some of their chances the Duluth skip would be in the third round of the Patrick event instead of the Winnipeg man.

Rochon and Cassidy missed some shots that an ordinary curler should have made. But Oldham's rink was also passing up the golden opportunities offered through open houses and easy draw shots, so that playing in off form was quite good enough to save the game for Rochon.

In this contest the Winnipeg rink showed unmistakable evidences of being stale. In the earlier game of the afternoon against Brown, Rochon's rink also failed to show the form that it has exhibited during the earlier part of the 'spiel. The Winnipeg rink has been playing three and four games a day during the last three days of the 'spiel and its members probably welcomed the rest that came with yesterday.

Today Rochon and Chisholm, both of Winnipeg are scheduled to meet in the finals of the St. Paul Jobbers' event. This will be the big game of the day, as both rinks have played strongly throughout the 'spiel and represent the class of the many rinks. It may be also that Rochon and Chisholm will fight it out in the finals of the Patrick event.

One of the surprises of Saturday's play was the complete rout that McLeod's rink gave Evered of West Duluth. The rink from the western part of the city has shown steady and consistent play throughout the week, while McLeod on the other hand has been an in and outer. But the Duluth skip was in great form in his contest against Evered and simply romped away with the game.

The tables on another part of page show the standings complete to the beginning of play this morning.

FRANK BRYANT DEFEATS GILBERT

Frank Bryant, Head of the Lakes champion roller skater, writes from Negaunee, Mich., that he defeated Howard Gilbert, the Michigan champion, by a quarter of a lap, in a mile race. The rink was twenty-two laps to the mile and Frank gives the time as 2:48.

The little Duluth champion has about seven more races to skate in the Michigan district before returning to Duluth. If he does as well in the remaining races on his trip he will return to the Head of the Lakes with the reputation of being the best speed merchant in the Northwest.

"I had a hard man to beat," writes Bryant, "but they all look alike to me. I have a race at Escanaba and on Jan. 25, 26 and 27 will race Verie Nyberg of Ironwood at Ironwood. I am drawing well and expect to return to Duluth with a number of victories to my credit."

Both Fighters Ready.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—Johnny Coulon completed his final preparation for his fight with Harry Forbes at Kenosha, Wis., tonight. The bamtam champion finished off his last workout with Frankie White, his sparring partner. White took severe punishment with the big gloves. Coulon was fresh and un-marked when the bout concluded. Forbes, too, was busy today. Forbes in his last round of sparring forced Fred Whittingham and Ole Olson to extend themselves to the limit to keep pace with him. Forbes weighed 117 pounds after his workout. He said he was in the best condition of his life.

Baseball Option Expires.

Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 22.—The option of "Ducky" Holmes, formerly manager of the Lincoln "Antelopes" upon the Lincoln baseball club, expired last night. Holmes was unable to secure financial backing. With bankruptcy proceedings pending in court and the time limit for signing players expiring Feb. 1, the situation of the Lincoln Western league club is serious.

North Dakota "Dry" Meet.

Grand Forks, N. D., Jan. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—North Dakota prohibition forces will gather here Feb. 29 at the annual meeting of the State Enforcement league to lay plans for the year's activities, and to review the progress of the movement during the last year. The work of Supt. F. L. Watkins, who has been very actively engaged in league work during the year, will be considered.

$550 IN PRIZES FOR DULUTH SKI TOURNEY

Preparations are being made at the present time for the annual ski tournament of the Duluth Ski club. The club will hang up $550 in prizes that will be about equally divided between the professionals and amateurs. In addition to this donation upon the part of the officials of the club there will be a number of medals and trophies to be contested for.

There will be a $10 prize for the longest standing jump and also $10 for the longest twin jump. There will be the medal offered by the Duluth Ski club for amateurs and professionals and also the Martin Smith silver tankard which becomes the permanent property of the rider winning it three times. John Mangseth won it in 1908 and also in 1910. Ole Feiring won it in 1909, and last season is was captured by John Evenson. As Evenson and Feiring are out of it the present season, Mangseth stands a very good chance of becoming the permanent owner of the trophy.

The News Tribune loving cup for amateur riders will also be up for the annual competition. Like the Martin Smith trophy this also goes to the rider winning it three times. George Jacobson has won it twice, 1909 and last year. Magnus Erickson won it in 1908 and Arnold Olson captured it in 1910.

John Mangseth, professional, and Nels Floan, O. C. Grinden and Ward Flink, amateurs, are at the Chippewa Falls meet at the present time. John Mangseth and Floan will represent the club at the Stoughton meet, to be held Jan. 24, and Mangseth and Floan will also represent the Duluth club at the National meet at Chicago.

It is expected that with the completion of play in The Herald and Bagley events and the play to be completed in the two new events, curling will last well into the soft ice period.

Shelton vs. Dalwitz.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 22.—Jack Shelton and Charlie Dalwitz have signed articles to appear in the feature number of a 5-round pugilistic exhibition before the Irish-American club of this city on the night of Jan. 27. They will weigh in at 125 pounds.

Ski Tournament.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., Jan. 22.—Weather conditions were ideal here yesterday for a big crowd, but not for long jumps at the annual ski tournament of the North Star Ski association here. Anders Haugen of Chippewa Falls, and Sigurd Hanson of Fergus Falls, Minn., took first and second prizes, the former making a jump of 131 feet and Hanson 130. The feature of the event was the jumping of David Lind of Ishpeming, the armless ski jumper, who made 99 feet. Barney Riley of Virginia, fell in both jumps.

BURNS AWARDED THE DECISION

Johnny Daly Was Unable to Stand Up Against Opponent's Generalship.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 22.—Frank Burns of Jersey City was awarded the decision over Johnny Daly of Brooklyn after twenty rounds of hard fighting before the West Side Athletic club at Algiers, yesterday afternoon, winning the right to meet Johnny Coulon in the same ring, Feb. 18, for the bantamweight championship.

From the first round on, both fought at a fast pace. In the fourteenth round it seemed as if the bout would end, when Burns jabbed Daly in the stomach a dozen or more times with blows that would have knocked out a less hardy fighter. Daly was considerably weakened and appeared groggy at the end of the round.

They fought furiously in the first round, Burns bringing the blood from Daly's nose and mouth with straight lefts, the Brooklyn boy raising a large lump on Burns' right eye with a hard left swing.

Burns was best at infighting, working rights and lefts to the stomach and kidneys in the frequent clinches which Daly sought. Daly left the ring with a badly battered and swollen face and with several marks on his body.

Both men were under 117 pounds. Harry Stout was the referee and the decision was a popular one.

Johnny Coulon was signed up last week to meet the winner here Feb. 18 to defend the bantam championship.

FINAL GAME NOT PLAYED

McLeod Puts Neil Out of the Patrick Event.

What was to have been the feature of the morning games, did not take place.

This was to have been the final game in the St. Paul Jobbers' event between Rochon and Chisholm of Winnipeg. The game was on for the 9 o'clock draw. Whether the arms of Morpheus were enticing or whether the Canadians believed that this game should be reserved for Winnipeg, it is not known. But the game was not played.

Catterson of Duluth continued to progress in the International by winning his game from Tucker of Portage. The Duluth rink lay four stones in the sixth head and from there on had rather easy sailing.

Bradley won a close and hard fought game from Oldham in the Western Curling club event, laying in the last head with a pretty draw shot with Oldham laying two. Oldham had a guard up and the shot Bradley made was an extremely difficult one.

Heimbaugh of Superior won from Smith of Duluth seven up, and McLeod of Duluth kept up the fine work he has been showing by taking a game from Neil of Winnipeg.

With McLeod nine up in the tenth head and the game apparently cinched, the Peggers came back strong and laid seven stones in the next two heads, giving the Duluth crowd a genuine scare. McLeod's rink blew up in the latter part of the game and had the Canadians taken advantage of more opportunities McLeod would have been put out of the Patrick event.

There was only one forfeit this morning, Evered of West Duluth failing to appear for play in the International and forfeiting the game to Gates of Superior.

Sometime today Rochon and McLeod are expected to meet for the semi-finals in the Patrick event. Gates of Superior and McLeod of Duluth will play in the International, as will Rockwood of Portage and Dinham of Duluth and Heimbaugh of Superior and Oldham of Duluth.

COLLEGE PAPER IS SARCASTIC

Summer Baseball Roundly Scored By University of Chicago Again.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—"Nonsensical," "pitiable" and "irresponsible" are among the terms hurled at the defenders of summer baseball in the conference of colleges by alumni and officials of the University of Chicago in their last stand against the vacation sport, which is up for acceptance or rejection next week by the "Big Eight" professors.

The Midwayites attack the opponents of Chicago's anti-professional policy in straight-armed style in the January number of the University of Chicago magazine issued yesterday.

William Scott Bond, the Maroon member of the conference graduate committee, and long prominent in Midway affairs, contributes a special article on "Summer Baseball" to the publication scoring the proposal to sanction vacation ball and defending the present rules, while the magazine editorially condemns all attempts to introduce professionalism into the colleges. The combined statements are the warmest that have come from the Midway camp since the beginning of the amateur discussion among the Western schools.

Gophers Are Named.

Minnesota and Illinois are specifically mentioned by the Maroons as among the schools threatening the standards of the "Big Eight" and the position taken by those istitutions is declared to be against the interests of the conference. Referring to the resolution advanced by Prof. H. W. Johnston of Indiana to allow athletes to play baseball for pay in the summer or before coming to college, the editorial says:

"Why the eight colleges stand on this matter only their representatives know. The constantly repeated attempt to secure sympathy is nonsense. Such men are welcome to our colleges; they are as honest gentlemen as any, but if they are allowed to play on our teams either they make our teams professional or there is no such thing as professionalism and no real distinction between a professional and an amateur.

"But the charge is further made again and again that to refuse these professional players a place on our teams is merely to encourage deceit; they lie about their past and play anyway. Students prominent in opposition to that kind of lying may be cultivated as an opposition to any other kind, and as the students come to believe in it, it will tend rapidly to disappear. Better a few should lie knowing that they are violating an accepted principle than that the principles should be done away with."

Thinks Present Rule Good.

Under the present rule, Mr. Bond declares, a student should be allowed to play professional baseball, but that "there is no reason why he should retain his eligibility for intercollegiate competition.

"Most of us believe that a rule against summer baseball can be enforced if it is backed up by university spirit," he says. "It should be said too, that if professionalism is permitted in baseball, by all the arguments used it should be permitted in track athletics and football, and with this principle logically extended, should we not have an admirable condition of affairs? Le tus hope the universities of the conference upon consideration will realize their responsibility and refuse to take this step backward."

Shay Quits the Kaw.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 22.—"Danny" Shay, who managed the Kansas City team in the American association and quit the club last fall, is said to be negotiating for the management of a team in the Northwestern league.

agreed that cost of sheets would be used by the committee's experts so as not to make public actual operating costs of subsidiary companies, but since a subpoena duces tecum had issued for these records, the chairman declared he was no longer bound by the restriction.

Attorney Reed said he realized that the subpoena was issued to nullify the previous agreement.

No Minutes of Meetings.

President Farrell testified that since he had been president of the corporation there had been "occasional meetings of the presidents of the various companies, but there never have been any minutes kept of those meetings."

When Chairman Stanley asked for minutes of the Carnegie Steel company before it was absorbed, Mr. Farrell said he knew of "no records in existence concerning the Carnegie Steel company prior to 1901."

Mr. Stanley said the committee had knowledge of a volume containing Carnegie company records to 1901, and that it contained records after the absorption.

"Mr. Carnegie might have them," said President Farrell. "I certainly never saw them."

Mr. Stanley said he understood the records were in the vaults of the Steel corporation. He asked Mr. Farrell if he would have any objection to turning them over to the committee if they could be located.

Many Subpoenas Issued.

"If they can be found they will be turned over to the committee," replied Farrell, after several questions designed to ascertain what would be his attitude.

"Then the committee will issue a subpoena duces tecum for these records on A. C. Dinkey, president of the Carnegie Steel company," said the chairman.

A subpoena for records of the Illinois Steel company executive and finance committees also were issued on E. J. Buffington, president of the company.

Similar records of the Universal Portland Cement company, National Steel company, Lake Superior Consolidated Iron mines and other subsidiary corporations which were asked for, but not produced, resulted in the issuance of still other subpoenas.

Wants D., M. & N. Records.

President Farrell likewise failed to produce minutes and records of the Pittsburg Steamship company, the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad and other transportation companies, subsidiaries of the Steel corporation, and said the best he could do was to supply the names of the officers of the companies.

"Well," asked Chairman Stanley, "if the president of the Steel corporation directs that these records be turned over to the accountant of this committee, they will be, will they not?"

"I have no such function," said Mr. Farrell. "My duties are confined to the manufacturing and commercial departments."

"Well, who is the officer of this holding company who can say 'I will,' or 'I will not turn over these records?'" asked the chairman. "That's what I want to know."

Mr. Farrell again replied that officers of subsidiary companies had control of them. Mr. Stanley then ordered several additional subpoenas duces tecum. It was agreed that the books, when produced, be turned over in New York to Mr. McRae, the committee's expert.

Cannot Find Letter.

Mr. Farrell reported that despite a "diligent search," he was unable to find a letter which, as expert sales agent, he had written to William E. Corey, then president of the corporation, in 1903.

"I have recollection," he said, "that the letter contained suggestions about establishing a branch or subsidiary company to take care of the export business. As I recall, the letter also contained suggestions as to methods of conducting the foreign sales department. The idea was purely one of economy and efficiency."

Chicago, Jan. 22.—Iron enamelers who have been on strike here in the big plumbing supply concern, are about to be driven back to work by their wives, according to a report made to the Chicago Federation of Labor last night by Miss Emma Steghagen, secretary of the Women's Trade Union league.

Miss Steghagen said the wives of the strikers must be converted if the strike is to be won.

"These women do not understand their husbands being idle," said Miss Steghagen. "There is urgent need of speakers to address these women in Bohemian and Polish. They complain that idleness does not pay grocery bills and they are urging their husbands to return to work."

The Demand for Flax Is Brisk—Offers Large and Movement Good.

Duluth Board of Trade, Jan. 22.—A large increase in the receipts of wheat from the country on the principal markets of the United States on account of the comparatively mild weather of the last few days weakened wheat today, and most of the closes showed a slight decline from the closing figures of Saturday. Duluth May wheat closed a quarter to an eighth down. Durum, rye and barley closed unchanged. Cash wheat was at the May price. Oats fell off an eighth. Duluth January and May flax rose a quarter of a cent.

Wheat on the Duluth Board of Trade was a little inclined to be bearish during the morning. It closed Saturday at $1.05⅛, opened this morning at $1.05 asked, and by noon was selling at the same figure, after fluctuating indecisively during the morning. At noon the Minneapolis wheat market was down a little and Chicago and Winnipeg were unchanged.

The North American markets were influenced by many factors, which did not pull together, and the net result was that these almost neutralized each other during the morning. Cables that were received from European markets were some bearish and others bullish, but there were no great changes. Weather reports from Argentina were favorable to the wheat crop, as it was stated that the atmosphere was hot and dry. Another report from Argentina stated that the great railroad strike would in all likelihood be over very soon. This morning, however, the Buenos Ayres market wired that wheat had opened 1½c higher. The shipments from Russia and the Danube country to Great Britain were light and the wheat received from Argentina was of a very unsatisfactory quality. There was an improved demand from the millers. There were free offers, however, from Australia. The net result of all these factors on the Liverpool market was that wheat closed unchanged to ¼@½d higher.

The primary wheat receipts of America were enormous, going away beyond those of a week ago and exceeding those of a year ago. This was very bearish, in view of the large American visible supply, and vast Canadian crop. It was announced, however, that the American visible supply had decreased more than 2,250,000 bu during the past week. At noon today the price of wheat did not vary greatly from Saturday's close in any of the North American markets.

Flax Trade Is Brisk.

Offers of flaxseed on the Duluth market were very liberal this morning. Farmers have been doing a great deal of hauling to the country elevators, owing to the comparative mildness of the weather. Today there were 29 cars on the track for inspection. There was a brisk demand, however, and the movement of the seed was large. The demand was so aggressive that January and May flax were ¼c over Saturday's close at noon today. Thus there was an advance in spite of liberal offers and rather bearish news from Argentina, where the weather was reported to be warm and dry. Argentine flax, however, is still so high, that it cannot compete with Duluth flax in any of the American markets. Many crushers are inclined to give up the idea of seeing the Argentine flaxseed beat down the price of American during the late winter and early spring.

The Minneapolis Commercial West says:

"In the Minneapolis market the cash wheat trade is rather slow, with No. 1 northern selling at the May price. Flour trade is poor and wheat receipts are keeping up above expectations, though just at present the market is getting some wheat that was tied up along the different roads during the recent phenomenally cold spell. A new factor, and one of considerable interest and some uncertainty, has entered the market situation in the form of reduced freight rates from Saskatchewan, which enables shippers to bring wheat to the Minneapolis and Duluth markets at the same freight rate as to Fort Williams. This may result in some Canadian wheat being ground in bond, but it is improbable that any large amount will be so ground, because of the poor export trade. However, the cheaper freight rates from Saskatchewan may result in a considerable amount of low grade wheat being shipped to Minneapolis and the duty paid, because there is a limited market in any other direction for such wheat. Yet this statement should be qualified by saying that there is a limited storage capacity where damp low grade Canadian wheat can be taken care of and handled in such a way that it can be milled. Minneapolis has facilities for cleaning and drying the kind of wheat in Western Canada that is just now seeking a market at any price that it will bring, therefore several million bushels of such wheat may find its way here. Yet even in case it does, this will hardly prove much of a market factor except as it enters into competition with low grade wheat from this side of the line."

"The linseed oil trade just at present is very dull, and as a result of the strong combination of the new flax crop in Argentina and the abnormally high prices in the United States. Prices in this country are so much above any ordinary level that the Agentine crop is bound to play a very important part in fixing the price basis for the coming year. In the present time the local market is weak, comparatively, and is lower than Argentine flax can be bought for, delivered in New York. The oil trade is looking for much lower prices ultimately, and as a result, stocks of oil, and of paint also, in every position are very low; and owing to the severe winter weather for weeks past, consumption of oil and paint has been so small that dealers have been enabled to keep out of the oil market except in a small way. Yet, the fact that stocks of oil and paint are very small and that the American visible are improving throughout the country, indicating a larger consumption of paint and oil in the near future, will doubtless result in a very active oil market a little later on. Some of the local crushers believe that the movement of flaxseed in the Northwest is about over and that from now on it will decrease to a very small volume. There is some room for the probability of Canadian flaxseed coming to this market, but local crushers do not think that this will be a factor of importance. Receipts of flaxseed in the Minneapolis market have now amounted to almost 1,000,000 bu or more than in the same time a year ago. The amount so far received has been 5,260,000 bu compared with 4,290,000 bu a year ago.

"The linseed exports from Argentina during 1911 are estimated by an Argentine journal at about 450,000 tons, although drouths caused a loss of about one-third of the crop. The linseed fields are said to be in excellent condition, and the area under cultivation has increased. Indications point to the exportable surplus being possibly raised to 1,320,000 tons in 1912 under continuing favorable conditions."

Donald Morrison, president of the Winnipeg Grain exchange, formerly a grain dealer of Duluth, was a visitor at the Duluth Board of Trade today. "I understand that trading is a little dull in Duluth," said Mr. Morrison. "In Western Canada, however, it is very brisk. We have on hand an enormous wheat crop, by far the largest in all our history, and there is an excellent foreign demand for it. We need only get the cars to have it move. The want of cars is the worst handicap under which we are laboring. I believe the total wheat crop of the three Western provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta will aggregate 175,000,000 bu. We never before exceeded 125,000,000 bu to any considerable extent. Our flax crop is likewise a record-breaker. This is grown mostly in Saskatchewan. I believe the crop, by the time it is all harvested, will amount to 6,000,000 bu. A great deal of the flax is still under the snow and the total amount harvested will depend largely on the spring weather. There is a very good price for flax and Canadian farmers are beginning to realize it and their flax acreage is fast increasing.

"Winnipeg wholesalers complain that collections are not what they should be. Country retailers give the excuse that farmers are slow in paying them, because the farmers cannot turn their wheat into money, owing to the want of cars. But I believe this situation will soon adjust itself."

Plata offers are firmly held with the quality of arrivals at the ports in Argentina of unsatisfactory quality and there is an improved demand from millers here with the continent, bidding for cargoes on passage. CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Is Bearish on Hot, Dry Weather in Argentina.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—Hot, dry weather in Argentina favoring the late harvest and the crop movement had a bearish effect today on the price of wheat. World shipments, too, were larger, and there were reports of free offerings from Australia. Besides, milder temperatures leading to liberal receipts at the points northwest of Chicago tended to make the bulls discouraged. On the other hand, the fact that a material reduction in the United States visible supply total was looked for, operated as a steadying influence. Initial transactions were ⅛c to ¼@⅜c lower. May started at $1.00½@1.00⅝, a loss of ⅛o to ½@⅝c, touched $1.00¾ and reacted to $1.00½@1.00⅝.

Lively selling on the part of commission houses eased off the market for corn. Buyers were quickly filled up. May opened ⅛c down to a like amount higher at 66⅜@66⅝c, and declined to 66¼c.

The market rallied a little when wheat became firm, but weakened on account of a big gain in primary receipts. Closing figures nevertheless were steady with May ⅜c net lower at 66⅛c.

Oats showed a rather stubborn undertone, but suffered some depression from numerous resting orders to unload at any advance. May started a sixteenth off to a shade advance at 49⅜@49⅝c to 49⅝@50c, and held around 49⅞c.

A big run of hogs sent packers to the bear side of provisions. First sales were a shade to 10c lower, with May delivery $16.00@16.05 for pork, $9.30@9.32½ for lard and $8.60 for ribs.

The Boston stock quotations furnished by Gay & Sturgis, 326 West Superior street.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 22.—The general market was fairly active today and at different periods of the session could have been designated as strong or weak depending upon the time one looked at it. The net result was nothing and transactions were almost entirely professional.

Locally there was little change. During this waiting period one is constantly hearing of betterment in one department or the other of general business, all of which will have its due effect later on when market leaders are ready to have it.

Cotton Market.

New York, Jan. 22.—The cotton market opened steady at a decline of 3 to 7 points. Offerings were well taken on a scale down by foreign buying, trade support and covering and after showing a net loss of 9 to 11 points on active positions the market became nervous and irregular. Reports from New England mill circles were more optimistic as to the prospects for a settlement of the strike, and reviews of the cotton goods reported numerous if small orders from retailers, but the selling at times was aggressive.

Spot closed steady; middling upland, 9.50; middling gulf, 9.75. Sales, 1,520 bales.

STRENGTH IN HILL STOCKS

United States Steel Is Under Selling Pressure and Declines.

New York, Jan. 22.—A majority of the active stocks opened lower today. Union Pacific, Amalgamated Copper and General Electric, which lost ⅝, were heaviest. American Smelting and Lehigh Valley receded ½. Some of the less prominent issues made gains. American Steel Foundries rose a point and Denver & Rio Grande preferred ¾.

Reading was marked up in a brisk demand to 159¼, but the movement had only a temporary steadying effect on the market. Traders contended that selling orders were being executed elsewhere under cover of the movement in Reading and these offerings soon became abundant enough to weaken the whole list materially. Union Pacific and Lehigh Valley declined to a point under Saturday's closing and various other stocks lost large fractions. Reading reacted a point.

The combined effects of realizing sales and of lower prices of Americans in London were sufficient, during the morning trading, to force stocks to a lower level. Union Pacific again was under noticeable pressure, and Lehigh Valley showed the effects of realizing after its extended rise.

The undertone became better after 11 o'clock and activity increased as prices advanced. There was an active speculative movement in the fertilizer stocks. Reading and the Hill stocks showed strength, but the remainder of the active stocks ruled generally slightly below last week's closing figures.

Prices weakened and the lowest figures of the morning were registered in the speculative favorites. United States Steel gave way a point and declines of a similar amount were made in some other issues. Reading broke occasionally below Saturday's closing and there was a decided reaction also in some of the earlier strong stocks, including the Hill group and the local tractions.

The market closed heavy. Trading became livelier in the final half hour when large purchasing orders for the Hill stocks flowed into the market. Great Northern preferred was most in demand and jumped 2⅝ to 132½. Northern Pacific rose 1⅜. Stocks were sold again in the last few minutes, United States Steel declining to 66⅜.

NO CHANGE IN CLUB'S PLAN

Forgan Dinner Will Be Held as Originally Intended.

Fire Has Not Impaired Activity of Commercial Club.

The Commercial club rooms are slightly disfigured as a result of the fire last night, but the activity of the club has not been in the least impaired. Lunch was served as usual today and the work of the office force went on without suspension.

The fire has not necessitated any change in the plans for the Forgan dinner tomorrow evening. The dinner will be served at 6:45 in the club dining room, as originally intended, and the address will be given at about 8 o'clock in the assembly room.

Mr. Forgan is coming to Duluth under the auspices of the National Citizens' league to explain the present monetary reform now being considered.

Mr. Forgan is an authority on the subject and his address is one that will interest every businessman. Many have already signified their intention of attending the dinner and the list will be greatly increased today and tomorrow.

The Minnesota Citizens' league is affiliated with the national organization. F. A. Patrick of Duluth is vice president for this section of the state and is deeply interested in its cause.

The Citizens' league was organized, not in support of any individual's plan, but to bring about reforms which businessmen generally believed to be necessary. It has outlined the changes that should be effected and hopes to bring them about, either by one of the bills already suggested, or by an entirely new bill to be given its approval.

LA FOLLETTE TO TALK IN NEW YORK

Gifford Pinchot Will Preside at Big Campaign Meeting.

Washington, Jan. 22.—The campaign of the Progressive Republicans in New York will be opened tonight by a meeting in Carnegie hall, at which Gifford Pinchot of this city will preside. Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin, who was the first of the Progressives to announce his candidacy for the Republican nomination for president, is to be the chief speaker.

Senator La Follette has planned a campaign trip to the Pacific coast, but his plans for touring the East have not been announced. The New York meeting tonight will be the first which Mr. La Follette has addressed since his campaign opened. He is expected to deal in his speech tonight with the trust and money questions. He has not commented thus far on the candidacy of Senator Cummins of Iowa, another Progressive.

GIANT POWDER IS FATAL TOY

California Boy Drops Glass of Explosive and Is Killed.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 22.—William A. Louis, 11 years old, son of John Louis, a rancher, met death today while playing with a glass of giant powder at his home near Lankershim. The boy dropped the jar and it exploded. Pieces of glass were driven into his head, and when the body was found it almost had been cremated, the burning powder having set fire to his clothing.

ATTORNEY GOT DATES MIXED

Because the attorney for Marie H. Thorsen, who is suing the Duluth Street Railway company for $2,500 damages, got mixed in his dates when he made out his complaint against the traction company, the case was continued when brought up for trial in Judge Dibell's court this morning.

Through a mistake, Miss Thorsen's birthday was given as the date of the alleged accident. The complaint will have to be amended before the trial can proceed. She claims that she was totally disabled as a result of an accident which she received while alighting from a street car at Eighteenth street and Tower avenue, Superior, last year, and asks the court to recompense her.

KAPLAN TO DEBATE.

Duluthian to Discuss "Socialism" With Cloquet Attorney.

Cloquet, Minn., Jan. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. H. W. Mixsell will entertain the Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian church at her home next Friday. The program calls for these addresses: Mrs. W. S Olson, on "The Lure of America;" Mrs. H. W. Mixsell, devotional; Mrs. W. K. McNair, "Aliens or Americans," chapter VII.

Tuesday evening, in the Nelson opera house, Attorney F. T. Persinger of Cloquet and Morris Kaplan of Duluth will debate on Socialism, the definite question for discussion being, "Resolved, That Socialism is the best solution for present day ills," Kaplan holding for Socialism and Persinger against. Both men are said to be well posted on their subject, and there is considerable interest manifested as the debate has been scheduled for several weeks. Mayor William Kelly will preside.

The Cloquet fire department has purchased from the W. S. Nott company of Minneapolis the latest type of chemical fire engine, which adds greatly to the competency of the fire equipment.

The dramatic reading given Saturday night in the Nelson opera house by Miss Cora Mel Patten was attended by a packed house. It was given under the auspices of the ladies of the Catholic church, and the proceeds go toward the building of the new church. It was a splendid success financially aside from the fact that Miss Patten held her audience for an hour and a half by her reading of the "Blue Bird."

Soo Brakeman Nearly Killed.

Enderlin, N. D., Jan. 22.—(Special to The Herald.)—George Luno, a brakeman on the Soo, was nearly killed at Fairmount when he was thrown from the top of a freight train, falling between two cars to be rolled along over the ties for several car lengths by the brake beams, hanging within a few inches of the ground. Both legs were broken in several places, and his body is a mass of bruises from head to foot.

CRIMINAL CLAUSE OF SHERMAN LAW IS NOT IMPAIRED, SAYS COURT

Bathtub Trust Motion to Quash Indictments Is Denied.

Judge Angell Says Supreme Court Did Not Throw Out Penalty.

Opinion Is Handed Down in the Trial at Detroit.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 23. — United States Judge A. C. Angell today denied the motion made in behalf of the Colwell Lead company of New York to quash the indictments in the government's criminal cases against the "bathtub" trust. This reinstates the case, which is scheduled to come up for trial here Tuesday, Jan. 30. There are about two score defendants.

The motion to quash was based on a claim that the supreme court's decision in the oil and tobacco cases negatived the criminal clause in the anti-trust act.

Referring in his opinion to the Standard Oil decision, Judge Angell said:

"I see no reason to suppose that in delivering its opinion in the Standard Oil case, the supreme court of the United States intended to render impossible criminal prosecutions under the Sherman act, and I am unable to conclude that it did render them impossible.

"The supreme court held that the words contract, etc., in restraint of trade, were not to be interpreted with

CHICAGO GRAIN MAN IS SUICIDE

Fred H. Weaver Found Dead in Park at Evanston.

Chicago, Jan. 23.—Fred H. Weaver, an independent trader on the board of trade, committed suicide by shooting himself in the head while in a park in Evanston some time last night. His body was found early today. Friends say he has been under a nervous strain.

FOUR NEGROES ARE MOB'S PREY

Hamilton, Ga. Jan. 23.—A mob of 100 men last night broke into the Harris county jail here, overpowered Jailer E. M. Robinson, and took four negroes, three men and one woman, out and hanged them to trees one mile from town. The bodies were riddled with bullets. It is estimated that 300 shots were fired.

The negroes were arrested yesterday charged with the murder of Norman Hadley, a farmer. Hadley was killed Sunday night as he sat in his home, a shot being fired from the outside. The blacks were tenants on the Hadley farm. They were Belle Hathaway, John Moore, Eugene Haming and "Dusty" Crutchfield.

Sheriff Hadley, uncle of the murdered man, did not believe there would be a lynching, and was out of the city. Public sentiment, however, had been crystallizing all day and by nightfall there were a great many country people in Hamilton.

The negroes protested their innocence to the last. No motive for the killing of Hadley, who was very popular, is known.

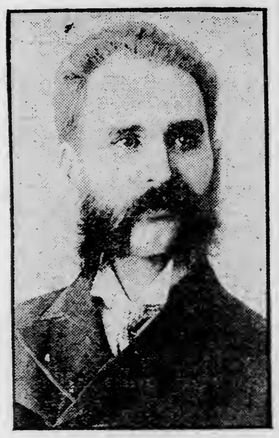

WHITE EARTH PROBE BEGUN

Congressional Sub-Committee Opens Sessions in Minneapolis.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 23.—For the purpose of investigating charges that Indians of the White Earth reservation have been defrauded of their lands, a congressional sub-committee is examining witnesses here today. The committee is composed of Congressmen James M. Graham of Illinois, Henry George of New York and F. W. Mondell of Wyoming. The latter is unable to attend the earlier meetings but probably will be here later.

Witnesses are here from various parts of Minnesota and Wisconsin, and it is probable that the investigation will continue for several weeks. Agents of the department of justice have been at work on the case, and according to M. C. Burch, who has had the inquiry in charge, evidence will be presented which will involve government agents, real estate agents and lumber companies in a network of fraud.

CLARK AND FOLK FIGHT

Missouri Congressmen Say There Is No Certainty About Result.

Difficulty of Constitutionally Changing Inauguration Day Is Appalling.

(By Willis J. Abbot.)

Washington, Jan. 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Feb. 20 may be a great, an almost determinative day in the war for the next Democratic presidential nomination. Then is to be held at Joplin, Mo., the convention which will declare whether Champ Clark or Joe Folk shall have the delegation to the national convention. Both have agreed to abide by the result of that convention. Indeed there was nothing else for either to do. But in the statements issued by the two men there crops out just a hint of the personal feeling the long contest has developed. "I am glad Governor Folk promises not to bolt," says the speaker. The innuendo seems hardly fair in view of the fact that the Folk candidacy is already based on the indorsement of a state convention, and the refusal of the Clark forces to recognize that indorsement savors at least of irregularity. Governor Folk in turn

Chicago, Jan. 23.—The opening of the trial of the four slayers of Mrs. Hattie Kaufman, the commission merchant's wife, was set for today before Judge George Kersten.

The defendants have all confessed their guilt. They are George Rabeneau, John Stacey, Fred Boneham and William Channell.

Mrs. Kaufman was returning to her home in company with her husband from a theater, a few nights before Christmas, when the men riding in an automobile stopped and, three of them getting out of the machine, ordered Kaufman and his wife to put up their hands. Mrs. Kaufman screamed, whereupon Rabeneau shot her dead.

Assistant State's Attorney John E. Northup has said he will demand the death penalty for the four.

The trial was continued until tomorrow morning by Judge Kersten, when a date will be set for the hearing. The court appointed counsel for Rabeneau and Stacey, who said they had not employed an attorney.

Smith's Report Approved By Committee Investigating Big Business.

Publication of Statement Will Not Halt House Investigation.

Farrell Continues Testimony as to Affairs of the Corporation.

Washington, Jan. 23.—The suggestion made by Commissioner of Corporations Herbert Knox Smith in his report on the United States Steel corporation that the corporation and its railroad subsidaries should be segregated, coincides with the view of Chairman Stanley and other members of the house Steel trust investigating committee.

The committee for many months has been conducting a thorough investigation into the Steel corporation's railroad holdings, and the method of operating their transportation facilities. An exposition of its discoveries is to be made within a few weeks.

Will Summon Shippers.

Scores of witnesses still are to be summoned, many of them independent shippers and manufacturers, to show that by controlling ore transportation facilities from the Great Lakes to Pittsburg and in the Birmingham district the corporation holds tremendous advantage over competitors.

It is understood that Premier Yuan Shi Kai has agreed to fight for the throne. It is believed, however, that he will await an attack by the rebels.

WANT APPEAL IN KIDNAPING CASE

Indianapolis Labor Unions Protest Freeing of W. J. Burns.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 23.—Attorney General Thomas Honan of Indiana and Prosecutor Frank P. Baker of Marion county are to be asked by the Central Labor union of this city, to assist in appealing the habeas corpus suit by which Detective William J. Burns was released on the kidnaping indictment returned by the Marion county grand jury, by Federal Judge A. B. Anderson, to the Indiana supreme court.

Resolutions condemning Judge Anderson's action and declaring it "sets at naught the laws of the state of Indiana and orders and decrees of the criminal court of Marion county to maintain its sovereignty and punish criminals within her borders, and institutes a reign of anarchy instead of a rule of law," and asking that congress inquire into Judge Anderson's action with a view to removing him, were offered at the meeting of the labor body last night and referred to the resolutions committee.

The resolution further sets out that the federal judge obtained by force, documents regarding the alleged dynamite conspiracy then in the hands of the criminal court of the county.

CHILDREN'S POULTRY SHOW IS POSTPONED

The children's poultry show, which was to have begun at the boys' department Y. M. C. A., Thursday of this week, has been postponed until after the exhibition of the Duluth Poultry association, which opens on next Monday and continues one week.

It was found that it would be hard work to put on the chickens owned by the youngsters before the big show because of the lack of crates.

After the exhibition of the Duluth Poultry association the children will be loaned some of the crates used by the exhibitors at the big show.

Norman D. McLeod, secretary of the boys' department and in general charge of the children's poultry show, says that when the exhibition is finally put on, many will be surprised at the number of fancy chickens owned by Duluth children.

Last spring the Duluth Commercial club, in an effort to interest children in poultry, gave away a large number of young chicks. The children became greatly interested and in addition to the chicks received from the Commercial club, many of them purchased more. That the children have a great colletion of fancy fowls will be proven when the show is put on.

A feature of the show will be a guessing contest in which every boy in the city is eligible to enter. For the boy who guesses correctly the breed of the several kinds of birds shown, a prize will be offered.

LAKE AND RAIL CASE OF VITAL IMPORTANCE TO CITY

Greatest Battle in Fight for Industrial Justice, Due Wednesday.

City Struggling to Secure Advantages Nature Gave It.

Is Duluth always to remain a way station, or is it to have the advantages of its location at the point where rail and water meet?

That is the question involved in what is known as the lake and rail case, which will be heard in the federal court room tomorrow by Commissioner Harlan of the interstate commerce commission.

The railroad rate makers decreed that Duluth should be a way station, and they have moved the commercial head of the lakes inland to Minneapolis and St. Paul.

The traffic commission of the Duluth Commercial club believes that Duluth should have the commercial advantages nature intended and has asked the interstate commerce commission to move the commercial head of the lakes back to its geographical position.

The hearing tomorrow is the greatest battle in Duluth's struggle for justice in the matter of freight rates. The traffic commission of the Commercial club intends to show how much the rate-makers have contributed to the commercial growth of Minneapolis and St. Paul, while putting Duluth under hopeless handicaps, where it should have had advantages due to its location.

The testimony is expected to show that Duluth has never enjoyed the advantages of its position; that from the first the railroads built up a rate structure that operated to remove the advantages of Duluth's position 150 miles inland to the Twin Cities, leaving Duluth in the position of a way station instead of the meeting point of rail and water transportation lines.

Lake and Rail Rates.

The case involves the correction of the most flagrant abuses to which Duluth has been subjected. On its outcome depends the readjustment of the entire structure of lake and rail rates, which affect an immense territory that should share in the benefits of water transportation competition with railroad lines.

The complaint of the Duluth Commercial club charges that rail and lake rates from Eastern points to Lake Michigan points are too low compared with Duluth rates and are preferential of the Lake Michigan ports; that rates to Duluth from the East are too high in and of themselves; that rates to St. Paul and Minneapolis via Duluth or Lake Michigan ports are discrimatory against Duluth and preferential to the Twin Cities; that the free storage of freight in transit at Duluth and Lake Michigan ports, with the privilege of changing destination is a discrimination in violation of the interstate law.

The defendants, numbering over 100, include the Eastern trunk lines, the lines in Central Freight association territory, the Western lines and the Lake lines, taking in all railroads in the territory named and all boat lines operating in the package freight business.

The abuses complained of are of long standing, but it is only since the organization of the traffic commission of the Commercial club that any determined steps were taken to obtain their correction. The first step was an amicable one, a memorial being submitted to the Eastern trunk lines by the Commercial club commission, asking that a readjustment in rates be made so as to restore to Duluth the advantages taken away by the existing rates. The memorial brought no action, so the complaint was filed with the interstate commerce commission.

The case is of such importance that is was not entrusted to an examiner, Commissioner Harlan himself coming to hear the testimony. It is expected that a great array of legal talent will appear on behalf of the railroads and communities interested. The case is the second of great importance heard here recently, Commissioner Clark having come to Duluth to take testimny in the grain rate case. Involving rates on grain from South Dakota and Southern Minnesota points to Duluth.

WILL "MUG" CHAUFFEURS

Every Duluth Driver Must Leave Picture at Police Station.

Duluth chauffeurs will sit down with paper and pencil and dissect automobiles for the benefit of the state examining board, at the city hall on Feb. 1.

The state wants to know whether the men who operate machines are competent. Those who cannot answer questions as to the working parts and the traffic rules will not be given a license.

There are perhaps 100 men in Duluth earning their living by driving automobiles. They have never before been required to pass an examination, and they resent taking the one about to take place.

It costs $3 to take the examination and $2 each year thereafter for a license to operate a motor vehicle. In addition, they must wear a tag on their cap and carry a photograph in their pocket to be used for purposes of identification in time of accident.

The Duluth men are up in arms against the movement. They claim that everything about it is unfair. They say that to wear a tag on their hat or cap is the "positive limit," and many state that they will refuse to do it.

They also object to the examination, claiming that if examinations are required to operate motor vehicles, the many owners who operate their own cars should take it also. It is stated that many of the owners know very little about automobiles, their operation, or the traffic rules, and that the majority of mistakes made in city driving are by the owners themselves. "What more right has an owner to drive a car without being examined than a man who is earning his living in this way?" asked a chauffeur this morning.

In addition to the expense of the examination, the annual cost of the license, the wearing of a tag on the hat or cap, the chauffeur is required to deposit with the examining board a photograph of himself. This photograph will be deposited with the chief of police of the city in which the driver is employed.

Must be "Mugged."

The chauffeur is also required to carry a picture of himself for purposes of identification in case of accident.

"Have you been mugged yet?" asked one driver of another in a local garage this morning.

"No, but I hope to have my face with the other crooks at the police station," answered the other.

"It is an outrage," said another. "We have to be styled crooks whether we have done anything or not. Other people are not mugged until after they have committed a crime. Any one would think that we are engaged in a rather shady profession. It is just another one of those laws that work a hardship on the class of people who have to work for a living."

Many of the Duluth drivers claim that the owner of the car should be the sole judge as to whether the man hired is competent or not. "The state wouldn't think of making a man's bookkeeper pass an examination as to his fitness for the position before he would be allowed to hire him," said another disgusted mechanic. "I'm not afraid of the examination but I don't think it fair to let some go and hold back the others. Why not make every owner take an exam. I do resent the fee, the rogues gallery stunt and the labeling of one's self, however," he said.

Some of the Duluth drivers say they have a form in which they can beat the state.

One driver claims that he has secured the permission of the owner of the car to take the license out in his own name, pay the taxes, the insurance and pose as the owner of the machine.

Anyway, in spite of the talk, about 100 men will be examined in motor construction, traffic rules and general automobile operation before the state board at the city hall on Feb. 1.

WHERE MEN GET CURED

Of Bad Heart, Stagnant Circulation, Varicose Veins and Other Diseases.

There are thousands of men walking around who are a picture of disease. They are all fagged out and dragged down by it. The cause of it may be a bad stomach, kidney trouble, or some secret suffering. Others again, are the very picture of health, but they suffer nevertheless, from imperfect circulation of which knotted veins are the result.

The veins are dark blue, because of the poisonous waste matter, while the arteries are bright red. When this vein-blood, heavy with poisons, again reaches the lungs, it exchanges its carbon-dioxide, a heavy and very poisonous gas, for pure oxygen and returns again through the arteries. When some part of the body is injured by sickness, excesses, kicks, blows, or overwork, the veins are injured and retard free circulation. The poison-loaded blood, instead of returning to the lungs for a fresh supply of life-giving oxygen, piles up against the injured part, poisoning the walls of the veins, swells and dilates them, hardens them and sometimes expands them to an enormous extent. In men the legs and other vital parts are usually attacked by this self-generated poison, which after first poisoning the veins, attacks the vital parts themselves, causing weakness and wasting. Walking becomes difficult, hard knots form which open easily and form "VARICOSE ULCERS," the patient is easily exhausted, becomes nervous and depressed, his memory weakens and all ambition leaves him. Later the poison will take an upward course, and, entering the pelvis, will poison the pelvis nerves. Stagnant circulation will result in nervous diseases, in diseases of the rectum, prostate and associated parts, and is not strictly local, because nerves, blood vessels and lymphatics are all connected. What affects one affects all, just as a broken wire or short circuit in any part of a serially connected electric system has an effect on any and every part of that system. We found in former years that cutting and dissecting out these veins did not cure the patient, the deep-seated nerves that control the functions and nutritions of the organs still caused trouble and more pain than before. We therefore invented the "Dissolving Process," a method as superior to the old way of cutting and bloodletting as the modern electric light is superior to the tallow candle of bygone ages. We can explain the practical application of the dissolving process to any man if he will give us the necessary statements about his case, although we would rather examine and demonstrate to him than talk or write about it. The specialists who can guarantee to cure this and all other disease without cutting, without chloroform or any of the ordinary old-style hospital methods, will surely be wanted by any man who is suffering from it. That is what we can do, and guarantee to do! Consultation free from 9 a. m. to 8 p. m. Sundays 10 to 1.

G. N. TO TAKE BURLINGTON

Important Railroad Changes Expected in New York.

New York, Jan. 23.—A number of important changes in the Western railway field are under way according to plans outlined in the Tribune today.

The changes involve the acquisition by the Burlington road and the Rock Island of part of the holdings of the Missouri Pacific in the Denver & Rio Grande, which controls the Western Pacific. The negotiations are also believed to include the purchase by the Great Northern of the Northern Pacific's equity in the Burlington.

The advantage to be gained by the Burlington and the Rock Island in the former deal would be that of a shorter route to the Pacific coast, via the Denver & Rio Grande and the Western Pacific, both the former roads connecting with the Denver & Rio Grande at Denver.

The purchase by the two roads of a part of the bonds of the Western Pacific, guaranteed by the Denver & Rio Grande and which have been, it is said, a heavy drain on the latter road's finances, may be included in the deal, the consummation of which will depend, it is asserted, on the attitude of George J. Gould, the dominant interest in Missouri Pacific.

The reported decision of the Northern Pacific to dispose of its interest in the Burlington is predicated on a recently announced agreement between the Northern Pacific and the Chicago & Northwestern by which the former is given a direct connection into Chicago, thus enabling it to give up its connection with that city over the Burlington.

PLAN TO SEGREGATE STEEL TRUST ROADS GOOD, SAYS STANLEY

change the committee's determination to see the original cost sheets of the United States Steel corporation.

Chairman Stanley made this announcement today when President Farrell appeared to resume testifying. Although he praised Commissioner Smith's report, Mr. Stanley said the source of the statistics is not known.

Asked About the Bonus.

President Farrell when asked about the distribution of the Steel corporation's bonus fund to employes, said that last year this fund amounted to $1,400,000.

"Who benefits by it? The laborer or salaried man?" asked Chairman Stanley.

"Both; foremen and skilled men largely," was the reply. "We have at the entrance of the mill a question box wherein men may give suggestions. Beneficial suggestions are rewarded. It is reward for merit. It gives an opportunity for men to develop ideas. There are a great many people in this world who carry ideas aroounds in their heads and never get an opportunity to develop them or get any benefit from them.

"The bonus goes to everybody who deserves it," said Mr. Farrell. "For instance, a brakeman recently invented a dumping machine for which he was given a bonus."

Subscriptions for Stock.

Attorney Reed, for the corporation, explaining the method under which employes subscribe for stock, said that 5,923 men, receiving less than $800 a year in 1910, subscribed for one share each and men earning between $800 and $2,500 took a total of 14,122 shares, while the high salaried employes took 4,535 shares.

"A bonus dividend of $5 a share is credited to the employe-purchaser until the stock is all paid for. Then it is turned over to him."

"Suppose such a stockholder is discharged for cause," asked the chairman, "what becomes of the accumulated bonus dividend?"

"It is forfeited to the fund, as in the case of an employe who buys stock and drops out on his payment," said Mr. Reed. "The money turned in in this way is divided pro rata among the remaining employe-stockholders."

Denies It Is Monopoly.

Emphatic denial that the United States Steel corporation is a "monopoly," as charged, was made to the committee by President Farrell. He declared that it was not the purpose of the corporation to 'gobble the export trade of the world at any cost."

"A monopoly of the iron and steel trade in this country," said Mr. Farrell, "is neither possible nor desirable. There is no monopoly or anything approaching it. Since the Steel corporation was organized there has been much new capital attracted to the industry, and many furnaces have been built which are not controlled by the Steel corporation.

"It is charged that the corporation is seeking to drive other countries out of the export market. That is far from the truth.

"The British steel industry must export 40 per cent of the product a year in order to live. Germany must export 50 per cent and Belgium 80 per cent. The product of the United States is greater than England, Germany and Belgium combined, and the domestic consumption is so much greater that export trade is not so vital.

Exports of Steel.

"It is true that before the Steel corporation was formed the steel exports of the United States amounted to about 200,000 tons a year. Last year the exports of the United States Steel corporation were about 2,000,000 tons, valued at $69,000,000, as against Germany's 5,000,000 tons.

"It is not the aim of the Steel corporation to grab the export trade of the world. We are conducting our export business on a safe and sane basis, without any jealousy toward other nations to whom export trade is of such vital importance.'

Mr. Farrell said the basic price on rails sold to foreign countries was lower than the domestic rate, but that the company sought to get as high prices as possible. He gave the committee the tariffs on steel rails in various countries as follows:

Germany, $6.03 a ton; France, $17.70; Russia, $28.60; Spain and Italy, $11.76; Austria-Hungary, $12.32, and Canada, $7.84.

The duty on rails in the United States under the Payne-Aldrich law is $3.92.

The Steel corporation, Mr. Farrell declared, did a much greater export business in other steel products than in rails, owing to the excessive rail tariffs.

Subpoenas for Schiller.

To obtain records of the various subsidiary companies of the Steel corporation, the committee ordered additional subpoenas served on W. B. Schiller, president of the Lake Terminal railway, for statistics on freight shipped over that road, a subsidiary of the Steel corporation.

Says Steel Rails Are Unsafe.

Steel rails are unsafe was one surprising statement by Mr. Farrell. He said that rails now used are both too light and too brittle for the traffic. They are "too near the danger mark," he said, and gave economics as the reason for the use of the too-frail rails.

President Farrell asserted that the "Gary dinners" at which steel manufacturers assembled to discuss the trade had no influence in fixing or maintaining prices, though he thought they had an influence on maintaining the stability of the market.

"I don't believe," he said, "that the prices of any two steel manufacturers in the United States today are alike."

"Why has Judge Gary said that the day of competition has passed?" asked Representative Beal.

"I think he referred to destructive competition," said Mr. Farrell. "As a matter of fact, steel prices today are very low. There is no doubt that reports of some corporations soon to be made will show that they are not getting the cost of manufacture out of present prices.'

"Are you one of the apostles of this new cult of industrialism advocating government control of corporations, as suggested by Judge Gary, Mr. Carnegie and others?"

Price Control Impracticable.

"I believe that there should be publicity that should show profits and losses and general conduct of business of corporations," said Mr. Farrell. "I think that there should be a supervising board, but I believe that it would be impracticable, almost impossible, for a governmental board to fix prices, even to fix maximum prices. To determine the cost of articles manufactured in the steel business requires a corps of hundreds of experts.

"I would have a supervisory board which would have authority to investigate all corporation for the purpose of preventing not only unusually high rates, but also unusually low rates which would result in reduced wages and impairment of plants."

Clarify Sherman Law.

Mr. Farrell said he did not believe that the Sherman law should be repealed, but that it should be clarified so that business men would know exactly what to do under it.

When asked about a statement before the committee by Andrew Carnegie that it was obvious that there was some sort of combination among steel men today to maintain prices, President Farrell said:

"I understand Mr. Carnegie made that remark, but Mr. Carnegie has not been in the steel business for eleven years. You gentlemen probably were surprised at the alacrity he displayed in giving you information you desired."

"This was the only positive statement he did make," said Mr. Beall, laughing.

"Yes, about something he knew nothing about," retorted Mr. Farrell.

President Farrell told the committee that steel rails in this country which sell for $28 a ton, the basic price, supply only half the market. Special rails are made at higher prices. He also urged more expensive rails for safety.

"Rails today," he said, "are too near the danger zone of brittleness. The liability of breakage and danger is greater than in the days of softer rails. We should have rails with a lower grade of carbon and of softer steel. They would necessarily be heavier and would cost more."

DUKE IS SEEING NEW YORK SIGHTS

Canadian Governor General Will Go to Washington Thursday.

New York, Jan. 23.—The duke of Connaught, Canada's governor general, with the duchess of Connaught, their daughter, Princess Patricia, and the viceregal suit, arose to a day of social and sightseeing engagements arranged for the second day of the five days' visit to New York.

Ambassador and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid gave a luncheon today in honor of their guests, and tonight there will be another dinner at the Reid house, followed by a musicale and a large reception, with dancing. The dancing party will be largely confined to the young married people. Fifty invitations have been issued for the dinner.

Is Great Sightseer.

The duke of Connaught anticipated more sightseeing today, with motor rides and walks through Fifth avenue and Central park. The duke is quite democratic and goes forth for strolls along Fifth avenue accompanied only by his aide de camp. He is an enthusiastic sightseer, and is said to have been much impressed with the developments of the city since his visit here forty-four years ago.

The duke will leave here Thursday morning for Washington to call on President Taft, after which the governor general will be entertained at dinner by Ambassador Bryce. It was learned that the duke had desired to pay a visit to the president, but did not make known his wish until he learned that President Taft would be free to receive him.

The duke and his party will return to Ottawa Friday evening.

STANDARD OIL FINED $55,000

Acceptance of Rate Concessions From Railroads Is Proved.

Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 23.—The Standard Oil Company of New York was fined $55,000 by Judge Hazel in the United States district court here today for 143 violations of the interstate commerce law in accepting rate concessions in 1904 and 1905 from the Pennsylvania and New York Central railroads in shipments of oil from Olean, N. Y., to Burlington, Vt.

The company was found guilty by a federal jury Dec. 26. Both railroads had previously been fined; the Pennsylvania $35,000, following conviction on more than 100 counts, and the New York Central $20,000 after pleading guilty.

The maximum possible fine in the Standard Oil case would have been $2,860,000 or $20,000 on each count.

TWO MINSTRELS KILLED IN WRECK

Binghamton, N. Y., Jan. 23.—George F. Kelly of Claremont, N. H., and H. C. Hayes of 116 Fourteenth street, Indianapolis, Ind., members of John W. Vogel's minstrels, died today at a hospital in this city, as the result of injuries sustained in a wreck on the Lackawanna railroad at Chenango Forks, near this city, early today. Mrs. John Vogel is suffering from nervous shock and James Conroy of Bridgeport, Conn., Carl Helman of Dayton, Ohio, and Engineer Frank Curran of Syracuse are also badly hurt.

MAMMOTH CROP NOT ALL GINNED

Plants Have Been Forced to Greater Activity Than Ever Before.

Washington, Jan. 23.—The vast 1911 cotton crop of the United States had been ginned and baled to the extent of 14,510,676 bales on Jan. 16, according to the census bureau's report, issued today, showing 193,674 bales were ginned during the period from Jan. 1 to 15, inclusive.

Ginneries this season have been forced to greater activity than ever before by the enormous crop. A considerable quantity still remains to be ginned before the close of the season. The exact amount will be made known by the census bureau's final ginning report March 20, giving figures up to Feb. 28.

Today's ginning report is about 375,000 bales less than the department of agriculture's estimate of production, which was 14,885,000 bales of 500 pounds gross weight.

London, Jan. 23.—Headed by James William Lowther, speaker of the house of commons, a distinguished party, including members of parliament, peers, bishops and men of affairs, left for Russia today, to develop further the ties that exist between the two countries. The party will visit St. Petersburg, Moscow and other cities. At the capital they will be received by the czar. Radical opponents of Sir Edward Grey's policy of friendship toward Russia attack the visit as ill-timed in view of the alleged ill-treatment of the Persians by Russia.

FERGUS FALLS SMALLPOX REPORTS ARE EXAGGERATED

Fergus Falls, Minn., Jan. 23.—Since the re-appearance of the small pox there have been a great many rumors as to the number of cases in the city, and as usual, there has been a great deal of exaggeration. Health Officer Vigen says that six cases of the disease have thus far been reported. There may have been a few others, but if so, they were so light that they wer unrecognized or not recognizable.

Staples Loses Sewerage Case.

St. Cloud, Minn., Jan. 23.—The city of Staples purchased a tract of forty acres at the mouth of its sewer system which empties into a small creek. Charles E. Batcher, who owns property on the creek a mile away, brought suit for damages. The court has awarded him $300 and ordered that the city keep its sewerage and odors confined within the area of the forty-acre tract it owns. An appeal will be taken, as the decision will compel the creation of an entirely new sewer system.

Macaroni Plant Set Afire.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 23.—Fire of incendiary origin partly destroyed the factory of the Salvatori Viviano Macaroni Manufacturing company today. The loss was $30,000. Salvatori Viviano is a brother of Pietro Viviano, whose two children, Grace and Tomaso, were kidnaped about a year ago. Pietro later moved to Chicago for safety.

The Peevish Child Needs a Laxative

It is natural for a child to laugh and play and when it sulks drowsily or cries you may depend on it something physical is the matter. If you see no evidences of a serious ailment you will not be wrong if you quietly give it a dose of mild laxative that evening on putting it to bed.

The remedy most generally recommended for this purpose is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which mothers throughout the country have been giving their children for a quarter of a century. Today thousands of families are using it where hundreds used it then, and there must be good reason for this word of mouth recommendation.

It is admittedly the perfect laxative for children, women, old people and all others who need a gentle bowel stimulant and not a violent salt, cathartic pill or doctored water. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will act gently, and when taken before retiring will bring complete satisfaction in the morning. After a short use of this remedy all forms of outside aid can be dispensed with and nature will again act alone.

All classes of good American people keep it in the home for ills of the stomach, liver and bowels, and among the thousands who have written the doctor that they will never be without it are Mrs. J. H. Whiting, Lena, Wis., and Mrs. M. Johnson, 762 Dayton St., Kenosha, Wis. A dose of it has saved many a person from a serious illness.

Anyone wishing to make a trial of this remedy before buying it in the regular way of a druggist at fifty cents or one dollar a large bottle (family size) can have a sample bottle sent to the home free of charge by simply addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 405 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. Your name and address on a postal card will do.

WARM SPELL DUE TO END

Mercury Will Take Another Little Dip to 10 Below.

What is a cold wave?

But the oppressive heat of yesterday is due to moderate. The mercury got up to 17 deg. above zero yesterday. This morning the sultriness moderated slightly, and it cooled off to about 3 degs. above zero. Tonight the mercury will dip again to about 10 deg. below.

"No, I wouldn't call it a cold wave," said the weather man this morning. "Just a little drop in the temperature. It will probably get to 15 below on the ranges, and it will continue cool all day tomorrow. I can't predict what it will do after that, as the weather is unsettled through the Northwest."

But 10 deg. below zero is no longer a cold wave in Duluth.

SECOND DAY OF REGISTRATION

Register today!

Any voter who failed to vote at the primary election Dec. 19 has only two more chances to register. One is today; the other Saturday. If a man fails to register this week, he will be unable to vote at the city election Feb. 8.

Only 5,009 voters registered at the primary election. That is far less than half of the qualified voters of the city. Over 12,000 should be registered before the boards of registration suspend Saturday evening.

Precinct workers of all parties are out today working to get the voters out to register. Work for candidates is incidental this week. A heavy vote is wanted by all candidates and the workers are non-partisan, in their efforts to get the entire voting strength of the city out.

AMUSEMENTS

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

ORPHEUM—Vaudeville.
EMPRESS—Vaudeville.

Amusement Notes.

Harry Breen, who is appearing at the Orpheum this week, has the reputation among actors and performers of having one of "the craziest acts in vaudeville." His act consists largely of songs composed while he sings. He sings a medley of nonsensical words, all jumbled together, and ends by composing a song at the expense of the audience.

"I started out in vaudeville trying to be sensible," said Mr. Breen last evening. "I gave a nice little monologue standing in one place on the stage, and singing my little songs like a little gentleman, but nobody wanted me. Then one afternoon I grew desperate, and began a crazy jumble of songs. I thought it was my finish as a vaudeville performer, and didn't care. But the audience seemed to like it, and I determined to give them what they wanted, if I could. In New York they are so blase that an ordinary act never touches them, but if you give some crazy jumble of stuff they go crazy over it. In some cities the sit and watch me with mouths open, and in other cities the act is a big hit. The chief danger I have to guard against is offending somebody in the audience with my impromptu song. In the hurry of getting rhymes, I sometimes get one that might give offense, but I try very hard not to. But when you make up a song while you are singing it, you have to take the first line that comes into your mind."

HARRY BREEN.

Never in the history of the Empress have its patrons been offered quite as wonderful a performance as that of Miss Eva Ray, who is the feature attraction this week. Duluth has seen countless so-called spiritualists and mind-readers, but the performance presented by Miss Ray probably eclipses anything of its kind ever seen in this city. Her performance is divided into two parts; the first a cabinet seance and the second, a demonstration of somnolency.

For the first part of her performance, Miss Ray is securely tied by a committee of gentlemen from the audience and then placed in a cabinet. Bells, tamborines and other articles are placed in the cabinet, the curtains are drawn and immediately the bells and tambortines are thrown about with wonderful rapidity. Then the cabinet is opened and the committee finds Miss Ray still securely tied and in the same position as before. Although this part of Miss Ray's performance is wonderful it cannot compare with the concluding part of her entertainment. In this part of her offering Miss Ray answers all questions concerning business, financial and love affairs. This she does while seated in plain view of the audience and she uses no screen or covering whatever. Miss Ray's performance is wonderful and it is doubtful if Duluthians will see her equal soon.

Good gymnasts, who are at the same time clever comedians, are very rare, but this can be said of Rice, Elmer & Tom. These boys present a comedy horizontal bar act which is brimful of difficult stunts and clean comedy and they are meeting with great favor this week. Jennings & Renfrew, who bill themselves, "The Boys Who Write Their Own Songs," live up to their billing in every way and hand out a good line of parodies. They also have some clever patter which they put over in a pleasing style. The Four Musical Hodges are offering a musical turn of real merit. The company consists of three young women and one man, who are all musicians of more than ordinary merit. Their repertoire includes both classic and popular selections. Commencing this afternoon, the Empress will present the famous daylight motion pictures, installed and operated under the personal supervision of the inventor, S. L. Rothapfel.

the Exchange Telegraph company. The dispatch adds:

"The situation in Pekin has undergone an extraordinary change. The imperial family has reversed its policy and abandoned all thought of abdication. Yuan Shi Kai has stepped aside and the whole control is in the hands of Gen. Yin Tchang, who was credited a few days ago with recommending a general massacre of the Chinese by the Manchus.

"Yin Tchang assumes an attitude of firmness toward the revolutionary leaders and is said to be preparing to resume hostilities. It is reported that all negotiations which have been going on with a view to abdication have been summarily broken off."

Rifle Thieves Executed.

Amoy, China, Jan. 23.—Several soldiers detected in the act of stealing firearms and afterwards selling them were arrested yesterday and immediately executed, it was announced today.

A band of armed robbers today raided the residence of the superintendent of the French cable company on the island of Kulang.

APPEAL SUIT FOR WRECKED "TAXI."

A motion for a new trial having been denied by Judge William A. Cant, the case of the Board of Trade Livery against The Duluth Street Railway Company will probably be appealed to the supreme court by the livery company represented by Francis J. Sullivan.

The Board of Trade livery asks $2,400 damages as a result of a collision between one of its taxicabs and one of the traction company's street cars. The "taxi" was demolished. The actual damage to the car itself was $1,500 and the earning capacity of the car between the date of the occurrence and the date it took to get a new one, is given as $900. The case was tried at the present term of district court, the verdict being in favor of the defendant.

HITCHCOCK LAYS RUMOR

Hitchcock permitting use of the former president's name in the convention. Perry emphatically denied this, but he declined to comment on the convention's probable course of action this afternoon.

Report of Compromise.

Other reports which added to the delegates' perplexity declared that supporters of President Taft have effected Loren C. Disney, a former federal office-holder, over administration patronage in the Fourth district, whereby the convention would quietly indorse Mr. Taft for renomination.

NEW STEAMER FOR LINE TO PANAMA IS ORDERED.

Hamburg, Jan. 23.—The Hamburg-American line has just placed a contract for the construction of a big steamer which is to be attached to the passenger service to Panama, which was foreshadowed in the annual report presented to the stockholders on Jan. 16.

LUMBERMEN FIGHTING MISSOURI OUSTER SUIT.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 23.—With two dozen witnesses for the defense yet to be introduced and a table piled with documentary evidence waiting to be examined, the hearing of the state's ouster suit against twenty-six lumber companies charged with violating the anti-trust laws resumed today.

Further effort was made today by the defense to show that other products, especially grain, had increased in price even more than lumber during the last few years.

UNIONISTS STEAL MARCH ON BELFAST

Get Possession of Hall Day Before Nationalist Meeting.

Belfast, Ireland, Jan. 23.—The corporation of the city has agreed to let Ulster hall to the Unionists for the purpose of a demonstration on Feb. 7, the day preceding the meeting at which Winston Spencer Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, and John E. Redmond, leader of the Irish Nationalists in the house of commons, are announced to speak there in favor of home rule.

The Unionist meeting is believed to be a scheme by which the Unionists will retain possession of the hall and thus keep the Nationalists from holding their demonstration on the next day.

JANESVILLE VOTING ON COMMISSION PLAN.

Janesville, Wis., Jan. 23.—Janesville is today holding an election on whether the commission form of government shall be adopted. Under the corrupt practices law it has been decided that no rigs or undue influences can be used to influence the voters. This is the first election in the state where the law has been observed.

LONDON AIDS THE Y. M. C. A.

Law, leader of the opposition in the house of commons, and Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal, who has put Londoners on their mettle by telling them what has been done in this direction in the small towns of Canada.

Million Dollar Establishment.

The Young Men's Christian association, although it is an old institution in London, has been heretofore comparatively unknown. Its new establishment, which has just been completed at the cost of $1,000,000, is to be conducted on American lines, and the campaign to raise funds, even if the full amount should not be obtained, has given the institution new life.

When Mr. Ward came here to start the campaign he was discouraged by most of the people whom he approached, and money came in slowly, even some of the $294,055 already collected being conditional upon the full amount being subscribed.

Dials Show Progress.

Immense dials have been placed in prominent positions throughout the city showing the amount collected daily, and these have attracted a great deal of attention. The newspapers today are appealing to Londoners to save the reputation of the city by sending in subscriptions so that the dials tonight will show the full $500,000.

literal strictness, but reasonably in the light of common law.

Standard Not Lacking.

"The act does not leave a citizen without any standard by which, in advance of a verdict or decree, he may determine whether his action will amount to reasonable restraint of trade.

"On generally settled principles, all contracts whose sole or main aim and primary object is to stifle competition, enhance prices and promote monopoly, are unenforcible and void.

"If the class of contracts which are unenforcible because restraint of trade is reasonably certain, and if the act as interpreted forbids the making of contracts of that class, there is reasonable certainty as to what is forbidden by the act.

"If the act is now to be understood to mean that such contracts are forbidden upon established legal principles apart from the act itself, it cannot properly be said that guilt or innocence depends upon nothing but the determination of the tribunal before which, after the event, a person may be tried."

As to the averment that the indictment should not state that the alleged restraint of trade is unreasonable or undue, Judge Angell said that the indictments set out facts showing that the alleged restraint was unreasonable, and that the defendant was fairly advised as to what it has to meet at the trial.

As to Overt Acts.

Upon the contention of the defense that no overt act after the alleged completion of a conspiracy was shown, Judge Angell ruled that the facts presented as overt acts could fairly be considered as acts done in pursuance of the combination and conspiracy alleged to have been completed.

"If it should be shown," said the court, "that no combination or conspiracy was completed prior to the date alleged as the date of the performance of overt acts, a serious question may have to be met, as to the jurisdiction of this court."

The immunity plea was commented upon briefly by Judge Angell as having been already disposed of by Judge Denison in the local federal court.

Grand Jury Presumption.

On the contention that no competent evidence was presented before the grand jury, Judge Angell said:

"Without entering into any discussion of this perplexing question, how far a court may look into the proceedings of a grand jury, the presumption is in favor of the action of the grand jury and there is no showing that no competent evidence was presented to warrant the quashing of the indictments."

DONLON BECOMES HEAD OF GEORGETOWN "U."

Washington, Jan. 23.—Rev. Alphonsus S. Donlon has been appointed president of Georgetown university to succeed Rev. Joseph J. Himmell, whose retirement on account of ill health was made public today just before the appointment of his successor was announced. The new president is a native of Albany, N. Y., and a graduate of Georgetown. For the last three years he has been assistant to the provincial of the Jesuit order. He assumed his new duties today.

EARL GREY GIVEN HONOR IN LONDON

London, Jan. 23.—Earl Grey, former governor general of Canada, was today presented with the freedom of the city of London. The ceremony took place with the usual picturesque historic observances.

This is the first instance in which the third member of a family has received the honor of the freedom of the city of London. The first Earl Grey, who was a distinguished general, was awarded the freedom after he had conducted a successful East Indian campaign, and the present earl's grandfather received the distinction for his efforts as premier on behalf of the great reform bill enfranchising the majority of the people of Great Britain and Ireland.

The ingredients are used for various prescriptions.

BEAUTIFUL HAIR AT SMALL COST

What a pity it is to see so many people with thin, wispy hair, faded or streaked with gray, and realize that most of these people might have soft, glossy, abundant hair of beautiful color and lustre if they would but use the proper treatment. There is no necessity for gray hair under sixty-five years of age, and there is no excuse for anyone, young or old, having thin, straggling hair, either full of dandruff or heavy and rank smelling with excessive oil.

You can bring back the natural color of your hair in a few days and forever rid yourself of any dandruff and loose hairs, and make your hair grow strong and beautiful by using Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy. For generations common garden Sage has been used for restoring and preserving the color of the hair; and Sulphur is recognized by Scalp Specialists as being excellent for treatment of hair and scalp troubles.

If you are troubled with dandruff or itching scalp, or if your hair is losing its color or coming out, get a fifty cent bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur from your druggist, and notice the improment in the appearance of your hair after a few days' treatment.

Street Lighting Rates Governed By City's Levy

It has been stated repeatedly that the rate which the Duluth-Edison Electric Company now charges for street lighting and the still lower rate which we propose is made at the expense of the householder. These statements are most misleading even to the point of absurdity.

The City Charter provides that a levy of one mill shall be made for ALL lighting purposes, which, you must remember, includes not only Electricity, but gas as well, and takes in also besides street lighting, the lighting of all PUBLIC BUILDINGS such as the jail, public library and fire halls.

This levy amounts to $41,000, and the Duluth-Edison Electric Company's proportion of this is nearly $32,000. Therefore, the rate for street lighting IS NOT governed by our profits, but by the LIMITS OF THE CITY'S LEVY.

If the Duluth-Edison Electric Company's rate for street lighting equaled the figure of $69.00 per lamp, quoted by the Engineers in their $14,000 report, fully one-third of Duluth's street lights would have to be discontinued.

REMEMBER THAT THE AREA COVERED BY THE CITY OF DULUTH AND LIGHTED BY THE DULUTH-EDISON ELECTRIC COMPANY REACHES FROM LESTER PARK TO FOND DU LAC, A DISTANCE OF 19 MILES.

DETAILED PLANS FOR NEW LIBRARY

Work on Superstructure Will Begin About First of February.

Work on the foundation of the new Carnegie library at the northwest corner of Central avenue and Elinor street is now well under way and work on the superstructure will start the first of the month. Jacobsen Brothers are the contractors.

The basement is to be fitted out for the boiler and a number of smaller rooms and one large assembly room, 50 by 29 feet in size. The second or main floor will be the library proper. The building will be constructed of red brick with Bedford white stone trimmings. The main entrance will be on Central avenue.

A feature of the building is that the entire front, covering about forty-six feet, will be almost entirely of glass. The doors and windows will be of large plate glass and the main entrance also of glass. The inside of the building will be finished in oak and the floors will be of reinforced concrete, flushed with battleship linoleum.

The contract for the building calls for its completion by May 1 and an expenditure of $15,000 besides the heating plant, plumbing and electric fixtures. With the added expense it is estimated that the total cost will amount to $25,000.

COUNTY LETS CONTRACTS

Business Before the Adjourned Annual Meeting Is Finished.

With the letting of contracts for the printing of county supplies and the disposition of other routine matters, the board of county commissioners, which has been in session at its adjourned annual meeting, finished its business at 11 o'clock this morning.

F. H. Lounsberry on his bid of $2,134.10 secured the contract for printing the county stationery. There were two other bidders—the Huntley Printing company, $2,576.05 and the Greer Printing company, $2,409.50.

The contract for the furnishing of printed blank books went to Wendlant Brs. on their bid of $2,606. F. H. Lounsberry was the only other bidder. His figure was $2,929.

On its bid of $1,329.85, the Chamberlain-Taylor company received the contract for the furnishing of office supplies for the year. Ouellette & Co., were the only other bidder, their figure being $1,355.08.

The contract for the range printing schedule was awarded to the Hibbing Daily Tribune, which bid $665.25. The Virginia Eenterprise also bid on this work at $705.50.

Contracts for county road work, representing an expenditure of about $265,000 were awarded late yesterday afternoon at the session of the commissioners. The money will be divided in the seven districts as follows:

Division 1 and 2 (which is practically the city of Duluth), $15,000; second division, $30,000; fourth, $45,000; fifth, $50,000; sixth, $50,000, and seventh, $65,000.

Of the money spent in the vicinity of Duluth, $10,000 will be used in placing the Miller trunk road in good shape for automobile and team traffic. This road is the main thoroughfare between Duluth and the range cities.

The seventh district, which is represented by P. J. Ryan of Hibbing, will get the largest share, the appropriation for this district being $85,000. The country north of Hibbing will get a number of roads this year and they will open up a new agricultural country for the range markets.

The 1912 levy for country road construction work was $270,000 and the number of bids received by the board yesterday was seventy-seven. This morning the board received two petitions for roads from settlers in 59, 20-21 and from 54, 55-19. Hearing will be held on the petitions at the April meeting of the board.

An appropriation of $875.41 was authorized as the final estimate of St. Louis county's share of the cost of building Judicial Ditch No. 1. Three counties have an interest in the project.

The bonds submitted by the successful bidders on previous contracts let by the board, were approved and among other matters disposed of by the commissioners was the receiving of the annual report of the county auditor as to the financial condition of the county and the annual reports of the register of deeds and the clerk of the court.

BARGAINS IN GRAIN

Canadian Farmers Sacrifice Wheat, Owing to Congested Elevators.

Reduced Rates to Duluth Will Remedy Unfortunate Conditions.

Swift Current, Sask., Jan. 23.—George Gray, a young homesteader, spent two days and a half driving a load of wheat into town with a yoke of oxen, only to find that every elevator was full and that he could not sell his grain. For two days he waited here, wanting to dispose of his load and take back fuel and groceries. At last, in desperation, he sold his wheat, a good grade of No. 2 northern, for 45 cents a bushel. On the same day his wheat would have sold in Minneapolis for $1.04⅞.

It is to remedy such conditions as are told of in the foregoing dispatch that the railroads have made a special rate on wheat, oats, flax and barley to Duluth.

Canadian grain may be shipped to Duluth where there is plenty of space in the terminal elevators, and no congestion in the railroad yards such as exists at Fort William and Port Arthur. The reduced rates on wheat and oats will go into effect Thursday. They will take the same rate that is offered from Canadian points to Fort William. The grain, however, must be shipped in bond, and will be exported from here. The flax and barley rates went into effect today. They are not on the same basis as the Fort William rates, but are a reduction over those which were formerly in effect.

FORT CLARK TURNED INTO STATE HOSPITAL.

It is proposed to establish a state tuberculosis sanitarium on the fort's site. One troop of the Third cavalry still is quartered at the fort, but is expected to leave for the Philippines next June.

The meeting is not for automobile owners only, but for everyone interested in good roads for St. Louis county.

At the meeting the recommendations made by the November grand jury will be discussed.

The notices were sent out by E. J. Fillatrault and a number of others interested in the movement for better roads.

The report of the November grand jury has been printed in pamphlet form, and the pamphlets are being widely distributed.

"BACK TO THE LAND" CRY VOICED BY NEARLY EVERY ENTRY IN CONTEST

Farming, Dairying and Poultry Raising All Have Their Friends.

Man With First $1,000 Told to Put It Into Land.

"Go Farming" is almost the only advice given the young man who has his first $1,000 and who is looking for an opportunity of investment.

Under the head of farming nearly all the letters published today suggest the buying of Minnesota land. One advises the seeding of the land to timothy. Another advises going into the chicken business, while another believes there is money to be had in the dairy business.

A contributor from Foley, Minn., says there are opportunities for investment in the hotel business of that town and another contestant advises locating or at least buying property at the Cuyuna range metropolis, Crosby. "Always pick up a snap" says another contributor, "whenever you run across it, providing you are able to." Among today's suggestions are the following:

Charles Hensel, 3240 Minnesota avenue, Park Point.—My advice to your query: "How should a man of 35 invest his first $1,000?" is as follows: If you can obtain a real snap, be it real or personal property of merit, buy. About ten years ago I had an opportunity, such as I mention, viz.: 120 acres of unimproved land in Orange county, Florida, and bought. I have been paying taxes on same since and have not made any effort to occupy or dispose of same. It has steadily enhanced in value and of late am receiving inquiries from nearby agents asking me to list with them. Some even have made very liberal offers, based on the cost of the investment. All of which goes to show if an article is obtained at a "snap" for "cash" and the investor can abide his time he will come out of the deal ahead with a good margin on the right side of the ledger. I am using my case but as an example. I was certain at the time of purchase, that at some future date some people North—perhaps even in Duluth, would get "cold feet" when I could unload if so desired.

W. B. Farmer, Crystal Falls, Mich., Box, 304.—I am very much interested in your young man with the $1,000 of hard-earned cash and the best means to invest it, because I was recently up against the same proposition myself, but I am single and have a good occupation, so it differs some from the man in your case, but I invested in a farm and can raise most anything that grows in a northern state, except children. Even that might not be an impossibility if it was not so "gosh durn hard to find the girl," who would enjoy country life on a farm and be independent. I well know the country is full of them, but I hear most of them say a cow is really such a horrid thing and chickens are such a bother and nuisance, so you see your young man has the advantage of me. There are many acres of cut-over lands in Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan where good land can be had for $10 an acre on payments if wanted. If he paid $200 down, bought a team and outfit for $300 it would answer the purpose for some time. Then $150 for stock, cows and chickens, $150 for lumber, sash and doors for his log houses would be enough to start. As there is always timber available in a new settlement he would still have $200 left to use for supplies and in case of emergency until he had some thing to sell. His larder could be supplied with venison from the forests and fish from the streams, while there is oftentimes some team work to be had, enough to keep the grocery bill paid, while enough wild grass can be cut on old logging roads, etc., to keep the stock the first winter. He would, however have to be industrious and sober, but I know of many who started off on half of the $1,000 and succeeded, and have nice farms now but they endured many hardships the first two years. There are very few who have started farming in our states that never made a success of it as in most cases employment can be had at some mine near by or camps in spare time.

Mike Szluygielski, 211 Oak street, Virginia, Minn.—I would suggest to your young man with $1,000, to buy five acres of land about three or four miles from town, and then start in the poultry business. Then let some carpenter build a home for him, one that would cost about $200, and then the poultry house. While the carpenters are building all this, I would advise that man to keep on working at his trade, until his house is ready, then buy from fifty to sixty good laying hens and that will start him up. Get two incubators that will hold from 100 to 150 eggs. Let your chickens run around on one acre of your land, use one acre for potatoes and about two acres for corn and wheat, and the other acre for other purposes. He can sell some of his potatoes at the price of 75 or even 90 cents a bushel. That would help him out quite a bit. Keep enough potatoes to last your family. I think there is nothing better than being your own boss. Get up whenever you want to and nobody will tell you that the whistle will soon blow

G. F. Kallberg, Foley, Minn.—Will say in regard to your $1,000 man, that a good and safe investment would be a hotel. We need them in many places here in Minnesota. They would be a source of pleasure to many traveling men who have to put up with poor meals in poor hotels. Right now we need one badly in Foley, Minn. Say you invest $600 down on a good substantial building, and place your remaining $400 in a bank for running expenses. You could hire one cook, one kitchen girl and one chamber girl. Your wife and yourself could take care of the office and dining room. I know a man who started in that business with a good business head and $3.85 in cash. Today he is the owner of one of the largest hotels in New York. But you need gall and common sense, and a lot of it, and above all be kind and courteous to your customers and "run it right." You will at the same time have a home for yourself and family. Travel through Minnesota and you will see for yourself what we have to put up with in most of the smaller towns.

V. D. Kenworthy, Zim, Minn.—I have been reading the opinion of many people in regard to the way they would invest the $1,000 which the young man has saved in ten years.

Now I will express my ideas of investing that amount of money. I believe the best way to invest it is to buy a good eighty-acre tract of Minnesota state land. You can get a choice tract for $5 per acre. Pay $1 per acre down, and take advantage of the long time given and the low rate of interest charged. By doing this you will pay $80 on the land and have $920 left to improve the land with. If you are careful about buying, you can get land that can be cleared for $15 per acre; and you can clear forty acres the first year, which will cost $600. Now you have $320 left to buy seed and to pay for discing the forty acres which you have cleared. Seed the forty acres to timothy. The next year after seeding you will out at least one and a half tons per acre, which will net you at least $8 per ton or a profit of $480 the second year from the time you made the investment.

I have figured for you to keep your job and hire work done on the farm for at least two years. Then it may be well for you to move onto the farm, if you are tired of your present employment.

I think it best to let the clearing by contract and also the seeding when you let the contract.

Have everything down in black and white, then you will get a good job done and will not have any worry on your mind.

Malvin Stephen, 318 West Winona street, Woodland.—Sensible advice to the man with $1,000: In the first place I consider any man lucky to possess $1,000, which I think is a good sum of money to start into a profitable business with, therefore I suggest buying an acre of land, in some addition within a few blocks of the car line, where you can get it on the easy payment plan and at a reasonable price and start a poultry farm. Keep one certain breed of chickens—no mongrels—all thoroughbreds. I am but 14 years of age but I feel that with what little experience I've had it is a good paying business. I putting three of my birds, one rooster and two pullets into the annual poultry show this month. Come out here to live, where you will have breathing space and lots of fresh air, which will keep you healthy and well. The soil is excellent for gardening and you can raise all the potatoes and green stuff you can eat, and have some to sell. Next year a school will be erected in this addition and I will guarantee that the poultry business will more than pay if properly controlled.

Meadowlands, Minn.—I wish to try to answer your question, What will a man with $1,000 do? Come to Meadowlands and buy an eighty-acre farm on payments. Pay some down, then build a house and barn and get hold of some good milch cows and go into the dairy business and in a year or two you can buy more cows, and after that if you handle it right, you will soon have your land paid for and the value of the land doubled, as this is to be a great dairy country in a short time.

J. G. Viche, 2608½ West Second street.—I have read with a great deal of interest the suggestions made by people on how to invest the first $1,000. Well, here is my opinion or in another word, what I have done. Go to Crosby, Minn., and buy a lot or two on the installment plan, and within a year from now you will have not $1,000 but from $3,000 to $5,000. Crosby is located in Crow Wing county, 100 miles west of Duluth, on the Soo Line, and Crosby with already four rich mines and with underground concrete shafts, will have three more next summer, making seven big underground mines. There is no shut down in the winter work. Crosby has a population of 1,800 inhabitants and is only twenty months old, with concrete sidewalks and a good sewer system and electric lights, and will have a good water plant next spring, as we are building a 100,000-gallon reservoir, and the mains are already in the street. Can you beat Crosby for its age? I don't think there is a better place for a man with only $1,000 to go. It is a nice town to live in for one Duluth millionaire spent the summer up around Serpent lake, where Crosby is built. Do as I say. You'll be money ahead one year from now.

For the second of its series of contests The Herald has an interesting problem which comes to it in the form of a letter that explains itself:

To the Editor of The Herald:

We have often been told—at least we used to be—by rich men that the hardest work on the road to wealth is to get the first $1,000.

I've got that sum now—saved it out of my salary during ten years. Who will tell me how to go the rest of the way? How shall I invest it? Shall I go into business, and what kind, and how?

I am 35 years old, with a wife and two small children, and have a fair position with a living salary, but that's about all. Probably I could, if nothing happened, save another $1,000 in another ten years, but with the cost of living going up faster than salaries—and I can't expect mine to go much higher than it is—it is going to be harder. If I am ever going to start out for myself and gain independence or wealth, now is the time for me to begin, while I am strong and healthy and young.

What shall I do with myself and my $1,000—and my family?

Here's a real problem, a vital one that will interest everybody; and The Herald hopes to see a large and interesting variety of answers. It hopes, too, that men who have traveled the road that lies before this young inquirer will take part in the discussion. The prizes will, of course, be no temptation to them; but this is a subject of wide interest, and they should be glad to contribute their wisdom and experience to its solution.

Write out your answer, limit it to 300 words, put your name and address at the top of the sheet, write on one side of the paper only, and send it to the Contest Editor of The Herald before Feb. 1.

For the best answer to this young man's problem The Herald will give a prize of $10.

asks that "the one who loses the instructions of the Missouri convention * * * Feb. 20, shall refuse to allow the further use of his name either in or out of Missouri in connection with the presidential nomination." It must have cost Folk some pangs to write in the date of that convention when he remembered with what substantial unanimity the convention of 1910 indorsed him.

Result Not Certain.

Probably outside of Missouri there is little doubt as to the outcome of this fight. But among the Missourians in congress there is no certainty expressed. Folk has had a habit of doing startling things in the state, and nobody is predicting a walkover for the speaker. It is thought, too, that the Wilson Democrats in Missouri will be likely to vote for Folk, thinking the chance of his nomination for first place slight, and counting upon his throwing his strength to the New Jersey man. When it comes to the cost of making the primary fight the men are well matched—both poor. As to prominence before the people, they both enjoy prestige on the Chatauqua platform. Indeed men have hinted that the advantage from a box office standpoint of being a candidate for the presidency has had something to do with keeping Folk so obstinately in the race. He had to do something to meet the superior advertising value of the speakership.

The defeat of Clark in the Missouri primaries, remote as such an event may be, would greatly complicate the already tangled presidential problem confronting the Democrats. Clark, in the race, is fairly certain of several states. Mississippi is probably his. Oklahoma, which not long ago was seemingly for Wilson, is developing Clark tendencies. Iowa and Kansas Democrats are largely for him. The recent declaration of W. R. Hearst in his favor has begun to tell in various sections of the country. Defeat for him Feb. 20 would open several rich fields to the hunters of delegates for other candidates, for there is no likelihood that Folk would get the states from which Clark would necessarily be withdrawn. Who would get them is hard to tell. Folk has charged Clark with being a stalking horse for Harmon, but the charge is too absurd to base an estimate on. Vardaman will control the Mississippi delegation and with Clark out of the way would probably be largely guided by Mr. Bryan in disposing of it. Tennessee would be made certain for Harmon. Kansas would doubtless go to Wilson. However, it is a little early for friends of the other candidates to be casting lots for Champ's raiment.

New Inauguration Day.

The house judiciary committee, unaffrighted by the fate which for so long has been hanging over constitutional amendments, has grappled with the question of a new inauguration day and a new date for the opening of congress.

Both changes have long been urged and their advisability is generally admitted. But the difficulty of constitutionally enacting the changes is appalling.

The judiciary committee proposes to lengthen the term of the president elected in 1916 from March 4, 1917, to the last Thursday in April, 1917. This would take inauguration day out of the stormiest season of the year and put it among the vernal breezes of springtime. The short session of congress, which now occurs between the November election and March 4, is to be eliminated altogether. All congressional sessions will meet annually on the second Tuesday in January. This meets in part the present complaint that a congress, repudiated in a presidential election can go on legislating until the following March, and the congress elected with a new president does not come into being until thirteen months later. The objection is only partly met, however. One feature of the proposed rule corrects a very dangerous defect in the present law. As matters now stand there is no legal way to meet the emergency which would arise should the president-elect die after election and before inauguration. The proposed change authorizes congress to act in such event.

Congressional opinion seems to be pretty generally united in favor of the report of the judiciary committee and in all probability the joint resolution will be speedily passed. But one cannot be too certain. The idolators of the Constitution in the senate may pick flaws and indeed will be inclined to do so in any constitutional revision originating in the house. Five years, it will be noted, are given for the amendment to be before the country and in view of the income tax, now tied up in state legislatures, the time is none too long.

THE CHARTER AMENDMENTS.

The citizens of Duluth will pass upon four charter amendments at the city election to be held Feb. 6.

All these amendments are good and necessary. Every citizen can vote for them all with good conscience.

And every citizen should vote upon them. If he finds reason to oppose them, he should vote against them. If he approves them he should vote for them. These amendments have nothing to fear from opposition; they have much to fear from indifference and neglect.

A failure to vote upon any amendment counts exactly the same as a vote against it. Each neglectful voter undoes the work of a loyal and careful citizen who has studied each proposition and determined to vote in favor of it.

These amendments, to pass, must get the favorable votes of three-fifths of those voting at the election—not a mere majority of those who take the trouble to vote upon each amendment, but three out of five of all those who go to the polls. To illustrate, suppose 8,000 votes are cast at the coming election. To carry, each amendment must get at least 4,800 of these votes. If 4,799 of the citizens participating in the election vote "yes" on all four amendments, and not a single citizen votes against any of them, still they will fail of adoption.

All four amendments will get a large majority of the votes cast upon them. Unless the voters remember to act upon them all will fail of adoption.

The amendments, which will be discussed more in detail later, are as follows:

1. Providing for a board of public welfare and giving it authority and the city power to take effective measures in behalf of the unfortunates of the community.

2. Fixing the limit of tax levies for general purposes at 11 mills, as at present, and doing away with the arbitrary limitation of $320,000, which is no longer workable and will soon be dangerous.

3. Providing for spreading assessments for special improvements over three years on the application of the owner of any property benefitted by them, instead of the present burdensome method under which 80 per cent of the estimated cost must be paid in advance and the balance as soon as the work is done.

4. Authorizing the city to provide band concerts in the public parks.

All these amendments are good. All of them are needed. All of them should be ratified by the voters. They will be ratified if each citizen completes his duty at the polls.

THE LATCHSTRING'S ALWAYS OUT.

The Minnesota State Editorial association is going to be extraordinarily good to itself this year.

Instead of visiting Canada it is going to visit Minnesota and get acquainted with the resources of the commonwealth and the living conditions of its neighbors. And it is going to begin its "seeing Minnesota" plan by visiting Duluth and the iron ranges.

Last year the association took a lake trip to Canada. This year's plans contemplate a visit to Duluth, a trip up the north shore of Lake Superior and around Isle Royale, a tour of the Minnesota iron ranges, and a day or two for looking Duluth over, including the big new steel plant that is building here.

This will be a trip worth while. Such time as the association can give to it can be crowded full of interest and variety. Duluth and St. Louis county, it goes without saying, will keep open house for the Minnesota editors, and will try to see to it that there are no dull moments during their vacation.

Duluth hopes sincerely that this plan will be carried out in full, and that as many of the members of the association as possible will participate in the projected program. The latchstring is always out in Duluth, but on such an occasion as this there will be no occasion for using it. The door will be wide open, and there will be a warm welcoming hand on the threshold.

IN THE ENEMY'S COUNTRY.

La Follette's campaign tour has carried him to the very gates of the enemy, for New York is the enemy's country to him quite as much as it was to Bryan when he gave it its name. His reception there seems to have been about the same as it has been elsewhere. Maybe it was largely curiosity, but whatever the reason the hall was packed and La Follette had to address an overflow meeting—which is the apex of triumph for a candidate. That folks in New York are very much like folks elsewhere, down below the surface, is proved by the fact that Mr. La Follette's radical utterances made that New York audience behave about as a Kansas audience would behave in similar circumstances.

THE LUMBERJACK'S COMPLAINT.

That pathetic cry of a lumberjack in last Saturday's Herald, which related an old and familiar story, has attracted the interest of contributors to the Open Court, and a flood of advice to him and his kind is pouring in.

This lumberjack came to town with his wages and, finding no hospitality but in the saloon, wound up a delirious round of "pleasure" in the "bull pen" at the city jail, full of remorse and sadness and bitter criticism of the harsh inhospitality of a city that makes no better provision for him than this. Many have done as he did. Many will do it again. Some come out of the woods intending to do this very thing. Others fall by the wayside for lack of moral strength and because there seems nothing more interesting for them to do. It is a pity, of course; and no matter how much you may criticize this man and those like him, there is real merit in his complaint. There ought to be some other place for him than the saloon, and he ought to be helped instead of kicked further down hill after his earnings have been taken from him.

There is no profit in saying that this man should be stronger, that he should save his money and wisely invest it instead of squandering it. That's most excellent advice, but it doesn't meet his need, because he probably won't hear it and wouldn't take it if he did. The community's skirts would be cleaner if it could provide some other kind of hospitality for him than that which seeks only to get his money away from him as quickly as possible, leaving him poisoned in mind and body and bitter against the world.

IRON AND STEEL REVISION.

The custom has been, when tariff revision was being discussed, for newspapers and statesmen to clamor for reductions on the industries of other sections and to demand that the protection on their own particular industries be maintained, if not increased.

The Herald is going to break this custom by stating that so far as it has been able to examine the details of the steel revision bill proposed by the ways and means committee of the house of representatives, it seems to be a very good and very timely measure.

And in approving this thorough-going revision of the tariff on iron and steel The Herald is showing no unfriendliness to the industry that produces these commodities. The industry can well stand such revision as the house proposes to make, and the consumers are entitled to it.

American steel makers today have no difficulty in meeting foreign manufacturers in their own territory, and that fact alone makes it clear that the present duties are unnecessarily high. If the reduction increases foreign competition in the domestic market, the steel industry will be put on its mettle to meet that competition; and it is capable of meeting it. As it is better for a man to carve out his destiny by individual enterprise rather than to have it cut out for him by others, so is it better for an American industry to rely on American pluck, ingenuity and enterprise rather than upon the artificial stimulation of inordinately high tariff schedules.

Details of the bill may be subject to criticism and amendment. In the main it is good because it offers real relief to the consumer and no harm whatever to the industry affected.

BUTTER AND OLEOMARGARINE.

With butter at 45 and 50 cents a pound and likely to go higher still, the issue against the tax on oleomargarine has grown more acute in Washington.

It is hard to see how congress can avoid abolishing or decreasing this tax.

When the law provides strong penalties for passing imitation butter off upon the consumer as real butter, it is performing a needed service to the public. The penalties for such an offense should be made as strong as the courts will uphold.

But when the law goes further and imposes an arbitrary tax of 10 cents a pound on imitation butter colored as real butter is colored, it ceases to protect the public and begins to "protect" the dairyman by a process analagous to the protective tariff.

With prices for butter as they are, as they have been for several years, and as they are likely to be in the future, the dairymen ought not to ask this protection. The law has done all it should do when it safeguards dairymen and the consumers against being imposed upon by imitation butter masquerading as the real article.

FARMING IN NORTHEASTERN MINNESOTA.

In the census figures on agriculture in Minnesota, lately published, there are two facts of prime interest to St. Louis county:

First—There were 2,465 farms in this county in 1910, as against only 696 in 1900—an increase of two and a half times.

Second—In spite of this splendid showing, only 6.6 per cent of the land area of the county is included in these farms, and less than 1 per cent of the county's 4,161,920 acres is under cultivation.

Probably at least 75 per cent of the total land area of the country is arable. Instead of 2,500 farms there should be 200,000 farms; and counting the small truck garden farms close to the centers of population there could be many more than that.

So that while the growth of agriculture in St. Louis county in ten years—most of it came within five—has been remarkable, it is just beginning. It has a start, now, and the rate of growth in the next ten years will be very much greater than it was in the ten years covered by the census figures.

Another interesting fact: in 1900 there were seventy-five counties in Minnesota that had more farms than St. Louis county. In 1910 there were but ten.

What is true of St. Louis county is true of all Northeastern Minnesota. While 6.6 per cent of the land area is in farms in St. Louis county, following are the figures for neighboring counties: Beltrami, 9.1; Cass, 10.9; Aitkin, 15; Itasca, 6.2; Koochiching, 3.6; Cook, 2.5; Lake, 1.7. All these counties are capable of an enormous agricultural growth, and all of them will get it.

The value of St. Louis county's farm property in 1910 was $6,798,209, an increase of 489.9 per cent since 1900. This splendid rate of increase was exceeded in Minnesota only by Lake county, which gained 1,338.9 per cent, increasing from $30,765 to $442,694. Other counties showing large gains were: Cook, 481.9 per cent; Carlton, 300.1 per cent; Cass, 255.8 per cent; Aitkin, 235.6 per cent; Pine, 227.8 per cent; Hubbard, 212 per cent; Kanabec, 209.8 per cent.

The record of progress made in the settlement of Northeastern Minnesota is an encouragement to further efforts along that line. The spectacle of the vast areas yet unconquered is an inspiration to redoubled energy in the work of putting these idle acres into the hands of farmers and under the stimulus of the stump-puller, the drag and the plow.

WHAT REALLY COUNTS.

The Herald's attention is called to the fact that a speaker at a Republican meeting in the pending municipal campaign has challenged its accuracy in stating that City Assessor Scott is a Republican. Perhaps we have been misinformed about that, but the point is of so little importance that we aren't going to bother about investigating it.

What really counts, and what most people are interested in, we believe, is that Mr. Scott is making an exceptionally good assessor, and that his work is creditable to himself, to the city and to Mayor Cullum, who appointed him and gave him free rein.

Aside from this the only point of interest in the matter is the fact that the asperity associated with this challenge of The Herald's statement proves that the city campaign is on, and that it has some life in it.

PRIVILEGE AND OPPRESSION

By SAVOYARD.

Lawrence, Mass., is a manufacturing town, the mills of which turn out woolen and cotton fabrics. The labor was imported from abroad. Some of the textile mills of New England net as much as 36 per cent on the capital invested, and frequently they declare "stock dividends," which means "water." Governor Foss exposed the thing thoroughly last fall when he was making his triumphant campaign for re-election.

Well, there's a strike of the operatives of the Lawrence mills and it is attended with violence. It recalls a scene in congress in February, 1894, the day the debate was closed on the tariff by Thomas B. Reed and William L. Wilson. Never did an American orator have a more splendid or more intelligent audience. The rules were suspended and ladies with their escorts had seats on the floor. The galleries were packed, as were the corridors upstairs and on the main floor. A quorum of the senate was present and a quorum of the diplomatic corps could have been then and there mobilized. There was a liberal sprinkling of the army and navy, and many of the great journals were represented by their editors-in-chief.

Never was Tom Reed so great as he was then. It was his longest—an hour and a half—speech, as well as his ablest. But gigantic as was the man's mind, it was at one period of that occasion overtaken by an obsession. I believe that is what they call it. He said that we exclude a Chinaman because he would supplant an American laborer and get his job, and for the same reason we should exclude his bale of goods, the product of his labor, that would come in competition with the product of American labor. The answer to it is obvious and conclusive. Caste excludes the Chinaman; but when his bale of goods is admitted it gives an American laborer a job to make another bale of goods to exchange for it.

I do not remember if Wilson made the point or not; but certainly his reply was triumphant, and it was then and there that William J. Bryan and Henry St. George Tucker carried him off the floor in their sturdy arms as he sank back exhausted upon the conclusion of one of the most eloquent efforts ever made in the American congress.

The tariff is on the product of labor, which is not the property of labor, but is owned by capital. In New England and Pennsylvania, where they will lie to you and say the tariff is for the protection of American labor, more than seven of ten of the operatives are foreign born, imported to reduce the wage of American labor in protected mills, shops and mines.

At Gloucester, there is a great American fishing industry. Its magnates, worth millions, have numerous fleets of fishing craft, that they mendaciously name "the nursery of the American navy." Nine of ten of the fishermen on these vessels are not American citizens at all, but Canadians and subjects of the British crown. It is a historical fact that during the big war of 1861-65 some rich men of New England made the government a present of a man-of-war. It was sent to Gloucester to be manned from the naval "nursery," but the Canadian sailors said it was none of their fight and they refused to enlist. Finally the ship was manned by unprotected steamboat men from the Ohio and Mississippi rivers.

The New England fishing industry is about as well protected a concern as anything in this country except the American shipyards. It gets free salt with which to cure its catch, while the farmer of the Mississippi valley must buy taxed salt to cure his bacon. Protected by a high tariff on Canadian fish the millionaire fishermen of New England levy tribute on hundreds of thousands of American breakfast tables.

To my taste the best fish in the world is a bleater salt mackerel weighing about two pounds, the current season's catch. I had one for breakfast this morning. It cost me 58 cents. I ought have had it for less than 38 cents. It was the "protection" that was exacted from me that accounts for the robbery of that transaction.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

PLAIN TALK FROM AN EX-"LUMBERJACK."

To the Editor of The Herald:

I have been a subscriber to your paper for six years and have noticed from time to time the expression "lumberjack." I am not one of them, but I have been one when I was younger, and have been a good deal associated with this class of men.

I have scaled and kept time. I have sawed, swamped, tended skidway, worked on the landing and also helped to load. I have worked on the drive as a river driver, and cooke; also as timekeeper, so I know something of the "lumberjack."

The expression "lumberjack" is the title which they christened themselves on account of the fact that when a man went to the woods years ago, when lumbering was the principal occupation in the northern part of Minnesota and Wisconsin, and Stillwater was the headquarters for these men, and they used to walk or go by team up to camp.

He had to be able to do most anything in the line of woods work or he was what was known as a "no good."

There are lots of men who go to the woods who have families and homes and these men are seen but very little when they come down in the spring.

But the man who has no home to go to comes to such towns as Duluth or elsewhere.

These men are no more than human. So when he sees the people here, who have homes or perhaps no homes, but are well dressed, size him up with a sneer on their face he feels out of place, and goes to the union depot and loafs in the lower class waiting room or elsewhere.

Between these places of retreat to the saloon a few times, then he is not quite so particular who sees him or what his appearance may be.

For drunk though he may be, he knows that the only one who cares for his company are the men with whom he has been associated all winter and some of these men have never known a mother's, wife's or sister's love for years. They are addicted to the drink habit and so this other companion who has come to town with really good intentions has followed their example until his money is all gone.

By the way I would like to say that saloonkeepers are not the only ones who have an eye on the lumberjack when he comes to town. The pawnshops are there with the big spiel, also the big mitt. Some of our most popular clothing and jewelry men and men of every line nearly who may come in contact with him are ready to feed on him from his hard earned money.

There are very few men of the working class who are very well versed in the quality of dry goods or jewelry and could be just as easily fleeced as the lumberjack. But the merchants have an eye to business. The lumberjack may never come to this town again so 'get his money if you can any way you can," is the motto of some of our very worthy business men.

I am speaking from what I have seen. I have even heard some of the clerks of our clothing stores make laughing remarks on the street corner on the way home, of how he (or they) fleeced some "jack" by selling him a $10 suit for $20 or $25.

To conclude, I will say that although the lumberjack for a great part is an uneducated fellow, he has as a rule a very strong sense of honor. His word as a rule is worth more than the note of many better dressed men who feel so much above him.

There is never a call for aid from the needy that goes unheeded in the lumber camp.

There is seldom a spring when he draws his check that there is not at least one-half a month's pay gone to charity of some kind, either to fellow-workers or some poor settler.

WORK FOR CHAIN GANG.

To the Editor of The Herald:

A few lines in your Open Court in reference to the sidewalks on West Third street between Ninth and Tenth avenues. That property is or soon will be city park property, and yet that is the only block this side of Fifteenth avenue that is not cleaned or nearly cleaned of snow. All the length of that block there is only a narrow path and it is all up and down the snow banks. Could not the board of public works get in communication with Sheriff Meining and have a small gang go over there from the jail and clean off that walk, so that more than one could walk at a time. There is a good concrete walk along there, and I would like to see it. Your truly,

SNOW ON SIDEWALKS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Why is it that those masses of ice and snow are allowed to remain stuck to the sidewalks on the principal retail thoroughfare of Duluth, Superior street? You do not see such things in other cities. It is dangerous, and, moreover, it gives a stranger a bad impression of Duluth. He goes away thinking the people are rather slovenly. You may notice block after block where storekeepers kept the walks clean just in front of their own places of business but portions of the sidewalk in front of stairways are allowed to collect the ice and snow. The tenants using the stairways do not take any interest, as a rule in seeing that the walks are kept clean at those places, because anything that one of them does to get the walk cleaned will benefit the other tenants as much as himself, and, you know, what is everybody's business is nobody's business. But something should certainly be done to keep the sidewalks clean on this street, the most traveled of any in the city.

ADVICE FOR THE "LUMBERJACK."

To the Editor of The Herald:

In reply to Mr. Lumberjack, I would like to say that I have studied his problem some, and would suggest that he pike straight for the Salvation Army, as soon as he reaches town, and get the officer in command to take him at once to the savings department of the best bank, and put his time check in there to be collected for him, and leave all the money there but about $30 with which to get a general clean-up, and a new suit of town clothes. He will then be welcome anywhere. Of course, a dirty man is not wanted in clean places. He should get a bath and new clothes from head to foot, sending his old bundle to the laundry intact. If the savings department is not open when he arrives in town the Salvation Army or the Bethel will see that he is taken care of until it opens again.

Straining the Keg.

Youth's Companion: Rufus Blevins, a giant wood chopper, whose good nature and ready wit made him a welcome addition to the store circle, entered the village grocery. The loafers moved a little closer together to make room for Rufe on a soap box, but he marched past the friendly circle, plumped an empty molasses keg down on the counter and drew a stained bill from his pocket, which he held out to the proprietor of the store. An expectant grin went around the circle, for storekeeper Jones never had the reputation of never wronging himself by overcharging or undercharging. The merchant adjusted his glasses and looked expectantly from the bill to the woodchopper.

"Notice you charged me for five gallons of molasses last time I had this four-gallon keg filled," drawled Rufe. "I don't mind payin' for the extra gallon, Mr. Jones, but I do kinder hate to have a good keg strained to pices.'

Why Washington Was Born in February.

Long was February's sign
Sacred to Saint Valentine.

Fervent oaths did Cupid make,
Vows he swore that naught should break.

Promised heart should join with heart,
Till nor life nor death should part.

But' twas found, as seasons rolled,
Good-sized whoppers Cupid told.

February blushed for shame
Lying should besmirch her name.

Then, for comfort in distress,
Of the gods besought redress.

When they saw the damage done,
Lo! they gave her Washington.
—McLandburgh Wilson in Judge's Library.

The Connoisseur.

Washington Star: Joseph E. Widener, being congratulated in New York on the excellence of his father's pictures, smiled and said:

"Yes, my father has been a discreet collector. He is not like the New York millionaire whom Sargent visited.

"Sargent was taken by this millionaire through a huge gallery of dubious Rembrandts, Titians, Raphael and Murillos.

"'Mr. Sargent,' the millionaire said, gazing pompously at the long lines of vast, dingy canvasses, 'I have decided to leave my pictures to some public institution. What institution would you suggest?'

"'I suggest,' said Mr. Sargent, 'an institution for the blind.'"

This Wealth of Mine.

Have you ever tasted Failure?
Have you ever met Defeat?
Have you ever had to stand aside
For men upon the street?
Have you ever loved a woman?
Have you ever bit the dust?
Have you ever had to spur yourself
Into resolve: "I must?"
If not, for your, I'm sorry ;
If not, for your I see
No hope at all that you may have
The wealth that comforts me.

It is Failure that tests your Courage.
'Tis Defeat that measures your strength.
'Tis the men who blaze a trail 'gainst odds
Who live their life's full length.
'Tis woman mocks the manhood.
'Tis the dust that grits the teeth;
And 'tis seeking scattered forces
That pulls virtue from beneath.
So, for you, I wish the struggle
And may trouble soon be thine
If, you'd care to have the wisdom
That I term, this wealth of mine.

OUR NEXT GOVERNOR.

Very Much Alive.

Cambridge North Star: The reports of Sam Gordon's political death seem to have been greatly exaggerated. The wish may have been father of the thought.

Traveling Again.

St. Cloud Times: While Sam Gordon was not looking, Governor Eberhart stole off to Sioux Falls, S. D., and delivered an address. He got back before the lieutenant governor got a tip.

Record Covers Little.

Buffalo Journal: Governor Eberhart will seek another term on his record. Records are now said to be indestructable, but his has been used on the machine so many times that it ought to be considerably worn. The title of his record is "Consolidation of Rural Schools." Any one who has heard the governor speak for at least one year can verify this. It is a safe and sane topic.

Stanton's Qualifications.

Ada Herald: The Bemidji Pioneer suggests Judge Stanton for candidate for governor on the Democratic ticket, and says that the judge talks like a governor, looks like a governor and acts like a governor—and might add that he would get votes like a governor.

Thinks It a Blind.

Wabasha Herald: No governor of this state has ever been so much adversely criticized by the press as the present incumbent, which means that the Eberhart forces will have to put up a strong fight for renoimnation of their man. The governor's statement that he will make no active campaign is a blind, and proves that he feels the need of an exceptionally wily and careful management of his case. Sam Gordon will be "it" with the newspaper boys generally, and that situation will strengthen his chances materially.

That's It.

Coleraine Optic: Eberhart declares that he will not establish any headquarters, nor announce any platform, and will run strictly on the merits of his record. Didn't know he had acquired one, unless he has established a record as a globe trotter.

A Long Campaign.

Fairmont Sentinel: Governor Eberhart has formally announced his candidacy for re-election. This was unnecessary. He commenced announcing his candidacy for re-election on the morning of Nov. 9, 1910, and has kept it up every day since.

He May Be Lost Yet.

Sauk Center Herald: At last the cat's out of the bag. The governor of Minnesota, in an interview at Sioux City, announces that he's a candidate for re-election. Now, those of us who've been lying awake nights and worrying lest we might lose Adolph can go to bed and sleep soundly.

Social Legislation.

Kansas City Star: While social conditions in the Old World are far more critical than in the new, because the land and its resources will hardly support the population, the pension and insurance legislation of England and Germany has a significance for the United States. It shows that the great problems of modern life as they become really vital can be dealt with only through the action of society itself.

Social action is going to have an increasingly extensive field. In various ways society is bound to look after such of its members as are down in their luck. Workmen's compensation, nine-hour laws, employment agencels, and such, are all part of the inevitable program. There is no use shying away from it.

A Wife Was Peeved.

Pittsburg Post: A Knoxville bride is very much in love with her husband and very willing to admit it. She likes to sound his praises to her mother and to her girl friends, which is quite as it should be. She has a number of original expressions. When her husband is good she says he is "chocolate cake three layers deep." When he is very good he is "chocolate cake four layers deep," and so on up the scale.

Occasionally, however, things take a turn. The bride's mother dropped in the other day. The bride was a trifle peevish, but her mother pretended not to notice this.

"An how is George today?" was her inquiry. "Chocolate cake four layers deep?"

"No."

"Three layers deep?"

"No."

"Two layers deep?"

"No." This with a pout.

"Then what is he?"

"Dog biscuit!"

Unconventionalities.

Chicago Tribune: "Stand a little further away, Huggles, can't you? I don't like to have a man digging me in the ribs when he's talking to me."

"The reason I don't ask you to call on me, Mr. Spoonamore, is that I'm afraid you would come."

"Perhaps you won't mind my telling you, Mr. Pnoodles, that you're a little the meanest neighbor I ever lived next door to."

"You remember the $5 you borrowed of me last March, old chap? Well, I've charged it up to profit and loss."

"Yes, your face is perfectly familiar to me, sir; I wish it wasn't."

"You'd sell me more goods, young man, if you weren't quite so friendly and talkative."

"You needn't try to stifle your yawns, Miss Peachley; I'm as much bored as you are."

A Surprising Message.

New York Evening Post: Governor Wilson's message to the New Jersey legislature is sensational through being wholly without sensations. It is a close and intelligent study of the business of the state, with the sole object of promoting efficiency and economy. No party measures, no political novelties, no social nostrums, not a hint of national politics, but just a plain inquiry into the patch-work government of New Jersey, with the demand that it be simplified and made more effective. The governor shows how one commission overlaps or conflicts with another, and how the state institutions and the public health and even procedure in the courts suffer from the lack of a sounder organization and better direction. His plea throughout is that of a business man, rather than a theorist or a politician, and the very soberness and matter-of-factness of his message must attract unusual attention to it. From it no one would dream that this governor with his eye kept so colsely on state affairs is a presidential candidate.

The Praise of God.

Deep in the wood among the pines,
And perfumed trailing Jasimine vines,
The fragrant pine leaves for my bed,
A wild bird singing over my head.
From all the noise that mortals made,
I sought the silence of the glade.
I sought the silence freed from care,
And yet a million sounds were there
Inevery leaf, in every flower.
Each instrument in perfect tune,
The low melodies pleasing strain
Was soothing to my fevered brain.
I knelt and clapped my poor weak hands,
And prayed that I might understand
The languages of that silent glade
Where yet a million sounds were made.
The cool winds paused to kiss my face,
Their whisperings filled the sacred place.
And all at once I seemed to hear
Of million voices murmuring near,
And all at once I understood
The language of that silent wood.
The voices answered from the sod,
"We sing," said they, "the praise of God."
—Della McGovern, Eveleth, Minn.

Real Careless.

Epworth Herald: Henry Clews, at a dinner in Newport, said of American traveling.

"It is delightful to travel in America, but I think that American porters handle our luggage a little too roughly.

"Once, at a certain station, I was amazed and pleased to hear a uniformed official shout to a burly porter:

"'Hi, what are you knockin' them trunks about like that for?'

"The porter had been lifting great trunks above his head and hurling them down on to the floor furiously; but now he stood stockstill in astonishment.

"'What's that, boss?" he soid.

"'What do you mean by knockin' trunks about like that? repeated the official. 'Look at the floor, man. Look at the dents you're makin' in the concrete. Don't you know you'll lose your job if you damage the company's property?'"

Both Upholstered.

Judge's Library: Laying aside the daily paper, Mrs. Brown observed, "A padded overcoat saved a man's life in an automobile accident."

"Yes," replied Mr. Brown; "and the article mentions that his wife, who was struck on the hips, also escaped serious injury."

News and Views of Minnesota Politics

Wilson Sentiment.

Frank A. Day is for Governor Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey for president of the United States. He has indicated his preference for Wilson several times on his trip East, and in his interview published in The Herald yesterday he emphatically stated not only his own admiration for Wilson but the firm conviction that the New Jersey governor will be the nominee.

Mr. Day has been in touch with sentiment in the East and in the West and nobody can deny he is a shrewd political observer. When he says the sentiment is for Wilson, the statement must be given weight.

While the Fargo meeting was in progress, an interview with Charles G. Heifner of Seattle, Wash., was published in The Herald. Mr. Heifner said that Washington, Oregon, California, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, North Dakota and South Dakota will send Wilson delegations to the national Democratic convention. Mr. Heifner is managing the Wilson boom on the coast and his views may be biased on that account, but his statments are supported by others from the states he mentioned.

He might have included Minnesota in the list without straining a point. The Wilson sentiment in this state is just beginning to crystalize. Wilson clubs are now being organized and when they get into working order there will be a visible display of admiration for the New Jersey governor. There is little sentiment for any other of the candidates mentioned, and unless conditions change radically before the delegation is chosen. Wilson will get Minnesota's vote.

The Harvey affair has not injured Wilson's chances in the West. Western men admire frankness and fearlessness, and Governor Wilson is being commended for taking a stand that he knew to be right, though he knew also that it would bring anathemaes from his enemies.

Committee Meetings Soon.

D. D. Daly, chairman of the executive committee of the Democratic state central committee, is temporarily filling Mr. Day's position as chairman of the whole committee. Mr. Day said yesterday that he had never considered that he held the chairmanship of the committee after he left the state, which is a conclusive answer to the charge that Mr. Day was exercising the functions of his position while living outside of the state.

On account of the interest in the presidential scramble, it is expected that the meetings of the central committees will be held earlier than usual this yar. Chairman Ed Smith of the Republican committee has shown a disposition to postpone holding a meeting, but the situation may become so acute as to make an early meeting advisable. The Democratic meeting is usually held a little later than the Republican meeting, but both may be expected before the first of March.

Statements of the Minneapolis Tribune, Ed Smith's organ, to the contrary, the presidential primary petition will doubtless receive scant courtesy at the Republican committee meeting. The La Follette adherents are anxious to have a primary. Ed Smith is for Taft. Taft will get the delegation if no primary be held. La Follette would be likely to carry the state in a primary. The conclusion is obvious. Ed Smith will see that no presidential primary is held. The suggestion that an advisory vote be taken at the caucuses for the selection of delegations will undoubtedly be smothered.

Lee to Go on Stump.

William E. Lee, following Gordon's lead, has come out with an announcement that he will stump the state in behalf of his candidacy for the Republican nomination for governor. He says he will endeavor to visit every county in the state before the caucuses and will present his cause to the voters.

Gordon's speaking campaign will begin in February. He will travel on a fast schedule and will try to give some time to each county.

Eberhart has declared that he will make no campaign but will stand on his record. The statement indicates that he is either certain that the organization can pull him through without a campaign, or believes that he would not help his chances by appearing before the voters and giving them an opportunity of heckling him.

Even though Eberhart keeps out of the lists, the battle will be a merry one. Gordon and Lee can stir up some fireworks and the voters will be given an insight into the workings of the machine before they are called upon to attend the primaries and choose delegates to the nominating convention.

Dunn's View of the People.

Bob Dunn has apparently lost faith in the people. The Princeton Union says:

Oh, for a stalwart candidate for governor who would be strong enough to defy the brewers and their allies and command the confidence of the people.—Slayton Gazette.

The self-righteous hypocrites and the brewers and their allies would simply crucify such a candidate at the polls. The people of Minnesota are not yet ready to elect that kind of a governor.

Mackenzie Not a Candidate.

M. N. Koll of Cass Lake is a land dealer, but he makes use of printer's ink on the side and airs his views on timely topics in Koll's Kollum in the Cass Lake Times. He is a member of the executive committee of the Northern Minnesota Development association, and he is close to W. R. Mackenzie, secretary of the association. The statement in his "kollum" this week that Mackenzie is not a candidate for secretary of state may therefore be taken as authoritative. Mackenzie is busy looking after the immigration bureau of the development association at Minneapolis and he is not likely to dabble into politics this year.

McGarry's Boom.

P. H. McGarry of Walker, who has taken an early start in the race for the legislature, is receiving encouragement from the newspapers of his district. C. H. Warner of Aitkin, whose seat McGarry covets, was a good representative and will probably seek reelection. It looks as though McGarry will have to put up a stiff fight to return to the capital.

GEORGE D. McCARTHY.

LA FOLLETTE IN NEW YORK

New York, Jan. 23.—The political atmosphere in the East was further charged last night by the first appearance in this section of Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin since he announced his candidacy as a "Progressive Republican" for the presidential nomination.

In connection with the senator's coming there was political gossip to the effect that Col. Roosevelt might also appear at the Carnegie hall mass meeting, which Senator La Follette addressed, and possibly lend assistance to his "boom," but the colonel was not present. Instead, he attended a dinner of several prominent leaders in his party work at the National Art club.

Gifford Pinchot, a close friend of Former President Roosevelt, who has been regarded as a staunch Roosevelt lieutenant, appeared with Senator La Follette, however, and presided at the meeting. He presented Senator La Follette as "the candidate I support for the Republican presidential nomination."

Held Overflow Meeting.

While the meeting was under way the crowd which sought admittance grew to such proportions that an overflow meeting was held in the street, which the Wisconsin senator addressed while those inside were listening to Mr. Pinchot.

When the senator was finally led to the platform in the hall, the audience rose and shouted, women waved handkerchiefs and cheers were given for him as "the next president of the United States."

"I have been admonished," the senator said, "that I am to address an audience different from any I have addressed before. I am admonished that for the most part this audience—

The speaker was interrupted by a voice:

"This audience means business."

"I too, mean business," the senator said, "that's why I am regarded as a dangerous man. I believe that, contrary to some rumors I have heard, the men and women in New York do care for this republic and are interested in its welfare.

Send Two Senators.

"Our fathers provided that each state should send two senators to congress, not to represent the Steel trust or the money trust or Standard Oil, but all the people of the state. We have therefore the best government or else no government. Our fathers established it as a purely representative government. Is it so today?" (Cries of "no—no—no—it is not, it is no government at all.") "Democracy is a loose form of organization and always there has been a strong machine of a few rich and powerful men who have controlled democracies."

CHILD HAD ECZEMA ITCHED TERRIBLY

Small Sores All Over Face, Scratched, Which Made Them Worse. Could Not Sleep. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured Her.

1711 W. 20th St., Chicago, Ill. — "My child suffered greatly with eczema. First small sores began in a few places on her face and then all over her face, becoming larger. The child scratched them, which made them worse. They itched terribly and she could not sleep. The itching made her cry often, but medicine did not seem to help any. This had lasted three weeks when I sent for Cuticura Soap and Ointment. The result was great. Cuticura Soap and Ointment cured her and we highly recommend them." (Signed) Mrs. Kral, November, 1911.

FACE FREED FROM PIMPLES

Through Cuticura Soap and Ointment.

417 Cherry St., New York, N. Y. — "About two years ago there suddenly appeared on my face and forehead pimples and blackheads. The pimples were scattered over my face. They were sore and caused plenty of pain. I suffered much from them. I tried several different remedies. I declared it was hopeless to remove those pimples from my face.

"About four months ago a friend recommended to me the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I used them nightly and almost immediately I found the desired results. First I would smear the affected parts with Cuticura Ointment and leave same on my face for five minutes. Then I would wash my face thoroughly with Cuticura Soap and warm water. After doing this for three weeks I found my face free from pimples and my sufferings at an end. I always use the Cuticura Soap now." (Signed) Sydney Unger, Nov. 22, 1911.

Sam Polinsky was found not guilty of counterfeiting by a jury in the United States district court which deliberated on the case several hours yesterday.

Polinsky's friends were awaiting the verdict of the jury and when it was announced late yesterday afternoon, they made no attempt to conceal their satisfaction.

Edward Paul, who was arrested with Polinsky, pleaded guilty. He will be sentenced in a few days.

Peculiar After Effects of Grip This Year

Leaves Kidneys in Weakened Condition

Doctors in all parts of the country have been kept busy with the epidemic of grip which has visited so many homes. The symptoms of grip this year are very distressing and leave the system in a run down condition, particularly the kidneys which seem to suffer most, as every victim complains of lame back and urinary troubles which should not be neglected, as these danger signals often lead to more serious sickness, such as dreaded Bright's Disease. Local druggists report a large sale on Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root which so many people say soon heals and strengthens the kidneys after an attack of grip. Swamp-Root is a great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, and, being an herbal compound, has a gentle healing effect on the kidneys, which is almost immediately noticed by those who try it. Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., offer to send a sample bottle of Swamp-Root, free by mail, to every sufferer who requests it. A trial will convince any one who may be in need of it. Regular size bottles 50cts. and $1.00. For sale at all druggists. Be sure to mention this paper.

TAKES TO HOLDUP GAME IN ORDER TO BE KILLED.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 23.—"I wanted to die. I courted death in front of that Italian's big revolver. I was weary of the fight and wanted to give up."

This statement was made in the city hospital here by Fred H. Helmer, a "gentleman robber," shot and seriously wounded by an Italian storekeeper after Helmer had held up half a dozen persons and taken small amounts. Physicians say Helmer may recover and thus be cheated out of his dearest wish—to die.

"I am of a good family in New York, where I was born," said Helmer. "Had it not been for the fire in San Francisco, which took all I had, I would be all right today."

Giacalone, the Italian, bears out Helmer's statement that he faced full around and received the Italian's bullet without flinching. Helmer's holdups were accomplished with an old-fashioned "bull dog" revolver innocent of loads. The robber was natilly dressed, middle aged, with iron gray hair, and deported himself more like a prosperous business man than a highway man.

WOMAN'S REALM.

Miss Nettie E. Trimble and Miss Mae Corinne Anders have come to the local Young Women's Christian association to take hold of the work and help bring it up to a higher degree of efficiency in all its fields.

Miss Trimble, who has often visited here as city secretary for the Northwest district, will be in Duluth for six months and will have general charge of all association work and Miss Anders has been engaged as extension and educational secretary.

Educational work of such an organization as the Young Women's Christian association should prove a big factor and the need of a secretary to take charge of this work has long been felt. Miss Anders will work in the factories and outlying districts as extension secretary, organizing clubs and holding occasional meetings. While in the educational work she will have charge of the classes conducted in the association building, and the formation of classes in other parts of the city.

The purpose of the educational department of the Y. W. C. A. is to provide for girls and women opportunities for intellectual and occupational improvement, which they are unable to secure elsewhere and to make the association further serve as an educational force through co-operation with all other educational institutions in the community.

1. To make up deficiencies in fundamental education, e. g. English branches and elementary arithmatic.
2. To give training for wage earning, e. g. stenography, trade courses, art designs.
3. To increase working efficiency and earning capacity, e. g. English for stenographers, business arithmatic, cooking for maids.
4. To prepare wage earners to become home makers and to increase the efficiency of home makers, e. g. home economics, domestic science, house decoration, millinery.
5. To furnish intellectual equipment for busy people, e. g. current literature, current events, civics.
6. To provide facilities for general culture, e. g. choral class history of art, literature.
7. To meet particular individual needs, e. g. parliamentary law, social reforms, use of speaking voice.

Classes for the new term will be opened Feb. 1 in embroidery, sewing, cooking, English, gymnasium work, mandolin and guitar, swimming, and Bible study.

In the domestice science department there will be the general cooking class, the supper class for young business women who can cook their own supper during their lesson hour, a class for cooking for nurses, and a class for housemaids.

The English classes for foreign speaking girls will be continued and new ones started and the old schedule for the gymnastum and swimming classes will be renewed with the addition of an afternoon class for teachers on Monday afternoons. This class work will include Swedish and German drill work, folk dancing and gymnasium work.

MISS MAE CORINNE ANDERS.

MISS NETTIE E. TRIMBLE.

A teacher's training class in Bible lessons conducted by Mrs. C. M. Willson, a Sunday school lesson class will be conducted by Miss Severence and a high school Bible class conducted by Miss Rockwood will be held and Miss Trimble will open a new class in "The Life of Christ."

All of these Bible classes are free and open to all who are interested in them.

A literary club will also be formed soon for the study of the best literature, the course to extend over twelve weeks. Admission to this class will be a membership privilege.

A beginning in social center work has been made in West Duluth by the association. Classes in English are now being held regularly in the Irving high school and the members enjoy little social gatherings. This work will be extended and broadened so that it may be more far reaching in its effects.

Miss Anders comes to Duluth from the Minneapolis association and is taking hold of her work with interest. She is a graduate of the Iowa State university and well equipped for her work.

Geraldine Farrar Scores Success in New Opera

FARRAR AS ROSAURA.

The production at the Metropolitan opera house of the Wolf-Ferrari opera "Le Donne Curiere" was a triumph not alone for the composer, but for Geraldine Farrar. This young American artist sang the exquisite music of this new composer with an intelligence, charm and vocal perfection which probably could have been achieved by no other singer of the present generation. Possessed of rare romantic as well as vocal gifts, Miss Farrar made of Rosaura, another of their characters, which, like Madame Butterfly, are essentially her own. The opera is full of exquisite music cleverly scored. While some passages are suggestive of older composers and the style is distinctly that of Mozart, much of it is wholly original, and the score is filled with most exquisite melodies. Miss Farrar, who is a trifle thinner than she was last year, was as beautiful to the eyes as she was satisfying to the ear.

This Shampoo Stops Hair from Falling

"Alkali shampoos will cause hair to grow dull and lifeless, split at ends and fall out," says Mrs. Mae Martyn in the Boston News, "and until hurtful soaps or mixtures are discontinued there can be no relief. A very fine shampoo mixture can be made by dissolving a teaspoonful canthrox in a cup of hot water. This should be poured on the head slowly and rubbed up well and it will create an abundance of white, creamy lather.

"After a canthrox shampoo the hair dries evenly and quickly, while the scalp is left clean, pliant and healthy. It is not necessary to shampoo every week when canthrox is employed, because its effects are quick and lasting. Continued using canthrox insures a clean, healthy, scalp and an abundance of rich, glossy, attractive hair easy to do up and of evenness in color."

THE EVENING STORY

RODNEY SLOAN'S LAST SCOOP

By T. J. Wendell.

As he ate his crullers and drank his coffee in Brogan's 5-cent lunchroom that wet April evening, Rodney Sloan was anything but cheerful. He had not had enough drinks to make him think lightly of his woes. And then the soggy rain had helped. Rodney rubbed his bleary eyes and sat brooding.

He staggered up to the desk, paid his check, and trudged out with a lagging step. Over to "Newspaper Row" he wandered, and into the Sun's "City room."

He glanced over to the corner where his old desk used to be. Sitting at it, slashing copy, was a young fellow—a boy with a glittering eye, with features of iron, with a jaw that snapped open and shut.

Sloan could hear the linotypes clicking above. He could smell the fresh paper stock, the pungent young fellows picking out their stories on type ink. He could see the long writing tables, and the writers that tapped and sang. The old newspaper fever came back to him—it was the call of the trade.

He hurried over to the young man at the desk. The editor looked up as though he begrudged the glance away from his work.

"Do for you?" he inquired tersely.

"My name's Rodney Sloan. I used to be city editor here."

"Glad to know you, sir."

"I have a story. If you care for it, I'll put it on the machine."

"Wish you would." The young chap pointed to a typewriter, and cut a piece of copy with his long shears.

Sloan bended over the machine and with clumsy fingers played with the keys. Gradually he gained speed—the old skill was coming back. The sentences, periodic and loose, came forth like turnings from a perfect lathe. He noted with satisfaction, as he pushed the carriage up, that technically his "lead" was perfect. He had summed his whole story in his opening paragraphs.

Then step by step he proceeded to develop it. Steadily at his beck and call the rounded phrases rolled forth. Paragraph by paragraph the climax developed. At last it was finished. Sloan pulled the sheet of copy paper from the machine, and started with his story over to the city editor. His step was not languid now. It was energetic, the tread of a wide-awake newspaper man.

"Long envelope," he demanded of the city editor. His requisition was granted. "Not to be opened until 10 o'clock," he inscribed on the front. He sealed up his story, and handed the parcel to the man at the desk.

"Promise me you won't open this until 10 o'clock," he asked.

The editor nodded, Sloan left. So soon as he had finished correcting a paragraph of proof the editor ripped open the envelope. Newspaper workers know no ethics. He read the opening paragraph and gasped.

"Cole," he yelled. The Sun's star man came on the run. "Suicide," he shouted. "Bridge A., Rodney Sloan, our old city editor." Cole jammed his derby down and was out of the door like a shot.

Then he read Sloan's story through slowly. "Here you," he commanded of the two cubs who were just returning from Brogan's lunch room. "If you want to know what a real newspaper story is, read this." The young men read Sloan's story in silence. It was the simple story of a man fallen. It told of an impetus ambition to score a newspaper scoop. It told of his sacrifice to obtain that scoop. It told if his struggles. It possessed that thing that Mitchell had told them he wanted put into their stories—heart interest. It was the dynamic, climatic work of a master composer describing his motive for suicide. It named its cost—a human life.

In awe they laid it down on the desk. "Eh?" asked the city editor, nodding. For once his iron features melted, and he smiled sadly.

The door opened. Cole had returned. He shook his head, "I beat the patrol by a second. I was just too late to prevent his jumping over."

An ink stained boy came in from the composing room. "Copy," he yelled Mitchell handed him Sloan's story. "Here," he said. "Front page leader. Seven column head."

Dr. Gladden Chaplain.

Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 23. — Rev. Washington Gladden, pastor of the First Congregational church, who, in refusing a contribution from John D. Rockefeller, created the term 'tainted money," is to be chaplain of the Ohio Constitutional convention. The committee of rules authorized a resolution naming Dr. Gladden.

"THE ADVENTURER" MORE THAN MERE "HOME TALENT SHOW."

When amateurs present a play of the standard of "The Adventurer," and in the pretentious manner that it was done last evening at the Lyceum, it can no longer be viewed as merely a "home talent show," and deserves more serious criticism than the ordinary column of fulsome praise devoted to the efforts of beginners.

"The Adventurer" was presented under the auspices of Mrs. Robert Morris Seymour's dramatic structure class, for the purpose of raising funds to establish a branch of the Drama League of America in Duluth. Lecturers like President Vincent and Jane Addams and Richard Burton will be brought to the city with the money raised by the play. The play was presented under the direction of M. Benedict Papot, director of the French theater in Chicago, who also took the leading male role.

"The Adventurer" is the work of Alfred Capus, and is a play of the modern French school. Americans are prone to think of only the nasty French farces which have been transplanted to this country, when any work of the French dramatists is mentioned, but these are far from being representative of the work that the modern French school of writers is doing. "The Adventurer" is not a great drama. Its theme is not striking or vital enough. But it is a clean, carefully constructed play. To the average American audience it seems "talky" and the criticism may be well founded, but the character studies are well worked out, and the technique of the writer is excellent. The play is also typical of modern French life, and has the French atmosphere. The plot is far from being uninteresting, even though the action is slight.

It was most carefully presented last evening, the scenery being excellent, and the glaring faults of amateurs being missing. The usual long waits were lacking and the actors carried the play well, not allowing it to drag. The prompter had but little to do, and the painful nervousness of the amateur actor was not in evidence, with one exception.

Mr. Papot in the leading role is entitled to much of the credit for the smoothness of the performance. He is a finished actor himself, and his professional experience enabled him to keep the play moving when it otherwise would have dragged. In this he was most ably supported by Mrs. F. A. Patrick, whose professional experience enabled her to aid Mr. Papot in getting the proper spirit into the performance. She not only handled her own role well, but her presence and her easy, natural stage manner seemed to put the more inexperienced members of the cast at their ease and give them the confidence needed.

As far as the applause went, Miss Marjorie Morrow undoubtedly carried off the honors of the evening, and she did handle the ingenue role of Lucienne like a professional. About all the comedy there was she provided, and she made a most charming stage picture.

Miss Rachel St. Clair played the part of Martha, one of the leading parts, with most admirable ease and impression. She apparently made a serious effort to present an intelligent study of the character of the wife of Jack Gueroy, and she succeeded.

Fred H. Waldron, Jr., as Jack, was equally successful with his part. Mr. Waldron got as much out of the role as the average professional would have done.

Dr. D. H. Day had a very lengthy and difficult part in Gueroy, the uncle. Dr. Day has an unfortunate habit of hesitating and groping for his lines. It may have been due to the fact that he was not letter perfect in them, and it may have been a mannerism, but it was not necessary for the part and it destroyed the effectiveness of some very excellent work, for his makeup was excellent, and he seemed to have a thorough grasp of the character of the domineering self-seeking old uncle.

Caldwell Harris was surprisingly good in the part of Framie, the manager of the factory. He was neglected by the person who had charge of the makeup, and he was handicapped by the fact that his extreme youth showed in the part of an old man, but the young man's work was most pleasing, and he made his rather short part stand out forcibly.

William White, Jr., as Andre Vareze acquitted himself most creditably. His only fault was a lack of complete confidence in himself, and at the times he forgot himself he was most satisfactory. It was a fault that a very little more experience would eradicate.

De Witt C. Sprague was the victim of a most unfortunate stage nervousness. He was apparently unable to get control of his stage fright, in spite of heroic efforts, and this detracted from his work, which otherwise would have been first class.

Mrs. James E. Gardner made a very stunning and very effective baroness, entering into the part with spirit and with intelligence.

Julius Nolte had but a few lines as the servant, but said them quietly and well.

The "supers" were one of the real surprises of the performance. Probably Duluth never saw such a distinguished list of supers before, and the staging of the scene in the card room was most effective, and most admirably handled.

The cast is as follows:

THE HOUSEHOLD

If you have a damp wall, paper it first with black leaded brown paper, putting the black side next the wall. The black-lead is damp proof and thus saves the color of room paper and the annoyance of discolored wall.

To keep cabbage fresh, get a cabbage with a few inches of stalk to it, scoop out the pith, without breaking the rind; hang up the cabbage by the stalk and fill the hollow with fresh water each day. Thus treated, cabbages will keep fresh for a week or two.

After you have eaten an egg, take the shell, fill it with stale ale, sweeten with sugar and set in the center of the kitchen table and it is surprising how the flies gather round. The shape of the egg shell causes them to overbalance and drown. If several are placed about a room can be very quickly cleared of flies.

The vessel containing milk should be scrupulously clean, especially at the rim, and it should be scalded each time it is emptied. Never set milk where anything with a strong smell is stored, as it quickly takes up all other flavors. If milk has been standing for some time, do not use the last tablespoonful. All impurities sink to the bottom.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

PLAN SCHOOL FOR FARMERS

Short Course to Be Conducted at Mandan for Missouri Slopers.

Agricultural Experts Will Talk on Pertinent Subjects Feb. 5-15.

Mandan, N. D., Jan. 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—A school in agriculture for the benefit of the farmers of Morton and adjoining counties will be established here by the commercial club. The school will be operated on the "short-course" plan, Feb. 5 to 15.

The short-course school, to be conducted in the clubrooms, will be addressed by several of the prominent agricultural educators of the state.

Regular classes will be conducted in the various branches of farming, grain and cattle to be given particular attention. Dairying is one of the Missouri slope's biggest interests, and for that reason the school will give that feature a prominent place.

Expect 100 Farmers.

An enrollment of about 100 farmers is expected. Prof. G. W. Randlett, who will be in charge, is enthusiastic over the plan and believes it will be very successful.

In addition to the school for the farmers, Mandan will have two other events of interest,—the annual Morton county dry farming congress and the annual meeting of the state dairy association.

The dates for the dry farming congress have not been fixed.

The dairy meeting takes place Feb. 15 and 16. On the last day of the school there will be practical butter judging.

KILLS HIMSELF NEAR BROOKSTON

F. Banta, Son of Old Homesteader, Commits Suicide.

Brookston, Minn., Jan. 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—Frank Banta, aged about 27 years and second son of Peter A. Banta, committed suicide by shooting himself through the head with a .30-.30 caliber rifle Sunday afternoon.

It appears that Banta had been acting strangely for several days, and the only reason given for his actions was that he was brooding over the refusal of the girl to become his bride. For nearly a week previous to the day on which he took his life he had been visiting with a friend, John Bowen, who lived about two miles from his father's place, where he made his home. Until Sunday he scarcely spoke a word. Towards the end of the afternoon he remarked that he was feeling better and guessed that he would "go over to see his folks."

That was the last time he was seen alive. During the early part of the evening Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Wilkman left their homestead to visit with Carl Sahanen, and when about a half mile from home they came upon the lifeless body. Neighbors were notified and the body was covered and taken care of until the deputy coroner arrived and pronounced it a case of suicide.

He had gone to within about three-quarters of a mile of his father's cabin when he killed himself. He selected a small knoll a short distance from the road, and, placing the large caliber rifle against his forehead, he pusher the trigger, which he was able to reach with his hand because of the short barrel of the weapon. The top of his head was completely blown off, while the force of the discharge blew his cap into the limb of a nearby tree.

Short funeral services were held here this morning and burial will be in Cloquet. The deceased had lived in this community for a good many years and was well liked by all. Two weeks ago he made final commutation proof on his homestead claim in section 14-50-19. Besides his aged father he leaves two brothers who reside near here, and a sister, who lives at Manilla, Iowa.

CRITICAL TIME OF WOMAN'S LIFE

From 40 to 50 Years of Age. How It May Be Passed in Safety.

Odd, Va.:—"I am enjoying better health than I have for 20 years, and I believe I can safely say now that I am a well woman. I was reared on a farm and had all kinds of heavy work to do which caused the troubles that came on me later. For five years during the Change of Life I was not able to lift a pail of water. I had hemorrhages which would last for weeks and I was not able to sit up in bed. I suffered a great deal with my back and was so nervous I could scarcely sleep at night, and I did not do any housework for three years.

"Now I can do as much work as any woman of my age in the county, thanks to the benefit I have received from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I recommend your remedies to all suffering women."—Mrs. MARTHA L. HOLLOWAY, Odd, Va.

No other medicine for woman's ills has received such wide-spread and unqualified endorsement. We know of no other medicine which has such a record of success as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. For more than 30 years it has been the standard remedy for woman's ills.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

INDIANS GETTING THEIR ANNUITIES

Bemidji, Minn., Jan .23.—(Special to The Herald.)—More than $2,000 was paid out here Monday to the Indians of the White Earth reservation in their annual annuities.

The paying staff was made up of Supt. John R. Howard; W. G. West, chief clerk; William Dailey, assistant chief clerk, and C. A. Peterson, stenographer, all from the White Earth agency.

At the request of Maj. Howard all the sallons here were closed between the hours of 10 a. m. and 4 p. m., and the police say that not an intoxicated Indian resulted from the bundle of money given them.

"They couldn't get liquor at the saloons," said Supt. Howard, "it's the bootlegger that causes the mischief. Bemidji has done fine; treated splendid last year and that is why we came back this year."

To Indians from Cass Lake, Bena and Ball Club $1,235.20 was paid, and at noon forty-nine Indians from the Red Lake agency in this vicinity had received their money.

Interest on Tribal Funds.

The money given the Indians is the interest from the Chippewa tribal fund held in trust by the government. The annual payment usually is made earlier but the agents were delayed this year and the cash at this time is particularly appropriate, as many of the Indians are in straightened circumstances as a result of the recent cold.

The annuity this year is $9.63, while last year it was only $6.25. Each member of the family is entitled to an annuity.

James De Jordan of Cass Lake drew an annuity for himself and nine children. Al Beaulieau last week one Indian received payments for himself and twelve children and stands so far this year as the most Roosevelt ian Indian family in Minnesota.

A Skin Tightener to Reduce Wrinkles

(From Popular Medicine.)

In beauty culture, as in the treatment of disease, the tendency nowadays is to seek the removal of causes, rather than to treat symptoms or effects. In the matter of wrinkles, for instance, we know that the lines or furrows are caused by the skin becoming loose in places, so it does not perfectly fit the flesh beneath. The skin then "wrinkles" or sags. Naturally the proper thing to do is to tighten the skin—make it fit—then there's no room for lines, wrinkles and folds, and no surplus skin to sag or bag.

The best known formula for the purpose is: Saxolite, 1 oz., in ½ pint witch-hazel. Use as a wash lotion. The effect is truly remarkable, especially as results are immediate. Ask the druggist for the powdered saxolite, which dissolves more quickly than any other form.

Complexions Flaked Off At Home

(From Pilgrim Magazine.)

The girl with the poor complexion complains, "I have to touch up my cheeks. I am sallow and a sight, and only my makeup saves me."

Now, as a matter of fact, more women spoil their good looks than improve them with cosmetics. The practice certainly is inexcusable, now that the virtues of ordinary mercolized wax have become known. The mercollde in the wax has wonderful absorbent powers. It causes the faded or discolored scarf skin to flake off in minute, almost imperceptible particles, so gently, gradually, as to cause no inconvenience at all. In this way the old complexion is actually removed—likewise all fine lines, pimples, blotches, moth patches or other surface defects. A new complexion appears—a clear, smooth, youthful, healthy-hued skin such as no paint, powder or lotion can produce. An ounce of mercolized wax, to be had at any drug store, is sufficient. It is applied like cold cream.

APPARATUS TO BE IMPROVED

Two Harbors Will Be Better Prepared Against Future Fires.

Council Orders More Hose and Hears Good Report on Coal Yard.

Two Harbors, Minn., Jan. 23.—(Special to The Herald.—The council devoted most of its session last night in discussing the recommendation and requests of the fire chief, M. H. Brickley, who urged the immediate necessity of purchasing 500 feet of fire hose and a quantity of other apparatus. As a result of the chief's request advertisement for bids for the fire apparatus will be made immediately. The department was also handicapped by not having a convenient place to dry the hose, but arrangements have been made with B. R. Moore, superintendent of motive power of the Duluth & Iron Range, whereby a satisfactory place may be had in the machine shop.

Resolution Is Changed.

The council received the resolution allowing the contract price of the coal shed to be paid out of the general fund without the mayor's approval. The city is doing a big business in coal and according to Esse is making big jrifits, having cleared $25 on the first three car loads.

PREVENTING FIRES FROM GASOLINE

The national fire prevention committee is sending out bulletins telling how to use gasoline safely.

As many fires result from the improper use of explosive oils, the committee deems it of importance that rules be given out so that the use of the fluid will not endanger lives and property.

The bulletin says:

"The gasoline vapor is heavier than the air and sinks immediately to the floor and unless it is disturbed by active air currents will remain in the room for many hours. One pint of gasoline will make 200 hundred cubic feet of explosive mixture. This gasoline vapor is seven times more powerful than gun powder.

"Every gasoline explosion and fire that occurs in the home is due to ignorance and carelessnss on the part of the user. Gloves must be cleaned. fabrics must be dipped in gasoline or alcohol and their use will continue.

"Gasoline should be used in open air wherever possible, but if it must be used in the house, all the windows should be opened wide and a sufficient draft created to drive all the vapor from the room. It is almost criminal to use gasoline in the kitchen or other rooms where it is exposed to fire. The vapor has been known to jump thirty feet from a tank in the open air and explode with such violence as to wreck the tank car and burn all the buildings in the immediate neighborhood.

"It is not necessary to touch a match to it. A spark from the heel of a shoe striking a tack or nail will explode the vapor. A lighted gas jet will produce the same result. Keep gasoline away from every kind of flame even if that flame is enclosed as in a stove or furnace.

"Articles dipped, washed or soaked in gasoline give off an explosive vapor for hours after. They should be thoroughly aired before being used and always kept away from exposed flame. A woman cleansed her gloves with gasoline. An hour later she put them on to go out. Before leaving the house she stopped to light the gas. The gloves caught fire and severely burned her hands and arms. This occurred in Rochester."

MEETS FRIEND AFTER THIRTY-FOUR YEARS.

"Dick" Schell, of motor boat and mining fame, was one of the most surprised men in Duluth yesterday afternoon.

He was "drilling" down Superior street gazing abstractedly ahead, engaged in deep thought, when he was rudely jarred and brought back to earth. A heavy slap on the back and a hearty "Hello, Dick, where've you been these ages back," greeted his ears as he gathered himself together.

Turning around he met "Al" Adams of Winnipeg. The two were old friends from Chicago and had not seen each other since 1878, thirty-four years ago, although it turned out that both had been in the same cities at the same time on a number of occasions. Utterly oblivious to the crowds dividing on both sides of them the two stood on the sidewalk and talked over old days. For half an hour or more the air buzzed with recollections of the old days. Fortunately the weather man was kinder than he was earlier in the year, or it is probable that otherwise the two would have frozen their faces before they would have realized that it was cold, so engrossed were they in one another.

The Proof That Duluth Readers Cannot Deny.

What could furnish stronger evidence of the efficiency of any remedy than the test of time? Thousands of people testify that Doan's Kidney Pills cure permanently.

Home endorsement should prove undoubtedly the merit of this remedy. Years ago your friends and neighbors testified to the relief they had derived from the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. They now confirm their testimonials. They say time has completed the test.

Edward J. Hoppman, 422 W. First St., Duluth, Minn., says: "I have looked upon Doan's Kidney Pills as a good kidney medicine ever since I first tried them about twelve years ago. An account of my experience was given for publication at that time and in 1904 and in 1908, I again endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills. At the present time I take pleasure in confirming my statement. My kidney trouble was evidenced by sharp pains in my back and I was also annoyed by kidney weakness. In the morning when I got up, I was tired and all run down. Doan's Kidney Pills completely stopped these troubles. Since then, I have used this remedy and it has done good work."

CANALEJAS OUT OF POWER AGAIN

Spanish Premier Likely to Have to Yield to Conservatives.

Madrid, Jan. 23.—Premier Canalejas' cabinet virtually has resigned. It is understood the contemplated retirement of the ministry is due to the coolness of the king in his audience with Premier Canalejas in regard to the commutation of the sentences of death pronounced by a council of war on the revolutionists involved in the murder of a judge and the wounding of several court officials at Cullera, in the province of Valencia, last September.

The reprieve of the revolutionists angered the conservative party, and ex-Premier Maura went to King Alfonso and told him his act constituted a condemnation of the conservative policies of rigorous repression at Barcelona, and of the execution of Ferrer, and that such a proceeding was dangerous to the future of Spain.

The Catholic newspaper Universo claims the change of ministry is due to the necessity of combatting the growing republican and socialist forces.

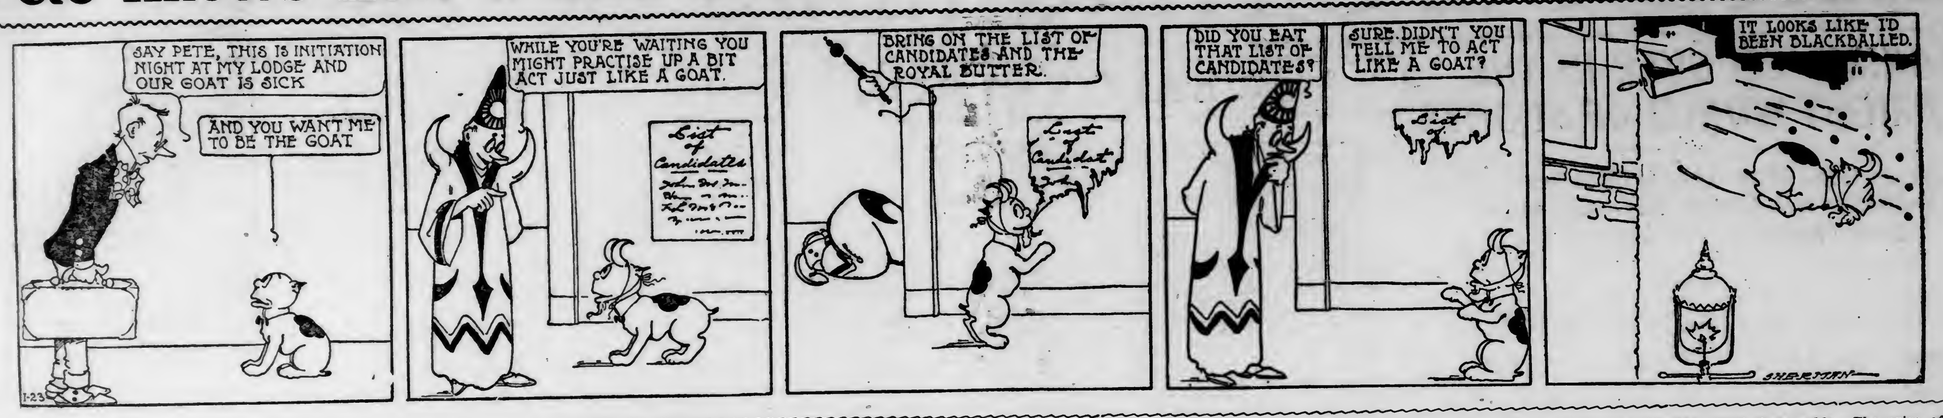

The Liberal Manana deplores the return of the conservatives and demands an explanation of the mystery.

FRANCHISE IS REFUSED

Council Unwilling to Give Away Lesure Street Right-of-Way.

Test Case on Right to Demand Parks in New Additions.

The city council last night, by a vote of 10 to 5, refused to grant the West Duluth Land company a franchise to lay railroad tracks on Lesure street, West Duluth.

The ordinance granting the franchise did not get as far as a final vote, the resolution to put it on its final passage being turned down before those who were present to speak in its favor had an opportunity to be heard.

Several of the aldermen from the western end of the city expressed themselves as strongly opposed to giving the land company the strip which the firm desires for railroad purposes. The tracks are intended to connect a large coal dock to be erected on the water front in that vicinity with the Northern Pacific railroad.

Aldermen Krueger, Gibson and Bernard stated that in making sales in that vicinity the land company had reserved a strip 16 feet wide for railroad purposes. They said that such being the case it would be poor business for the city to give the company the free use of the street. Alderman Bernard also called attention to the fact that at some future date the city will likely desire to build a bridge from West Duluth to Superior. In that case he pointed out that Lesure street would be the principal highway leading to the structure and that it would greatly hamper traffic to have part of the highway occupied by a railroad.

Although City Attorney Bert Fesler counseled the aldermen to approve plats of Colman's second and third additions, near Woodland, the council voted to postpone action on the matter for one week.

Previous to the vote Attorney E. M. Morgan stated that if the council did not approve the plats last evening, he would get a writ of mandamus from the district court directing that such action be taken. Although the city attorney did not give his reasons in detail, he appeared to think that should such action be taken, the city would be unable to contest it successfully. He said that the approval of the two plats in question would not affect the future action of the council.

Some time ago the council refused to approve the plats because they did not make any provision for dedicating to the city any parks or playgrounds. Alderman Z. D. Scott said that he believed that now is as good a time as any to find out where the council stands in the matter. He added that if the council were to insist upon getting playground and park space in the new additions, the aldermen ought to find out now if they can legally do so. The majority of the city fathers concurred in his views and voted for the postponement, which, from the statement of Attorney Morgan, meant that the matter would be settled in the district court.

A resolution was passed directing the street railway company to build a line to Duluth Heights from Seventh avenue east when the proposed extension in the Second ward has been completed. Alderman Hogan, who introduced the resolution, stated that he was anxious to have it passed at once as a meeting of the company officials is to be held in Detroit some time this week, at which the matter could be taken up. He said that under the present system the residents of the Heights have to make two changes in all kinds of weather and that it takes an unreasonably long time to make the trip. By starting a line from Seventh avenue east he explained that the unnecessary changes would be eliminated while the time consumed in making the trip would be cut in two. The resolution also contained a provision that the city would assist the company in laying out and grading the most favorable route.

The city engineer reported that it would cost $280,000, not including the cost of the dirt approaches, to build a twenty-six-foot addition to the new Grassy Point bridge of the Northern Pacific across the St. Louis river between West Duluth and Superior. He asserted that in his opinion the city could save money by constructing a separate bridge for street cars, teams and pedestrians at a point where the shores were considerably closer together.

Chief Troyer recommended to the council last evening that the new police station to be built at New Duluth be erected nearer the center of population. The site proposed to be used is adjacent to the fire hall at New Duluth. The chief takes the position that it should be nearer the steel plant. A. C. Volk & Co., real estate dealers, have offered to give the city a lot at Gary to be used for the police station. The matter was referred to the city property committee, which will report on the matter within the next week or two.

Alderman Krueger introduced a resolution calling for electric street lights at New Duluth. Light in the suburb is supplied at present by a private corporation. The matter was laid over for one week.

The finance committee was directed to investigate and report on the condition of the permanent improvement fund. It was stated that practically all the money levied last fall for use in that fund the current year has been appropriated.

The new curfew ordinance was passed without any opposition and no fireworks. It differs from the present ordinance chiefly in that it makes the violators of the ordinance amenable to the juvenile court instead of the municipal court. It also makes it easier of enforcement by the police, as the officer is not required to take the delinquent home. But he is obliged to secure the name of the parent or guardian, as the ordinance holds them responsible for the child.

The council appropriated $75 to construct a small bridge over Tischer's creek where it is crossed by the Legare road.

The city engineer was directed to prepare estimates of the cost of improving Eighteenth avenue west between Second and Third streets and of constructing a sanitary sewer in Piedmont avenue from Fourth street westerly for 300 feet.

A. L. Bayless filed notice of a claim of $3,000 for injuries alleged to have been sustained Jan. 4 last, because of an improperly constructed and icy sidewalk at Fourth avenue west and Michigan street.

The annual reports of the city treasurer, the sealer of weights and measures and the municipal court were filed with the council.

A resolution to print the proposed charter amendments in a Swedish paper was voted down, the majority of the aldermen taking the position that enough money has already been spent in advertising them.

SUGGESTS SEGREGATION OF STEEL CORPORATION ROADS

Commissioner Smith Says Lake Ore Profits Are Unreasonable.

Washington, Jan. 23.—Unreasonable profits are made on iron ore of the lake region, excessive earnings flowing to the treasury of the United States Steel corporation from its ore transportation facilities, which suggest the necessity from the standpoint of the public policy, of segregating the ore railroads from the giant corporation; and large intercompany profits are made by consolidated ore, iron and steel companies, according to a preliminary report on the cost of production in the steel industry by Herbert Knox Smith, commissioner of corporations.

The report was presented to President Taft and sent to the house committee on ways and means for consideration in connection with the proposed revision of the steel tariff schedule.

Ore Prices Too High.

"The prices of lake ore," the report declares, "have been kept for many years at an unreasonably high level, compared with the cost of production and the cost of the investment in the producing ore properties."

The report is based upon an investigation of two-thirds of the country's production of iron and steel from 1902 to 1906 inclusive. Limited data for 1902 to 1910, Mr. Smith adds, makes it clear that these figures substantially represent present conditions also.

In so far as the Steel corporation "enjoys monopolistic power," the report states, it lies chiefly in its holdings of ore and its railroad transportation facilities. This company, the report declares, has acquired unduly large ore reserves, holding at the close of 1910 at least fifty years' supply at the present rate of consumption, exclusive of the Great Northern ore properties, the lease of which has been cancelled effective Jan. 1, 1915. It is estimated that the corporation has fully 1,200,000,000 tons of other ore in the lake region.

Average Cost of Ore.

The average cost of lake ore generally, delivered at lower lake ports, from 1902 to 1906 was $2.64 per ton. The average transfer profit on ore was 66 cents per ton. This is regarded as excessive by the commissioner representing in his judgment from 10 to 15 per cent on the investment "with the presumption in favor of the higher rate," and including earnings on the large ore reserves, which are entirely inactive at this time.

It may be stated, the report adds, "as a notorious and incontrovertible fact, that the price of Lake Superior ore during the greater part of the peiod 1902 to 1906, and indeed back to 1895, has been established in large measure by agreement among the principal ore-producing interests."

The excessive profits on ore, the report says, handicap effective competition in the production of pig iron and steel by concerns which must go into the open market for their ore.

Big Transportation Profit.

The transportation profit of 60 cents a ton realized by the Steel corporation on its own ore over its principal ore carrying railroads and in lake vessels from 1902 to 1906, was "grossly excessive," the report alleges. As evidence of this it is stated the corporation recently reduced the rates on its two principal roads.

"It is safe to assume," the report continues, "that the present reduced rate of 60 cents per ton is still excessive."

The report adds:

"While integration of industry to permit of large scale operations at minimum cost is exceedingly desirable, these enormous profits of the Steel corporation on the transportation of ore present a problem of very great importance.

No Benefit to Public.

"The situation is this: Integration of steel industry with respect to transportation thus far, instead of working to the advantage of the public in the form of lower costs to all shippers and lower prices, has inured to the benefit of a great combination. On the other hand, to let the Steel corporation retain this advantage of low transportation cost and to let this work itself out in the form of lower prices might be undesirable, because it would tend to give the Steel corporation an unreasonable and undesirable advantage over competitors in the sale of finished products.

"This situation clearly raises the question whether the interests of the public may not require the segregation of these railroad properties from the Steel corporation. It would thus stop what is unquestionably an evil, and that is the imposition of high rates upon competitors, shipments which put them at a great disadvantage, while at the same time forcing them by reason of this very fact to contribute unduly to the profits of the Steel corporation on transportation.

Integration and Utilities.

"While in the case of integration of ordinary manufacturing enterprises it may be entirely proper that the most aggressive concern should reap the benefits of its enterprise, it is unquestionably different in the case of a public utility such, for instance, as a railroad. Competition in the construction of railroads is often impracticable. Moreover, the important ore railroads of the Steel corporation were obtained, not through superior ability, efficiency or foresight, but simply through superior command of capital as a result of combination."

Larger inter-company profits, the report says, were revealed by the examination of the many companies linked up under one control through various subsidiaries, ore mines, blast furnaces, steel works, etc. These component parts of one interest, it is charged, treated each other as unallied concerns, charging a profit as the material went from company to company in the process of manufacture.

Steel Rails, for Instance.

Citing steel rails as an illustration, the report shows the cost of manufacture from the raw material to the finished article in a comparison between the book cost of the corporations, which includes the inter-company profits, and the actual cost. The commissioner emphasizes the fact, however, that the reasonableness of profit in this campaign must be determined in connection with the total investment of an integrated company.

After going through the various stages of inter-company treatment, the "book cost" on heavy bessemer rails was $21.27. The intermediate profits were $2.47, making the revised cost $18.80. "The total difference is thus a very considerable amount," the commissioner adds. The price of bessemer steel rails, the report says, has been fixed for more than ten years at about $28 a ton. It is roughly estimated, according to this, that the profits on rails thus equals from 11 to 17 per cent of the investment.

Large and Small Companies.

Comparing the large and small companies the report shows a considerable lower net cost in favor of the big concerns.

"Part of this difference in favor of large companies," the report adds, "must, of course, cover a greater investment, due to higher integration; part is due to superior efficiency resulting from such integration; but part represents also monopolistic control especially in ore.

"Insofar as this difference means a larger per cent of return on each dollar of investment, it is a real difference in industrial position between the two groups. This difference must be considered in any public action affecting both classes of companies."

Because of its "unique character and dominating position," the report presents the cost of the products of the Steel corporation in 1910. "Its intermediate profits are the highest and its costs are the lowest' the commissioner asserts. The net, or integration, cost of heavy standard bessemer rails was placed at $16.67; the "book cost" $21.53. The difference, $4.86, was almost equally divided, it was added, between transportation profit and inter-company profit.

Most Significant Profits.

While the steel industry, during the four years 1902 to 1906 covered by the report, were based on lake ore. Commissioner Smith calls attention to the very low costs for southern pig iron. The report says:

"For southern pig iron the total furnace cost was $9.52, which was much lower than for either bessemer or basic. The chief reasons for the higher furnace cost for northern pig iron were: (1) the large freight charges involved in assembling the raw materials at the northern furnaces, and (2) the large profits on ore and coke included in the costs of the materials for the northern furnaces. The transfer profits on ore and coke used in making southern pig iron were very small."

MONTE CARLO WELLS HELD.

Man Who Broke the Bank Charged With $200,000 Fraud.

London, Jan. 23.—Charles Wells, known all over Europe as "Monte Carlo" Wells from the fact that he once broke the bank at Monte Carlo, has been arrested, with a companion, aboard the yacht Excelsior at Falmouth on a charge of obtaining 1,000,000 francs ($200,000) by fraud. The couple are being brought to London for extradition for Paris.

Wells first came under the ban of the law in London on Jan. 17, 1893, when he was arrested following a series of sensational winnings at Monte Carlo. He asserted that he was backed by an American millionaire.

California Banker Sentenced.

San Francisco, Jan. 23.—A. F. Hartell, president of the defunct Mark Street bank, was sentenced yesterday to five years in San Quentin prison for having issued a false statement regarding the financial condition of the bank in August, 1906.

How Little They Know of Utah Who Think Only of Great Salt Lake

Utah, the father of irrigation in all America; Utah, the fertilizer of deserts; Utah, the garden spot created by man! This wonderful state, whose southern line is a citrus belt and whose northern line is rich with the hardier fruits and grains, has already added five hundred million dollars to the country's wealth and is now further increasing it by a billion dollars every ten years.

Utah Is the Land Where Nobody Prays for Rain

On the day Brigham Young arrived with his little band of 140 men he started the first irrigation canal. That was 64 years ago, and they have been building canals ever since—until, now, the mouth of every river is a reservoir and every stream ends in a dam. Utah never knows what a crop failure is and her yields are so great you can hardly believe the reports.

Union Pacific

has been the leader of Utah's growth since the earliest days. Lincoln himself chose old Promontory Summit as the meeting point of the Union and Central Pacific, and it was here the golden spike was driven that completed the first transcontinental railroad and connected the East with the West. Every part of Utah's fifty-two million acres is known to us—every fertile valley, every mine and every cattle range.

And, with all of her enormous wealth, Utah, as we know, is begging for men. There is 130 acres of land for every man, woman and baby who will come. There is wealth untold awaiting you, and you can have a lion's share if you will only answer this first clarion call. Even the proportion of wealth for Utah's babies is four hundred dollars a year.

LATEST SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

LOOKING 'EM OVER IN THE BRIGHT WORLD OF SPORTS

It Looks as If the Minny League Were Dead---Miller and Sailor Jack Causing Talk---Coulon and Conley Matched---The Jefferson A. C.

(BY BRUCE.)

FROM abroad is the news heralded concerning the demise of the Minny league. Twin City papers are at the present time remarking upon the passing out of existence of a league that for years kept the fickle light of publicity focussed upon it through the efforts of two of the stronger cities of the league to make the organization one comparing with some of the best of the minors of the country. The invasion of the Twin Cities was a scheme that was held dear to those who looked beyond the support that was being given baseball in the smaller cities of the league. The plan failed and with its failure it does look as if the league will cease to exist.

Reports from Canada have it that Winnipeg is intent upon crawling out of the Western Canada league. The metropolis of Western Canada finds herself in much the same position as the two towns at the Head of the Lakes. Winnipeg is a city aligned with small towns; and they have found it distasteful to their sense of the fitness of things.

Grand Forks is making a great splurge over getting into league baseball. The Commercial club is behind the movement and it is said that the business men of the town are thoroughly in favor of coming through with the clinging rolls of the long green stuff that pays for baseball parks and for the privilege of being called Mister right in a small town.

All of us are playing hide and seek with anything that may really happen when we go guessing at what may happen in the rosy future—speaking of baseball. Sweet and moist April often brings rheumatism, the ashman and sometimes soft and gently tripping thoughts of sentiment to the confirmed single taxer of 49 years—maybe also it will bring some sign of baseball.

As the months slip away some of us would like to know whether we are going to have any baseball the coming season. A city without baseball is like unto a mongrel without fleas: it is liable to suffer from ennui and introspection.

It might be a very wise move for the business men of Duluth to take some civic pride in the fact that a good baseball team is always a very good advertisement for a city or town. For a city of nearly 100,000 souls to be without baseball is like taking away the tops and marbles from a kid and making him read some of the gloomier and more entangled tales of the late Ibsen, a very estimable man with peculiar habits.

In a baseball way, Duluth is like Ishmael of the Bible league—every man's hand seems turned against her. We have tried the Northern and we have tried the Minny—and now we are going to try—guesses will be received at this office and duly chronicled.

But, anyway, it seems as if the Minny is dead.

SOMEONE has suggested that the sporting writers over the country combine for the sake of keeping Jack Johnson's name out of the daily papers. We would suggest that the police reporters be taken by the hand and gently led into the proposed combine.

ANDY Thompson, our old friend of St. Paul, who is to baseball what Hoyle is to whist or cornbeef to cabbage, is in the city. Mr. Thompson is solemn of countenance, but light of spirit and glib of tongue. In a smoothing sort of way, with pitying glance, he tells what Miller is going to do to our sailor. But Mons. Thompson adds in the same sentence that he will be on hand if possible to view the hostilities. The Miller-Sailor Jack match may prove a band of union or a subject of animosity between the Head of the Lakes and the lofty tadel that guards the head of navigation waters.

WORD wingeth its way from the Pacific slope of the matching of Johnny Coulon, the bantam champ, and one sturdy youngster who sternly denies that the fairhaired title holder has any just claim to the title that he holds. Translating this it might be stated that Coulon and Frankie Conley are to fight at Los Angeles.

Once before the lads entered the lists and did lusty battle at New Orleans. At the end of twenty rounds the gent in the dress suit and the role of referee, held up the hand of Coulon. At the same time he dodged a bottle and several other harmless missles. Yes, Bill, the decision was unpopular.

These boys are the best in the bantam division. Coulon is one of the greatest little fighters and boxers that the ring has produced among the wee boys. He can box and he can fight, an unusual combination. Conley for toughness has a Monday evening dinner at a boarding house, bar none, looking like the wedding supper provided by the poor but respectable parents who see daughter has married some money and a medium thereto.

In their former fight 'tis true that Coulon mussed up the beautiful Italian features of the boy from Kenosha, but he failed ignominiously, which means largely and to the point, to daunt the grim fighting spirit of the Conley Kid.

By the way, if you are interested, it might be stated that Tom Jones, the manager of Wolgast, has taken Conley over and will in the future make the matches for the little Italian. A good manager is like unto a drink when you are thirsty. Conley in the future will have more fights and better fights; he will make more money—and so will Jones.

THIS evening the members of the Jefferson Athletic club, an organization of the East end of which we should all be proud, will gather at the St. Louis and hold a flow of soul and a feast of reason. There will also be several entrees. The dinner this evening will be the first annual dinner given by the association and it is hoped that it will be the solid rock foundation upon which will be laid the structure of good fellowship.

The growth of the Jefferson Athletic club has been rapid and sure of progress. The officials at the head of the club have energy and push. The members of the organization are animated by the right spirit. The first annual banquet and get-to-gether meeting of the members of the association will mark a year of progress and should be the first milestone in the journey of endeavor that is to make this one of the best athletic organizations in the entire Northwest.

MILL CITY MAN LOSES MATCH

Westegaard Defeats Henry Ordemann, But Crowd Was Dissatisfied.

Omaha, Neb., Jan. 23.—Jess Westegaard last night defeated Henry Ordemann in two out of three falls at the Auditorium, catch-as-catch-can. Ordemann claimed after the match that he had not been fairly treated in the last bout, which was a rolling fall, with a side hold, in seven minutes. Ordemann took the first bout in 13 minutes with an English bar and half Nelson hold and the second went to Westegaard in 17:15 with a leg hold.

All the bouts were "flying" falls, but Westegaard supporters claimed they were fair, because of an announcement of the referee that a fall would result from "both shoulders being put to the mat."

Generally the match was unsatisfactory to the big crowd which gathered to witness it.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 23.—Jack Johnson will appear here Feb. 22 at a benefit to be given for the widow of Johnny Regan, veteran featherweight, who died recently. Johnson and Regan were friends in 1903 when the latter was famous and the heavyweight champion was unheard of. Just what Johnson will do at the benefit has not been decided. As it will be a public affair, he will not be permitted to box.

Zbyszko Defeats Karla.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 23.—Zbyszko, the Polish wrestler, defeated Karla, the Hindu, in two straight falls last night after 40 minutes of hard wrestling. The first fall was won by a half Nelson in 19 minutes 36 seconds, the second in 20 minutes with a head over shoulder. It was announced that the winner would challenge Frank Gotch for the championship.

ROCHON IS BEATEN BY RON McLEOD OF DULUTH

Crack Winnipeg Rink Put Out of Patrick Event---A Few Games Yet to Be Played.

With a few games remaining to be played today, including the finals in the International and the Western Curling club event, the nineteenth annual Northwestern bonspiel, in many respects the biggest and best ever held by the association, will come to an end.

Kelly of Winnipeg yesterday added to the honors taken by the Winnipeg rinks when he capturcd the finals in the consolation or the Steve Jones event by winning from Richardson of Duluth. The loss of the game was more to be regretted as Richardson came into the twelfth head in the lead and lost out by missing a very easy shot.

Easily the feature of yesterday's play was the defeat of Rochon of Winnipeg by McLeod of Duluth. After playing a very uncertain game in the morning against Neil of Winnepeg, McLeod came back later in the game and furnished one of the surprises of the spiel by his defeat of the Winnipeg star. The defeat of yesterday was the second that Rochon has sustained during the spiel.

With Kelly winning the consolation event second place goes to a Duluth rink, Richardson getting that prize. Krauth of Phillips gets third and Shaver of Virginia fourth.

With Rochon first in the Duluth Curling club event, Rockwood of Portage gets second, McLeod of Minneapolis third and Parkinson of Phillips fourth.

Chisholm of Winnipeg gets first in the first prize in the Patrick event, McLeod of Duluth in the second place. Kelly of Winnipeg is third and his fellow townsman, Rochon, fourth.

As stated in yesterday's Herald, Rochon and Chisholm of Winnipeg will play off the final of the St. Paul Jobbers' event at Winnipeg. Williams of Winnipeg and Bradley of Duluth will get the third and fourth prizes.

Following is the summary of the games completed yesterday:

KNOCKOUT WINS FIGHT

Former Champion Receives Dream Punch in the Tenth Round.

Kenosha, Wis., Jan. 23.—Johnny Coulon, champion bantamweight of the world, knocked out Harry Forbes, the former champion, in the third round of the scheduled ten-round fight. The end came when the round was two minutes and thirty-four seconds old, a right swing to the jaw and a counter to the stomach doing the work.

Round 1—Both started fighting carly, meeting in the center of the ring. Forbes landed light lefts to the body and face. Coulon drove a stiff right to the chin, rocking Forbes. Forbes swung right to chin, and Coulon's head went back. They were exchanging body blows at the finish.

Round 3—Forbes missed two right swings. Coulon sent his right to the jaw at will. At the end of a minute Forbes went down on a right swing for nine seconds. He came up swinging and landed wildly. Again a right swing dropped him, this time for the count of eight. As he staggered to his feet, his hands hanging helplessly, Coulon drove home the two finishing punches.

Forbes never had a chance. He had trained to such a fine point that he was outclassed when he entered the ring.

He made a fair showing during the first round, but by the middle of the second it was evident he would not last long.

On two occasions he went to his knees and rested without being hit.

Coulon closely followed his advantage in the third, putting Forbes down three times, once for nine seconds and again for eight and then for the final count.

Forbes surprised his friends by weighing in at 115, one pound under weight at 6 o'clock. Coulon, wearing most of his street clothes, failed to raise the beam at that mark.

Clarence Forbes, who essayed to come back, fought "Kid" Taylor a fast eight-round draw. Forbes showed flashes of his old-time cleverness, but his judgment of distance was poor and he was very tired at the end of the bout.

Young Stewart of Hammond knocked out Freddie Collins of Chicago.

Jeffersons Are Defeated in Well Played Indoor Baseball Game.

In one of the best indoor baseball games that has been played the present season at the Auditorium the Fitwells defeated the Jeffersons by the score of 9 to 4. ENDIONS WIN EASILY.

Defeat Park Points in One-Sided Hockey Game.

Last evening the Endion Athletic association team at the French rink in the West End defeated the Park Point hockey team by the score of 10 to 2. The winners showed far superior team work, more speed on the ice and a better knowledge of the game. The losers were simply outclassed in general playing ability.

But two scores were made in the first quarter. Each team scored two goals in the second quarter and the contest looked like one that was going to be close and interesting. The Endions walked away with the game in the third quarter, scoring four nets. Two more were registered in the final quarter. Kerns and Owen played star games.

YOUNG AVIATOR KILLED.

Rutherford Page Plunges to Death on First Day of Flying.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 23.—Rutherford Page, aged 24, a Yale graduate registered from New York and flying as one of the Curtiss aviators, was instantly killed when he fell upon Dominguez field, a few moments before the close of the third day's program for the third international aviation meet.

Page was endeavoring to "turn on a pivot" at a height of about 150 feet, when the swell of air over the hangars caught his planes. He made an effort to regain his balance, but evidently fearing that the aeroplane was beyond control, gave up, and when about sixty feet in the air, jumped clear of the machine as it was dropping like a plummet. He cleared the machine and fell flat into the plowed ground. According to the doctors, he was crushed to death.

Page was flying for the first time as a licensed aviator, having been awarded his license Saturday. His flying early in the day was one of the spectacular features, despite a puffy and treacherous wind. He thrilled the crowd by his sensational maneuvers.

Glenn H. Curtiss declared Page's death was due to lack of experience and his daring.

Immediately after the accident the wreckage of Page's machine was led up and burned to prevent its being carried away piecemeal by souvenir hunters.

SOCIALISTS HOLD 99 SEATS IN REICHSTAG.

Berlin, Jan. 23.—The Socialists, as a result of the balloting for members of the reichstag, lack only one of an even 100 seats. This was the outcome of another remarkable change in the political atmosphere, and coupled with thirty-three victories by other left parties, makes the chances of the "blue black bloc," or government, of realning its former majority more than doubtful.

The Socialists elected 27 men in eighty contests, and now have a total of 99 seats. The allied conservatives elected 11, with a total of 69; allied center, 5, total 107; radicals 17, total 34; national liberals 16, total 41.

It's a Crime to Have No Money!

Philosophers may tell you that money cannot purchase happiness, and it is perfectly true, but there is mighty little happiness in this world for the man who has no money.

Poverty is punished more severely than many crimes. And, after all, it is a crime in plenty of instances. A man who makes good money and does not save a portion of it, and then in his old age has to be provided for by others, is little better than a man who steals.

Are you laying aside for future needs? Are you providing against sickness and calamity?

The Doctor's Answers On Health and Beauty Questions

By DR. LEWIS BAKER.

The questions answered below are general in character, the symptoms or diseases are given and the answers will apply to any case of similar nature.

Those wishing further advice, free, may address Dr. Lewis Baker, College Bldg., College-Ellwood Sts., Dayton, Ohio, enclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply. Full name and address must be given but but only initials or fictitious name will be used in my answers. The prescriptions can be filled at any well-stocked drug store. Any druggist can order of wholesaler.

"Distress" writes: "My hair is so oily and straggling I wish you could tell me something to make it soft and fluffy. It makes me positively homely. I also have a great deal of dandruff."

Answer: Many women would be more beautiful if they had soft, fluffy hair. I can tell you a very simple remedy, one that will make your hair soft and fluffy. It will cure dandruff, itching scalp and lusterless and falling hair. Ask your druggist for a 4 oz. jar of plain yellow minyol and use according to directions, and you will be surprised to note the difference in your hair.

"Fred W." writes: "I suffer with headache, indigestion, nervous debility and am also thin almost to the danger point. What can be done for me?"

Answer: You can very readily overcome these difficulties by using three-grain hypomuclane tablets. They are put up in sealed cartons with full directions. These are highly recommended by physicians, and if used according to directions you will soon be rid of headaches, your indigestion will be gone and you will gain from 10 to 30 pounds. These tablets should be taken regularly for several months, and you can depend on gaining flesh.

"Lee" writes: "I have tried so many remedies for rheumatism that I am almost afraid to try any more, but if you can tell me a sure cure I will try it."

Answer: Do not be disheartened because you have not been able to find something that would cure your rheumatism for you can be cured if you will take what I tell you. Get from the drug store: Iodide of potassium, 2 drams; sodium salicylate 4 drams; wine of colchicum, one-half oz.; comp. fluid balmwort, 1 oz.; comp. essence cardiol, 1 oz., and syrup sarsaparilla, 6 ozs. Mix and take a teaspoonful at meal time and again before going to bed.

"Fern" writes: "I have suffered with a bad cough for some time and I am also weak and tired most of the time, which I think is due to the severe coughing. Can you give me a remedy?"

Answer: Yes, your weakness is due to the coughing, but you can be cured by using the following: Get a 2½ oz. package of essence mentho-laxene and make according to directions on the bottle, then take a teaspoonful every hour or two until the cough is cured. This makes a full pint of the very best and safest cough syrup. If your druggist does not have mentho-laxene have him order it for you of the wholesale firms.

Doctor: What can I take for a bad case of indigestion. I have suffered with it for many years and nothing I take helps at all. I am also bothered with constipation.

Answer: You should not neglect indigestion and constipation as it leads to more serious trouble, very frequently appendicitis is caused by this neglect. Begin at once and take tablets triopeptine. These are packed in sealed cartons with full directions for taking.

"Laura S." writes: "I am so tired and nervous all the time that I can scarcely drag one foot after the other. It is very hard for me as I have to work. My appetite is also very poor."

Answer: What you need is a good tonic restorative treatment. Take the tonic prescribed below and you will soon be strong and healthy and will not have that tired feeling. Your work will become a pleasure to you. Syrup of hypophosphites comp. 5 ozs., tincture cadomene, 1 oz., mix, and take a teaspoonful before each meal. This should be continued for several weeks until you feel perfectly strong.

"Martha" writes: "If you know of a safe, harmless but effective remedy for reducing weight, please advise."

Mix by shaking well in a bottle and always shake before using. It is well to purchase these separately to avoid substitution.

"Anna R." writes: "I have taken medicine from several doctors for liver and kidney trouble and constipation, but it does not seem to help me at all. My skin is sallow. I have constant headaches, and dizzy spells. What shall I do?"

Answer: The best remedy that I know for your trouble is three grain sulpherb tablets (not sulphur tablets). These are packed in sealed tubes with full directions. Most of the remedies only relieve, but if you take the sulpherb tablets regularly for a few weeks you will be cured. This will purify the blood and your skin will lose that sallow look.

KANSAS COUNTY FOR ROOSEVELT

Vote in the Republican Club Gives Him Overwhelming Majority.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 23. — At a meeting of the Wyandotte County Republican club in Kansas City, Kan., last night the members declared themselves in favor of Theodore Roosevelt for president. A vote showed the following result: Roosevelt, 78; Taft, 6; Cummins, 1, La Follette 1.

The secretary of the club was instructed to send the following message to Mr. Roosevelt:

"Believing the overwhelming sentiment of the country is calling on you to assume the greatest and most sacred duty and responsibility ever thrust on you, we send the greeting of this organization of Republicans, confident that when the sentiment is apparent to you that neither its burdens nor its honor will be declined."

USE OF TOBACCO NO CHARACTER CRITERION.

Chicago, Jan. 23. — "Smoking or chewing tobacco is no discredit to a man, and abstention from the weed does not establish conclusively a good reputation," said Judge K. M. Landis in the federal district court yesterday.

A mail clerk was before him to receive sentence for rifling letters. The prisoner's minister bespoke clemency for the youth saying he had a "good moral character and a reputation unblemished."

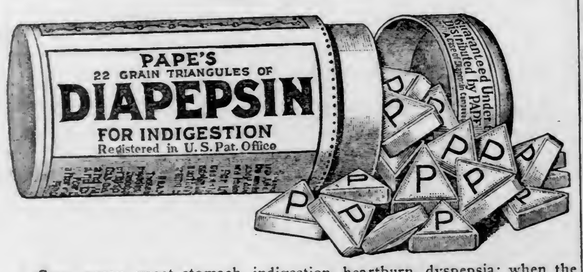

On inqury in the court, the preacher gave as his ground for the statement the fact that the clerk "neither drank, smoked nor chewed."

The clerk presented an honorable discharge from the navy and a card showing merit marks.

"There," said Judge Landis, "this means something. You might better smoke than steal. I'll look over these merit marks and sentence you next Wednesday."

LIBERAL TO RAILROADS

Washington, Jan. 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—The report of the commissioner of the general land office to the secretary of the interior for the fiscal yeaor ending June 30, 1911, has been issued, and affords considerable statistical information. To illustrate, the state of Minnesota has been very liberal in encouraging railway construction, for it has given 8,028,999.95 acres for such purpose. The total landed surface of the state is given as 51,749.120 acres, showing that legislation only carried away one-sixth of the total landed surface of the state. Something over 4,000,000 acres of this land was given to the Northern Pacific railroad, or to the roads to which it has succeeded in title. As a corporation the same road received grants aggregating 33,279,866.99 acres from the national government; while the Union Pacific road had to be content with a grant of only 11,930,685.95 acres. Other roads brought the grand total of congressional grants to 77,-594,792.26 acres. The state of Michigan gave 3,133,176.23 acres of her land to aid in the construction of railroads, and Wisconsin 3,649,749.15 acres. Even Iowa "come acress" with a donation of 4,929,758.26 acres as a gift to railway enterprise. As there yet remains 534,-992,722 acres of public lands, of which, however, more than 378,000,000 acres is in Alaska, it will be seen there is a tidy bit left for the people if they get their work in first.

Four Hundred Millions Received.

In grand total, the government has received since May 20, 1785, $446,005,525.17 from the sale of its public and Indian lands. Of this sum, $32,433,-749.54 was received from the sale of lands under the timber and stone act of June 3, 1878, and which no commissioner has ever yet succeeded in repealing. Of this sum Minnesota contributed $3,389,415.32, while the state of Oregon contributed $9,152,394.15, the largest sum for any one state, with Washington contributing $5,285,094.79 and California $6,913,965.66.

Of the unappropriated lands, outside of Alaska, the state of Nevada leads with 64,983,148 acres; Arizona has 41,022,883 acres; Utah has 35,034,604 acres; New Mexico has 33,771,367 acres; Montana, 32,030,646 acres; California, 23,362,964 acres; Colorado, 20,599,100 acres; Oregon, 17,253,175 acres; South Dakota, 3,673,293 acres; North Dakota, 1,300,333 acres; and Minnesota, 1,804,992 acres, other of the public land states having lesser amounts.

National Forests.

The estimated area of existing national forests is given as 190,608,243 acres, of which 27,735,455 acres lie within California; 25,748,850 acres in Alaska; 19,643,355 acres in Idaho; 19,-305,100 acres in Montana; 16,148,900 acres in Oregon; 14,898,000 acres in Arizona; 14,761,900 in Colorado; 16,148,-100 in Oregon; 65,950 acres in Porto Rico; 11,684,680 acres in Washington; 1,204,750 acres in Minnesota, with other reservations in other states making up the total, which is given as a decrease of 2,322,954 acres as against the year ending June 30, 1910.

For educational purposes and making public improvements Minnesota received for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1910, the sum of $7,995.75, and a grand total for such purposes of $582,-077.05, out of its grant of 2, 3 and 5 per cent of net proceeds of land sales.

Montana leads all other states in number of original and final entries, showing 12,945 claims taken. Minnesota had 2,166, of which 1,562 were in the Duluth land district; 401 in the Cass Lake district, and 203 in the Crookston district.

CONFERENCE ON MILLER CREEK FILL.

Members of the board of public works, the city park board, County Commissioner Joseph Cumming and the aldermen of the Sixth and Seventh wards, will meet soon for the purpose of reaching an agreement as to the construction of a fill over the culvert at Miller creek and Fourteenth street. It is proposed to have this work started as early as possible this spring.

The city recently went to an expense of more than $3,000 in building the culvert and it is planned at present to have the county bear the expense of making the fill. The necessary dirt will be taken from the Hermantown road at its intersection with the Hutchinson road, a short distance west from the creek.

The wooden bridge which has been used as a connecting link between the city streets and the country roads for the past twenty years, will be done away with. The plan at present is to lower Piedmont avenue about four feet and take a similar amount off the boulevard at this point. A large cut will have to be made on the west side of the creek where the new road will then connect with the Hutchinson and Hermantown roads that are now being used extensively by all the farmers in that vicinity. In lowering the two streets in this manner a better grade will be given the farmers when going home from the city. The steepest grade that they will encounter after the work is finished is estimated at less than 5 per cent.

County Commissioner Cumming said yesterday that the commissioners would probably decide to let their part of the work out on contract. The work, he said, would not hinder the traffic on the Hermantown or Morris Thomas roads to any extent. With the new grading that is planned the old roads will be abandoned by the farmers, for the road connecting with the culvert is expected to be the most used in this city of the city.

REV. M. S. RICE WILL TALK ON TRIP TO HOLY LAND.

Forward, superintendent of the Sunday school. A musical program will also be given during the evening.

The second in the series is a concert to be given by the Scottish Rite quartet on Feb. 24. Prof. A. F. M. Custance will have charge of the musical program, and the following are the members of the quartet: Don Gearhart, Charles Applehagen, Don Cole and A. B. Bjorkquist.

For the month of March a grand fete will be given the evening of March 29. The members of the school will present a drama as one of the features of the evening. A musical program is also being arranged. A festival of songs will be given April 26, which will close the series.

The Fifth Ward Improvement club will hold a non-partisan meeting this evening at the Emerson school, Eleventh avenue west and Third street. This evening addresses will be made by Aldermen Hogan and MacDonell, and Dr. W. H. Konkler, Republican candidate for alderman in the Fifth ward.

IN THE DAY'S WORK AT WASHINGTON

Supreme Court Recess.

Washington, Jan. 23.—The supreme court of the United States today announced that it would recess from Jan. 29 to Feb. 19.

Steam-Electric Connections.

What is substantially a test case to determine the power of the interstate commerce commission to compel steam operated railroads to make switching connections and establish through rates and joint rates with electric lines has been carried to the commerce court. The commission had ordered the Baltimore & Ohio and Norfolk & Western railways to accord by Feb. 12, such accommodations to the Cincinnati & Columbus Traction company, an electric line. The steam roads asked the court to issue an injunction to restrain the commission from putting its order into effect.

Minister to Portugal.

Cyrus E. Woods of Greensburg, Pa., was nominated by President Taft as minister to Portugal to succeed Edwin V. Morgon, recently promoted to be ambassador to Brazil.

Sample of Arbitration.

Senator Williams of Mississippi brought up the pending arbitration treaties when he asked the senate to print the proceedings of the arbitration of 1853 with Great Britain regarding the claims of citizens on unpaid bond claims in Texas and Florida. He said he believed the case furnished a precedent in favor of the proposed treaties. Senator Williams denied that the proposed conventions were binding on all questions.

New Oleomargarine Bill.

An oleomargarine bill which would rename all butter substitutes as "margarines," would reduce the tax to 1 cent a pound and probably lower the price of butter substitutes. It was introduced by Representative Lever of South Carolina, chairman of the house sub-committee on agriculture, which has been investigating the subject. The measure embodies the sub-committee's views based on its inquiry, and on advice from the internal revenue bureau. The revenue under the present law approximates $550,000 and the treasury officials estimate that at the uniform rate of a cent a pound more than a million dollars in revenue will be raised.

It would require margarine to be put up only in original packages of one-half and one pound to be conspicuously marked "margarine," with heavy penalties for renewing the revenue stamps. The 1-cent tax would be against the present 10 cents a pound for colored and a ¼ of a cent per pound for uncolored margarine.

Secret Expenditure Probe.

A second subpoena, commanding the production of voucher records, will be served on Secretary of State Knox by the house committee on expenditures in the state department to get before the public the method of expenditure of $20,000 appropriated for the celebration in 1909 of the discovery of Lake Champlain. This subpoena will be put up to the state department and the president, the purpose of Chairman Hamlin being to reach the secret expenditures of the state department, and to get a more generally understood construction of section 291 of the federal law which permits secrecy of state department expenditures if the president holds their publication to be inexpedient.

Chairman Hamlin intimated to Secretary Knox, who was on the witness stand, that he intended to make a test case of the Lake Champlain incident, but before doing so he would issue the "subpoena duces tecum" to give Mr. Knox a chance to make answer to it.

Secretary Knox declines to make public the Lake Champlain expenditures. He says he acted under the order of President Taft issued in April, which directed that no officer of the state department furnish information to congress from matters filed under the provisions of section 291 without the president's written authority.

Your kidneys and liver must do their work or you can't be well; if either organ fails to act properly, it starts trouble at once; if you are wise, start today by taking a small dose of Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea after meals and at bed time; 'twill regulate and keep you well. Lion Drug Store.

PAST GRAND MASTER VISITS DULUTH LODGE.

A. D. Countryman of Appleton, Minn., past grand master of the Minnesota grand lodge of Masons, was in the city yesterday and last evening was a guest of honor at a meeting of Ionic lodge, No. 186, A. F. & A. M., at the Masonic temple.

Mr. Countryman gave a talk during the course of the evening, touching upon the work of the grand lodge at its session just closed. It was one of the most successful grand lodge meetings in years, he said. Mr. Countryman has attended every session of the grand lodge since 1880.

A high tribute was paid by Mr. Countryman to R. E. Denfeld, past master of Ionic lodge, who was chosen as senior grand warden of the state at the St. Paul convention last week. Mr. Countryman declared that Mr. Denfeld stood in the first rank both as a Mason and an educator.

Mr. Denfeld also gave a few remarks, calling attention to the favorable impression made by the Duluth delegation at the grand lodge meeting. Both Mr. Denfeld and Mr. Countryman commented upon the excellent oration delivered by A. G. McKnight of this city, who was grand lodge orator.

Following the talks by Mr. Countryman and Mr. Denfeld, the lodge conferred the second degree on three candidates.

Rheumatism and Bad Kidneys Are Twins

Kidney and Bladder Troubles and Rheumatism Can Not Exist When Your Kidneys Work Properly.

It is high time that every man and woman should realize that pains in the back are usually a sign that kidney disease has already made dangerous advances; that rheumatism and bladder troubles arise from kidneys that fail to properly filter the poison from the blood; that Bright's disease and diabetes are always the result of badly working kidneys.

It's simply a matter of making the kidneys work properly. The very same remedy that the well-known kidney specialist, Dr. Clarke, used with such extraordinary success for 18 years, in kidney troubles, are yours when you get Dr. Clarke's Kidney Wafers. They have saved kidneys, saved lives, saved dollars, saved doctors' bills. You'll realize the good they are beginning to work on you, inside of 24 hours.

Myrtle Hanson's longing for the company of Jake De Smidt and his wife of 513 Eighth avenue east resulted in her arrest this morning on a warrant sworn out by Mrs. De Smidt charging her with trespass.

The police state that Mrs. De Smidt reported to them that the young lady roused her out of bed at 1 o'clock Sunday morning on the pretext that she had something very imprtant she wanted to tell Mr. De Smidt. They state that Miss Hanson persisted in rapping on the door until she was forced to answer. After Mrs. De Smidt had told her that she would not call her husband, she locked the door again, according to the officers. They added that she refused to be rebuffed but continued in her efforts to talk to Mr. De Smidt for some time.

When arraigned in police court this morning Miss Hanson entered a plea of not guilty to the charge of trespass and her trial was set for this afternoon. Her bail was fixed at $100.

Mrs. De Smidt claimed that she was afraid of the young woman, and that she had been bothering her and her husband for a long while.

Miss Hanson gave her age as 21 years and her occupation as a clerk. She said that she has not been working recently but has been living at her home near Ninth avenue east and Second street. She asserted this morning that she went to the De Smidt home because she had something to tell Mr. De Smidt, and that she still intended to tell him at the first opportunity.

Two or three nights ago the police were puzzled when a call came into headquarters for a detective to investigate the stealing of a valuable furlined overcoat and a few minutes later it was countermanded with the explanation that it was all a joke.

Both were correct. The man who lost the coat believed that it had been stolen, but those who had put up the job on him had a few minutes' amusement, and straightened the matter out before it became too serious.

It appears that the loser of the coat is a waiter in a well-known downtown cafe and has a very excitable temperament. As a result some of the other employes of the establishment exert their ingenuity to "send him up in the air," and evidently he went up like a balloon this time.

A short time before a couple of waiters who had been employed there left, taking the keys for their lockers and "Loole," which will do for a name as well as any other knew about it. And the others knew that he knew. So after they had quietly removed his coat a number of them waited back in the kitchen until "Loole" came back with an order.

All were engaged in conversation. They were talking about the two waiters who had sought other fields. "I saw them go upstairs a while ago," said one. "I was up there a while ago and I didn't see them there then," said another. Of a sudden a third happened to remember that they had keys for the lockers. "Guess I'll run up and see if my things are safe," he interjected.

Like a flash "Loole" was out of the kitchen and taking the stairs three at a time. A minute later he came back, but not so fast. His face was ashen, his hand was pressed tragically across his breast and he moved as though his feet were made of lead. "Gott in Himmel, mine overcoat stolen has been," he said. "Ach, I vish somevons vould mine heart cut oud."

Everybody was all sympathy. Some one suggested the police. "Loole" jumped at the suggestion and suited action to words. He told the officials of the loss of his coat, valued at $250. For let it be said that "Loole" is a hustler and is now talking about buying an automobile in the spring. But hardly had he hung up the receiver when another of the conspirators was on another line, with the information that the reported theft was a fake. Inside of a few minutes "Loole" had his coat back and the others are again putting their heads together to hatch another deal on him. But it's also possible that "Loole" may be able to "slip one over" on them before many days are past in an effort to even the score.

Two as fine bucks as fell before a hunter's rifle during the hunting season last fall adorned the municipal courtroom this morning during the trial of Charles Haven before a jury and Judge Windom, charged with killing deer unlawfully.

The animals were confiscated last November by Deputy Game Warden Tom Storey and were introduced as evidence today by the state. They had been in cold storage and were frozen solid. As they lay on the floor they were elegant specimens of the wily lord of the forest. They attracted much attention and brought forth many expressions of admiration.

The game warden claims that Haven was making a business of killing deer for "hunters" who either couldn't hunt well enough to get within sight of deer or shoot straight enough if they did happen to be lucky enough to get a shot. He maintained that Haven was selling the animals to these alleged hunters at so much per. This is denied by Haven. He says that the deer which the warden confiscated were killed legally, and that the others in the camp were also killed by men who had their own hunting licenses.

Attorney Ljubo Boglicevich, who is associated with B. M. Goldberg, was talking about handling criminal cases in police court this morning and he had a plaint to make.

"There's more sorrow than joy in most of them," he was remarking. "For example, three of my countrymen were arrested last week on charges of blind-pigging and they called upon me to appear for them. As it happened, two of them were convicted and the third discharged.

"... of days ago I met one of those who had been convicted on the street and he stopped me. He declared that I had fixed it up ahead of time to have him and the other found guilty, and the third acquitted. He was certain that I had all arrangements made previously, and said that never again would he bring any business to the office."

"Well," remarked a bystander, "I guess all that you can do, if you're going to build up your office practice, is to fix it up with the court ahead of time all the time and have all your clients found not guilty."

The police are conducting a steady, persistent campaign against blind-piggers who have been making a practice of selling beer and whisky in boarding houses. The evidence is ordinarily difficult to secure, but the last two sets of stool pigeons appear to have been quite successful. The last two weeks they have caused quite a number of arrests to be made for selling liquor without a license.

This morning Jela Cavich of New Duluth was booked on a blind-pigging charge. Yesterday afternoon Eli Radcka of 614 West First street and Dave Fostofsky of 525½ West Superior street, were arrested, charged with selling liquor on Sunday. The cases of all of them are scheduled for trial tomorrow morning.

Otto Anderson, arrested Sunday morning on a charge of trespass, was adjudged guilty in police court yesterday afternoon. He got off with a fine of $5 and costs, as it appeared that he did not know that he was doing anything wrong. His wife was divorced from him recently. Saturday night he went to her home to sleep. The doors were locked and he kicked one of them down, after which he made himself comfortable. While he was getting in the back way, his wife escaped at the front and made her way to a neighbor's home, where she spent the night. In the morning she caused Anderson's arrest.

John Casson, an iron worker, was brought to St. Luke's hospital from New Duluth yesterday afternoon, where injuries he had sustained in a fall of fifteen feet were given attention. He is employed by the American Bridge company. He was not badly hurt.

John Gustavson persistenly refuses to go to work or to take a bath. When arraigned in police court yesterday afternoon on a charge of vagrancy he told the judge that he was greatly averse to manual labor of any kind.

"Even if I have to take a bath, I'd sooner go to jail than work," he declared.

He had just finished a sentence of thirty days and the court gave him ten days more over the hill. In the meantime it is expected that he will be examined as to his sanity.

Louis Santerre was brought to St. Luke's hospital from Hibbing yesterday afternoon with both feet quite badly frozen. It is impossible to determine yet whether or not amputation will be necessary. He was sent down by the county authorities.

GREATEST SCIENCE THAT HEALS DISEASE

Says President McConnell of Society of Universal Science—Medical Science is Making Great Progress.

Electro Medical Doctors Have Installed Scientific Appliances Amounting to $10,000. Curing Plant, the Greatest of Its Kind In the Northwest.

The evolution of battling disease has been predicted by him to be the next great invention and the world is advancing so rapidly every day in this progress that the methods of our fathers are being cast aside as worthless and the old order of things is yielding to the new. We are very near to a most wonderful change—nature is full of amazing secrets that can be turned to our advantage now, the great problem is how to insure the health of man, so he will be able to thoroughly enjoy these blessings. Within the past year the great scientists have turned their attention toward the ways and means of assisting nature to carry on successfully her ceaseless encounter against chronic diseases. Electricity and mechanical devices have been invented for the purification of air and water. Currents and rays have been discovered which are death to the different microbes of disease.

Medicine alone has found to be useless in the most of diseases, Scientific Doctors have spent years of their life in trying to find in electricity what medicine could not offer. Massage has been substituted for it, and Hot air Not even the surgeon's knife nor osteopathy have been able to cure rheumatism or Stomach trouble. The most of all the pangs of pain and suffering is not effected by any of these. Electro Medical science has solved the problem. The Electro Medical Doctors have cured more diseases than all the old schools ever could. It has been found that certain electro medical currents, such as the Electro Radio which is employed by the Doctors at No. 26 West Superior street, in Duluth, materially benefit the human body enabling the most stubborn cases of disease to be cured. This current sends a pleasant and soothing message through the body, which soothes and gently excites the whole granular system, increases the secretions, aids digestion and sends a thrill of joy to the sensorium, which in its turn diffuses the glad tidings to every nerve fibre in the complex organization.

Our bodies are composed of certain forms of lifeless matter and it is incredible that any good should accrue by pouring some foreign matter into this body.

The modern method of dispelling disease is ably demonstrated by the physicians of the Electro Medical Doctors.

At this institute the Doctors are demonstrating that they can successfully treat and cure chronic and acute diseases which refused to get well under any kind of treatment, and so had been given up as hopeless and incurable by scores of doctors of all schools.

McConnell claims that he sees invention transforming the world. Already there has been a stupendous change and more amazing changes are shortly to follow—the bedrock of nature is electricity. Life, force and mind are intimately connected with electricity. A man, brain and body, is a battery and the nerves correspond to wires. The power that drives this body is electricity. Life is electricity.

The word health, now means a normal supply of electricity to the body, and only when we have this, are we in a position to resist any invasion of disease germs. The word "disease" means an insufficiency of that power. In such conditions the organs don't work properly and one disease after another develops till the patient is entirely void of this natural power and death relieves the poor body of all its sufferings. The Electro Medical Doctors invite every suffering man and woman, they want every case of disease which could not be cured by any other method. Consultations are free from 9 to 12, 1 to 5, 6 to 8. No. 26 West Superior street, Duluth.

WEALTH OF AN EMPIRE

St. Louis County's Assets at Close of Year Were $287,798,687.

Reports of Officers Are Submitted to the County Board.

St. Louis county was $12,000,000 richer in 1911 than during the previous year, according to the report of the county auditor, which was submitted to the county commissioners at their adjourned annual meeting today.

The total county assets for 1911, including assessed valuations, taxes outstanding and in the hands of the treasurer, and the property the county owns, were $287,798,687.04, an increase of $12,547,405.59 over 1910, when the figures were $275,251,281.45.

Carnegie Presents Demand for Payment for Testifying.

Washington, Jan. 23.—Andrew Carnegie has been paid for the testimony he gave the Steel trust investigating committee.

When on the stand Mr. Carnegie said he would not take the money, but later a duly attested voucher with the ironmaster's signature attached was received from New York. Payment was refused because a notarial seal was omitted.

"I know these formalities are trying," wrote Jerry South, disbursing officer of the house, in returning the voucher to Mr. Carnegie, "but a certain amount of red tape must be unwound, and a government official is at the spool end."

The voucher in proper form was received today and a check for $22.70 was remitted to Mr. Carnegie by return mail.

MANY WILL HEAR FORGAN

About 200 Business Men to Attend Dinner at Commercial Club.

Chicago Financial Authority Will Discuss National Monetary System.

About 200 Duluth business men will attend the dinner at the Commercial club this evening, at which David R. Forgan of Chicago will be the guest of honor and the principal speaker.

Mr. Forgan is coming to Duluth under the auspices of the Citizens' league of Minnesota and he will speak on the national monetary system, its defects and the measures proposed for its improvement.

Mr. Forgan is a financial authority of national reputation and will give a discussion of the monetary question that should make its complexities clear to the average business man. He has been a prominent figure in the financial world for many years, has given long study to the subject of monetary reform and his coming to Duluth to discuss the subject is an event that Duluth business men are not overlooking.

The Citizens' league of Minnesota is affiliated with the National Citizens' league, an organization of business men which is working for monetary reform. The organization is committed to no individual's plan, but has adopted a set of changes desired by legislation and is working to bring them about.

The subject of monetary reform is one that appeals to business men generally, for every business man is interested in financial matters. It is claimed the present monetary system makes it easy for panics to come about and the safeguarding of the country's financial resources so that panics may be averted is one of the objects of the Citizens' league.

Brotherton, chief land looker of the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad company, a number of the men at one logging camp in Upper Michigan are boasting now of having fireproof linings in their stomachs, because, it is asserted, the cook mistook a bag of asbestos plaster for a sack of buckwheat flour and served pancakes made from the mineral fibre. The men are stated to have enjoyed the flapjacks and to have suffered no discomfort.

Similarity in Packers' Methods of Figuring Is Shown.

Defense Is Overruled on Objection to Showing Stock Ownership.

Chicago, Jan. 23.—District Attorney James H. Wilkerson today continued the task of untangling the complicated bookkeeping methods of the packers on trial for alleged criminal violation of the Sherman law, with a view to showing a similarity of systems in figuring the test cost of beef.

William E. Weber, general auditor of the National Packing company, was on the stand throughout the morning. He read a mass of figures into the record in replying to questions put by Wilkerson. He read the monthly statements of cattle killed, the test cost of beef, and the allowanaces made for by-products.

For the first time since the beginning of the trial, none of the ten defendants was in court when the session began.

No Credit for Hides.

Notwithstanding the fact that there was no credit given for hides in figuring the test cost of beef for nearly a year and a half, the packers often sold as many as $200,000 worth of hides a month, according to entries on the books, according to the evidence submitted.

The government contends that the failure to give credit for this by-product raised the arbitrary cost of dressed beef and enabled the packers to raise the price to the consumer without showing any excessive margin of profit.

Attorney Wilkerson showed by bill books that in 1906, when the killing charge of the National Packing company was $2.40 a head, a charge of 35 cents an animal for the tongue was added which brought the killing charge to $2.75 a head, the same figure allowed by Armour, Swift and Morris.

When the killing charge was raised to $2.75 by the National Packing company the charge for the tongues was dropped, according to the government.

Defense Is Overruled.

Counsel for the defense objected to an attempt of the government to show by the stock ledger of the National Packing company the ownership of its subsidiary companies.

Judge Carpenter overruled the objection and District Attorney Wilkerson proceeded.

"The theory of the government is that these defendants continued their alleged unlawful operations in restraint of trade through the medium of the National Packing company," said Judge Carpenter. "I think it is competent for the government to show everything in connection with the operation of the National Packing company during the period of the indictment."

The witness read entries from the stock ledger showing the National Packing company paid $304,743.19 for the Western Packing company in 1908 and 1909.

The amount paid for the Colorado Packing & Provisions company was $540,889.13.

ADDITIONAL SPORTS

BONSPIEL IS STILL ON

Only One Game in Western Event Played During Morning.

McLeod Beats Brown in Very Closely Fought Struggle.

One of the best games of the entire bonspiel was fought out tooth and nail this morning in the fag end of the Western Curling club event. The contest was between Ron McLeod and Brown of West Duluth, and was won by the Duluth rink in the last head, the score being 10 to 9.

At four times during the game it was tied up. Brown lay two three heads on McLeod, and McLeod lay a three and a two head on his opponent. The remaining points were made one at a time and only by the hardest kind of playing.

Carroll Graff played four rocks for McLeod's rink and young Brown, son of the West Duluth skip, did the same double service for the Brown rink. The two leads played about the best games of their rinks, there being little to choose between them.

Brown lay one in the opening head. McLeod tying up in the next. McLeod lay one in the third and Brown tied it up again in the fourth. McLeod got one in the fifth and two more in the sixth, when he drew prettily on his last stone with one lying. Brown came back in the seventh and lay three and again the game was even up.

McLeod drew to the button in the eighth with two in and piled up a three-head on Brown put three in on McLeod in the ninth after McLeod's rink fell down on the head. McLeod got one back in the tenth and then came the lying stone in the eleventh. McLeod lay one in the last head and then put two perfect gaurds up. Brown also used poor judgment and permitted his third to lay a guard for the McLeod shot. Brown missed on an attempted raise and the game was over.

The result by heads:

	1	2	3	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12
McLeod	0	1	1	0	1	2	0	3	0	1	0	0	1

Gates and McLeod are due to meet some time today. The winner of this game will play Ralph Bradley's rink for the final of the Western Curling club event.

Gates and Catterson are due to play tomorrow night for the final in the International. These two games will bring the spiel to a tardy end.

Has One Fire Escape.
Referring to a letter in the "Open Court" column of The Herald last evening, Building Inspector S. H. He asserted that there is one escape on the rear of the building, and that at the time the structure was put up he strongly urged that two escapes be installed. But he said that the builders succeeded in having the ordinance changed so that only one fire escape had to be put on the structure.

BUILDING FOR THE FUTURE

Booth Company Begins Work on Large Modern Structure.

Charles W. Turner, general manager of A. Booth & Co., today at the Spalding stated that holes were being put down today to test for the foundation for the company's new building here, and that construction work will be begun at once.

"We are going to build for the future," said Mr. Turner. "The building will be of reinforced concrete and probably two stories in height. Its dimensions will most likely be 50 by 130 feet. Just how much money we will put in this building I cannot say at the present time. Some of the one-story buildings will be torn down to make room for us. We expect a very large increase in our business here in the future and will lay our plans for the new building accordingly."

The case of H. E. Speaks, who asks $30,150 from the Duluth Street Railway company for injuries alleged to have been received in Superior some months ago when alighting from a street car, was placed on trial this morning before Judge Page Morris of the United States district court.

Speaks claims that after he had alighted from one car and started to cross the street, another car came from the opposite direction.

In attempting to stop himself, Speaks claims that he threw himself backward and as a result sustained an abdominal hernia to the right side.

OLE SAGENG HOLDS TOO MANY OFFICES

Cannot Be State Senator and Justice of the Peace, Too.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—It was discovered in the office of Secretary of State Schmahl today that State Senator Ole O. Sangeng of Otter Tail county is holding two offices, in contravention of the Constitu made when the signature of Sangeng, as justice of the peace, was seen affixed to articles designed to incorporate the Park Ridge Mutual Telephone company.

In a letter to James A. Brown of Fergus Falls, who sent the articles, Mr. Schmahl declared the papers defective and his occupancy of the office of justice of the peace illegal. A new signature will be required before the secretary of the state will act on the articles.

JURY TAKES CASE OF "ARMY OFFICER."

The jury in the case of Noah Lewis Waelchl, accused of impersonating a United States army officer, went out for deliberation of the case this morning and had not reported up to 3 o'clock.

The case was tried in United States district court.

Thomas J. McKeon defended Waelchl, who claimed that he was at one time an officer in the United States army and that he had the right to wear the uniform.

He claimed that there was no attempt to deceive anyone.

Waelchl was arrested in Duluth while employed at the Star theater giving his act called "Army and Navy Life." It was claimed by Ellis Dorfman, manager of the house, that Waelchl obtained the contract by claiming that he was at the time really a United States army officer.

The man was wanted by the police of several other cities on the same charge.

The steamers Salt Lake City and Harvey D. Goulder were recently sold to G. A. Tomlinson, a local shipowner.

The boats will now hail from Duluth. They used to be of Fairport.

It is claimed that the name of the steamer Salt Lake City will be changed to the Chester A. Congdon, in honor of a well known Duluth capitalist.

In the papers filed this morning there was nothing to indicate that there would be a change in the name.

TRIAL HAS SUDDEN END

Case for $50,000 Against Great Northern Settled Out of Court.

The case of Oscar E. Olden against the Great Northern railroad, an action for $50,000 damages for personal injuries, was settled out of court after it had gone on trial before Judge Dibell in district court today.

The case went on trial this morning, most of the time being given over to the selection of the jurors. Warner E. Whipple and Samuel E. Anderson of St. Paul appeared for the boy who brought suit through his guardian, John G. Ross. Baldwin & Baldwin represented the railroad company.

Olden in his complaint alleges that he was employed as a hoister helper and that while at work on an engine tender and under a coal chute about ten tons of coal was dropped upon him. He miraculously escaped death, but was left a cripple for life.

Since the accident, which occurred in the Superior yards, Dec. 2, 1909, two operations have been performed on the boy, but he is still living.

ANOTHER TO TAKE TRIP TO NEW YORK

Local Immigration Officer Will Take Three Aliens to Be Deported.

The list of those to take a trip to New York tonight with James Daily, immigration inspector, is growing.

Today Brown McDonald, in charge of the local immigration office, received orders to send Daniel Maschino, an Italian, who has been confined at the local poorhouse with dropsy, to New York, from where he will probably be deported.

Mr. Daily will leave tonight with Maschino, John Hoff, ordered deported some time ago, and Gligor Zareff, who is being sent to his native land, Belgium, by St. Louis county.

Maschino was ordered deported from Baltimore, but it is probable that he will be placed on a ship and taken direct to Italy from New York city

The orders, coming as they did today, save the government quite an item of expense, for a separate trip would have been necessary with Maschino had the orders been a little later.

Maschino has been kept at the county poorfarm for some time. He was unable to work. The authorities have been working on the case for some time.

"I think they feel that Col. Roosevelt represents, as no other man represents, those principles and policies of government with which his name is associated and which appeal so strongly to the American people, without reference to party."

BOLDNESS OF SWALLOWS.

Baily's Magazine: A very curious instance of boldness in swallows was recorded in 1886 from Ceylon. In this case the birds built over a lamp in the dining room; what made their choice of site more remarkable was the fact that the lamp could be raised or lowered by counter weights and the connecting chains actually passed through the mud walls of the nest.

Occasionally the bird selects a nesting site which invites comparison with the boldness of the robin. In July last a pair of swallows took advantage of the open window of an unoccupied bedroom in a house at Felmersham in Bedfordshire to begin building their nest on the curtain rod of the bed.

The return of the owner of the house and his occupation of the bed did not in the least disturb or alarm the birds, which completed the nest and brought off three nestlings within seven weeks of the house owner's return. They took no notice of the occupant of the bed when flying in and out of the window feeding their young; but the hen bird would fly off the nest if any one entered the room during the daytime.

Three years ago a pair of swallows built their nest on top of the shade of an electric lamp which hangs outside the asylum at Narborough, near Leicester.

Lewis Morris, the English poet, was complaining bitterly to Oscar Wilde on the attitude of the press in the matter of his pretension to the poet-laureateship. "It is all a complete conspiracy of silence," he said, "a conspiracy of silence." What ought I to do, Oscar?" "Join it," was the sententious reply of his friend.

MAY BE SON-IN-LAW OF KAISER WILHELM

HEIR OF MECKLENBURG-STRELITZ.

It is again reported that Princess Victoria Louise of Germany may marry the son of the grand duke of Mecklenburg-Strelitz. He is 29 years old and will rule over a little duchy of 1,131 square miles. He is a brother to Princess Militza of Montenegro, and has one unmarriaed sister who is four years older than he. The reigning house of Mecklenburg-Strelitz was founded in 1701 by Adolph Frederick, II, youngest son of Duke Adolph Frederick I of Mecklenburg. The grand duke is one of the wealthiest of the German sovereigns, as he is the overlord of more than half the land in his duchy.

MUCH WHEAT IS RECEIVED

Farmers Haul to Country Elevators and Market Price Falls.

Heavy Receipts of Flaxseed Also Have Very Bearish Effects.

Duluth Board of Trade, Jan. 23.—Mild weather, causing the farmers of the Northwest to haul large supplies of wheat and flax to the country elevators pulled down the prices of both of these important grains on the markets of North America today. Duluth May wheat closed at a loss of ½c. Durum lost ¾c. Cash wheat sold for the May price. Oats closed ¼c up and rye and barley unchanged. The break in flax was greater than the market has experienced for many days. January closed at a loss of 3¼c and May at a loss of 2¾c.

Wheat markets of North America during the morning were bearish, but not sensationally so. Most of the news received by cable was of a bearish character. Buenos Ayres wheat last evening closed ⅝c to ¾c down and opened this morning ⅝c to ¾c lower. Weather reports from that country were favorable and it was announced that the big railroad strike was nearing a close. There were reports of large Agentine shipments. The wheat market at Liverpool closed ¼d to ½d lower, being influenced by bearish cables from Argentina, freer La Platte offers and bearish European crop advices. There was just one important bullish factor and that was a report of a decrease in the European visible supply from about 5,500,000 bu to about 83,000,000 bu within a week, but this was not enough to offset the bearish reports.

All these cables pulled down wheat on the North American markets. Another bearish factor was the large increase of primary wheat receipts over those of a week ago, though they fell a little short of equalling those of a year ago. Farmers have been hauling their grain to market in large quantities. Wheat bulls still declare that these big receipts indicate merely that the farmers are in urgent need of money and, not that the wheat is so very abundant. They declare that the recent decrease of the American visible supply at the rate of about 2,000,000 bu a week is something that is very extraordinary and will mean scarcer wheat long before there is another American harvest. Minneapolis reported that the cash demand for wheat was slow and that flour trade was quiet. Bradstreet's visible supply report, showing that the world's stock of wheat had gone down 8,132,000 bu since a week before was a bullish influence. Montreal reported a strong foreign demand for wheat. At noon, however, the the quotations were a little down on the North American markets. Duluth May, which closed yesterday at $1.04⅞-5, opened today at $1.04⅝ asked, and at noon was selling for $1.04⅛-⅜.

Flax Takes a Slump.

Farmers have been hauling flax to the country elevators all over the Northwest in large quantities since the weather moderated and the effects are beginning to show themselves in vastly increased offers on the Duluth market. Today there were 42 cars of flax on the track at Duluth for inspection, by far the largest number this year, and a very large number for this time of the year. The demand for flaxseed was good, but not enough to hold up the price in the face of the heavy offers. Paint manufacturers have been buying a great amount of linseed oil of late, as their stocks are low, and crushers have been compelled to do a great deal of buying of ready seed, although they still persist in buying as little as possible. The demand for flaxseed today was good, but not equal to the supply. Moreover, there was bearish news from Argentine, which furnishes the American crusher his hope for cheaper flaxseed. The weather was reported fine for harvesting. Buenos Ayres February flaxseed closed last night at $2.03, having declined ¼c since the close of the previous day, and this morning it opened 2⅜c lower. At noon today, Duluth January flaxseed was 3¾c down and May 2½c down.

Subsequently the opening line undertone was lowwing the opening line undertone was easy, with further pressure, and prices lost an additional ⅛@⅜d, with the principal selling in July. There was less inquiry for white wheat, causing dullness of spot, continued free Australian offers, private reports here of larger Argentine shipments this week and bearish European crop advices, which caused longs to take profits in a small way. The decline was checked by the opening firmness in Paris and the decrease in the visible supply here. At 1:30 p. m. the market was dull and easier and ⅛@⅜d lower than yesterday.

The balance of summary was favorable.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Bearish European Crop News Causes Weakness in Wheat.

Chicago, Jan. 23.—Bearish European crop advices caused weakness today in the wheat market here. Reports of larger shipments from the Argentine had a similar effect, and so did the liberal receipts at points northwest of Chicago. A decrease, however, in the European visible supply counted in favor of the bulls, and tended to check the decline. The opening was the same as last night to ½c down. May started at $1.00⅜ to $1.00½, a loss of ⅜c to ½c, but reacted to $1.00⅝.

Owing to a big falling off in the world's available supply, the market later recovered but values again sagged in consequence of demand. The close was weak with May $1.00⅜@1.00½, a net loss of ⅜@½c.

Mild weather made the corn market easy. Weakness in wheat was also influencial to some extent. May opened a shade to ¼c off at 65⅞c to 66@66¼c and seemed disposed to keep within that range.

Heavy receipts here resulted in holding prices from any decided upturn. The close was easy at 66c for May, a decline of ¼c net.

Oats succumbed to the downward drag of wheat and corn. Trade was light. May started unchanged to ⅛@¼c lower at 49¾@49⅝c to 49¾c and remained near the lower level.

Selling of a scattered sort proved sufficient to bring about a dip in hog products. Support was lacking. First sales were 2½c lower to 5c up with May delivery $16.05 for pork, $9.30 for lard, and $8.62½ for ribs.

MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Is in Extremely Narrow Range But a Trifle Easier.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 23.—Wheat again today was in extremely narrow range, but a trifle easier. May closed ½c lower than yesterday and July ⅛@⅝c lower. Trading of small volume and scalping character. Bearish foreign news and heavy local receipts were factors in weakness. Minneapolis stocks decreased $83,000 bu for three days.

Car lot wheat receipts: Minneapolis, today, 428; week ago, 237; year ago, 373; Duluth, today, 25; week ago, 12; year ago, 48; Winnipeg, 598; week ago, 380; year ago, 65.

Cash wheat was easier today. Demand was not as active as mills received consignments bought some time ago to arrive. Offerings heavier. No. 1 northern sold for the even May price to ½c under.

Wheat—May opened $1.05½@1.05⅝; high, $1.05¾; low, $1.05¼@1.05⅜; close, $1.05⅜@1.05½; July opened $1.06¼; high, $1.06⅜; low, $1.06⅛; closed, $1.06⅛@1.06¼.

The quotations given above show advances over those of a week before in almost every kind of bonds on the lists. Edwin R. Cooper, manager of the bond department of the company furnishing the above quotations, said today that the general bond market had been very active of late and the general tendency of the prices was clearly higher. He said he had noticed that the bonds of the Duluth and Superior Transaction company and all the important Twin City issues had of late been finding a very ready market.

STOCKS ARE IRREGULAR

Prices Decline at the Opening, Rally But Fall Off Again.

Speculation Comes Almost to Standstill as the Session Ends.

New York, Jan. 23.—The leading speculative issues were under pressure at the opening of the stock market today and prices gave way moderately. United States Steel was sold heavily and lost ½ point. The Hill stocks weakened after their recent rise, both Northern Pacific and Great Northern preferred falling ½. American Telephone and Railway Steel Spring dropped a point and Union Pacific ⅝. Texas Companies rose 4¼.

Buying orders were uncovered at the lower levels, and there was a brisk rally, which amounted to 1½ in Great Northern preferred and 1 in Northern Pacific and Reading. Trading became quiet after prices had been mostly restored to yesterday's closing level or above. Liggett & Myers declined 2 points, American Can preferred improved 1¼.

Although the stock market early in the day was affected unfavorably by the heaviness of some of the leading issues, especially United States Steel and the Hill shares, it displayed considerable underlying strength and quotations stiffened after the selling orders had been cleared up. United States Steel was influenced by the report of the corporation commissioner and by the proposed cut in steel duties.

Heaviness of the Hill stocks presumably was due to profit-taking, and these shares rose briskly when pressure from this source was removed.

Bull operations were concentrated to a large extent in Reading, and that stock was easily lifted to 158¾, thereby making up more than its dividend of 1½, which came off the price today. Western issues were in moderate demand, Union Pacific sold a point above its earlier lower level.

Bonds were steady.

Dullness was accompanied by lower prices in the afternoon, the reaction from the best reaching ¾ of a point in Reading, and about half a point in other active stocks. A few specialties were distinctively heavy. American Telephone and Western Union sold a point below yesterday's closing.

The market closed easy. Speculation came almost to a standstill as the session ended. When the realizing sales invited by the rise in Reading and other stocks began to make an impression on prices, pool operations in other quarters were suspended and the market fell into a rut. Net changes in the active stocks were inconsequental.

BOSTON COPPER STOCKS

Boston, Jan. 23.—The stock markets today were dull again and sluggishly strong. Some little interest was seen in Reading and one or two specialties but as a whole the list was dormant. The professional nature of the dealings does not attract outside interest and those speculatively inclined are waiting for an indication of real leadership before coming. In the meantime scarcely a day passes without some happening of a favorable nature. Today it is reported the Gary plant is working at full capacity. Pessimists say Washington will do something some day to entirely overshadow the improving position of affairs. In view of present political outlook this view does not seem at all likely.

London Stocks.

London, Jan. 23.—American securities opened irregular today. Later the entire list declined from lack of support, and at noon the market was easy with prices from ⅛ to ⅝ lower than yesterday's New York closing.

South St. Paul Livestock.

South St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 23.—Cattle—Receipts, 800; market 10@15c lower. Hogs—Receipts, 7,200; market about steady; range, $5.75@6.00; bulk of sales, $5.85@5.90. Sheep—Receipts, 600; market steady to 10@25c lower; sheep, $1.00@4.00; lambs, $1.50@5.75.

THE PRODUCE MARKETS.

Warmer weather has had a bearish influence on butter, eggs and cheese. The best creamery butter at wholesale, has dropped from 39 to 38 cents a pound. It is said that this is due to the fact that cows give more milk in warmer weather, as a larger share of the vitality is needed in colder weather to maintain the essential functions of life. Hens, too, are celebrating the passing of the severe part of the winter by laying better than they have at any time this year, and strictly fresh eggs are now selling at wholesale for 30 cents a dozen. This is only 4 cents in advance of the wholesale price of stored eggs, on which there has been a tremendous demand and whose supply is said to be running low. Poultry and lobsters are also down on account of warmer weather, as farmers have been bringing their hogs to market in large numbers. The wholesale price, which was 10 to 11½ cents a pound is now 10 to 10½ cents.

Quotations given below indicate what the retailers pay to the wholesalers, except the bay list, which gives what the farmers receive from the jobbers.

GRAY SAYS HE WAS STIFLED

Refused Steel Supplies "Because He Bid Against Trust Ally."

Stanley Committee Will Call Several Subsidiary Officers.

Washington, Jan. 24.—The Stanley Steel trust investigating committee today decided to suspend hearings until the arrival of presidents of some of the subsidiary companies of the United States Steel corporation. Several of them may appear next week.

Richard H. Gray, a San Francisco dealer in iron and steel products, testified today that after obtaining a contract in 1906 to supply seamless tubes for the gunboat Bennington, subsidiary companies of the Steel corporation refused to sell to him. He declared the refusal was based on the ground that the Shelby Steel company, a concern subsidiary to the Steel corporation, had been a bidder.

Referred to Competitor.

He read a long list of firms to which he applied for tubes, and declared that they all referred him to the Shelby company, and that his correspondence, in spite of his protests, was surrendered to that concern.

Mr. Gray endeavored to prove that an understanding existed between the companies named, designed to stifle the business of independents. He said he was compelled to surrender the

DENY SYSTEM OF FIXING OF PRICES

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 24. — Further testimony designed to refute the state's allegation that the Yellow Pine Manufacturers' association fosters a system of stifling competition and fixing the current prices on lumber was introduced by the defense today at the resumption of the hearing of the ouster suit against twenty-six lumber companies transacting business in Missouri. Attorney-General Major of Jefferson City was expected to arrive in this city late today to assist John T. Atkinson, assistant attorney-general, in the prosecution.

It was announced by R. Bruce Douglas of Milwaukee, national secretary, that steps had been taken to change the name of the association to the International Association of Real Estate Boards.

UNCLE SAM WILL HIRE MAN TO SEE FOR HIM

THOMAS P. GORE,
United States Senator From Oklahoma.

Washington, Jan. 24.—Senator Gore, the only blind man who ever served in the United States senate, is to have an extra clerk because of his blindness. A resolution to that effect has passed in the senate. In order that the position may not be made permanent, the senator's name was especially named in the resolution authorizing the appointment. This is the first time that the senate has granted a special clerk to a senator.

ITALY IS IN NEW TROUBLE

France, Germany and England Involved in War Talk.

Stopping and Searching of Steamers By Italians the Cause.

Paris, Jan. 24.—A dispatch from Rome says that the Italian government has given orders that the Turks taken from the steamer Manouba shall be released. No confirmation of this has been received in official quarters.

London, Jan. 24.—The activity of Italian war vessels in the Mediterranean and Red seas is causing increasing uneasiness in shipping and insurance circles. Several large insurances have been effected during the past two days at Lloyds in this connection. A premium of 5 per cent was accepted to cover the risk of an outbreak of hostilities between France and Italy in the course of the next four months, and although there is no apparent reason for such an occurrence, a premium of 6 per cent was paid on the risk of the outbreak of war between Great Britain and France and Germany within the next six months.

The Italian action in stopping steam-

The principal celebration took place at Potsdam, where Emperor William reviewed those regiments in the garrison which were first formed during the reign of Frederick the Great and which took part in many wars under his command. The emperor also paid a visit to the ancient garrison church of the city and placed a wreath on Frederick the Great's coffin, which lies in avaul t beneath the pulpit together with that of his father.

In the letter the league again declares itself for Roosevelt.

Notice Is Served After Conference With President Taft.

NEWSBOY STABBED BY 8-YEAR-OLD

Chicago, Jan. 24.—Two 8-year-old boys, Stanley Kamowska and Andrew Hilma, were arrested by the police here today on a charge of having attempted to hold up Roman Ryniewicz, 9 years old, and rob him of 7 cents. One of the boys also is said to have stabbed Ryniewicz with a knife, destroying the sight of his right eye.

In a cell near the two boys Gazimer Kamowska, father of one of the alleged "highwaymen," is locked up charged with disorderly conduct as a result of his attempt to prevent a policeman from arresting the lad.

Ryniewicz was selling papers on a street corner when he was attacked. He made a hard fight to prevent his money from being taken from him.

SAYS WISCONSIN LAWS HURT TRADE

Frank Bolles Calls Meeting of Men of That State.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 24.—Unsatisfactory business conditions are said to prompt the calling of a conference of business men of Wisconsin to be held Feb. 16. Frank Bolles, secretary of the Manufacturers' Association of Racine, has asked boards of trade and commercial bodies in Wisconsin cities to send delegates. He declares the alleged unsatisfactory business conditions in the state are due to legislation tending to limit the rights of invested capital.

BIG INCOME FROM HIDES

Packers' Receipts in Two Years From That Source $3,669,050.67.

Weber Tells How Plants Bought By the "Trust" Were Handled.

Chicago, Jan. 24.—Allowances were made for hides in 1909, and during a part of 1910, in figuring the test cost of beef, and the books of the National Packing company show in that period the corporation received from sale of hides $3,669,050.67.

The sales of months as given by William E. Weber, general auditor of the National Packing company, who began his fourth day on the witness stand in the packers' trial today, were given to the jury.

The government contends that by not allowing credits on hides in this period the packers materially increased their test cost on beef and were enabled to raise the price to consumers without showing an excessive profit on their books.

Value of Hides Varied.

Weber admitted that the value of hides during this period varied from 2 to 4 cents a pound, according to quality.

Weber said the plant of Ruddy Brothers at Kansas City had been continuously operated from the time of

DUNN WILL NOT BE CANDIDATE

Princeton Man Denies He Wants to Be Lieutenant Governor.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—R. C. Dunn of Princeton will not be a candidate for lieutenant governor at the next election. This word was passed out quietly by the former auditor to one of his friends in St. Paul yesterday and the next issue of the Union, his newspaper, is expected to say so, definitely, decidedly and to the point—in regular a la Dunn style.

"There's been a lot of talk about my getting into the race," Mr. Dunn said, "and I expect to settle it when my paper comes out."

All of which may be taken to imply that there will be some red hot comment upon the subject.

An Eberhart-Dunn alignment has been political gossip ever since the "king-for-a-day" incident in which Attorney General Simpson advised Lieutenant Governor Gordon that he might assume the gubernatorial reins in the absence of Mr. Eberhart, but that if he called an extra session of the legislature, the governor might revoke the order on his return. Mr. Dunn made no effort to stop the gossip and of late it has been gaining headway. The definite announcement of Mr. Gordon that he would oppose Governor Eberhart for the nomination for governor, appeared to leave the way clear for Mr. Dunn to jump in and grab the lieutenancy, but apparently he does not see it that way, or he does not want it.

HARD LABOR FOR BANKER

Also Fined $1,000 for Illegal Awarding of Public Contract.

May's Landing, N. J., Jan. 24.—Louis Kuehnle, bank president, reputed millionaire and Republican leader of Atlantic City, who recently was convicted of unlawful participation in the awarding of a contract to a company in which he was interested while he was a member of the Atlantic City water commission, was today sentenced to one year imprisonment at hard labor and to pay a fine of $1,000. Kuehnle was released on bail pending an appeal for a new trial.

Thomas McDevitt and George A. Mole, convicted of violating election laws in Atlantic City, were sentenced to six months and three months in jail, respectively, and to pay the costs of the prosecution.

John Answorth, Harry May and Frank Enderlin, who were convicted of accepting money for granting road contracts, were given one year each in the penitentiary, but the justice eliminated the hard labor provision in the sentence.

Clemency Was urged.

Atlantic City, Jan. 24.—Nothing more sensational has occurred in Atlantic City in many years. Because of the personality of "Commodore" Kuehnle, as he is familiarly known, great interest has been shown here in his case. Citizens of all degrees have been active in circulating petitions urging clemency.

Mr. Kuehnle, who is president of a bank and is reputed to be a millionaire, has for years held undisputed sway as the Republican "boss" of Atlantic City and county.

The trial was conducted by Supreme Court Justice Halisch, who has been sent here from Newark by Governor Woodrow Wilson especially for that purpose. The prosecutor was Attorney General Wilson, who also was sent here by Governor Wilson to assist the local prosecutor.

Kuehnle was indicted by a grand jury drawn by two special elisors appointed by Justice Halisch, who set aside the rights of Sheriff Enoch Johnson, a Kuehnle appointee.

COLD GOOD FOR PEOPLE'S HEALTH

High Condition in Wisconsin Credited to Wintry Weather.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 24.—The long cold spell just ended is responsible for a high condition of health throughout Wisconsin, according to Dr. C. A. Harper, secretary of the state board of health.

"Not in many winters," he said today, "has there been so little sickness in the state of Wisconsin as there is today. Reports coming to the board show this condition to be general in the state. I attribute it to the fact that the cold weather has been so severe that people have taken extra precautions to keep warm and to protect themselves from undue exposure."

YOUTH MUST DIE FOR MURDER OF GIRL

ALBERT W. WOLTER.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 24. — Governor Dix has refused to interfere in the case of Albert W. Wolter, slayer of Ruth Wheeler, the girl whom he lured to his rooms in New York city on the pretense of employment as a stenographer. Wolter will be electrocuted in Sing Sing prison Monday morning.

FIX BLAME FOR WRECK

Three Trainmen Responsible, Say Investigators at Kinmundy.

Negligence Is Laid to Engineer, Conductor and Flagman.

Chicago, Jan. 24.—Negligence on the part of three trainmen contributed to the Illinois Central wreck at Kinmundy, Ill., Monday morning in which J. T. Harahan, former president of that line, and three other railroad officials were killed, an investigating committee held here today.

The trainmen are:

What steps will be taken in the trainmen's cases has not been determined, said W. L. Park, vice president of the Illinois Central and a member of the investigating committee.

Visited Scene of Accident.

The report was given out after a thorough investigation of the wreck had been made yesterday. The committee convened in Champaign and later visited the scene of the accident.

HILL DENIES ALL RUMORS

Great Northern-Burlington Story Is Declared "Rubbish."

New York, Jan. 24.—Recent reports that important changes were to be made in the railroad map of the West were denied today by James J. Hill in so far as they involve the Hill lines.

It was reported that the Burlington and the Rock Island were to acquire half of the Missouri Pacific holdings of the Denver & Rio Grande, which controls the Western Pacific, and that the Hill system thus would obtain a connection through to San Francisco over the Western Pacific.

"The Burlington has no intention," said Mr. Hill, "of obtaining an interest in any road west of Denver."

He also characterized as "rubbish" the report that the Great Northern would obtain entire control of the Burlington and that the Northern Pacific would relinquish half its interest in the Burlington.

SECOND PRIMARY FOR LOUISIANA

New Orleans, La., Jan. 24.—Second primaries may be necessary to determine upon Democratic candidates for high offices in Louisiana, according to the count of almost half the 110,000 votes cast in yesterday's primary.

John T. Mitchel, the administration candidate for governor, has polled 24,172; Judge L. E. Hall, the good government league candidate, 18,684, and J. B. Aswell, independent, 6,169. Mitchel leaders think the result of the balloting in the municipal districts outside New Orleans may bring his total up sufficiently to make him the candidate, which is equivalent to election. Good government league supporters are depending on the voting from the country districts.

A second primary will be necessary, it is believed, to determine the senatorial candidate for the term beginning in 1915. Congressman Robert F. Broussard is in the lead, but with insufficient votes to smother his opponents—Governor Sanders and Congressman A. P. Pujo. For the senatorial nomination—the 1913 term—Congressman Ransdell was leading United States Senator Murphy Foster.

FRENCH JOIN IN WELCOMING KING

Malta, Jan. 24.—King George and Queen Mary on their arrival on board the Medina from India were accorded a great Anglo-French welcome here this morning.

Besides the British Mediterranean fleet, which was present in virtually full strength, a squadron of French warships under the command of Admiral Boue de Lapeyrere joined in the greeting and thus marked the existing friendship between France and Great Britain.

The city of Valetta is thronged with British and French visitors, who have come especially to participate in the festivities.

The king and queen intend to remain here until Jan. 27.

LORIMER INQUIRY POSTPONED AGAIN

TAFT REJECTED BY THE FILIPINOS

Republicans of Pangasinan Province Vote Against Renomination.

Manila, Jan. 24.—The first provincial convention in the Philippines has instructed the Republican delegates of the Pangasinan province to vote against the indorsement of President Taft at the territorial convention. The delegates are otherwise without instructions.

LIGHT IN THE DARK PLACES

That Is Aim of the New Duluth Commercial Club.

Will Also Take Up Plan to Divide the Eighth Ward.

The New Duluth Commercial club will meet the early part of next week and plans for the year will be outlined by President C. J. Wallace. The standing committees will all be given their work for the year and the large number of improvements that have been agitated in the past will again be taken up. The new officers to have charge for the first time are: Noble Sampson, vice president; M. A. Becklinger, secretary, and G. H. Lewis, treasurer.

At the request of the club Alderman Krueger has asked the city council to place street lights on Commonwealth avenue between New Duluth and the Gary division, which is now entirely dark. The club also proposes to take up the plan of having the Duluth-Edison company install its lights in New Duluth. A local company is furnishing the light for the suburb and the residents are complaining of the poor service, and high cost. The city has a monthly contract with the Thompson Furniture company which can be terminated at any time.

There are now twenty-two lights at New Duluth, which cost the city $2,460 a year, while the Duluth-Edison company is willing to furnish the same number of lights at a cost of only $1,144 for the year. The lights would burn all night instead of until 12 o'clock, as at present. The company has also prepared its figures for thirty-eight lights, to include the other suburbs of Duluth also, and at a saving of $864 from the present cost.

During this year the members will take up the plan of dividing the Eighth ward and creating a new one, with its eastern limit at Seventy-first avenue west. The reason for this change is that there are 1,000 men west of this boundary 60 per cent of whom are voters. The change in the rate of transportation to New Duluth from Duluth will also be taken up this year, and the members of the club are determined to cut the present high cost. The fare is now 68 cents for the round trip, and is a full charge of 3 cents a mile. The city will also be asked to put the new highway in shape, so that the street car company can lay its lines to this section.

The following committees have been appointed for the year and will be given their work this evening:

FINDS STOLEN SILVERWARE

Lieut. Charles Wilcox of the West Duluth police station yesterday afternoon discovered the silverware, revolvers and ammunition that were taken two weeks ago from E. J. Ketchum's hardware store, 229 Central avenue. The articles were all found in a shack near Fifty-seventh avenue west and Nicollet street, and have been returned to the hardware dealer.

The theft was committed during the night, evidently by somebody familiar with the store. They worked on this clue and after two well-known West Duluth young men suddenly disappeared from the city, the discovery of the articles took only a few days. The boys are under 16 years of age and their names are being withheld by the police until they are located. The parents of the boys have asked the co-operation of the police in locating them. They are thought to be in the southern part of the state.

SCHOOL ANNUAL IS STILL NAMELESS.

The first annual book of the Duluth Industrial high school is still without a name and the senior class is now offering a prize for the best original name suggested. Several special meetings have been held the past two months for the purpose of choosing a fitting name for the annual tribute of the senior class, but the students have thus far failed to agree.

The plan of offering a prize was taken up by the class several days ago. The prize is being kept a secret by the members of the annual board. The publication is the first one ever undertaken at the West Duluth school and from present indications promises to run a close second to the annual published by the Central high school. The teachers are co-operating with the students and a special faculty committee was appointed at the beginning of the year to supervise the work. All the members of the staff are in the senior class of the high school.

Sunday School Rally.

All the Presbyterian churches at the Head of the Lakes will hold a district Sunday school rally Friday evening at the Hazelwood Presbyterian church, Thirty-ninth avenue west and Fourth street. S. A. Blair, district superintendent of Sunday school work for the Duluth Presbytery, will preside at the meeting. The principal speaker of the evening will be Rev. Dr. Verkuyhl of Appleton, Wis., who will give a short talk on the Sunday school work. Following the regular business session refreshments will be served to all those present at the meeting.

Maroons Will Meet.

GETTING THE VOTERS OUT

Contest in Sixth Ward Is Arousing Interest of Citizens.

Political workers yesterday gave their attention to getting the voters out to register, which was about the only activity in the campaign. They were evidently successful in their efforts, for the registration was heavy yesterday, and gave indications of a heavy vote at the election Feb. 6.

Saturday will be the last registration day, and a final effort will be made to round up the voters. Many have not yet registered, and all political parties are anxious to get out a full vote.

The campaign has not developed a great deal of acrimony, but it is none the less intense. Every ward is organized by the different parties, and precinct as well as ward meetings are being held. Most of the candidates and party workers are supplementing the meetings by personal work, and interest in the campaign is widespread.

The big Democratic meeting this week will be held at Gilley's hall in West Duluth tomorrow evening. Mayor Cullum, Alderman Bernard and P. H. Martin, the candidate for alderman in the Eighth ward, will be the speakers. Friday evening Mayor Cullum and other speakers will address the French Naturalization club of the West end. It is a non-partisan organization, and candidates on both the Democratic and Republican tickets will speak.

Friday evening also a Fifth ward Democratic meeting will be held at Duluth Heights. Alderman John Hogan will be the principal speaker.

The West Duluth Republican club will hold another meeting Saturday evening and the Fifth ward Republicans will also meet.

Considerable interest is being taken in the Sixth ward contest, where J. C. Anderson, Republican, and E. J. Sandberg, Democrat, are the principal candidates. The registration in the Sixth ward yesterday was heavier than at the primary, and a heavy vote is expected in the ward. Good work is being done for Mr. Sandberg in the ward. He has lived in the ward for some years, has many friends, and is a business man who is regarded as a valuable man to have in the council. Gust Landin, Prohibition, and Charles Carlson, Public Ownership, are also candidates.

TWIN CITIES INTERESTED

George T. Simpson "Has Returned to the Legitimate."

George T. Simpson, former attorney general and at the present time one of the prominent attorneys of Minneapolis, is here today representing the Minneapolis Traffic association at the lake and rail case hearing. Judge John C. Dille and Mr. Simpson are representing the St. Paul Manufacturers' and Jobbers' association and the Minneapolis Traffic association. They believe in union there is strength.

"This hearing is going to be a very important one," said Mr. Simpson at the Spalding today. "Presumably it is one that will have a very large bearing on the traffic of Duluth, St. Paul and Minneapolis. It is so important that Commissioner Harlan will be here. St. Paul and Minneapolis are taking a very great interest in this hearing and in the commercial circles of the two cities the outcome will be awaited with a great deal of interest.

"Judge Dille and myself are here to represent the interests of the shippers and others of the Twin Cities. There is little that can be said, with the exception that important results will certainly grow out of the decision."

Mr. Simpson declared with a laugh that he was out of politics when asked for some information upon the political situation of the state.

"I am now engaged in that very pleasant occupation of trying law suits," said Mr. Simpson. A friend standing near interposed that he had returned to the legitimate. "Perhaps," agreed the former state attorney general. "I know I am working mighty hard."

PROGRESSIVES TO HOLD CONVENTION

Will Take Place in Minneapolis Early in February.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 24.—A Minnesota Progressive Republican convention will be held here early in February on the date when Senator La Follette appears here on his tour of the Northwest in the interest of his presidential campaign. This was decided upon last night at a meeting of the executive committee of the league, according to George Loftus, president, who said that the date of Senator La Follette's coming would be announced later.

Preparations for the coming campaign will be made at that time, according to Mr. Loftus.

YUAN SHI KAI TO GO AWAY

He Will Leave Pekin at Earliest Opportunity, It Is Said.

Serious Fighting May Occur in City at Any Time.

London, Jan. 24.—Information obtained from an authoritative source confirms the report of the intention of Premier Yuan Shi Kai to leave Pekin at the first favorable opportunity, according to a news agency dispatch from Tien Tsin. Yuan Shi Kai intends to take up his residence in the British concession in that city.

The American minister at Pekin has called in all Americans living in outlying parts of the city, according to a news agency dispatch from Tien Tsin today.

The friction between the Manchu troops of the imperial army and Yuan Shi Kai's force of Chinese troops constantly is increasing and a serious conflict may be precipitated at any moment.

Republicans Demand Money.

Shanghai, China, Jan. 24.—Huang Sing, the Republican minister of war, today made a demand upon the China Merchants' Steam Navigation company for 10,000,000 taels (approximately $7,000,000). In the event of failure by the company to produce the sum the company's vessels will be commandeered by the republican government and sold. The directors of the company asked the war minister for time to consult their stockholders.

It was reported a few days ago that the republican government had gained control of the stock of the company and purposed mortgaging the entire fleet for 10,000,000 taels.

CAT SHOW IS PLANNED

Many Fine Thoroughbred Animals Are Owned in Duluth.

Duluth may have a cat show.

There are said to be many fine specimens of thoroughbred cats in Duluth and more people are interested in well bred cats than is generally known.

Mrs. Agnes Atwood of the state free employment bureau stated this morning that many fine cats are owned in Duluth and that a cat show would be a real novelty.

She said that she is sure a great many Duluth women would enter cats in the exhibition. "There are perhaps 200 as finely bred Persian cats in Duluth as can be found in any city of like size in the United States," she said.

In Duluth there seems to be a great number of cat fanciers among the women. Several are in the business of raising cats and it is said they pay well.

Fancy cats cost from $10 to $2,000. An average cat of fair breeding costs from $50 to $75, it is said.

Cat shows are held every year in Chicago and New York and while the show that could be held in Duluth would not be nearly as large, it is stated that the cats shown would compare very favorably with those shown in the larger cities.

The Duluth women are said to be very much interested in a local cat show and there has been some talk of holding one in the spring.

The last show of the kind was held in Duluth about five years ago. Since that time the number of fanciers has grown greatly.

Among the Duluth women who are said to have fine specimens of Persian cats are: Mrs. W. H. Cook, Miss Josephine Haley, Mrs. Wing, Mrs. Chapman, Mrs. Scott of Park Point, Mrs. Harris, Mrs. Atwood, Mrs. E. H. Holdren, Mrs. Edwad Lynch, Mrs. Biscornette, Mrs. Harry Mauseau and Mrs. Homer Collins.

HADLEY'S STAND CAUSES SURPRISE

Administration Has Been Counting on His Support.

Washington, Jan. 24.—Friends of the administration were surprised today at the announcement that Governor Hadley of Missouri had come out in support of the nomination of Col. Roosevelt. Governor Hadley's support had been counted upon by political advisers of President Taft.

When the Missouri governor was in Washington several weeks ago it was announced he had practically pledged himself to support Mr. Taft for renomination. So confident were the political advisers of the president that Governor Hadley was working in his interest, that Secretary of Commerce and Labor Nagel, who comes from St. Louis, practically surrendered state leadership to the governor.

Marquette, Mich., Jan. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—C. C. Hard of Massillon, Ohio, has been engaged as physical director of local Guild hall, beginning April 1.

Mr. Hard was born in Milwaukee; he began his gymnasium career at the age of 9, with the German Turners and when he reached the age of 12 he became a member of the railroad department of the Y. M. C. A. of Milwaukee.

DEMAND TEN CENT INCREASE

Miners Will Vote on Proposed Raise in Wages Per Ton.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 24.—An increase of 10 cents a ton, on a run of mine basis, and an increase of 20 per cent for all day labor about the mines, were the demands of the wage scale committee submitted to the convention of the United Mine Workers of America at noon today, for the bituminous coal miners. The committee also demanded a 7-hour day.

No recommendation is to be made to the convention as to whether a national strike will be called whether the operators refuse or accede to the miners demands by April 1.

The scale committee will leave it to the convention to determine whether the miners' district organizations shall be permitted to sign wage contracts with their operators as speedily as they can be negotiated.

TEMPERING THE WIND TO THE LAMB.

London Telegraph: "Before I agree to undertake your defense," said the eminent criminal lawyer who had been called in, "you will have to be perfectly frank with me and tell me the whole truth. Did you embezzle the $1,000,000 you are accused of having taken?"

"Yes, sir," replied the accused man. "I'll not attempt to conceal the fact from you. I stole every penny of it."

"How much do you have still?"

"It's all gone but a couple of guineas."

"Young man," said the eminent lawyer, buttoning his coat about him and putting on his gloves, "you'd better plead guilty and throw yourself upon the mercy of the court."

"I'll do it if you say so, sir. What are you going to charge me for the advice?"

"Two guineas."

LAST PRISONER TO DRAW A DEFINITE SENTENCE

Bruno Rizzuto, who will be taken from the St. Louis county jail to the state penitentiary by Sheriff John R. Meining this week, enjoys the distinction of being the last prisoner to go to Stillwater under a straight sentence, except for a life term.

For the crime of attempting to kill Charles Green, Bruno was sent up by Judge Hughes of the range district court for two years and six months. Sentence was pronounced just one day before the new law providing for the indeterminate plan went into effect.

Sheriff Meining has also received committment papers for Henry C. Henrickson, who will do two years for arson. Henrickson was convicted by a jury on the charge that he had burned his home at West Duluth, supposedly for the insurance.

August Boo, who murdered his wife, Carrie Boo, Nov. 9 of last year and who has been pronounced insane by Judge Dancer of the disirict court, will be taken to the hospital for the criminal insane at St. Peter, where he will spend the rest of his life.

SICKNESS CAUSES TRUST FUND TO BE BROKEN.

William McMillan, as administrator of the estate of the late Lizzie Maud Brophy, has been authorized by an order of the district court to appropriate $200 out of a trust fund of $7,650 for Mabel Louise Brophy, one of the heirs of the estate, who is said to be ill and in need of funds. No division of the estate among the Brophy heirs will be made until 1913, when the youngest heir will be of age.

New Spring Coats

They came today, and, Oh! how fresh and pretty they are! We had these made of good medium weight materials, so that they might be worn right now. The styles are "different," inclining entirely toward one-sided effects. Backs are straight, sleeves close fitting, and all are full length.

Changeable taffeta linings are a feature for spring and are to be found in some of these models. Some are of white and light tan corduroy. Others of new gray suitings and whip cords.

LOWER PRICES OF BUTTER EXPECTED

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Factions in the Elgin butter board at Elgin, Ill., fighting among each other, is given in advices received by the Minnesota dairy and food department, as the cause of the high price of butter. The Elgin board is the association of butter dealers against which the government has brought suit, alleging that it is a combination in restraint of trade.

The Elgin butter board jumped the price of extras (the best classes of butter) Monday from 36 to 46 cents. This is said to be the highest figure reached by Elgin for twenty-four years.

The drop of 2 cents a pound in the price of butter noted in New York yesterday probably will become effective here, according to Fred M. McIntosh, secretary of the state dairy and food department, as the quotations on butter throughout all the United States are regulated from New York and Elgin.

"It appears that buyers anticipated a fall," said Mr. McIntosh. "At the Wadena convention of dairymen a few days ago, only 35 cents a pound was paid for butter sold at the meeting, while prices quoted by the Elgin and New York boards were standing at 41 and 42 cents. The buyers appeared afraid to pay more than 35 cents."

Farming Continues to Have Many Advocates Among Contestants.

Today's contributions to The Herald's contest not only suggested new ideas to the young man in the way of investing his first $1,000, but also covered a wide range of territory.

The morning's mail brought to the contest editor two letters from as far west as Portland, Or., and east as far as Indiana. Communications were also received from Thief River Falls, Two Harbors and Grand Rapids, Minn., and Norway, Mich.

Much depends on the general ability and inclinations of the would-be investor, would he succeed in profitably investing his first $1,000, says a Portland, Or., contributor. Some men, he points out, are ready to take the initiative and others have to have everything blocked out for them. He has, however, an interesting suggestion about farming on the co-operative plan.

Another Portland contributor advises the young investor to come to Portland and grow and develop in a new country. "Do not look for a snap," he says, "for if you do you will be the one who is snapped."

The Indiana contestant advises going into the hog-raising business. Another from Fosston, Minn., takes no stock in the poultry business and suggests the purchase of real estate. A Thief River Falls man believes there are opportunities in the employment agency business conducted honestly and a local man is of the opinion that a moving picture house in some small city would be a paying investment.

Today's contributions follow:

S. Elliott Finch, Portland, Or.: So much depends upon the man with the $1,000; his general ability, inclinations, etc.; one man would succeed at any business, another man wouldn't succeed at anything; some men are capable of taking the initiative, others can't do anything unless it is blocked out for them; some men you can't keep down, others can not be kept up; so without seeing and knowing "Mr. Man" I cann.., perhaps, give him advice which would be suitable for him, but submit the following, which has proven attractive and profitable to a large number.

"Mr. Man" might invest in two acres with a co-operative company (note the word co-operative), which has 400 acres of land with forty families already on it; this company sells from one to ten acres of land to one family; buys all household and working supplies in large quantities and sells to the forty families at wholesale prices; when a family wishes to sell any produce the company truck will call for it and sell it in town, getting the best prices and retaining only enough for operating expenses; this does away with each family keeping a horse, and the loss of time in goingto town.

The land is for sale at $200 and $400 per acre, half cash, balance at 6 per cent until paid. "Mr. Man" would buy two acres, paying $300 down; $75 for a rough two-room bungalow; $25 for two chicken houses; $100 for tools, incubator, brooder, etc., leaving $500 for railroad fare, buying and planting trees, berry bushes, etc.

"Mr. Man" would send his wife and children to this place, (name of company and location furnished upon request), he keeping his position in Duluth until March 1, 1913, sending his wife $40 or $50 per month to live on while she superintended the construction of the bungalow (which could be put up in less than a week), and planned and planted the two acres. One acre would be planted to 2-year-old lemon or orange trees, one-half acre to berries and vegetables; and one-half acre for bungalow and poultry.

This home would be self-supporting in six months if "Mrs. Man" was lucky with the chickens; but my earnest advice is to go slow with poultry, a little at a time, and learn the business thoroughly before investing very much capital; the mistakes and losses of the first year, if properly studied, should make the second and succeeding years profitable. The fourth year after planting the lemon or orange trees there will be a small profit, and the profits grow each year until about the tenth or twelfth when the maximum is reached, and should then be returning from $1,000 to $1,500 clear profit.

This co-operative company already has two ex-professors of agriculture among its members, and the entire company are people who are giving their best thought to this work; who hold meetings every week at which all practical questions are answered or discussed, and they have succeeded and will succeed because they have the essentials of success, capital determination, intelligent organization, and real co-operation. The money from the land now sold goes to improve the streets, water system, etc.

There are also grand opportunities in Oregon apple, prune, cherry, and walnut orchards, but they require more capital to handle.

H. D. Hanna, Portland, Or.—There are many different ways your correspondent should invest his $1,000 and realize good returns, but the opportunities offered in the thickly settled East are few as compared with the rapidly growing Northwest.

My advice to Mr. Blank is to bring your family to Portland, Or. Upon arrival here rent a furnished cottage and secure employment temporarily for say six months. In the course of six months you will have made acquaintances among your neighbors and fellow workmen. Discuss your desires with them; plan, read the papers, where you will find numerous openings on a dollar and more often they never pay back what the interest on the principal amounted to, etc.

What's the use of any young man working hard for daily wages and wear wrinkles on his face, gray hair on his head and a hump on his back? You are just laboring for the wise business man who is sporting an auto living in a mansion, eating nothing but the best, attending grand operas, and enjoying prosperity. The laboring men earn the wealth for any business and the business men spend and enjoy it. Life is too short to toil hard to save in ten years only $1,000. Just think of it. Some business men clear that much a day.

John Rockefeller, Andrew Carnegie, J. J. Hill and many other millionaires got rich by going into business, why can't you? Working for wages you will never be satisfied. Now, if you had a business of your own you would feel more like an American and your wife and two children could live like Americans.

I say rent a building near the union depot of Duluth and start a first class employment bureau for both sexes. Charge $1 for registration fee and 25 per cent of the first month's wages for getting the position. Don't be deceitful, but be honest in your dealings. Keep your place neat and clean. If a customer asks for work and you find him a suitable position give him all the necessary information so he will find it just as you represent it to be. He will always go a block further to deal with you. Many fail in business because they do not understand the meaning of honesty.

I say Duluth, because it is growing larger every year and it is not only noted for an excellent lake port but for its manufacturing and lumbering industries. Hundreds have become rich in Duluth, why can't you?

Frank McCormick, Grand Rapids, Minn.: Buy ten acres of land in Northern Minnesota for about $15 per acre, leaving a remainder of $850. Next buy a house, or rather build one for about $100 out of logs. This would be good enough until you would accumulate wealth enough to secure better. Next build a log henroop, large enough for 600 chickens, costing $100. This leaves a remainder of $650. Next erect a barn for about $25. Buy one horse, $150, and one cow, $45, leaving a remainder of $430. Then buy two incubators costing about $10 apiece, then about 600 eggs for about $7 per 100, which can be obtained at the experimental farm, where they are sold for that purpose. These would cost $42. All leaves a remainder of $352.

You can now see my object is a poultry farm. You could raise 400 or 500 chickens a summer, beginning this summer, and as time went on could add on to the coop. Sell your eggs to regular customers, to hotels, or to neighboring towns. Eggs are 50 cents per dozen and will probably be higher. You could plow up about five acres for your cow and horse, millet and wheat for chickens, and vegetables for the family. Thus you would have eggs, milk, butter and vegetables for your family, which would cut the price of living. Send your children to school, and teach them to work the farm. Buy a book to learn the care of chickens. Your wife could help take care of the chickens and incubators.

J. W. Snellman, 2609 West Third Street: If I had $1,000 I would start a moving picture show in some prosperous town of about 3,000 or 4,000 people, preferably a mining town where mining operations are carried on the entire year. I would aim to keep a first-class place and run it in a business-like way, and perhaps add a little vaudeville if necessary. If there is a business that brings a surer living, I have failed to see it.

Mrs. Paul Neumann, Two Harbors, Minn.—In answer to the young man who has saved his first $1,000, I would say that no one person could advise him as to what to do exactly with his $1,000 and be successful. It all depends upon the young man himself. If he is inclined to go to the country there are many branches of farming to choose from. He must choose the one to which his inclination runs, whether to poultry raising, stock raising, dairying, fruit raising, truck gardening or general farming. All these branches afford a comfortable living and a little to put away for a rainy day, while the state of Minnesota offers as good a field as any state for the different branches of farming named. In my opinion the state of Washington, either central or western portion, is best adapted for fruit raising, such as apples, plums, peaches and strawberries. If he has no inclination to go to the country and wishes to live in the city, the best possible investment for him would be to invest in real estate. I would buy lots in a growing residence part of Duluth and sell at small profits, doing this same thing over and over again, and by using good judgment, in five years he will have enough money to put up a $5,000 or $6,000 flat. This I would rent, and if I got a chance to sell at a profit, would do so, reinvesting this and the rent received in a larger or more flats.

Ida T. Carlson, 514 East Sixth street—Take out a life insurance policy for $1,000 in a reliable company, paying three years in advance.

Study investments and loan the balance out on first mortgage on Duluth property, paying from 7 to 9 per cent; or buy a lot or piece of land in some part of the city where values are rapidly increasing. In choosing a real estate dealer, be sure to consult one who has keen foresight as well as honesty. Many poor investments have been advised by honest men with poor judgment.

If possible find a position where you can earn a good salary and at the same time gain experience in the line of business in which you hope to engage.

Then with an increased capital and definite experience, success ought to be certain in the business you select.

"I'VE GOT THE FIRST $1,000; WHAT SHALL I DO WITH IT?"

For the second of its series of contests The Herald has an interesting problem which comes to it in the form of a letter that explains itself:

To the Editor of The Herald:

We have often been told—at least we used to be—by rich men that the hardest work on the road to wealth is to get the first $1,000.

I've got that sum now—saved it out of my salary during ten years. Who will tell me how to go the rest of the way? How shall I invest it? Shall I go into business, and what kind, and how?

I am 35 years old, with a wife and two small children, and have a fair position with a living salary, but that's about all. Probably I could, if nothing happened, save another $1,000 in another ten years, but with the cost of living going up faster than salaries—and I can't expect mine to go much higher than it is—it is going to be harder. If I am ever going to start out for myself and gain independence or wealth, now is the time for me to begin, while I am strong and healthy and young.

What shall I do with myself and my $1,000—and my family?

Here's a real problem, a vital one that will interest everybody; and The Herald hopes to see a large and interesting variety of answers. It hopes, too, that men who have traveled the road that lies before this young inquirer will take part in the discussion. The prizes will, of course, be no temptation to them; but this is a subject of wide interest, and they should be glad to contribute their wisdom and experience to its solution.

Write out your answer, limit it to 300 words, put your name and address at the top of the sheet, write on one side of the paper only, and send it to the Contest Editor of The Herald before Feb. 1.

For the best answer to this young man's problem The Herald will give a prize of $10.

Have You the First $1,000?

If you have, you ought to see W. H. Smallwood regarding a farm in the Cork district. We have one farm of 160 acres for sale that would certainly suit you. There are twenty acres cleared and broken and $1,000 worth of improvements. This land is five miles from Cork, Minn., and in the very best farming district that you could conceive. $1,000 down and balance on easy terms. The price is only $15.50 per acre.

NEW PLAN IS ADOPTED

Superior Will Try Commission Government for Six Years.

Opposition of Socialists to the Change Is Overcome.

At an election held yesterday, the city of Superior adopted the commission form of government.

There were 1,596 votes for and 1,400 against the change.

The Socialists opposed the change as is shown by the vote cast in the Third, Fourth and Ninth wards, the three strongest Socialist wards in the city.

The Seventh, called the "silk stocking ward," brought in even a larger majority in favor of the change than had been expected.

The commission form was adopted for six years.

At the March primaries six men will be nominated, four to be councilmen and two for the office of mayor. The former positions pay $4,500 and the latter $5,000 per year. At the final election two councilmen and the mayor will be chosen.

The mayor will be elected for six years and the councilmen will after the election draw lots to decide which is to have the short term, two years, and which is to have the long term, four years. After the first election all commissioners will be chosen for six years.

With the adoption of the commission form of government the initiative, referendum and the recall was also adopted. There will be a large number of candidates for positions on the commission. Among those who will probably run are:

Mayor F. R. Crumpton, John Erickson, C. S. Starkweather, Paul Domsch, and Joseph Konkel. Among others who may run are: State Senator Victor Linley, Judge F. S. Parker, John M. McCabe, C. N. O'Hare, W. R. Foley and Fred Tomlinson.

The tabulated vote by precincts follows:

'OFFICER" ACQUITTED

Did Not Wear Uniform With Any Intention to Defraud.

Noah Lewis Waelelchi was found not guilty by a jury in the United States district court yesterday, of impersonating a United States army officer.

It was brought out during the trial of the case that Waelelchi had made no attempt to mislead any one. He claimed that he was at one time in the regular army but did not claim he was at the time he was negotiating for a contract at the Star theater.

It was also shown that the uniform worn by Waelelchi did not correspond with the regulation army uniform. The words over the cap "E Pluribus Unum," meaning one out of many, were left off the cap worn by Waelelchi. The letters "U. S." were not dotted and the coat was an old one, discarded some time ago by the army.

The defendant claimed that he did not solicit the engagement at the local theater but that the manager solicited his act, "Army and Navy Life."

Under the law it is no offense to wear a uniform unless by its use the person attempts to or does succeed, in defrauding.

It was shown that Waelelchi did not try to misrepresent himself, and that he was giving a performance just as he had agreed to do.

A Superior woman with whom the defendant had become acquainted, stated on the stand that Waelelchi told her that he was not at the present time in the employ of the United States as a soldier.

Managers of other theaters where the man had appeared, testified that he had made no attempt to misrepresent himself.

JOHN R. WALSH'S WILL MAY BE CONTESTED.

Chicago, Jan. 24.—Possibility that there might be a contest over the will of the late John R. Walsh, former president of the Chicago National bank who died shortly after his release from the federal prison at Leavenworth, Kan., developed here in the probate court when William T. Abbott, one of Walsh's attorneys, declared that in his opinion Mr. Walsh was suffering from hallucinations when he drafted his will. The document, which was admitted to probate, left the entire estate, estimated to be worth $808,000, to the widow of the banker.

Abbott, who was called as a witness in the proof of heirship, declared John R. Walsh suffered from hallucinations and that he was bitter against his eldest son, John W. Walsh, who took charge of the Walsh properties when his father was sent to Fort Leavenworth, and who now lives at 501 Clara avenue, St. Louis.

Juneau, Alaska, Jan. 24.—An order for the abandonment of the United States marine barracks maintained at Sitka for thirty years, has been issued by the navy department. MANDAMUS FOR COUNCIL Aldermen Are Directed to Approve Plats of Two Additions.

Court Action Shows That City's Position Is Not Justified.

The district court late yesterday afternoon issued a writ of mandamus directing the members of the city council to approve the plats of Colman's Second and Third divisions to Duluth. This will be done at the next meeting of the city council Monday night.

The approval was first refused by the council because the plats made no provision for parks or playgrounds. When it came up again Monday night the council postponed action, although Attorney E. M. Morgan stated previously that unless the plats were approved the district court was certain to cause the writ to be issued. The matter had been up in court and practically determined. Attorney Morgan agreed to continue the case to give the council an opportunity to approve the plats, which would give the city an opportunity to avoid establishing a precedent in the matter which might be harmful.

The procedure has shown that the city has scarcely a leg to stand upon in demanding the setting aside of parks and playgrounds in new divisions which are put upon the market. The only thing upon which the demand is based is on a resolution passed by the plat commission consisting of the city engineer, the city assessor and the president of the board of public works, and approved by the city council. There is no ordinance making this provision and there is no state law. This puts it up to the city authorities to get some legislation if the municipality is to get ground in new divisions. An ordinance will have to be passed, or it will be necessary to secure legislation to that effect in the next legislature. Those familiar with the situation state that the latter would be preferable.

its purchase by the National Packing company in 1905 until thirty days ago, when it was closed for repairs.

He said that the Viles & Robbins plant at St. Joseph was a subsidiary of the Omaha Packing company and had not been in operation for several years at the time the National Packing company was organized.

The witness said the Northwestern Glue company was organized by the National Packing company, and had been engaged in the manufacture of glue for several years.

Developed New Concern.

Weber said the $2,000,000 charged against the New York Butchers' Dressed Beef association was not all for the purchase of the company. He said about half the amount was for the development of the corporation's business.

Before entering the employ of the National Packing company, Weber said, he was part owner of the Peoria Packing company, an independent concern at Peoria, Ill., in 1893. At that time he said his company used a test cost of beef and made a killing charge of $1.75 a head.

Weber expressed the opinion that it would be impracticable to conduct a dressed beef business without using a test cost.

Bought and Closed Plants.

Evidence that the National Packing company was one of the agencies used by the alleged packers' combination to destroy competition was given.

By the books of the National Packing company the government showed that the corporation acquired by purchase thirteen competitors after its organization, and that the price paid for these independent concerns was $8,000,000. A majority of these packing concerns immediately was closed by the new owners.

The packers have contended all along, according to the theory of the government, that the sole object of organizing the National Packing company was to operate the fifteen independent packing companies purchased in 1903 to put in the proposed $1,000,000,000 merger, which was abandoned because of the inability of its promoters to finance it. This contention was attacked by the government by the offer of evidence purporting to show that the National Packing company purchased thirteen competing companies after its organization.

Independents Bought Up.

The independents thus acquired were: Continental Packing company, United Dressed Beef company, New York Dressed Beef association, Butchers' Dressed Beef association, Western Packing company, Colorado Packing & Provision company, Ruddy Bros., Plankington Packing company, Smith Bros. Packing company, Dovef Beef company, Denver Union Stockyards company, North American Provision company, German-American Provision company and the Milwaukee Union Stockyards company.

Many items of cash, in several instances amounting to $100,000 charged on the books to "E. T." which it was explained meant Edward Tilden, president of the National Packing company, were revealed by District Attorney Wilkerson's examination of the corporation's books. It was said these sums were used by the president of the company in the purchase of rival packing concerns.

OKLAHOMANS INDORSE TAFT

Coalgate, Okla., Jan. 24.—President Taft was indorsed for renomination by the Republican party for president at the Fourth congressional district Republican convention here last night, after Roosevelt supporters had made a determined effort to stampede the convention. Defeat came only after a hard struggle and during which spectacular methods were used to impress the delegates with the boom which the supporters of Roosevelt had set in motion. Edward Perry, district chairman, led the fight for Roosevelt.

Previous to the assembling of the delegates, a huge balloon was released near Convention hall. Painted on it was one word "Roosevelt." As Perry began speaking, after the convention was temporarily organized, a small boy dressed in "Rough Rider" costume, rode a horse up the center aisle of the convention hall. He was lifted to the stage while Perry suspended his address for a moment. The lad, waving his diminutive sombrero, shouted "I want Teddy." Cheers followed.

The defeat of the Perry forces became evident early. On the vote for temporary chairman the Perry people had a momentary vision of victory when it was announced that their candidate had been chosen, 74 to 65. A canvass of the vote disclosed that an avowed supporter of President Taft had been elected, 72½ to 62½. The delegates selected are the first to be chosen of those who will select the party's presidential nominee at Chicago in June.

MURRAY WARNS SOME OF THE NATIONAL BANKS.

Washington, Jan. 24.—While the national banks of the country as a whole possess an enormous surplus, testifying to their strength, there are a number of institutions whose surplus is so low that comparatively slight reverses would impair their capital, according to a statement issued by Comptroller of the Currency Murray. In the future, the comptroller announced, he will ask all new national banks to pay in a substantial surplus at the time of organization to bear the organizing and running expenses without encroaching upon their capital. Of the 7,300 national banks, 1,284 have surplus averaging only 10 per cent of their capital. In the case of 16 banks, Mr. Murray said, the loss of $1,000 each would impair their capital. There are 81 banks in which a loss of $2,000, and 93 in which a loss of $3,000 would wipe out their surplus and profits and impair their capital.

During 1911, the surplus of the national banks as a whole was over 65 per cent, nearly double the amount of twenty years ago.

Steel Corporation Boycotted.

James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel corporation, surprised the committee yesterday with the statement that the Steel corporation and the International Harvester company have had no business dealings with each other for five or six years.

The information, coming on the eve of a proposed investigation of the International Harvester company by congress in which it was sought to show as one existing condition that the International Harvester company and the Steel corporation had interlocking directors, and that the latter gave rebates to the former on steel, was doubly surprising.

Representatives McGillicuddy of Maine questioned President Farrell about the export business of the Steel corporation and rebates given to certain companies.

"Isn't it a fact that the Harvester company gets larger rebates than are granted smaller concerns?" Mr. McGillicuddy asked.

No Harvester Business.

"We have done no business with the International Harvester company whatever for five or six years," Mr. Farrell replied. "The International Harvester company has had a boycott on this corporation. It grew out of a controversy between one of our subsidiary companies and the Harvester company. It started as a mere quibble between salesmen and resulted in a complete severance of business relations. There is absolutely nothing in common between us. We don't do business with them."

Among the board of directors of the United States Steel corporation are Elbert H. Gary, George F. Baker, George W. Perkins and Norman B. Ream, all of whom also are directors of the International Harvester company. Mr. Gary is chairman of the board of the United States Steel corporation and Mr. Perkins is chairman of the finance committee of the International Harvester company.

President Farrell was interrogated at length relative to a reported international organization of steel manufacturers to control the price of steel rails. He explained that European manufacturers had such an organization, but the United States Steel corporation was not a party to it.

Changes in Price.

Asked by Mr. Beall if officials of the Steel corporation, when they decided to change prices, were not bound to tell their competitors, President Farrell answered in the negative.

President Farrell denied in response to questions that the Steel corporation gave any rebates or discounts to the Standard Oil company on tin plates for cans.

Representative Gardner sought an explanation of the fact that the price of standard steel rails had remained fixedly at $28 a ton for ten years, when the price of all other steel products had fluctuated. Mr. Farrell explained that the $28 figure for years had been regarded as a fair price, and because the cost of manufacture of rails had steadily increased, no one would lower the price.

"But why don't you raise the price?" Mr. Gardner asked.

"I believe that the price will be raised." Mr. Farrell responded. "I do not think it will remain at $28 a ton much longer. The Republic Iron & Steel company, which has a rail mill, has never operated it because it thought the price did not bring a fair return."

Built Steamship Line.

The Steel corporation president explained that the United States Steel Products company, the subsidiary company handling the foreign business of the corporation, owned a steamship line known as the Isthmian Steamship company, which they were forced to build because they could get none of the steamship companies to handle their products to countries in Central America.

The export business of the Steel corporation had increased, he said, from $31,000,000 in 1904 to $69,000,000 in 1911.

Mr. Farrell completed his testimony yesterday.

DEBATE ON BOND ISSUE

The proposed issue of $700,000 of bonds for the acquisition of an electric light and power plant was discussed from both sides at the meeting last evening of the Fifth Ward Improvement club at the Emerson school, Eleventh avenue west and Third street.

W. A. Hicken, Republican candidate for alderman of the first ward, and Alderman John Hogan, Democrat, candidate for re-election in the Fifth ward, were the principal speakers for those favoring the bond issue. Mr. Hicken stated that it is a civic and economic question and not one of politics. He believed that the bond issue should be approved on its merits. He referred to the water and light department, speaking highly of its success in Duluth. Comparing the rates of Duluth, which has a municipally owned plant, with those of Superior, which is served by a private corporation, he said that it costs the people of Superior about twice what it does those of Duluth for water. He also thought that a private corporation would be much more liable to participate in politics.

Alderman Hogan said that in his opinion the council had done well in authorizing the expenditure which was necessary to get the reports of Engineers Claussen and Pilsbury and that it had been the proper step to place the matter squarely before the people. It was pointed out that the expenditure had already resulted in the Duluth-Edison company offering reductions in rates which would represent a great saving to the taxpayers. Alderman Hogan advocated the passage of the proposed amendments to the charter.

R. E. Patterson and Roy Hood led the discussion against the approval of the bond issue. Mr. Patterson did not believe that the money paid to the engineers had been wisely spent. He pointed out that the report did not give a detailed statement of the value of the present plant.

Mr. Hood took the position that the city is already bonded sufficiently and should wait until such a time as it was in better condition financially before going into the electric lighting business. For the same reason he was opposed to the charter amendments. He further thought that Dr. Webster, health commissioner, had not investigated the facts as fully as possible when he made his report criticising the ventilation in the schools.

Mr. Hicken did not agree with part of Mr. Hood's statements relative to the city's bonded indebtedness. He did not think it fair to include the bonds of the water and light department, which is self-sustaining.

Dr. W. H. Konkler, Republican candidate for alderman of the Fifth ward, stated that he would not commit himself on the bond issue further than that he would abide by the wishes of the people as expressed at the coming election.

WILL SHOW FIELD WORK

North Dakota Better Farming Association Plans to Enlighten Farmers.

Grand Forks, N. D., Jan. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—North Dakota farmers attending the annual state Corn and Clover convention here Feb. 5 to 9, will have an opportunity of becoming thoroughly acquainted with the field of work which the North Dakota Better Farming association, recently organized, proposes to cover. Secretary Thomas Cooper of the Better Farming association has become interested in the Corn and Clover convention as a means of exploiting the causes for which the organization has been formed, and has already assigned several members of his corps to participate in the sessions here.

Five good speakers have been announced by Secretary Bacheller, two of these being University of Minnesota men. H. B. Smith, head of the department of animal husbandry, will speak on "Beef," and Andrew Boss will also be a speaker. P. G. Holden, the world renowned corn expert of Iowa, is another of the speakers; J. B. Chamberlain, industrial commissioner of the Great Northern, will talk on "Rural Development," and Secretary Thomas Cooper will speak on the work of the Better Farming society.

Poultry Prizes Offered.

In the poultry show, which will be conducted by the Grand Forks Pure Livestock association, three splendid cups have been offered as prizes, and will be competed for by exhibitors from Minnesota and North Dakota. The Commercial club donated one of the cups, the others being known as the Couch and the Association cups.

Another event which will be held in connection with the big convention is the "Made in Grand Forks" exhibit. This exhibit was started a year ago for the first time, and as its name indicates, it is an exposition of products manufactured in the city of Grand Forks. This feature is being handled by the Commercial club.

MICHIGAN BOYS FOREST SCOUTS

Marquette, Mich., Jan. 24.—Maj. William R. Oates of Lansing, state game, fish and forestry warden, who is in Marquette is telling of the Michigan Forest Scouts, a statewide organization of school boys, residing in the wooded districts of the state, who are now being mustered in companies as "auxiliary fire wardens" under his direction. A company of scouts is shortly to be formed in Marquette, according to Mr. Oates, as well as in many other towns of the state.

"The Scouts are a synonym for a big educational movement," said Mr. Oates. "The primary object of the organization is the dissemination of knowledge of the importance of the prevention of forest fires to the boys and girls of the state, and through them, to their parents. Governor Osborn indorses the measure as an innovation that will put Michigan in advance of other states.

Rules of Conduct.

"Rules for conduct and service are recited in a text book compiled by the department which provides medal rewards for boys in medals of three degrees. Further salary provision is made to the older boys when exigencies call for actual fire fighting service. Age requirements for active Scouts is from 7 to 18 years, inclusive.

"That the movement may be coeducational and metropolitan, all girls and boys of the public schools of the state will have competitive rights in an annual story contest under the supervision of the forestry department in which medals of three degrees will be awarded. The stories will be pertinent to the work of the Scouts.

"Honorary membership will be conferred with medal on such men or women, boys or girls, not eligible as active members, who shall have performed such service as would entitle an active member to state award.

"The scope of the organization, however, is broad. It will afford all the outdoor life of Boy Scouts, but there will be no uniform or equipment assessments.

SHOPPING ON SNOWSHOES.

Brave Montana Woman Makes Fourteen-Mile Hike to City.

Great Falls, Mont., Jan. 24.—When Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Taylor decided to leave their ranch near Tenderfoot in the northern part of Meagher county, for the purpose of spending several days in Great Falls, they found it impossible to make the fourteen miles to where they could get the stage with a team, owing to the heavy fall of snow.

However, this did not cause them to give up the trip and snowshoes were put in order for use on the trail in the foothills, and the couple made the trip in remarkably short time. At places the snow was fifteen feet deep, but the surface was in good shape for snowshoeing.

Kicking a pair of snoeshoes for fourteen miles on an unbroken trail is hardly to be considered the sort of exercise that the average woman would choose, especially when the thermometer is reading close to zero, but Mrs. Taylor evidently enjoyed the experience and showed the pluck which is the heritage of the descendants from the Montana pioneers.

TWO McGREGOR STATE BANKS ARE COMBINED.

Rugby, N. D., Jan. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The two state banks at McGregor, on the new line of the Great Northern, have been consolidated, the McGregor State bank stockholders buying the First State bank of McGregor, and will continue both under the former name. The First State bank was one of the Tallman line banks, while the other institution is owned by W. D. McClintock and W. C. McClintock of Rugby, and E. R. Reitsch of Rockford, Ill.

CRESCENT IN THE ICE.

Steamer Unable to Reach Grand Marais Docks.

Grand Marais, Minn., Jan. 18.—(Special Correspondence.)—The steamer Crescent City gained an entrance to the harbor early Monday morning, Jan. 15, but on account of the ice was unable to get to the docks. She is still here locked in the ice and it is likely that it will be some time before she will be able to get out. Up to the present time she has been unable to make the dock, and lies just inside the lighthouse pier. Most of the fishermen along the shore have considerable quantities of frozen herring which they have been expecting to ship on the Crescent, but on account of the ice blockade, the Crescent will be unable to leave for some time and it is feared that the herring may spoil.

TRANSFORMERS BURNED.

Marquette, Mich., Jan. 24.—The three transformers at the new Carp River power station of the Cleveland Cliffs Mining company, were badly damaged by fire Monday evening that will delay starting up the power plant several weeks.

MARQUETTE ICE THICK.

Eighteen Inches and Thicker Than Harbor Has Seen in Years.

Marquette, Mich., Jan. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Measurements just taken by Assistant Observer Pugh, of the weather bureau, show that the ice is eighteen inches thick near Parker's fish house and nine inches thick between the docks and the breakwater. There is more and thicker ice in the Marquette harbor than for many years.

FAVOR STATE CONTROL.

Minnesota Independent Phone Men Want Same Deal as Railroads.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 24.—Control of all telephone companies by a state commission and compulsory physical connection between competing companies, was suggested in the annual address of Lucius F. Clark of Bellingham, Minn., president of the Minnesota Independent Telephone association, which opened its annual convention here yesterday. The association reiterated its contention that the entire state should exercise the same control over telephone companies as it does over the railroads.

At the last session of the legislature, the association's bills to compel connection between competing companies, passed the house, but was defeated in the senate.

FROZEN TO DEATH.

Bayfield, Wis., Jan. 24.—John Cadotte, one of the oldest residents of Madeline Island, was frozen to death near the home of his son in this vicinity two days ago. The old man had a grown up family of children and went over to visit them. He went downtown and it is presumed that he had a sinking spell and succumbed to the cold. Besides two sons at Bayfield he leaves a number of children on Madeline Island.

RECOVERS HEAVY VERDICT.

Former Ashland Man Wins Court Victory Over George Gould.

Ashland, Wis., Jan. 24. — Considerable interest is evinced here over the press dispatch from New York telling of a big verdict that John S. Jones, a former Ashland man, secured in the New York county court on the third trial of his case against George J. Gould. William Ramsay and William Guy, the jury awarding him $607,159. Jones alleged the defendants "froze" him out of the Little Kanawaha syndicate organized by the defendants to develop coal fields in Ohio. Jones at the two previous trials had recovered verdicts for more than $500,000 which were reversed by the appellate division.

J. S. Jones formerly lived in Ashland, and was superintendent of the Northwestern Railway company during the days of the Gogebic iron boom. Mr. and Mrs. Jones are well remembered by their friends here. Mrs. Jones died over a year ago at Granville, Ohio. Mr. Jones now resides in Chicago and is engaged in the coal business. He is also the controlling owner in the lease of the Grand Pacific hotel in that city.

TAKEN FROM HIS BRIDE.

Paroled Wisconsin Prisoner, Just Married, Returned to Penitentiary.

La Crosse, Wis., Jan. 24.—Pursued through Wisconsin, Michigan, Illinois, Iowa and Missouri, Robert Duncanson of Fond du Lac, Wis., who is charged with forgery and violation of parole was torn from the arms of his weeping bride at St. Louis, Mo., and was brought here Tuesday by a Wisconsin parole officer. The officer left for Waupun with his prisoner later in the day. Duncanson, who was an inmate of the penitentiary, and had been released on parole, disappeared from Fond du Lac in December, eloped with a young woman of Oshkosh, who did not know his record, and since gave the officers a long chase. The young woman, who comes from a good family, has been returned home.

Mr. Olesen awards a gold medal, and Mr. Lynds a fine set of books. The declamations are chosen by the pupils themselves, and there is considerable enthusiasm in school circles over the forthcoming event.

NEW HEAD OF NORTH DAKOTA INSTITUTION.

I WANT TO GIVE AWAY THOUSANDS OF 10-DAY TREATMENTS FREE

TO RELIEVE THE SUFFERINGS OF HUMANITY

DR. ABBOTT

I want every man or woman reader of this paper who suffers to write me and get this wonderful TEN DAY TREATMENT of mine FREE.

It is not an experimental distribution of medicine, such as have been made before, that I am offering you. It is not a sample of a medicine or a proof, but a bonafide ten-day treatment that has cured a great many people and should cure you. And it is absolutely free to you. There is no money to pay. I even pay postage and all charges. I just want to relieve thousands of sufferers in return for the success that my thirty-two years of labor in the medical profession have brought me.

If you have rheumatism, backache, kidney or bladder troubles, chronic catarrh, or any of the other Uric-Acid complaints, such as often are female weakness and so-called male nervous debility, write to me, filling out the little coupon herewith attached and I will send you at once a full Ten-Day Treatment, as thousands of earnest testimonials I have in my possession will prove to you.

There is too much sickness in the world and it is mostly due to neglect. Long treatments, expensive, courses of medicine, with their consequent expense, are no longer necessary. I can and do cure with these Ten-Day Treatments and I want to give thousands of sufferers a chance to profit by my discovery at my expense. It costs you nothing, now nor at any time.

Don't Send Me Any Money

not even postage—I will pay all expenses. But if you value happiness, success, a healthy mind in a healthy body. Don't waste any time but fill out this coupon and mail it to me. Remember it is FREE. You will owe me nothing now nor later.

MY TEN DAY TREATMENT POSITIVELY CURES BACKACHE FREE!

Are you racked with pain?

Do you suffer so that your daily work is a torture instead of being a pleasure?

Have you lost ambition, zest, enterprise, the desire to better yourself because of pains, aches, dullness?

Has rheumatism set its clutches on your muscles and palsied your limbs so that life is hardly worth living, your days a horror and your nights a terror?

I can relieve your sufferings and I want to do it now. Write to me. Fill out the coupon and mail it to me. That is all you need to do. I will do the rest and it will cost you absolutely nothing.

Rheumatism, backache, kidney troubles, bladder troubles, chronic catarrh, female weakness and so-called weakness of men are generally due to one cause—uric acid poisoning. My treatment, which is different from all others, will dispel your pains; it will make life worth living. Take it and you will get up in the morning after a sound night's sleep, refreshed and invigorated. Once more your muscles will respond to your will and do so readily without twinges of agony, without reluctance. Your backache will vanish and you will bless me and thank me as have done thousands of others.

This treatment is not an experiment. It does not contain drugs that injure you while giving temporary relief. We have vouched for it according to law.

I am not offering to send you a sample but a full ten days' course of treatment with full instructions as to how to use it and all of it is absolutely free to you.

I want to convince you that it is your duty to yourself and to those who love you and are dependent on you to try this free 10 day treatment of mine.

No man tortured with uric acid complaints is fit for the battle of life. He cannot bring his brain nor his hands to work properly when his body is racked with pain. No woman can care for her home, bring up her children right or work if she is cross, miserable, distracted by suffering. The struggle is too keen, competition too merciless, the fight for success too strenuous to be handicapped by physical ills. To the man or woman who suffers I want to bring relief, comfort, happiness, success. Fill out the coupon attached here and mail to me. Don't wait until tomorrow, tomorrow never comes, do it at once. With my Ten-Day Treatment, I will also send my book on Uric Acid Diseases. It is a pamphlet full of the results of an experience of thirty-two years, during which I have specialized in uric acid complaints. It contains also a few of the tens of thousands of testimonial letters from preachers, lawyers, men and women of affairs the country over who have not hesitated to say just how much I have benefited them.

DR. G. B. ABBOTT

P. S.—Perhaps you have a friend who is a sufferer. Don't hesitate to have him or her fill out this coupon or write me a letter, or you do it for your friend. They will call you blessed.

LIMIT SALE OF MORPHINE

Druggists Want It Placed in Same Class With Cocaine.

At Present It Is Left to Druggist's Honor Only.

The Minnesota State Pharmaceutical association, which embraces the membership of the Duluth Retail Druggists' association, through its legislative committee, of which Stewart Gamble of Minneapolis is chairman, will go before the next session of the Minnesota legislature determined that the bill restricting the sale of morphine and other opium derivatives, which was lost in the confusion at the close of the last session, shall be made a law. The anti-cocaine law, prepared by the same committee in 1905 and now in operation, has been copied by ten states.

"There is no such restriction upon the sale of morphine as upon cocaine," said Mr. Gamble in an interview at Minneapolis, "nor is it the case that morphine presents such dangerous possibilities. It is our purpose, nevertheless, to follow up the work by which we put such drastic restrictions upon the sale of cocaine by a further law covering the other habit-forming drugs. We were greatly disappointed when the measure that we had worked upon, in advocacy of which, we had spent our time at the capitol, and which had passed the committees on public health and been favorably reported upon, was lost in the legislative squabble that marked the close of the session, but we will continue to work for its passage, as we did for the passage of the anti-cocaine law, and we believe we will put it through next time."

W. A. Abbett, secretary of the Duluth association, stated this morning that at present the sale of morphine and opium derivatives was left to the druggists' honor. All that is necessary is that these drugs be sold by a licensed druggist and their sale recorded.

"We have tried, through our association and by personal work to exercise every possible precaution in the sale of these drugs," said Mr. Abbett, "but there is no law governing them, like the one covering cocaine. Cocaine can only be sold legally on a doctor's prescription."

MR. FORGAN'S ILLUMINATING TALK.

These four things the intelligent layman who is free to admit an abysmal ignorance about finance wants to know about the "Aldrich" plan:

Why a change is needed.

Whether the monetary commission's scheme will remedy the existing financial evils.

Whether the proposed central reserve association can be improperly controlled by selfish interests opposed to the public good.

Whether the enormous fund it will handle is so safeguarded by the proposed law that it could not be used for exploitation, promotion or speculation even if any individual or clique of individuals should get control.

Mr. Forgan's remarkably able and picturesquely lucid talk at the Commercial club, we believe, put the first two points beyond controversy.

As to the need of a change, little argument should be needed. The present system—which as The Herald has said is no system at all—is worse than inadequate. It is positively dangerous. Not only does it fail to guard the country against panic, but it actually fosters panic.

As to whether the central reserve association plan will supply the lack in the present condition the layman must to a large extent take the word of financial experts like Mr. Forgan. So far as The Herald is concerned, its own study of the plan convinces it that the basis of the new scheme is sound; and that judgment is confirmed by the earnest and sincere and convincing logic of Mr. Forgan's address.

As to the third and fourth points—the possibility of control by selfish interests and the question whether such control would profit anybody—it seems to us that Mr. Forgan made them clear at least so far as this: that it the measure now before congress does not completely safeguard the public any defects that exist will be made clear and remedied before final action is taken.

It will not be easy to prevent control of the reserve association by an individual or group of individuals. Control by geographical division has been made impossible by the terms of the bill. Control by gaining voting power in enough banks to dictate the policies of the association is still possible, and difficult to guard against. But it ought to be comparatively easy so to safeguard the fund that will be deposited with the association that it cannot be used for other than legitimate purposes; and it is to this point that public discussion and public vigilance should address themselves chiefly.

Though it has been changed several times since its first draft, even now the measure is only in tentative form. It has defects—for instance it would clearly be a mistake to leave in it the provision that prevents amendment for ten years—but public discussion will develop all such defects and an intelligent public demand will bring about their correction.

Mr. Forgan seemed inclined to regret that the monetary commission's plan had been named "the Aldrich bill," because Aldrich's standing with the people makes his name a handicap. We are not sure that it isn't a good thing that the name of Aldrich has been openly associated with the measure. It will insure public vigilance and it will stimulate public discussion. If the essential features of the measure are sound, it can stand this scrutiny. If they are not sound, then the measure should fail. Besides, Mr. Aldrich's association with the framing of the plan has been such that he is entitled to much of the credit for it if it turns out to be a success.

The large attendance and the keen interest shown in this exceedingly dry and exceedingly important subject at last night's meeting is highly gratifying, and very creditable to Duluth. It means that Duluth is going to accept Mr. Forgan's invitation to study the measure, to use its brains on it, and to judge it on its merits. As The Herald has said, it should not be condemned because it is named after a man whom the people distrust. The association of that man with it should make people study it closely, but it should not lead them to reject it without a thorough and searching analysis of its provisions and its probable effects.

ABOUT AN INDIVIDUAL.

Claude Atkinson has run the Mesaba Ore at Hibbing ever since Hibbing was a pup. He has made a success of it, too; and while his pages were crowded with advertising his editorial columns glittered and sparkled and occasionally exploded with vigorous wit and dynamitic comment.

While he has been building up a newspaper property and raising wholesome hades by his fearless expressions, he has also been raising a son.

Now he has turned his established newspaper over to that son, who has proved his capacity to run it, and has gone to the little backwoods settlement of Northome and taken over the Northome Record, which comes to us with a "salutatory" editorial in which the new editor tells what he has done and why he did it.

"Coming along to the time," he says, "where we are going down the other side into the gloaming, we sought to get out of the strenuous life incident to publishing a big newspaper in a big town where one can't know one-tenth of the inhabitants, and in casting about for an ideal location we selected Northome. If there is a man to say we chose poorly we are prepared to make faces at him and then prove that he is wrong—dead wrong, too."

There's your editor—he no sooner gets his feet planted in the new location than he begins heralding it as the greatest town in the world—and proving it, too.

"To us," he continues, "this is the garden spot of the universe and we have an abiding faith in its future—not only as a good business point but as an ideal place to live. We are a lover of nature and the beautiful. We like the acquaintance and association of people, and hope before long to know personally every man, woman and child in the village and surrounding country." And he'll do it, too, and they'll be glad he does.

Atkinson is an individuality. He is one of these strange creatures who carve out their own careers, think their own thoughts, speak their own minds, and don't give a picayune whether folks like it or not. That's why, with the spirit of the pioneer, when Hibbing got too crowded and metropolitan and conventional for him, he moved further on. He is going to live comfortably, fish and hunt, get out a good newspaper, associate with plain and wholesome folks, boost Northome, Koochiching county, Minnesota and the land of the free, and in his humble village in the backwoods—soon to be backwoods no longer—he will be found couching a sharpened lance as usual at Special Privilege, political corruption and the prostitution of a people's government into machinery for exploiting the people.

"We fish," he says, "because we love the lakes and we hunt because we love the woods, the grand and glorious big woods that exist nowhere else; we are essentially a pioneer and like the firm handshake of the sturdy men and the cheerful smile of the good women that are bringing civilization to the big wilderness—the hardy people who blaze the trail and suffer the hardships of pioneer life that living may be made easier for the more tender ones that are to follow. The pioneer, the carefree, whole-souled life of the backwoods village appeals to us, because we believe it the right manner of living—that's why we wear a flannel shirt, mackinaws and lumberjack socks, rather than the choker collar, a claw-hammer coat, silk hat and patent-leather shoes."

It is as easy to imagine Claude Atkinson dolled up in this regalia of effete conventionality as it is to imagine him penning pretty nothings about the greatness and grandeur of Fortunatus Eberhart and the splendor and the ineffable and all-embracing virtue of the Heavenly Twins—Consolidation and Conservation; "Con" and "Con" for short.

Long life and more power to him. May Mother Nature prove hospitable, and may he find the wilderness as a steady diet all that his fertile fancy has pictured it.

CHARTER AMENDMENT NO. 1.

The first proposed amendment to the city charter on the ballot is that proposed by Mayor Cullum, which follows the example set by other progressive communities in providing effective machinery for the proper care of the disinherited and the unfortunate.

In brief its terms are as follows:

It provides for a board of public welfare, to consist of five members to be appointed by the mayor and to serve without pay. It is to be the duty of this board to "maintain, manage, control and operate any workhouses, work farms, detention homes and like corrective institutions, and all other such places of confinement, and any public lodging houses, houses of refuge and similar agencies for the well-being of the unfortunates and delinquents of the city, and public baths, gymnasiums, public halls and similar places of public recreation, convenience and amusement as may be established under the sole direction, ownership or management of the city, or in which the county of St. Louis and the state of Minnesota, or either said county or state, is jointly interested with the city."

The city is given power to acquire by gift, devise or purchase or by condemnation proceedings, property for any of these purposes, either singly or in association with the county or state or both.

It is provided further that the board shall employ such assistants as may be necessary, whose duties shall be to attend all sessions of the municipal or other courts "at which criminal cases are or are likely to be heard, and to advise and co-operate with other officials engaged in the duty of administering the criminal laws of the city and state."

It is not proposed, of course, that the city shall at once embark in the elaborate scheme of caring for unfortunates and providing public recreation that the amendment authorizes. All these things will come some time, but the beginnings under the amendment will be modest.

For instance, one of the first things the board doubtless will do is to help the municipal court take care of men who are charged with drunkenness. If you have done The Herald the honor of following these columns you have seen much here about the folly of the conventional method of handling drunkards by sending them to jail. You have seen it stated that often this act kicks the unfortunate down hill and by robbing him of his pride and self-respect confirms him in habits of drunkenness. You have seen it asserted that, on the other hand, if there were means of giving such men another chance, aside from merely turning them loose to do it again, it would be possible to make self-supporting and self-respecting citizens out of most of them. You have also seen it urged here that the city or county or both provide a work farm where such men can be placed under supervision and given wholesome food and work in the open air while their strength and will power are being regained.

This amendment contemplates, among other things, meeting this situation. Beyond question a work farm—or "jag" farm, as it is rather unpleasantly termed—will soon be created by the county, the city, or both working in co-operation. This amendment provides the city with the machinery necessary for doing its share in this and other vitally needed work for the public welfare.

This only gives a glimpse into the possibilities of this amendment, which are numerous and important and should be readily realized by every thinking citizen. The amendment ought by all means to be adopted.

CONGRATULATIONS, SUPERIOR.

The citizens of Superior voted yesterday to discard their old system of city government and to adopt the commission form, with its fundamental principles of concentrated power and responsibility, balanced by close popular control through the initiative, the referendum and the recall.

It was not an easy victory, nor will it be an easy victory when Duluth gets around to vote upon it. The opposition was bitter and determined; and the plan was adopted by a majority of only 196 votes in 3,000. Nevertheless, it carried; and that is the important thing.

Superior will not find the commission plan a magic panacea for all municipal ills, for there is no such thing. It provides better and more business-like machinery for handling public business. It centers responsibility so that there is no evading it, and in so doing it centers power. Alone, this might be more dangerous than the old system. But to offset this centralization of power, machinery is provided for close and intimate control by the people. The commission plan provides facilities for making public spirit effective. It cannot be expected to work any miracles unless it is inspired by public spirit and supported by public vigilance.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

THE OTHER SIDE OF THE STORY.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Kindly insert this in your open court as an advice to the complaining lumberjack:

My Dear Lumberjack—I think you ought to know that there are two sides of every question. How would you like if you were proprietor of a clean barbershop or hotel, to have a man coming from the woods in dirty clothes, infested with insects, and ask for accommodation? You know very well that everybody coming from the woods, no matter how careful they are, get those things. Even the proprietors of the camps themselves, after spending a few days in the woods, when they come back home go straight to their bathrooms and throw their clothes out of the window, to be cleaned and put away. Why should an owner of a clean place be obliged to expose his other customers to the risk? You should go and clean yourself up as well as possible. Then go and invest the money in clean, good clothes, and make yourself respectable looking. Have your old clothes disinfected and put them away until you need them again. If you are clean and sober, you would not be refused anywhere, and you will soon get acquainted with your future wife and have your start for a home.

A FRIEND OF YOURS.

"THE CHURCH AND SOCIETY."

To the Editor of The Herald:

In the article on the "Church and Society" appearing in your issue of Jan. 20, the writer seemingly attempts an answer to the article and editorial on "Hypocrisy and Christianity," which were published on Jan. 12 and 13 of this month. But the writer of the "Church and Society" not only does not give any solution of the questions asked in "Hypocrisy and Christianity," but he evades these questions and gives us instead, a well written article on "The Worthiness of the Church and the Value of Prayer." Now, we love the church as well as does the writer, and we can sing the praises of the church and prayer as loudly as he can, but this does not answer those questions that need and demand an answer. The writer of the "Church and Society" begings by saying "the church has nourished and inspired nearly all the efficient workers for our social welfare," and he adds that many of these workers have "cut loose" from the church and are now working independently, but he failed to tell us why they severed their relations with the church. I know they did wrong to desert the church, but I also believe they acted sincerely. They felt that the church was moving too slowly in its work for the unfortunate, so they "cut loose," and set their own pace. Again, there is no call for a suburban or family church to become institutional, but certainly every downtown church that has the room and the means should do so. Again, he remarks that "today the relation of church and society is not a question of alternatives, but of emphasis." This remark is true in theory, but not true to facts. I can't give a detailed explanation, but will say that the big question before the church is, shall it become aristocratic or plebeian? Shall the minister labor to make his church a cathedral for the rich, or a chapel for the poor? Of course, we want both classes in every church, but facts prove that they won't mix in religious affairs any quicker than in social affairs. We can't cleave to both classes, unless the rich substitute "charity for selfishness" and "kindness for class-distinction,' and this they will be slow to do. If then we must desert the one or the other, there are two reasons for which we should make our churches "chapels for the poor." First, because they are five times as numerous as the rich; second, because there need us more, and if I may add a third reason, I would say because it was for the "poor and unfortunate class" that Christ ordained His church. "The well need no physician, but the sick." Again, the writer illustrates his reasoning by saying "a planning mill is to produce dressed lumber, and not kindling wood, which is only a by-product." Then he applies this figure to the church, saying "the church is to preach the Word of God and the Love of Christ," and that the uplifting of the unfortunate is a by-product. Out of what Bible did he get such an idea. He is totally wrong. The church was established for nothing else but to save "those that are lost," those that are lost socially and financially, as well as spiritually. The church is to do what Jesus did, to save the lost, and if they do not come around and ask to be saved do again as Jesus said and did, "seek them out and save them." Preaching the word of God is only a means to an end—the end is to save the lost. The writer wants to get men into heaven, but our greater duty is to get heaven into men, and there is a wide difference in these views. The writer ends his article by intimating that the "social problem" is one that cannot be solved "by hands," but by prayer. Again he is wrong. When I suggest "work" he says "no work" but prayer and preaching." But you can't preach Christ to a starving man, you must first prove your doctrine, then preach it. The writer wants us to get up on the hill and preach and pray, but we are already so high up that those in the valley can't hear us. Up on our holy hill we have "faith," that is we pray for the deliverances of the poor; also we have "hope," that is we send down donations of bread and money, but I plead that "faith and hope" won't solve our cummunity problems. It will take charity-love, the love of the brother and friend, and remember that love is modest; it doesn't like the high places and the hill; it wants to live in the valley where it is needed. My messages to the church is found in Esther, 4-14, "for if thou altogether holdest thy peace at this time, then shall deliverances and relief arise to the opprest from another place, but thou and thy fathers house shall be destroyed," and when we see the working classes and poor turning from the old established churches, and building "people's churches,' or making a religion of Socialism and labor unions, it begins to look as if the prophecy of Mordecai was about to be fulfilled. It is a "question of alternatives," a question of whether we shall remain silent, in order to enjoy our "ease and luxury," or to speak and live our truth and duty, cost us though it may the favor of the upper classes. Very sincerely yours,

WALTER T. HUGHES.

ANOTHER ANSWER TO "THE LUMBERJACK."

To the Editor of The Herald:

Please give me space in your valuable column to answer "The Outcast of Society." He said that he was not wantel in the barber shop or at the Y. M. C. A. Why? Because of his lack in appearance. The first thing for that lumberjack to do is to quit whiskey; the second is, to dress himself up with respectable clothing, go to a private boarding house where respectable roomers and boarders are kept, pay attention to their language used by others of that class. Keep away from old haunts on the Bowery, and when he meets an old Bowery friend who says, "Come, have a drink," answer, "I don't drink."

Go on about his business; he will soon see an opening for a better job than the woods. For as soon as your old chums see that you don't buy "red eye" they don't want you any more than you think the barber wants you in your old togs or rags. You will soon make new friends who do not frequent the Bowery. Those are the sort of friends that you can have a jolly good time with.

Go to a show every afternoon and night. After a while you will get a sweetheart. Use her kindly. Learn to be a gentleman. Listen to her conversation. You will soon cheer up. Then when you go to the woods again, you will have some one to correspond with.

When you come back, the first thing you will think of will be to dress up to please your sweetheart. Follow those rules. You will soon forget the Bowery. It is a man's own fault to be as you are. This is from an old time lumberjack who has been through the mill from the top to the bottom.

Duluth, Jan. 22.

Butter, Eggs and Opportunity.

Christian Science Monitor: Almost from the outset the average thinker and writer is discouraged by those who lay claim to exceptional knowledge against attempting to stimulate the interest of the struggling town or city man in the soil. He is confronted with the statement that the town or city man will have innumerable difficulties to contend with if he ventures into the country, and this is put forward apparently in utter disregard of the fact that he has as many, if not more, difficulties to contend with in the town or city. The advocate of a return to the soil will also be confronted with the statement that what the newspapers publish about prosperity in the rural districts is only half true at best, in utter disregard of the fact that the farming, gardening, stockraising, poultry and dairy business has been making a phenomenal showing in every part of the country for the last fifteen years.

Whatever else may have shown a tendency toward decline or dullness in the last decade and a half, farm products of every description have advanced. The cost of living has increased and the farmer has shared largely in the receipts resulting from the enhanced value of food. Argument is put forward now that the high price of butter, eggs, etc., does not help the farmer, because he is able to contribute little toward supplying the market. This is on the assumption that when prices are high the farmer's stock is exhausted or that his cows and hens are not helping him to take advanage of his opportunity.

It is forgotten here that the United States is a wide country and that when one turns to the soil he need not necessarily turn to the soil in any particular quarter or locality. If butter and eggs today are scarce in the great markets of the country, so scarce as to command prices that to thousands are absolutely prohibitive, it is because the opportunities for poultry and dairy farming are neglected in sections of the land generally unaffected by the climatic conditions prevalent throughout the North. The South and Southwest are calling for settlers, and the country is calling for the things that settlers in the South and Southwest can supply in abundance. A more general cultivation of the soil, a more general appreciation of the opportunities which this broad land holds out to the willing and the industrious and a better system of distribution would make wholly unnecessary the periodical food shortages and the consequent skyward shoot of prices. Such a cultivation would mean also encouraging occupation for thousands who are now bent to the unremunerative drudgery of the town and city.

Advice on Eating.

Youth's Companion: Leaving out of consideration the infectious diseases, there is not the slightest doubt that more of the maladies of man are due to the food he takes than to any other one cause.

Although it seems strange that anything so essential to health as food should also be so destructive both of health and of life, it is only an example of the great difference between use and abuse.

There are three ways in which food can injure the human organism—in its quality, in its quantity, and in the speed with which it is eaten—and most often we permit it to do us harm in all three.

As to the quality or the kind of food that we eat, there is a constant fight between the vegetarian and those who eat animal as well as vegetable fold. Arguing from the assumed descent of man from an ancestor common to him and the ape, the vegetarian holds that since the ape is a vegetarian, man also must originally have been one. But perhaps it is because man differed in this respect from his cousin, the ape, that he got ahead of him in the race of development. That, of course, is mere guessing, but the fact remains that the teeth are adapted to chewing and the digestive organs to digesting meat as well as vegetables.

The sin is not in taking all kinds of food, but in taking too much of one kind—meat. This is the food for which most persons have the greatest liking. So it is easy to take it too often and in too great quantity.

The second dietetic offense is in the quantity of food that we take. We are prone not only to eat too much meat, but also to eat too much of all foods. Three hearty meals a day, whether they are of bread and pie or of fish and meat, are too much for the average adult. A so-called "Continental" breakfast, that is, fruit, a roll or a slice of toast with butter, and coffee; a light, meatless luncheon or supper, according to the dining hour, and a substantial dinner, with fish or meat if desired, is a dietetic program suitable for all men and women, except, perhaps, those who do the heaviest kind of physical labor.

As to the manner of eating, little need be said. It must be admitted that in his digestive organs man is more like the herbivora than the carnivora; consequently his food needs to be well chewed before it is swallowed. But who, except Mr. Horace Fletcher, can say, with his hand on his heart, that he eats slowly and chews conscientiously?

Gratitude.

Brooklyn Eagle: An ado is being raised to the effect that Woodrow Wilson is deficient in gratitude. Statesmen sometimes are. George Washington would not ask France to release Tom Paine, lest that request would offend England when the ratification of the Jay treaty was desired. John Adams was insensible to gratitude when a bad man who had befriended him wanted payment in a public office. Thomas Jefferson sank friendship when he thought the public welfare required it. Alexander Hamilton did the same more than once, and always conspicuously. Samuel J. Tilden said of a man who claimed him as a bosom friend. "He's very intimate with me, but I'm not at all intimate with him," as an esteemed contemporary likes to forget. Grover Cleveland, Charles E. Hughes and other great governors refused to pay personal obligations with public office, and every request to them to do so made each one of them, as David B. Hill used to say, "freeze up into a public trust." A degree of ingratitude is pardoned to a public interest as several members of Mr. Roosevelt's cabinet have learned by their experience with President Taft. It doesn't do to be too sure unless you know, and when you do know it is not always well to tell. It was Dr. Johnson who said: "Gratitude is a lively sense of favor to be received."

Special Cuyuna Edition.

The Brainerd Dispatch has issued a sixteen-page edition, the largest ever published in that enterprising city, a large portion of which is devoted to a resume of the iron ore explorations and discoveries on the South Cuyuna range. The articles are written by men who are experts in mining matters and who have an intimate knowledge of the south range, its possibilities and the progress made in its development, and their positive statements as to its magnitude and what its development means to Brainerd, must be gratifying to its citizens. The ore finds extend to the city itself, and several shafts are being sunk within the city limits. The special edition of the Dispatch is a very creditable production, well printed and containing a great amount of valuable information regarding the new range.

MORE ECHOES OF HARMONY.

Poetical Dare.

Walker Pilot: Three persistent candidates out for Adolph's shoe; Holmberg waited to be urged and then there were two. Two fighting candidates out to make the run; Lee got county option wild and then there was one. One mighty candidate out to win or die; just the man the people want—loyal Samuel Y.

Record Out of State.

St. Cloud Times: Governor Eberhart announces thta he will not make a campaign for a renomination, but will stand upon his record. Does this include what Ed Smith has been doing? Come to think of it, the governor's greatest record has been made out of the state—when he talked to the Wall Street fellows on Sunday.

He Tells Stories.

Ada Herald: While visiting the county fair in Ada last fall Governor Eberhart convinced the people of his ability as a story teller, but as a governor, that's another story.

Machine Is Doomed.

Auora News: Gordon, Lee and Eberhart are avowed candidates for the Republican nomination for governor. Judging from the temper of the people, and taking into consideration the expressions in favor of democracy, it would seem that the voters have already made up their minds as to what they will do to the machine this year.

In Background Too Long.

Roseau Region: William E. Lee of Long Prairie has sent out a statement declaring himself a candidate for governor and giving his platform, which in many respects is similar to the one issued by Mr. Gordon. Mr. Lee takes an advanced stand on public questions and his experience in public life and his strong personality and aggressiveness will make him a formidable contestant. Every indication promises a pre-convention Republican contest that will compel a full discussion of questions that have been held in the background for some time, in which the people are intensely interested.

Sentiment Against Governor.

Mora Times: Two candidates for governor are in opposition to Governor Eberhart. Sam A. Gordon of Browns Valley, has made his expected announcement, closely followed by William E. Lee of Long Prairie. Both stand on the progressive platform, including the elimination of brewery control of politics in the state. Both are good men and have good legislative records back of them and either one should be satisfactory to the large number of people of this state who are opposed to the present occupant of the governor's chair. The fact that there are already two candidates out in opposition to Eberhart, with prospects of at least one more, indicates that there must be a strong sentiment against the governor. The two gentlemen who are already in the race are men of good political judgment and their friends are no novices in the political game and it must be assumed that they found pronounced opposition to Eberhart, otherwise they would not undertake to lock horns with one who under ordinary conditions, would have a decided advantage being in office and having possession of the state machine.

Progressive Candidates.

Little Falls Herald: The platforms of Gordon and Lee are progressive and if Holmberg becomes a candidate for governor also, his platform will also be Progressive. William E. Lee is well known in Morrison county, and still has friends enough here to put up a pretty good fight. He has been mixed up in much factional warfare in Todd county, but conditions there may be different now. Mr. Gordon's services as lieutenant governor have been of great value to the state, and he showed a fearlessness and independence in the appointment of the senate committees which deserves commendation. Mr. Holmberg is a man of ability and great possibilities. The platform of Lee and Gordon are advanced in many ways. The striking thing about them is their denunciation of corporation control, with special reference to the dominance of the big breweries. If these candidates can bring to the attention of the peonle, with proof, the facts in an aggressive way as we understand they intend to do, there need be no fear that the people will not act. There is no ethical or moral difference in being controlled by a big brewery than by a big railroad. We believe in personal liberty, but we do not believe in the exploitation of the people of this state by any special interest, or set of interests, no matter what the name. The great bulk of the people are tired of being run by the interests and there is a splendid opportunity for leadership. Time will determine whether any of the candidates will meet the test. Governor Eberhart states that he will open no headquarters, write no platform or make any campaign, but will stand on his record.

Bob Getting In Bad.

Hutchinson Leader: Bob Dunn's support of Eberhart, in view of his well known opinion of the present state administration, gives color to the common report that there has been formed an Eberhart-Dunn coalition which has in it something good for Bob. If it develops that such an alliance has actually been formed it will not tend to strengthen the admiration thousands of Minnesotans have had for the blunt Princeton editor, nor will it confirm his friends in their faith in his political integrity.

The Democratic Situation.

Mark Sullivan in Collier's: If the Democratic party should hold a primary election tomorrow, Woodrow Wilson would get fully two-thirds of the vote and carry about three-fourths of the state. He is really the only one of the Democratic candidates who outside of his own state, in the country at large, has a personal following—the sort of following that would go with its candidate into a third party if the occasion arose. Wilson has a large group of this sort of adherents; none of the other Democrats have. There are many party leaders in small communities, local machines and state and county bosses who are for Harmon. But outside of Ohio, Harmon has no devoted following among the rank and file. Clark has a few small and isolated groups of followers of this kind in rural Kansas and rural Kentucky. Underwood's strength is confined to his own state wholly. Folk has a considerable personal following, but it is scattered. Much of Wilson's following is subject to Bryan's veto, so to speak. That is to say, if Bryan were a candidate himself, or if he should give the sign of his favor to some one else, Wilson would lose probably half the support he now has. But even so, Wilson, alone among the Democratic candidates, has a large following which is personal to himself. Wilson's problem will be to hold his present position for six months; if he is to lose it, his opponents must find arguments against him fundamental than the Carnegie pension story and the resurrection of old letters.

What Dink Stover Faces.

Owen Johnson in New York Sun: I think it is pretty generally realized that there is something wrong with our colleges, especially our big Eastern colleges. The young fellows instead of learning very much of anything that is going to give them something to take out into the world spend the years in anxiously striving to attain some artificial goal, established as standard by their fellows, which gives them nothing for after life.

"The college years are the impressionable molding years, when ideals, if there ever are to be any, are fostered and developed. And the first year of college is sometimes the cruelist, most puzzling of a boy's life. He is either on one side or made to play hard for something that at first seems valueless. Gradually he is swallowed by his 'crowd,' be it club, society or fraternity, and its artificial standards become his own. Of the big school life, big interests, he knows nothing whatever.

"I am a fraternity man; but I think one of the great evils of the day is the lack of true democracy in the colleges. Fellows are not permitted to know one another. They never have a chance to choose for themselves, assert their individuality. Early in the game they are chosen and thenceforward must direct their aims, ambitions, zeal and spirit along the lines pointed out.

"It takes away the best part of youth and leaves something missing for all the rest of life. Still it holds on. Strangely enough it is fostered in the homes where the parents, especially the mothers, want their sons to 'get on,' and purposely send them to the colleges where they stand the best chance of being tarined and formed by these narrow groups.

"Generally by the time the boy is a man he has been ruined, from the viewpoint of the fundamental purpose and spirit of the university. It is a period of artificial standards, but however vision distorted the parents may be, the universities ought not to stand for this sort of thing. I do not think they will for much longer."

All Ready for Him.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "You're goin' to marry sister, ain't you?" her little brother inquired.

The young man blushed.

"I—I don't know," he replied.

"That's funny," said the terrible infant. "Pa has looked you up in the rate books, ma has found out all about your grandfathers, and sister has begun her shopping. Gimme a nickel, won't you?"

Nut Cake

Simply Delicious

By Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill, Editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine

In giving this recipe, Mrs. Hill believes it to be one of the best all-around cake recipes it has been her good fortune to make. The simplicity and uniformly good results will appeal to every housewife

K C Nut Cake

One-half cup butter; 1½ cups granulated sugar; ¾ cup milk; 2 cups flour; 2 level teaspoonfuls K C Baking Powder; 1 cup of nut meats chopped fine; whites of 4 eggs, beaten dry.

Sift flour and baking powder together, three times. Cream the butter, add the sugar; then alternately, the milk and the flour mixture; lastly the whites of eggs and the nut meats. Bake in a sheet in a shallow pan thirty or forty minutes. When cold cover with the icing and decorate with whole nut meats.

This is also an excellent white cake recipe when nuts are omitted.

Chocolate Icing

One cup granulated sugar; ½ ounce chocolate; white of 1 egg, beaten dry; ½ teaspoonful vanilla extract; ¼ cup water.

Stir the sugar, chocolate and water until the mixture boils; cover and let boil three minutes. Uncover and let boil till when tested in cold water a soft ball may be formed; beat into the white of egg, then beat until cold, add vanilla.

The nut caramel frosting given on page forty of the K C Cook's Book may be used in place of the chocolate frosting, if desired. A copy of the Cook's Book, handsomely illustrated in 9 colors, will be mailed free, if you will send the colored certificate packed in 25-cent cans of K C Baking Powder to the JAQUES MFG. CO., Chicago. 86

INSPECTORS COMING HERE

State Officials Will Look Over Scales, Weights and Measures.

Record of Work They Have Done in First Four Months.

The state inspectors of weights and measures are coming to Duluth.

The inspectors made their influence felt in St. Paul and Minneapolis in the last few months. They condemned hundreds of scales, weights and measures that did not come up to standard and they have also been active in other parts of the state. It is expected that three of the eight inspectors of the department will come to Duluth.

RETAIL CLERKS HOLD BANQUET

Smoker and Election of Officers Feature Annual Meeting.

Retail Clerks Local No. 8 held its first annual banquet at the Hotel Holland last evening. The spread was an elaborate one and the program of after-dinner talks which followed was excellent. A smoker followed the dinner.

A portion of the evening was given over to the annual election of officers. A. Sauer was chosen as president, G. Erickson, vice president; M. A. Gronseth, financial secretary; F. Brooks, recording secretary, and H. Evju, treasurer.

The new president, Mr. Sauer, acted as toastmaster and he officiated in an able manner. Several short talks were given and the program, more or less informal in its nature, was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone.

The local has had a prosperous year and indications are that the coming year will find them stronger and larger than ever. J. A. Kreimer was the out-going president.

VANCOUVER IS HAVING BOOM

That Vancouver, British Columbia, is having a real boom was a statement made today by Fred W. Young, vice president of the Clarkson Coal company, who has just returned from the Pacific coast.

He says the city is not an orderly one, and though it has a splendid-looking police force, the burglar and hold-up men have thus far proved irrepressible. He thinks, however, that this vigorous, fast-growing municipality will have that problem solved in time.

Vancouver, he says, is getting a large share of Alaskan trade, and in that respect is operating to the detriment of Seattle. Mr. Young is inclined to believe that after the completion of the Panama canal, there will be quite a boom in the business of all the Pacific coast towns. Even now, he says, a great deal of blacksmith coal and other grades of coal are being shipped around from the Atlantic seaboard by way of Cape Horn.

Incidentally, Mr. Young remarked today that his experience in his travels convinced him that Duluth was one of the finest towns he had ever been in.

CAUCUS O. K. ON NEW BILL

Democrats Ratify Iron and Steel Tariff Schedule With One Change.

Baling Wire Added to Free List—Other Doings at Washington.

Washington, Jan. 24.—After an ineffectual effort on the part of some members to place steel rails and pig iron on the free list and increase the proposed duties on lead and zinc, Democrats of the house in caucus yesterday ratified the iron and steel tariff schedule drafted by their colleagues on the ways and means committee, adding an amendment to include baling wire in the free list.

The threatened fight between Majority Leader Underwood. Representative Fitzgerald, chairman of the committee, and other leaders who approve the recommendation of the committee on buildings and grounds for a $16,000,000 public buildings bill, was postponed until next Monday night, when a special caucus will be held.

Explained By Underwood.

The iron and steel schedule was explained by Representative Underwood in an extended speech. As soon as he had concluded, Representative Finley of South Carolina moved an amendment to the proposed tariff of 10 per cent ad valorem on steel rails, placing it on the free list with iron ore. There was instant opposition to the amendment. Though it was apparent that many members favored placing steel rails on the free list, it was argued that, pending the investigation of the Steel trust by a house committee, such action might be misconstrued. The amendment was voted down without a roll call.

Pig iron made dutiable in the bill at 15 per cent ad valorem, was the next item of controversy. Representative W. R. Smith of Texas offered an amendment placing pig iron on the free list. A number of his colleagues supported him and on the motion he asked for a roll call. Under the new caucus rules, it required one-fifth of those in attendance to sanction a yea and nay vote, and in this instance it failed. The amendment was lost.

Asked Higher Zinc Duty.

Representatives Rucker, Taylor and Martin of Colorado made a vigorous effort to have the proposed duties on lead and zinc increased. All of them declared they were pledged to their constituents for higher tariffs than those proposed on these items, but their efforts were unavailing. The proposed duty on lead in the bill is 25 per cent; zinc in blocks, 15 per cent, and zinc ore is placed on the free list. Representatives Rucker and Taylor asked to be absolved from their caucus pledge.

The only amendment to the bill was one to place baling wire on the free list with barbed wire and all other fencing wire.

The bill making general reductions of from 20 to 50 per cent from the Payne-Aldrich bill will be introduced in the house today and brought up for discussion within a few days.

Culberson Attacks Republicans.

Demanding an investigation into campaign expenditures in 1904 and 1908, Senator Culberson of Texas in the senate made sweeping charges of corruption against the Republican committees of those and other years. Indirectly he charged that foreign ambassadorships were bestowed as a reward for campaign contributions, and inferentially he charged that Former President Roosevelt had condoned the use of money in politics.

Mr. Culberson's address was made in anticipation of an unfavorable report by the committee on contingent expenses on his resolution providing for an investigation. He said that the limitations of the proposed inquiry to 1904 should not be construed as a confession that there had not been improper practices before that period.

Referring especially to the campaign of 1908, Mr. Culberson said that the contributions to the Democratic fund had been made by 74,000 persons with $5,000 as the largest, while those of the Republican fund were made by 12,330 persons, with Charles P. Taft, brother of the Republican presidential candidate, at their head with a donation of $110,000. Among these contributors mentioned were Ambassadors Reid and Kerens, and Minister Lars Anderson.

In the course of his speech Mr. Culberson referred to the fact that George B. Cortelyou in the 1904 campaign had held the position of chairman of the Republican national committee, while he was secretary of commerce and labor, and intimated that Mr. Cortelyou had taken advantage of the secrets of corporations whose affairs might be investigated, under the federal law, to procure money for the campaign.

"It has been estimated," he said, "that the enormous and unconscionable sum of $11,000,000 was raised and probably expended that year by the committee of which he was chairman. The very size and audacity of this fund smacks of extortion, profligency and corruption. Who contributed and where did it come from?"

Mr. Culberson declared there should be an inquiry to answer these questions.

Abolish Pension Agencies.

Abolition of all the eighteen pension agencies throughout the country with the exception of one in Washington, at a saving of $250,000 a year, is contemplated by the appropriations committee in the pension appropriation bill to be reported next week to the house. The Republican appropriations committee tried to effect this reform several years ago, but the senate threatened to defeat the bill. This year the Democratic house is determined to have its way.

To Regulate Corporations.

Senator John Sharp Williams introduced his bill for the regulation of corporations engaged in interstate commerce. It is substantially the same as his measure introduced at the last congress prohibiting interholding of stocks and providing other terms of regulation. A sweeping provision against corporations which stifle trade by destructive competition or other methods is included in the bill. Heavy fines and jail sentences running as high as five years are the penalties.

Would Push Button to Vote.

It takes about twenty-five minutes to call the roll in the national house of representatives. Representative Copley of Illinois, Republican, introduced a resolution asking for an investigation to determine whether an "yea or nay" vote could not be taken instantaneously by an electrical device.

Power Press Bill Killed.

The senate refused by a vote of 20 to 34 consider the printing bill which would supplant by power presses the hand presses now in use in the bureau of engraving and printing. Democrats generally voted against the measure. The bill codifies the printing laws and provides that power presses be used in printing paper money for the government. This provision is being bitterly fought by labor organizations.

To Preserve Seal Herds.

Representative Edward F. Townsend's bill for the preservation of the seal herds in the Pribiloff group in Alaska has been accepted by the committee on foreign affairs of the house, and will be presented to the house as an amendment to the bill recommended by the state department. The bill would limit the slaughter of male seals to 5,000 a year for five years; 7,500 a year for the next five years, and 10,000 annually for a period of five years following. At the expiration of fifteen years new regulations are to be adopted. The belief expressed by experts and the committee is that at the end of fifteen years the depleted seal herds will be restored to their normal size. The United States forbids pelagic sealing and it is expected the proposed bill will demonstrate to Russia, Japan and Great Britain that pelagic sealing was responsible for the terrible slaughter of the seals and consequent diminution of the herds.

Mail Service Suffering.

A condition of discontent and a consequent partial demoralization of the mail service exists because of the dissatisfaction of railway mail clerks with their working conditions, according to a statement to the house committee on postoffices by Charles C. Van Dyke of St. Paul. Mr. Van Dyke is an official of the Railway Mail association. He was for many years a clerk in the railway mail service. Mr. Van Dyke said the $1 per diem allowed the men for expenses while away from home had been paid for in the last year at the rate of 60 cents on the dollar. He said a black list existed and that promotions and demerits were being made in the service on the basis of what the department considers "loyalty." Disloyalty, it was explained, was adherence to the damands of the majority of the men.

Under-manned mail cars, prolonged hours and other conditions, Mr. Van Dyke said, resulted in great loss to the public because of delayed mails.

Wisdom Brown, editor of a rural free delivery journal, said the rural free delivery carriers should be paid more money and that some of the regulations of the department should be changed in justice to the men. On Mr. Brown's estimate of needs for increases, Representative Meeks of Massachusetts computed the sum required to follow his recommendations at $16,000,000 more a year.

Volstead Has Auto Bill.

A federal automobile law is proposed in a bill introduced by Representative Volstead of Minnesota. The bill would require the registration with the office of public roads at Washington of all automobiles used in interstate travel and the payment of a yearly license fee of $10. Persons who operate machines across state lines for hire would be required to pay an annual fee of $5 at the same office. The money thus collected would constitute a government fund for road improvement.

Gore Preparing Road Bill.

Senator Gore of Oklahoma will advocate an annual federal appropriation of from $10,000,000 to $12,000,000 for the next ten years to be expended upon roads. To derive benefit from such a fund, states would have to appropriate double or treble the amounts received from the government. He is preparing a bill for this purpose.

White House Reception.

President and Mrs. Taft gave the second reception of the winter at the White House last night. The judiciary were the special guests, but hundreds of officials of the government and members of congress and their wives were present.

$281,457 IN PENSIONS TO STEEL CORPORATION EMPLOYES

The first annual report of the United States Steel and Carnegie Pension fund, applicable to the employes of the United States Steel corporation and its subsidiary companies, shows that during the year 1911 a total of $281,457.37 was paid out to superannuated and disabled employes. At the beginning of the year the total number on the entire pension list was 1,152 and at the close of the year, 1,606, as 565 names were added to the roll during the year, and 111 discontinued. This gives an average of 1,379 beneficiaries of the pension for the year.

The average age of the 565 added to the pension roll during the year was 66.66 years and the average length of time they had been in the service was 30.4 years. The average of the pensions of these beneficiaries is $20.75 a month.

Out of the total amount disbursed, employes of the Oliver Iron Mining company on the Mesaba range received $566.25 and on the Vermilion range, $592.69. The total received by all the employes of the Oliver Iron Mining company was $6,936.22. Employes of the Duluth & Iron Range Railroad company received $171.20.

The headquarters where the fund is managed are in the Oliver building at Pittsburg. J. B. Erskine is manager and J. H. Wood, assistant manager. The officers of the board of trustees are: Elbert H. Gary, chairman; George W. Perkins, vice chairman; Robert A. Franks, treasurer, and Raynal C. Bolling, secretary.

The pension fund was established on Jan. 1, 1911.

ATTACK ON PRESS IS TAKEN OFF RECORDS.

Columbia, S. C., Jan. 24.—The South Carolina house of representatives adopted the report of the judiciary committee recommending that most of Governor Blease's veto message on the so-called libel bill be expunged from the journal of the house. The vote to expunge the portions of the message reflecting on the integrity of the press of the state was 86 to 26. The governor made frequent use of the words "dirty," "lie," "scurrilous" and "cowardly" and denounced the newspapers generally.

MOB THREATENS ALLEGED ASSAILANT OF ORPHAN.

Zanesville, Ohio, Jan. 24.—A crowd of 500 men and boys last night threatened violence to Clyde Brown, aged 30, a married man, when he was held to the grand jury under $1,800 bond on a charge of attack upon Cynthia Rambo, aged 15, an orphan who until recently lived with Brown's parents. Brown was given a preliminary hearing before Mayor Parrot of Roseville, a suburb. As Brown was being led from the court room he was jeered, and he begged to be brought to the county jail here. A menacing crowd followed Brown to the town prison, and officers, fearing for his safety, hurried him to this city.

Lind in the Campaign.

Two significant statements were made by John Lind at the meeting in Minneapolis Monday evening at which a Woodrow Wilson club was organized. Mr. Lind nailed the rumor that he had been promised a cabinet office in the event of Wilson's election, by declaring that there is no office on earth that he would accept. He also stated that he intends to go into the national campaign with all his strength, with the exception of the time he will spend abroad in the spring and summer.

Mr. Lind was elected president of the club, which started out as an enthusiastic organization with over 100 members. It is expected that a movement will be started for the organization of Wilson clubs in other cities in the state and a determined campaign to secure the Minnesota delegation to the Democratic convention for the New Jersey governor will be inaugurated.

Clapp as "Favorite Son."

The St. Paul Pioneer Press comes out with the suggestion that, as favorite sons are being played in other states, Minnesota play Senator Moses E. Clapp as its favorite son and present his name to the Republican national convention at Chicago. Senator Moses E. has been fighting the state organization tooth and nail on the La Follette issue and if the Old Guard is in control of the state convention, an indorsement of the Black Eagle for anything is extremely doubtful. However, the Pioneer Press suggestion is somewhat colored by a playful spirit.

Jaques and Galarneault.

In 1908, the Republican state delegate convention was held April 16, and the Democratic convention May. 14. The Democratic convention will probably be held earlier this year, as the national convention is to be held about two weeks earlier than the 1908 convention. The dates in 1908 are a good index of the probable time for holding the gatherings this year.

The state central committees will probably hold their meetings within the next month and fix the dates. The county conventions will come about a week before the state conventions.

There has been much speculation as to probable delegates from the state The personnel of the delegation will, in each case, depend to some extent on the candidate to whom the Minnesota vote will go, but as both state conventions will very probably instruct the delegates, the personal preferences of the men making up the delegation will count for little. A commission to represent the state in a national convention is a recognition of a man's standing in his party and it is an honor even though the vote of his state does not go to the candidate for whom he would vote if uninstructed and the unit rule did not prevail.

Among Elghth district Democrats there is considerable talk to the effect that the names of Alfred Jaques of Duluth and J. B. Galarneault of Atkin will likely be presented to the St. Louis county Democratic convention for indorsement as delegates from the Eighth district. Judge Jaques was the Democratic candidate for congress in 1910, and he stands in high favor with the Democrats of the district. Mr. Galarneault was state bank examiner under Governor Johnson and is one of the most prominent and popular Democrats in the state. Duluth members of the party believe they would be representative of the Eighth district Democracy, and they hope to obtain their indorsement by the St. Louis county convention.

Out for Anderson's Scalp.

Down in the First congressional district the forces are being mustered for the political execution of young Sydney Anderson. Although the Old Guard of the district, out for revenge for the defeat of Jim Tawney, would welcome Anderson's relegation to private life, they are not the leaders in the movement having for its object the retirement of the young congressman.

When the Progressives of the First district were casting around in 1910 for a candidate to oppose Tawney, few were found who were willing to be sacrificed to the cause. After Tom Frazer had threatened to make the run himself, Sydney Anderson made known his ambitions. He was taken in hand, patted on the back and sent out to do battle with the monster. He won, and some scores of ardent Progressives, who did not see the opportunity and were too timid to go into the fight, retired to nurse their wrath and whet their knives for 1912.

They now have their knives out for Mr. Anderson. They tell the people confidentially that Mr. Anderson is too young; that they allowed him to go against Tawney in 1910 because he was so ardent in the cause; but that he is altogether too radical and stands at the other extreme from Tawney. They say another dependable Progressive, who more truly reflects the sentiment of the people of the district, should be allowed to attach himself to a congressional salary and mileage, and that young Sydney, having put Tawney out of the way, should give way to some older and wiser man.

The chances are that the same ardent spirit that inspired Anderson to go out and defeat Tawney will be with him on his return from Washington. He may be expected to go out for the scalps of the enemies in his camp, and unless the enemies unite on one candidate—which seems unlikely right now—Anderson will take the nomination again. It isn't very likely any of the Old Guard will come forward, but some First district Progressives would be difficult of identification but for the label.

Party Solidarity.

The St. Peter Free Press sounds a note of warning to the Republican party. It fears that the scramble for the Republican nomination for governor may develop into a bitter war like the Dunn-Collins imbroglio. The Free Press adds:

It is a good thing for the Republican side, however, that the candidates for governor are not chosen by the state-wide primary, for under present conditions the rivalry among the many candidates would necessarily cause a good deal of friction among the voters and have a tendency to disrupt the ticket nominated, at the expense of the gubernatorial candidate.

Thus does the doctrine of party solidarity conflict with progress. The 'organization' should be allowed to choose the candidate and then let the people in on the game so that they might support him at the polls. There is nothing in representative government to justify an opinion that the members of a party should have an opportunity to express themselves on the choice of a candidate and, failing to secure the nomination of their candidate, go to a better man in the other party. If bolting an unpopular party nominee is a crime such crimes are common in politics of this day.

In the Second District.

Some of the newspapers of the Second district are preaching a compromise on a Republican candidate to unite the Ellsworth-Ward factions. In Minneapolis a few days ago, Ellsworth intimated that he might be a candidate for the nomination again this year. If he does get in, the other faction will probably come to the front with a candidate. County Auditor Edgar Weaver of Blue Earth county and Senator Haycraft of Watonwan county are among the men offered as compromise candidates. In the meantime, Congressman Hammond's friends are counting confidently on his re-election.

The office of congressman-at-large continues to be given much more prominence than is its due. Booms for the Republican nomination have been as popular as those for governor, but only one boom has shown continued life. Alvah Eastman is running strong for the Republican nomination. L. C. Spooner is definitely out of it, as are several "lame ducks" who have been mentioned. The boom for W. H. Eustis of Minneapolis doesn't appear to be taken striously. The latest to be mentioned for the nomination is W. S. Bartholemew of Avon. Avon is in Stearns county. So is St. Cloud. Lastman lives in St. Cloud. The Bartholemew bubble bursts with a faint report.

PROPOSED ROADS TO BE SURVEYED

State Highway Commission Hears Call of Northern Minnesota.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 24. — The state highway commission spent all of yesterday considering the proposed Northern Minnesota highways as mapped out by the Northern Minnesota Development association and decided to survey the proposed routes of the Brainerd-Moose Lake, Duluth-Moorhead, Deer River-Northome and Duluth-St. Vincent highways, the last as far as the eastern boundary of Clearwater county. This highway commission reached this conclusion after spending a day with representatives of the Northern Minnesota Development association and county officials of Northern Minnesota.

The survey will not be detailed, but will be made to determine the feasibility of the routes proposed by the league and an estimate of the cost of each. In the construction of these roads under the Elwell bill as well as any others, the commission reserves the right to fix the routes as it deems most satisfactory, irrespective of those suggested. Wherever practicable, however, the routes proposed for conideration will be followed.

Commissioners Must First Approve.

The four routes the commission decided to survey were the only ones of the association's scheme of a network to cover Northern Minnesota for which both petitions and official approvals of the commissioners of the counties through which the highways are to pass have been received. The commission laid down the rule that before it makes a survey or takes any action on the roads that may be proposed to it, the roads must be officially approved by the commissioners of each county. This rule was adopted because the promoters of several highways presented to the commission verbal or informal approvals.

The meeting was one of the largest in the commission's history, and while in some cases there was considerable difference of opinion among local or county officials present as to the routes that should be followed in their teritory, it was characterized by harmony. In several instances conflicting routes were presented, arising largely from local disputes, which the commission will leave to the league and county officials to determine.

OPPOSE PUBLICITY IN REAL ESTATE DEALS.

This was the decision of the board of managers and executive officers of the National Association of Real Estate Exchanges in session here, when appealed to by real estate men in the District of Columbia. A rule is pending there compelling the full consideration of all deals to be stated in the deed, and real estate men there telegraphed the executive committee asking for its opinion. The committee voted against the plan.

The visiting members of the board and committee, who are here to complete the plans for the annual convention of the organization to be held at Louisville, Ky., were guests of the Kansas City Real Estate exchange at a banquet last night.

BRYAN SIDES WITH WILSON

Writes His View of the Break With Col. Harvey

Says That Other Breaks Will Have to Follow This One.

Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 24.—W. J. Bryan takes the side of Governor Woodrow Wilson in his break with Col. Harvey and Henry Watterson, justifying the action of the New Jersey governor in requesting that his name be withdrawn from the columns of Harper's Weekly. In a letter sent from the East, made public here, Mr. Bryan says:

"The recent break between Governor Wilson and Col. Harvey illustrates the impossibility of co-operation between men who look at public questions from different points of view. Col. Harvey became a supporter of Mr. Wilson when he was selected as the Democratic candidate for governor of New Jersey, and he continued his support when Governor Wilson began to be discussed as a candidate for the presidency. Of course it is absurd for Col. Harvey's friends to talk about his 'bringing Governor Wilson out.' No man or paper could have made Governor Wilson available as a candidate if he himself had not attracted attention; it would have been impossible for Col. Harvey to prevent a discussion of Governor Wilson's availability.

Harper's Support a Disadvantage.

"But let us assume that Col. Harvey was doing all that he could for his choice, what was the situation? His conspicuous support was not only of no advantage, but it became actually a disadvantage; it did not bring to Governor Wilson the class for which Col. Harvey speaks, but alienated men just as honest as Col. Harvey's friends, who could not understand why Col. Harvey praised Governor Wilson personally without indorsing the things for which Governor Wilson stands. It naturally aroused suspicion as sto the sincerity of one or the other, and when Governor Wilson was asked the question, he admitted that he regarded the support of Col. Harvey as a liability; rather than as an asset.

"Should he have pretended that he thought that Col. Harvey was helping him when he was not? And why should Col. Harvey complain? If he really favors Governor Wilson he must desire to aid him; why should he be offended, then, at Governor Wilson's frankness? Is he more interested in being known as 'the man who made Governor Wilson famous' than in advancing Governor Wilson's cause?

Is Harvey Converted?

"Harvey has shown no signs of conversion. If he communes with Ananias it is not with any consciousness of blindness. He has seen no new light; and when he does, he will feel so ashamed of his lifelong fight against Progressive Democracy that his first desire will be to bring forth fruits for repentance—not to assume leadership.

"It must pain Governor Wilson to break with his old friends, but the breaks must necessarily come unless he turns back or they go forward.

"'A man is known by the company he keeps'—and he cannot keep company with those going in opposite directions. Governor Wilson must prepare himself for other desertions—they will distress him, but there is abundant consolation of duty well done."

WANTS TEDDY TO SPEAK PLAINLY

Governor Stubbs of Kansas Asks Him If He Will Accept Nomination.

Topeka, Kan., Jan. 24.—Governor Stubbs has made public a telegram sent to Col. Theodore Roosevelt Monday last urging him to make a statement at once as to whether he would be a candidate for president or permit his name to go before the Republican national convention. The governor has not received a reply. The telegram follows:

"The demand for your candidacy is becoming more urgent daily, and in Kansas is overwhelming in every part of the state and among all classes. The time of meeting of committees and the calling of caucuses and primaries to select delegates to congressional and state conventions, who in turn select delegates to the Republican national convention is at hand. Your friends throughout the Middle West eagerly are waiting to hear you say that you will accept the nomination for president if it comes to you as a genuine demand from the people without your seeking the nomination or taking any action yourself to secure the place.

"I believe you owe it to the American people at this time to make a public statement concerning this matter, and am writing you because of the lateness of the day and on behalf of a vast majority of the Republicans of Kansas, and urge you to give us the statement by wire."

BOY TAKES POISON; DIES IN SCHOOLROOM.

Mount Vernon, Ind., Jan. 24.—Charles Wilson, a 17-year-old high school student at Cynthiana, near here, committed suicide in school. He asked permission to leave the room and returned a few moments later. Soon his head dropped forward and other students began to laugh, thinking he had fallen asleep. Teachers went to arouse him, but he told them he had taken poison.

HADLEY WILL NOT RUN FOR GOVERNOR AGAIN.

Jefferson City, Mo., Jan. 24. — Following his statement that he believed the majority of Republicans of this state are in favor of the nomination of Col. Roosevelt for president, Governor Hadley has explained his reason for refusing to permit the use of his name as a candidate for vice president.

"My position in this matter has been based entirely upon my decision to resume the practice of law at the expiration of my term as governor and to no other consideration," he said.

COL. ROOSEVELT SEES HIS FIRST GRANDCHILD.

New York, Jan. 24. — Col. Theodore Roosevelt had his first glimpse yesterday of his first grandchild, Grace Green, daughter of Theodore Roosevelt, Jr. The colonel hurried from his editorial offices to the Grand Central station to meet the train from Chicago on which the baby and her parents were finishing their trip from California, where she was born three months ago. After welcoming the family party, the colonel conducted its members to an uptown hotel. Today Miss Grace will be taken to Oyster Bay, where she will make an extended visit with her grandparents. The colonel had never seen even a picture of the little one.

RHEUMATISM

If every one would realize the danger of Rheumatism, and at the first symptoms of the disease begin proper treatment to get rid of it, a great deal of suffering and misery could be avoided. But most persons are inclined to treat the early pains lightly, and by neglecting the trouble allow the blood to become so impregnated with uric acid that Rheumatism becomes firmly established in the system, and then the sufferer "wakes up" to the fact that it is a powerful and dangerous disease.

An excess of uric acid gets into the blood usually because of systemic irregularities, such as chronic constipation, imperfect kidney filtration, indigestion and minor stomach troubles, to which we give no serious thought. But each of these disturbances has a direct effect on the eliminative members, which prevents the proper removal of waste substances from the system. This refuse remains in the stomach and bowels, and souring forms uric acid which is quickly absorbed into the blood. Then the foundation is laid for Rheumatism.

The occasional pains shooting through the body, will gradually become more frequent and severe, the muscles get sore, and the flesh may be sensitive and feverish in spots. Constant contact with the acrid blood slowly dries up the natural fluids of the joints, causing the knees, ankles, fingers, etc., to become swollen and stiff.

If you do not conquer Rheumatism then Rheumatism will conquer you, and you cannot do so with external applications, because they do not reach the cause, which is in the blood. It is all right to use any application that will give temporary relief from the pain of an attack of Rheumatism, but no one should forget that the vital and necessary treatment is that one which reaches and changes the character of the blood.

S. S. S.
CURES RHEUMATISM

There is but one way to cure Rheumatism and that is to cleanse the blood of the uric acid poison. S. S. S. goes down into the circulation, and attacks the disease at its head, and by removing every particle of the cause, and purifying the blood, cures Rheumatism permanently. S. S. S. changes the blood from a sour, acid-steeped stream to a rich, healthy fluid, which quiets the excited nerves, eases the throbbing muscles and painful joints, and filters out of the blood the irritating matter which causes every symptom of the disease. When the circulation has been purified and enriched by S. S. S., it gradually nourishes back to a healthful state the different members that have been affected because of imperfect and impure blood. S. S. S. is entirely free from minerals and is perfectly safe for any one to take. Book on Rheumatism and any medical advice free to all who write and request same.

WEST END NEWS

PREDICTS BUSY YEAR IN BUILDING LINES

According to the observations of David Adams, the pioneer West end printer, this year promises to be an exceptional one in the building line, and he predicts a larger number of sales and new buildings during the next twelve months than in any previous year.

Mr. Adams has reached his conclusions by the fact that a very large number of Duluthians have already approached him regarding the building of homes. Mr. Adams recently completed his sixty-second house.

"When such a number inquire for houses and lots, then a good year can be expected," he said. "I have received numerous calls from prospective buyers and builders during the past two weeks and as soon as the weather gets a little warmer, will start to build on several new homes. I just finished two homes in the East end and have already ten new contracts for this spring. This year will surely beat all the others in building, if this keeps up."

TAKES ACID AND LIVES

Disappears From Her Boarding House Following Her Recovery.

After attempting suicide Monday evening by taking carbolic acid and being saved by the efforts of Dr. O. A. Oredson, Miss Minnie Doucette, 22 years old, of 518 North Twenty-second avenue west, left home yesterday morning and had not returned up to noon today.

Despondency over a love affair is given as the cause of the young woman's attempt at suicide. Mrs. A. Hanson, with whom she had been rooming for the past year, said yesterday that the girl had been despondent for the past week and told the family early last week that she was planning to visit her sister for a few days. It is thought that she is now visiting her sister in Superior.

Miss Doucette's parents are now living at Bayfield, Wis., having moved there recently from Ashland. Her father is the owner of a moving picture theater there and Miss Doucette left her home nearly three years ago, coming to Duluth. She has roomed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Hanson for the past fifteen months and up to two months ago was working as a clerk at the confectionery store of J. B. Archambault, 1602 West Superior street. She worked at the store for about ten months, when she told her friends that she was to be married the first of the year.

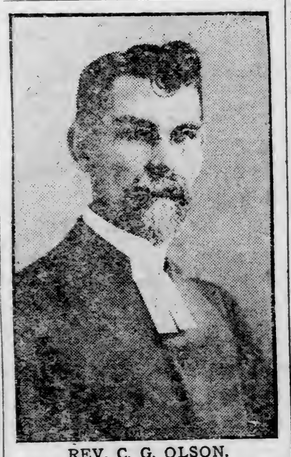

Although Miss Doucette did not say anything to Mrs Hanson during the past two weeks, it is thought that the young people quarreled. Dr. Oredson, the attending physician who saved the young woman's life, found a letter on her dresser addressed to the man in the case, but Miss Doucette snatched it out of his hands, throwing it in the stove.

Just where Miss Doucette is today is worrying her parents, as it is feared that she may have again attempted to take her life. She packed her trunk before leaving.

REV. C. G. OLSON.

plan of dividing the district, with twenty-two churches in each organization instead of forty-four as at present. There were two sermons delivered at the evening meeting yesterday. One was by Rev. J. A. Krantz and the other by A. G. Anderson of Duluth.

The other officers elected for the year and including the special committee to appoint delegates to th synodal meeting are: Rev. E. A. Carlstead of Ashland, vice president; Rev. O. Nelson of Superior, secretary; Rev. G. Oberg of West Duluth, treasurer, and the committee of Rev. C. O. Swenson of Cloquet, A. Roberts of Two Harbors and O. CHURCH SOCIETIES WILL PRESENT PLAY.

The Ladies' Aid Society and Men's club of the Grace M. E. church, Twenty-second avenue west and Third street, have joined in the presentation of a dramatic playlet to be played Feb. 9. The members of the two organizations met last evening and assigned the various parts of the comedy, "The Deestrict Skule," to those who take part in the production.

The part of Deacon Tidd will be taken by C. B. Gilbert of Proctor and Mrs. Gilbert will be the organist. The production is in charge of Rev. Charles W. Ramshaw of the Proctor M. E. church, who will play the part of the teacher. Among the members of the church who will be the scholars in the play are: Messrs. Joseph W. Cummings, Charles E. Dice, Ralph H. Wellington, W. H. Leonard, R. R. Forward, John Moir, Joseph Seiner, T. B. Perry, Swan, and the Mesdames George E. Silloway, R. H. Wellington, David Adams, Joseph Seiner and May. Charles Southern will play the visiting school director and Mrs. Southern will portray the school visitor.

CHURCH WOMEN PRESENT A PLAY

"Western Women in Eastern Lands" Attracts a Big Audience.

An audience that packed the Second Presbyterian church to the doors last evening attended the production of the dramatization of the first chapter of the book, "Western Women in Eastern Lands," by Mrs. Milton Fish. The play was given by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Central Baptist church and the audience was composed of residents from every part of this city and Superior. It is now planned to present a second performance in Superior some time next week.

The play deals with the work of women during the nineteenth century and the scene takes place at the home of one of the women. She is giving a tea for her friends and when they meet each one present tells of her experience and the work accomplished in the cause for women. The characters in the play are all taken from prominent women during the last century.

The musical part of the program was prepared by the women of the Grace M. E. church, Twenty-second avenue west and Third street. Mrs. David Adams and Mrs. Davis sang several selections during the evening and refreshments were served by the women of the Second Presbyterian church. Mrs. Giffin, as the leading character of the play, was exceptionally good and was ably assisted by the other members of the cast. Miss Ruth Glover portrayed a young heroine of the early novels, showing how different the models of today are compared with the heroines of old. The cast was as follows:

Mrs. Doremus, a woman of wealth.....Mrs. J. H. Giffin
Miss Constance Lovejoy, a waltress.....Mrs. Wallace Leonard
Aldelia Siske, student at Mount Holyoke.....Miss Enid Shaw
Miss Grimke.....Mrs. Mary Bailey
Her sister.....Miss Goodhand

The second chapter of the book is now being arranged for production and will be presented the early part of next month by the women of the Second Presbyterian church at the Grace M. E. church. The chapter deals with oriental women and the characters are all dressed in the costumes of their country.

ORPHEUM—Vaudeville.
EMPRESS—Vaudeville.

Amusement Notes.

Carson brothers, at the Orpheum this week, were born in Sweden, the land of winter sports and sturdy manhood, their home town being Gothenburg, where during the summer months there is sunlight nearly all of the twenty-four hours of the day.

The two brothers, who are neither of them large men, are patterns physically and morally for youths of any country to imitate. The two young Swedes are as careful of what they take into their inner man as they are of all their other habits, and neither has ever acquired a habit that is injurious to the health.

The brothers first began their career as athletes when schoolboys in Sweden. In that country frequent games are held of Olympic character, and troupes of men from cities and villages participate in physical feats, prizes being offered to successful competitors. In these games, often attended by royalty, the Carson brothers began to gain recognition, and finally developed to such a remarkable degree in all kinds of stunts, from wrestling to ski jumping, that they were advised to follow the career of professional athletes.

By clean habits and never abusing their health, they have probably attained as nearly physical perfection as is possible for human beings. Neither brother is a vegetarian, strictly speaking, though they do not believe in eating meat frequently. Neither do they diet. The Carson brothers believe in the motto: "A sound mind in a sound body."

One conclusive proof of the amount of interest which is being aroused by Miss Eva Ray, who is featuring the Empress bill this week, is the amount of mail which she receives daily. Miss Ray receives on an average between 200 and 300 letters a day, each containing questions which she must answer. For this purpose, Miss Ray employs a stenographer who travels with her from city to city. This young woman bears the reputation of being one of the fastest stenographers in the country and both she and Miss Ray are often obliged to sit up until 4 o'clock in the morning answering the questions received through the mail. Any stenographer, who has had an amount of experience, will realize what a difficult task it is to turn out 300 letters a day, but this is what Miss Ray and her assistant are obliged to do almost daily. Miss Ray receives questions from many business men concerning business ventures, from young women concerning their sweethearts, in fact questions of every description.

As is her usual custom, on Friday afternoon at the matinee Miss Ray will devote her time entirely to the women, answering questions of the fair sex only. On this occasion, Miss Ray requests that a committee of women step upon the stage during her performance in order that they may witness her remarkable performance at close range. Gentlemen are also free to attend the Friday matinee, but at this time Miss Ray's entire time will be given to the women.

Two Plants Mean One Loss Which Taxpayers Must Bear

In the first place, it would mean the absolute duplication of a plant which is now fully adequate for the city's needs. In the city there would be two plants, representing two investments, ONE OF WHICH MUST EVENTUALLY BE A LOSS.

Judging from the experience of other municipal-owned lighting plants in cities where they have been attempted to compete with private plants, this loss in Duluth would NOT fall on the Duluth-Edison Company, BUT ON THE TAXPAYERS OF THE CITY OF DULUTH INSTEAD.

Another thing the proposed installation would mean would be the tearing up of the city streets to put in place 6,449 poles (according to the report of the City's engineers), the stringing of many miles of wire besides the digging up of streets, with its consequent taking up and replacing of pavement, for that part of the work that is to go underground. You know how the city replaces pavements where street openings have been made.

Do you want the number of electric light poles doubled?

Do you want the pavements torn up and more conduits and manholes in the streets?

Do you want the city committed to a plan that will mean CONTINUALLY INCREASING EXPENDITURES and INCREASED TAXES?

DUKE GUEST OF MRS. VANDERBILT

New York, Jan. 24.—The vice-regal visitors, the duke and the duchess of Connaught, their daughter, the Princess Patricia and their suite, faced again today a varied program of social engagements interspersed with sightseeing trips about the city.

The walks of the duke unattended through the city's thoroughfares have become a feature of the visit of the royal party here. Daily the uncle of King George of England, steps briskly from the home of Ambassador and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid and goes for a jaunt along Fifth avenue and in Central park. Hundreds of people who pass him fail to recognize the royal visitor, and he enjoys himself keenly looking over the city.

Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt will give a luncheon to the royal party today, and tonight Mr. and Mrs. Ogden Mills have arranged a dinner to be followed by music. Tomorrow night the visitors, except the duke, will go to the opera. The duke will leave for Washington tomorrow morning to visit President Taft.

Guests With Rosevelt.

The party's trips yesterday included a visit to the private art galleries of J. P. Morgan. This was followed by a luncheon at the Reid home at which Col. Theodore Roosevelt was a guest.

The afternoon also included trips to Grant's tomb, Columbia university and to the new Cathedral of St. John the Divine.

The formal dinntr at the Reids' last night was set for about sixty persons, and the dance followed. The Reids, displeased with reports that invitations to the function had been sent out with a view to pick the real elite of society and to eliminate all others, declined to give out the list of guests.

WOODMEN TO HEAR STATE OFFICERS

Fight Over Proposal to Raise Assessments Begins at Chicago.

Chicago, Jan. 24. — Insurance commissioners of five states were expected to address the delegates attending the national convention of the Modern Woodmen of America here today. They are A. L. Reeves, Missouri; Fred W. Potter, Illinois; T. M. Henry, Mississippi; H. L. Ekern, Wisconsin; and J. D. Darst, West Virginia.

Insurgency arose in the meeting of the Modern Woodmen yesterday, and the fight to prevent adoption of the head officers' plan of increasing insurance assessments was on. The head camp will be in session all this week, it being the intention of the head officers to withold a vote until a thorough canvass of the attitude of delegates has been made.

The plan of increase is based on the recommendation of state insurance commissioners who met in Mobile, Ala., a year ago and prepared a sample and uniform law for governing fraternal insurance companies. Sixteen fraternities have adopted the plan. By extensive growth, say the Woodmen officials, the low rate of insurance heretofore in effect has been sufficient.

Head officers submitted figures calculated to show that by Jan. 1, 1914, the lodge would have available assets of $200,000,000 less than enough to meet the face value of policies. Their plan would be to increase rates materially, but to scale increases for members over 53 years old, so that the cost of their insurance would not be prohibitive. A maximum assessment limit of $3 for a $1,000 policy for these men was suggested.

H. S. Green of Bloomfield, Mo., Sherman Carr of East St. Louis and Charles N. Page of Oberlin, Kan., opposing the increase, predicted that it would mean a cut of 50 per cent in membership and an assessment rate higher than old-time companies. They contended the present system was sufficient. James F. Eagan, an official of the head camp, on the other hand, declared that the lodge now was prepared to pay only $536 on each $1,000 policy.

BALL FANS MAKE KICK

Large Delegation Waits on Village Lawmakers to Present Protest.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The lovers of baseball and that appears to include about every adult male and many of the younger set in Hibbing, turned out in force last night and invaded the village council hall to protest against the proposed opening of Fourth street. Many of the leading citizens were in the delegation and all seemed opposed to the idea that has been an all absorbing topic here since it was first proposed. The ball fans are especially aroused because if Fourth street is opened it would ruin the ball park, the proposed street cutting the grandstand in two.

Some Legal Questions Involved.

Some question has arisen as to whether the street had ever been occupied and this will cut a figure in the determination of the matter. Attorney Robert Stratton, who has been engaged by the fans, said that if the street had only been platted and not really opened, it would require considerable legal formality for the council to proceed with the opening of the street, having first to serve notice on all interested parties. The council laid the matter over for a week.

The quarterly report of the water, light, power and building commission submitted to that board by Secretary J. L. Stewart, showed total receipts for the year ending Dec. 31 were $24,374.17; total expenses, $22,103.29, leaving a net profit for the quarter of $2,270.78.

LEETONIA MINE HAS NEW SHAFT

New Vertical Opening Into Ore Now Down About 100 Feet.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Leetonia Mining company, independent, operating the Leetonia mine, about four miles from Hibbing, one of the rich properties of the district, has about completed a new vertical shaft in addition to the incline shaft heretofore used.

The new shaft is down about 100 feet and is said to be in a fine, large body of ore. The working of this property through the new opening this season is expected to mean a material increase in the Hibbing ore output.

HIBBING ELKS HAVE BIG TIME

Smoker and Social at Power Theater With Many Visitors Present.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—The social and smoker given by the local Elks at the Power theater last night was one of the best attended and most successful affairs of the kind ever held on the range. There was a full attendance of Elks locally and from other points, about 125 coming from Virginia and Eveleth alone, by special train.

Chisholm and Duluth were also represented.

The program of music, addresses and other features was pronounced a gem. William Brown, yardmaster for the Missabe road here, threw everyone into convulsions by his inimitable political speech telling how O'Malley ran for alderman in the Tenth ward in Superior. Others added to the features of the program making the affair a big success.

ANDREW P. NELSON AGAIN CANDIDATE

President of Village of Alice Announces He Is in the Game.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—President Andrew P. Nelson of the village of Alice, the growing suburb of Hibbing, announced today that he is a candidate to succeed himself at the next village election. As Alice has grown considerably since the last election, it is expected there will be two tickets in the field and considerable interest shown.

One Hibbing Announcement.

So far there has been only one announcement politically in Hibbing. Village Recorder A. H. Pfeffman has announced he is a candidate for re-election. Whether President Welrick will seek re-election is not known as Dr. Welrick is not talking for publication, but is reported to have told friends he would not seek re-election. President Welrick is very popular and it is predicted if he elects to run again he will have little opposition outside of the Socialists, who are going to be in the fight with a full ticket and will make a determined effort to capture some of the members of the council.

Cut This Out

Recipe That Breaks a Cold in a Day and Cures Any Curable Cough.

"From your druggist get half ounce of Concentrated Pine compound and two ounces of Glycerine. Take these two ingredients home and put them into a half pint of good whisky; shake well and use in doses of one to two teaspoonfuls after each meal and at bed time." Smaller doses to children according to age. But be sure to get only the genuine (Globe) Concentrated Pine. Each half ounce bottle comes in a sealed tin screw-top case. If your druggist does not have it he will quickly get it. Many mixtures are of large quantity and cheaper, but it is risky to experiment. This formula comes from a reliable doctor and is certain. This was first published here six years ago and local druggists say it has been in constant demand ever since.

The wedding was to have taken place some time this month, but a day or two before Christmas Miss Samuelson became seriously ill and was taken to St. Luke's hospital in Duluth. She came home on the afternoon train, and with Mr. Brown went almost immediately to the Swedish parsonage, where the nuptial knot was tied. The groom has been employed for several years by the Alstad-Johnson mercantile firm, and the bride is a sister of Oscar Samuelson, assistant postmaster. Both young people have a host of friends.

The fact that the association receives state aid insures prompt payment of all premiums.

The association has secured the services of W. C. Ellison of Minneapolis to score the birds. Since the Lake County Poultry association is a member of the American Poultry association the show is being conducted under the rules of that association.

WANT RECEIVER FOR TWO HARBORS STORE.

Jacob E. Decker & Sons today filed suit in the district court against the People's Co-operative company of Two Harbors, asking that a receiver for the company be appointed, and that the property be seized and sold to satisfy a judgment of $250, which the plaintiffs secured against the defendants in the Lake county courts, but which they have never been able to collect.

The People's Co-operative company was engaged for some time in the general mercantile business at Two Harbors. On Sept. 1 of last year the stock and business of the company were taken over by Charles W. Carr of Two Harbors. Notwithstanding this sale of the property, the plaintiffs ask that a receiver be appointed and the property be sold again.

In their complaint they state that claims amounting to $3,500 remain unpaid by the defendants.

Prescription that Soon Knocks Rheumatism

The only logical treatment for rheumatism is through the blood. The poisons that settle in muscles, joints and back, causing severe pain, must be dissolved and expelled from the system or there can be no relief. This prescription from a noted doctor is said to be working wonders all over the country. Hundreds of the worst cases were cured by it here last winter. "From your druggist get one ounce of Toris compound (in original sealed package) and one ounce of syrup of Sarsaparilla compound. Take these two ingredients home and put them into a half pint of good whisky. Shake the bottle and take a tablespoonful before each meal and at bedtime." If your druggist does not have Toris compound in stock he will get it in a few hours from his wholesale house. Don't be influenced to take some patent medicine instead of this. Insist on having the genuine Toris compound in the original, one ounce, sealed, yellow package.

ers irrespective of their nationality and searching them for Turkish officers and contraband is believed to be an evidence of the determination of the Italian government to put an end to Turkish resistance in Tripoli as speedily as possible. It is thought, however, that the Italian activity may give rise to complications with those European powers whose shipping is put to inconvenience.

England May Act Soon.

So far no action has been announced by the British government in regard to the seizure by the Italians of a number of Turkish officers, including the famous Col. Riza Bey, from the British steamer Africa, in the Red sea. As, however, the declaration of London which would permit such seizure has not been ratified by Great Britain, a move may be made at any time.

The stoppage of the Australian Lloyd steamer Bregenz yesterday in the Red sea is regarded here as likely to lead to an exchange of views between Austria and Italy.

Consider French Demand.

Rome, Jan. 24.—Premier Giolitti and the Marquis Di San Giuliano, the foreign minister, held a long consultation this morning, during which the demand of the French government for the release of the Turks who were seized from the French steamer Manouba was discussed. The reply of the Italian government will be given to the French ambassador, Camille Barrere, later.

All of the accused trainmen were witnesses.

Regarding the alleged negligence of the trainmen the committee said:

"The board of inquiry finds that the conductor and the flagman of train No. 25, knowing that train No. 3 was following closely, were negligent in not using the means they had in protecting their train.

"The board also finds that the engineer of train No. 3 was negligent in not discovering earlier his proximity to train No. 25."

Six Sign Report.

Besides W. L. Park, the report was signed by R. W. Baxter, general superintendent of the Illinois Central northern lines; G. L. Pettinger, a citizen of Centralia; J. B. Berry, chief engineer of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific; Prof. W. M. Goss, dean of the college of engineering at the University of Illinois; and H. Battisfore, superintendent of the Illinois division of the Illinois Central.

The air brakes of the Panama limited train No. 3, worked perfectly and Engineer Stuart said that he could have stopped in 300 feet, but that he did not see the danger signal in time.

Harry J. Boercker, flagman of the express train, testified that he did not run back more than 100 feet to signal the limited; that he was startled by the nearness of the train and trusted to signaling quickly rather than to running farther back, as he had little time.

Conductor Brainerd said that he had warned Boercker to watch for the limited when they left Effingham, as the limited was close behind. He had faith in the flagman, and was surprised to find that he had run back no farther.

Could Not Stop Soon Enough.

Engineer Stuart said that he had not seen the tail lights of the express clearly and that the absence of fusees along the way had led him to believe that he way was clear to Kinmundy. His air mechanism worked perfectly when he applied the emergency brakes at the sight of the flagman's signal, but itwas too late.

COLE WILL FIX WAGE SCALES

Newly Elected President of Tugmen Negotiates With Employers.

Martin Cole, who was elected president of the Licensed Tugmens' Protective Association of America, at the recent convention, held at Toledo, Ohio, returned home today.

Mr. Cole was given fifty-nine votes out of the entire eighty-six cast. Charles McCarl of Chicago was the Duluth man's nearest competitor, receiving twenty votes. George Burns of Detroit, also a candidate for the position, received seven votes.

The Zenith City man has been active in local union and labor circles for a number of years and his election to the head of the association is pleasing to a great number of Duluth unionists.

Particularly in his own union has Mr. Cole been active. He has served on different committees from time to time, taking trips to different parts of the country in the interests of the association.

As president it will be his duty to make the wage scales for the men. He will, during the year, visit many points and renew agreements or make new ones.

During February there will be a conference between Mr. Cole and the fish packers of Lake Erie. The agreement for next year will be signed at that time. The conference will be held at Cleveland.

At present the tugmen are talking of establishing a permanent federation for the purpose of watching legislation for the improvement of marine working conditions.

E. F. Kemmet of Cleveland was chosen first vice president; John McSweeney of Milwaukee was chosen second vice president; and T. E. O'Connor of Buffalo was elected third vice president.

H. H. Vroman of Buffalo was chosen grand secretary. Mr. Vroman is a brother of Herbert Vroman, manager of the Union Towing & Wrecking company of this city.

Peter Gragnon of Three Rivers, Wis., was chosen grand treasurer.

President Martin Cole, E. F. Kemmet and Charles Louch of Erie, were chosen as a committee to attend the annual convention of the longshoremen, which will take place at Port Huron next July.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

FAIR

The cold snap is apparently broken. The mercury shot up to 12 deg. yesterday and it declined only to 2 deg. below this morning. The weather man puts out a prediction of fair and warmer for tonight and tomorrow. If it gets much warmer, Duluth people will not be comfortable.

The sun rose this morning at 7:42 and it will set at 4:58 this evening, giving nine hours and sixteen minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Much colder weather prevails in Manitoba, the Red river valley, Ontario, the Missouri, upper Mississippi and Ohio valleys and Lake region, the lowest temperature reported being 20 deg. below zero at Port Arthur last night. Indications favor a turn to somewhat milder weather throughout the Northwest during the ensuing thirty-six hours. Light snow or rain fell during Tuesday or last night over Eastern Canada, the Lake region, Maine, Southern Florida, Southeastern Texas, Western Washington, Western Oregon and Northern California."

PRESENT BANKING SYSTEM IS A BREEDER OF PANICS

250 Duluth Business Men Hear Its Weaknesses Explained.

The banking system, or lack of system, in the United States is a disgrace to the nation; a breeder of panics and a stifler of commercial activity, said David R. Forgan of Chicago in an address at the Commercial club last evening on "The National Reserve Association of the United States."

About 250 Duluth business and professional men were given a keen insight into the defects of the present monetary system and the reforms proposed by the national monetary commission, in Mr. Forgan's address. Mr. Forgan, who has given the subject of monetary reform years of study, came to Duluth under the auspices of the Citizens' League of Minnesota. F. A. Patrick, vice president of the league for Duluth, presided.

The Chicago banker gave a clear, concise and complete statement of a somewhat complex subject. He said in opening that he would be elementary, and he was elementary in the fundamentals, so that the layman could understand. He went directly to the heart of every phase of his subject. He illustrated with simple problems and simple incidents that more clearly impressed his points upon his audience. His address was a masterpiece of simplicity in expression, and left his auditors with a clear understanding of the subject.

Mr. Forgan was given many rounds of applause while he was speaking, and at the conclusion of his address the cheering business men stood as an expression of appreciation of the address.

The subject of monetary reform was carried home to Duluth business men in a manner never before attained here. Nearly every business man knows that there is something wrong with the monetary system; that unreasoning panics occur; that other countries do not share the experience of the United States in that respect; but many of those present last evening did not understand the reason for the condition. After Mr. Forgan's address they see more clearly.

Striking Comparison.

A fire protection system, which provides for a bucket of water in each house, with no co-operation on the part of the householders in case of a fire, appeals to every man as inadequate. Mr. Forgan declared that the monetary system of the United States is just such a system, withdrawing aid when it is most needed instead of giving assistance. The central bank plan, he said, would be as the reservoir and pipe line, supplanting the bucket system of fire protection.

He said that prejudice against Mr. Aldrich is unreasoning, as he has been sincere in his efforts to improve the monetary system, and other financial authorities are agreed that the Rhode Island senator has devised a plan that is basically what is needed to bring the present system up to something approaching adequacy.

Mr. Forgan said:

"A good many years ago in this country, one word was on every tongue; one object in everybody's mind. That was independence. That time has passed, for the people were aroused and they gained their independence. Today another word is to the front in prominence—a word that is not so well understood. It is not understood in vast sections of the country and among large classes of people and until it is better understood, and the people realize how dependent all are on each other, not until then will the unrest that now prevails give place to the peace, prosperity and contentment that ought to be ours.

Value of Credit.

"I don't believe anyone knows as well how interdependent we are as the banker. The life blood of the financial world is not gold—it is credit. If we got together all the gold in the world, searching all the old temples of India and ransacking China, and were to gather it all and coin it into American dollars, we would scarcely have enough to liquidate the deposits of some banks in the United States.

"Credit today is the very life-blood of American business and the heart is the banks. The credit proceeds from the banks and pulsates through the whole fabric of business. Credit moves wheels, starts enterprises, wages war, sustains nations and makes civilization.

"It is good in financial discussions to deal with elementary things. If I seem to some of my banker friends to be unduly elementary, remember I am here to try and explain the National Reserve association of America. I care not for form, but will be elementary as it suits the needs.

"What are deposits? The first answer given is that they are money. Because one of your banks here has $12,000,000 in deposits, it is not money. Bank deposits are nothing physical—they are merely figures on a ledger. All banks have some money, but it is all on the other side of the ledger from the deposits. Money is the assets of a bank; deposits are liabilities.

"You come in to borrow $100,000. Do I take $100,000 in money and unload it on you? No I merely fill out a form, you sign it, I discount it and put the proceeds to your credit. Between us we have made $100,000 in bank deposits, but we have not made $100,000 in money. It is merely credit. We have created $100,000 in credit. I have loaned you the bank's credit on your credit. You draw checks on the account—that is the first thing you do. You draw a check for $10,000 and perhaps the man you give it to is also my customer. He brings the check in and I merely transfer some figures. Perhaps he is another banker's customer, but it doesn't pay him any money. Your check floats around until it gets to the clearing house. I send up $2,000,000 from my bank and another bank has $2,025,000 of checks on my bank. They have a balance against me, but I give a check. No money is used. The city of Duluth issues bonds. They sell, not for money, but credit.

Will Stop War.

"Credit binds the whole world together. The banker has more to say than any emperor or king as to whether or not there shall be war. Germany and France threatened to go to war recently, but the bankers said 'No' and there was no war. Turkey and Italy are now at war. The original estimate of the cost was $10,000,000, but now it is costing them $1,000,000 a day. The day is coming when the bankers of the world will stop war. The people are so interdependendent that they cannot afford to have wars.

"There was a time when Olaf came down from Scandinavia to England and captured all the jewels and gold he could find. If a German army should land in England now and take all the money from the bank of England, it would do $10 worth of damage to German banks for every dollar captured. If the bank of England should burst, every bank in Germany would be insolvent. Thus is the world interdependent. I recently had money paid to a boy in Central Africa on his father's order. The order was given in Chicago in the morning and the money was paid in the afternoon.

"We are all interdependent. This is not a bankers' question. It affects every man, woman and child. It is the most important question now.

"When we come to discuss anything financial, we must remember that gold is the only real money, and that is nearly all locked up. We go on doing business on credit. That which you call money is not money. No paper is money. It is only a promise to pay money—a certificate that there is money in Washington or somewhere else.

Worst System in World.

"Andrew Carnegie said recently that the banking system of the United States was the worst in the world. After doing business in two countries other than the United States, and in this country, I must confess that I agree with him. He did not say that the banks in the United States were the worst. I think that the banks in the United States are the best in the world. It is the system that is the worst in the world. Really there is no system. Whenever any occasion for a system arises; whenever there is any demand for cohesion, the 25,000 banks in this country become 25,000 units, incapabale of helping each other and each trying to help itself.

"In Illinois, only ten national banks have failed in the last thirty-one years. Eight paid their deposits in full. The other two so nearly paid in full that the total losses by national bank depositors in that period of time amounted to only $13,000. Manifestly Illinois needs no bank guarantee plan.

"But only four short years ago all those banks were suspended. Their depositors could not go in and get money.

"Those periodical panics occur when the banks are in excellent condition and the country is in excellent condition. The last panic came when we had larger gold reserves than all other chief countries in the world. The panic of 1907 came only after we had painfully and slowly transported $100,000,000 in gold from the bank of England. The bank of England had at that time $160,000,000 in gold. We had in this country $1,500,000,000 in gold. We had ten times as much, but we had to deplete the bank of England's stock to check our panic.

"It is no less than a disgace, financially and every other way. That this country, with the greatest resources of any country in the world, claiming for its inhabitants the shrewdest, ablest business men in the world, having greater reserves than any banks in the world, having a stock of gold more than the combined stocks of our chief competitors, is the only civilized country within the memory of man that has ever had a bank panic. Our panics have always been absolutely cut off by our national borders. Canada and Mexico have been peaceful and prosperous while we have suffered. At the moment when a cloud appears in the financial sky, we sit back and allow it to spread over us. Every other country in the world has a means of dispelling clouds—of averting incipient panics.

"The so-called National Reserve Association of the United States is a movement, an undertaking, to prevent panics. It is not to interfere with the present banking system at all. It contemplates leaving the system as it is with the exception of the currency.

"This subject has been up for years, but we have done nothing. Some people have made speeches, but we have done really nothing, or we did nothing until three years ago. Then the government appointed a national monetary commission. Headed by Senator Aldrich, the committee went all over Europe, studying the financial system. The commissioners consulted with the financial authorities. They came back to this country and consulted with the heads of financial institutions in this country. They have presented a bill proposing the creation of the National Reservation Association of the United States.

"That bill attempts to supply to our banking system these elements which are lacking in our system and which exist in all other civilized countries, by which panics are averted:

Currency Not Elastic.

"First—We have no elasticity in our currency. Our currency is rigid. We are incapable of meeting extraordinary situations by producing more currency. When war between France and Germany was threatened, the German banks increased their currency over one hundred million of dollars in a week. We could not increase our currency one hundred million of dollars in years. Our currency can neither expand nor contract. It cannot be expanded when sections need or times need it. For instance, during the crop movement, the currency cannot expand to care for it.

"Any banker remembers how during the panic of 1907, he paid $109 for a government bond, sent it in to Washington and received $100 in currency in return. You business men remember getting 'milk tickets' issued by the clearing house.

"Another trouble with our currency is that the gold dollar never counts for more than it is. It is all tied up by local reserves. It is unavailable for the expansion of credit. In Germany, they could have created 4,500 millions of dollars out of the gold reserves of our country in 1907 and we had to import $100,000,000 to stop the panic.

"Second—Lack of mobility of reserves. Any trouble to be of national character must happen in a big city. Nothing that will affect the national financial situation can happen in Podunk. When anything happens in a reserve center, that is the time when that center needs more reserves, yet that is just the time when all proceed to draw their reserves.

"The banker in Peoria hears that there is something wrong in Chicago. He probably has $90,000 of his reserve on deposit with a Chicago bank. He wires for $20,000 of it to be on the safe side. The Chicago banker is probably holding $20,000 as reserve on the $90,000 deposit of the Peoria bank. He sends the $20,000 and he has $70,000 liability with no reserve.

"Just when Chicago would need to call in a few millions, the reserves begin to fly out. The banks can't stand that more than a week. The only resource is to call loans. The only loans that can be realized on immediately are call loans, and they are placed in Wall Street. Demand loans are called, securities are dumped on the market, quotations go down and there's your ponic.

"Third—Liquidity of bank assets is lacking. If the banking system were dominated by a semi-government central bank, the banks would have a place to go in time of trouble. In other countries, they have prime bills that can be sold to get money. That is unknown to American banks. They have no place to go. Banks in the large cities do help smaller banks by rediscounting, but so unpopular has that become that rediscounting is now covered up. It is perfectly proper. Deposits are payable on demand. We stay by ourselves and let the devil take the hindmost.

"Fourth—Centralization of banking power so closely allied with the national government that when a situation presented itself and an institution needed help, an institution will be at hand that will come to the rescue and allay fear. A panic is unreasoning fear and unreasoning fear will not arrive when it is known that a central bank allied with the government can clear any situation. The Baring Bros., failure twenty years ago shook the financial world for a day, but when it was known that the bank of England came to the rescue, all fear vanished.

National Reserve.

"The National Reserve association as proposed is to have a capitalization of $200,000,000. Every national or state bank or trust company complying to the proper conditions may become a member by subscribing to the extent of 20 per cent of its capital. This association is to do business only with the national government and with the banks which are its own stockholders. It is proposed to divide the country into fifteen districts, each district to consist of a branch association. Each bank association is to have not less than twelve directors, half to be elected by the banks voting as individuals, one-third to be elected by the same banks, voting by the amount of stock held and the remaining one-sixth to be made up of men not bankers or connected with banks as officers or directors.

"It is intended to have the Central association directorate consist of forty-six directors, fifteen to be elected by the directors of the fifteen districts, voting as individuals; fifteen to be elected by the districts voting by the amount of stock, nine to be elected by the thirty and to represent commercial and industrial interests, and the connected with banks, and the others to be ex-officio directors, the governors, two deputy governors, the secretaries of agriculture, the treasury and commerce and labor, and the comptroller of the currency.

"To provide elasticity of currency, it is planned to have the association take over the $700,000,000 of currency now out. In addition to the $700,000,000, it is to have the power to issue up to $1,200,000,000, with a tax of 1½ per cent paid to the government. The issue must be secured by not less than one-third gold and the other two-thirds by commercial paper, which is really the best security in the world. If we had had that plan of expansion in 1907, we could have taken care of a panic five times as great as that which occurred.

"The currency would contract by the fact that it could be sent in for redemption in gold when not needed and it could be issued when currency would be in demand.

"In regard to mobilization of reserves, the present law in regard to reserves is ridiculous. It is kept as closely as possible, but it cannot be kept faithfully. This association is to pay no interest on deposits, but deposits will count as reserve. Any banker can keep enough money on hand to take care of his ordinary business and send the rest to the central bank. It can be easily seen that the bank will be the strongest financial institution in the world. The Bank of England will be a mere bagatele beside it. The force it would have on the minds of the people would be tremendous. You don't want money when you know you can get it, but when you have a suspicion that you can't get your money you want it immediately.

"If a banker needed to draw on his reserves, he would send to the central bank and it would send, not money but its own notes, which would be legal tender. Its liabilities would not be increased, for the obligation would be on the notes instead of on the bank's deposit. Its required reserves would not be increased."

A Scattered Army.

Mr. Forgan compared the present banking system to a standing army scattered through the country and refusing to unite against a common enemy, or a fire protection system that provided for a bucket in each house. He continued:

"To supply liquidation of bank assets, the banks would be allowed to rediscount their commercial paper, maturing within twenty-eight days, originating thirty days previously and originating in commercial business for commercial transactions. If a bank should get into trouble, the branch association could guarantee its paper not complying with the time provision. Full provision is made for taking care of any good bank; all that is required is that the bank be good."

Mr. Forgan also explained the provision for bank acceptances of bills of exchange.

In regard to the fact that the bank would be so closely allied to the government, he said that every move would serve to allay fear. Four cabinet officers would be members of the board of directors; all earnings over 5 per cent would go to the government, and the government would stand back of its transactions.

"We will therefore have what other countries have, an institution so closely allied with the government that when it moves, it will be as if the government moved," he said. "It will be the fiscal agent of the government and its sole depository.

"Can we have it? It depends upon some questions. It was unfortunate that Senator Aldrich's name was attached to the first bill. I hold no brief for Senator Aldrich, but I think the prejudice against him has no more foundation than it would have against any Republican or his age and training. He is an old-fashioned Republican who stood for a tariff under which everybody got what he wanted if he could get it. He is one of the old guard."

Unreasoning Prejudice.

Mr. Forgan said that the prejudice against the bill on account of Senator Aldrich's connection with it is unreasoning. He said that the bill is really that of the monetary commission now and bears Senator Aldrich's name only because he was head of the commission and worked hard on it. Other men who have studied the question agree that the principle of Senator Aldrich's plan is right. He said the bill as ready to be introduced is subject to change; that any man who has a suggestion to offer will be given a hearing.

He urged the business men to study the question. It is a question for them. Bankers come through panics but the sufferers are the people who are thrown out of work and suffer hard times. The politicians must stand aside, he said, cease their efforts to get votes and allow a real reform to go through.

Curtis L. Mosher of Red Wing, secretary of the Citizens League of Minnesota, gave a short talk explaining the objects of the league. He said it is not committed to any man's plan, but is anxious to bring about needed reforms. He urged the business men to study the subject and to aid in the movement for the awakening of public sentiment that will bring legislation.

After Mr. Mosher's talk, Mr. Forgan was asked in regard to the domination of the system by a group of men or by one section of the country. His reply was somewhat heated in his denunciation of those who are urging that objection against the proposed reform. J. P. Morgan could do nothing with the control of the central bank, if he could get it, and he couldn't get it, for he couldn't even hold a share of stock or make a loan from it, it only being allowed to do business with its banks.

"Nobody could get control, and if they got control, it wouldn't do them any good," was his positive answer.

Negro Gets $300 Damages Against Northwestern Company.

Chicago, Jan. 24.—Harry Foster Dean, a negro, got a judgment of $300 against the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad company in municipal court here for damages because he was not permitted to ride in an elevator in the company's station. Dean told the court he was an African explorer who had preceded Theodore Roosevelt through Uganda forests, but the court interrupted, saying his African exploits bore no relevancy to the case.

WITH the assurance that Young Miller, the world's champion, is going to meet our Sailor Jack in a finish contest, a world's championship contest, there is an interest in the big match that has not been shown in any prospective match that has been carded for the Northwest. While the definite date is hanging fire, it can be said that what promises to be the greatest contest ever pulled off in this part of the country, will come during the latter part of the present month or the first part of March. Walter Miller, a Pole by birth, came to the Head of the Lakes several years ago to earn a living working on the ore docks. At that time the St. Paul wonder could hardly read or write the English language. From the Head of the Lakes Miller went to St. Paul. From meeting some of the stars of the wrestling game in handicap matches the little chap met Ed Adamson under one of the many aliases that the veteran of the mat has used. For two long hours Adamson gruelled Miller and put the youngster through every torture known to the mat game. Miller stuck and his name was made among the fans of St. Paul.

In age, weight and general physical proportions there is little to choose between the two lads. Both are young; both are in the very prime of life. Sailor Jack is wonderfully strong. His neck, back and shoulders are so abnormally strong that it is very difficult for an ordinary westler to make effective use of the common holds of wrestling. Miller is quick, working in and out like a cat, and withal is one of the cleverest little men in the wrestling game.

Miller believes that his cleverness and knowledge of the mat game will overcome the strength and endurance of the sailor. The local backers of the little marine say that he will be in the shape of his entire career; that his strength, endurance and general toughness will prove a problem to Miller, and that if the first fall is prolonged that Jack will wear Miller out.

Down in his heart the little St. Paul wrestler knows that he is going up against a tough game. He has hung out against this match for over two years. After Jack beat Matsuta, the Jap, on the coast, Miller knew that he might meet a tough one and refused to come until he was assured of a substantial figure for his services.

Sailor Jack has never trained like he is training at the present time. He has run miles on the big Auditorium rink and he has worked out days at the gymnasium at the fire hall. Capt. Massey has taken the little marine in charge and he will see to it that Jack is in the condition of his life when the two boys answer the call of the referee.

Two years is a long time to wait for an athletic event. For over two years the Sailor has been vainly knocking at the door of the championship house—for over two years the Duluth sport public, the public that loves a clean contest, has also been waiting for this match, but now every detail is decided but the date.

ONE more fighter failed to make convincingly good in his efforts to perform the next to impossible comeback feat. Harry Forbes has been dubbed the comeback kid. In a measure he did show something like his old time form. But the other night when he went against the champion of the world, the fighter, who is considered the greatest little champion of all time, Johnny Coulon, Forbes plainly showed that the old vitality and endurance was not there.

Time was—the old familiar statement—when Harry Forbes was a marvel of speed, strength and endurance. Right now he can go along and beat some of the lesser lights of his class—but he is no longer the champion. When that something goes out of a man it does seem that the most rigid training in the world cannot put him back in the old shape. Terry McGovern and Young Corbett would answer along this line, were the question put to them.

Jim Corbett came about the nearest to really coming back the night he went along for twenty-three rounds with Jim Jeffries at Coney Island. It was the marvelous cleverness of the rangy Californian that enabled him to make a showing that surprised those at the ringside and also the cafe people along Broadway—they expected to see James carried to his corner on a shutter long before the fifth round had been rung up.

It is awfully hard to come back. If you don't believe it, you can go and ask some of the more aged athletes who are at the present time in training at the Y. M. C. A.

KID REYNOLDS, the fast St. Paul lightweight, is working out daily with several of the best of the local fighters preparatory to doing some hard road work for his fight with Pal Brown. Pat Lanzer of Hurley is willing to stage the fight between Reynolds and Brown, and the only thing that is keeping the date of the bout from being announced is the hesitancy upon the part of Brown.

Whether the Hibbing boy does not care for any of Reynolds' game, or whether he is through with the fighting game in these parts, is not known. So far Promotor Lanzer has not been able to get the signature of the Hibbing boy. A year ago Reynolds tried to get on a fight with Brown and was unsuccessful in his efforts. Pal is getting to be a coy little thing.

NEW DRILL still clings to the idea of placing teams in the Twin Cities. Just the other day he was quoted as saying that the thing could be "did." It might be suggested that if we are to have any baseball around here during the coming season that it is high time that someone starts the preliminary work of organization.

BRYANT DEFEATS STEWART JOHNSON

Frank Bryant, the little speed marvel from Duluth, won another roller skating race in the land of the enemy, defeating Stewart Johnson of Negaunee, Mich., by over half a lap. The Johnson chap claims the Michigan iron range championship.

In the first lap of the race Johnson fell. Just to show the crowd that he was a good sport, Bryan agreed to skate the race over. Frankie gained a half a lap before the race had gone more than two laps and he kept that distance ahead of his opponent until the end of the race. The skating of the little Duluthian made a hit with the crowd.

Bryant goes to Ironwood where he is scheduled to have a series of races. By the time he returns to Duluth Bryant will have about all the championships that are running around loose in the old state of Michigan.

GOPHERS FAVOR SUMMER BALL

Delegate Paige Is Instructed to Vote for Amendment at Chicago.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 24. — The University of Minnesota's faculty council at a meeting last night adopted resolutions instructing Prof. James Paige, its delegate to the Big Eight conference which is to be held in Chicago next Friday, to vote for the amendment to the White resolution which will permit the playing of summer baseball by college athletes and the scholarship standard of eligibility only. Prof. Paige was given full power of legislation for the university at the conference meeting with the exception of withdrawing Minnesota from the Big Eight.

According to Prof. G. E. Lee of the university, if the conference refuses to adopt a modification of the present summer baseball rule, whether Minnesota will withdraw from the committee, will be decided in the faculty council and will then be submitted to the board of regents for approval.

Denning Beats Gibbons.

KARL LEHTO CHALLENGES BEELL

FREDDY BEELL.

Claiming that he is heavier and stronger than ever before in his life, Karl Lehto, through his manager, has issued a challenge to Fred Beell, the little Wisconsin Demon. Lehto asks that a finish match be arranged between the two men and that the contest be held in Duluth at an early date. Lehto is now in the East. A week ago he won a decisive victory over the Mysterious Conductor of Chicago. The former Duluth wrestler has been working for three months with Ella Vincent, the famous Cuban heavyweight. He weighs 195 pounds.

JEFFERSONS HOLD FEAST

First Annual Banquet of East End Athletic Club Is Success.

Dr. J. A. McCuen and A. P. Cook Are Principal Speakers of Evening.

If the first annual banquet of the Jefferson Athletic club, held last evening at the St. Louis hotel, is a criterion from which to judge of the enthusiasm of the organization, its numerical strength and the harmony among its members, there need be no doubt that the infant East end organization is destined to be one of the most progressive athletic organizations in the Northwest.

More than seventy members of the club and the friends of the club sat down to a banquet. In every sense of the word it was an unqualified success. It reflected credit upon the officials of the organization and showed clearly the spirit in the young organization, that in less than a year has come to be looked upon as one of the strongest of the local clubs.

Walter Gonska acted as toastmaster and introduced as the first speaker of the evening the most prominent member of the organization, Dr. J. A. McCuen. The ovation that was tendered the genial doctor upon his rising left no doubt of the place he holds in the hearts of the Jefferson members.

Briefly Dr. McCuen outlined the history of athletics in the American nation, tracing athletic proclivities down from the aborigines. Thus he attempted to show that America is today a nation of athletes, has for centuries been the home of athletic games and pastimes, and that primarily Americans are addicted to athletic accomplishments as part of their national life. In fact, the doctor stated that athletics are a trait of Americanism.

The speaker warned his fellow club members that fair play was the foundation of athletic success; the solid rock that permanent success was builded upon. Winning by flukes, by underhand practices, by tricks that are beneath the pale of honesty and fairness, Dr. McCuen decried and denounced as something that had never been a characteristic of American athletics.

"The greatest prize is not in winning," said the doctor, "if you do not win right. I would rather lose a game with the knowledge that I had lost fairly and in a manly way than to win the discomforting knowledge that I had taken an unfair advantage—that I had stooped to some mean subterfuge."

A. P. Cook Speaks.

Postmaster A. P. Cook, also one of the boosters for the success of the new club, followed Dr. McCuen and gave a fine talk. He stated that when the first settler came to Duluth he looked with wondering eye upon the vast primitive advantages that lay beneath the broad sweep of his vision. He agreed instantly to remain.

"The speaker urged the young men of the city to stay here, to help by their influence to make the city one that is proud of them and one they are proud to speak of as their home.

"An athletic organization should be made of the best material,' said Mr. Cook. "Integrity and honesty should be the dominant qualities of its members. To endure, to progress, to expand to meet the full purpose of its organization, there must be harmony, unity of purpose and the discipline of organization. But the fair play spirit and the character of its members are the highest asset of any athletic organization."

Rex Wind, the sport chef of the morning paper, told several funny stories and told of the trials of being a bachelor pro tem. He also said that the Jeffersons were the real goods and were on the right track. Great applause followed the speech.

Carl Zuck, president of the club, told of the growth of the club and of its hopes for the future. He stated that the club might secure permanent quarters in the near future and asked the members to work toward the success of the club, which had made a wonderful start in the first few months of its organization.

Ray Johns spoke of the possibility and the probability of the organization of an amateur athletic union for the regulation and control of amateur sports at the Head of the Lakes. The idea was received with enthusiasm.

Josie Krick, captain of the Jefferson indoor baseball team, told of his hopes for the success of the nine and said that the Jeffersons had some great material.

YALE OARSMEN WILL USE TANK

Under New Coach Old Eli Will Return to Former System.

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 24.—One of the most interesting rowing notes of the coming varsity season is the announcement that the Yale oarsmen, under the coaching of James O. Rogers, will resume the use of an indoor tank during the preliminary training season. Some years ago the gymnasium was equipped with two rowing tanks. In the center of these tanks a regular eight-oared shell was anchored. It was the idea of the coaches that the oarsmen thus got almost as good practice, particularly in the early part of the season, as they would get on the water.

Kennedy Installs Machine.

These tanks were in use for some time after Robert J. Cook, Yale's veteran oarsman, retired. When Coach John Kennedy took charge of rowing he did not favor the tank, although he used it for two or three years. He eventually gave it up and announced it as his opinion that it was not a satisfactory method of training young oarsmen. He claimed it was too heavy a drag to even approximate the work on the open water of the harbor. In place he substituted rowing machines, and for the last four or five years of his regime at Yale these were used at the boat house and in the gymnasium.

Returns to Tank System.

When James O. Rogers, the former varsity oarsman, was chosen head coach in place of Kennedy he advocated a return to the rowing tank. He was not a believer in the rowing machine. The former tanks, having fallen into disuse, were converted into squash courts and all the plumbing removed. It was impossible to use them, so the old swimming pool is now being remodeled into a rowing tank for the use of the oarsmen. It will require a short time to put it in proper shape for the crew candidates, but when finished it will probably be one of the most complete in the country.

Syracuse and Harvard Have Tanks.

The other Eastern universities using a tank for rowing practice at this time are Syracuse and Harvard. Syracuse has what is considered to be the finest rowing tank in the world, consisting, as it does, of a large pool in which is placed a racing shell moored at either end. The water is propeller-driven by gasoline engines, which gives the effect of a river current and there are various attachments which register both the speed and the strength of each stroke. The tank used by the Harvard oarsmen in connection with the Newell boathouse is not as elaborate as that at Syracuse. Pennsylvania and Columbia do their indoor training on the rowing machines, since both Coaches Rice and Ward advocate this method in preference to indoor water practice.

ENDIONS ARE WINNERS.

Nationals Are Defeated 4 to 2 in Fast Hockey Contest.

Last evening at the French rink the Endions defeated the Nationals at hockey, by the score of 4 to 2. The game was perhaps the most exciting played at the rink the present season, and was witnessed by a crowd that filled the rink.

The score was even up at the end of the first quarter. The score also remained even at the end of the first half. Curley Harris shot a goal near the beginning of the second half. During the remainder of this period neither team could score, the play being fast, the team work clever and some exceptionally clean puck handling being shown.

Wood scored the final goal in the last half. The Nationals kept bringing the puck down the ice, in a vain attempt to win out, but encountered a stiff defense.

Johnson May Wrestle.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Jan. 24.—F. E. Shefski, formerly sporting editor of a local newspaper, announced that he had secured the backing of a wealthy mining man of Salt Lake City to stage a finish wrestling bout between Jack Johnson and Frank Gotch. Shefski has not received formal answers accepting his proposition and has not selected a date for the contest, but if articles are signed the match will probably be decided about May 1.

Attell Begins Training.

Chicago, Jan. 24.—Abe Attell, featherweight champion of the world, left Chicago last night for Los Angeles to begin training for his fight with Tommy Kilbane of Cleveland, which will be on Feb. 22. They will box twenty rounds.

Will Play in Japan.

Washington, Jan. 24.—An army baseball team consisting of an officer and nine enlisted men was given permission to visit Japan by chief of staff, General Leonard Wood. The team will play a return engagement with the University of Tokio team which played the army in the Phillippines during the Japanese team's recent tour. The emperor of Japan has not yet issued formal permission for the United States soldiers to enter Japan, but it is not expected that any difficulty in that direction will arise.

BALL GAMES PLAYED BY LIGHT OF MIDNIGHT

In Alaska They Seldom Call Games on Account of Darkness---Vast Fortunes Wagered on Contests.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 24.—Traveling 1,000 miles for a short series of games, playing them by the light of the midnight sun and under the pressure of $30,000 or $40,000 in wagers on each contest, is the proposition that faces the Fairbanks and Dawson City baseball teams every summer.

Dan Blaine, a deputy marshal in Fairbanks, Alaska, is in Detroit and he gives interesting details on the national game as it is played in that borderland of humanity. Blaine has been a resident of Alaska for several years, and while he is hot familiar with American and National league teams, he is quite confident that there are outfits in his chosen country that could give Detroit or Philadelphia or New York or Chicago a brush for the honors.

"Our baseball teams are fast and they play the game," says Blaine. "I have been in that region for eight or ten years and prior to going was very well acquainted with the strength of the league in this country. While I do not believe our teams could defeat American or National league clubs, still I am sure they could make a respectable showing.

"The Guggenheim team in Alaska is comprised of young college men, and the majority of the players were stars on the college diamond. They can defeat any picked team of Alaska and though acknowledged the class of the territory, they do not play as important games as the Fairbanks and Dawson City teams.

"Fairbanks and Dawson City always meet at midnight on June 21. The game usually begins at 11:30 and sometimes is continued until well into the morning. Fairbanks is in American territory and Dawson City is in Canadian. Naturally, then, there is great rivalry between the representative towns. The players on both nines are Americans, mostly, but they fight to the last ditch for their respective cities.

"Leroy Tozier, who will probably be the next delegate in congress from Alaska, is captain of the Fairbanks team, while Jack Ellbeck leads the Dawson City team. Off the field there is the greatest friendship between the players, but on the diamond they forget their relations completely.

"Fairbanks has a population of a few thousand, yet at the baseball games there is always an attendance of 4,000 and 5,000. Miners from the country round come in to the contests, and you can get any kind of a bet you want.

Crowds Are Orderly.

"Because there is betting, it doesn't mean that deportment is lacking. I dare say the games are better regulated than the games in the American or National league cities. It is an expensive proposition for a man to be heard swearing at them. He is sure to be arrested, and a conviction means a fine of $50.

"To the uninitiated, playing baseball at midnight is odd, to say the least. There is, of course, the light of midday, but the novelty of it never wears off. You look at your watch and think—well, back in the states all is in darkness now, and the righteous are sleeping, and we are watching a game of baseball that for intensity eclipses even the struggles for the world's pennant.

"You can get any kind of a bet you want. When it comes to putting down money the Americans have nothing on their rival Canadians and there is no dilly-dallying over putting up the stakes. The banks always prepare for the games, and if you don't happen to have your money in them, a pouch is just as handy and just as safe.

"I have seen roughly-dressed miners—fellows you wouldn't trust in an alley—hang their pouches over a post in the grand stand, and then would leave them there until the game was over, and the winner would collect.

"A bet in Alaska is a bet, and a man who wouldn't pay one becomes an outcast.

"The Americans have been fortunate during the past two years. They have won the two series, and considerably more than $150,000 of Dawson City money went to the bank at Fairbanks after each series. And the best part of it is there are no sore spots in the losers.

"I saw a fellow bet $5,000 on the Dawson City team in the summer of 1910, and when the series was finished, he smiled, slapped his empty pouch and vowed he would get it back in 1911. He didn't but last summer he was just as cheerful, and he is now waiting for the 1912 series.

"In either Fairbanks or Dawson City, after a game, a stranger's money isn't good. Everything is free to them, and for glorious and innocent joy you have to go to Alaska.

"The country isn't anything like it was eight or ten years ago. Then shooting matches were of daily occurrences, and the authorities didn't seem to have control. But now everyone respects the law, and an unaccompanied woman can go to a baseball game or to any other event with the same assurance of protection that she could were she in the best policed city in the United States."

DETECTIVES RAID GYM

Three Hundred Spectators Had Gathered for Their Regular Daily Exercise.

Chicago, Jan. 24.—Detectives raided a gymnasium conducted by Billy O'Connell, a former pugilist, and arrested O'Connell and two boxers who were charged with "prize fighting."

Nearly 300 spectators were crowded around the ring when the raid was made. Admission tickets entitling the holders to "one day's exercise in the gymnasium,' were sold for 25 cents each, according to the detectives. The boxers gave their names as Tommy Carey and Young Ketchel.

O'Connell has conducted a gymnasium, used by boxers as their training quarters, in the heart of Chicago's business district for years. Police claim the contests were "prize fights" for the reason that an admission fee was charged to witness them.

GATES WINS THE INTERNATIONAL

Gates won the final of the International event at the Duluth Curling rink last evening, defeating Dr. Catterson's rink by the score of 13 to 6. This marks the second winning of this event by the Superior skip. Elmer Whyte skipped the Duluth rink and found for final shots a bad combination to go against.

OARSMEN WIN FROM CLIFFORDS

Last night on the association floor and before the largest crowd that ever witnessed a basket ball game at the Head of the Lakes, the Duluth Boat club quint defeated the Cliffords by the score of 42 to 16. Even though the game was one sided it proved interesting and the big crowd remained until the end.

Roy Johnson, the old high school football and basket ball star, led in the scoring for the Boat club team. He scored ten baskets and in addition to his basket shooting played a great game in floor covering on the defense. Boerner scored six baskets and also played a fine game.

With the cup in possession of the D. B. C. quint, challenge games will be played during the remainder of the season. The strong quint of Proctor is next on the program and will meet the Boat club aggregation next Saturday evening.

DULUTH BEGINS GREATEST RATE FIGHT IN ITS HISTORY

"Break Lake and Rail Rates Here," Is City's Slogan.

Head of Lakes Has Been Moved Inland By Railroads.

The breaking of lake and rail rates at lake ports is the result for which Duluth contends in the lake and rail rate case, the hearing of which opened this afternoon before Commissioner James S. Harlan of the interstate commerce commission.

In his opening statement of the case, Francis W. Sullivan, attorney for the traffic commission of the Duluth Commercial club, outlined the discriminations and preferences complained of and contended that the breaking of lake and rail rates at the ports would end all opportunity for discrimination.

The extension of lake and rail rates inland has created a condition that exists nowhere else in the United States, he said. The Head of the Lake navigation, where rail and water meets, has been interfered with by cities where railroad presidents meet. The keenest water competition in the United States is at the Twin Cities where there is comparatively little water.

The hearing of what is one of the greatest rate cases now pending before the commission opened at 2 o'clock this afternoon in the commissioner's room at the St. Louis county courthouse. There is an array of counsel forces for the legal battle such as is seldom seen in Duluth. Not only the Duluth Traffic commission and the defendant railroads and boat lines are represented, but St. Paul, Minneapolis Chicago, Sioux City, Owatonna, Mankato, Rochester, Austin and other Minnesota points have retained legal counsel to represent them on the firing line.

Some Legal Talent.

The railroads east of Duluth are represented by Attorney Ballard of the New York Central and Hudson river lines. Henry C. Barlow of the Chicago Association of Commerce is in attendance and he filed an appearance for George T. Hell representing the traffic commission of the Sioux City Commercial club. John I. Dille and George T. Simpson are the attorneys for the Minneapolis Traffic association and T. A. McGrath, assistant traffic commissioner, is also in attendance. David F. Peebles of St. Paul appears for Owatonna, Mankato, Rochester and Austin. Pierce Butler of St. Paul, attorney for the St. Paul Association of Commerce was unable to be present and that body is represented by Mr. Dille and Mr. Simpson. J. D. Armstrong of the Great Northern, Emerson Hadley of the Northern Pacific, A. H. Bright of the Soo line and other Western railroad attorneys are present. In all about fifty attorneys and traffic men are in attendance, and at the opening this afternoon many Duluth jobbers and business men were in the spectators' seats.

Mr. Sullivan stated the case briefly in opening. He pointed out that Duluth attacks the rates to Duluth and to Lake Michigan ports in and of themselves, the contention being that with the monopolization of lake lines by Eastern railroads, transportation on the lakes was made more expensive, while other forms of transportation were decreasing in cost. He said the railroads evidently fix lake rates on a basis that will keep traffic on the all-rail lines, and the difference between lake rates and rail rates is not great enough.

He said the history of the rate-making on the lakes and on land in the territory affected by the case will be gone into in the progress of the case, and that the manner in which discriminations and preferences arose will be shown. He said the evils of the storage system would be presented more clearly than in the case once brought by Duluth against the Northern Pacific railroad, and that the whole subject would again be presented to the commission, taking in the matter of free storage at Lake Michigan ports, which was not included in the former action.

"Duluth feels she has a great future due to natural advantages, but the natural advantages have been removed 152 miles inland, deliberately, apparently," he said.

The case not only involves discrimination against Duluth by lake and rail rates to the Twin Cities, but discrimination of other inland distributing centers similarly situated as the Twin Cities, with respect to the head of navigation.

G. Roy Hall, traffic commissioner of the Duluth Commercial club, was the first witness called on behalf of the complainant, and he will lay the foundation for the case.

TELLS ABOUT TIMBER DEAL

Oshkosh Man Testifies at Inquiry Into White Earth Affairs.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—That he purchased $19,000 worth of timber lands of the White Earth reservation at the first day of the sale at Crookston in 1900 and on the second day turned them over to Hovey C. Clarke, said then to have been with the Nichols-Chisholm Lumber company, for $24,000, was the testimony of Luther Davies, a lumberman of Oshkosh, Wis., in the congressional investigation here today of the charges of fraud in the sale of Indian lands.

Mr. Davies denied that he quit bidding on the second day because of an agreement with Mr. Clark, but declared he did so because the lands of whose value he knew already had already been sold.

Mr. Davies testified that although the land was turned over to Mr. Clark the second day of the sale by quit-claim, the legal transfer was not made until three years afterward.

Mr. Clark now is a member of the Shevlin Lumber company.

John Lynch, formerly of White Earth, but now of Minneapolis, declared that he had heard rumors that there was a combine in bidding on the timber lands, but said he had no definite knowledge of one. He said, however, that while the government estimated the value of the land at approximately $78,000,000, cruisers of the H. C. Akeley Lumber company had valued the lands at $120,000,000.

Collusion Alleged.

Evidence intended to show that there was collusion between lumber companies in the bidding for timber land of the White Earth Indian reservation at the sale which was held at Crookston, Nov. 27 and 28, 1900, was introduced yesterday, and maps, abstracts and witnesses were introduced by M. C. Burch, who has charge of the investigation to bring out his claim that the Indians had been defrauded.

Albert A. White of St. Paul, one of the witnesses, declared that one time during the bidding at Crookston he became angry at the manner in which the sale was being prolonged, and stated that he "noticed that the large lumbermen did not bid against each other."

Maps of the land in question were exhibited to show the relative locations of various lumber companies' holdings. Names of two companies, the Wild Rice and the Nicholas Chisholm, were brought into the hearing.

C. W. Smith and A. M. Secal, special assistants to the attorney general, also gave evidence concerning abstracts declaring that while patents were issued in 1903, in many cases records were not entered until 1909.

ASK PARDON FOR McALPINE

Two Harbors Men Make Direct Appeal to the Governor.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 24.—(Special to The Herald.)—Headed by N. F. Hugo of Duluth and Dr. Budd of Two Harbors, a delegation of business men from Two Harbors called on the governor today and urged the pardon of Peter McAlpine, convicted of embezzling city funds two months ago and sentenced under the indeterminate plan for a term up to five years. The delegation asked the governor to cause either the unconditional pardon of the man or a commutation of sentence or parole. The matter also will be taken up with the state board of parole. McAlpine has made good his shortage, and the case is said to be one of a "good fellow" gone wrong.

Canadian Northern to Ship No More Grain to Port Arthur.

Winnipeg, Man., Jan. 24.—George H. Shaw, general traffic manager of the Canadian Northern railway, has issued an order directing that, until further notice, no bulk grain will be shipped from Western Canadian points to the terminals at Port Arthur, but will be sent to Duluth over its Fort Frances-Virginia line. This is a precautionary measure to prevent a congestion in the Port Arthur elevators. Ample storage facilities have been provided at Duluth for the immense amount of grain to be moved in the next few months.

SAYS CAPITAL HIRED McMANIGAL

Kentuckian Makes Charge in Mine Workers' Meeting.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 24.—"To keep the Ortie McManigals employed by the capitalists from destroying the miners' union," R. M. Roll of Henderson, Ky., offered in the United Mine Workers' convention an amendment to the constitution providing that no man should be eligible to office in the national union less he had been at work in or around a coal mine five years, and been a member of the organization three years. The amendment was adopted amid cheers.

"The capitalists employed McManigal to destroy the Structural Iron Workers' union, and a man as shrewd might get to the head of the miners' union for the same purpose," said Roll.

Enemies of John Mitchell in the convention failed in an effort to put the organization on record as censuring Mitchell for his attitude toward the National Civic Federation. He obtained the passage of the resolution providing for an investigation of his charge that the miners' convention last year at Columbus, Ohio, was "packed" against him when it demanded his resignation as a paid official of the civic federation.

WOMAN'S REALM.

At a pretty wedding ceremony this morning at the Cathedral of the Sacred Heart, Miss Emilie Irene Reau, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Reau, became the bride of Edward Augustine McConville of St. Paul. Rev. P. J. Lydon read the service at 7 o'clock in the presence of a number of guests.

The bride was effectively gowned in a beautiful creation of white satin with an over dress of lace garnished with pearl trimmings. A pretty ornament of white satin and pearls covered her dark hair and she carried a bouquet of bridal roses.

Miss Nell Reau, a sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a charming gown of pink satin with lace trimmings and carried Killarney roses.

Mr. McConville was attended by his brother, Arthur J. McConville of Akeley, Minn., as best man.

The church was prettily decorated in pink and white, roses and lilies being prettily arranged. The Girls' Sodality of the cathedral, of which the bride has been a member, arranged the decorations.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents, 529 Fourth avenue east. The decorations in the dining room were of green and white, roses and ferns being artistically arranged in the appointments of the table. Covers were laid for twelve at the breakfast.

In the living room, red and white roses in fragrant clusters added their beauty to the scene.

The bride is a graduate of the Duluth Central high school and the Duluth state normal school and has been a teacher in the Monroe school for the past few years until last June.

Miss Gertrude De Noble of Virginia, Minn., and Arthur McConville of Akeley, Minn., were the only out-of-town guests.

Mr. and Mrs. McConville left this afternoon at 1:55 for a wedding trip and will be at home in St. Paul after March 1.

"POP" PLEASES LARGE AUDIENCE

Two Novelty acts, singing by the Adams Glee club, some excellent exhibition work on the parallel bars, a hard, fast game of basket ball and music by a student orchestra from Flaaten's school entertained a record-breaking crowd last night at the Y. M. C. A. "annual vaudeville" pop. Stanley Lamb furnished the first of the novelty acts, with some songs and some odd tricks with neckties. His work in other lines has been seen at the pops before, and he was given an enthusiastic encore.

The second novelty was one of the first of its kind ever given at the pops. It was a clever bit of vaudeville, written by W. C. Getty. It contained many local hits that were keenly appreciated by the audience. It was presented by a little company from The Herald office. Miss Catherine Morton played the accompaniment for the "Flirtation."

The parallel bar work was done by a quartet led by A. F. Olson, assistant physical director of the Y. M. C. A. The others in the act were H. A. Anderson, E. B. Mapp and L. Manske. Two numbers were sung by the Adams Glee club and both were heartily encored, and an encore was won by the Flaaten students.

The basket ball game between the Duluth Boat club and Clifford fives was a decisive victory for the boat club men, the final score being 42 to 16. The first half was a good deal of a slaughter, the score at the end of the period being 25 to 5, but in the second half the Cliffords made a stronger showing. The victory gives the boat club team the Northern Hardware trophy. The line-up was: Boat club—Johnson and Boerner, forwards; Paddock, center; Solheim and Lathrop, guards. Cliffords—Helmer, Neff and P. Moore, forwards; Beschenbossel, center; Naslund, Stevens and J. Moore, guards.

Next week's pop will be under the direction of the Duluth Mandolin club, and the following week will occur the next symphony concert.

THE HOUSEHOLD

A Cheap Footstool.

Have you ever tried making a footstool out of newspapers? If not, the experiment is worth a trial.

Take about fifty daily papers—or more, according to the height of the stool required; fold them twice and tie them closely together with string. Cover this bundle with carpeting, folding it the same way as though wrapping a package in paper, and sew the edges neatly. Cover the bottom with a piece of oil cloth to permit the stool being shoved easily over the carpet.

Furniture Polishing.

The Italian methtod of polishing mahogany is to clean and cover the surface with pure olive oil. They then melt gum arabic in spirits of wine, and use this as a polish. Quite a good thing for removing marks from furniture is a smooth cork moistened with paraffin. White wax is valuable for wood which is required to be kept a light shade. In order to preserve the original luster of furniture, it should be rubbed every day very briskly with a leather or an old felt hat—a fine polisher, by the way.

THE EVENING STORY

A MAN OF BUSINESS

By Thomas Krafton.

"A footballer!" Daniel Burns almost dropped the cup he was raising to his lips as he stared, utterly dumfounded, across the breakfast table at his daughter. Molly Burns met the gaze unflinchingly.

"He's well paid for it," she said, "and—and he's got a good business, too."

"Business! Tch-ah!" her father burst out. "A footballer—a professional footballer. Molly, I'm ashamed of ye. I—" He paused, rose from the table, and stood for a moment regarding the girl; then energetically. "But we'll talk no more about it. 'Tis quite impossible, as you well know. Never let me hear you mention such a subject again."

"But, dad—"

"I'm surprised at ye, Molly. Ashamed! To think that a daughter o' mine should dream of such a thing—a professional footballer!"

And, angry but dignified, Dan'l Burns left the room and went to the shop. For he was a business man, as he himself would have given you to understand. True, his business was rather a mixed one; you could buy drapery, or soap, or patent medicines at the one counter, while at the little side counter you could obtain oil, a tin of paint, blacking, turpentine and sundry other household necessities.

Yet Daniel Burns was proud of the business, and years ago it had 'n reality been quite a paying concern. Everybody in the village of Derricksburn had patronized it. But that was before the trolley had run from Stanboro', the big manufacturing town two or three miles away. Now, if Dan'l had been true with himself, he would have admitted that it barely paid to keep the shop open. Still, he was the only storekeeper of his kind in the district.

There was one thing Dan'l couldn't abide—people who wasted their Saturday afternoons on football. They were anathema to him. Stanboro' had a famous team and enthusiasts abounded in Rerricksburn. They would come even to Dan'l's store and speak of the prospect for the next Saturday's match. But they only spoke of it once.

From this you will easily understand his astonishment, his horror, when Molly, the pride of her father's eye, his only child, the center of his hopes, told him, in a most careful manner at breakfast that she was keeping company with Frank Heberden. Even old Dan'l knew who Heberden was—Stanboro's left fullback, captain for three years of the team, and a man who had five international caps to his credit. A professional footballer! And for six months Molly, unknown to her father, had been meeting him of nights at the house of a friend; had been for walks with him; nay, had even confessed that she had on two or three occasions sat on the grandstand at the game and watched him play. It made Dan'l sick with mortification.

Nothing more was said that day. Molly went about the house seemingly resigned to her lot. Her father had spoken, and his word hitherto had been law. Her father knew that. At night Molly went out for a short time, and it was while she was away that there stepped into the shop a new customer. A big, upstanding man he was, youngish looking, clean shaven, and he strode into the place with the manner of one who owns the universe.

"Good evening. You'll be Dan'l Burns, I'm thinking?" And the stranger held out his hand. "Dare say you know me, too. Heberden's my name—Frank Heberden. Perhaps Molly will have mentioned it. I'd like a word or two in private with you—and Molly, if she's about. Ah."

The last exclamation came abruptly, for Dan'l had, in quite a dramatic way, drawn himself up stiffly; had deliberately scorned the proffered hand. "Perhaps Miss Burns did mention your name to me," he said. "But I'd have you to understand that I've no desire to make further acquaintance with you. I'm a man of business, Mr. Heberden, and believe in plain speaking. Neither my daughter nor me wish to be acquainted with a footballer—a professional footballer. We're respectable folk, Mr. Heberden. Good-night!"

"But"—Heberden's healthy face had taken on a deeper glow—"I'm a business man myself, Mr. Burns; and as for my footballing—well, that's what helps my business. I've got one of the best athletic outfitting shops in this country: four assist—"

"A man can't be a business man and a footballer," Mr. Burns remarked, quietly and with dignity. "Good night Mr. Heberden! I'll be closing the shop now."

Heberden turned, and went to the door. It was plain he had not anticipated this reception, and his pride had been touched. As he opened the narrow little door, however, he could not refrain from a parting shot. "Oh, very well—very well," he said. "I'll be showing you, perhaps, what kind of a businessman I am. Good night Mr. Burns. And just take a look some time at my place. You wouldn't call this a shop if you'd seen my establishment. This is only a marine-store, man!" And with that unkind cut at the man he hoped to have for father-in-law Heberden passed out. On the opposite side of the street was Molly waiting for him.

It was just about as much as Mr Burns could do to make his shop pay and he had very little capital to back him up, his trade lay chiefly among the poorer people of the village—folks who bought small quantities. When first the new store appeared over the way Daniel smiled. Certainly a lot of paint had been spent on making it bright, and the big sign, "Walbrook & Co." looked more imposing than the almost undecipherable "Daniel Burns" over his own place. Walbrook & Co. were also dealers in many things, and they proclaimed the fact by hand bills distributed throughout the village. Moreover, they gave samples away—free! As much, in some cases, as you could get at Burns's for 5 cents.

They invited every housewife in the place to visit them, and thus save money. One by one the inhabitants called. The children preferred, when their mothers sent them for soap, to go to Walbrook's. Frequently Mr. Willey—for that was the gentleman's name—gave them candy.

A month went by—six weeks; Daniel Burns somehow had grown older in that time. But as yet he had said nothing to his daughter. Somehow she had not invited his confidence. It seemed to him that she had no manner of doubt he could withstand all competition, and he could not bring himself to lower his pride by confessing that bankruptcy and ruin were perilously near them.

He left her in charge of the store one afternoon and, arrayed in his best suit, set out bravely; came back defeated, broken. That night he told her.

"I didn't tell you, Molly, but this afternoon I went to see John Fairelough.

"John Fairelough?" Molly echoed in surprise.

"Yes, Molly. And I asked him to lend me $500. He always claimed to be a friend of mine. But he said it wasn't safe."

Molly looked at him; but Daniel was staring at the floor, so that he never noticed how she blinked her eyes and forced back the tears.

"You may as well know all," he blurted out. "We're ruined. I—I could not stand up against Walbrook's with their new fangled ways. I'm bankrupt." Molly came over to him, then knelt by his side.

"Is there no way out, dad? Can't you fight them?" He shook his head. "Then, dad, let me help you. Shall I find someone to put things straight? Suppose Walbrook's closed, or you bought them out?"

"Molly—Molly! Buy them out? And they won't close. They've beaten me."

"Not yet, dad. You wait." And before he quite realized it she had left him. Molly was away some little time. When at last she returned she came in gently, then turned to someone outside. "Come in, Frank!"

Mr. Burns looked up. With Molly was a tall, well-set man, wearing a light overcoat. "Good evening, Mr Burns!" he said somewhat apologetically. "I was just having a bit of a turn at the lads' club when Molly came, so excuse the dress."

"Molly asked you? What for, Mr. Heberden?" Heberden took a deep breath. Then he sat down on the chair Molly had pushed forward. "It's purely a matter of business, Mr. Burns," he said slowly. "You see, I've got a big place in Stanboro' but I can't extend. So I've been looking round for some other trade to put money in. And I found it."

"Well?" Daniel could not yet see the object of the visit.

"I'm a business man, Mr. Burns, and sentiment doesn't pay in business. But I don't want to rob any man of his living. That's why I have come to talk to you. Walbrook's—you know Walbrook & Co. across the way? I thought so. I'm Walbrook & Co."

"Eh?" Daniel started.

"So I've come with a business proposition, Mr. Burns." Heberden handed him a paper. "You'll find it all plain there, I think. There's room for both Walbrook and Burns in Derricksburn, if they're run on business lines. I've thought it all out. Look at it, Mr. Burns." Daniel took the paper. For five minutes he read every word, written in Heberden's bold hand, slowly and carefully.

"Ay," he said at last, "it's a scheme—businesslike scheme. But what's this condition?"

"Just this." And Heberden now spoke quickly; "We want it to be a family concern, Mr. Burns. I'll find the capital, but I'm a business man, and I want a partner for my other place. And I'm building a house out here—I want someone to look after it. Do you agree to Molly coming in as my partner?" He waited, and presently old Daniel murmured: "Very well—very well. It's a businesslike thing for a young man—and I daresay it's only reasonable."

"A change would do you good," said Frank the following Saturday morning. "Tell you what, Mr. Burns. Come and see how your partner shapes on the football field. It'll be a great game today against the Sparrows."

"I dare say—I dare say," Daniel said, and then paused suddenly. "I've never been to a football game, but I'll come, Frank."

Christian Register: Said an English clergyman: "Patriotism is the backbone of the British empire; and what we have to do is to train that backbone and bring it to the front."

MEMOIRS FAIL TO CAUSE SENSATION

PRINCESS OF TUSCANY.

The memoirs of Princess Louise of Saxony have not created the sensation that was expected. In fact, the ex-queen, who is now known as the princess of Tuscany, had let out most of the scandals of her court experience before this book was published. It is reported that she is permanently separated from her third husband, Toselli, and will soon divorce him.

MRS. E. T. STOTESBURY.

Edward T. Stotesbury, a Philadelphia banker and associate of J. P. Morgan, was married at Washington, Jan. 18, to Mrs. Oliver Cromwell. Mrs. Cromwell's first husband was a conspicuous member of the New York Yacht club. Mrs. Stotesbury received an extraordinary number of wedding presents, their value being all together, not less than $5,000,000. Mr. Morgan sent a necklace of diamonds, a large diamond as a pendant.

Helping a Bashful Lover

By ALVA ARMSTRONG.

She must be just sensible and natural, although she may be called on for a time to act a part—any girl can do that if she but tries. Now, a girl sometimes gets the idea into her head that a bashful man—her lover, say—will never propose, and accordingly she makes up her mind to help him. All very well, but let her be careful, for the bashful man is so easily scared!

Let him suspect that a girl is goading him on towards a proposal under the impression that he will never propose if left to himself—then good-bye to the lover. He won't stand that sort of thing—he must be dealt with in a different way. A bashful man can be easily led along that treacherous road that leads towards a proposal, but he cannot be driven along it—he has to be taken in hand tactfully, and he must be made to think that he is going all the way himself, and actually leading the girl. Obviously, to manage this successfully requires skill and a considerable amount of patience.

How to lead him along that road? Well, there are many methods, but it is wise to be sympathetic, and she must agree with him to a great extent. He must see that the girl considers him a superior person, and a grand specimen of mankind. Also, and this is rather important, the girl must, when out walking with him, take him by rather unfrequented roads for a time, gradually approaching more crowded thoroughfares. He has got to be made to mix with people—that knocks a lot of the bashfulness out of him. But—and observe this point—when the girl sees that a proposal is coming along, she must take great care to get the youth into the quietest corners, and so far as this goes, there is nothing to beat the open country.

He should never, however, be pressed to attend social gatherings.

That is the very thing that will make the bashful lover more frightened than ever. He will immediately think that he is asked to attend this or that function for the express purpose of seeing how he will conduct himself during the ordeal!

Nor will the bashful man stand one of the ordinary arts of the average girl—his sweetheart must never attempt to make him jealous. If she does she will lose him most certainly—he won't make a good fight for her; if she does not seem to desire his company, well she must get other society. He is the sort of man who must have all or nothing, and it is wisdom on a girl's part to give him all, for he really makes an excellent husband. He is not one of the men to spend his evenings away from home.

CLEANED.. ALONG THE POLICE RUN

Two little girls are being daily thrown into close contact with the scum of the underworld at the county jail of St. Louis county, renowned as one of the wealthiest counties of the world.

Last Monday afternoon Rosa Perhovidz and her two small daughters were brought down from the range by a deputy sheriff, who had arrested her on a warrant charging her with selling twenty-seven quarts of beer and one bottle of whisky without a license. She and the children were kept in the women's department of the city jail over night. Tuesday morning she was arraigned in police court. She pleaded not guilty. In default of $100 bail she was committed to the county jail to await her trial, which had been set for this morning.

From Tuesday until Thursday morning she was incarcerated in the women's part of the county jail, an institution which has been recommended for the bone yard many times in the last few years. She and the children were not the only prisoners. A look at some of the women who are now in that section of the bastile shows what class of prisoners the little girls must meet daily. In the front row are Nellie Blaine and May Fisher.

For years the notorious Blaine woman has been keeper of one of the most disreputable dives at the Head of the Lakes. She is serving a straight jail sentence of sixty days, imposed in police court Dec. 12, for selling liquor without a license. She was not given an opportunity to pay a fine because of her previous record.

For probably more years May Fisher has run dives of the same kind in different towns in Northern Minnesota and Wisconsin. She is being held pending trial for violating the state white slave act. She and another woman are the two who came to Duluth last fall and picked up five girls, whom they took to a house of ill repute at Cuyuna. The other woman, May Ross, is also among those whose names appear in the list. May Harris, self-confessed violator of the white slave statute, is another. Into this same compartment are also placed the colored women from St. Croix alley and from Railroad street who are sent up for various offenses.

In the same room with these persons Rosa Perhovidz and her two little girls spent the time between Tuesday afternoon and Thursday morning. The little girls are innocent little tots of about 5 and 6 years. They cannot help but come into contact with these women, the dregs from across the dead line, locked up in the same big room with them night and day.

But that's where they and their mother were sent. They were sent from the Duluth police court and should she be convicted and sentenced and be unable to pay a fine, she will be sent to serve her time in the very same place.

The court calendar was crowded this morning and her case was set over until this afternoon for trial.

Myrtle Hanson, the girl who was arrested yesterday morning for trespassing at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jake De Smidt of 513 Eighth avenue east, was found guilty in police court yesterday afternoon. Just before court adjourned for the day she was called to the bench by Judge Cutting and upon her promise not to bother the De Smidt family again she was given a suspended sentence. The girl said that her only reason for going to the De Smidt home at 1 o'clock last Sunday morning was to tell Mr. De Smidt not to write to her at her home. She explained that she had been told that De Smidt was going away early Sunday, and that she feared that if any letters came to her at her home address from him it would cause her a great deal of trouble.

Charles Haven, who was tried yesterday afternoon on a charge of having killed deer unlawfully, was convicted by the jury which heard the case, a verdict of guilty being returned late yesterday.

This morning Haven was brought before Judge Windom, who imposed a fine of $100, with the alternative of sixty days in the county pall. It was stated this morning that Haven would be unable to pay his fine.

"To eat or not to eat," was the grave subject which occupied much attention at the meeting of the police relief association at headquarters yesterday afternoon. The momentous question arose when the advisability of having lunch served at the annual policemen's ball the night of Feb. 5 was brought up. The discussion grew heated and unsuspected oratorial powers were discovered in the most unbelievable places. But as in other democratic organizations, majority ruled. In this instance the "eat majority" was so overwhelming that the others were overborne and tossed to one side like a splinter in a flood. They didn't have any more show than a tiny paper bag in a cyclone. So it will be "eats" as one of the attractions of the momentous occasion. The official list of the several committees was also announced and is as follows:

Committee on arrangements—Lieut. Fritz, Lieut. Wilcox, Detective Irvine.

Committee on tickets—Fiskett, Fritz, Irvine, Kenna.

Door committee—Lieut. Drannen, Roberg, Gillon, Wanvick, M. Mason, Jessie.

Committee on refreshments—Sergt. Barber, Peterson, Westerlund, Monahan, Reidel, Hunter, Connors, McDermott, Hood.

Floor committee—Terry, Fred Johnson, Bradley, P. McDonald, Jensen, O. Olson, Andree, P. Barber, Ek, Youngberg, F. Anderson, Shannon, L. A. Root.

Reception committee—Chief C. H. Troyer, Capt. Fiskett, Lieut. Schulte, Detective Toewe, Officers Perry, Carl Stahl, R. C. Johnson, Smollett, G. T. Lahti, M. Stewart, H. Brouillette, P. J. Dickman, Tom Forrestal, N. F. Setterquest, H. E. Hood, A. J. Noren, David Butchart, J. D. Perkins, George Musolf, H. W. Heinrichs, T. M. Hannold, F. Hartz, C. J. Sundberg, Axel Youngstrom, Peter Snarski, L. D. Root, D. A. Montgomery, A. Danielson, F. A. Harling, J. I. Bohlin; Ex-Officers C. Johnson, W. E. Terry, W. O'Neil, Charles Mork, N. P. Nelson, William McEwen, F. E. Resche, S. J. Thompson, E. B. Force, V. Anderson, F. Provinski, W. Hocking, P. Tully, Tom Blair, John Sass, A. F. Schulte, J. Gleeson, E. Schulte, E. Rothie, R. Blackwood, H. C. Mason, J. Hagberg, Walter Murray.

The case against H. T. Stack and A. R. Day, arrested on a charge of violating the employment ordinance in that they did not specify the length of time a man they sent out would be liable to have work, was dismissed in police court this morning.

Annie Borick and Robert Rakitnican of New Duluth were added to the list of persons arrested for blind-pigging this morning. They pleaded not guilty and will be tried tomorrow afternoon. The case against Julia Barackich was dismissed, the wrong defendant having been arrested. Mike Divjak was placed on trial this morning for selling liquor without a license. He has a beer agency at the same suburb.

Capt. Resche, probation officer, was working at headquarters yesterday afternoon. For many years he was captain at the station. Yesterday he showed that he had not forgotten how, by taking the operator's place to enable him to attend the meeting of the relief association. Operator Brigham had something he wanted to say when he heard that there was liable to be a debate on the question of "eat or not to eat," and Capt. Resche gave him the opportunity.

DULUTH MAN HEADS THE NORTHWESTERN CEDAR DEALERS

THOMAS P. BRADLEY.

Word was received from Minneapolis today that Thomas P. Bradley of Duluth has been elected president of the Northwestern Cedarmen's association which is now holding its annual meeting there.

This association is composed of all the principal manufacturers and dealers in cedar products in Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan and plays an important part in the commerce of that part of the country.

Mr. Bradley, while quite a young man is prominent in lumber circles, being secretary and general manager of the Duluth Log company and holding a similar position in the Bradley Timber & Railway Supply company, whose general offices are in Duluth.

This is the first time that a Duluth man has held the presidency of the association, and Mr. Bradley's election is an honor not only to himself but to Duluth, and will probably result in bringing the next annual meeting of the association to Duluth in January next.

SUIT FOLLOWS FOREST FIRE

Settler Claims Neighbor Started Disastrous Blaze Near Burnett.

A forest fire which burned over the country around Burnett, Minn., last April is responsible for a suit which is on trial in district court before Judge Dibell and a jury this morning.

Chalberg is asking $1,000 damages from Bohnsack as a result of a fire which he alleges Bohnsack kindled. The farms are a mile apart, but the blaze, which is claimed to have had it origin on the Bohnsack place, spread rapidly and burned valuable timber on Chalberg's farm.

Chalberg owns seven forties in the southwest quarter of 3-51-17, three and one-half miles from the station of Burnett on the Missabe road.

OWSLEY CASE IS APPEALED

Contest of Heirs Will Be Carried to District Court.

Heirs of the Owsley estate have filed notices of appeal from the decision of Judge of Probate Gilpin and the now famous case, which involves a fortune of nearly $3,000,000, will be carried one step higher in the fight which may ultimately end in the supreme court.

Under the decision of Judge Gilpin of the probate court, which has been appealed from Dr. Frederick Owsley, whose wife left an estate of $2,700,000, was allowed a one-third interest.

In her will, Mrs. Owsley provided that only $35,000 and a yearly income of $10,000 be set aside for her husband. The rest of the big fortune was to go to her children, a son, William E. Boeing of Seattle and Caroline E. Boeing Poole of Detroit, Mich. Dr. Owsley contested the will and the court upheld him.

The case will next be fought out in the district court at the March term and gives promise of dragging along for some time. The case will undoubtedly go to the supreme court before it is terminated.

DIES AT HOME OF DAUGHTER

Patrick Henry Carney, 74 years old, father of Mrs. E. W. Bohannon, died at 9 o'clock this morning at the Bohannon residence, 2323 East Fifth street, of heart failure. Mr. Bohannon is president of the Duluth normal school.

Mr. Carney had been visiting with Mrs. Bohannon since shortly before the holidays. He formerly resided at Mankato, where he was very well known. The body will be sent there this evening for interment.

Besides Mrs. Bohanon he is survived by another daughter, Mrs. F. K. Meagher of Mankato, and two sons, H. E. Carney of Mankato and L. J. Carney of Minneapolis.

SNEED IS RELEASED ON $35,000 BAIL.

Fort Worth, Tex., Jan. 24.—After a proceeding in which the unwritten law was involved by frequent inference, J. B. Sneed, slayer of Capt. A. G. Boyce, was released on a bond of $35,000 today.

The shooting in a Fort Worth hotel ten days ago was the sequel to the elopment of Capt. Boyce's son and Sneed's wife. They went to Winnipeg and subsequently Mrs. Sneed was returned here.

During the proceedings which resulted in Sneed's obtaining bail, his lawyers attempted to bring out that the elder Boyce had conspired to help his son during the elopment period.

The Sneeds and Boyces are among the best known families of Texas and are wealthy.

FREEDOM LASTED BUT FEW SECONDS

Prisoner Released and Immediately Placed in Custody Again.

William Pallage, held under an indictment of the January grand jury charging forgery, was set free and the case against him dismissed owing to a flaw in the indictment.

But his period of freedom was short, so short that he was still in the court room when a second warrant was served on him. He was rearrested on the same charge and will be held for the next grand jury.

The dismissal of the case was made on motion of the Warren E. Greene, assistant county attorney, and while the jury in the case was being drawn. It was done owing to a technical flaw in the indictment.

This morning Dominick Sowalski, charged with grand larceny, second degree, was put on trial. Sowalski is accused of having stolen $37 from a cash register in the saloon of Albin Ilenda. He was employed as a bartender at this saloon at the time of his arrest.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The high school orchestra met for rehearsal in the assembly hall immediately following the close of school today. This was the last regular practice of the club before its first public appearance Friday evening. There will, however, be a final dress rehearsal tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock.

The orchestra has developed rapidly under the able direction of Prof. D. W. Heistand, and is considered an important factor in the life of the school.

The Junto Literary society will meet tomorrow afternoon in the assembly hall. A short program of orations and recitations will follow the regular business session.

The sophomore class held a special meeting this afternoon in room 201. The members decided to hold the annual hop in connection with the freshmen. Several other matters of general importance came up for discussion and were laid over until the next meeting.

The cast of characters for the annual class play by the senior class has been chosen by A. F. M. Custance, who will again have charge of the production. The student thespians will present the three act comedy, "A Modern Ananias."

In addition to the farce, there will be several specialties, and Mr. Custance will introduce a chorus. An effort is being made to obtain some new scenery and this will probably be procured in time for the play.

Following is the cast:

Col. Lyon.....Caldwell Harris
Derby Dashwood.....Ward Brown
Francisco.....Roger Powell

WHEAT AND FLAX RISE

Diminishing American Visible Supply Proves a Bullish Factor.

Partial Recovery From Yesterday's Slump in Price of Linseed.

Duluth Board of Trade, Jan. 24.—In spite of bearish cables from Argentina and Europe, wheat made a big gain today, Duluth May closing 1c to 1⅛c higher than yesterday. There seemed to be a revival of the feeling that the federal official statement of the shortage of the American wheat crop of 1911 would be proven true within the present year, in a very practical, realistic manner. The rapid diminution of the American visible supply, and the continual failure of the daily receipts of this year to equal those of the corresponding day of last year, has done more than anything to revive that feeling. Cash wheat closed at the May price. Durum and rye closed unchanged. Oats closed ¾c higher. Duluth January and May flax gained 1¼c

Wheat was bullish on the markets of North America this morning, in spite of large receipts from the country and bearish news from Europe and Argentina. What caused the increase in the price is a question that is hard to answer. It may be that the rapid decrease in the American visible supply has caused some fear that the predictions of a shortage before the next crop is harvested, will come true. Chicago reported a stronger demand for both wheat and flour today. Duluth May wheat, which closed yesterday at $1.04⅝@$1.04½ bid, opened today at $1.04½ bid and at noon was selling for $1.04⅞. There were bullish quotations likewise from Chicago, Minneapolis and Winnipeg.

The cables from Buenos Ayres were decidedly bearish. Last night wheat closed there at a decline of ⅞ to ⅞c, and this morning at the opening there was a further decline of ⅛ to ⅜c. The weather was reported hot and dry, and prospects were declared to be favorable for an early settlement of the railroad strike. These cables caused Liverpool wheat to close at a decline of ⅛ to ¼d, although most of the other news was rather bullish for that market. Platte offers were firm, there was a better demand for spot, Montana offers were firmer, Russian and Danubian offers were by no means liberal and millers were buying on a larger scale.

Reaction in Flax.

Yesterday's slump in flax was partly recovered this morning. At noon today January flax was 1¼c above yesterday's close and May flax was 1¾c up. The movement of flax on the market was fair, both the demand and the supply being away ahead of what it was a week ago. There were 21 cars of flax on the track for inspection. While this was away below the number of yesterday, when 42 cars came, it nevertheless served to demonstrate a good movement of flax from the farms and country elevators to the large markets. February flax at Buenos Ayres closed last night at $1.99¾, having declined 3¼c, but this morning it was ⅛c up at the opening.

M. L. Wilson, assistant in dry land and flax investigation for the state agricultural school of Montana, was a visitor on the Duluth Board of Trade today. "Most of the flaxseed of our state has been harvested and sold, in my opinion," said Mr. Wilson. "Very little of it lies buried under the snow. Our farmers are turning their attention to flaxseed raising on account of the high price and I predict with great confidence that there is going to be a vast increase in the flax-growing acres of that state. Montana used to be the great cattle and sheep state, but now it is becoming more and more of a farming state."

Dennis wired from Chicago: "In three weeks of January this year the visible supply of wheat has decreased 6,500,000 bu. Last year same time the decrease was 1,190,000 bu. That speaks well for our contention that the wheat is now in the show cases. This has been done in spite of fairly liberal receipts, too."

DULLNESS IN STOCKS

Speculative Interest Lacking and Trading at Times at Standstill.

Prices Improve Just Before the Close, Which Is Steady.

New York, Jan. 24.—Prices barely moved when trading in stocks was begun today. Such slight changes as occurred among the leading issues were for the most part in the direction of a higher level. Speculative interest again was attracted chiefly to Reading, which was the most active of the leaders, with a gain of ½.

Traders sold small amounts of stocks to test the market, and finding that prices yielded easily, took the bear side in a more aggressive fashion. Union Pacific and Great Northern preferred lost large fractions. Prices improved slightly afterward in sympathy with the marking up of the Rock Island stocks. Rock Island gained 1 and the preferred 1⅜. General Electric advanced 2⅜.

Speculative interest which has been falling off from day to day recently, seemed almost entirely lacking and at times trading came to a standstill. There was some evidence of manipulation of the Rock Island issues. Tentative efforts to put up prices met with little success, as the rise brought on sufficient offerings to force the list to a lower level than previously. Lehigh Valley yielded 1¾ to 164¾. United States Steel was effectively supported during the weakness. Harriman, Gould and Hill stocks had intermittent spells of weakness. Bonds were irregular.

Denial by James J. Hill of the report that the Hill interests were to acquire control of Western Pacific and other Gould lines, caused heavy selling of the Hill stocks. Great Northern preferred gave way 1¾ and Northern Pacific 1⅛. Reading, Union Pacific and United States Steel shaded below their mid-day prices, but selling of the general list was not on a very large scale. Reading sold at 155⅝, compared with 157⅜ as the early high price, and United States Steel touched 62½. Central railroad of New Jersey slumped 8 points.

The market closed steady. Points of isolated strength were disclosed in the final operations, but the general market continued to move in a narrow manner. Prices improved just before the close. Railroad bonds showed relatively more activity and breadth than stocks, and prices were better held.

B. A. & P. RAILROAD TO BE ELECTRIFIED

Road Used in Hauling Amalgamated Ore to Be Run By Electricity.

Butte, Mont., Jan. 24.—According to General Manager Harry Gallwey of the Butte, Anaconda & Pacific railway, the 27-mile railroad running between here and Anaconda, owned and operated by the Amalgamated Copper company to haul ore to its big Washoe smelter at Anaconda, and for general public business, will be electrified at a cost of about $1,000,000.

The power for the electric railroad will be generated at the Great Falls Water Power Townsite company's plant, which already transmits power to Butte and Anaconda. The new system will be of the overhead trolley kind. At present there are going from Butte daily about 10,000 tons of copper ore and with the extension of the Butte, Anaconda & Pacific line to Georgetown the tonnage will be increased.

Manager Gallwey said that while electric "engines" were being used in freight service on some Eastern roads and elsewhere, he knew of no line that had as yet equipped its passenger trains with motors. The Butte, Anaconda & Pacific passenger trains will be run with electrical power, as well as its ore and freight trains.

Seventeen Electric Engines.

Seventeen new engines or motors will be required for the line. The motors will be of the same type, but geared differently for passenger and freight service. There will be no material change in the equipment outside of the motors.

The Butte, Anaconda & Pacific railroad is perhaps the most modern railroad in the world. Its equipment represents the last word in mechanical perfection. Thus its locomotives are models and as fine as the best American engineers can turn out. Its ore cars are of steel and thoroughly up to date, while its passenger coaches are the marvels of all who make use of them. The passenger coaches of the Butte, Anaconda & Pacific cost within $800 as much as Pullmans, and they represent the very finest models in car construction.

THE PASSING OF THE "FOR RENT" CARD

If you are a person who gets about the residence district of Duluth to any extent you must have noticed the fact that there are many, many vacant houses in which no FOR RENT cards are shown.

A few years ago this would have excited comment.

Today people realize that the vacant house is as a matter of course advertised for rent in the little WANT ADS OF THE HERALD.

The FOR RENT card which formerly was sold by the stationer for a quarter can now be found in the 5-cent store. Truly the world moves.

ABDICATION EDICT FROM PEKIN LOOKED FOR BY THE CHINESE

Sun Yat Sen and Yuan Shi Kai May Frame Coalition Government.

Wu Ting Fang Is Hopeful of Some Such Settlement.

Manchu Troops Are Being Concentrated at the Capital.

Shanghai, Jan. 25.—It is expected here in Republican circles that an imperial edict announcing the abdication of the throne will be issued before the armistice between the imperialists and republicans expires, which, as now arranged, will be on Jan. 29 at 8 o'clock in the morning. Shortly after that date it is believed that a meeting will be arranged between President Sun Yat Sen and Yuan Shi Kai, at which details will be drafted for the establishment of a kind of coalition government controlling the north and the south.

Tang Shao Yi, who is still acting as Yuan Shi Kai's representative here, and Dr. Wu Ting Fang, the Republican minister of justice, expressed themselves this afternoon as extremely hopeful.

It is understood that the negotiators who are endeavoring to bring about an understanding between Pekin and Nanking have succeeded in clearing the atmosphere of the "misunderstandings" which have hitherto existed. Whether an eventual agreement between the two parties will be reached cannot yet be foreseen.

DIES OF LOCKJAW FROM FROZEN FEET

Peter A. Livins of Kenosha, Wis., Dies in Chicago Hospital.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—Peter A. Livins, a merchant of Kenosha, Wis., died today at the Alexand Bros.' hospital. His feet were frozen ten days ago and tetanus resulted.

TAFT FORCES IN INDIANA GATHER

Senator Norris Brown Will Make Keynote Speech of Campaign.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 25.—Senator Norris Brown of Nebraska, who is expected to deliver the keynote address of President Taft's campaign for renomination here tonight at the banquet of the Indiana Republican Editorial association, arrived today and will be the guest of honor of Former Senator Albert J. Beveridge. Politicians and editors from over the state began coming into Indianapolis early and covers will be placed for 500. A number of women will attend the banquet.

SUGGEST ITALY CEDE SOME LAND

Austrians Propose Exchange of Territory for Tripoli.

Vienna, Jan. 25.—The suggestion is made here that Italy cede her East African possessions to Turkey as compensation for the loss of Tripoli. Some significance is attached to the fact that this suggestion is forthcoming just at the time of the visit to Rome of Herr von Kiderlein-Waechter, the German foreign secretary.

The action of an Italian warship in stopping the Austrian Lloyd liner Bregenz has given fresh impetus to the anti-Italian campaign here. The press continues to make emphatic protests regarding the incident, though the owners of the Bregenz have stated that they consider the matter of no importance.

Reports Italian Reverse.

London, Jan. 25.—The Daily Express correspondent with the Turks reports an Italian reverse after a battle which resulted from an attempt by the Italians to re-occupy Sensur, an oasis about twelve miles west of Tripoli. Both sides suffered heavy losses. Sixty Italians dead were left in the trenches. The date on which the dispatch was sent is not given.

French Incident Settled.

Rome, Jan. 25.—The Franco-Italian incident brought about by the seizure of Turkish doctors and nurses from the French steamer Manouba by Italian warships is practically over.

The prisoners will be released or delivered to the French authorities.

OPPOSES RAISE IN WOODMEN'S RATES

J. L. Sundeen of Minneapolis Addresses Meeting in Chicago.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—J. L. Sundeen of Minneapolis was called on today to present the side of the opposition of the proposal to increase insurance rates, when the annual convention of the Modern Woodmen of America resumed.

Mr. Sundeen is not a delegate, but delegates who are against a revision of the rates asked to have the regular order of business changed by allowing him to act as spokesman for them. The head council allowed the request and he was given a place on the program following the report of the revision committee today.

CELEBRATION FOR FARLEY IS OVER

New York, Jan. 25.—John Cardinal Farley's elevation to the cardinalate of the Roman Catholic church was formally celebrated at St. Patrick's cathedral today in the presence of Cardinal Gibbons of Baltimore, Archbishop Prendergast of Philadelphia and an impressive attendance of monsignors, priests and bishops. The cathedral was elaborately decorated.

After solemn pontifical mass was celebrated, a sermon was preached by Auxiliary Bishop Thomas F. Cusack, followed by addresses of welcome to the cardinal by clergy and laity, to which his eminence responded. The ceremony marks the close of festivities which began with the cardinal's arrival from Rome.

MORE BOOKS IN EVIDENCE

Packers' Records of Shipments and Margins Read to the Jury.

Jurors at Chicago Make Personal Inspection of the Accounts.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—Further inquiry into the subject of margins as they related to the selling price of fresh meats was made at the morning session of the packers' trial today by Special Counsel Pierce Butler of the government.

When Steinger G. Langher, former margin clerk for the Hammond plant of the National Packing company, resumed the witness stand he identified six books of the corporation containing the weekly summaries of the margins and average selling prices between April, 1907, and September, 1910. Many of these entries were read into the record by Mr. Butler.

The figures showed the shipments, margins and average cost of the beef forwarded from the plants of the National Packing company at Chicago, Omaha, Kansas City and St. Joseph, Mo., to Eastern markets.

The jury made a personal inspection of these books after they had been put into evidence.

ROCKEFELLER SIDE OF THE FAMOUS CASE

Frederick T. Gates Gives His Version of Romance of the Mesaba.

Issues Pamphlet in Reply to Merritts' Testimony at Washington.

"Story of Wild Speculation, Financial Collapse Averted, and Conspiracy."

An emphatic and indignant denial of the alleged swindling of Leonidas and Alfred Merritt by John D. Rockefeller is embodied in a pamphlet on the subject by Frederick T. Gates, who represented Mr. Rockefeller throughout the series of transactions in the course of which the Merritts declared that their property was taken from them.

The Merritt brothers, it will be remembered, testified before the Stanley investigating committee that in 1893 "the Baptist preacher" representing Mr. Rockefeller, had filched from them some "700,000,000 tons" of iron ore, the chief source of the country's present supply. The Rockefeller-Gates side of the entire controversy is given in the pamphlet, which contains about thirty-five pages of very interesting matter.

Mr. Gates says: "The true story of

RAISE SOUGHT BY ENGINEERS

Increase of From 15 to 25 Per Cent in Wages Demanded.

New York, Jan. 25.—Locomotive engineers on all railroads in the eastern territory have made demands for a general increase in wages ranging from 15 to 25 per cent. The demands involved all railroads east of Chicago and north of the line of the Norfolk & Western railway and of the Ohio river.

Letters from brotherhood officials to the presidents of these railroads demand increased wages in varying scales, the object being to standardize the wage scale on all lines in this territory as was done by the trainmen and conductors in 1910.

The general managers' association has been asked to appoint a committee to negotiate with a committee of the brotherhood so that the question can be dealt with collectively.

Railroad men who have discussed this new demand of the engineers believe that the time is inopportune for a movement of this kind, and are inclined to think that railroads will not grant the demands.

BUTTER THIEF 'NOTED CROOK'

Bigamy, Illegal Traffic and Murder Suspected By Police.

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—That A. J. Murray, convicted here yesterday of wholesale thefts of butter from Northern Pacific cars and sold to Fargo merchants, is one of the most noted crooks in the Northwest, a bigamist and burglar and a murder suspect, is the statement of Sheriff J. S. Hindman of Spokane, who was here to attend the trial.

According to Hindman, Murray has at various times gone under the aliases of A. J. Beck, A. J. Gilman and A. J. Davis. Hindman says that as A. J. Murray he worked at Staples, Minn., as a trainman; that he was married there and has a wife and 5-year-old child living there. Hindman says he was later married at Missoula, Mont., under the name of A. J. Beck, and this second wife afterward secured a divorce.

Convicted of Butter Thefts.

Murray was convicted of wholesale thefts of butter at Missoula under exactly similar circumstances as at Fargo, and in the trial played an insanity role, throwing a number of "fits" in court. He was let off with a ninety-day sentence in the Lewis and Clark county jail at Helena.

Later he went to Spokane, where he is alleged to have engaged in the white slave traffic, and was sentenced to serve sixty days, the only charge that could be secured against him being vagrancy.

At Spokane he is under suspicion of the murder of Capt. Sullivan of the Spokane police force last winter. Sullivan was shot while in his room and

ELEVATOR IN CHICAGO BURNS

Acme Malting Company Has $200,000 Fire—Wall Paper House Burned.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—Fire which followed a terrific explosion, the cause of which is unknown, destroyed the elevator of the Acme Malting company at Bloomingdale road and North Fifty-fifth avenue here early today. Officers of the company said the loss would amount to $200,000, fully covered by insurance. The building was 120 feet long, 50 feet wide and 100 feet high. The elevator contained much grain.

The detonation was heard several miles. Tons of grain and parts of the wrecked building were thrown high in the air. It was reported that a number of employes had been killed, but no bodies were found.

Wall Paper Firm Burned Out.

The five-story brick building, occupied by L. C. Orrell & Co., wholesale wall paper dealers, 14-18 West Lake street, was wrecked by fire early today. The loss is estimated at $200,000.

TRAFFIC ABUSES ARE BEING EXPOSED AT RATE HEARING

Twin Cities Given Jolt By Duluth's Traffic Expert, G. Roy Hall.

15-Cent Differential Rates From Building of First Railroad.

Duluth Seeks to Secure the Rights Denied It for Years.

The traffic abuses under which Duluth has labored for many years are being exposed to the interstate commerce commission at the hearing of the lake and rail case before Commissioner James S. Harlan in Duluth today.

Because the 15-cent differential, St. Paul and Minneapolis over Duluth, has existed for many years is no reason why it should continue to exist; because the rate makers have ignored Duluth in making rates previously is no reason why they should continue to ignore Duluth; because Minneapolis and St. Paul have for years enjoyed privileges through the moving of the commercial Head of the Lakes inland is no reason for not moving the Head of the Lakes back to its geographical position; because the free storage of freight in railroads has become an institution is no reason why it should not be smashed. These and other are the contentions of Duluth. The city asks the interstate commerce commission to ignore the cry of the railroads, the boat lines and the Twin City jobbers, "Let us alone."

The 15-cent differential is of long

STEEL BILL IS REPORTED

Recommended for Passage By Majority of House Committee.

Republicans File Minority Statement Asking for Delay By Congress.

Washington, Jan. 25.—The Democratic iron and steel tariff revision bill was favorably reported to the house today by Chairman Underwood of the ways and means committee. The Republican members of the committee were given the right to file an adverse report. The committee adopted the bill by a strict party vote.

"A survey of the iron and steel industry," says the majority report filed with the bill, "shows convincingly that it has reached a position of such strength and independence that the industry does not need the helping hand of the government in order to stand in competition with foreign countries.

On Revenue Basis.

"The committee feels warranted in recommending that the duties be placed upon a distinctly revenue basis."

The report declares the rates should be made low enough to permit potential competition from imports for the sake of natural and proper regulation of domestic prices, and concludes:

"It is believed that the rates provided for in this bill are competitive, and if enacted would effect a substantial economy to the people greatly disproportionate in its advantages to the small apparent loss of revenue."

Report by Minority.

Late in the day the seven Republican members of the committee filed their report. It declared that the Steel schedule should not be revised without a report from the tariff board, and that the bill was framed without hearings and was in no way justified "by the full hearings three years ago before the committee."

The minority assailed the idea that the schedule relates almost exclusively to goods manufactured by the United States Steel corporation.

Under "well known," says the report, "the corporation can produce iron "that this ... cles more cheaply than and steel ar... ous independent company of the nume... not produce even panies, but it does ... and steel products of the country."

THIEF LEAVES TRAIL OF GEMS

Chicago Police Fire Twenty Shots Before Fleeing Man Gives Up.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—Hundreds of persons in downtown streets early today rushed for places of safety when policemen, discovering a "padded brick" burglar operating on a jewelry store window, pursued him with drawn revolvers. Before the chase of three blocks ended twenty shots had been fired at the fleeing man. He finally surrendered and was booked under the name of "John Kennedy." None of the bullets hit him.

Kennedy had just broken the window when the policemen saw him. The burglar scooped up some small jewelry, dropped it into his pockets and ran. Most of it filtered out on the sidewalk during the chase, his pocket having a hole in it.

RATE EXPERTS AT KANSAS CITY

Freight Tariffs Affecting 5,000 Articles Are Discussed.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 25.—Railroad rate experts from six Middle Western states, composing a special committee of the National Industrial Traffic league, met here today to discuss the rate ruling known as Western Classification No. 51, which is to go into effect Feb. 15. The ruling affects all railroads between the Mississippi river and the Pacific seaboard.

It submitted more than 1,700 subjects, recommending changes in ratings on about 5,000 articles. A hearing as to the advisability of suspending the classification, to which many Western shippers have objected, will be conducted before the interstate commerce commission sitting in Chicago Jan. 29

SWELL BADGER FOREST RESERVE

Morse Bill Is Reported to Have Good Chance of Passage.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 25.—State Forester E. M. Griffith, returning from a visit to Washington, says that there is a favorable outlook for the passage of Congressman E. A. Morse's bill to add to the state forest reserves 216 islands in the forest reserve area in Vilas and Oneida counties of Wisconsin. A letter from Congressman Morse gives further encouragement for the success of the measure. The islands contain 407 acres, and the state desires to add them to the reserves for their conservation. Under the terms of the bill, they would be used only for forest reserve purposes if given to the state.

Mr. Griffith secured from the forestry service at Washington an extension of its contract with the Wisconsin forestry board for supplying a federal forest patrol to work with the state guardians, the contract involving $5,000 annually.

CLEANED ALONG THE POLICE RUN

Two stool pigeons had the scare of their lives while they were gathering evidence on which to make arrests for blind-pigging at New Duluth a couple of days ago.

They were congratulating themselves that they did succeed in escaping with nothing worse than a fright which showed them that they never really did know how to run before. They figure that it was largely due to their unsuspected speed and agility that they are not now in a morgue or lying in a hospital with their bodies full of bird shot.

The two men had been to the place run by R. Rakitnican, and had become quite chummy with him, spending a part of the money furnished them by the police for making the necessary purchases before the arrest could be made, according to their own statements at the station. Calling a little diplomacy into play it appears that after they had secured enough evidence, they induced their victim to accompany them to the next house, run by Annie Borick, on the pretext that they were strangers and were anxious to get acquainted.

At the Berick place, it is alleged, they managed to buy several drinks of wine, largely through the fact that they were brought over by her next door neighbor, with whom she was naturally acquainted.

But in some manner she "got wise" to the fact that the two men with her neighbor were stool pigeons. It is believed that some one who knew them, saw them enter the house and told her. However, when she secured the information her rage knew no bounds. With a flood of language she gave vent to her feelings. Getting madder every minute she reached for a shot gun which was hanging on the wall.

Seeing what was up, the two stool pigeons, figuring that they weren't being paid to get anything but evidence, took to their heels. They went through the door like a bolt from a machine gun and took to the woods, developing a speed of which they would never be accused by an ordinary observer.

When they had made their getaway they returned to the city and swore out the warrants which resulted in the arrests of Rakitnican and Mrs. Borick. Their trials are scheduled for this afternoon.

Jela Cavich was tried this morning on a charge of selling liquor without a license at New Duluth. She was found not guilty and discharged. The evidence of the stool pigeons was not as definite as it might have been and she gave a reasonable explanation of what had happened.

She said that the Austrians commemorate their Christmas Jan. 7 and 8, and that in order that the celebration might be fitting, the boarders at her place had purchased about $50 worth of wine and liquor. When they left to go to work on the morning of Jan. 9, with the feeling of cheer still in their systems, it seems that they had instructed their landlady to give of what remained to any wayfarer who might happen along.

Among the first who applied were the two men sent out by the police. She declared that in keeping with the parting injunction she had supplied them with several drinks of wine, but had accepted no money from them. The court accepted her side of the story and allowed her her liberty.

Mike Divjak, arrested on the same charge, did not fare so fortunately when he was found guilty in police court yesterday afternoon. Judge Cutting gave him a straight sentence of eighty-five days in the county jail. The court called attention to the fact that he had been arrested several times before on various charges and that he did not have a record which entitled him to immunity or the privilege of paying a fine. Divjak has been the agent for a beer company at New Duluth. He was convicted for having sold a gallon of whisky to a resident of the suburb. The court granted him a stay of twenty days in which to settle his affairs or appeal his case.

Eli Radeaka was also convicted of selling booze without a license. He was sentenced to pay a fine of $100, with the alternative of thirty days in the county jail. He was given a stay of ten days.

Joe Matel, who runs a saloon at 625 West Superior street, pleaded not guilty when he was arraigned in police court yesterday afternoon on a charge of having kept his saloon open last Sunday. He will be tried tomorrow afternoon. It appears that the original evidence was secured against Dave Fatovsky, who runs a shoe shop next to the saloon. He was arrested on a charge of selling beer on Sunday. When he was arraigned he claimed that he was only accommodating his customers and had secured the beer for them at Matel's saloon.

Following the discovery that the boat house of the naval militia on Park Point had been badly wrecked since it was closed for the winter, the police have secured the names of ninety boys who have been seen on or about the property.

Four of them have been arrested on charges of trespass. They gave their names as Roy Hassler, William Hanrahan and Mike and Alex Gallagher. All entered pleas of not guilty and their trials were set for next Wednesday morning. The others named in the complaint which has been sworn out by E. J. Braun are William Henryhan, Fred Charboneau, Ross Giles and Walter Mathew.

It was recently discovered that forty-two windows in the boat house had been smashed by unknown parties. The interior of the place has been turned topsy-turvey and a number of the boats which had been put up for the winter had been wrecked. It is stated that the damage will amount to hundreds of dollars.

"Old Mogey," the aged character who died at the poor farm several days ago, has been laid away in the paupers' field. The authorities have been unable to locate any of his relatives, although it has been stated that he had been married several times and is survived by a number of children.

"Old Mogey" was over 80 years old when he passed away, having been at the county institution nearly four years. He came to the Head of the Lakes about forty years ago, settling on a little piece of ground a few miles back of the hills at West Duluth. Until he was forced to go to the poor farm he was a familiar sight on the streets of the city, driving in with his old, one-horse outfit, hunched up on the seat and talking to no one. When he went back he was often unable to drive, but thanks to the faithful beast which hauled his vehicle, he woke up in his own back yard.

His right name was Hugh Mongy, but his birthplace and his history previous to coming to this part of the country are practically unknown.

Fred Johnson was arrested yesterday afternoon by Agent Luxon of the humane society on a charge of cruelty to animals. It is claimed that he left his horse standing outdoors for a long while without any covering. He pleaded not guilty and his case was set for trial this afternoon.

John Boyce, said by the police to be an ex-convict who was a principal in a hold-up on the range, and James Campbell, known as "Gold Tooth Campbell," were brought into headquarters yesterday afternoon on charges of vagrancy. They pleaded guilty when arraigned in police court this morning, but their cases were set over until this afternoon for a further report. It is stated that they have been in the city about two weeks, loafing about together without any visible means of support.

William and Bertha Campbell of Ashland came to Duluth a couple of days ago and proceeded to celebrate together. But they got careless late yesterday and appeared on the streets too much under the influence of liquor not to attract attention. They did not deny, when arraigned in police court this morning, that they had strayed from the straight and narrow path. Upon their earnest request to be allowed to go back home, the court continued their cases until 5 o'clock to give them an opportunity to get the next train going in that direction.

WANTS MUNICIPAL SLAUGHTER HOUSES

Dr. Bracken Favors Them for Duluth and Other Cities.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Feasibility of state inspection of all meats offered for market and establishment of municipal abattoirs will be included in a report which Dr. H. M. Bracken will make to the legislature after his return from Europe. Dr. Bracken expects to leave about April 1 to study methods used in foreign countries, and on his return will compile the information gained for legislative digestion.

"It would be possible," Dr. Bracken said this morning, on his return from his trip to Washington, "to establish municipal slaughter houses in St. Paul, Minneapolis and Duluth, as well as in other towns throughout the state, and require all meat sold on the public market either to be killed there or be taken there for inspection and approval. The cities could have supervision over the houses within their city limits, and could pass ordinances requiring that all brought in from without the city limits to be inspected and approved before being offered for sale. I am intending to make a study of this matter while abroad, and my report will tell how Europe does it."

EUGENE SCHMITZ PLACED ON TRIAL

San Francisco Ex-Mayor Accused of Bribery—Court Springs Surprise.

San Francisco, Jan. 25.—Eugene Schmitz, former mayor of San Francisco, is on trial in the superior court here on the charge of bribery. The complaint recites that Schmitz gave a bribe of $750 to Former Supervisor A. J. Wilson to introduce a resolution fixing the price of illuminating gas.

Judge William P. Lawler surprised both the prosecution and the defense when he ordered Schmitz to court for trial after he had discovered that after Jan. 30 the statute of limitations, as recently interpreted by the supreme court, would run against all of the indictments pending against the former mayor. The case arose out of the bribery graft investigation in 1906.

GOVERNOR'S BROTHER "KNOWS NOTHING."

Axel A. Eberhart, a brother of the governor of the state, is at the Spalding. Mr. Eberhart is an attorney of Minneapolis and is here on some legal business.

"What do you know about politics—about the chances of your brother?" Mr. Eberhart was asked.

He smiled shrewdly—the kind of smile that starts from the corners of the mouth and then broadens slowly.

"Nothing," came the response.

Mr. Eberhart stated that he did not have the opportunity of going around very much and sounding political opinion.

ALLEMANIA WILL QUIT MINNESOTA.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Because of the high ratio in Minnesita, the Allemania Fire Insurance Company of Pittsburg, Pa., has notified J. A. O. Preus, state insurance commissioner, that it has reinsured all its Minnesota business in the Caledonia Insurance Company of Scotland, and will quit the state.

A Hint in a Chill

This is a Nature's warning that "something is doing"—some germ is at work against which you have to exert the best, safest and quickest remedy. For a cold—even though you call it—"just a little chill"—is not to be trifled with. It inflames the lining of the mucous membrane, and renders it susceptible to any germ. Indeed a cold, however slight, is a germ, present and ready to destroy. A sore throat may be incipient diphtheria or bronchitis; ringing in the ears may mean deafness; or the cold may "settle" in any one of the vital organs, closing them against circulation, causing stoppage and poisoning of the entire system.

Kondon's Catarrhal Jelly is a logical, simple, and inexpensive treatment which acts at the same time as the proverbial ounce of prevention and the pound of cure. It reduces the thickened membrane, stops abnormal discharges and frees the passage that the healing air may filter and purify.

For, after all, air is the best medicine, but air is polluted in passing over disease surface. Cure the passages, kill the germs; arrest decay, and soothe and nourish with Kondon's Catarrhal Jelly.

Stop at your druggist's today for a tube of Kondon's Catarrhal Jelly only 25 or 50 cents. It will be the beginning of your cure. If you don't find it at your druggist's we will send a good sized sample free on receipt of a postal or letter to prove that instant relief results from its use.

If you are suffering from hay fever, asthma, bronchitis, or even a "simple" cold-in-the-head, it is more than likely that a sample will so relieve you that Kondon's Catarrhal Jelly will find a permanent place on your medicine shelf. Address Kondon Mfg. Co., Minneapolis, Minn.

WORKING FOR ITS PASSAGE

Welfare Committee Favored By Men and Religion Forward Movement.

Members Believe First Charter Amendment Is of Vital Importance.

A committee of the Men and Religion Forward movement, of which I. K. Lewis is chairman, is instituting a lively campaign to secure the passage of charter amendment No. 1, which provides for the establishment of a public welfare committee. This is Mayor Cullum's pet amendment.

If the amendment is passed a welfare committee of five members will be appointed by the mayor. It will be the duty of this committee to investigate social conditions and decide upon what is needed in the way of workhouses, places of refuge for the unfortunate and public amusement places, and to build and operate such institutions.

The men of the Men and Religion Forward movement are very much interested in the passage of the amendment and at a recent meeting, a committee was appointed to create public sentiment in favor of the amendment.

The committee has done but little public work as yet, but the members feel that they are accomplishing a good deal in a quiet way.

If the amendment passes, a probation officer will be appointed to work with the municipal court. The officer will study each individual case and report upon it to the municipal judge. It is thought that in this way a good probation system may be worked out whereby a man let off on suspended sentence will not be hauled back into court the next morning. When a man is paroled, some one will be responsible, in part for his conduct.

The welfare committee will also have dance halls and other amusements under its charge. The members will inquire into housing conditions, causes of poverty and many other conditions.

The men of the Men and Religion forward movement believe it is one of the most important amendments to the charter yet proposed.

WILL DISCUSS GOOD ROADS

Every One Interested Invited to Meeting at Commercial Club.

W. E. Culkin will act as chairman of the good roads meeting to be held this evening in the assembly room of the Duluth Commercial club.

Every one interested in good roads is invited by the committee in charge of the meeting to come out and offer suggestions.

Large delegations are expected from the range towns. The Eveleth Commercial club will be represented at the meeting. A. P. Silliman and O. B. Warren will represent Hibbing, and Chisholm, Virginia, Tower and Ely will also be represented.

At this time of the year plans for road-making and road-repairing for 1913 must be made, and it is probable that resolutions will be adopted asking the county commissioners to make additional appropriations in some districts where improvements are said to be badly needed.

LAKE FREIGHTERS FOR INTERCOAST TRAFFIC.

Washington, Jan. 25.—Ships now plying the Great Lakes will be taken to pieces and transferred to the ocean for the Panama canal traffic in order to supply quickly the extra vessels needed for intercoast traffic, according to President Dearborn of the American-Hawaiian Steamship company. He said a company had been formed to convert many of the present lake freighters into ocean carriers for the Panama canal traffic.

COOLEY KNOWS OF NO TEST OF ELWELL LAW.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—George M. Cooley, state highway engineer, knows of no definite decision reached in any part of the state to test the constitutionality of the Elwell road law, as has been reported.

"There have been rumors of it," Mr. Cooley said this morning, "but so far I have heard of no action to be taken."

SUPERIOR FORTY AFTER NEW JOBS

Merry Fight for Positions on New Commission in Prospect.

That the new commission form of government for Superior promises to be a popular one is evidenced by the fact that fourty candidates have already announced their intentions of running.

Of this number six will be closen at the primaries in March, two for mayor and four for councilmen. At the final election one of the two men will be elected mayor for six years, one of the councilmen for four years, and one for two years. The salary of the mayor is $5,000 a year, and of the two councilmen, $4,500 each. The present mayor, F. R. Crumpton, has announced himself as one of the candidates for mayor.

Charged With Assault.

James Felix, a negro, 36 years old, was arraigned in police court yesterday on a warrant secured by Miss Mary Knipe, 22 years old, charging attempted assault. He was placed in the county jail in default of $5,000 bonds and his case will be heard Saturday. According to the girl's story she was attacked by Felix while she was in her brother's room on Banks avenue near Thirteenth street, and that the timely arrival of the other boarders, caused Felix to desist and leave.

ADMISSION 10 CENTS (ANY SEAT)

AFTER all is said, isn't it true that the single word "shelter" completely covers the purpose for which any house was ever built? Whether you live in a house or an apartment, its primary requisite is that it be a shelter—(1) from the public view, (2) for the safe-keeping of your personal effects, (3) from the wind, rain and snow, (4) from heat and cold.

(1) Curtains and blinds, (2) strong doors and locks, (3) solid walls and roofs—all do their work well. But how about heat and cold? Honestly, now, is your house really a shelter for them?

LINOFELT
Linoleum made from Flax Fibre

in your walls keeps cold on one side and heat on the other just as a solid black curtain keeps light and dark separate. Clapboards, sheathing, brick, tile—no matter what your walls are or how thick, they don't insulate against cold.

Just take this glimpse at the scientific side of it—it means money and health for you: To stop heat and cold requires a substance containing a countless number of miscroscopic sealed dead air cells, with each cell confined by material which has the lightest possible specific gravity.

Flax fibres meet these conditions better than any other substance capable of use in building. Linofelt is a quarter-inch quilt of specially treated flax fibres bound between two sheets of building-paper. In resisting the passage of heat and cold Linofelt is more effective than 38 thicknesses of building-paper.

There's the brief scientific fact. It shows you why Linofelt, used in your walls like building-paper, will save 40 per cent of your coal-bill every winter—and keep your house cool in summer as well.

That's a real shelter from heat and cold. Make your house faithfully serve its only purpose; make it a genuine shelter this season. Write for our booklet today; call up our local agents now—they can tell you how to use it in your present house at once.

SMELTER CASE IN SUPREME COURT

An inheritance tax of $256.31 will be paid out of the estate of the late John Sundeen, former county commissioner and West end business man, whose death occurred less than one year ago.

Under the will, Annie S. Sundeen, the widow, is left the entire estate. There are several children in the family.

An inheritance tax of $33 will be paid by the estate of Mary Downey, which has been appraised at $2,100, according to an order entered yesterday by Judge Gilpin. The estate consists of a house and lot at 2427 West Third street. She died leaving no will and the property will be given to her only living relative, William Downey, a brother, of this city.

BI-PARTISAN TICKET

Is Named in Milwaukee Against the Socialists.

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 25.—The Democratic city committee meeting last night, unanimously indorsed the city ticket selected by the committee of twenty-seven. This means that the Republican and Democratic parties will unite against Socialism. Dr. Gerhard A. Bading, Republican, former health commissioner of Milwaukee, was indorsed for mayor; Joseph P. Carney, Democrat, for treasurer, and L. M. Kotecki, Democrat, for city controller.

All candidates of the coalition will run on the Democratic ticket. The various ward committees will later unite on aldermanic candidates, about equally divided.

PILOT DROPS DEAD; LINER HITS CRUISER.

Honolulu, Jan. 25.—In a collision between the Hamburg-American liner Cleveland and the United States armored cruiser Colorado, the latter suffered considerable damage. The collision was due to the fact that Pilot Milton P. Sanders, who was in charge of the Cleveland, had dropped dead on the liner's bridge. The Cleveland was not damaged.

The Cleveland arrived here from New York via China and Japan at 5:30 a. m., in command of Capt. C. Dent Wolf. The vessel was on a trip around the world, and on a tourists' excursion, and carried hundreds of American travelers. The collision occurred while the Cleveland was being brought into the harbor by Pilot Sanders. The cruiser Colorado was at anchor in the harbor.

Auto Ambulance Needed at Once---Work Farm Would Help.

Dr. I. J. Murphy, police surgeon, recommends in his annual report to Chief Troyer that space be provided in remodeling the city jail for an auto ambulance.

"Public opinion will hardly allow us to be without the much-needed auto-ambulance much longer," says Dr. Murphy. "Often the lives of patients have been jeopardized because they were in such condition that they could not be moved immediately in the police automobile, and had to await the arrival of a horse-drawn ambulance."

The report of the police surgeon again emphasizes Duluth's lack of facilities for caring for emergency cases and for the derelicts and sick people who are found inside its limits. Men in a dying condition have been compelled to lie on the streets with their life blood ebbing away because the municipality has not modern means of attending them. Others fatally injured or dying have been taken into the bull pen because there was practically no other place to put them or no adequate place at the police station to diagnose their cases.

Not only should Duluth have a police auto-ambulance at headquarters, and quarters at the station where emergency cases could be given prompt and proper attention, but it should have a police surgeon in constant attendance, who would accompany the ambulance when hurry-up calls are received to attend injured persons. Frequently the matter of a minute or two means a life saved or lost.

Work Farm.

Dr. Murphy states that the much-talked of work farm or hospital farm would be an ideal place for many of the men who come into the police station. "Then," he adds, "if a separate place is provided for lodgers, as is contemplated, they can be taken care of in a manner befitting human decency. A work farm, municipal lodging house checked by a work test, and proper medical attention for the diseased and defective will greatly transform this portion of our floating population. It will make better citizens of the hopeful and rid the community of the undesirable."

Dr. Murphy recommends that the officers' washroom in the newly-planned jail be in a separate enclosure. He explains that if this is large enough it would make a very convenient dressing room in which to perform minor surgical operations and give other first-aid-to-the-injured measures.

He also pays a high compliment to the cleanliness of the jail and to the courteous treatment accorded by the police. "In spite of the cramped quarters I always found the jail surprisingly clean and well ventilated," he asserts, "and on every occasion the respective officer proved to be zealous in the discharge of his duty and courteous to all concerned."

The report shows that Dr. Murphy has done a vast amount of work since he assumed the duties of police surgeon April 1, last. Between that date and Dec. 31, he attended 189 cases. Eight of them were immediate fatalities, two being due to drowning, one to heart failure, two to apoplexy, one to perforating ulcer of the stomach, one to suicide by morphine poisoning, and one to murder. Four attempts at suicide were frustrated, two having used a razor, one having taking morphine and the other chloroform. Four victims of accidental poisoning were rescued; five insane patients were attended; sixteen people picked up unconscious on the street were given medical care, and seventy-three had wounds of the scalp and face dressed. Many lodgers and wanderers who could lay no legal claim to the services of the police surgeon, but who were worthy candidates for the attentions of a city or county physician, were attended. Dr. Murphy makes the comment that it seems that the down and out individual has no one to whom he dares appeal, but the large-hearted policeman on the corner, who directs him to the police station. "The police station has no terror for these individuals," he continues. "It is their lodging house, their soup house and their hospital."

MUNICIPAL PLANT TOO PROFITABLE

Grand Forks Council to Be Asked to Reduce Charges for Water.

Grand Forks, N. D., Jan. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—As the city owned waterworks plant is netting the municipality a profit of approximately $20,000 a year, under the present water rentals, the city council will be asked to reduce the cost of water to the point where the city system will return only the cost of operation.

Present Plan Double Tax.

Money that is secured in profits from this plant are at the present time turned into the general fund, going for general taxation purposes, whereas it is contended that such practice is, in fact, a double tax on water renters and a discrimination in favor of business property and vacant property, which benefits through the fact that the general fund is increased by a side revenue, making the amount of the money to be raised for general city purposes by direct taxation lower.

NORTH DAKOTA PRIMARY PLANS

Township and Cities Must Bear Presidential Primary Charge.

Bismarck, N. D., Jan. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Cities and townships will bear the expense of the presidential preferance primary election March 19 as a result of the action of the legislature in fixing the primary election on the same date that annual township elections are held, and changing the date of the city elections to conform.

In the cities the inspection boards will face a big problem, being compelled to conduct two elections simultaneously, maintaining separate ballot boxes for the presidential preferance ballots and for the city election ballots. The doubling up of the elections also will delay the returns on the presidential question in the cities, as the municipal ballots will first be disposed of, after which the boards must take up the other feature.

Out in the rural districts there also will be delay in getting the returns, and it will be very late on the night of the election before anything will be learned that will prove of value in determining the probable outcome. It probably will be several days before definite returns on the entire state will be secured.

NORTH DAKOTA CITIES PLAN CITY ELECTIONS.

Valley City, N. D., Jan. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—North Dakota cities are evidencing early interest in municipal elections as a result of the changes in the election laws which advance elections two weeks, putting the municipal election on the same date that the presidential preferance election March 19.

In Valley City W. J. Curren is a candidate for the mayoralty on a law enforcement and municipal economy platform.

Jamestown has two mayoralty candidates, George W. Kurtz and C. B. Buckley. Mr. Kurtz is the present mayor of the city.

BRYAN WAITS FOR HIS PANTS

Misses Train But Improves the Time—Opposes Roosevelt Boom.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 25.—William Jennings Bryan became so absorbed in his talk with Former Governor Joseph W. Folk, aspirant for the Democratic presidential nomination, that he missed his train here today. He would not talk for publication about Democratic politics, but registered a protest against the Roosevelt boom.

"The third term objection is a vital one," said Mr. Bryan. "It applies regardless of party. I do not believe any president should have a third term."

When Mr. Bryan found out he had missed his train he went to a tailoring shop and removed his trousers for pressing. He sat trouserless while a tailor plied the iron. Those who sought an interview were told Mr. Bryan "had pressing business."

Want Beautiful Hair? Use This Shampoo

"The reason so many women have dull, brittle, stringy hair—hair that splits at the ends, fades and falls out—is because of employing alkali shampoos. This robs the hair sacs of their required oil and causes brittleness of the hair and profuse dandruff," writes Mrs. Mae Martyn in the New York Daily Record.

"An inexpensive and really delightful shampoo can be had by getting a small package of canthrox from the druggist and dissolving a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water. This mixture should be poured slowly on the scalp and rubbed up well. The canthrox creates a thick, white lather that cleanses, soothes and invigorates. After rinsing, the scalp is left clean and pliant, while the hair is fluffy, silky and easy to do up."

CONVICT MADE GOOD BY KNIFE

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 25. — Alienists have been much interested in the case of Edward E. Grimmell of Buffalo, recently released from Clinton prison by the state parole board after an operation on the skull that, it is claimed, relieved him of a criminal tendency.

Grimmell's skull was fractured when a boy of 14 during a quarrel with a playmate, and the claim was made that the injury was a potent factor in developing his criminal career.

"We are not running any great risk in releasing Grimmell," said Col. Joseph F. Scott, superintendent of state prisons, today, "for he will continue under the jurisdiction of the board and will not be permitted to leave the state.

"If he resumes evil practices he will be taken back to the prison. If he becomes a forger again, probably we will not be under the pressure for quite a while to have convicts' heads operated on in an attempt to change their moral nature.'"

FIRST STOCKING FRAME.

National Magazine: The first stocking frames are said to have been made by William Lee, curate of Culverton, in 1586 and were at first worked by him, with the assistance of his sweetheart or wife.

Like most other inventors, he failed to receive a suitable reward for his labor and is said to have died at Paris in 1610, starving and broken-hearted.

The stocking weavers' company established in 1663, for the next ninety years had almost a monopoly of the business, but Great Britain today makes nearly one-half of the stockings made in the world. Germany is a close second, being famous for the cheapness and excellence of her hose.

How English Beauties Peel Their Faces

(From Society World.)

"While abroad recently I could not help observing that the average Englishwoman's complexion is far more beautiful than that of the average woman of our country," says Mrs. Scott, secretary of the National Health-Culture Society. "Making inquiries, several intimate friends in London confided to me that they regularly used on their faces what is commercially known as mercolized wax. I do not know whether the habit is general there, but I do know that this wax has wonderful rejuvenating properties. I've tried it myself.

"If you will get an ounce of this mercolized wax at your drug-store and apply it like cold cream, you will soon behold in your glowing cheeks their first resemblance to the remarkable transparent beauty of the Englishwoman's complexion. This wax gradually peels off the lifeless scarf skin in tiny, almost imperceptible flakes, revealing the fresh, new skin underneath, pinky white, with the bloom of youth and health."

AMERICAN EXCHANGE NATIONAL BANK

the Merritts is a story of wild speculation in the early nineties in Mesaba mining properties, then of doubtful, and, as it proved, long distant value, a story of overwhelming debt in the great panic of '93, of financial collapse averted by Mr. Rockefeller, only to be followed by a conspiracy against him for booty, then failure, betrayal and wholesome retraction."

He sums up the story as follows: "On July 1, 1893, the Merritt family owned about 40 per cent of the stock of the five Mesaba companies, the ore bodies of which were then known to contain from 25,000,000 to 50,000,000 tons or ore. For this stock and perhaps their railroad stock the Merritts owed at least $2,000,000, and I have reason to believe much more. In that year, 1893, the great panic struck the country. The iron industry suffered worst of all. Everything fell to half its value. By July, 1893, the Merritts could not have sold their stocks in the open market at Duluth, which has a small Wall Street of its own, for more than one-half of their debts as above estimated. I have a complete list of Duluth quotations, recently got and sworn to, as verification of this statement. The stocks were quoted or sold nowhere else. The Merritts weathered the storm of '93, but in January, 1894, their Minnesota creditors, not Mr. Rockefeller, forced the Merritts to sell their holdings to whomsoever, would pay the most money for them. It so happened that Mr. Rockelfeeler, having some knowledge of the Mesaba range and believing in its future value, was willing to pay more for the Merritt stocks than anyone else. For that reason alone, after offering their stocks widely to capitalists and iron magnates, the Merritts sold their holdings to Mr. Rockefeller."

Consolidation.

Mr. Gates tells a romantic story of the efforts of the Merritts, with the Colbys, Charles W. Wetmore and others, to do in 1893 what actually was done in 1901, when the United States Steel corporation was formed, namely to consolidate the great iron ore interests of the Lake Superior district.

He tells of the plight of the syndicate about the middle of the year 1893 in the following language: "It was impossible to get money for the railroad (Duluth, Missabe & Northern), for the mines or for themselves, anywhere, at any price. May and June went by with conditions worse every hour. The Merritts in Duluth had let their contracts for the big dock and for the extensions of the railroad; the contractors were at work with hundreds of men; the railroad debt was piling up at the rate of $10,000 per day; the mines were idle and no money was forthcoming from the East. The financial arrangements planned in the spring had completely broken down. The railroad was trembling on the brink of a receivership. Interest on the bonds was not paid. Suits were actually begun. There were labor riots on the Mesaba range. Contractors were knocked down on the Merritt railroad by their engaged men. Knives were drawn. Men actually entered the railroad offices in Duluth and demanded cash on their pay check at the ends of drawn revolvers. The personal affairs of the Merritts themselves were in no better shape. Some of their creditors were jumping on them and threatening to sell their collateral. 'Must have some money at once to save the Merritt boys' collateral, which means control of best properties,' so Leonidas Merritt wired me in July. The complete financial collapse of the Merritt-Wetmore syndicate, of the Merritts personally and of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad is now a mere question of days."

Darkest Before Dawn.

"But," he goes on to relate, "it is often darkest just before the dawn, and we shall see the crisis averted by a successful negotiation with Mr. Rockefeller. Merritt and Wetmore came to me July 1, 1893, with a series of financial propositions for the transfer to the shoulders of Mr. Rockefeller of the load that was now crushing them. These propositions were discussed, modified, added to, mutually adjusted and finally embodied in a series of contracts, on which the essential one was dated July 1."

He tells the terms of the deal as follows: "Mr. Rockefeller was to finance the railroad with $500,000. (He actually put in over $2,000,000.) Mr. Rockefeller was to take over without recourse the Adams and Lone Jack mining properties, which the partners, Wetmore and Merritt, had recently bought for $428,000 short paper. Mr. Rockefeller was to advance Merritt and Wetmore as partners considerable sums of needed cash, and to the Merritts personally $150,000, that they might retain control of their stocks. Mr. Rockefeller was to buy all of the ore the Iron Mountain mine could produce and ship, over the railroad that fall, so as to put the mine in operation. The Merritts on their part were to put their railroad stock and all their best mining stocks, the 'Mountain Iron,' 'Biwabik,' 'Missabe Mountain,' 'Rathburn,' 'Shaw,' into one basket or company to be called the Lake Superior Consolidated Iron Mines, issuingn the Consolidated stock to themselves on valuations for their mines to be fixed by themselves. Leonidas Merritt to be president and the Merritts to control. This company was to buy from Mr. Rockefeller all his mining stocks, including the Adams and Lone Jack now his, and paying for these stocks in debenture bonds of the Consolidated company, so many bonds for so much stock."

Mr. Gates writes that Mr. Rockefeller did not sign the main contract, dated July 1 until after July 12, some days after Leonidas Merritt and Charles W. Wetmore had put their names to it. He relates in a later passage his story of the selling of Consolidated stock by the Merritts to Mr. Rockefeller. He says the Merritts has to sell this stock om account of their heavy debts but he declares that they were not forced to sell by Mr. Rockefeller. He says Mr. Rockefeller bought 90,000 shares at $10 a share giving the Merritts the right of buying back 55,000 shares at the same price within one year.

Says They Swore Falsely.

"The Merritts," he says, "swore falsely before the Stanley committee that Mr. Rockefeller compelled them to sell by calling a loan of over $400,000 and giving them twenty-four hours in which to pay. In this there is not one syllable of truth. The Merritts owed Mr. Rockefeller at that time $150,000 only, and five-sixths of that had a long time yet to run. Mr. Rockefeller never at any time in any way called a loan on them for any sum whatsoever. The story of a sudden and cruel call by Mr. Rockefeller is a calculated falsehood to conceal the real reasons for the sale. They now complain of the price but in the same breath admit that $8 a share was all they could get elsewhere."

He further declared that Mr. Rockefeller would have renewed the option for Leonidas and Alfred Merritt, just as he renewed it again and again for Louis J. Merritt and his son, Hulett, who held on to their stock until the time of sale to the Steel corporation, and have been millionaires ever since. He says that Leonidas and Alfred Merritt could have sold the 55,000 shares to the Steel corporation in April 1901 for $9,190,500.

Enter the Harrises.

Mr. Gates then goes on to relate the failing of Leonidas and Alfred Merritt under the spell of a firm of lawyers, Anak A. Harris and his son, Henry E. Harris. He says these lawyers appeared in Duluth early in 1894 from somewhere in Kansas. The Harris firm, he says, induced the Merritts to let their option with Mr. Rockefeller run out and to bring suit against him for damages. "The complaint," he says, "was that the Merritts had bought Mr. Rockefeller's Wisconsin and Cuban hard ore stock in the celebrated Consolidation agreement of the year before under misapprehension; that Leonidas Merritt had been deceived into doing this to the damage of himself and his brothers by fraudulent misrepresentations made to him by Mr. Rockefeller personally and afterwards by Mr. Gates as Mr. Rockefeller's agent. This particular suit was a test case. If Alfred Merritt was to recover the full amount demanded, all the brothers and perhaps all the stockholders could recover in succession. In fact, according to the Harris arithmetic and the Harris view of law and equity, the Consolidated company in the mere act of buying from Mr. Rockefeller the offending mining stocks for about $2,000,000, had been damaged to the extent of about $10,000,000 cash."

Mr. Gates devotes considerable space to an argument to show that the Cuban and Wisconsin properties that he sold to the Merritt interests were good properties and that they have been paying well. He says that the attorneys with whom the Merritts consulted at New York before they made the deal with Mr. Rockefeller, were Judge John F. Dillon and Rush Taggart, lawyers of national reputation. He declares that it was very strange if these eminent attorneys could not find and point out to their clients the swindling game that was afterwards alleged by the Harris firm to have been practiced upon the Merritts by the Rockefeller interests.

The Call on Rockefeller.

Mr. Gates says: "Leonidas Merritt went on the stand and swore that he had met Mr. Rockefeller only once, that this five-minute call which I have described took place in June, before he signed the contract of July 1, that he was deceived and led to sign by what Mr. Rockefeller then said, that the interview was three-quarters of an hour long, and that Mr. Rockefeller poured into his ear representations about his Wisconsin and Cuban mines with the loquacity of Leonidas Merritt himself booming Missabes."

He also says in this connection: "Of course Mr. Rockefeller made oath, as did I, that there was no suggestion of business in the few minutes' call. Mr. Rockefeller's chief clerk corroborated the length and attendant circumstances. All three made oath that the time of the call was about the middle of July. That was the important fact. It was after the contract of July 1 had been signed by all parties, and, in very truth, only because it had been signed, that Mr. Rockefeller, who, for years, had transacted in person no business with strangers, and for this reason had hitherto declined to see Mr. Merritt, now consented to a social hand clasp, no business to be talked. Mark the date well. The date is July 12, 1893, after signing the contract of July 1, and as a result of the contract, not an inducement to it."

The Duluth Trial.

In regard to the trial he says: "We were unfortunate in having to try the case in the city of Duluth just at that time. According to stories then current, the Merritts—and there were many brothers — owed pretty nearly everybody in town. I am credibly informed that public sentiment was not averse to their paying their debts, and to the circulation of some Rockefeller money in Duluth. However, this may be, it is quite certain that the jury never listened to the testimony. As to the judge — well, he was reversed. We were hopelessly beaten before we began. The actual fact was, as I am informed by our attorneys, that in the light of the evidence presented, and in the light of the decision of the United States circuit court of appeals, and in th light of sound law and practice, the case should have been dismissed without going to the jury at all. With heartless cruelty to the Merritts, the upper court coolly reversed the trial judge. This was how Leonidas Merritt lost faith in the courts and the Merritts began to think of getting by settlement some small fraction of the several millions which they are now hopeless of getting through the courts.

"While they were groping about for the best way of opening negotiations, their lawyer, Henry E. Harris, tried to sell to our attorney in Duluth, Joseph B. Cotton, for $25,000 a telegram from Leonidas Merritt in New York addressed to his secretary in Duluth, saying he had that day an interview with Mr. Rockefeller. The telegram was dated July 12, 1893."

In explanation of the motives of the Rockefeller interests for settling after they had defeated the Merritts, Mr. Gates said it was to aviod trouble and future litigation, as the Merritts claimed millions; to obtain a complete retraction of their charges, which was filed by twenty-three members of the Merritt family; and to forestall any claim that might be made by the Merritt interests to the option of buying back the 55,000 shares of the Consolidated, which had begun to show great value. This option the Merritts had allowed to lapse.

Mr. Gates crowns his philippic against the doings of the Harris law firm by relating a story of a suit brought by Alfred Merritt against Anak A. Harris to recover certain mining stocks, which Mr. Merritt alleged he placed in the hands of Mr. Harris as security for his receiving a $10,000 fee; also to recover certain documents and papers connected with the Rockefeller suit, which documents Mr. Harris is alleged to have refused to give up unless he was paid an additional $25,000. According to Mr. Gates the jury brought in a verdict against the Harrises in less than half an hour.

The writer concludes with the words: "Henry E. Harris left Duluth shortly afterwards. Other troubles followed him and he soon died. Anak A. Harris, the father, not long after, followed his son to the grave. I have disturbed the ashes of the dead only because compelled to do so in justice of the living."

DUKE GOES TO CALL ON TAFT

the duchess of Connaught and their daughter, the Princess Patricia, will remain in this city as the guests of Ambassador and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid. Tonight the royal visitors plan to attend an opera and there has been a great rush to obtain tickets in order to see the duchess and the princess.

The duke, accompanied by Col. Lowther, left for Washington on the Pennsylvania railroad at 11:10 o'clock.

Reception All Planned.

Washington, Jan. 25.—Arrangements for the reception of the duke of Connaught as completed by the White House and state department provide that the uncle of one king and brother of another will be received as simply as possible, consistent with etiquette. The duke will go through the program unsupported except for the British ambassador, James Bryce, the staff of the British embassy and his personal aide, Col Lowther.

Altogether, his stay in the capital of this country will be brief and during most of his six or seven hours in Washington he will be on home territory, under the British flag, on the acre or two covered by the British embassy building and grounds.

Will Arrive at 4:20.

According to the official announcement given out at the White House, the duke will arrive at 4:20 p. m. Maj. A. W. Butt, personal aide of President Taft, will meet him at the union station, and with the British ambassador and the embassy staff, will form his escort to the embassy. White House automobiles will convey the duke from the station to the embassy.

At 5 o'clock the duke is expected to reach the White House. He will be driven from the embassy in a White House motor escorted by a squadron of cavalry. The cavalry will form a guard of honor up to the portico of the executive mansion, and will deploy on the driveway in front while he enters to be received. Just in front of the porte cochere the Fifteenth cavalry band will be stationed, and as the royal visitor enters, it will play "God Save the King."

The duke will be received by President Taft in much the same way as new ambassadors are received. As he enters the executive mansion he will be met by the military and naval aides of the president and escorted to the green room, and then taken to the blue room with British ambassador Bryce and Third Assistant Secretary of State Chandler Hale. He will be presented formally to President Taft by the British ambassador. After the duke is introduced, his staff will be presented.

Mrs. Taft Will Serve Tea.

Following this, Mrs. Taft will serve tea for the duke and the ambassador in the red room. Members of the cabinet and their wives have been invited to be present. The duke will leave the White House after this informal reception is over and the band outside will play "The Star Spangled Banner." The squadron of cavalry will escort him back to the British embassy, and shortly after he has stepped on British territory again, the president, accompanied by Maj. Butt, will return his call.

So far as the government is concerned this will conclude the duke's visit to Washington.

standing and is regarded as sacred by Twin City interests. During his cross-examination this morning G. Roy Hall, traffic commissioner of the Duluth Commercial club, disclosed a clew to its origin. Intimation has been made that when the old Lake Superior & Mississippi railroad, the first line between the Twin Cities and Duluth, was organized, it was financed largely by Twin City interests. The capital was furnished, it was intimated, under a contract that provided for a 15-cent differential on lake and rail shipments. The Lake Superior & Mississippi defaulted in 1875 and the line later became the St. Paul & Duluth, and then the Northern Pacific, but the 15-cent differential has come down to this day with the exception of a period of twenty-nine days some years ago when it was 19 cents. A copy of the contract and the records of the court proceedings in which the receivership of the Lake Superior & Mississippi road was involved have not been found.

Jolt For Twin Cities.

Mr. Hall threw a jolt into the Twin City interests this morning when he advanced the suggestion that Duluth believes the lake and rail rate should be broken at Duluth and the Twin Cities charged the local rate, 35 cents, from this port to destination. Judge Dille, counsel for the Minneapolis Traffic association, sought to break Mr. Hall's position by the contention that other inland points are given favored rates, lake and rail, through other gateways. It was later brought out that under the Minnesota distance schedule, the charge possible for a haul of 152 miles is 51 cents and that the 35-cent local rate is a special rate already is Mr. Hall's contention and the contention in Duluth's case.

Duluth's case was brought to an end this morning. Summed up it is that the whole structure of lake and rail rates is discriminatory against Duluth and preferential of the Twin Cities. It was brought out this morning by the testimony of boat men that package freight rates have been constantly increasing while bulk freight rates have been decreasing on the lakes, and that the increase in package freight rates came despite the fact that improved waterways have decreased the cost of operation. James T. Rose and D. T. Helm gave as their opinion that, considering the higher costs of handling freight in the Chicago harbor, rates to Duluth should be lower than to Chicago, but they are higher. At the same time, Attorney Sullivan explained that Duluth is not attacking the Chicago rates on a commercial basis, for Chicago is not a trade competitor with Duluth, but the rates are attacked on a transportation basis as not in keeping with the costs of the service.

Mr. Sullivan also said that subpoenas are out for rate men of Western railroads, but they have not been found, and he reserved the right to introduce their testimony later.

R. A. Horr, manager and treasurer of Stone-Ordean-Wells company, was on the stand this morning. He was formerly in business in Detroit and Port Huron, Mich., and he testified that all lake and rail rates are broken at Detroit.

Vessel Earnings.

James T. Rose and D. T. Helm were put on the stand and testified to the earning power of package freighters and bulk carriers and the costs of operation. Both said that they believed rates to Duluth should be lower than to Chicago. They said that the increased distance would be absorbed by the time saved in port and the smaller expense of harbor handling.

T. P. Eyman, assistant freight traffic manager of the Chicago & North Western railroad, testified that the divisions of lake and rail rates through Lake Michigan ports are not such that the earnings on that business pay their share of the general expenses. He said it is a case of taking the small divisions, or going without the business. The difference is made up on other traffic, he said.

Hail Cross-Examined.

The cross-examination of G. Roy Hall by Judge Dille was the most interesting part of the morning hearing. They went into the history of the rates and Mr. Hall contended that the history was one of preferences to the Twin Cities. He did not agree with Judge Dille's suggestion that an increase of the lake and rail rate to the Twin Cities to $1.03 by a combination of the lake and rail rate to Duluth and the local rate from Duluth would change the relative movement of freight over the all-rail and the lake and rail routes.

Under cross-examination by Mr. Wright, Mr. Hall's statement that the condition existing at Minneapolis and St. Paul, in reference to lake-and-rail and all-rail rates, was not equaled anywhere in the United States, was questioned. Mr. Hall admitted that the lake-and-rail rates at St. Louis, for instance, are lower than the all-rail rates, but he pointed out that the differential in favor of the lake-and-rail rates at St. Louis is 10 cents, while at St. Paul it is 32 cents.

Mr. Hall was also subjected to cross-examination on details by J. D. Armstrong of the Great Northern and E. S. Ballard of the Trunk lines.

In connection with Julius H. Barnes' testimony yesterday afternoon, a statement was placed in evidence this morning showing that in 1895 the total tonnage of the Duluth-Superior harbor was about 7,000,000 tons and the percentage of certain commodities in package freight traffic was 4.77 per cent, while in 1910, out of a total of 37,000,000 tons, the commodities named had a percentage of only 2.45 per cent.

The commissioners' room at the St. Louis county courthouse, where the hearing is being held, was again crowded this morning. The railroads and Twin City interests are fighting every inch of the way and they have legal talent that is not to be despised in any battle before court or commission. In the spectators' seats are scores of railroad officials, agents and traffic men, representatives of business interests of Duluth and the Twin Cities, all interested in the outcome of the case on which depends the future of Duluth

Wednesday's Hearing.

G. Roy Hall, traffic commissioner of the Duluth Commercial club and the first witness on the stand yesterday afternoon, laid the foundation for Duluth's case. He brought out:

That as long ago as twenty years a stipulation was made by the railroads that freight rates west of Duluth on shipments originating here should not be considered in making lake and rail rates.

That rates on bulk products in the transportation of which there is competition have decreased constantly, while package freight rates, controlled by the railroad-owned boat lines, have increased.

That package freight rates are fixed so as to divert traffic from the Duluth gateway to the Chicago gateway, despite the fact that Duluth has admittedly the best harbor on the lakes, and the costs of handling in Chicago are greatly in excess of the cost in Duluth.

Mr. Hall charged that Duluth rates are made on the basis of Chicago rates and he declared that the practice is a discrimination against the consumers of the Northwest, who are entitled to the advantage if Duluth's excellent harbor and cheap handling facilities.

Mr. Hall also charged that lake and rail rates are made by the railroad companies owning the boat lines, and that the basis of rates is intended to divert traffic from the lakes. "The tendency to base rates on the longest and most expensive route is wrong in principle," he said. "The condition which allows the rates on boat lines to be fixed by the railroads with which the boats are supposed to be competing, is an injustice to the shippers."

Mr. Hall introduced exhibits of rates to support his statements. He introduced several exhibits showing the class and commodity rates from the East to St. Paul and Minneapolis, lake and rail, the lake rate to Duluth, the differential, Minneapolis and St. Paul over Duluth, and the local rate from Duluth to Minneapolis and St. Paul.

"They show very clearly the astonishing perferences given Minneapolis and St. Paul," he said. "On one commodity, vinegar, the lake and rail rate to St. Paul is lower than it is to Duluth, although such shipments must pass through Duluth."

"The whole scheme of lake and rail rates is fictitious," said Mr. Hall. He declared that the railroads say the rates are based on water competition, but the fact is the railroads would get a haul, anyway, if the rates were broken at the ports and the claim that an extension of lake and rail rates is necessary will not stand.

To show the preference given Minneapolis and St. Paul, Mr. Hall called attention to the fact that the lake and rail rate from New York to St. Paul is 83 cents, first class. From New York to Buffalo, the proportional is 35.6 cents, the local rate 39 cents, a difference of 3.4 cents. On the lake to Duluth, the proportional is 29.2 cents, the local rate 41 cents and the difference 11.8 cents. From Duluth to St. Paul, the proportional is 18.2 cents, the local rate 35 cents, and the difference 16.8 cents.

The Western lines attacked the Minnesota rate commission's basis of rates on the ground that a rate of 41 cents for a haul of 152 miles was confiscatory. The basis now makes the rate 51 cents, and yet the railroads accept 16.8 cents for a haul of the same distance. Mr. Hall calmed that the proportional for the haul from the Head of the Lakes inland should conform in some respect to the local rates in this section of the country.

"If the preferences extended to St. Paul and Minneapolis were extended to other points, the entire Western rate structure would be demoralized," he said.

As an example of the difference in rates through the Chicago gateway and through the Duluth gateway, Mr. Hall pointed to Clinton, Iowa. The rate New York to Clinton, all rail, is 97 cents. Lake and rail via Chicago, it is 87 cents. New York to St. Paul, all rail, is $1.15. Lake and rail, New York to St. Paul via Duluth, is 83 cents. Yet Clinton is nearer to Lake Michigan than St. Paul is to Lake Superior. The difference between the all rail and the lake rates at Clinton is 10 cents, while St. Paul is conceded 32 cents.

Free Storage.

Mr. Hall unsparingly attacked the free storage of freight in railroad warehouses at the Head of the Lakes. Local traffic delivered to railroad warehouses is charged dockage and storage. Local traffic delivered on cars is charged car service and storage. Freight in transit is stored free and the privilege of reconsignment is also given.

Mr. Hall charged that the railroads conducted a regular warehouse business without charge to the shippers. He said that different consignments of commodities are piled up together, the original consignee gives an order for a certain quantity to be reconsigned to another point, the railroad picks out the quantity without regard to point of origin and sends it to the point named in the order. The effects, he said, is to have a branch house without charge for handling or taxes on the jobbers. There is a time limit of one year on storage in warehouses at the Head of the Lakes but at Lake Michigan ports, where the boat lines furnish the warehouses, there is no time limit. The practice is unique, the witness said, for he could not find that at any point on the oceans, free storage was allowed for more than thirty days.

"The practice often subjects the the jobber with a large investment in his business to competition with some broker, who hasn't a cent invested and has his office in his hat," he declared, "if the carrier would invoice the goods and make collections, the broker would be up against no expense and would be imposed upon to the extent of accepting his profits."

Mr. Hall introduced a number of exhibits to show violations of the long and short haul close in lake and rail rates and also to show violations of the provision of the interstate commerce law prohibiting a through rate higher than a combination of locals.

Attorneys for the railroads, as well as local people in attendance at the hearing, were high in their praise of the manner in which Mr. Hall submitted Duluth's case. The exhibits represented months of work and Mr. Hall's testimony showed the results of years of study.

Mr. Barnes on Stand.

Julius H. Barnes, chairman of the traffic commission, was the second witness called for Duluth. While Mr. Hall had dealt with the traffic side of the subject, Mr. Barnes touched on the commercial side. He said the competition between boat lines had tended to cheapen bulk freight transportation charges, while the monopoly of the railroads in the package freight business had increased rates. There is no incentive to build boats he said.

Mr. Barnes said that in his opinion there has been a deliberate purpose behind the building of the lake and rail rate structure to induce carriers to take the rail route. Mr. Barnes said that the Twin Cities should not be considered at all in the making of lake and rail rates, but that the territory should be divided between Chicago and Duluth, by a line drawn in a southwesterly direction. Mr. Barnes said that the testimony of W. P. Trickett, the Minneapolis traffic association's commissioner, in the Flour City case, had supported that contention.

From 1895 to 1910, Mr. Barnes said, the tonnage of Duluth-Superior harbor had increased from 7,000,000 tons to 37,000,000 tons, yet Duluth has the same two hardware houses and three grocery houses. Duluth cannot enter the Twin Cities or go through them and its territory is restricted to the territory immediately adjacent.

At the evening session, Mr. Barnes went into the charges of discrimination and quoted rates. He said, that despite the fact that $7,000,000 had been spent on the Duluth-Superior harbor, the package freight lines had held up their rates in the face of decreased handling charges.

A. M. Marshall, president of Marshall-Wells Hardware company, who said that the combined business of the company's houses at Duluth, Winnipeg, Portland and Spokane is $13,000,000 a year, said that he located in Duluth because it was regarded as an ideal place for a wholesale business. He said he thought rate discriminations would disappear with years, but they have not. He mentioned the railroads that built into Duluth recently and said that discriminatory lake and rail rates are holding Duluth back.

B. W. How, treasurer of Kelly-How-Thomson company, corroborated Mr. Marshall's testimony. He said that it cost his company $21,000 a year in storage charges, a charge that does not lie against Twin City jobbers diverting consignments from Duluth.

"LILY WHITES" RUN LOUISIANA G. O. P.

Results of Primaries in the State Are Practically Complete.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 25.—The so-called "Lily Whites" are still in control of the Republican party affairs in this state, according to the result of the Republican primary for governor, held yesterday. The returns show H. S. Suthon received 559 votes against C. J. Bell's 405. This faction also got four out of six members on the state central committee-at-large. It is understood that the "Black and Tans" will contest the election.

Murphy J. Foster, Louisiana's 'anti-lottery governor" from 1892 to 1900 and for the last eleven years a member of the United States senate, was probably defeated for renomination by Representative Joseph E. Ransdell of the Fifth Louisiana district in the Democratic primaries. Practically complete returns indicate that Mr. Ransdell will win by from 3,000 to 4,000 majority. Senator Foster's term expires in March, 1913.

MINERS ADOPT RECALL SCHEME

Amend Constitution of Union So as to Permit Changes in Officers.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 25.—Recall of international officials of the United Mine Workers of America is provided in a constitutional amendment adopted today by the miners' convention. Ten per cent of the membership may initiate a recall, and on petition of 8(per cent an election shall be held.

Attempts by some of the leaders, especially among the Socialists, to reduce the percentage, failed, though they declared the recall machinery as stipulated was too cumbersome ever to be effective.

President John P. White urged caution in introducing the reform, and supported the plan as adopted. He declared in favor of recall of judges and said if it had been available years ago trades unionism would not have suffered the wrongs from the courts that had impeded its progress.

VALUABLES AND GUINEA PIG SAFE

Safe Deposit Patrons Take Possessions From Equitable Fire Ruins.

New York, Jan. 25.—The debris having been sufficiently cleared away, two of the three vaults of the Mercantile Safe Deposit company in the Equitable building were thrown open to holders of safe deposit boxes today, and a long line of persons began taking out securities.

Police guarded the work and box holders were required to present cards of admission issued by the company. Although some of the boxes were dripping with water, there was apparently no damage to the contents.

A little guinea pig that had lived sixteen days without food or water was taken from its wire cage in the ruins of the building today. The animal, which was to have been used for experimental purposes, was found by a chemist attached to the medical department when he visited the ruins of his laboratory. It greeted its rescuer with squeals of delight. It is probable the little survivor will never be subjected to another experiment.

News and Views of Minnesota Politics

Woodrow Wilson Club.

Duluth people are too greatly interested in the city campaign right now to take many active steps in national or state politics, but immediately after the city election, which will be held Feb. 6, activity in both parties is expected.

One of the first steps will be taken by the Democrats favorable to the candidacy of Woodrow Wilson for president. A call, signed by prominent Democrats of Duluth, will very likely be issued shortly after the city election, for a meeting for the organization of a club favorable to Wilson's candidacy. Similar action was taken at Minneapolis recently and a club of over 100 strong Democrats was organized to further the Wilson campaign in this state.

Indications now are that the Minnesota delegation will be for Wilson, as there is little talk favorable to other candidates, but the Wilson men do not intend to rest on indications. They are going out for the delegation.

Many prominent Duluth Democrats have already expressed a preference for the New Jersey governor and the call for the organization of a Wilson club should result in a strong working organization.

Anderson Repudiated.

As forecasted in this column a few days ago, the men responsible for Congressman Sydney Anderson of the First district have repudiated him. The Progressive Newspaper league, which stirred up the opposition to Tawney and supported Anderson in the last campaign, at a meeting held at Owatonna yesterday declared the young congressman a failure. Resolutions were adopted declaring that Mr. Anderson had neglected to fulfill his pre-election pledges, and that he had voted with the Democrats "to the detriment of truly progressive measures, and to the embarrassment of Progressive Republicans."

In the same breath, the league declared that Former Congressman Tawney should take no comfort out of the action, as they were as glad now as they ever were that he had been eliminated from congress.

Some of the patriots who brought Anderson out were decidedly peeved in the first instance because Anderson had won and any one of them might have done the same. The Progressives of the First district are not any too strong for La Follette, and Anderson's ardent advocacy of the Wisconsin senator nettled them. Then Sydney has been accused of being a wee bit oversatisfied with himself. He is very young and some of the old boys think a more mature party worker should be in the halls of congress. Anderson isn't going to back down and there should be a grand little war between the Progressives in the First district this year.

Roosevelt Sentiment.

Another significant action in the meeting of the Progressive Newspaper league was a straw vote on president. Eight editors declared for Roosevelt as first choice and two for Taft. La Follette didn't get a vote for first choice, but was complimented by four for second choice. Three voted for Cummins as second choice.

The Progressives of Minnesota who are working for a La Follette delegation are genuinely alarmed at the growth of Roosevelt sentiment and they fear that even if the delegate convention is controlled by the Progressives, their candidate will be sidetracked. They intend to make no compromise with the Roosevelt men, but are for La Follette, first, last and all the time.

Anti-Saloon League's Position.

The contention that county option will not be an issue in the coming campaign in Minnesota is supported by the action of the Anti-Saloon league in not requiring that the candidate receiving its indorsement declare for county option. The league members failed to choose between Gordon and Lee at their meeting in Minneapolis yesterday, but they will, before the campaign is far advanced, throw their support to some foe of the breweries. The league will be active, as it has been in the past, and rests its hope of success for its principles on the nomination of a candidate who conforms to its standards.

Simpson Is Reticent.

George T. Simpson, who up to Jan. 1 was attorney general of Minnesota and who caused a sensation in the state by his denunciation of Boss Smith, is in Duluth as attorney for the Minneapolis Traffic association in the lake and rail rate case hearing.

Mr. Simpson is not talking politics. When approached on that subject yesterday, he had but one answer, "I have left the vaudeville stage and have returned to the legitimate, so that they cannot accuse me of playing to the galleries," was the statement with which every newspaper man was met. Further than that, Mr. Simpson had nothing to say on politics.

Mr. Simpson did touch briefly on the case now pending before the United States supreme court and involving the constitutionality of the gross earnings law. The case directly involves the collection of gross earnings on the intrastate proportion of interstate express business, but it applies equally to railroad gross earnings.

"I do hope the decision of Justice Bunn is sustained," said Mr. Simpson. "It is a good decision and, although the case has some dangerous features, I believe we have a good case and that the decision should be sustained. I hope it will be."

OVERCOMES PAINFUL DISEASES

Says This Recipe Is Easily Prepared at Home and Said to Force the Kidneys to Filter Uric Acid and Waste Matter From the Blood—Nothing Like It Known to Act So Properly and Thoroughly.

The following prescription for the cure of Dyspepsia, Rheumatism and Kidney and Bladder troubles has no doubt been filled millions of times, viz. Fluid Extract Juniper Berries, one ounce; Compound Fluid Balmwort, one ounce; Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites, four ounces. These simple, harmless ingredients can be obtained at any good prescription pharmacy at little cost and are mixed by shaking well in a bottle.

The dose for adults is a teaspoonful before each meal and at bed time, drinking a full tumblerful of water after each dose. It is stated that this prescription is a positive remedy for dyspepsia, kidney trouble, lame back, weak bladder and urinary difficulties, especially to the elderly people, and one of the best things to be used in rheumatic afflictions, relieving the aches and pains and reducing swelling.

A well-known authority states that this mixture acts directly upon the eliminative tissues of the kidneys, cleanses these spongelike organs and gives them power to sift and strain the poisonous waste matter and uric acid from the blood which is the cause of rheumatism.

If your back and sides ache and you suspect stomach or kidney trouble it would be wise to try this for a few days.

TO PLAN FIRE PROTECTION

State Forester Asks Railroad Officials to Meet Rangers.

Conference at Brainerd Is Proposed for Feb. 10.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—To arrange for co-operation between the railroads and the state forestry service during the dangerous fire season of 1912, W. T. Cox, state forester, has called a meeting of railroad officials and forest rangers to be held at Brainerd, Feb. 10, to outline a plan for fire prevention and fire protection. Although two months or more probably will elapse before the season for forest fires begins, Mr. Cox proposes to have arrangements completed for protecting Northern Minnesota when that time arrives.

Thirty invitations are going out from the forester's office today, addressed to railroad presidents, general managers and superintendents, asking them to be present. Officials of all roads which operate in Northern and Central Minnesota are included.

Problems to Be Considered.

The problems of patroling right-of-ways, clearing them of combustible material, building fire-lines at the sides, equipping engines with spark arresters, organization with the state forestry service, will be taken up. Effort will be made to take up matters of greatest interest to the roads, and Mr. Cox believes they will respond to the call. Railroads are responsible to property owners along their lines for damage from fires which are started by trains or section men, and it costs them thousands of dollars each year to settle claims which arise from such conflagrations.

Railroads Are Helping.

The railroads have not shown an antagonistic attitude toward the forestry service on the fire problem, Mr. Cox said. They realize the importance of its assistance. During the dangerous season there will be fifteen rangers and about 175 patrolmen all doing more or less to prevent damage to property resulting from train operation. Last year many of the lines put "speeders" on their tracks to follow each train and many fires were prevented by the men operating them. The last session of the legislature, in amending the fire protection laws, passed an act which authorizes towns and villages in the fire zone to levy a 5-mill tax to raise money with which to pay fire patrolmen. These patrolmen will be added to the usual force this year and Mr. Cox expects to have the best organized fire-fighting brigade the state has ever had.

DETECTIVES CONVICTED OF MISUSING MAILS.

Philadelphia, Jan. 25.—The conviction of Gilbert B. Perkins and William B. Franklin, detectives of Erie, Pa., on a charge of using the mails to extort money, is announced. They are accused of sending Black Hand letters to Mrs. Annie M. Strong of Erie, Pa., after the tomb of her father, William F. Strong, had been broken into.

ONE KILLED WHEN BOB IS STRUCK BY AUTO.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—An automobile crashed into a loaded bob sled used by coasters on a hill in the southern part of the city last night, and Walter Clegg, 11 years old, was killed, Louis Batsk, 16 years old, suffered a broken leg and internal injuries; Patrick Dundon was pierced through the lungs with a splinter of wood, and both legs of Charles Holmes, 14 years old, were broken. Three other boys on the sled for the "last ride" for the night were bruised and cut, none seriously.

Batsk was steering the "bob." He saw the automobile, but was unable to turn out. Clegg, sitting behind Batsk, was hurled thirty feet against a tree on his father's lawn.

KENYON OUT FOR CUMMINS

Says He Will Support Colleague in Opposition to Taft.

Washington, Jan. 25.—Senator Kenyon of Iowa has issued a statement announcing his indorsement of the presidential candidacy of his colleague, Senator Albert B. Cummins. He said he had been earnestly for President Taft, and would have continued to support him if a suitable candidate had not appeared from his own state.

Senator Kenyon, in a formal statement, declared he had been earnestly for the renomination of President Taft, especially because of the attack of men connected with "big business," who, the senator said, "sought to destroy the president because of his courageous efforts to enforce the Sherman act."

"Had no suitable candidate from my own state been presented," he said, "I should have continued to advocate his nomination."

Mr. Kenyon closed with a warm tribute to the public career of Senator Cummins.

VICTIM OF RACING LAW COMMITS SUICIDE.

New York, Jan. 25.—I'm all in, no money; a gambler's life is honey one day and the next day nothing."

So wrote Louis Korn, an old-time book-maker, destitute, sick and deserted by friends of other and prosperous days, shortly before he shot and killed himself in his cold room in a poor section of the city yesterday. A coroner's physician found that Korn was emaciated from starvation.

Korn's days of opulence ended with the passage of the laws which killed horse-racing. Convinced at last that his dream of a revival of the sport here was most unlikely to be realized, he found means to get a revolver, and his dead body was found with the note of farewell lying nearby.

Young Mothers

No young woman, in the joy of coming motherhood, should neglect to prepare her system for the physical ordeal she is to undergo. The health of both she and her coming child depends largely upon the care she bestows upon herself during the waiting months. Mother's Friend prepares the expectant mother's system for the coming event, and its use makes her comfortable during all the term. It works with and for nature, and by gradually expanding all tissues, muscles and tendons, involved, and keeping the breasts in good condition, brings the woman to the crisis in splendid physical condition. The baby too is more apt to be perfect and strong where the mother has thus prepared herself for nature's supreme function. No better advice could be given a young expectant mother than that she use Mother's Friend; it is a medicine that has proven its value in thousands of cases. Mother's Friend is sold at drug stores. URGES FIGHT ON MAIL ORDER MEN

L. C. Boyle of Kansas Says Country Merchants Must Combine.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 25.—"If the country merchants are to save themselves from being swept out of existence by the big mail order houses they must organize for their own protection," said L. C. Boyle, former attorney general of Kansas, today in an address here before the Southwestern Lumbermen's association, meeting in annual session.

"The insistent clamor to destroy the country merchants was first heard," Mr. Boyle said, "simultaneously with the birth of the mail order houses. The demand to eliminate the middle man applies only to country merchants, because the mail order houses confine their operations to country districts.

"I am forced to believe that if the farmer and laborer but understood the situation aright, the mail order business would be short lived.

"The solution of the problem lies in a close, militant, aggressive organization. The rule of reason was applied to the Standard Oil case and this was done to meet the business exigencies of the great organization. If the courts will not apply the same rule when the little fellow is concerned, let all the little fellows get together and make a tremendously big fellow and then he can apply the rule of reason."

Would Welcome Rate Investigation Provided for By City Charter

Are you going to vote to borrow $700,000 on your property with which to build a city-owned and operated lighting plant which the City's Engineers say cannot supply the City's needs?

Let us figure this out; $700,000 at 4½ per cent for 30 years means an interest charge of $945,000. This added to the principal makes a total of $1,645,000 and for a plant that cannot supply the City's needs.

How much more of your money will have to be spend in the 30 years?

Why throw away your money when you can have a BETTER SERVICE and the LOWEST RATE in the United States from the Duluth-Edison Electric Co?

The City Charter makes the following provision:

"Regulation of Rates.

"Section 464. The City shall have the power to regulate and control, in the manner hereinafter prescribed, the maximum price to be charged by any corporation or persons exercising any franchise in the city for the service rendered by it to the city, and to any other person or corporation, but such price shall be fair and reasonable to such public service corporation or person, and to the public.

"Proceedings to Fix Rates.

"Section 465. The mayor or the common council MAY, and upon the written petition of five hundred (500) voters of the city SHALL make and file with the city clerk a complaint, setting forth and alleging that the tariff of rates, fares, charges, or parts thereof, of any such corporation hereinafter mentioned, are in any respect unequal or unreasonable. The common council shall forthwith forward a copy of such complaint to the person or corporation complained of and such person or corporation shall within twenty (20) days, make answer thereto, and if such person or corporation refuses to comply with the demands of the complaints, then said common council shall, within fifty (50) days after the filing of such complaint, appoint three (3) disinterested persons as a commission to investigate and report upon the question of rates and charges so complained of. Said commission shall be residents of the City of Duluth and shall have resided therein at least five (5) years next preceding the date of their appointment."

Succeeding sections provide that the council shall have the power of review over the findings of its commission.

THE DULUTH - EDISON COMPANY WOULD WELCOME AN INVESTIGATION UNDER THE TERMS OF THIS PROVISION.

REVISE SCHOOL COURSES.

Radical Changes Are to Be Made at Once in Chicago.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—Radical rearrangement of the curriculum of the Chicago public schools is to begin at once, it is announced by the board of education, which has approved a plan suggested by President J. B. McFatrick of the board and Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, superintendent of schools. Efficiency will be the chief object in view when the new courses are adopted. Following are component parts of the new plan:

Extension of practical vocational training; complete rearrangement of high school courses; improvement of the textbook system; extension of instruction in household arts; education of defective, delinquent and dependent children; extension of social centers and school yard improvement; classification of pupils according to their physical capacity was recommended as a basis for establishing the selection of courses. Before Allowing an Operation

Please Read These Two Letters.

The following letter from Mrs. Orville Rock will prove how unwise it is for women to submit to the dangers of a surgical operation when it may be avoided by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She was four weeks in the hospital and came home suffering worse than before. Then after all that suffering Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound restored her health.

HERE IS HER OWN STATEMENT.

Paw Paw, Mich.—"Two years ago I suffered very severely with a displacement—I could not be on my feet for a long time. My physician treated me for several months without much relief, and at last sent me to Ann Arbor for an operation. I was there four weeks and came home suffering worse than before. My mother advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I did. To-day I am well and strong and do all my own housework. I owe my health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and advise every woman who is afflicted with any female complaint to try it."—Mrs. ORVILLE ROCK, R. R. No. 5, Paw Paw, Mich.

"THERE NEVER WAS A WORSE CASE."

Rockport, Ind.—"There never was a worse case of women's ills than mine, and I cannot begin to tell you what I suffered. For over two years I was not able to do anything. I was in bed for a month and the doctor said nothing but an operation would cure me. My father suggested Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; so to please him I took it, and I improved wonderfully, so I am able to travel, ride horseback, take long rides and never feel any ill effects from it. I can only ask other suffering women to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial before submitting to an operation."—Mrs. MARGARET MEREDITH, R. F. D. No. 3, Rockport, Ind.

We will pay a handsome reward to any person who will prove to us that these letters are not genuine and truthful—or that either of these women were paid in any way for their testimonials, or that the original letter from each did not come to us entirely unsolicited.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No one sick with woman's ailments does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine, made from roots and herbs, it has restored so many suffering women to health.

Write to LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO. (CONFIDENTIAL) LYNN, MASS., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

TEACHER SUES FOR SLANDER AND IS SHOT.

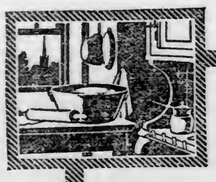

Salem, Va., Jan. 25.—Attempts to oust a county teacher from her school, led to the killing yesterday of Miss Eva Chambers, the teacher, by Joshua Raines, husband of a leader in the ouster attempt. She was shot to death near her school at Lockett's store in Roanoke county. Raines surrendered and was hurried to Pulaski because a lynching was feared. Some time ago Raines sought to have the teacher removed, and it is charged, circulated reports reflecting on her character. Miss Chambers instituted a suit for slander. Rainer called upon the teacher at her school and tried to get her consent to dismiss the case. When she refused, he shot her.

Raines also shot Charles Day because of his enmity toward him growing out of the teacher affair. Day is not dangerously wounded.

LUMBERMAN URGES HARMON'S NOMINATION.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 25.—In what he termed a "little family talk," R. A. Long of Kansas City, a wealthy lumberman and widely known throughout the country as a philanthropist, before the opening session of the Southwestern Lumbermen's association, declared that Governor Harmon of Ohio was the only man who as president could bring about a settled condition of financial affairs in this country. Mr. Long therefore urged the delegates to use their influence toward making the Ohio executive the next president of the nation.

Sessions of the lumbermen's convention were given over to routine matters.

ONLY ONE MORE WEEK TO GIVE ADVICE TO THE MAN WITH HIS FIRST $1,000

Herald Contest Will Close at Noon Next Wednesday.

Many Violating the Rules—Letters Still Coming in Freely.

There is only one week more of The Herald contest.

Letters are still coming in, and probably would continue to do so indefinitely, as the problem is one which seems to interest the average person.

Some of the answers are facetious, notably one which is published tonight. Others lapse into rhyme, but still the Great American Hen seems to call the majority of the contestants. There is apparently a fascination about a chicken farm which few can resist, and many have visions of money easily earned in raising chickens.

The contest will close next Wednesday at noon, and no letters received after that time will be considered.

Many are violating the rules in their answers and these letters will not be considered. The letters must not be written on both sides of the paper. The name must be signed at the top, and the letter must not be more than 300 words in length.

Scores of letters have been received which have not yet been published, owing to lack of space, or because some of the rules were violated. Any letters advertising some particular mining stock, or piece of land are also barred.

Following are some of the letters received today.

Carl G. Carlson, Pelland, Minn.—I am 14 years old and if I had $1,000 I would invest it all in land in the Little Fork valley, Koochiching county, Northern Minnesota, where the soil is good for farming. There is also plenty of wood to burn when it gets to 50 deg. below zero, as it is nowadays. I would keep the land on speculation. It surely will be valuable some day, as railroads and automobile roads are coming through the country. So when I get to be 21 years old I might have a piece of valuable land. That is what I advise any one who has $1,000.

Clifford Peterson, Swanville, Minn.—If I had the $1,000 I would invest it in land. I would choose about thirty acres of land to begin with at a price of about $20 an acre. I would raise poultry to support my family. I would buy a cheap team of horses to work the farm with, then I would saw trees and take them to the mill. I would build a good barn and house. Then I could buy a few cows and sell milk and cream. I would raise calves and sell them. I could buy more land afterwards, and in this way would earn a living.

C. R. Peterson, 117 West First street, Duluth: My receipt to the man with $1,000 is as follows: Loan your money in sums of from $25 to $75 on short time, never over ninety days. Charge the highest rate of interest that the law allows, charge a commission for furnishing the money and every time you renew it. Build a shack on a piece of land far enough out so that you can get it for $1 or $2 a year. Be near a creek so you can have free water. Use kerosene for light. Burn pine stumps to save the coal bill. Choke rabbits and buy no meat. Raise your potatoes and vegetables to save buying them. Get the Evening Herald from your neighbor when he is through with it to save buying it. If it is too far to walk to town get a mule. The average life of an automobile is three years while no one ever saw a dead mule. If you aim to become rich you must surrender every object in life, get all the money you can and keep all you get. You must deny yourself comforts and luxuries; work much and spend little. This is the price most men have paid for their wealth except a few here in Duluth who have had the fortune to fall into an iron mine. Five cents a day saved with compound interest amounts to $230.69, in ten years. Every $100 spent at the age of 20 will at a legal rate of interest compounded annually become $3,000 at the age of 70. A man with elegant tastes and expensive habits, especially a pet with the ladies, will never get rich, with prosperity without economy is impossible.

Hope E. Clemens, 201 Exchange Building, Duluth: If I were in the place of the man with his first $1,000

With my first thousand dollars,
Were I a man as you
I think I'd do a duty
That every man should do.

One-tenth of what I'd possess,
I'd donate to some "good,"
Thus freely help some poor soul
Who has no clothes nor food.

Now, since I've done my duty
I feel relieved and sure
That my "nine hundred dollars"
Some fortune will secure.

The rural fields are beck'ning
To me with their great hand.
I take "a portion more" then
And buy a piece of land.

A little rustic cabin,
We build it for our own,
And then we make our garden
From various seeds, well sown.

A cow, two pigs and chickens
We'll keep to "start something."
Our little ball commenced to roll.
Just watch what it will bring.

We live, yes, very simply,
But health is worth lots more
Than living in the city,
With doctor bills, a score.

We reap our crops, and milk our cow.
And live on home churn'd butter,
And eggs, and pork and beans, and milk.
"High living?"—we don't sputter.

We'll never starve, that's one thing sure,
And still we'll earn some money.
We'll be rich yet, I'll wager you.
If not, I'll think it funny.

And now those dear ten years are gone.
"Our" home is in the city.
(If you don't follow my advice
I'll think it's just a pity.)

A. J. Larson, 115 Mandan avenue, Bismarck, N. D.—My advise to the man with the $1,000 is to buy one acre of land near the city, and start a chicken farm and keep on working at your present position until you can be independent from your chickens. Put in your own heating plant and they will lay well. You can sell your eggs at 45 cents per dozen in the winter and spring chicken for fries in the summer.

Catherine McDonald, 9 Eighth street, Cloquet, Minn.—In answer to your question "What shall I do with my first $1,000?" If I had $1,000 I would buy a comfortable home near my occupation, and continue to work at the same place. Then I would pay for it by the month. I would have about two or three lots and raise enough potatoes, onions, string beans lettuce, peas, turnips and other vegetables to last my family all winter.

Then I would start a bank account. I think this would be a very good investment for a man who has $1,000, and a wife and two children to support. I hope you will find a good way to invest your first $1,000.

Oscar F. Peterson, Dorris, Atkin county, Minn.—The man with $1,000 can do no better than go out in the settled country, buy five acres of land, plant one acre in potatoes and garden stuff, and four acres in raspberries and strawberries. He will more than double his money. After doing this he can live an independent country life.

Miss Gertrude Stock, 928 East Sixth street: I advise the man who has the first $1,000 to take up night school and study for some high position that requires brain work, and not dependent on others. You, of course, can keep on working until you have finished studying, then open up a lawyer's or doctor's office.

"I'VE GOT THE FIRST $1,000; WHAT SHALL I DO WITH IT?"

For the second of its series of contests The Herald has an interesting problem which comes to it in the form of a letter that explains itself:

To the Editor of The Herald:

We have often been told—at least we used to be—by rich men that the hardest work on the road to wealth is to get the first $1,000.

I've got that sum now—saved it out of my salary during ten years. Who will tell me how to go the rest of the way? How shall I invest it? Shall I go into business, and what kind, and how?

I am 35 years old, with a wife and two small children, and have a fair position with a living salary, but that's about all. Probably I could, if nothing happened, save another $1,000 in another ten years, but with the cost of living going up faster than salaries—and I can't expect mine to go much higher than it is—it is going to be harder. If I am ever going to start out for myself and gain independence or wealth, now is the time for me to begin, while I am strong and healthy and young.

What shall I do with myself and my $1,000—and my family?

Here's a real problem, a vital one that will interest everybody; and The Herald hopes to see a large and interesting variety of answers. It hopes, too, that men who have traveled the road that lies before this young inquirer will take part in the discussion. The prizes will, of course, be no temptation to them; but this is a subject of wide interest, and they should be glad to contribute their wisdom and experience to its solution.

Write out your answer, limit it to 300 words, put your name and address at the top of the sheet, write on one side of the paper only, and send it to the Contest Editor of The Herald before Feb. 1.

For the best answer to this young man's problem The Herald will give a prize of $10.

For the next best answer The Herald will give a prize of $5.

For the third best answer The Herald will give a prize of $3.

RUSSIA AND THE TREATY OF 1832

Premier Kokovtsoff Says No Ground Was Afforded for Abrogation.

New York, Jan. 25.—In the current issue of Collier's appears an article giving Russia's attitude on the abrogated treaty as formally defined by the Russian premier, Vladimir Kokovtsoff, in response to submitted questions. The premier denies that Russia has afforded the United States any ground for abrogating the treaty, and explains:

"The treaty of 1832 was made exclusively for commercial purposes, and a clause in the very first article stipulated that American citizens arriving in Russia, and Russian subjects arriving in the United States, should be subject to the internal laws and regulations of the respective countries. The entry of American citizens of Jewish faith into Russia is not absolutely prohibited. With respect to them as to other American citizens, and in strict accordance with the stipulations of the treaty, our country enforces certain rules. These rules were established by Russian internal legislation which permits the entry into Russia of foreign Jews only in definite cases. The rules have been in force ever since the treaty was concluded, and there never has been any cause to doubt the legality, and there could not be any, because the enforcement, as before pointed out, was stipulated in the treaty itself."

All Jews Treated Alike.

Russia, the premier says, has treated American Jews exactly on the same basis as all other foreign Jews without exception. To allow free entry of foreign Jews into Russia is obviously impossible under the circumstances. They would then enjoy greater rights in Russia than Russia's own Jewish subjects. Therein lies the special reason for the discrimination which Russia practices toward foreign Jews wishing to enter Russia.

The Russian government, says the premier, has not yet expressed any intention of applying reprisals toward goods of American origin. The proposals for reprisals originated in various quarters, but the government has not yet indicated in any manner its attitude thereon. The future course of the whole affair must depend upon the negotiations which will follow between the governments regarding the basis of the new agreement. Proposals to this purpose must come from the American government as the side which declared abrogation.

PHYSICIAN ADVISES CUTICURA REMEDIES

For Eczema. Patient's Wrist and Shin Itched Like Poison. Scratched Until They Bled. Says: "Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured Me."

Three Rivers, Mich. — "Four years ago I had places break out on my wrist and on my shin which would itch and burn by spells, and scratching them would not seem to give any relief. When the trouble first began, my wrist and shin itched like poison. I would scratch those places until they would bleed before I could get any relief. Afterwards the places would scale over, and the flesh underneath would look red and feverish. Sometimes it would begin to itch until it would waken me from my sleep, and I would have to go through the scratching ordeal again.

"I consulted our physician in regard to it, and he pronounced it "dry eczema." I used an ointment which the doctor gave me, but it did no good. Then he advised me to try the Cuticura Remedies. As this trouble has been in our family for years, and is considered hereditary, I felt anxious to try to head it off. I got the Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Pills, and they seemed to be just what I needed.

"The disease was making great headway on my system until I got the Cuticura Remedies which have cleared my skin of the great pest. From the time the eczema healed four years ago, until now, I have never felt any of its pest, and I am thankful to the Cuticura Soap and Ointment which certainly cured me. I always use the Cuticura Soap for toilet, and I hope other sufferers from skin diseases will use the Cuticura Soap and Ointment." (Signed) Irven Hutchison, Mar. 16, 1911.

MORSE IS TOO ILL TO LEAVE ARMY HOSPITAL.

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 25.—Charles W. Morse still is at the post hospital at Fort McPherson, too ill to be moved. Ever since President Taft commuted his sentence last week, the ex-banker has pleaded with his physicians to have him removed to a private hospital.

"While Mr. Morse has been mentally uplifted by the president's action in his case," said Dr. A. L. Fowler, "his physical condition is such that it would be dangerous to attempt to move him now."

Dr. Fowler said there was no hope for Morse's ultimate recovery. Morse has been so ill that Dr. Fowler would not permit his personal attorney, Thomas B. Felder, to see him.

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 25.—Edward Grosscup, chairman of the state Democratic committee, has issued a statement declaring that Governor Wilson will have a majority of the New Jersey delegates to the national Democratic convention and practically a solid pledge in the delegation.

OHIO POLICE LOOKING FOR LOST SCHOOL GIRL.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Jan. 25.—The Cincinnati police have been called into the search for Miss Edna Ford, 18-year-old student at the West college for women, Oxford. The request was made after C. F. Scotman of Beaverdam, Ky., had asked the police of Louisville to look for the girl.

She disappeared Jan. 14, while en route to Oxford to resume her school work after the holidays. Friends and relatives have heard nothing of her since. Miss Ford is described as a brunette.

KANSAS GIRLS OBJECT TO IMPORTED BRIDES.

Peabody, Kan., Jan. 25.—"As a matter of state pride we urge that Kansas men look to the girls at home for wives, instead of seeking women in a foreign country, about the disposition, character and temperament of whom they have no knowledge."

This appeal appears in a local paper that recently printed a request for husbands from a club of eligible young women in Stockholm, Sweden.

Today's statement, signed with the given names of twelve Peabody girls, says:

"The undersigned desire to exercise their leap year privilege by protesting against the men of this country making such efforts to get wives from Sweden.

"We desire to state that right here in Peabody there are young ladies who, in personal appearance, education, culture, refinement and in business, cooking and housekeeping ability, are the peers of any woman in the world."

Chicago, Jan. 25.—Chauncey Dewey state committeeman from the First congressional district, will manage the Illinois campaign for nominating Theodore Roosevelt for president.

BEACHY AND PARMALEE THRILL AVIATION CROWD.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 25.—A stiff breeze that blew in fearful gusts kept all except the more expert aviators on the ground yesterday, the fifth of the third annual aviation meet at Dominguez field. The amateur flyers had been warned not to fly by the representatives of the Aero Club of America. Despite this warning, however, Farnum Fish, the 17-year-old Los Angeles aviator, made several flights during the day.

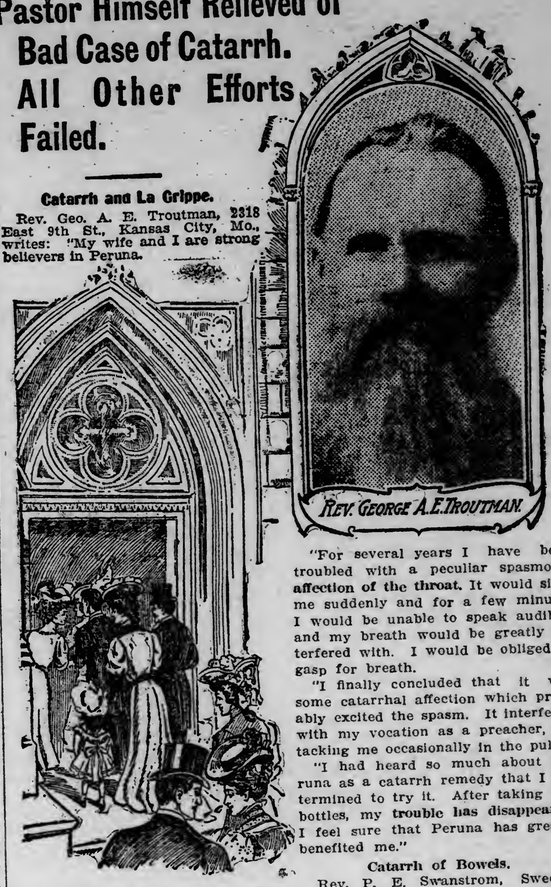

Sensational flights were made by Lincoln Beachy and Phil Parmalee. The former climbed to an altitude of 5,000 feet and stopped his motor, vol-planing to the ground in long graceful spirals. Parmalee reached an altitude of more than 6,000 feet. Beachy showed best in the speed trials.

NEW YORK CITY'S DEBT IS $1,037,811,718.

New York, Jan. 25.—According to official figures submitted to Mayor Gaynor by the financial department, New York City's total debt at the beginning of 1912 was $1,037,811,718, or approximately $2,000,000 more than the public debt of the United States. During 1911 the funded debt increased $71,432,485, of which $44,200,000 represents bond issues for rapid transit work and the new water supply system.

REV. GEORGE A. E. TROUTMAN.

Catarrh and La Grippe.

Rev. Geo. A. E. Troutman, 2318 East 9th St., Kansas City, Mo., writes: "My wife and I are strong believers in Peruna.

I was cured of a bad case of catarrh when nothing else that I tried had any effect. My wife was cured from a severe case of la grippe, and we feel that the least we can do is to gratefully acknowledge the merit of Peruna.

"My wife joins me in sending best wishes for your success."

Throat Trouble.

Rev. H. W. Tate, 628 West 10th Street, Indianapolis, Indiana, writes:

"For several years I have been troubled with a peculiar spasmodic affection of the throat. It would sieze me suddenly and for a few minutes I would be unable to speak audibly, and my breath would be greatly interfered with. I would be obliged to gasp for breath.

"I finally concluded that it was some catarrhal affection which probably excited the spasm. It interfered with my vocation as a preacher, attacking me occasionally in the pulpit.

"I had heard so much about Peruna as a catarrh remedy that I determined to try it. After taking two bottles, my trouble has disappeared. I feel sure that Peruna has greatly benefited me."

Catarrh of Bowels.

Rev. P. E. Swanstrom, Swedish Baptist Pastor, R. R. 4, Grantsburg, Wis., writes:

"I feel that is is my duty as well as pleasure to let you know that I am perfectly well, entirely cured of chronic diarrhoea and catarrh.

"I thank you for your directions how to use Peruna, and for your kindness to me. I have used Peruna according to your personal directions, and I am very glad that I found a medicine which would cure me after three years' suffering."

THE EFFECTS OF AN EPISODE.

The Herald has watched very carefully the results of the recent Wilson-Harpers' Weekly-Waterson episode, and it finds them to be as follows:

1. Those who were against Wodrow Wilson because he is not willing to give his sanction to hoary injustices in the political and economic life of the nation, are now against him because, in reply to a direct question, he informed the editor of Harper's Weekly that its support was injurious to him.

2. Those who were for Woodrow Wilson because he is not willing to give his sanction to hoary injustices in the political and economic life of the nation, are now for him because he rejected the support of a Morganized newspaper.

In other words, the episode has given Governor Wilson's opponents another trifle to talk about, but it has strengthened his hold upon those who see in him the kind of man the Democrats ought to nominate for the presidency and the kind of man the people ought to elect.

CHARTER AMENDMENT NO. 2.

The second charter amendment on the ballot isn't very spectacular or very interesting, but it's mighty important, and it ought to be adopted.

If it is not adopted the city of Duluth is going against some pretty hard sledding in a short while.

The city charter was framed shortly following a time of panic and depression, when taxes based on boom day extravagance were all but confiscatory, and in many cases all of that. In seeking to guard against further extravagance, the charter commission perhaps leaned a little backward. Besides limiting the number of mills that could be taxed against property for general city purposes, it also made a flat limit of $320,000 in the amount that could be levied for these purposes.

As the city then could and did get on very well with levies considerably less than this amount, no harm was done. But meanwhile the city was growing, and as its needs increased the tax levies crowded closer and closer upon that rigid limitation. For the last two years the city has levied the full amount. It has got along, but all the time its needs are increasing. Though it can levy no more until that limitation is removed, presently it is going to need more; and no matter how much the assessed valuation of the city grows, it cannot levy a penny more than $320,000 until the charter is amended.

Only the people can make this change. They will have a chance to make it Feb. 6 by voting "Yes" on the second amendment. If they do not vote "yes," the time is going to come quickly when everybody who failed to do so will regret it.

The charter provides that the levies for general city purposes shall not amount to a tax greater than 11 mills. The amendment leaves this as it is; and this is the proper basis for such a limitation. As the city grows its assessed valuation increases, and a tax of 11 mills will constantly yield more revenue. It safeguards against extravagance, but it is elastic.

But the flat limitation in the amount that can be levied is dangerous. No matter how much the city grows, even if it becomes a community of a million souls, it can't spend a penny more than $320,000 a year for certain purposes unless this amendment is adopted.

It is easy to imagine what that may mean. It will soon mean a big city tied fast to an expenditure blocked out for a small city. It will soon mean a city lacking police protection and forced to cut down on expenditures that are absolutely vital to its well-being.

This amendment should be ratified by the voters at the election Feb. 6. That can only be if every voter completes his duty and votes on the charter amendments. If a little more than two out of five voters fail to vote on this amendment it will fail, even though not a single negative vote is cast.

COLDS.

In case you do not know what a "cold" is, Dr. W. A. Evans, who is conducting a "How to Be Well" department in the Chicago Tribune, describes it:

"A cold begins with a localized raw dryness at some point in the nose. There is some aching and a little fever. A few hours later a clear liquid begins to flow from the nose and the aching and general ill feeling persists. The uncomfortable area spreads until all of the upper breathing passages feel 'raw.' By this time the secretion from the nose begins to thicken and whiten. The infection is now spreading down the larynx into the bronchial tubes, and the cough is becoming prominent. The nose secretion changes from a clear water to whitish mucus, and finally to gray pus and mucus. And now the symptoms begin to subside. In a few days the soreness of the throat and nose passes away, but the nose secretion and the cough hold on for a few weeks."

Now you will know what's the matter when you have these familiar symptoms.

But what is more important is Dr. Evans's true statement that this disorder, which most people treat lightly and disregard all too much, is really dangerous if neglected, and that it ought to be treated far more seriously than it is.

Says Dr. Evans: "I have given these details because it is this type of cold that I have had in mind when advising people with colds to go to bed and send for a physician. The bacteria are spreading along the surface from the nose to the bronchi, and what is of more consequence, they are spreading from the surface to the underlying blood vessels, and, through them, are being scattered widely—proof that they are capable of infecting the host and those with whom he comes in contact. From the standpoint of the sick man this is the kind of cold which demands care, since it results in pneumonia, heart and kidney disease and rheumatism."

Don't despise and neglect a cold. Though it seems a small thing because it does not lay you flat on your back and because, in ordinary circumstances, it does not last very long, it is one of the small things that are capable of breeding great things; in this case serious illness and even death.

Dr. Evans's advice to those afflicted with colds that they go to bed and send for the doctor is good. Unfortunately not many people are in a position to do this. Even though they are taking their lives in their hands, they must go to work. Few employers, liberal though they may be with cases of serious illness, are willing to spare needed employes on the plea that they are home sick with a cold. In many cases two or three days away from employment means the loss of that much wages; and such people, in these days of a bitterly high cost of living, are in no position to stand such a loss.

Those who can, however, should take this advice. Those who cannot should do the best they can. They can be careful about taking more cold, they can eat lightly, they can keep out of crowded halls and street cars, with their infested air, as much as possible; and they can give their sleeping rooms plenty of clean, fresh air to help the blood attack and destroy the germs that are causing the disorder. And they can be careful, too, about spreading their colds to others, for colds are contagious, and ten are caused by infection where one is caused by "drafts"—which are nothing but fresh air in motion.

REGISTER SATURDAY.

At the close of the second day of registration for the coming city election 7,691 voters had their names on the lists and therefore were eligible to vote.

Probably as many more citizens and partners in the community are not registered, and therefore will be ineligible to vote unless they register Saturday, which is their last chance.

Duluth has a population of about 85,000, and this means about 17,000 families. Unquestionable there is an average of at least one man of voting age to the family. Some are not naturalized, but probably 3,000 would be a liberal estimate of this element. This leaves 14,000 voters; and but 7,691 are registered.

Every voter ought to be registered and ought to vote. That many habitually fail to register or vote is evident from the fact that in the presidential election of 1908 only 11,648 were registered in Duluth. Those who do not vote are poor citizens. They rank with the corrupt, the careless and the mentally and morally defective voters who are purchasable or easily misled.

Don't let yourself get into this class. Exercise your right of citizenship, and assume the responsibilities that rest upon you as a part owner of the community in which you live.

Matters of vast importance to the community and to every man, woman and child in it are to be decided at the city election Feb. 6. If you are not registered you cannot vote. If you do not vote you are a poor citizen, undeserving of the privilege and glory of citizenship.

Register Saturday. It's your last chance.

A GOOD MEASURE.

The house of representatives yesterday passed an act requiring the president to make public all the recommendations on which appointments to Federal judgeships, from the supreme court down, are made. The Democrats mostly voted "aye," the Republicans mostly voted "no."

This is a very good measure, and the senate ought to pass it. Certainly no harm can come of it. Certainly the people have a right to know all about who has a part in picking the judges who pass on their litigation.

It's a good thing, from one viewpoint, that this measure is not made retroactive. A good many Federal judgeships go back to the days when railroads were the greatest power in politics, and when, therefore, they had a good deal to say about the selection of Federal judges. If this measure had been made retroactive, therefore, it might go far to account for the bias shown by some Federal judges.

REGULATING AUTOMOBILE TRAFFIC.

Local chauffeurs, who are compelled to undergo examinations as to their fitness before getting state licenses to operate automobiles, are reported as being indignant and resentful about it.

A spirit of obedience to law and of greater submissiveness to public sentiment would be more becoming. The state has thought it proper to safeguard the public, which traveled the highways long before automobiles were dreamed of and still claims its rights there, against unnecessary perils from automobile drivers who are incompetent; and the state is acting wisely and in the public interests when it does this. Neither chauffeurs nor automobile owners can criticize very much the automobile law of this state. It was prepared very largely by the automobile owners themselves, and it was changed very little by the legislature. The reason the automobile owners prepared this law is that they realized that if they did not somebody else would, and they wisely chose to do it themselves. They were wise enough, too, to make their proposed law adequate; otherwise it would have been rejected and something far more stringent would have been put in effect.

In a local article in The Herald local drivers are quoted as saying that the owner of a car should be the sole judge of the competency of his chauffeur, and that there is no more reason why the public should insist on the competence of chauffeurs than there is why it should insist that no man shall employ an incompetent bookkeeper. The parallel is so weak that it does not require analysis.

So far, no automobile regulation laws that are oppressive have been adopted in this state, and if automobile owners and drivers accept existing laws in the proper spirit there will be none. But as the public has had to reconcile itself to this new feature in the traffic on public highways, so must those interested in it reconcile themselves to reasonable regulation in the public interest.

HOW TO APPEAR TRAVELED.

There is nothing that goes farther toward making one appear widely traveled than to use the local pronunciations of the names of cities. For instance, if you have been to Los Angeles you won't say "Loss Anjelees," but "Loce Ang-hay-lais." If you have been to New Orleans you won't say "New OrLEANS," but "New ORleans," with the accent on the "or" instead of on the "leans"; and you may say "Nyawrleans." By saying "Spokann" instead of "Spokayne," "Terry Hut" instead of "Terre Hote", "Layfayette" instead of "Lafayette," "West Bayden" instead of "West Bahden" or "Badden," and "San Hosay" instead of "San Joze" for San Jose, you can make almost anybody believe you are a familiar visitor to all these places.

TEDDY THE RECEPTIVE

By SAVOYARD.

Is Roosevelt a candidate? One day we hear he is; the next they say he is not. The cuckoo papers would have us believe that there is a perfect understanding between the president that is and the president that was, and that the colonel is for Taft; but why all this mystery? In the spring of 1904 there was a lusty boom for Grover Cleveland, and there is little doubt that it would have swept everything before it, but Mr. Cleveland in half a dozen sentences took himself out of the calculation and there was no more heard of it. It is doubtful if the colonel could do that if he should attempt it, for, great man that he is, or, rather, was, his word does not carry the conviction of sincerity that Mr. Cleveland's did.

Upon his return from Africa in 1910 Roosevelt was the foremost personality on the planet. He was the most illustrious citizen living and a third with Washington and Lincoln in the entire roll of Americans—those that were, as well as those that are. Nobody but himself could harm him. He was too exalted for the shafts of envy or malice to reach him. He enjoyed more popularity than any other man who ever attained to the presidency—more than Washington or Jackson, more than Lincoln or Grant. All he had to do to retain that favoritism and remain the first personality of his time was to act as an ex-president should act. Grover Cleveland and Ben Harrison has just shown him how to behave himself.

But he would not. He plunged into politics, up to the elbow, and not very clean politics, either. He made a tour of the country and delivered himself of a series of stump speeches as full of egotism as can be found in the autobiography of Benvenuto Cellini. If he had been a Roman emperor, a Trajab or Probus, he could not have promised more, or assumed capacity or authority for more than he did promise. Like another, Coriolanus, it seemed that he

> Would depopulate the city and
> Be every man himself.

He was going to reform everything, and make everything behave. There was to be no more gloom in the sky, no more dearth in the field, no more want in the household, no more fraud in the mart, no more simony in the church, no more graft in the state. He was going to abolish poverty and banish grief. He was going to uptrip the devil himself.

And folks began to suspect that there was as much mud as would fill a dozen hods in this figure that we had taken for solid marble, so blatant he was. He went into Connecticut and ordered them to beat Bladwin. He was in the Middle West and denounced Harmon and Marshall. He put the machine to flight in New York, took personal command and played the ran-cat from Long Island Sound to Lake Erie, and when the fight was over he was down and out. He had plunged from the pedestal on which public opinion had set him and he will never climb back upon it again. There is no resurrection for your political suicide.

If he is not a candidate for president now he is acting mighty queerly. Why that agonizing explanation of the Harriman boodle fund by a Mr. Sheldon that does not exactly explain? Harriman, the boss of Wall Street, raised $260,000, and it went into the hands of the immaculate Cortelyou, and Harriman said it bought 50,000 votes in Greater New York alone. He did not set about gathering the boodle until Roosevelt writ him thus:

"My dear Mr. Harriman: A suggestion has come to me in a roundabout way that you do not think it wise to come to see me in these closing weeks of the campaign, but that you are reluctant to refuse inasmuch as I have asked you. Now, my dear sir, you and I are practical men, and you are on the ground and know the conditions better than I do. If ou ythink there is any danger of your visit to me better than I do. If you think there is nothing special I need to be informed about, or no matter on which I could give aid, why, of course, give up the visit for the time being, and then a few weeks hence, before I write my message, I shall get you to come down to discusse certain government matters not concerned with the campaign. With great regards."

That don't need any explanation. It is self-explantory. The wayfaring man though a fool can read that and understand it. Had any other president but Teddy writ it it would have damned him to everlasting fame. But then he was the one president capable of writing it.

In his voluminous writings Roosevelt is as much of a free-trader as Frank Hurd or Roger Q. Mills. He was president more than seven years, during all of which time the robber tariff was grinding the people and creating monopolies and unconscionable trusts; but it was bad manners for anybody to utter the word "tariff" in the precincts of the White House. There was an octopus chase, such as it was, but just such a chase as a chief huntsman whose place had been bought by the octopus was sure to give us; and it is history that there was more complaint of the octopus when Teddy went out than there was before he came in. What harm did he visit on the octopus? Name it.

He admits that the octopus bullied him. At the hour of midnight the Steel trust descended from Wall Street with a threat to bankrupt the country by means of a ruinous financial panic and a withering industrial depression unless the president in utter contenpt and flagrant violation of law granted it indulgence to absorb its chief rival, the Tennessee Coal & Iron company, and he made a craven surrender. Had he been president some four-score years earlier the United States bank would have bullied him just the same. It tried to bully Maj.-Gen. Andy Jackson, and he smote it, and it was not. There is the difference between a real octopus chaser and a sham octopus chaser.

It may be that by spring the weakness of Taft will be so manifest that the G. O. P. will turn to another candidate. If good luck has not bidden it a final goodbye, it will draft Hughes from the supreme bench, though it is likely that Wall Street would not allow that. Failing Hughes, Roosevelt would be the man, and he connot get it unless Wall Street orders Vice-President Sherman, Boss Barnes, ex-Speaker Wadsworth and other "up-state" sandpatters to be for him. Thus the only possible way for Roosevelt to get the nomination is to give Wall Street a bond of good behavior, and that is exactly what that letter to Harriman quoted in the foegoing was.

Will Roosevelt give the bond? Will a duck swim?

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

UNION CHURCH WILL WELCOME "LUMBERJACKS."

To the Editor of The Herald:

Seeing the discussion in The Herald as to where men from the woods can profitably spend their time when in town, I want to say that they will always be given a cordial welcome to our services. Our church is primarily what the name indicates, a union meeting place for all nationalities and creeds, and we, as true followers of our Master, gladly welcome one and all. Our particular aim is not to build up our membership from other creeds and churches, but to give a religious home to all those who, perhaps, have never had a church home, and the final test we put to any organization is, inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, My brethren, ye have done it unto Me." Our Endeavor society especially wants to urge on all those who find themselves in the city without a place to go to, that they come and unite with us and spend their time profitably. Our conveniences as a small organization are limited, but we hope the time will come when we shall be on a better basis with an institutional church that shall have open doors every night in the week for all those who come to town under such circumstances as described by a lumberjack friend in a previous issue of your paper.

MUNICIPAL LODGING HOUSE AS SOLUTION.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Considerable interest has been aroused in connection with the "lumberjack" problem, and no doubt he will "sit up and take notice" of the good advice being showered on him, and has decided to postpone his pessimistic purpose to end it all, and not make any attempt to stop a train by getting in front of the cow catcher, for the present at least. In fact, the man graph, under the heading "Fishing Reup a tree would advise "lumberjack" to postpone this last idea indefinitely. He will get lots of fun out of this would yet, meantime get to work again, and devote your spare time to advising and providing some means whereby both you and your fellowmen in like circumstances may avoid falling into the trap set for you. Now that know them keep away from them. Naturally you ask where then can I go? One of the political parties seeking recognition in the coming municipal election has embodied a plank in its platform labeled "municipal lodging house." I do not know what this means, but there is nothing to binder you or me to suggest to the new council, no matter what its personnel, what would be an ideal "municipal lodging house." It would go without saying that no one would be relieved of his valuables during his stay there. This lodging house would have ample accommodations in the way of amusements, including pool tables, and other suitable games, reading rooms, with literature of special interest to "lumberjacks," and other workmen who may find it necessary to make use of such a place, an auditorium of sufficient capacity for the occupants of this home, (home sounds better) where addresses of special interest could be made in the evening hours. A moving picture apparatus could be installed to advantage. Some evenings in the auditorium could be devoted to the display of "home" talent, and there need be no limit to the "stunts," from singing a song to gymnastic feats, speeches and discussions on interestings subjects, etc. Would "lumberjack" prefer this to bowery attractions. If so, tell us, and we will try to wake up the city "dads" to the fact that they must provide for the lumberjacks and other workmen without homes of their own, something to offset if not take the place of the evil influences. Yours for the good of humanity,

MAN UP A TREE.

MERCHANT'S SIDE OF "LUMBERJACK" STORY.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Mr. "Ex-Lumberjack" in advising the lumberjack what to do with his winter's earnings, is incidentally taking a rap at the merchants. Having known these men for a number of years, I know that they are not such dupes as some people would take them to be.

Here are a few of their methods of purchasing, in vogue along Superior street. The working class or lumberjack, if you please, when bent on purchasing, always travel in pairs or quartets. If Jack is in need of a pair of shoes, those shoes also have to suit the fancy of Erick, Pat and Swan. It is up to the salesman to convince the whole "audience" that the shoes or pants are the proper article, then the "audience" commence to haggle over the price. Every one of the three knockers has a few words to say about the price and quality, etc. After a half hour or more bickering, an agreement is finally reached, and Jack is about to pay for those shoes, one of the "interested parties" asks the clerk "where are the socks?" As no self-respecting lumberjack will wear shoes minus socks, for fear like Sockless Simpson, he might go down in history as the sockless lumberjack, though nothing was said about socks before the price for the shoes was agreed upon, but according to lumberjack etiquette, socks are always "thrown in" with each pair of shoes. A pair of pants in not a pair of pants unless a pair of braces are "thrown in," and no shirt is complete unless the dealer includes a tie free. A watch can't tell the time of day unless it is accompanied by a chain and charm gratis. Should the dealer refuse to give anything away free Mr. Lumberjack censes to "have a strong sense of honor," and he backs right out of his bargain, and his "word" is not so good as Mr. "Ex-Lumberjack" pictures it.

A MERCHANT.

Tench, Roach or Barbel.

Chicago Evening Post: In all humbleness we are confessing our inability to understand the Chinese. Do we understand any other nation? Do we have any comprehension of the English?

This is preliminary to recording the graphic fact that the London Telegports, by Special Wire," prints daily such notes as these:

UPPER THAMES (Goring and District)—A great number of roach were taken last week-end, many over one pound being taken with gentles and worms. Perch are rather small. The river is still running very fast.

LOWER THAMES (Windsor and District)—There is still a very strong stream on, and the water is too thick for jack and chub fishing. Ledgering with lob-worms seems most promising. If the swim is well baited fine catches of barbel and roach should result.

LEA—The rivers have now cleared, and better sport should be had. Roach, chub, pike and perch should be on the feed. A few roach and pike have been taken, but nothing of note.

ARUN (Pulborough)—The water has gone down and is gradually fining. The banks can be fished from in most parts of the river. Should the weather continue fine the fishing may be fairly good this week-end.

ITCHEN—Trout are now busy on the spawning beds, and there is quite an average number up. Three anglers came out after grayling last week-end, but beyond catching a few undersized ones did nothing. Fly is sparce, and few fish are surface feeding.

Out of this we can pick out with one hand the words and phrases an American would know. What are "tench," "roach" or "barbel?" Probably "chub" and "perch" mean something far different from what they do over here. How does one "catch with gentles" or "ledger with lob-worms?" And what is the water doing when it's "fining?"

These questions are puzzling enough, but they are merely surface mysteries. The real problem is—how in the world can there be all this fuss over fish that weigh one pound? When this country of tarpon and muskellunge can understand that, it will have fathomed the very depths of the British soul.

Solitaire.

Washington Star: "Who's that man who just kicked the chair over and threw a pack of cards into the fireplace?" inquired one waiter.

"Oh," replied the other, "he's the gentleman who tries to rest his nerves by playing solitaire."

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1892.

•••A drawing was held at the city clerk's office this morning for positions on the ballots at the coming city elections. As the result of the drawing the names of the candidates for mayor will appear in the following order: M. J. Davis, Charles d'Autremont, Charles A. Long, J. A. Mannheim. Mr. Bresland's name will not appear, as the petition he presented was not in the proper form.

•••Republican headquarters has been fitted up in the Burrows building, and Capt. Smallwood, C. A. Towne and Judge Morris will act as a bureau of "publicity and promotion." J. B. Sutphin, A. C. Otis and E. C. Holliday have been named as an executive committee, with Mr. Sutphin as chairman.

•••The Charleston Mining company was organized today by A. E. Humphreys, Frank Woodman, John McKinley and William McKinley, capitalized at $1,250,000. The property adjoins that of the Mountain Iron company.

•••William Birch has taken the position in G. J. Mallory's office at West Duluth lately vacated by G. E. Hall.

•••Miss Mary Burly and Peter Anderson, both of West Duluth, were married on Jan. 23 by Judge Heimbaugh.

•••Several gentlemen, prominent among who is Rev. W. M. Barkes, are endeavoring to secure the quarters about to be vacated by the Kitchi Gammi club and establish a club for young men, to be fitted up for billiards and other amusements.

•••Miss Emma Colby of Big Lake, Minn., is a guest of Mrs. Robert Grant at West Duluth.

•••The decision of Judge Start in the case of Richardson, Day & Co. vs. the Duluth Street Railway company was filed with the district court today. The question at issue was whether an appeal from an order of injunction nullified its force. The decision is in the negative and is a victory for Richardson, Day & Co. The decision says practically that after an injunction is issued it remains in force until it has been passed upon by a court of last appeal. The question was an entirely new one for this state. The street railway company is held to be guilty of contempt and is fined $75. It must now abandon the line over the property in question or be guilty of continued contempt.

•••J. P. Flood returned to the city yesterday after an absence of six months.

•••Mrs. Brown of East Troy, Wis., who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. J. H. Heimbach, for several weeks past, returned home today.

MORE ECHOES OF HARMONY.

It's Old Colossus Himself.

Cass Lake Tribune: Eberhart says no campaign for him, he will stand on his record. Now isn't that colossal—not the record, but the conceit?

Time Will Tell.

St. Peter Herald: W. E. Lee of Long Prairie, former speaker of the house of representatives, has announced himself as a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor. His platform is drawn along progressive lines, and it is not unlike that of Sam Gordon. It is doubtful whether either will land the nomination. The candidacy of each will weaken that of the other, and the division in the ranks of the opposition will work well with the plans of wily Ed Smith.

Unity is Advised.

Minneota Mascot: We see by the papers that William E. Lee wants to be governor; that he announced himself a candidate for the office at that same time that Mr. Gordon announced his candidacy. This man Lee wanted to be governor in 1910, but somehow or other there did not seem to exist much demand for him at that time and so far we have failed to notice, in any paper, or hear from any quarter a request for his entry into the race now. This is said in all friendliness but with candor. Mr. Lee is no doubt a capable gentleman and to judge by what we have seen of his platform stands for clean politics and efficient administration. But the trouble is going to be that his coming into the fight is going to make it a three-cornered affair and the progressive element will be loser. We are sorry to see this. Gordon is no doubt a much stronger man than Lee and we can not but feel that Lee's candidacy will injure Mr. Gordon without doing Lee enough good to get him anything. The progressives must make up their minds to agree and to put forward only one man if they expect to win this year.

Unrest in Minnesota.

Alexandria Post-News: The announcements of Gordon and Lee indicate a deep seated unrest in this state and dissatisfaction with the present situation. That several are seeking to become the standard bearer of the progressive movement in Minnesota need not necessarily embarrass the advocates of a more progressive policy in public affairs. The friends of the various candidates should be able to eliminate all personal feeling and rally to the support of the one who will develop the greater strength in the approaching campaign. The contest promises to be one of the most interesting of many years in this state.

Sam Has It.

Aurora News: If Sam Gordon has as much backbone as his platform would indicate, he has at least started something in Minnesota politics that will not end with the present state campaign.

People Are Retiring the Bosses.

Fairmount Sentinel: Republican hostilities have opened, and from this time on there will be good fighting on every inch of Minnesota territory until the contest is settled in the Republican state convention. Governor Eberhart has a powerful machine in which the breweries and the railroads are the bull wheels. The chances favor Eberhart, but this is a day of political surprises. The boss of yesterday is a back number today. It may be that Minnesota as well as Wisconsin is due for an awakening and a regeneration. So mote it be.

Adolph's Owners.

Sauk Center Herald: The platforms announced by Sam Gordon and W. E. Lee declare for a whole lot of things the plain people want, but are not likely to make them "stand in" with the interests. But that isn't necessary, for Adolph is theirs, soul, body and breeches.

The People's Duty.

Ada Herald: There has been a great demand on the part of the people in general that the next governor of Minnesota be a man who will represent the interests of the people of the state. The time is drawing near when the people will be given an opportunity to show just how much they have been in earnest and it is up to them to assert their opinions and wishes at the primaries and conventions to be held this year.

Literature and Slang.

Collier's: "Boose," as a word connected with taking strong waters, dates back two centuries, and in the spelling "bouze" may be found at even as remote a date as 1300. "Fresh," in its signification of forward comes from 1803. "Some pumpkins," popular slang in bucolic circles, is of ancient lineage. "Gab' has been slang for a century. "Stag," on the fence between slang and English, has survived generations. In the "Knickerbocker Magazine" of 1856 we find an author telling of "a party of old bricks who . . are keeping up a small stag party at the end of the room." "Squelch" in the seventeenth century was in good use. Of two words in vogue to express drunkenness half a centry ago, "tight" is much alive, while "whittled" has been dropped. There are no fixed laws to gauge the life of slang or to predict its entrance into the language. Will "high-brow," for example, find its way into the mouths of grandchildren yet unborn, or will it take its place in the ranks of obsolete curiosities?

When a Fellow's Ill.

Charles Lamb: If there be a regal solitude, it is a sick-bed. How the patient lords it there! what caprices he acts without control! how king-like he sways his pillow—tubling and tossing, and shifting, and raising, and lowering, and thumping, and flaitening and molding it, to the ever varying requisitions of his throbbing tempies! He changes sides oftener than a politician. Now he lies full length, then half length, obliquely, transversely, head and feet quite across the bed.

How illness enlarges the dimensions of a man's self to himself. He lies pitying himself, honing and moaning to himself; he yearneth over himself; he is not ashamed to weep over himself. He is forever plotting how to do some good to himself; studying litle stratagems and artificial alleviations. Sometimes he meditates—as of a thing apart from him—upon his poor aching head, and that dull pain which, dozing or waking, lay in it all the past night like a log, or palpable substance of pain, not to be removed without opening the very skull, as it seemed, to take it thence. Or he pities his long, attenuated fingers. He compassionates himself all over; and his bed is a very discipline of humanity and tender heart.

To the world's rumors he is dead. His household rumors touch him not. He is flattered by a general notion that inquiries are making after him, but he cares not to know the name of the inquirer. In the general stillness and awful hush of the house, he lies in state, and feels his sovereignty. To be ill is to enjoy monarchical prerogatives. Compare the silent tread and quiet ministry, almost by the eye only, with which he is served, with the careless demeanor, the unceremonious goings in and out (clapping of doors or leaving them open) of the very same attendants when he is getting a little better; and you will confess that from the bed of sickness (throne, let me rather call it) to the elbow chair of convalescence is a fall from dignity amounting to a deposition.

Mr. Hitchcock—Socialist.

Portland Telegram: To what base purpose is this, our government, administered that we should hear the head of one of its departments recommending such rank Socialism as the public ownership and operation of telegraph lines?

This recommendation of the postmaster-general is not alarming except, as the name of Socialism may have terror for us. Logically, the telegraph service, being purely a service of communication, may be incorporated with the management of the postal service, and probably would have been so incorporated if, as a service, it had been in existence at the time the postoffice was established. But, theoretically, it is held that the telegraph having started in life as a private business, it must so continue its career to the end.

It is true that in the experience of other coutries, logic has been sustained and the theory crippled; but vested interests have shouted "Socialism!" and the rest of us have been terrified by it.

It is about time that we should begin to discuss all these various matters, looking to a new adjustment of governmental relations toward industrial enterprises that are essentially monopolies, without being disturbed by any hysterical fear of Socialism. Those are matters to be considered on their merits, just as if there were no such word as Socialism in the entire vocabulary. That seems to have been the spirit in which Mr. Hichcock has grappled with this matter of telegraph service. The question now arises: Will congress and the country discuss the matter in a similar spirit?

Neither Going.

"How now?"

"I asked an Italian friend of mine if he wasn't going home to fight, and he tells me that he is paired with a Turk on the next block."

Allessandro Bonci, the eminent tenor who will sing in Duluth in concert on March 19, giving the last concert in the Duluth concert course for this season, made $160,000 from his concerts last year alone.

The Musical America gives the following interesting account of his concerts in various places:

"Mr. Bonci's first American tour began on Nov. 17, 1910, at the Academy of Music in Brooklyn. The tour lasted about five months, ending in Chicago on April 10, 1911, and extended as far as Vancouver. His appearances in the various cities numbered forty-one; and his contracts were partly on percentage and partly on a sold-out engagement basis. Mr. Bonci's shares from the former ran from a minimum of $850, obtained on a stormy night in Detroit, to a maximum of $3,148, a figure which was reached in San Francisco, Cal., and his sold-out engagements ran from $1,200 up to a maximum of $1,600, which he was paid in Winnipeg. Altogether the earnings of Mr. Bonci for these forty-one appearances aggregate to the amount of $54,520.

"Summing up the money earned by Mr. Bonci in the United States, Argentina, Brazil and Italy, from Nov. 17, 1910, to Dec. 7, 1911, it is found that the total amount reaches the remarkable figure of $161,120."

SCOTS' NIGHT.

Robert Burns to Be Honored With Song and Dance.

"Bobbie Burns," the immortal Scotch poet, will be honored by the Scots of the city this evening at a banquet at the Spalding hotel in celebration of his birthday anniversary. Clan Stewart, No. 50, O. S. C., arranges this annual celebration and the program which has been planned is better than ever this year. Phillip Gordon Brown will sing—it wouldn't be a real Burns' entertainment without Mr. Brown's singing. His numbers this year are: "Scots Wha Hae Wi Wallace Bled," and "Battle of Sterling Bridge." Miss Ruth Brown will sing "My Ain Folk," and "A Highland Lad My Love Was Born." Miss Glenn Bartholomew will sing "Ye Banks and Braes," and "My Heart is Sair for Somebody." Miss Myrtle Gilgour will dance the Highland fling, Miss Agnes Johnson will read "Ellen McJones Aberdeen," and Miss Annabelle McLeod, J. R. Batchelor, J. H. Matteson and Wilber Foster will sing Scotch songs. Miss Lillian Macaskill will accompany the singers.

Rev. Donald McKenzie of Mankato will deliver the speech of the evening, "Robert Burns," and Alexander MacRae will preside. After the program the guests will dance.

HIGH SCHOOL CONCERT

The Duluth Central High School orchestra will make its first appearance tomorrow evening in a concert at the high school assembly hall. They will be assisted by local players and Dwight W. Hiestand of the faculty will direct.

The school orchestra has worked up a very good program, the parts are well balanced and the concert will be a surprise in showing what excellent work can be done by this organization. Mr. Hiestand will give some essential points concerning the more important compositions played and will tell what constitutes a well-balanced orchestra and also what should be listened to and looked for in an orchestral concert. He gave this talk before the members of the study class of the Matinee Musicale, giving in a concise way a good foundation for an intelligent hearing of an orchestra.

Miss Margaret Linehan will sing the Tannhauser aria at this concert.

TALK ON SUFFRAGE.

Large Crowd Interested in "Votes for Women."

Mrs. Concheta Ferris Lutz, state organizer of Minnesota for the suffragists, was heard by a large audience in the council chamber last evening in an interesting and logical address on her cause.

Her arguments in favor of the movement were delivered with a convincing manner which made them doubly valuable. Her points were clearly defined, concise and forceful, and she illustrated her arguments with stories and a review of the struggle in various parts of the country where the franchise has already been granted to women.

Dr. Mary McCoy introduced the speaker of the evening, making a few short remarks on the subject herself, and Miss Adelaide Thurston, who has remained in the city since the death of her father, was also called upon for a speech and responded with a brief little talk which was logical and eloquent.

Mrs. A. E. Shores of Tacoma, Wash., who was one of the leaders in gaining the ballot for the women of her state, also was called upon and she presented the hopeful side of the question, saying that she felt sure the ballot would be easily gained here.

Rabbi Lefkovits was next called for his opinion. He said no man with a grain of sense denied the justice of woman's right to govern herself, least of all since he is nursed and fostered by woman and imbibes from her training and teaching all that he has of patriotism and worth, physical, mental and moral. He elaborated the common sense arguments in favor of suffrage and stated that they were identical with arguments defending the man's right to the vote. He riddled the objections as results of prejudice or selfishness.

Dr. Mary McCoy's tenure of the president's office was made permanent; Mrs. E. S. Jerome was elected vice president, and Mrs. J. H. Hickox, secretary and treasurer.

How Society Woman Wards off Wrinkles

"Wrinkles are not strangers to me, but when I acquire such disfigurements I know how to lose them in a hurry." A well-known society matron confided this to me. I had wondered how she, with her strenuous social duties and late hours, could so completely ward off the usual marks of care and dissipation.

"I don't wear wrinkles in public, nor those horrid rings beneath the eyes," she continued, "since I've learned what plain ordinary saxolite will do. When any of those hateful marks appear, I send to the drug store for an ounce of powdered saxolite and a half pint of witch hazel. I mix the two, bathe my face in the solution and—that's the whole secret. I've never tried anything that works so miraculously. My chin is inclined to double; this trouble, too, I keep in check in the same way."—Emily Dean in Town Talk.

Practical Joke?

The announcement of the marriage of Edward D. Briggs and Miss Hulda Jackson, which was sent in for publication in last evening's Herald, was evidently the feeble attempt on the part of some would-be facetious person to be funny, as the statement was false. No such wedding took place.

Afternoon Tea.

Mrs. Robert Bruce Liggett of 1014 East Third street has invited guests to an informal afternoon tea Saturday, at her home, in compliment to Mrs. Robert K. Gemmell, a bride of last fall.

A second bridge party of nine tables was given again this afternoon by Mrs. Kreitter.

FIRST CONCERT!

The Kitchen

Mock Roast Potatoes.

Take six or more large potatoes of uniform shape and size, wash them well and bake them in a moderate oven till they are quite tender.

Cut a thin slice off the top of each one, and remove the mealy potato without spoiling the skin. Put the meal into an earthenware bowl and beat it up with six ounces of butter and the yolks of three eggs.

Season rather highly with salt and pepper, and last of all add the whites of two eggs after beating them to a stiff froth. A few minutes before serving fill up the hollow potato skins with this mixture, heaping it up like a pyramid, sprinkle with grated cheese and make them very hot again in the oven.

Serve on a folded napkin. One potato must be allowed for each guest, but the quantities of butter and eggs given are sufficient for six potatoes of medium size.

HOUSEKEEPERS IN DULUTH PLEASED

Every cook in Duluth is delighted with the rich, nut-like flavor of "Minnesota" macaroni and spaghetti. Even people who never like these foods, say they could eat "Minnesota" macaroni every day.

Good macaroni and spaghetti are easily digested and they are always appetizing because they can be prepared in so many different ways. They are fine for children—making their bodies strong and healthy, and they give grown people the power of endurance without overtaxing the stomach.

But if you want that rich, nut-like flavor be sure and get the delicious "Minnesota" brand macaroni or spaghetti—made from the finest Northern Durum wheat, with all the nourishing Gluten left in. It is easily digested and never gets soggy. All good Duluth grocers sell it.

THE EVENING STORY

THE IRONY OF THE INEVITABLE

By William H. Hamby.

Mitchell went up the stairs two steps at a time. The senator had sent word he would see him at once, and that meant he was not forgotten.

"How are you, Sam?" said Hillier, cordially.

"First rate, Senator; how are you?"

"Fine. Take a chair." He offered the editor a cigar. "Well, Sam, it has been a long time since I saw you. Wish we had a week to talk over old times, but from the crowd you saw in the hotel lobby you can guess this is one of my busy days. I suppose you are to see about that postoffice?"

"Yes," replied the editor.

"The other fellow is pretty strongly indorsed." The senator chewed his cigar thoughtfully.

"I know it," admitted Mitchell, "but they won't count against you."

Hillier smiled. "Taking me for granted are you, Sam?" The editor started to explain. "That's all right," broke in the senator. "How is your conduct now, Sam?" He asked with a reminiscent twinkle in his eye.

"I'm not yet a model for the fourth reader class, I reckon, but guess I average up pretty well."

"Running any whisky ads?" The senator smiled but looked scrutinizingly at the editor.

"No, I've cut that out, entirely. Haven't touched a drop in five years."

"Good. Can you get a pretty strong indorsement?"

"Yes," said the editor. "I think I can. All my creditors will indorse me, and that will make a pretty respectable petition." He laughed. The senator deliberated a few minutes. "Well, I'll tell you, Sam, it is a bit irregular as the party is managed now; but you get up the best local showing you can, and I will see that you go through."

"That is all right," he said as the editor started to thank him. "This is one of your debts that was paid in advance. Rest easy, you will be postmaster before you are much balder than you are now."

When Mitchell returned to Monrot the next afternoon, his office force was surprised at his high spirits; and when his spirits still bubbling after reading the mail, they were amazed. The editor's mail invariably checked any incipient tendency toward lightheartedness. But today he read the duns with a smile, and filed them away with a chuckle.

"Won't they be surprised," he thought, "when they begin to pay up."

He had been paying for five years, but had never "paid up." He was always six months behind; and some of his best talent was used in writing to creditors who always swore they could close him out in thirty or sixty days.

The plant was more than half paid for, but the last year had been a hard one on the Banner, and it was trailing financially a little worse than usual. But trouble was at an end—nearly. Another month and he would be drawing $1,800 a year—and could edit the Banner too. He smiled to think of the surprise it would be to the town. No one knew of his acquaintance with the senator. His visit was a secret. His name had never been even mentioned in connection with the office.

Mitchell filled the copy book with clippings. He could not settle his mind to write. Then he went walking. It was a good town after all, and a pretty town. He was surprised to remember there had been times when he hated it. There, near the corner of Vine street, was a lot, a very pretty lot. There would be a fine place to build, and it could be bought, reasonably, too. After his petition was circulated, the fellows about town joked him a great deal about his prospects. None of them took his application seriously. It was understood that Steelsmith, the present postmaster, was already indorsed for reappointment. He had been gathering recommendations from committeemen and politicians for over a year.

Monday afternoon, Mrs. Steelsmith called Mitchell over the 'phone, and asked if he would come up to her house for a few minutes. He went, much surprised. He never was very friendly with the postmaster and his family, and had never been inside their house. It was a new house, and one of the best in town. The little boy and girl were playing in the yard as he entered. He remembered having recently seen Mrs. Steelsmith, happy and contented holding the baby as he passed the veranda. Now, however, he noticed Mrs. Steelsmith was changed. She had always seemed a happy woman, a little subdued, but unusually joyous. But today there was something in her face and movement elusively pathetic. She did not speak for a minute after they were seated. Her face, half turned away, was outlined against the window, every muscle was tense.

"Mr. Mitchell," she said, "I wanted to tell you something, but I don't know how to begin." She locked her hands in her lap. "I understand you have applied for the postoffice."

"Yes," admitted the editor. "But everybody seems to think it is a joke."

"I know they do. Mr. Steelsmith does. He thinks you haven't any show at all." She put her hand up to the side of her face. It trembled a little. "But you will be appointed," she added, looking squarely into his face. He made no denial nor assent, but waited. Her eyes looked down at her hands in her lap, and she picked at a piece of lint on her dress. "When we were married," she said, "Mr. Steelsmith was in business. Three years after, came the panic. He failed," her face was turned away—"and took to drink." The house was very still. Somewhere a little clock ticked feverishly. Her face was turned toward him now. She was pale, and the fine sensitive lines were sharply drawn. In the pause his imagination quickly filled the gap in her life.

"There were five years," she continued with an effort to keep her voice steady, "then an old friend of ours who was in congress, promised to get him a postoffice, if he would quit. He did and we came here. We have paid off the old debts, and have our home nearly paid for. He hasn't touched a drop; and he is never bothered with it unless something worries him, you know."

"Yes; I know," said Mitchell. He waited for her to continue, but she was through. Outside the children were laughing and shouting at their play. "Well, I guess the devil is crying for more reprint," the editor said, cheerfully, taking up his hat, "I must go."

"Good-bye, Mrs. Steelsmith." He held out his hand. "I guess your husband's chances are better than you think." Her eyes met his searchingly for a minute, as she took his hand. His imagination filled another gap. He plucked a nasturtium from the luxuriant bed by the walk and stuck it jauntily in his buttonhole, and passed out of the gate, whistling. The rest of the afternoon his spirits were so gay, the devil ventured to ask him if a rich uncle had died in India. After supper the editor left his boarding house and went down to his office. He wrote a note addressed to the bank that held the principal mortgage on the paper. It was brief. "The Banner has suspended. Take charge at once." At the telegraph office he handed the operator a message addressed to Senator Hillier. "Withdrawn in favor of Steelsmith—MITCHELL."

It was dusk, the air was fine. He strolled down the street. In front of a pair of swinging doors he paused. There was a laugh inside, and the clink of glasses. His hand went into his pocket and brought up the contents, $2.35. It was enough. The door swung back and he walked in.

MME. GADSKI IN TWO NEW ROLES

MME. GADSKI.

Madam Gadski created last week the second of two new roles. She was seen earlier in the season as the princess in "Lobetanz." Last week she was seen as the Widow Schramm in Lee Blech's one act opera. Like the other two novelties presented this season at the Metropolitan Opera house, "Versiegelt" is light and entertaining. It is a comedy through which runs a bright little romance.

Romance of the Ring.

By JOHN WATSON WHYTE.

From remotest antiquity finger rings have played so many parts in the varied affairs of men and women, and have been so closely identified with the moods, sentiments and aspirations of all classes of people, that a connoisseur's collection of this class of jewelry is really a summing up of much that is distinguished, picturesque and romantic in history.

Starting at the threshold of history, we find among the rings of the ancient Egyptians examples which experts agree must date from a period before the Deluge.

The Greeks, Etruscans and Romans reveled in rings of all styles, shapes and sizes, some of them so exquisitely beautiful that modern goldsmiths have extreme difficulty in imitating them.

A Roman dandy in the decadent days of the empire would wear as many as sixty rings. Double, triple and even quintuple rings were worn, covering the fingers as with a jeweled set of knuckle dusters. Roman ladies of high degree were wont to bedeck their toes with gems—a fashion which the French dames of the Directoire tried to revive with the classic sandal in Paris a little more than 100 years ago.

From earliest Biblical times the ring has been regarded as a sign of rank and a symbol of authority. In the seventh century of the Christian era it was recognized as a mark of episcopal dignity. These ecclesiastical rings are invariably set with a sapphire—the emblem of hope. Some of them are very massive and of giant circumference—which is accounted for by the fact that these rings were worn outside a glove on the thumb. The prevailing religious sentiment of Europe during the Middle Ages is illustrated in the numerous crucifix and death's-head rings. Allied to this class are the memorial and mourning rings which bear designs of monuments and burial urns, sometimes worked in the hair of the departed with such comforting mottoes as "Be ye also ready."

Betrothal and wedding rings have pleasanter associations, and some of the antique ones are charming and curious in form. Among the most remarkable of the nuptial rings is the "Gimmal," or double ring, with its symbolism of the twin hoops, which when closed appear as one.

Rings as talismen, charm against the evil eye, and rings with compasses or timepieces, like that of King George III, are not uncommon in our time.

PORT ARTHUR STEEL PLANT

Mackenzie & Mann Propose to Erect Plant, If Given Site.

Will Extend Port Arthur & Duluth Road to Mesaba Range.

Port Arthur, Ont., Jan. 25.—Wheels were set in motion this week to build at the Canadian Head of the Lakes the largest steel plant and one of the most extensive manufactories of any kind in the Dominion, when J. Dix Fraser, manager of the Atikokan iron works at Port Arthur, submitted a proposition to the industrial committee to build a $5,000,000 steel plant. Should the city of Port Arthur agree with the plans of Mackenzie & Mann, the railway magnates who are behind the venture, construction work will be commenced at once.

Mr. Fraser arrived from the East last week with Sir William Mackenzie. It was by Sir William's instructions that he opened negotiations with the industrial committee. Mr. Fraser went into the minute details, practically all of which met with the approval of the members.

It is the intention of Mackenzie & Mann to build in or near Port Arthur, a rail mill, pipe mill, rolling mill and a bar and nail mill, with auxiliary plants. With these will be built an enormous ore dock and the Port Arthur & Duluth railway, owned by Mackenzie & Mann, will be extended to the Mesaba range. The extension made, Port Arthur will be in direct competition with Duluth as an ore shipping center, for ore will be shipped here by rail from the Minnesota ranges, handled at the proposed ore docks, and sent to Lake Erie ports. Mackenzie & Mann ask that the city of Port Arthur donate a site of 400 acres, which will all be required for the plant. They guarantee that 1,200 men will be employed from the start and that work will ultimately be given to 3,500 men.

AMUSEMENTS

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

ORPHEUM—Vaudeville.
EMPRESS—Vaudeville.

Amusement Notes.

Orpheum matinees are proving exceptionally popular in Duluth this week, owing to the presence of Miss Mary Norman. Miss Norman's act is of a type that appeals to women especially. She impersonates various types of women, and while men have been quick to recognize her cleverness and the faithfulness of her impersonations, they have a quicker appeal to the women, and this has been shown in the increased attendance at the matinees this week.

Miss Norman is very careful to point out the difference between a mimic and an imposter.

"An imitator," says Miss Norman, "mimics the actions of some particular person, generally a stage favorite. My work is entirely different in character. The little studies which I give are really composites, as I have selected a trait here and a trait there until I have arranged a type which I think is a faithful portrait of the type I am presenting. In all my work I only recall having copied exactly the mannerisms of any one person, and that was in the case of my New York girl impersonation which I used to give several years ago."

Miss Norman does not use a variety of costumes to aid her. Her impersonations are all accomplished with only the aid of facial expression and several different styles of hats.

There is a certain young business man, whose home is at Lakeside that owes the peace and quiet which prevailed around his home to Miss Eva Ray, the exponent of somnolency, who is entertaining Empress audiences this week. A few days ago the young man in question was obliged to go to Superior to settle some business matters and when returning home, found a large lavender automobile veil, which had been left on the seat in the car. Knowing that there was but little chance of the owner of the veil advertising for it, he put it in his pocket, intending to give it to his wife when he returned home that evening. But business affairs kept him busy all afternoon and he soon forgot the veil but that night he was reminded of it in a very unpleasant manner. Possessing the same habit as the average young married woman, his wife was playfully (?) going through his pockets and discovered the veil. Immediately she confronted him with the evidence of his guilt and accused him of being unfaithful to her. He tried to explain but in vain for she wouldn't listen to him. Following another custom of young wives, she immediately went home to her mother and asked her advice. She got it and it was to get a divorce from the brute. The next day she started down town to see a lawyer, but still she could not believe that "George" was untrue so decided to find out for sure, and dropped into the Empress where Eva Ray was giving her performance. This was her opportunity to find out for sure if her husband ad really been deceiving her so she asked Miss Ray this question: "Miss Ray where did my husband get that lavender automobile veil? Miss Ray's answer was "He found it on the seat of a street car but there was no one with it." The young man from Lakeside was met at the door by his wife as usual. Of course, he wondered what influenced her to return home but being a wise young man, he asked no questions, consequently, peace and quiet prevails.

The officers of the company are: Joseph B. Cotton, president; George C. Stone, vice president; Bentley P. Neff, treasurer; and Thomas A. Reynolds, secretary.

CAMBRIAN MINING & DEVELOPMENT CO., LTD.

Represented By W. R. Rathbun of Duluth in Amydaloid or Native Copper.

Copper rock that assays 2 to 3 per cent and better, opened up in tunnel, making the Cambrian Mining & Development Co., Ltd., a very rich property.

After three years of prospecting, the above company, by sinking shafts, drilling and other development work, has discovered rich amygdaloid formation carrying shot copper, stamp rock running 2 to 3 per cent or more in the red metal, and only 175 feet from mouth of tunnel, 260 feet above the lake level.

The formation of the Cambrian is simply a continuance of the Keweenaw vein, extending from the south shore under Lake Superior to the north shore, confirming the opinion of geological experts on mineralized formation, as illustrated by the Isle Royale and other Canadian copper mines on the north shore.

There is a great similiarity between the formation of the Cambrian property and that of the south shore. The whole peninsula being mountainous and heavily timbered surface with thick beds of conglomerate, showing outcroppings of mineralized copper rock, the same earmarks as are discernable on the south shore.

Now with only surface depth through the tunnel they have uncovered copper rock, which stamps the Cambrian as one of the richest in mineralized rock in the whole Lake Superior copper zone.

It is enough for the shareholders in the Cambrian Mining & Developing Co., Ltd., to know that there has been opened up a rich copper vein, and with further development they should have one of the mines such as made Keweenaw peninsula famous, yielding vast wealth to the stockholders in dividends and stock values.

Cambrian Mining & Development company's property is located on Black bay peninsula, north shore Lake Superior, in Canada, and contains 2,080 acres, with two natural harbors. The water here is of sufficient depth to allow vessels of heavy draught to enter, and numerous islands make it a perfect shelter from the severe storms.

Access to the property during the season of navigation is by water from Port Arthur via Thunder cape and the world's renowned Silver islet, and can be made in four to five hours.

Capt. J. King, a practical mining man, has examined the rock taken from the tunnel and pronounces it vein or amygdaloid, carrying native copper that reaches 2 to 3 per cent and better. Capt. King has spent thirty years in copper mines and in such mines as the Calumet & Hecla, Quincy, Ahmeek and others.

The officers and directors of the Cambrian Mining & Development Co., Ltd., are such business and professional men as Martin Smith, J. A. Scott, F. H. Barnard, Jr., H. Hoyde, of Duluth, Minn., and Robert Ferguson of Port Arthur, Canada.

Development of the property will be pushed as fast as possible. A shaft is now being sunk and shipping equipment will be installed.

Stock in this company is now selling for $1 per share and is subject to advance without notice. Now is the right time to buy for later you will surely have to pay many times as much.

W. R. Rathbun of Duluth, Minn., is one of the promoters and is representing the company as agent.

It will be to your interest to investigate and give same careful consideration, and for stock or further information address the Cambrian Mining & Development Co., Ltd., or W. R. Rathbun, agent, 404 Torrey building, Duluth, Minn.

NEW BEMIDJI BUILDING.

Modern Two-Story Block to Be Erected This Year.

Bemidji, Minn., Jan. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Harry Gunsalus has purchased a lot twenty-five feet on Third street and 100 feet on Minnesota avenue for a large sum as a site for a modern two-story brick business building. This lot is one of those on which five buildings were destroyed on the night of Jan. 13. Work on the Gunsalus block is to be constructed of Roman brick. The Fitger Brewing company, owners of the other lots on which the burned buildings were destroyed also will erect brick buildings as soon as the weather will permit.

J. W. Treise of the Northwestern Jobbers' Credit bureau of St. Paul, has taken charge of the Floyd Brown bazar store. The store at once was closed and the stock will be closed out next week.

WEST END NEWS

NEW BRANCH LIBRARY NEEDED

Old Building Now Used in West End Is Inadequate.

That a new library branch is needed in the West end is evidenced by the fact that the present room in the Neighborhood house, 2432 West Superior street, is entirely too small to accommodate the large crowds that gather there every afternoon.

The matter has been taken up before, and it is possible that a movement will be started this spring to secure an adequate branch library for this end of the city. The building at the West end is an old wooden structure and cannot be kept warm during the cold months. Miss Ruth Borland, librarian, has had considerable trouble this winter in keeping the heat regulated, and has been unsuccessful so far this year.

The library has become very popular the past year, and the annual report shows the need of a new branch. The total circulation for the year was 10,775 books, the largest monthly circulation being in March, when 1,281 books were loaned. There were 455 new cards issued during the year, bringing the total cards in circulation up to 1,507.

NIGHTLY SERVICE IN WEST END CHURCH

Rev. William Blomquist, rector of the St. Ansgarius church of Minneapolis, will conduct a mission, beginning Monday evening and continuing until the Monday following, at St. Peter's Episcopal church, Twenty-eighth avenue west and First street. The meetings are to be held at 8 o'clock every evening until the close of the mission, Feb. 5.

Rev. Mr. Blomquist comes well recommended to this city, having served as rector of the Minneapolis church for the past twelve years. The church in Minneapolis is considered the largest Swedish Episcopal church in the country, and Rev. M. Blomquist has also acquired the reputation of being the greatest Swedish pulpit orator in the country. On Sunday, Feb. Feb. 4, there will be special Swedish services at 11 o'clock in the morning and English services at 8 o'clock in the evening.

REV. WILLIAM BLOMQUIST.

TALK TO SUPERIOR SALVATION ARMY.

Capt. and Mrs. Fred Krause of the local Salvation Army, 1202 West Michigan street last evening addressed the largest army gathering ever assembled at Superior. Capt. Krause told of the work in the Duluth Industrial home and how a large number of workingmen are given employment throughout the year.

The meeting is the first of a series that the Superior members are planning for the winter and Capt. and Mrs. Krause are among the speakers who will address the audiences across the bay from time to time. Mrs. Krause formerly preached with Adjt. Selma Johnson of the Superior corps in the Chicago slums and they both told of the life in that section of Chicago and the work accomplished by the army workers.

WOODMAN LODGES WILL MEET IN SUPERIOR.

Every member of the Duluth camp, No. 2341, and Old Hickory camp, No. 1555, M. W. A., will attend the third meeting of the series being held this winter by the Woodmen of the Head of the Lakes. The meeting is to be held in Superior, Feb. 12, under the auspices of the Whaleback camp, No. 773, of that city.

The last two meetings were both held in Duluth and over 500 Woodmen attended each meeting. Two special street cars will be rented by the local members for the evening and the two lodges in the western end of the city will go to Superior in a body. The two drill teams will also attend and take part in a drill contest, which is one of the features of these meetings.

Just what the program for the evening will be has not been announced as yet, but it is in charge of the Superior camp. The two local camps met last evening for their regular meetings and it was decided to make the affair a celebration in honor of Abraham Lincoln's birthday. The plan will be recommended by the program committee of the Duluth camp to the Superior members.

Constantine Funeral.

The funeral of Richard Constantine, 85 years old, who died Tuesday morning at the home of his daughter, Mrs. T. E. Halford, 102 North Twenty-eighth avenue west, was held at 2 o'clock this afternoon from St. Peter's Episcopal church, Twenty-eighth avenue west and First street. Rev. W. E. Harmann, pastor of the church, officiated and interment was made in the Woodland cemetery.

Series of Lectures.

Under the auspices of the Sunday school of the Grace M. E. church, Twenty-second avenue west and Third street, the first of the series of monthly lectures and concerts will be given in the church tomorrow evening. Rev. M. S. Rice, pastor of the First M. E. church, will speak on "Rambles," an illustrated lecture on his recent tour of the Holy Land. Arrangements are in the hands of R. R. Forward, superintendent of the Sunday school. A special musical program will also be given during the evening.

NEW DRAMATIC CLUB CONSIDERING A PLAY.

Members of the new West End Dramatic club, which was organized two weeks ago, will meet the early part of next week to plan for a drama to be presented the first part of next month. The organization includes a large number of West end women who are interested in the presentation of the best dramas and the following officers are in charge of the club during the year: Mrs. Enid Shaw, president; Mrs. F. Hutchinson, secretary; Miss Ruth Glover, treasurer; and Mrs. Milton Fish, musical director.

West End Briefs.

The ladies of the Degree of Honor lodge, No. 6, will entertain their friends at a card party this evening at the Columbia hall, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street.

The Young People's society of the Central Baptist church, Twentieth avenue west and First street, will give a social in the church parlors tomorrow evening.

Rev. George E. Silloway of the Grace M. E. church, Twenty-second avenue west and Third street, will give the last of the series of sermons on "Some Strong Christian Men," at the service Sunday morning. He will preach on "Martin Luther."

Rev. Edwin Stronmberg of the First Swedish M. E. church returned this noon from Hibbing where he spent yesterday conducting mission meetings.

The Dorcas circle of the Bethany Swedish Lutheran church was entertained this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Axel Carlson, 2221 West Sixth street.

Harry L. Holdrun of Ispheming, Mich., is a guest of West end relatives this week.

The choir of the First Swedish M. E. church, Twentieth avenue west and Third street, met in the church parlors last evening.

The St. Luke's guild of St. Peter's Episcopal church was entertained this afternoon at the home of Mrs. John Marshall, 2618 West Fourth street.

Mrs. G. T. Brown of Farrington, Minn., left for her home yesterday after spending the past week visiting relatives in the West end.

Don't forget B. of R. T. dance tomorrow night at Armory.

At the regular weekly prayer this evening at the Central Baptist church, Twentieth avenue west and First street, Rev. Milton Fish will preach on "The Law of Christian Forgiveness." The church choir will sing several selections following the services.

CARRIED LEAD FOR YEARS.

Jamestown Civil War Veteran Finally Succumbs to Wounds.

Jamestown, N. D., Jan. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Civil war wounds proved fatal to John Caven of this city after a lapse of nearly fifty years. The funeral took place yesterday afternoon.

During the Civil war Mr. Caven received a bullet wound in the lung and another in the knee, and he carried both chunks of lead in his body throughout life. During the past few months the old wound in the lung made itself apparent and it was the direct cause of his demise.

Mr. Caven was a member of Company B, Fourteenth Regiment, Ohio, serving eighteen months in the war. He was a member of the Fort Seward G. A. R. post of this city.

BURGLARIZE TRUNK THEN APPLY TORCH.

Bowman, N. D., Jan. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Pouring two gallons of kerosene over a trunk in H. Green's claim shack near here, after they had rifled it of $150, burglars attempted to conceal their crime by destroying the building but the fire was smothered.

The shack was raided during Green's absence.

Frank Olson and Lee Hiller, arrested charged with complicity in the affair, released.

Try This Home-Made Cough Remedy

Costs Little, But Does the Work Quickly, or Money Refunded.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with ½ pint of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle; then add the Sugar Syrup. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

You will find that this simple remedy takes hold of a cough more quickly than anything else you ever used. Usually ends a deep seated cough inside of 24 hours. Splendid, too, for whooping cough, croup, chest pains, bronchitis and other throat troubles. It stimulates the appetite and is slightly laxative, which helps end a cough.

This recipe makes more and better cough syrup than you could buy ready made for $2.50. It keeps perfectly and tastes pleasantly.

Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in guaiacol and all the natural pine elements which are so healing to the membranes. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

This plan of making cough syrup with Pinex and sugar syrup (or strained honey) has proven so popular throughout the United States and Canada that it is often imitated. But the old, successful formula has never been equaled.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

THE BUSY, PROSPEROUS, WEST END

THE CENTER of Duluth's population lies between 16th and 40th avenues West; in that part of the city known as the WEST END.

¶ Here, in their thousands, are found the homes of the well-to-do workers; and the greatest of Duluth's fine factories and mighty mills.

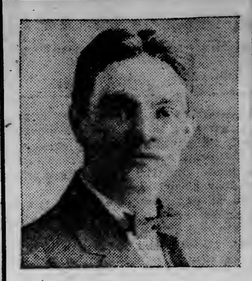

¶ Herefrom, the manufactured product of forest, harvest field, and mine is shipped to the uttermost corners of the earth.

¶ Here also, are found many of Duluth's ablest and most prosperous business men; from whose untiring efforts in the past, the WEST END has drawn much of her present prosperity; and to whom she looks even more for the future prosperity that is to be hers.

¶ In this column, from time to time, we shall present portraits of the-men-who-have-made-the-WEST-END; portraits that will be of vital interest to all West Enders. Look for them!

¶ They will be directed particularly at the fostering of that "get together" spirit which has done so much in the past to help forward this section of the city.

¶ That you may know the men who are helping the WEST END, will be the purpose of these portraits; so that, knowing them, you may help them to help the WEST END and yourself.

ANTON HANSON

Few young men have ascended as high on the ladder of success as Anton Hanson, the hardware merchant, at 2103 West Superior street. Mr. Hanson has been a resident of the West end for twenty-five years and for the past twelve years has followed the hardware business, working for different firms until two years ago when he engaged in business for himself. In this line he has met with flattering success, due to his popularity, honest business methods and the high quality of hardware handled. He is one of the hustling young business men who are paving the way for a greater West End.

This Week's Sunday School Lesson

WRITTEN FOR THE HERALD BY REV. J. S. KIRTLEY, D. D.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON: JAN. 28.

Luke ii. 25-38: The Presentation in the Temple.

CONNECTION.

It was the first born male child that was always presented in a formal way in the temple of the Lord. The principle underlying it was that God's ownership of that and all other children that should be born was recognized. The child was brought at the end of forty days, as the swaddlings were removed from the child when it was about six weeks old. It was the ceremony of the redemption or buying back of the child that took place. It was God's but He would let the parents keep it by offering a purchase price. In the case of the well-to-do the offering was a lamb; in case of the poor, it was a pair of turtle doves and two young pigeons. The poverty of Joseph and Mary is shown in the offering they made. That the Child should be born in a manger was due to the lack of accommodations at the inn and they might have been able to pay for the hotel, though poor. Perhaps, after the six weeks, their little savings were almost gone.

THE LESSON.

I.

Song and Prophecy of Simeon. 25-35.

"And behold, there was a man in Jerusalem, whose name was Simeon; and this man was righteous and devout, looking for the consolation of Israel; and the Holy Spirit was upon him. And it had been revealed unto him by the Holy Spirit, that he should not see death, before he had seen the Lord's Christ. And he came in the Spirit into the temple; and when the parents brought in the child Jesus, that they might do concerning him after the custom of the law, and then he received him into his arms, and blessed God, and said:

Now lettest thou thy servant depart, Lord,
According to Thy word, in peace;
For mine eyes have seen Thy salvation,
Which Thou hast prepared before the face of all peoples;
A light for revelation to the Gentiles,
And the glory of Thy people Israel.

"And His father and mother were marveling at the things which were spoken concerning Him; and Simeon blessed them, and said unto Mary His mother: "Behold, this Child is set for the falling and the rising of many in Israel and for a sign which is spoken against; yea and a sword shall pierce through thine own soul; that thoughts out of many hearts may be revealed."

1. PRAISE.—It is not said so, but Simeon seems to have been an old man. He had his expectations. We are more familiar with the Pharisees and the Sadducees who opposed Jesus and wanted only a temporal leader, but here we have a glimpse into that large number of plain people who looked for the Redeemer. Perhaps the country was full of them and, if their ungodly rulers had allowed them, they would have gladly accepted their Redeemer. This man had been chosen by God to greet the infant in this way and God's Spirit had done two things for him—had given him the assurance that he would live to see the Messiah; had led him into the temple at the very moment to see him.

Taking the child in his arms was an act of significance and influence. It meant much to Joseph and Mary. It expressed much for Simeon. It was all the more so, because of his character, a just" man, right in his treatment of men both personally and ceremonially. What he said was weighty, mighty, living today, read by us. We discern at least four blessings for which he praised God. First his expectation was at last, and fully, realized. The word "see" is repeated in the praise several times. He actually sees the Christ, whom the Lord had given, after long years of expectancy. The holy among the people had strained their eyes looking and longing for that sight; he himself had spent many years in that watchful wait. Just to think that now the prayers of the years have been answered and the great expectation gratified. Second, praise for relief from the long strain. He was to go home—a release from bondage, rest from toil, satisfaction of all aspirations. Third, that at last the light had dawned for all mankind. He is not narrow. The Gentiles shall rejoice in the Redeemer living in that light which is to be their life. Fourth, that his own people are to have their "glory" in the Redeemer. If he is to be a light for revelation to the Gentiles, he is to be the "glory" of his own people, Israel.

2. PROPHECY.—His vision expands, as he talks. Now he turns to Mary, the mother. He seems to almost ignore Joseph. Did Simeon know the truth of the Virgin birth? It would seem so, though Luke, the writer, speaks of the child's father and mother, just as the people of the times did. Luke knew of the divine origin of the child, as the story shows. Matthew and Luke are perfectly clear on that point. Mark has nothing to say about his birth anyhow. John doesn't take up the matter as a separate question, but that fact is essential and structural in his whole account of Christ.

His vision sets forth Christ's double relation to men. He must, of necessity, be one of the two things for mankind, a light to bless or to blind, a stone to build on or crush them, a savor of life or of death. By accepting Him men become god-like, as He was; by rejecting Him men ruin themselves, for they must deliberately choose evil and must suffer hardening. We rise or fall by Him. He can raise up those who are down and those who refuse fall into deeper depths. He compels us to show what we are, revealing the thoughts of our hearts. In the discriminations which He shall make, the mother will feel the sword in her own heart, as she sees His rejection and sufferings.

II.

Anna's Testimony. 36-38.

"And there was one Anna, a prophetess, the daughter of Phanuel, of the tribe of Asher (she was of a great age, having lived with a husband seven years from her virginity and she had been a widow even unto fourscore and four years), who departed not from the temple, worshipping with fastings and supplications night and day. And coming up at that very hour she gave thanks unto God, and spake of Him to all them that were looking for the redemption of Jerusalem."

1. WOMAN.—It was the prospects of the Christ that had lifted up woman and the great uplift we see today is due to Him. Anna was very old, either 84 years or had been a widow that long, we cannot tell which. She had a place of honor as a prophetess and she stayed in the temple buildings all the time or else was regular in her visits and her services there. She was a woman of prayer. Old people have a chance to render a constant and important ministry, in praying. Their commission to pray has not been revoked. The tribe to which she belonged was extinct as a tribe, but there were many of the common people from all the tribes left and many of them welcomed their Redeemer.

2. EXPECTATION.—This would indicate that many were expecting Him. Some of them accepted Him at once; others recognized Him after His death. This testimony must have helped to make disciples for Him, as all such personal testimonies do.

WHAT THE MASTERS SAY.

Our relation to Him writes, in plan letters, whether we love good or evil. He comes like the light into some cave where the flock of darkness-loving creatures are roused by its gleam to flap about it and try to put it out. Our reception or rejection of Jesus Christ reveals what we are and determines what we shall be. If He leads us to fall before Him, in true penitence and conscious helplessness, He will raise us up, nor ever cease to lift us by His strong hand until He sets us at His own right hand in the heavenly places. Howsoever high He rises, even up to the throne of God, so high will He carry with Him His happy servant. —Maclaran.

We who have seen what Jesus can do for the world have a thousandfold more of incentive to consecrate ourselves to world missions. The Christian religion has done little for us if it has not made us realize, as Simeon could not, what the gospel really means to the world. What Simeon could only dimly imagine, we should be able now to see with startling vividness—the world's need and the Redeemer's power.—Ayers.

PERTINENT QUESTIONS.

1.—To what extent is the public consecration of little children to God taught in this case?

2.—Does the case of Simeon teach that we may be led by the Spirit in all things?

3.—Would he have such guidance if he had not kept active and used all his powers to the utmost?

4.—What is it to be consoled?

5.—How does Christ make all of us reveal our real selves and to whom do we reveal them?

6.—How does Christ reconcile us to leaving life?

WHO APPROVE NEW JUDGES?

House Passes Bill Requiring Publication of All Indorsements.

Children and Pigs Discussed in Senate—Other Washington Doings.

Washington, Jan. 25. — Publication by the president of every written or verbal indorsement of candidates for all federal judgeships, from the supreme court down, prior to the appointment of the judges, would be required by a bill passed by the house after a lively struggle. The stringent requirement was added by Representative Cullop of Indiana as an amendment to the Evans bill, which would abolish the federal circuit court judgeship at Chicago made vacant by the resignation of Judge Peter S. Grosscup and supplant it with an additional district judgeship.

Republican Leader Mann demanded a separate roll call upon the Cullop amendment, which was adopted 148 to 82. Mr. Mann then led a fight against the entire bill and lost 93 to 147. The Cullop amendment reads:

"Hereafter, before the president shall appoint any district, circuit or supreme judge, he shall make public all indorsements made in behalf of any applicant."

An attempt by Mr. Mann to attach an amendment increasing all district judges' salaries from $6,000 to $7,000 was defeated.

Chairman Clayton of the house judiciary committee, in opposing the amendment, declared federal judges had been generously dealt with in being given the opportunity to retire on full salary at the age of 70 if they had served ten years.

Will Vote on Children's Bureau.

After two hours general debate, the senate agreed to vote next Tuesday on Senator Borah's bill to create a children's bureau in the department of commerce and labor and on amendments suggested by Senators Works and Pomerene, to limit the circulation of the bureau's reports.

Senator Bailey renewed his attack on the bill on constitutional grounds and criticized what he said were Mr. Borah's "efforts to put children on a level with pigs."

"The effort is to raise them to the level of pigs," responded Mr. Borah. Mr. Borah has contended that government expenditure of millions of dollars for information concerning the condition of hogs and cattle justifies the $30,000 asked for the children's bureau.

Mr. Bailey said it was "mere fadism" and that for that matter there was too much legislation in the interest of livestock, adding that at the present rate "we soon will be sending a schoolmaster into every district."

Can Enforce Oleo Tax Law.

Collectors of internal revenue the country over can now be more militant than ever before, in enforcing the oleomargarine law. They have been advised by Commissioner of Internal Revenue Cabell that the general revenue law, imposing severe penalties on persons refusing to admit revenue officers to premises where taxable articles are kept, or obstructing them in the exercise of their duties, applies to cases arising under the oleomargarine law.

Cut Emigration to Canada.

Washington, Jan. 25.—In the hope of checking emigration of American farmers to the Canadian Northwest, important amendments to liberalize the public land laws were favorably reported by Senator Smoot from the public lands committee. The enforced term of residence on a homestead would be reduced from five years to three and a homesteader would be permitted to absent himself from his claim six months every year.

Memorial Amphitheater.

Senator Sutherland of Utah proposed a bill for a memorial amphitheater in Arlington National cemetery. The bill would appropriate $750,000.

May Quarantine Guayaquil.

The death from yellow fever at Guayaquil, Ecuador, of Commander Levi C. Bertolette, in command of the American gunboat Yorktown, guarding American interests there, will result in the American government insisting upon the sanitation of that port. Should Ecuador temporize, it is said that the United States may issue a quarantine against Guayaquil, in the interests particularly of the Panama canal.

Trade Mark Treaty Approved.

The sub-committee of the senate committee on foreign relations has agreed to recommend ratification of a general treaty negotiated by the United States with other nations for the protection of trade mark and other proprietary rights of American citizens.

Try to Raise Sugar Beet Seed.

In order that the United States may not be dependent upon Russia, Germany, France and other foreign countries for sugar beet seed, as is the case at present, strenuous efforts are to be made to raise it in this country. W. K. Winterhalter of San Francisco, an expert on sugar beet culture, called on Secretary of Agriculture Wilson and B. T. Galloway, chief of the bureau of plant industry, to discuss the subject. They told him the department would do all it could through its investigation work to aid in having the seed raised here. Practically all the sugar beet seed comes from abroad, about $1,000,000 a year going into the pockets of foreign producers.

Steel Bill Reported.

The revised iron and steel tariff schedule, approved by the Democratic caucus Tuesday night, was introduced by Representative Underwood and referred to the ways and means committee. In the committee a strict party vote is expected, the Republicans voting against it solidly. Chairman Underwood will report the bill with the committee recommendations that it pass, and the debate will probably begin Friday.

Some Republican leaders are discussing the advisability of submitting a substitute bill, but it is probable that the minority opposition will be confined to separate amendments to the various schedules.

Only $1,500 for Chinese.

Replies to the appeal of the American Red Cross society for funds with which to relieve famine sufferers in China, have not been coming in rapidly, it is announced at the Red Cross headquarters here. The hope is expressed, however, that the responses will increase when the conditions existing in the Chinese empire are thoroughly understood. About $1,500 has been received since the issuance of the society's latest appeal for $1,000,000.

Miss Brown, the pianist, is a graduate of Oberlin conservatory, a post graduate of the Chicago Musical college, a gold medalist and a musical instructor in Galesburg, Ill. Miss Heymer the violinist, was born in Warsaw, Poland, but received her musical education in this country, is a diamond medalist, has composed some delightful pieces, some of which she plays at concerts, and in addition she possesses a fine literary taste and education. That those who attend will have a rare musical feast, is assured.

The three organ numbers are also superior compositions, Elgar's "March" being considered worthy of a place on the symphony programs. The second organ number is a combination of well known songs and tunes under the title of songs from the heart, while the overture by Wagner gives voice and volume to the rest of the program.

For the first time the latest composition by A. F. M. Custance, sung by Miss Brown with Miss Heymer playing the obligato and the composer at the piano will be given. The special guests of this occasion are one of the recreation clubs of the Y. W. C. A., of about forty young girls for whom the center section of the gallery will be reserved.

ELECTIONS COST MONEY.

Figures compiled by Comptroller McCormick show that the average city election costs the city between $4,000 and $5,000.

The average cost of each vote varies greatly, according to the number of votes cast, the total cost of one election not being much different from that of another. In the last two years the cost in some small outlying precincts has run as high as $4 and $5 per vote.

CAN REFEREE SEND BANKRUPT TO JAIL?

Cincinnati, Ohio, Jan. 25.—The question of the authority of a federal bankruptcy referee to send persons to jail for contempt has been brought before the United States court of appeals in an appeal by Jay A. Harding, bankrupt of Grant, Mich.

Referee Wickes claimed that Harding has failed to account for $6,676 worth of property. Harding was ordered to produce this, but failed to do so and was sentenced for contempt. Judge Sessions of the United States court for Western Michigan refused to send Harding to jail, holding that the law does not invest referees with power to send persons to jail for refusing to obey their orders.

FULLERTON GIVES IT UP

Deputy State Fire Marshal Unable to Place Blame for Hibbing Fire.

With Two Deputies He Made Investigation Without Any Known Result.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Whether the Healy theater, which was destroyed by fire Jan. 13, believed to be of incendiary origin, was set on fire by incendiaries or whether it caught accidentally may never be known. At least Deputy Fire Marshall Sam Fullerton and two deputies, who have been making an investigation for several days, announced today they had about given up the idea of explaining the origin of the fire which contained many of the elements of the work of fire bugs. One of the deputies that aided Mr. Fullerton in the investigation was R. E. Smyth whose place at Pupkosy, Minn., was burned, it is alleged, during the famous Beltrami county incendiary pact that involved Mayor Dumas, and who is now in the employ of the state.

The Commercial club and the village council will be asked to join in sending Chisholm boosters and providing funds for the campaign. Besides a big delegation of Knights will go to Albert Lea and work for Chisholm. Chisholm handled the state aerie of the Eagles so successfully last year that the Knights of Pythias propose to go the feathered tribe one better and show them how to handle a grand lodge of their order.

It is planned to send at least 100 boosters to Albert Lea to try and capture the 1913 grand lodge.

Peculiar After Effects of Grip This Year

Leaves Kidneys In Weakened Condition.

Doctors in all parts of the country have been kept busy with the epidemic of grip which has visited so many homes. The symptoms of grip this year are very distressing and leave the system in a run down condition, particularly the kidneys which seem to suffer most, as every victim complains of lame back and urinary troubles which should not be neglected, as these danger signals often lead to more serious sickness, such as dreaded Bright's Disease. Local druggists report a large sale on Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root which so many people say soon heals and strengthens the kidneys after an attack of grip. Swamp-Root is a great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, and, being an herbal compound, has a gentle healing effect on the kidneys, which is almost imediately noticed by those who try it. Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., offer to send a sample bottle of Swamp-Root, free by mail, to every sufferer who requests it. A trial will convince any one who may be in need of it. Regular size bottles 50cts. and $1.00. For sale at all druggists. Be sure to mention this paper.

DID IT FOR CHILDREN

"Blind-Pigger" Broke Law to Support Her Two Daughters.

Deserted By Husband---Judge Releases Her on Parole.

A mother's love prompted Mrs. Rose Perhovidz to break the liquor selling laws in order to get money to clothe and feed her two daughters. Or at least this is what she explained to Judge Dancer of the district court when arraigned before him for sentence yesterday.

Judge Dancer exercised clemency in her case and after fining her $50 and costs, he suspended sentence. There was an understanding, however, that Mrs. Perhovidz was to return home and refrain from further infractions of the law. She was put on probation for six months.

Mrs. Perhovidz was accused and convicted on a charge of illegally furnishing liquor to her boarders at her home at the Stevens location, a mining camp three miles from Hibbing. She told the judge that without selling beer to her boarders when they wanted it, she had been unable to make a living.

The woman's husband deserted her two years ago and since that time she has been striving to make a living for herself and her two children. They were brought down from the range by a deputy sheriff and placed in the jail in the woman's department.

Judge Dancer threatened to take her children from her and put them into a state home if she showed any disposition to break her parole.

Each candidate will be compelled to file with the village recorder his resignation to become effective whenever the members of his party decide he has not lived up to its principles.

The platform upon which the candidates will run will demand: An eight-hour day for municipal employes, the abolition of municipal contract work, municipal coal, wood and ice establishments, city hospital, white way, weekly pay days in the mines, public market, public baths and public parks.

The convention to nominate candidates will be held Feb. 4.

MESABA RANGE IS AFTER STATE ROAD

Will Have Meeting at Eveleth to Protest Against Proposed Route.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Because of a general protest on the Mesaba range against the proposed state highway from the Twin Cities to International Falls going via Brainerd, Mesaba range citizens are up in arms and will hold a meeting here backed by the Commercial clubs of the range, to voice the protest of this section.

It is claimed that if the highway is built via the Mesaba range, the route would be shorter and would take in some of the most prosperous sections of Northern Minnesota and run through a country better adapted to highways than the route via Brainerd, which, it is said, would cross a sandy stretch of country little settled.

The Proposed Route.

As now proposed the state highway will run due north from St. Paul to Mille Lacs lake, turning west to Brainerd; thence northeast to Grand Rapids; thence west again through Western Itasca county to International Falls.

This route is very roundabout, and Mesaba range men have proposed a much more direct route running almost due north from St. Paul to the boundary line. Such a route would bring the road between Chisago and Isanti counties; between Pine and Kanabec; between Carlton and Aitkin, and between St. Louis on the east and Itasca and Koochiching on the west, and the road would reach the boundary twelve miles east of International Falls.

NEEDLE IN HIS KNEE.

Soudan Boy Sustains Painful Injury Which Doctor Attends To.

Tower, Minn., Jan. 25. — (Special to The Herald.) — The young son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Johnson of Soudan fell and stuck a needle in his knee. While attempting to pull it out the needle broke off and the child was brought to the hospital where Dr. Burns removed the remainder of the needle with difficulty.

One of the events of the season took place Friday night at the Vermilion opera house, when the Tower and Soudan teachers gave a leap year dancing party. The hall was beautifully decorated and the Tower orchestra furnished the music.

MUST GIVE UP THE BOY.

Sun Worshippers Are Condemned By Chicago Judge.

Chicago, Jan. 24.—Investigation of the Mazdaznan cult in connection with the custody of 12-year-old William Lindsay, heir to a Philadelphia estate, closed with the entering of an order by Juvenile Court Judge Pinckney holding that neither the boy's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Lindsay, nor her spiritual leader, "Dr." Ottoman Zar Adusht Hanish, were proper custodians for the boy.

The court also directed that when the boy is found by the court officials he be given into the care of his uncle and aunt, Charles R. Lindsay and his wife.

Mrs. Lindsay, who is believed to have possession of her son, was held in contempt of court, and an attachment was issued for her. The defense in thirty days may make its appeal from the order. The Mazdaznan temple was criticized in testimony as being an unfit place in which to house the Lindsay boy, but counsel for Hanish declined to call any witnesses, declaring that the Mazdaznan cult was not on trial.

A scuffle between newspaper photographers and followers of Hanish took place after court adjourned. During the encounter Hanish was knocked down, his eye blackened and his clothing torn. Dr. Charles Thompson, a follower of Hanish, was beaten, four other men and two women were either knocked or pushed down, and fifty persons engaged in the combat outside the court door.

RESULTS THAT REMAIN

Are Appreciated by Duluth People.

Thousands who suffer from backache and kidney complaint have tried one remedy after another, finding only temporary benefit. This is discouraging, but there is one special kidney medicine that cures permanently and there is plenty of proof right here in Duluth.

Here is the testimony of one who used Doan's Kidney Pills years ago, and now states that the cure was lasting.

Mrs. M. McLean, 4324 Gilliat St., Duluth, Minn., says: "All that was said in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills by a member of my family when he publicly recommended them in 1898 still holds good. During the past several years this person has not been obliged to use a kidney medicine, for the cure has been permanent. Doan's Kidney Pills effected a cure of kidney trouble in this case and also brought relief from dull, heavy ache in the loins. The person of whom I am speaking recommends Doan's Kidney Pills highly when anyone asks him about them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

"LORD" THURSBY OF NORTH DAKOTA DIES

Once Wealthy Englishman and Famous Western Character Is Called.

Grand Forks, N. D., Jan. 25.—(Special to The Herald.) — "Lord" Edmon Thursby, in pioneer days a prominent character here and in McHenry county, where he owned a big cattle ranch, but for the last twelve years a patient at the state asylum for the insane in Jamestown, is dead.

"Lord" Thursby was 22 years old when he was sent by his parents from England to this country and was given a generous allowance for his maintainance.

Acquires Big Ranch.

Near Towner, McHenry county, he gained possession of a large ranch and this he improved and stocked through a $50,000 fortune which came to him at the death of an aunt. After the $50,000 had been spent it was but a short time before he was again reduced to his annual income from England.

About twenty years ago he came to Grand Forks and established a fine residence in Riverside Park, then a suburb. His palatial home was the scene of many a social event in the city's life at that time, and "Lord" Thursby was regarded as a right successful entertainer.

Twelve years ago, after he had evidenced more or less indications of mental trouble, he was arrested and committed to the state asylum.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

CROOKSTON TO WORK IDLERS

Socialist Mayor and Followers Will Put Vagrant Class to Work.

Mayor Larson Also Proposes to Establish Free Labor Bureau.

Crookston, Minn., Jan. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—One of the first departures from the beaten path to be inaugurated by Crookston's new Socialist mayor, H. I. Larson, was decided upon last evening at a Socialist conference, will be a free labor bureau.

Mayor Larson has added the duties of this bureau to the police department and Chief Aaron Eck will hereafter be the head of the labor bureau. All orders for help will be sent in to him and recorded and filed as rapidly as possible, and any person out of work will be provided with a job either in this city or at outside points just as fast as jobs are offered.

Will Aid Police Department.

Mayor Larson believes this will be an actual assistance to the police department, and Chief Eck agrees with him, though it will mean added work for the chief. This, they believe, will come from the chief being in a position to "spot" a loafer at once. Farmers have hard work in getting help in the winter, and while they do not pay high wages, a comfortable home and small wages on a farm is considered far better than filling the position of a vagrant in the city.

Vagrants to Be Worked.

Mayor Larson's next move will be to provide some municipal work for the vagrants who are "vags" from choice absolutely. If they refuse to take positions offered them, or take them and then quit them, he will have them repair city streets instead of giving them jail sentences. Street Commissioner David Sanders, one of the two Socialists appointed by the mayor, who retained all the old police force but the chief, has already started a new regime in his department. The public is interested in seeing just how the free labor bureau will work out, but it is generally considered a good move from the outset.

He was adjudged insane by Probate Judge Potter and, accompanied by John Berg and Anton Johnson, he left Saturday morning en route for Traverse City.

"Using Tiz Gramma?"

"Yes, Harold, It Makes Grandma's Feet Feel Just Like Yours, Free From Tiredness, Aches and Corns!"

"Your papa and your mamma, your grandpa and your grandma all use TIZ, Harold. And you'll use it, too, when you get to be a man. Then your feet will never hurt, or get tired. That's why we all use TIZ."

Most of us get old, feet first. The bunions get stale, more wearisome and painful. Corns get harder and more stubborn as the feet become more tender. At a time when old people need their feet most they can use them less—unless they use TIZ.

If you have never used TIZ before, your first use of it will bring back some of your girlhood days. TIZ will make your feet feel young, strong and vigorous. They'll never be tender, never chafe or ache, never get blistered or swollen and your corns, bunions and callouses will be no more. Nothing will do it or can do it like TIZ. Don't experiment with other things; other people have done that for you and they are all now using TIZ.

TIZ acts on a new principle—draws out all the poisonous exudations that make foot troubles.

TIZ, 25 cents a box, sold everywhere, or sent direct, on receipt of price, by Walter Luther Dodge & Co., Chicago, Ill. Recommended by all Drug Stores, department and general stores.

FEARING UNCLE SAM ESCAPES FROM JAIL

A North Dakota Blindpigger Sought to Escape Federal Prosecution.

Jamestown, N. D., Jan. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Double prosecutions which many blind-piggers are facing as a result of the activities of the federal officials, is having its effect on the illegal liquor traffic.

Adolph Grenier, convicted in Stutsman county and confined in the county jail while serving his sentence, has been re-captured after making an attempt to escape, in which attempt he was successful in putting about thirty miles between himself and the jail. Grenier explained his attempted escape as being an effort to avoid government prosecution for selling liquor without a license.

In a large number of cases recently the federal authorities have made arrests of men who have been convicted by the state for prohibition law violations, and the result is that such men really are prosecuted twice for the same offense.

Mike Gibbons Received Set-Back at Hands of Denning—Jess Pedersen Coming—Fitzsimmons—Baseball Magnate—Mike Sweeney's Record Is Endangered.

(BY BRUCE.)

AFTER the showing made by Mike Gibbons against Denning the question comes as to whether Mike is the wonder the Gotham papers pronounced him, the intoxicated morning of elation after the Gibbons' victory over Willie Lewis. That Gibbons is one of the classy boys of the country there is little doubt—that he is the peer of any fighter in the world, better even than Tommy Ryan of old—well, we will have to wait and see. The opinion of New York sporting writers is not very good as a rule. They wished the lightweight championship on Knockout Brown—and that's enough.

From every quarter of the country there is a deep and abiding desire to see Gibbons and McFarland tangle. This would make one of the greatest fights of the decade. Gibbons says he can make 142 pounds and he also says he is willing, aye, even anxious to fight the pride of the ham and sirloin district of Chicago. Pray let the negotiations proceed.

Here would be a fight worth many minutes in the line to the ticket office, sitting around in smoke and dark blue talk, and other things besides, to witness. By all means let them fight.

WITH the announcement of the matching of big Jess Pedersen and Henry Ordemann for the Auditorium on the night of Feb. 22 comes the realization that the biggest mat contest, judging from the fame of the contestants, that has ever been held in this city, is due. Gotch and others great in the wrestling line have wrestled here in the past, but never has there been a match where two stars like Pedersen and Ordemann were brought together.

Pedersen has been the bright particular star of the wrestling world the present season. He is at the present time matched with Yussiff Mahmout, the Scandinavian evincing no fear of the prowess of the doughty Bulgarian. Pedersen has never been here, in fact has never been in the Northwest and there is a deep curiosity upon the part of the mat fans to see this really wonderful grappler perform. That he is going to be sent against the great Henry Ordemann, makes the match look about the best offering of the season.

George A. Barton, the Minneapolis newspaper man and one of the best known promoters in the West, is the man putting on this card, and he writes that it will be one of the greatest contests ever wrestled in the Northwest.

That Duluth is considered one of the very best wrestling towns in the West can be judged from that very fact that Chicago and Minneapolis would have been glad to have put this contest on. Barton was pleased with the way the fans here treated Ordemann at the last match, promising them that he would do everything to land the Pedersen contest for this city. He has been working ever since then to land the contest, with the result that Duluth is going to see two of the greatest heavyweighs in the world in action.

NEW YORK sends forth the merry statement that Robert Jennings Fitzsimmons, dog and lion and pigeon fancier, henpecked husband, blacksmith in off seasons and also at one time the holder of two world's pugilistic championships, is going to ally himself with the outlaw baseball movement. This is indeed the last straw. There have been grave doubts concerning the outlaw league. There need be none now; the Fitzsimmons joke—Fitz, a magnate at Cleveland—is too much. To the archives.

FOR seventeen long years a harp by the name of Mike Sweeney has held tenaciously to the running high jump record of the world. In 1895 M. Sweeney—not Monsieur—cleared the bar at the phenominally high figures of 6 feet 5 inches. Since that time jumpers have come and gone—but none of them could equal the figures that Michael set in that August afternoon he competed against the best Great Britain could send.

There is a law student at jolly old Harvard by the name of Sam Lawrence. This chap has jumped the stick at 6 feet 5 inches, and he expects to keep on boosting the bar up until he beats the old and cherished record that was hung up by Mike those many musty years ago.

One of these dog days of hot summer some one will come along and kick Tommy Conneff's record from the boards, and then a lot of our reverence for the only boys will "have went," following the illustrious example of the iceman.

DISPATCHES say that Li'l Artha is to appear in St. Louie. Isn't this getting rather far South for the champion of the world? The spade has kept out of the Southland with religious regard for the sentiments of some of the good folks down south of the Mason and Dixon. They don't relish a black man marrying a white wife in the Southland, and for that reason Johnson has gained the sentiment of the South by reading Marse Henry Watterson's editorials.

WHILE one writing from the bushes cannot judge the truth of some things that are told in the press, there are some grounds to base belief in the disregard that flippant Charles Webb Murphy has for his players. It is said that not any of the Cub players have any particular time for the head of the club and that not the least of the labors of Frank L. Chance has been in keeping harmony and Charles Murphy on speaking terms.

Now we hear that Mordecai Brown, one of the greatest pitchers who ever toed the rubber, is to quit. Also we hear the flippant remark of Murphy regarding the disposition of the famous three-fingered twirler. This is gratitude spelled with a "g" hidden in small type.

Brown is a rarity among pitchers. Always he was willing to sacrifice his own good for the general welfare of the team. He would always try to get a hit, he would always run the bases, he was the greatest fielding pitcher of them all. If ever a man worked hard for the success of his club, Brown was the man.

This chesty Murphy has stood by and watched the work of a team that he has had little to do with in the way of its making. His incessant chatter is undignified and foolish. A fancy vest and publicity are the Murphy fetich. If he treated some of his players more like gentlemen there might be more appreciation in the Cub camp.

Let the West side team slump, and then watch a falling off of the attendance at the Murphy plant—Comiskey will get the sheckels.

COBB CLAIMS VEAN GREGG IS A WONDER.

"I consider Vean Gregg the best of the present day southpaw pitchers," says Ty Cobb.

Everyone will admit Tyrus knows pitchers, seeing that twice in two years he won the title of champion batter of the big rings.

Dilating, the "Georgia Peach" says: "Marquard showed great form last season, but did not make as good a record as Gregg, although with a champion team. Gregg pitched for Cleveland, which escaped the second division by a few inches.

"Marquard and Rucker are the star left-handers of the National, and Gregg and Plank led in the American league. Gregg allowed less hits per inning than any of the other three. Marquard won more games than Gregg, but his record was built around a team playing consistently good ball. Cleveland was noted for erratic playing."

Some compliment from the game's premier batsman to a pitcher who broke into the big league last year and whose services the Cleveland management are said to have regarded so lightly that when his 1912 contract was sent to him, Gregg could scarcely discover an advance in salary with a magnifying glass.

When Gregg saw the contract he announced that he did not think he would play ball next season and went back to his trade—plastering. It has since been reported that he signed. Possibly the Cleveland club saw the error of its ways or the outlaw league in the offing and wrote in a larger figure on the salary line.

ORDEMANN IS GIVEN BAD DEAL AT OMAHA

The following account of the Ordemann-Westegaard wrestling match at Omaha Monday night, taken from the Omaha Daily News, shows plainly that in the town where the match was staged, and which he made his home for a time, there are some who think that Ordemann is clearly the master of Westegaard and was jobbed out of the match:

"The wrestling match between Henry Ordemann of Minneapolis and Jess Westegaard of Des Moines at the auditorium Monday night, was perverted into a rank farce and the Minnesotan lost the match after demonstrating at every stage that he was the Iowan's master.

"The wrestlers agreed that they would go to pin falls, but that the fall should be awarded the instant both shoulders were on the mat. Westegaard lost the first fall by a head scissors and English bar hold, from which he had no chance to escape, but was awarded the second and third falls before Ordemann's shoulders were on the mat.

Fast Exhibition.

"It was the fastest exhibition seen in the city in a long time, and it was evident from the start that both men were out for blood. Ordemann quickly won the crowd with his cleverness and speed, and it was soon evident that he was the Iowan's master. After thirteen minutes of fast work, the Minnesotan secured Westegaard in a hard scissors hold and held him to the mat until the referee decided that it was a fall.

"While the fans were elated over the award of the match to their favorite, there was much criticism of the manner in which the last two falls were awarded and Ordemann received many expressions of friendliness as he went to his dressing room.

"Ordemann said nothing of the match beyond declaring that he had not been downed either time, but his manager, George Barton, denounced the decisions of the referee and declared that it was 'rank robbery.' Mr. Barton was almost below the wrestlers when the last fall was given to Westegaard, and said that even if the Iowan had pushed Ordemann's other shoulder down, it would have touched off the mat and could not have counted as a fall.

"The fans do not blame Westegaard. The Iowan put up a clean, hard match and is not to be criticized for accepting the decisions handed him.

Ordemann Is Speedy.

"Ordemann is one of the cleverest and speediest of the big wrestlers who have been seen in Omaha. He showed great strength and the ease with which he evaded Westegaard's attack and fastened holds upon him, showed his ability to handle the Iowan in view of his showing, it was a distinct disappointment to the fans to see the whole match spiled."

GREAT DANE TO WRESTLE ORDEMANN

JESS PEDERSEN.

ORDEMANN TO MEET JESS PEDERSEN HERE

George A. Barton, one of the best known sporting writers in the Northwest, and one of the biggest promoters in the entire West, has completed arrangements for staging the biggest wrestling contest ever held in Duluth. He has matched Jess Pedersen, the gigantic Swede, and Henry Ordemann. The two wrestlers will meet at the Auditorium arena on the evening of Feb. 22.

Pedersen has been the sensation of the wrestling world since coming to the United States early last fall. He started in by throwing three of the best heavyweights that could be found in New York in something less than half an hour, and has been throwing them ever since. Only recently Pedersen defeated Coordérell, the gigantic Turk, in something like eighteen minutes. More recently even Pedersen defeated Dr. B. F. Roller in straight falls.

Ordemann and Pedersen have never met. Pedersen's manager has been after a match with Ordemann for the past few weeks. Several of the larger cities would have been glad to stage the contest, according to statements from Barton, but the Minneapolis man believes that Ordemann will draw an immense house here, and cast his preference for Duluth.

ELLIOTT'S HORSE CAPTURES MONEY

Frank Star Wins First in Free-for-All—Henderson Also Wins.

Frank Star, H. G. Elliott's entry in the free-for-all on the ice speedway yesterday afternoon, won the first money, with Dr. D. in the second money. Harry W. captured the third money after finishing ahead of the field in the third heat of the race.

Jim Henderson easily captured first money in the race for green horses, finishing first in all of the heats. Bob Golden pulled down the second money, there being only two nags to face the starter in this event.

The races were all well contested and furnished some of the best amusement for lovers of horse flesh that has been put on here in many a day. The third heat of the free-for-all was a pretty match all the way down the track, Dr. D. nosing out in a whipping finish from Harry W. and Frank Star.

Yesterday's races have done much to create enthusiasm in the ice racing game here and the matinee idea is becoming very popular. It is expected that the next meeting will bring out practically all of the steppers now wintering at the Head of the Lakes.

DEVLIN SIGNS HIS CONTRACT

Will Be Seen Again This Year With New York Nationals.

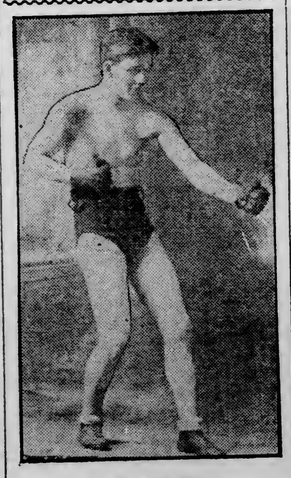

New York, Jan. 25. — Manager McGraw of the New York Nationals has announced that he has received contracts from five of his players, two of them being members of last year's champions. The old players who came into line were Devlin and Grover Hartley. The signing of Devlin puts at rest the rumor that he will be traded to Cincinnati or Boston. The youngsters who sent in their contracts were Outfielders Johnston and Jacobson and Pitcher Munsell.

Manager Wolverton of the American league team announced receipt of the signed contracts of Pitcher George McConnell and of George Simmons, an infielder, the two stars of the Rochester International league team.

Simmons is the youngster slated to play second base.

Wolverton also announced that he had signed Edwin Bergin, a local semi-professional catcher. He has also appointed a new trainer, Daniel T. Mulcahey of Glen Falls, N. Y.

Sigrud Hanson, Fergus Falls, Minn., starred as professional, when he broke the hill record of 135 feet on a 141-foot jump, winning the professional class contest on 302 1-3 points and taking the prize for the most graceful form, netting him $70. Jacob Gjestad, Stoughton, was second.

Champion Kemp Landvik, Stoughton; Haugen, Chippewa Falls; Anderson, Milwaukee; Feiring, Duluth; Anderson, Red Wing, all suffered one or more falls, which put them out of the running.

Twenty coaches made a special trip in two sections from Madison.

INVESTIGATING ATTELL'S STORY

Knockout Brown Denies That Abe Was Doped in Recent Fight.

New York, Jan. 25.—Dr. Joseph Sofian, physician of the National Sporting club, "Knockout" Brown and several other witnesses were heard yesterday at the continuation of the investigation by the state athletic commission of charges by Abe Attell that he was 'doped' in his fight with Brown at the National Sporting club last Thursday night. All denied the allegation of the featherweight champion. In addition Brown said Attell had fought as well as he ever had seen him perform.

It is probable no decision as to whether Attell shall be debarred from participating in further bouts in this state, will be rendered until several other witnesses are heard.

BROWN MATCHED WITH REYNOLDS

Pal Brown has been practically matched with Kid Reynolds, the fast St. Paul lightweight, the bout to be held at Hurley, Wis., on Feb. 9, according to the present plans of Promoter Pat Lanzer. Reynolds is the boy who has a draw with Jack Redmond to his credit and is one of the best little men ever developed in the saintly City.

Reynolds was at the Head of the Lakes a year ago and at that time tried to get on with Pal. Negotiations for the match fell through at that time. After negotiating for several weeks the present match has been arranged but settled and the boys have agreed to meet at th 133-pound limit.

Reynolds has been training here for the past two weeks, working out daily at the firehall and several of the private gymnasiums. The St. Paul fighter is fast and shifty on his feet and appears to have a wide knowledge of the fighting game. Those who have seen him in action believe he is one of the best boys who has come here for some time. Brown won a victory over Sammy Trost the other night and is said to be in great shape. After the meeti g with Reynolds, Pal is due to take a trip East, where he has a number of fights booked.

CHANCE WILL PLAY.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—Frank L. Chance, "beaned" so many times last year that he was compelled to quit the game in August, has written to the sporting editor of a Chicago newspaper from his California farm that he will be on first base again when the season opens.

"I am feeling fine and surely do expect to play ball this year," said Chance. "My head bothered me until a month ago, but for the last month I have not suffered at all. By the time the season opens I expect to be able to stop a dozen balls with my head."

MAY DECLARE STAGG INELIGIBLE

Advantage May Be Taken of His Absence From Western Conference.

Chicago, Jan. 25. — A bitter fight is expected among representatives of the Western conference who will meet here tomorrow in an attempt to settle the "summer baseball" question.

With the announcement that Coach A. A. Stagg of the University of Chicago, leader of the Big Eight officials who are opposed to the vacation sport, will not attend the meeting, it was said that efforts will be made to declare Stagg and other athletic directors ineligible for members of the board. Stagg is reported to be recovering from a recent illness and will remain at Pinehust, N. C., until next month.

The movement to declare athletic directors ineligible as members of the Big Eight board was said to have originated at the University of Illinois. Five universities are said to favor the plan.

Kojail Defeated.

Waterloo, Ia., Jan. 25.—Alec Monroe, champion wrestler of England, defeated Mahmet Kojail, the Turk, in two straight falls at a local theater, the first in 17 minutes and the second in 9 minutes.

Britton Beats Burns.

Oakland, Cal., Jan. 25.—Jack Britton, the Chicago lightweight was given the decision here in ten rounds against Tommy Burns. Burns was a 10 to 8 favorite in the betting.

ENGLISHMAN IS OUTCLASSED

Packey McFarland Has an Easy, Uneventful Evening With Jack Ward.

Philadelphia, Jan. 25. — Jack Ward, the English lightweight, was outclassed by Packey McFarland in their six-round bout here last night. The Englishman apparently was bewildered by the Chicago boy's speed and in the second and third rounds scarcely laid a glove on McFarland. In the third in particular, McFarland smothered Ward with left jabs and right swings.

In the fourth McFarland struck Ward several times with his open gloves and early in the fifth round, when he repeated it the crowd hissed and called for more action.

Toward the close of the sixth McFarland cut loose and drove the Englishman across the ring with right swings, one of which caused Ward to go to the mat. He was up in an instant, fought back hard until the bell rang.

BRADLEY'S RINK WINS THE WESTERN

Duluth Skip Defeats Gates of Superior in Windup of Spiel.

To Ralph Bradley's rink go the honors of the Western Curling club event.

In the final game of this event, bringing to the bonspiel a tardy close, the local rink last evening defeated the Gates' rink of Superior by the score of 10 to 6. Earlier in the day the Gates' bunch worked its way down to the semi-finals by winning from McLeod of Duluth in a close and exciting game by the score of 13 to 12.

In the Bradley-Gates game the local rink led all the way. In the eleventh head Gates gave the Duluth players a scare and possessed for a time what looked like a very excellent chance of tying up the game. The Superior man lay three with a very difficult shot for Bradley. Ralph drew to the button and raised Gates out.

The Superior man came back in the last held and lay two, but his rally came too late in the game to do him any good.

Gates had to go thirteen heads to win from McLeod in the afternoon contest. McLeod came up strong at the end and made four stones in the tenth and one each in the eleventh and twelfth heads. Gates lay in the extra head and won the right to play in the finals.

Last evening Roule forfeited to Michaud, Dinham defeated Harbison by the score of 11 to 9, and Cooley won from Treadway by the score of 21 to 1.

REVOLT FOSTERED "BY WASHINGTON"

United States Accused of Active Part in Panama's Rebellion.

Washington, Jan. 25.—American interests, with the knowledge and cooperation of the state department, "fomented" the revolution of 1903 in Colombia which resulted in the independence of Panama, according to Representative Henry T. Rainey of Illinois before the house foreign affairs committee today.

The committee began hearings on Mr. Rainey's resolution for an inquiry into the taking of the Panama canal strip by the United States.

"I propose to show in this hearing that the declaration of independence of Panama was prepared in New York in the office of William Nelson Cromwell, and that Nov. 3, 1903, was the date agreed upon for the beginning of the revolution in Colombia," said Mr. Rainey.

"Our contention is that the part the United States played for months prior to this revolution is a stain on the history of this government, and that we should make some financial reparation to Colombia for the damage done her."

MEXICO'S NATIONAL THEATER

Construction Begun Seven Years Ago and Charges of Graft Now Made—Building Is Also Sinking—President Madero Increases Tax on "Pulque Shops."

Mexico City, Jan. 25.—Doubtless the time will come when Mexico's National theater, the construction of which was commenced seven years ago, will be completed, but it may be styled a monument to graft.

Beautiful in its outlines and containing the best materials obtainable, Mexicans have long told strangers with justifiable pride that it was to be the most magnificent playhouse on the American continent, adding that its cost when complete would be 12,000,000 pesos. Now the government is waiting for the reports of its experts to know just what part of this sum has been wasted and what part can be saved without altering the plans of the architect.

The investigators turned up information that has resulted in the arrest of the chief mason, who is charged with having carried away enough building material to enable him to erect a few private residences for himself. He denies the charge.

Within the first week of the year the investigators claim to have found proof of frauds amounting to 200,000 pesos. They allege that supposed solid cement parts specified in the contracts have been made with gravel cores and the contractors paid $15.50, Mexican currency, a meter, when the material supplied cost about $4.75. A division with those "higher up" is hinted at. Carrara marble, which figures largely in the construction of the building, appears to have been sold and resold to the government.

But there is another problem connected with the theater that is worrying the government officials more than that of the suspected graft. The building is sinking. In spite of the honest opinions of skilled and experienced engineers, it appears some one made a mistake in his calculations.

The building covers the greater part of a block. The subsoil of the capital is the bed of an ancient lake and at a dpeth of six or eight feet water is encountered and below nothing but mud for a great depth. The engineers decided to utilize the floating base, constructed of layers of steel beams joined in one great bed of cement. On this steel and concrete base sunk twenty feet or more below the surface the structure was reared. The theory of the engineers was that if it sank at all, it would do so uniformly and that scores, possibly hundreds, of years would pass before the subsidence was perceptible.

The following figures just taken show how far from correct the calculation was: The southeast corner has sunk 0.818 and the southwest corner 0.833 meter. Every earthquake has caused the structure to settle a bit lower, and the shock of June 7 lowered one part of the building 25 kilometers.

A commission of engineers has now been instructed to make an examination and report the best method of preventing further damage.

President Madero is a friend of the poor, but not of the "poor man's drink." Through one of his cabinet posts he has promulgated an order that hereafter dealers in pulque must close their doors at 6 p. m. instead of 7 o'clock, and on Sundays and feast days the closing hour will be noon instead of 2 p. m. The tax on "pulque shops" has also been increased some 33 per cent.

The late Rear Admiral Evans probably never knew how near he came to being challenged to a prize fight during the visit to Mexico which he made soon after he was retired. He had been heralded as "Fighting Bob," and upon his advent his exploits formed the one topic of conversation in sporting as well as in other circles.

Among those who listened was a local aspirant for pugilistic honors who has since learned mre of the game in the United States. His knowledge of affairs was limited, and it did not occur to him that the title of "Fighting Bob" could have been earned outside the prize ring. The talk aroused his jealousy, and finally summoning all his courage, he confided to his friends that he had determined to have it out with the foreigner as soon as a bout could be arranged. The joke was passed around the capital before the defender of Mexico's sporting honor was let into it.

Two sisters and a brother of Mexico's president expect to sail before the end of January from San Fancrisco for Japan, from where they will visit before their return via New York almost every capital of Europe and Asia. Emilio Madero, who gained prominence during the revolution by personally leading an army of insurgents, has been named to present to the mikado the thanks of this country for Japan's participation in the centennial celebration in 1910. His sisters, who accompany him, are the Misses Angela and Mercedes. This commission had been given to Porfirio Diaz, Jr.

Bothered by crowds of job hunters, the president has caused to be opened at the department of the interio a bureau to which all applicants must go.

KEEPING A BOARDING HOUSE.

New York Sun: "Where the boardinghouse-keeper makes his great mistake," said the veteran boarder, "is in not alowing for deterioration of the plant. He fits up his house with everything new from top to bottom and sets a good table; his house fills up and everybody's pleased and he starts off very prosperously. At the end of a month, with his bills all paid, he finds he has a little money left over and that makes him happy; he thinks he's been making money, whereas the loss by wear on his plant may have been greater than that little cash he has left over.

"As carpets and furniture wear out he buys more on credit, and then to pay on this he has to skimp his table and get poorer servants. The house is now less attractive and the table not so good. Some of the boarders who go away in the summer don't come back in the fall. When a boarding house begins to run down everything seems to conspire to make it run down more and more.

"When the boarders begin to drop out and the dining room is only half or two-thirds full it begins really to be a tragedy, or it would be if the owner had not by this time become so dulled by adversity that he didn't realize. But few boarding houses can make a profit, however well managed, unless they are run to capacity. The entire plant is so small that any loss of custom is a big loss proportionately. This may not be evident at the moment, for things can be kept going after a fashion by going more into debt, but to all this there can be finally but one result.

"The boardinghouse-keeper must, simply must, figure in advance on how much the necessary renewals will from time to time cost, and actually save and lay aside the money for them as he goes along.

"I've lived in more than one boarding house that has started bravely only to go struggling downward. I always hate to leave a house. I wish that more boardinghouse keepers could be brought to realize that things will wear out and that they can't go on unless they provide as they go along for deterioration of the plant."

WOMAN'S LIMITATION.

Washington Star: "A woman can be just as self-reliant and independent as a man," said Mr. Meekton's wife defiantly.

"Mebbe she can, Henrietta; mebbe she can. But not while she wears dresses that hook up the back."

LETTERS BY MICHELET

Epistles Are Read at the White Earth Timber Inquiry.

Claim Is Made That Truth of Conditions Was Not Revealed.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Letters written by Simon Michelet, Indian commissioner at the White Earth reservation, were read here today in the congressional inquiry of fraud in the sale of Indian lands. E. C. O'Brien, who is aiding M. C. Burch in prosecuting the investigation, in introducing the letter declared that he would show from them that about 500 Indians were crowded out of their allotments and that Michelet had every opportunity to give the indian department the truth relative to the reservation.

A bitter clash between Mr. Lynch and Gus Beaulieu, an Indian of White Earth, occupied the greater portion of the hearing when the former was recalled to the stand. Mr. Lynch, who had just testified that the Indians had retrogaded in the last twenty years because of the government's many changes and the Indians' dissipation, was interrupted by Beaulieu's questioning him as to how long he had lived on the reservation.

"Repulsive to Him."

Mr. Lynch appealed to Congressman Graham, chairman of the committee, that he be not required to answer questions asked by Beaulieu, declaring that Beaulieu was "repulsive" to him.

"Mr. Chairman," said Beaulieu, "I believe the reason Mr. Lynch refuses to answer my questions is that I know too much of his operations on the reservation to suit him."

A recess was taken, and Mr. Lynch agreed to answer the questions, but there were several clashes during the time he was on the stand.

Charls Gilbert of Wausau, Wis., testified that he attended the sale at Crookston, and that he and C. J. Winton, an officer of the company, interested Walter Alexander and agreed to pool interests. He declared they did not agree to refrain from bidding against each other, and that Mr. Winton later sold the land. Abstracts introduced showed that the land was sold to Mr. Clarke.

Richard H. Chute, a lumberman of Minneapolis, was on the stand when the session adjourned.

WANT MOTOR BOAT LAW REPEALED.

Washington, Jan. 25.—The repeal of the motor boat law passed by congress two years ago was asked for today by J. A. Hall, harbor master at Toledo, and a delegation from other Great Lake cities, at a hearing before the house committee on merchant marine and fisheries.

Objection to the law is based on the fact that all boats under sixty feet in length are exempt from the necessity of providing licensed officers. About 800 small steamboats are affected by this provision, and the harbor officials asserted that operation of these boats is not properly safeguarded.

A MUSCULAR TUNA.

San Francisco Post: Tuna fishing may become a popular sport here before long. The first of these fish was caught outside the heads by Alf Murphy and Laurence de Vecchi after a fierce battle of six hours duration. The tuna weighted 250 pounds and was landed on the beach at Harbor View last night after being towed all the way in from Bolinas Point.

Murphy and De Vecchi were towed for miles by the monster and were almost exhausted from their labors when they finally dragged their fish on the beach. They had taken a small skiff from Harbor View early in the morning with the idea of going salmon fishing. As the water was smooth they found the salmon fishing was not good, they decided to try for rock cod and after hooking a large cod conceived the idea of trying it for bait on salmon.

They had trolled but a little way when they got a strike. Immediately they started to play the fish and their surprise can be imagined when the tuna jumped out of the water.

From that time on there was something doing every moment. The fishermen were more anxious than ever before to land their catch and they realized that with their light tackle it would be a hard task. The tuna started to run and continued to do so until all the line was played out. Then there was nothing to do but for Murphy and De Vecchi to hang on and be towed wherever the huge fish cared to tow them.

The frail craft came dangerously close to unsetting several times, but it was finally righted. Many times the fish made a dash for the boat and the anglers feared he would part the line when he stopped suddenly with a jerk. For several miles the boat was towed out to sea before the tuna showed any signs of tiring.

Then Murphy and De Vecchi started to pull for the bay. After getting close in to shore the fish showed signs of fight again and another long struggle ersued in the shallow water.

Murphy and De Vecchi finally subdued the monster and proudly dragged him up on the beach.

The people your property would appeal to are almost surely readers of Herald real estate advertising.

STOCKINGS ARE EMPTIED

Postal Savings Bank Already Has $63,000 On Deposit.

Not One Dollar of This Was Drawn From Banks.

In the Duluth Postal Savings bank there is $63,000 belonging to Zenith City depositors and not one dollar of it was drawn out of another bank to deposit with the government, according to A. P. Cook, postmaster.

The money belong to 603 depositors. More money is being deposited each day and Mr. Cook states that by the first of 1913 there will be $150,000 in the local bank.

A feature of the Duluth branch is that all the $63,000 has come out of Duluth stockings. Each depositor ha been asked whether he drew his savings from another bank and in every instance the answer has been "no."

This means that there are many Duluth people who do not deposit their money in the banks.

Minneapolis with a great deal larger population has under $100,000 on deposit. The Duluth bank is one of the most flourishing in the entire countr. when the size of the city is taken into consideration.

Many people are turned down because they have too much money. The law allows only $100 per month to be deposited.

One man recently appeared with $800 in savings which he wished the government to take care of and he was turned down. He said that he would rather keep it in its old place than take eight months in which to deposit it.

A woman appeared yesterday who didn't look as though she could have any money at all, but she asked to deposit $300.

Duluth people are also buying the Panama bonds offered by the government. When the account runs up to $500 they usually buy a bond with the amount as they know that they can at any time exchange the bond for the money at any bank.

AMAZING STATISTICS.

John Holt Schooling in the Strand: Wagner and Sufan, the German statisticians, estimated in the year 1891 the population of the world at 1,480,000,000 persons. More than one-half of this estimated number was based upon the results of actual censuses, and the remainder was carefully estimated. We shall probably not be far away from the trust if we say that there are now (in A. D. 1911) 1,860,000,000 persons on the earth.

If in Anno Domini 1 a man had then desired to be hailed in a later century Universal Benefactor of the World, he could have achieved his desire by then investing the equivalent of a modern American cent at 5 per centum compound interest per annum, the interest to accumulate year by year for the benefit of future generations.

At the end of this first century of investment—namely, in A. D. 100—the original cent would have grown to $1.31 cents. Athe end of 1,910 years after Anno Domini 1—namely, at the end of the year 1910 (last year)—the original cent would have grown to the stupendous value of $296,180,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 ($29,618 followed by 34 0's).

This accumulation resulting in A. D. 1910 from the original investment of 1 cent in Ano Domini 1 is so vast that no brain can realize what is the meaning of the enormous quantity of dollars just stated. We are wholly unable to realize the stupendous golden growth of this original cent unless we press into our service various aids to imaginative conception, such as those I have dreamed and here illustrated.

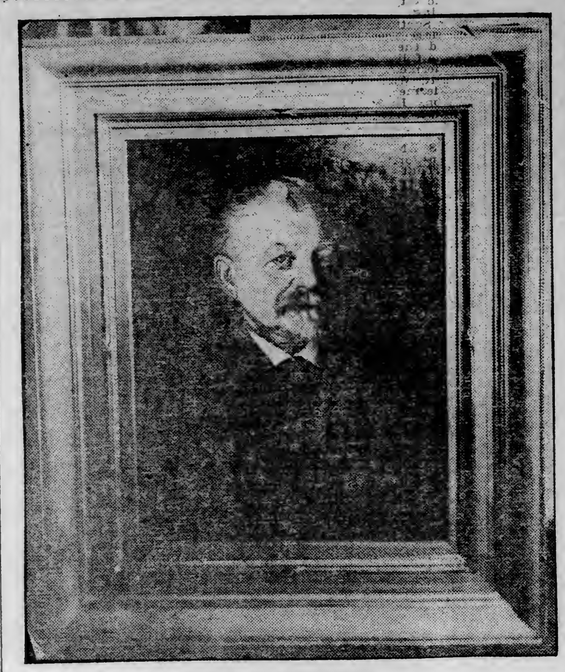

Imagine the earth transformed into a huge flat slab one mill thick, floating in space. Let every man, woman and child now living in the world—aproximately 1,800,000,000 persons—continuously discharge a quick-firing gun loaded with American Gold Eagles in place of bullets for 1,000 years. Each gun fires into space 1,000 gold eagles per minute, which drop over the edges of the earth.

The result is that at the end of 1,000 years' continuous discharge of gold eagles from 1,800,000,000 quick-firing guns at the rate of 1,000 gold eagles per minute from each gun, only an infinitesimal fraction of the money would have thus been got rid of. The amount to be thus drawn upon being the $29,618 followed by thirty-four 0's, this amount being the accumulated result of 1 cent invested in Anno Domini 1 at 5 per centum compound interest until the end of the year 1910.

All this firing away of gold eagles would have to continue for more than 31,000,000,000,000,000 years, in place of for merely 1,000 years, in order to exhaust the money accumulated in A. D. 1910.

This incredible result is no freak of fancy, but a solid fact.

HENRY TRUELSEN WILL ENLIVEN MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP CAMPAIGN

HENRY TRUELSEN.
From a Painting by David Ericson.

Henry Truelsen is coming to Duluth to enliven the campaign for municipal ownership of the lighting plant.

Some who were appraised of his coming today expressed the opinion that the former mayor of Duluth would be the headliner from the moment he steps on the stump to orate fervidly in the interests of municipal ownership.

E. M. Morgan, chairman of the municipal ownership committee, stated that the former mayor was being brought here as a non partisan, and that in no way could his activity in support of municipal ownership be construed as a partisan move.

"The coming of Mr. Truelsen is strictly non partisan," said Mr. Morgan, and he said it with emphasis. "There are Republicans and Democrats upon the municipal ownership committee. Mr. Truelsen is being brought here by the committee for the sole purpose of speaking on municipal ownership and he will not touch on the merits, the claims, or the personalities of the rival candidates for mayor."

Mr. Truelsen will arrive Tuesday. Whether he will speak on the first day of his arrival has not as yet been decided upon by the municipal ownership committee. If the arrangements can be made, the former mayor will hurl the first bombshell for the municipal ownership of the light and power plant on Tuesday; if he doesn't orate on Tuesday, he will start the campaign on Wednesday and will speak at various meetings also on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The committee members are planning at the present time to have other speakers at the meetings.

Those who are acquainted with the style of Former Mayor Truelsen are speculating upon what effect upon the campaign his presence will have. At least the campaign will be made lively and picturesque. There is little doubt of that.

"BILLY" DELANEY HEARS THE LAST CALL

Oakland, Cal., Jan. 25.—Billy Delaney, the famous trainer, died early today.

"Father Bill" Delaney, as he was known to a host of acquaintances in the sporting world, was the discoverer of James J. Corbett and first sprang into the public notice when the young Californian won the world's championship from John L. Sullivan at New Orleans, back in 1891. Delaney remained with Corbett in the capacity of trainer and chief adviser until the champion lost his famous battle to Bob Fitzsimmons at Carson City, Nev., in 1897. Following the Corbett defeat, Delaney took the raw youth, James J. Jeffries and developed him into a world's champion. Strange enough Billy Delaney was in the corner of Jack Johnson when he sent Jeffries down to defeat at Reno, July 4, 1910. The old trainer went into Johnson's corner through spite against Jeffries, who, it has been said, failed to treat the old trainer right.

Billy Delaney was perhaps the most famous trainer of prize-fighters in the world and was known throughout the sporting world as a man honest in principle and kindly of nature.

TRAINING TRIPS TO BEGIN SOON

New York, Jan. 25.—In less than a month's time the invasion of the South by the National and American League teams will begin in earnest.

All the National League clubs have completed their training plans. The Giants will be the pioneers. The first squad will leave this city for Marlin, Springs on Feb. 16, going by way of St. Louis, where they will join the Western contingent on Feb. 17. Manager McGraw expects to be the first man at Marlin. He will go by train and will meet the first squad of youngsters on Feb. 20. Wilbert Robinson will be with him to take charge of the young pitchers. The regular players of the team will leave in two squads a week later than the recruits and report to Manager McGraw about Feb. 28. McGraw will have thirty-five players at the springs when all hands report.

Manager Bill Dahlen has not yet decided when the members of the Brooklyn club will leave for Hot Springs, Ark. He has fixed Feb. 29 as the reporting date at the Southern resort. Dahlen will be at the training camp a week ahead or his players. He expects to have thirty-four players on hand when practice begins. The team will remain at the springs until March 15, when the trip home will begin with a game at Memphis on March 16.

Philadelphia will train at Hot Springs beginning about March 1. The Bostons will go to Atlanta from March 14 to 28. Chicago will have a week in New Orleans beginning March 7, followed by an exhibition trip of fifteen games.

The Cincinnatis will go to Columbus, Ga., on March 1. The Pittsburgs will reach Hot Springs on March 17 and St. Louis will do most of their training at home.

REULBACH SIGNS WITH CUBS AGAIN.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—Pitcher Ed Reulbach, on whom President Murphy of the Chicago National league club was given waivers and whom Murphy threatened to sell to a minor league club, signed a year's contract with Murphy today at his own terms.

Pitcher Seril Slapnicka, a recruit, was today disposed of to the Louisville club of the American association by President Murphy who also announced that he had received a signed contract from Outfielder Ward Miller, formerly of the Montreal and Cincinnati teams.

ATTELL BARRED FROM NEW YORK.

New York, Jan. 25.—Abe Attell, featherweight champion, was this afternoon suspended from boxing in New York state for a period of six months by the state athletic commission, which found him guilty of "faking" and "stalling" in his recent bout with "Knockout" Brown.

WAUSAU CLUB IN NEW COMPANY.

FISHER AND HITCHCOCK SENT TO SEE CANAL.

Washington, Jan. 25.—Secretary of the Interior Fisher and Postmaster General Hitchcock, the only two members of President Taft's cabinet who have not visited the Panama canal, have been ordered by the president, it was unofficially learned today, to make a tour of inspection. They will leave here probably about the middle of February. The president is desirous that every member of the cabinet be familiar with conditions on the isthmus.

NORTH DAKOTA EDITORS RALLYING AT FARGO.

Fargo, N. D., Jan 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Local hotels are already filling up with North Dakota newspaper men here to attend the semi-annual meeting of North Dakota press association. The principal event will be a banquet tomorrow evening at which a number of addresses will be made. Minot and Valley City promises a scrap to get the mid-summer meeting.

A SURE SIGN.

Los Angeles Times: The Rev. R. J. Campbell, apropros of his strictures on the morality of the modern business man, told a story to a Philadelphia reporter.

"A commercial traveler," he said, "returned home from a long trip in the Far East, and said anxiously to his wife at the railway station:

"'How are the dear children?'

"'Splendid,' she replied. 'That is, they are all splendid but little Willie, and him I don't know what to make of. Instead of studying at school, he spends his time making out of old spools and such-like rubbish worthless trifles which he sells to the other children for cakes and marbles. While his mates are at play, he sits at home studying success encyclopaedias. He doesn't even sleep like other children. When I go up at night to see if he's all right, I find him in his nightgown quietly prying pennies out of his little brothers' and sisters' banks.'

"The father's eyes filled with happy tears.

"'Mary,' he said, as he clasped his wife to his breast, 'Mary, my dear, our name is destined to immortality. I see clearly from your words that Willie will become a multimillionaire, founding libraries and art galleries, hospitals and universities, all over America.'"

If some feature of your business must be temporarily neglected, let it be something less important than your advertising.

TWO BOYS ARE UNDER ARREST

Frances Le Beau and Leon Gravelle Are Charged With Burglary.

After a continued search of over two weeks, the West Duluth police, assisted by C. S. Holberg of the Northern Pacific detective service, yesterday succeeded in arresting Frances Le Beau and Leon Gravelle, the two boys who are accused of having broken into E. J. Ketchum's hardware store, taking silverware, revolvers and ammunition.

The two boys, who are but 15 years old, were found in a box car at Carlton and were brought to the West Duluth police station. They were arraigned in municipal court this morning and their case will be heard in the juvenile court Saturday morning.

Tuesday afternoon Lieut. Wilcox of the West Duluth station found the stolen articles and returned them yesterday morning to Mr. Ketchum. Following the robbery the police worked on the theory that it was committed by young boys, on account of the clumsy work and the familiarity the thieves showed with the place. The parents of the two boys aided the police in searching for them and Mr. Holberg left here Tuesday morning on hearing that the boys had been seen in Carlton.

CULLUM WILL BE SPEAKER

Big Democratic Gathering Will Be Held in West Duluth.

The indications are that Gilley's hall will be packed to the doors tonight to hear the address which will be delivered by Mayor M. B. Cullum in advocacy of his re-election as chief executive of the city.

It is expected that the mayor will speak principally on matters relative to law enforcement, a subject which is of great interest to the citizens of West Duluth. Dr. McCuen spoke along that line at a recent meeting and it is stated by those who are in close touch with Dr. Cullum, that he will answer his opponent's arguments at some length, as well as make a few statements of his own.

His associates also say that he will touch on matters pertaining to taxation. This will be of special interest to West Duluthians as J. A. Scott, city assessor, is a resident of that end of the city and has had charge of the revaluation which has been in progress throughout the city. It is also thought that he will deal with the charter amendments.

Other speakers will be Alderman William L. Bernard, who is the Democratic candidate for re-election in the Seventh ward, and P. H. Martin, who seeks election as alderman of the Eighth ward on the Democratic ticket.

On Saturday evening the West Duluth Republican club will hold a mass meeting at the West Duluth Commercial club rooms. The principal speakers will be Dr. J. A. McCuen, Republican candidate for mayor, and the candidates for aldermen from the Seventh and Eighth wards.

DULUTH INDUSTRIAL HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The semester cooking examinations are being held at the Duluth Industrial high school, and instead of the customary written tests, the students are given a practical examination. Miss Irene Walker, head of the department, is in charge of the work and the students are tested as to their ability to prepare the foods, serve them at a table and the art of table etiquette. One half of the students serve the other half in the examination, and this morning a three-course breakfast was served by the members of the Eighth grade class of the Irving school.

Nearly $50 was again deposited today with Mrs. Jensen of the First National bank, which is conducting the novel school bank system in this end of the city. The grand total is now $250 and there are a large number of new depositors every week. Mrs. Jenser received the deposits of the Ely school this afternoon.

FOREST FIRE COST HIM $5,000

Settler Is Suing Iron Range Road for That Amount.

Another forest fire case was put on trial this morning in district court.

Jacob Lempia, in Judge Cant's court, is suing the Duluth & Iron Range railroad for $5,000, to which extent he claims his property was damaged by fire originating on the railroad right-of-way last June.

Attorney De La Motte appears as attorney for the plaintiff and Baldwin & Baldwin are defending.

The Lempia farm is adjacent to the Duluth & Iron Range right-of-way, between mileposts 88 and 92. On June 21 it is claimed that a fire, which started presumably from a passing train, swept over a great portion of the Lempia farm, doing considerable damage.

This was a season of unusual drouth and high winds, it is claimed. Lempia further alleges that the railroad company was negligent in failing to keep the right-of-way cleared of combustible material and in taking other precautions against fires.

CHURCHILL WILL HOLD MEETING

Deep Apprehension Exists Over Coming Clash at Belfast.

London, Jan. 25. — The determination of Winston Spencer Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, not to change his decision to hold the meeting in favor of home rule at which he and John E. Redmond, leader of the Irish Nationalists, are to speak at Belfast on Feb. 8, has caused the deepest apprehension among moderate Unionists regarding the consequences of the Ulster men's decision to prevent it at all costs.

The English Unionist press is urging Mr. Churchill to cancel his visit, pointing out that a fight between the two parties on the day of the demonstration in Belfast will not put an end to the trouble.

Fears are expressed in some quarters that hostilities will be carried on for weeks and perhaps months, not only in Belfast, but throughout Ulster.

OPTIMISM IS WIDESPREAD

Charles Learned, a prominent insurance man of St. Paul, who is a guest at the Holland today, says that all over the country business is showing an increase, markets are showing more strength and buoyancy, and many of the big merchants of the Twin Cities are looking forward to a very good year.

"The insurance companies should have a prosperous year," said Mr. Learned. "Already we have observed signs of an increase of business in our line. There is a better sentiment and the air of pessimism is rapidly being superseded by an air of optimism and belief in better business. The fact that this is presidential year does not seem to be having any effect in stopping the general belief that we are going to have better times in the future."

RAILROADS

GREAT NORTHERN WILL BE HEAVY SHIPPER.

Again in 1913, the Great Northern road promises to be the heaviest of the ore movers.

It is reported that the Steel corporation will ship heavily from the Hill properties in order to gain against the shortage which at present exists under the Hill ore lease.

Last year the Great Northern carried 10,000,000 tons and it is expected that at least 12,000,000 tons will be carried this year. Indications seem to show that all the roads will do more this year than last.

The furnaces are making big demands on the present stocks and it looks as though ore will be in demand by the time the shipping season begins.

TAKE $10,000,000 IN B. & O. CERTIFICATES.

New York, Jan. 25.—The directors of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad have authorized the issue and sale of $10,000,000 4½ per cent, ten-year trust certificates. The entire amount was taken by Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and Speyer & Co., each subscribing $5,000,000. The purpose of the issue, it is said, is to reimburse the company's treasury in part for money expended from earnings on equipment and improvements during the past two years.

Macartney of the firm said he did not know when he would take up the matter of the will, but that he would not file it with the probate court this week, at least.

By Alderman Hogan:

Whereas, after great patience and long suffering by Duluth Heights people and giving the Duluth Street Railway Company ample opportunity to find some way to furnish adequate service to Duluth Heights, and whereas it is demonstrated that it is impossible for them to do so in connection with the incline line as that service requires the people of that portion of the city to make three car changes with necessary exposure to the weather and loss of time, requiring the people there to reach their homes, a distance of two miles, as long as to go three times that distance on other lines, and whereas the street car company is about to build up Seventh avenue east with a surface line, and an extension of one mile additional would give good transportation facilities to Duluth Heights without change of cars at substantially one-half the time.

Therefore, Be It Resolved, That the Common Council of the City of Duluth hereby notify, and instruct the Duluth Street Railway Company to construct and operate a surface line at the earliest possible moment from the proposed line at head of Seventh avenue east to Duluth Heights, to furnish that portion of the city with proper and adequate service and said company is hereby advised that the City of Duluth will co-operate with the company in selecting a suitable grade and establishing a roadway for such line.

TWO BOYS ARE UNDER ARREST

Frances Le Beau and Leon Gravelle Are Charged With Burglary.

After a continued search of over two weeks, the West Duluth police, assisted by C. S. Holberg of the Northern Pacific detective service, yesterday succeeded in arresting Frances Le Beau and Leon Gravelle, the two boys who are accused of having broken into the Ketchum's hardware store, taking silverware, revolvers and ammunition.

The two boys, who are but 15 years old, were found in a box car at Carlton and were brought to the West Duluth police station. They were arraigned in municipal court this morning and their case will be heard in the juvenile court Saturday morning.

Tuesday afternoon Lieut. Wilcox of the West Duluth station found the stolen articles and returned them yesterday morning to Mr. Ketchum. Following the robbery the police worked on the theory that it was committed by some boys on account of the chums seen and the familiarity the thieves showed with the place. The parents of the two boys aided the police in securing the clues and Mr. Holberg Tuesday morning on hearing that the boys had been seen in Carlton.

CULLUM WILL BE SPEAKER

Big Democratic Gathering Will Be Held in West Duluth.

The indications are that Gilley's hall will be packed to the doors tonight to hear the address which will be delivered by Mayor M. B. Cullum in advocacy of his reelection as chief executive of the city.

It is expected that the mayor will speak principally on matters relative to law enforcement, a subject which is of interest to the citizens of West Duluth. Dr. Mechen spoke along that line at a recent meeting and it is stated those who are in close touch with the situation think the mayor will answer his opponents arguments at some length as well as make a few statements of his own.

The mayor also say that he will touch on matters pertaining to factories which will be of special interest to West Duluth and has had charge of the recreation which has been in progress there for the city. It is also thought that he will deal with the charter amendments.

The speakers will be Alderman William H. Cheeland, who is the Democratic candidate for reelection in the Seventh ward, and E. H. Martin, who seeks election as alderman of the Eighth ward on the Democratic ticket. On Saturday evening the West Duluth Republican club will hold a mass meeting at the West Duluth Commercial club rooms. The principal speakers will be Dr. A. A. McCuen, Republican candidate for mayor, and the candidates for aldermen from the Seventh and Eighth wards.

DULUTH INDUSTRIAL HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The semester cooking examinations are being held at the Duluth Industrial high school, and instead of the customary written tests, the students are given a practical examination. Miss Irene A. Long, head of the department, is in charge of the work and the students are tested as to their ability to prepare the foods, serve them at a table and the use of table etiquette. Each of the students serve the other half in the examination, and this morning a three-course breakfast was served by members of the Eighth grade cooking class of the Irving school.

The sum of $50 was again deposited today with Mrs. Jensen of the First National bank, which is conducting the novel school bank system in this and other schools of the city. The grand total is now $250 and there are a large number of new accounts every week. Mrs. Jensen received the deposits of the Ely school this afternoon.

FOREST FIRE COST HIM $5,000

Settler Is Suing Iron Range Road for That Amount.

Another forest fire case was put on trial this morning in district court.

Jacob Lempia, in Judge Cant's court, is suing the Duluth & Iron Range railroad for $5,000, to which extent he claims his property was damaged by fire originating on the railroad right-of-way last June.

Attorney De La Motte appears as attorney for the plaintiff and Baldwin & Baldwin are defending.

The Lempia farm is adjacent to the Duluth & Iron Range right-of-way, between mileposts 88 and 92. On June 21 it is claimed that a fire, which started presumably from a passing train, swept over a great portion of the Lempia farm, doing considerable damage.

This was a season of unusual drouth and high winds, it is claimed. Lempia further alleges that the railroad company was negligent in failing to keep the right-of-way cleared of combustible material and in taking other precautions against fires.

CHURCHILL WILL HOLD MEETING

London, Jan. 25. — The determination of Winston Spencer Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, not to change his decision to hold the meeting in favor of home rule at which he and John E. Redmond, leader of the Irish Nationalists, are to speak at Belfast on Feb. 8, has caused the deepest apprehension among moderate Unionists regarding the consequences of the Ulster men's decision to prevent it at all costs.

The English Unionist press is urging Mr. Churchill to cancel his visit, pointing out that a fight between the two parties on the day of the demonstration in Belfast will not put an end to the trouble.

Fears are expressed in some quarters that hostilities will be carried on for weeks and perhaps months, not only in Belfast, but throughout Ulster.

OPTIMISM IS WIDESPREAD

Charles Learned, a prominent insurance man of St. Paul, who is a guest at the Holland today, says that all over the country business is showing an increase, markets are showing more strength and buoyancy, and many of the big merchants of the Twin Cities are looking forward to a very good year.

"The insurance companies should have a prosperous year," said Mr. Learned. "Already we have observed signs of an increase of business in our line. There is a better sentiment and the air of pessimism is quite being superseded by an air of optimism and belief in better business. The fact that this is presidential year does not seem to be having any effect in stopping the general belief that we are going to have better times in the future."

RAILROADS

GREAT NORTHERN WILL BE HEAVY SHIPPER.

Again in 1913, the Great Northern road promises to be the heaviest of the ore movers.

It is reported that the Steel corporation will ship heavily from the Hill properties in order to gain against the shortage which at present exists under the Hill ore lease.

Last year the Great Northern carried 10,000,000 tons and it is expected that at least 12,000,000 tons will be carried this year. Indications seem to show that all the roads will do more this year than last.

The furnaces are making big demands on the present stocks and it looks as though ore will be in demand by the time the shipping season begins.

The entire amount was taken by Kuhn, Loeb Co. and Speyer & Co., each subscribing $5,000,000. The purpose of the issue, it is said, is to reimburse the company's treasury in part for money expended from earnings on equipment and improvements during the past two years.

Whereas, after great patience and long suffering by Duluth Heights people and giving the Duluth Street Railway Company ample opportunity to find some way to furnish adequate service to Duluth Heights, and whereas it is demonstrated that it is impossible for them to do so in connection with the incline line as that service requires the people of that portion of the city to make three car changes with necessary exposure to the weather and loss of time, requiring the people there to reach their homes, a distance of two miles, as long as to go three times that distance on other lines, and whereas the street car company is about to build up Seventh avenue east with a surface line, and an extension of one mile additional would give good transportation facilities to Duluth Heights without change of cars at substantially one-half the time.

Therefore, Be It Resolved, That the Common Council of the City of Duluth hereby notify and instruct the Duluth Street Railway Company to construct and operate a surface line at the earliest possible moment from the proposed line at head of Seventh avenue east to Duluth Heights, to furnish that portion of the city with proper and adequate service and said company is hereby advised that the City of Duluth will co-operate with the company in selecting a suitable grade and establishing a roadway for such line.

DECREASE OF THE VISIBLE

American Wheat Markets Are Steadily Bulled By This Factor.

Lighter Receipts of Flaxseed and Better Demand Boost Values.

Duluth Board of Trade, Jan. 25.—The prognostications that were made in the fall by certain wheat bulls to the effect that wheat would be a very expensive staple before there was another crop, and the declaration of the federal bureau that the wheat crop of the United States in 1911 was below a normal crop are vividly remembered, as the rapid decrease of the American visible supply is noticed by the traders on the various American wheat exchanges.

There seems to be a sustained bullish feeling, which is strengthened each day, as the primary receipts of America fall short of those of the corresponding day of last year. Today Duluth May wheat made an advance of ⅝c. Durum grain gained ½c. Cash wheat closed at the May price. January linseed closed 3¼c up and May 4c up.

The wheat situation was strong on the various American markets this morning. Cables from Europe were mixed, not particularly favoring either the bull or the bear side, but Argentine news was decidedly bullish. When on the Buenos Ayres market last night closed at ⅝c to 1⅛c higher and this morning opened at a further advance of ⅝c to ⅞c, on account of unsettled weather in the southern part of Argentina and interference with the shipments by the railroad strike in that country. These were bullish influences on the Liverpool market but they were counteracted by freer Australian offers and a quieter demand for cargoes and parcels. Liverpool wheat closed ⅛d higher to ⅛d lower.

On the American markets, the fact of the primary receipts continuing to fall short of equalling those of a year ago, while the visible supply has been rapidly diminishing was the principal bullish factor, and it showed its effect quite forcibly today. Rycroft wired from Chicago that there was every reason to believe that the amount of wheat in the farmers' hands was very light. Minneapolis reported a good cash demand for wheat on the part of the millers, though there was no general improvement in the flour trade. Some of the smaller country mills, however, have been exporting a better market for their product. Duluth May wheat, which closed yesterday at $1.05⅞ bid, opened today at the same figure and at noon was selling for $1.06⅝.

Flax Makes Large Gains.

The flax situation this morning was still more bullish than that of wheat. Buenos Ayres February flax closed last night at $2.00½ a bushel, showing a gain of ½c and it opened this morning at a further advance of 1⅝c. Unsettled weather in Argentina seemed to be the cause. These cables had some effect in stimulating a bullish movement on the Duluth market, but a factor that was more important was a falling off of the receipts from the country. Immediately after the mild spell of weather began farmers did a great deal of hauling of flax to the country elevators, and shortly afterwards there was quite an increase in the offers, but this movement has been subsiding, and receipts have been diminishing at the country elevators. There were only nine cars of flax for inspection on the track today, whereas yesterday there were twenty and the day before there were forty-two. Moreover, crushers have been buying more freely because of a heavier demand for their oil. Of late considerable quantities of linseed oil have been exported for Europe, although stocks of linseed oil are low in this country. This indicates that the European stocks are still lower. For several years past this country has exported no linseed oil. Last year a great deal of the linseed oil consumed in this country was imported. At noon today both January and May flax at Duluth were up 2½ cents.

FRENCH NAVAL PROGRAM RAISED

Cabinet Will Ask Chamber of Deputies to Consider Increases.

Paris, Jan. 25.—The cabinet has decided to ask the chamber of deputies to discuss the French naval program at an early date.

Great interest is manifested not only in Paris, but throughout France, in the nature of the proposals which will be placed before the deputies by Theophile Delcasse, minister of marine, who on Nov. 14, during a speech in the chamber of deputies, declared that the battleships Jean Bert and Courbet, which displace 23,500 tons each, were the forerunners of a new and stronger fleet. The ministerial declaration made by the new cabinet Jan. 16 also hinted that the strengthening of the navy would receive special attention.

Cares for Servant.

Grafton, N. D., Jan. 25.—(Special to The Herald.)—Learning that Andrew Johnson, who for many years was a servant in his palatial Michigan avenue residence in Chicago, L. W. Fargo, of the Wells-Fargo Express company, had been stricken with paralysis and had been a patient in a local hospital, four months, yesterday removed the man from this city and will place him in a private hospital in Chicago, where he will be given the best of treatment.

GOVERNMENT GAINS POINT

Packers' Margin Sheets Admitted as Evidence in Their Trial.

Documents Whose Existence Was Denied Presented in Court.

Chicago, Jan. 26.—A ruling in favor of the government in the prosecution of the ten Chicago packers was made today when United States District Judge Carpenter allowed the introduction in evidence of thirty-five original margin sheets of the National Packing company for the first eight months of 1910.

The defense denied all knowledge of these original margin sheets until suddenly they were produced in court yesterday by District Attorney Wilkerson. The government believes the margin sheets to be an important link in the chain of circumstantial evidence by which it expects to prove the packers guilty.

Read by Pierce Butler.

When Special Counsel Pierce Butler, representing the government, started to read to the jury the original margin sheets, the defense made objection on the ground that the evidence was immaterial.

"These papers are irrelevant and should be excluded," said Attorney John S. Miller, representing the Armour group of defendants. "If we are not careful we will be overwhelmed with immaterial things in this case."

"These are redhanded things, in the opinion of the government," interrupted Attorney Butler, waving the margin sheets before him.

Fears Confusion in Jury.

"They don't appear redhanded to us," replied Attorney Miller. "The jury is only human and I feel will be so overwhelmed with material figures and data in this case that they will not

BELOW ZERO IN COPPER COUNTRY

Lake Superior Is Frozen as Far Out as One Can See.

Calumet, Mich., Jan. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Temperatures in the Lake Superior Copper country took another sudden drop last night, reaching 27 deg. below zero at Lake Linden, at Hubbell, 18 at Calumet, 12 at Houghton and Hancock and 31 at Summit, the highest point in Michigan, L'Anse showed 26 below.

As a result of frost in the rails extreme care is necessary in railroad operations and all trains are running late. Houghton and Keweenaw country lumber operators have been unable to send men into the woods for several days because of the extreme cold.

Lake Superior is frozen as far as eye can reach at Eagle Harbor for the first time in years.

FIVE GENERATIONS IN ONE FAMILY

Oldest Member Is 99 Years Old and Youngest Is Newborn Babe.

La Crosse, Wis., Jan. 26.—The birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schweigert of La Crosse adds another generation to the family, which now numbers five and whose ages range from over 99 years to the infant just born. Mrs. Caroline Akerman, residing at Ettrick, the great-great-grandmother of the child, who will celebrate her 100th birthday in February, is the oldest person in La Crosse county. Despite her age she is able to care for the poultry on her farm and is in good health. The great-grand parent is Mrs. Fred Grother, aged 69. Mrs. Groth's daughter is Mrs. John Schweigert, aged 39, whose son, Fred, aged 22, is the father of Robert Schweigert, the child, who has more living ancestors than any other child in La Crosse county.

HAS HEARING ON LINDBERGH PLAN

House Committee Asks Samuel Untermeyer About Money Trust.

Washington, Jan. 26.—The house committee on rules today resumed its hearings on the Lindbergh resolution for a special inquiry into the "money trust," with Samuel Untermeyer of New York as a witness.

Mr. Untermeyer said he did not appear as sponsor or champion of the Lindbergh resolution, but he was satisfied congress could not legislate intelligently with respect to trusts or to a monetary system until the question of concenration of the "money power" was thoroughly understood.

For that reason, he said, he favored the proposed investigation provided it was "conducted in a conservative, systematic, painstaking, non-partisan spirit with the sole object of exposing the weaknesses and abuses of the system and as the basis for constructive legislation."

Mr. Untermeyer stated that there was no such thing as a "money trust" in the sense that the word "trust" is applied to illegal combinations. He believed, however, the proposed investigation would establish that the present financial condition is due to the concentration of funds of great corporations in New York city.

MOB MURDERS FORMER IDOL

Gen. Montero of Ecuador Shot, Hacked to Pieces and Burned.

Assassination Occurs in Court After Trial of Victim.

Guayaquil, Ecuador, Jan. 26.—Gen. Pedro Montero, who recently was the popular hero of Quayaquil has been shot by the angry populace, dragged into the streets, beheaded and burned.

Gen. Montero, in November last, was proclaimed president of the troops stationed in Guayaquil, but handed over the leadership in the provisional government to Gen. Flavio Alfaro. A revolutionary army went from Guayaquil to meet the government troops from Quito, who under the command of Gen. Leonidas Plaza, defeated them and eventually forced Guayaquil to capitulate.

Gen. Montero, with other leaders, was captured on Jan. 22, and last evening Gen. Montero was brought before a court martial and sentenced to sixteen years' imprisonment in a penitentiary.

Murdered in Courtroom.

When Gen. Plaza, who presided over the court-martial, announced the sentence, crowds of angry people who had surrounded the government palace awaiting the result shouted violent protests. The excitement increased rapidly and some of them rushed into the courtroom, riddled Gen. Montero with bullets, seized his body and dragged it into the open air. There they hacked the head off the shoulders, gathered fuel and started a fire, and then cast head and trunk into the flames.

The excitement lasted throughout the night and revolver shots occurred in many parts of the city.

Gen. Eloy Alfaro and Gen. Paez, who were captured at the same time as Gen. Montero, were, it is reported, sent to Quito at midnight. They will be tried by court-martial in the capital.

Gen. Madardo Alfaro, accompanied by rebel troops, has arrived here on the British steamer Quito. He was captured by the government and imprisoned.

DISCUSS "HELL HOLES" OF PLANTS

Steel Corporation Employes' Work Talked of By Congressmen.

Washington, Jan. 26.—The "hell holes" of the United States Steel corporation came up for discussion at a hearing today before the senate committee on education and labor in considering the house bill which would impose an eight-hour labor restriction on all government contracts. Chairman Borah of the committee said some industries had gone so far as to need federal attention.

"From the reports of the department of commerce and labor on the steel industry," said the senator, "it is shown that the Steel corporation is paying millions of dollars in dividends and yet they have in their hell holes men who work twelve hours a day, seven days a week, and others who work eighteen to twenty-four hours in one shift. No man who has taken an oath of office can ignore this."

SETTLES FOR DEATH OF MAN CHAINED TO SEAT.

Denver, Colo., Jan. 26.—Suit for the recovery of $5,000 against the Denver & Rio Grande Railway company, brought by John E. Whittle of Chicago for the death of his son, Archibald Whittle, in a wreck March 16, 1906, when young Whittle, handcuffed and shackled to a car seat, was being taken to Canon City to begin a prison term for forgeries perpetrated in Denver, was settled by the railway company today. This was the last claim against the railroad company growing out of what is known as the adobe wreck nearly six years ago.

"PUT THEM IN JAIL"---MEYER

Interstate Commerce Commissioner Talks on Rates and Offenders.

Says Law Does Not Create Wrongs, But Would End Them.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 26.—"The regulation of railways rests upon eternal laws of justice, of reasonableness and equality," said Prof. B. H. Meyer, formerly of the University of Wisconsin, and now of the interstate commerce commission, today in an address before the students at the state university on "The Morality of Regulation."

"The impression is sometimes created," continued the speaker, "that the interstate commerce law and similar laws of individual states made certain acts and events wrong which hitherto had been intrinsically right.

"Unreasonable and unjust rates were wrong long before the interstate commerce act, and the Wisconsin railroad commission laws were passed. The law has branded some acts connected with transportation as criminal, whereas formerly the evil doer could not be reached under any criminal statute."

Fines Not Enough.

Referring to the question of jail sentences for offending railroad magnates, Prof. Meyer said:

"At times much has been said against the retention of a prison penalty in regulatory statutes, the assumption being that fines upon individuals and corporations will be sufficient. I cannot share this view. Men conducting a corporation, or acting as agents of a corporation, are the culprits. I am in favor not only of a financial punishment, but of punishment by imprisonment, so that the evil act may not be atoned for only by the rolling over of

CITY SERIOUSLY IN NEED OF AID

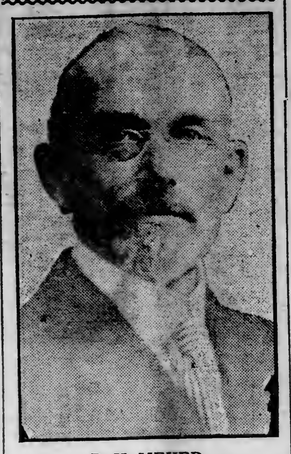

Black River Falls' Situation More Acute Than Reported.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 26. — Following a long conference with Governor McGovern, Speaker Ingram said today the situation at Black River Falls is much more acute than press reports have indicated. He did not know whether the governor would call a special sesion of the legislature, he said, but personally he believed the exigencies of the situation demand such action.

No state as wealthy and prosperous as this, he said, should hesitate to extend aid when a great disaster falls upon any of its citizens, and in the history of the state this action has been taken a number of times. To vote a substantial sum for protecting the city of Black River Falls would be only humanitarian and in the line of duty, he said.

The speaker said the cost will be light, as only mileage need be paid the legislators and only a few clerks and pages would need to be recalled for a short session.

WORKING FOR CHILD BUREAU

Delegates Leave Louisville Meeting to Labor at Washington.

Pearse Says Child Labor Is Not an Unmixed Evil.

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 26.—While delegates to the conference on child labor came here to discuss problems, they did not let theory stand in the way of practice at the opening session, and they changed the entire order of business to rush through resolutions urging congress to enact Senator Borah's bill creating a children's bureau in connection with the department of commerce and labor. Dr. Samuel McCune Lindsay left at once for Washington to present the memorial.

Word was received at the same time that Dr. A. J. McKelvay had learned of the pending measure, which is to be voted on Tuesday, and turned back after starting for Louisville, in order to work for its passage. Richmond Pearson Hobson also cancelled his engagement to speak here Sunday and announced his purpose of joining the lobby for the bill.

Judge Meyers Accused.

Julius Meyers, former attorney general of New York and now said to be a candidate for a federal judgeship, was blamed today by Mrs. Florence Kelley, general secretary of the National Consumers' league, for the impotency of New York's child labor law.

His influence, Mrs. Kelley said, was responsible for the amendment of the bill when it was before the state legislature, so that it is made legal for children of nominally 10 years of age

CREDITS ACT IS ATTACKED

Constitutionality of Tax Law Before the State Supreme Court.

Assessor's Refusal to Permit Deductions of Debts Basis of Case.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Constitutionality of the moneys and credits act passed at the last session of the legislature will be argued before the state supreme court, Jan. 31, in a case wherein the Winona Motor company of Winona, Minn., is seeking abatement of its 1911 taxes because the assessor refused to permit it to deduct its debts from its statement of credits. The refusal of the assessor was upheld by the state tax commission and the motor company went to the supreme court of a writ of certiorari.

In his brief defending the action of the tax commission, Assistant Attorney General W. J. Stevenson declares that the 1911 law provides an entirely new system of taxing moneys and credits—a radical departure from the old system that has been in use in Minnesota since the time the state was admitted into the union. He declares, further, that the 1911 act is a substitute for the old system and operates as a repeal of the provisions of the statute heretofore relating to the assessment and taxation of this class of property.

Repealed by Implication.

"It is a significant fact," Mr. Stevenson continues, "that in this new system of taxing credits and money no provision is made for the deducting of debts so that the result may be taxing net credits as under the old system. The question then properly arises whether because there is no reference to the deducting of debts under the new system, the old provision relating thereto is repealed or whether it may still be enforced. The rule in that re-

STUBBS WOULD AID ROOSEVELT

Offers Services for Campaign and Hadley Does the Same.

Chicago, Jan. 26.—Governor W. R. Stubbs of Kansas dropped into the Roosevelt national committee headquarters here today and announced his willingness to accept a membership in that body.

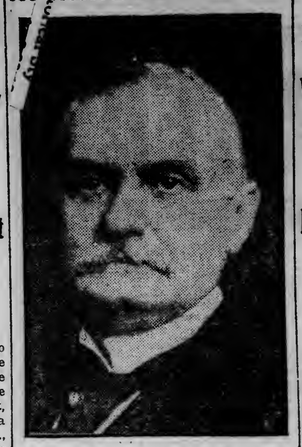

"Roosevelt is the logical man for the Republican party to nominate," he said. "He would carry Kansas by at least 75,000, and carry Missouri, too. There is a strong sentiment in favor of Roosevelt in my section of the country."

The governor was on his way to New York and Washington. Asked if his visit to New York had any significance in connection with the Roosevelt movement, he smiled broadly and replied:

"Not a bit."

Governor Hadley of Missouri wired the committee today that he would accept a membership.

HARRISON'S CANDIDACY

Unique Position of the Chicago Mayor in National Affairs.

Abbot Thinks Roosevelt's Nomination Would Cause That of Harmon.

(By Willis J. Abbot.)

Washington, Jan. 26. — (Special to The Herald.) — The announcement from Chicago that Carter H. Harrison, mayor of that city, is a candidate for the presidential nomination of the Democratic party was not a surprise to men interested in politics.

Mayor Harrison occupies an almost unique position in national affairs. Here are some of the reasons why he may rightly aspire to the presidency:

He is serving his fifth term as mayor of Chicago—the second city in point of population in the United States.

He has never been defeated in any election.

He has never been a candidate for office on any except a straight Democratic ticket.

He has always held the business interests of Chicago, as his father did before him, and the purely political

HALF PHILIPPINE RICE CROP FAILS

Special Measures to Prevent Serious Crisis May Be Taken.

Manila, Jan. 26.—The report of the joint legislative committee shows that half the rice crop in the Philippines has been a failure. Resolutions intended to avert a serious crisis are to be presented both to the assembly and to the commission whose sessions close on Feb. 5.

Army maneuvers are to begin in the Department of Luzon on Feb. 12. The plans drawn up for the operations divide the available troops into two forces consisting of 2,500 men each. One of these armies will have its base at Stotsenburg camp, Panpanga, to the north of Manila, and probably will carry out an attack on the city of Manila in which the other army will have its base and will act on the defensive.

What Really Caused Break Between Governor Wilson and Harvey.

Declined to Accept Financial Aid From Wall Street Promoter.

New York, Jan. 26. — The recent Wilson-Harvey-Watterson episode is shown in an entirely new light by the fact, which seems pretty well established, that what really caused the break between Governor Wilson and Col. Harvey was the refusal of the former to accept financial aid in his campaign from Thomas Fortune Ryan, Wall Street trust promoter.

What Col. Watterson said in his explanation of the incident was that he (Watterson) Col. Harvey of Harper's Weekly and Governor Wilson foregathered in Col. Watterson's room in the Manhattan club of New York and that there Governor Wilson said to Col. Harvey, in replying to a question, that his (Col. Harvey's) support through Harper's Weekly, was a hindrance to the Wilson boom.

Masonic Temple at Anderson Also Suffers Damage.

Anderson, Ind., Jan. 26.—The Anderson Tool company's plant, with the exception of the small foundry building, was destroyed, the Masonic temple damaged to the extent of $20,000, and four firemen slightly injured by two fires which broke out here about the same time early today. The tool company's loss is estimated at more than $100,000, partially covered by insurance. The loss to the temple is covered by insurance.

TOBACCO MAGNATE SORG BURNED OUT

Family and Eight Servants Flee Flames in Apartment.

New York, Jan. 26.—Fire this morning routed the members of the family of Paul A. Sorg, the millionaire tobacco man, from their apartment in East Eighty-seventh street, and caused much excitement in the millionaire colony in the neighborhood. The home of Bradley Martin adjoins the house where the fire occurred, and Henry Phipps, the Pittsburg millionaire, lives just across the way.

Mrs. Sorg was awakened by a sensation of suffocating, and found the suite filled with smoke. She and her husband awakened other members of the family, and with their eight servants fled to the streets. The fire was confined to the suite, which was gutted.

CHAUFFEUR'S BRIDE SAYS HE LEFT HER

Claims She Was Deserted on the Day After Elopement.

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 26.—Deserted, she declared, within twenty-four hours after her elopement with a chauffeur, Mrs. Anna Nock Williams, a Louisville society girl, has asked the police to aid her in finding her husband. The missing groom is Edward B. Williams, who gave his age on his application for a marriage certificate as 21 years, his occupation as chauffeur, and designated his father as State Senator Andrew B. Williams of Buffalo, N. Y. They were married Wednesday night by a magistrate in Jeffersonville, Ind., and Mrs. Williams told the police her husband left her the next morning.

The bride is a granddaughter of the late Gen. Finzer, a millionaire tobacco manufacturer.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 26.—Bituminous coal miners and operators of Indiana, Illinois, Ohio and Western Pennsylvania met in joint conference today behind closed doors to discuss a wage scale to go into effect April 1, 1912, when the present contract expires.

The demands which the miners took to the operators call for a two-year contract, with increases in wages of 10 cents a ton on a mine-run basis and 20 per cent for day labor about the mines. The miners also demand a seven-hour day.

BOARD TELLS HOW IT SPENT $415,836 ON CITY STREETS

Annual Report on Street Work Has Many Interesting Figures.

Only 250 Lineal Feet Through the Point of Rocks.

FEATURES OF THE ANNUAL REPORT OF THE BOARD OF PUBLIC WORKS.

Hearty approval of the storm sewer and intersection amendment.

Over two miles of storm sewers constructed in 1911, exceeding record for twenty years.

Strong disapproval of second amendment which divides maintenance appropriation into several funds.

But 250 lineal feet or about 15,000 cubic feet of rock, remain to be removed before Superior street is opened through the Point of Rocks.

Awards for lands and easements were $57,406.51.

Total expenditure incident to board's work for year was $415,836.39.

Street and sewer work featured by unusually low prices, due to keen competition.

The board of public works in its annual report for 1911 strongly commends the operation of the first charter amendment providing that storm sewers and street intersections shall be paid for by general taxation and is equally emphatic in its criticism of the second amendment which divided the maintenance appropriation into several funds.

The present year saw the close of the first year's work under the provisions of the amendments, and the observations of the board upon the practicability are of particular interest.

"The first of these amendments will fully justify itself by the results," says the board report. "The fact that surface drainage is properly the first step in the improvement of streets has not always been apparent to property owners, and the petitions for these large and expensive sewers were sometimes difficult to get. The amendment removes these difficulties, and the construction of over two miles of surface water sewers in the first year of its operation exceeds the annual report for twenty years."

Referring to the other amendment the report goes on to state: "We are unable to see that any good purpose is served by the second amendment which divides the maintenance appropriation into several funds. It's tendency is rather to hamper the board and discourage intelligent management."

Red Tape.

The restrictive character of the amendment is illustrated by showing that if a laborer lifts a shovelful of sand from the gutter his time while so employed must be paid for from the public works fund and the work he has done is classified as "cleaning gutters." If without moving from the spot, he turns around and throws the shovelful of sand into depression in the roadway, the latter act must be paid for from the street maintenance and repair fund or the wheelage tax fund, and the work classified as "repairing streets." The board shows how this causes a great deal of extra work by requiring separate requisitions, separate pay rolls and several extra sets of records. The report also says that at the end of the year this results in one fund showing a considerable balance on hand while another has a large overdraft, which must be protected by certificates of indebtedness on which interest is paid, while the other money lies idle in the treasury. The board declares that the amendment as now followed increases the operating expenses in at least three departments and tends to diminish the quantity of work accomplished.

The report goes into considerable detail relative to the different work which has been completed under its supervision the last year. It was finished today and submitted to the board by R. Murchison, clerk of the board.

Stone Quarry.

One interesting statement is that the stone quarry is now in the heaviest part of the cut. It will be a surprise to learn that but 215 lineal feet intervene between it and the improved street before Superior street will be open. This will require the removal of about 15,000 yards of rock. At the present slow rate it will, however, be a long while yet before the street is cut through.

During the year the board granted seventy-two permits for 868 poles for electric wires and also granted permits for a considerable amount of underground work.

Commenting upon the low prices of contracts last year the board states that it is a notable fact that in the last ten years no contractor has failed to complete his work according to specifications. The amount paid from the revolving fund for contracts was $163,-215.44, and the estimate amount unpaid is $48,061.09, a total of $211,276.53. The total cost of work paid from that fund from 1901 to 1911, both inclusive, is $2,073,379.81.

General fund contracts paid were $65,037.81 and unpaid, $49,790.73, a total of $74,828.54. From the permanent improvement fund there was paid $17,-818.70 and the estimate amount unpaid was $6,244.99, a total of $24,063.69. Adding to these the $105667.63 paid from the maintenance funds, the total expenditure for all purposes incident to the work of the board for 1911 was $415,836.39.

During the year there was laid 10.7 miles of sanitary sewer, 2.2 miles of storm sewer, 13.1 miles of cement sidewalks, 7.9 miles of plank sidewalk and approximately 37.4 miles of street were sprinkled.

NEWSPAPER MEN MEET AT FARGO

Welcomed By Mayor, North Dakota Editors Discuss Business.

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Over 100 newspapermen of the state met here today and, after being welcomed by Mayor V. R. Lovell and J. P. Hardy of the Commercial club, discussed various subjects.

President Black of the state association urged the editors not to ask for new laws from the next legislative session. He also stated he believed the anti-pass law was the best thing for the newspapers.

Postmaster H. C. Plumley, who is manager of the Fargo Forum, gave advice about the postal laws and stated that many papers violated the regulation in printing matter about lotteries.

E. M. Cary of the Edmore Herald, speaking on "Office Control of Advertising," denounced the "ready prints," which carred "ads," claiming they put the publisher under the necessity of printing advertising over which he had no control. He urged adless "ready prints."

"The Effectiveness of an Advertising Display" was discussed by Secretary W. E. Holbein of the Lansford Journal. There will be a banquet this evening.

HANNA NOW OUT FOR ROOSEVELT

North Dakota Gubernatorial Candidate Wants Colonel in Presidency.

Mandan, N. D., Jan. 26.—The first petitions to place the name of Theodore Roosevelt on the North Dakota primary election ballot are being circulated in Mandan and Western North Dakota, the home of Roosevelt in his ranching days. North Dakota is the first state to hold the presidential primary.

Congressman Hanna Heard From.

Grand Forks, N. D., Jan. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The announcement by Congressman L. B. Hanna yesterday that he was for Roosevelt has been received in North Dakota with unusual interest. Ever since the earliest days of the present campaign he has withheld any statement on the question, and, in fact, at the time of the announcement of his candidacy for governor, he refused to make a statement when asked, declaring that it was then entirely too early. J. A. Buchanan, Mr. Hanna's opponent, stands committed as a La Follette supporter.

Active Roosevelt headquarters, it is expected, will be established in the state soon. The sentiment which has been created up to the present time in his favor has been of a spontaneous nature, with no organized effort being put forth to bring about any particular demand for his candidacy. With an organization behind the movement, the Roosevelt supporters in Grand Forks declare that they would be able to carry the state at the primaries.

Taft, it is declared, has ceased to be a factor so far as the North Dakota delegation is concerned, and some say his supporters will not put forth any effort to elect the delegation, looking upon the task as impossible.

The movement which was launched here this week for the calling of a state convention to select delegates to Chicago is one that has brought forth a large number of interesting comments from various sections and from men of various political beliefs. In many instances the plan has been indorsed, and the movement has assumed formidable proportions and must be given recognition.

Petitions for the convention are being signed by both Progressives and Regular Republicans.

Knudson Not a Candidate.

Oliver Knudson, state bank examiner, stated in an interview here last night, that he is not a candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, and that, so far as he knows at the present time, he will not enter the race.

Mr. Knudson's name has been brought quite prominently to the fore within the past few days as a possible Democratic candidate.

There still remains F. O. Hellstrom, warden of the state penitentiary, who may become a candidate and who has not expressed his views on the question.

to begin work as early as they or their parents wish in the morning and work until 10 o'clock at night.

His appointment, she declared, would be opposed by all women of New York. Not only his influence against the bill contrary to the child workers' interests, but his administration of the law in the juvenile court tended further to nullify its provisions. He set the precedent of leniency for offenders.

"Now," said Mrs. Kelley, "when a new child labor law is sought it will be necessary to combat what should have been the biggest influence in favor of progressive legislation."

Have Busy Time.

Seven busy sessions will occupy the attention of the delegates during the ensuing forty-eight hours, relieved only by a session at the woman's club late this afternoon.

"Street trades and public schools" is the subject of the first morning session, presided over by Edward W. Frost of Milwaukee. On the program are Z. T. Potter of Buffalo and E. N. Clopper of Cincinnati.

Dr. Helen T. Woolley of Cincinnati will open the discussion on "Industrial Training and Vocational Guidance," followed by W. H. Elson of Cleveland, Alice P. Barrows of New York, Annie E. McCord of Pittsburg and Pauline Witherspoon.

"Children have labored since Adam delved and Eve spun, and the labor generally has been good for their bodies and for their souls," said Dr. Carroll G. Pearse, superintendent of the Milwaukee schools and president of the National Education association, in an address to the conference.

Child labor, in his opinion, is not an unmixed evil.

"It is an evil," he declared, "when the physical and moral conditions surrounding the child are unwholesome; when by it he is deprived of education for the mind and the joy of life."

Will Consider Education.

The conference will consider the dual question of child labor and education. In his address Ernest Holland, superintendent of public schools of Louisville urged the establishment of vocational schools which should have the direction of all the working children between the ages of 14 and 16. The conference will conclude with a mass meeting on Sunday afternoon.

"PUT TEM IN JAIL"—MEYER

coin which may mean nothing to its possessor, but that the evil-doer may be visited by that social obloquy which accompanies imprisonment for a sufficient cause."

On the question of government ownership of railroads, the commissioner said:

"Government ownership may solve certain factors of which we now know as the railway problem; it doubtless will create others."

Business and Public Service.

"The idea of business applied to public service has been one of the greatest curses of that service," said Commissioner Meyer. "It is a fact of common knowledge that the idea of profit in business as applied to municipal service has debauched the public and private morality of our cities for decades, and we are only beginning to be freed from it."

"The remedy to which I believe most people turn or will turn," said Prof. Meyer, "and which I believe to be the best remedy for this day and age, is such an interpretation of existing conditions as will make it possible for legislatures to declare what shall be the public policy of state and nation."

spect is that if the latter act is intended to cover the entire subject, and to substitute new rules in place of the old, then the omitted parts are deemed to be repealed by implication, for in such a case it is unnecessary that there should be an irreconcilable repugnance between the provisions of the two acts.

"The taxing of credits without deducting debts therefrom, does not result in any more objectionable double taxation than innumerable other instances in the taxing laws. The teamster, with only his team and wagon taxed, pays just as much of a tax whether that property is mortgaged or not. The same has always been true of real estate in this state.

"It is elementary that the legislature can exempt no property not specified in the Constitution. It is equally elementary that money and credits are of themselves property. It necessarily follows that the taxing of money and credits in a class by themselves at a flat rate after allowing the taxpayer to deduct his debts therefrom, is exempting a certain and substantial part of that class of property from all taxation. The taxes, however, must be uniform upon that class of subjects.

Only One Common Characteristic.

"Furthermore, the United States Constitution protects the owners of property against discrimination in tax laws as well as in others under the fourteenth amendment thereto. The property of all classes must be assessed upon a cash valuation basis because valuation is the only characteristic that is common to all property. There can be no uniformity except through the channel of some common characteristic, and value is the only one possessed by all property alike. Uniformity cannot be maintained when deductions are permitted from the value of one kind of property pescribed to be taxed, and not from that of other kinds.

"While one whose wealth consists of credits has wealth only to the extent of his credits over his debts, it is equally true that the wealth of him who has tangible assets is not correctly measured unless his debts be deducted also. But for purposes of taxation, it is not the wealth of the individual that is material, for that is not what taxes are laid upon. It is property within this state that is taxable.

"Neither is the argument sound which claims that men expect to deduct their debts from their credits, and that somehow this justifies taxation of only the balance. Both the farmer and the trader expect to pay their current debts out of the proceeds of their tangible property, whether crops or stock in trade, rather than out of the securities in which they may have invested. The intangible property in the form of credits is continuously so employed and brings its own reward to its owner in the form of interest. Besides conflicting with the rule of uniformity now required by our Constitution, the deduction of debts amounts to an exemption not allowed by the Constitution as it now reads."

Results Under New Law.

Mr. Stevenson referred to the fact that in 1910 under the old system of taxation, there was returned as moneys and credits, (exclusive of banks,) $13,919,806, while in 1911 under the new system, there was returned $115,481,807. In the city of Winona, he added, the assessor returned in 1910, a total of $284,525, and in 1911 $3,894,537. Commenting on this, he said:

"This clearly indicates that an enormous quantity of such property has heretofore escaped all taxation, and it strongly emphasizes the urgent necessity of making a separate class, the same as was done with mortgages. Even the results obtained in 1911 are not a fair test of this new law which was little understood and indifferently and irregularly administered."

Pinchot to Address Canadians.

Ottawa, Ont., Jan. 26. — Gifford Pinchot, former chief forester of the United States has accepted an invitation to address the Canadian forestry convention here Feb. 7.

ODD COINCIDENCE.

James Bardon of Chicago met Thomas Bardon of Ashland at the Spalding yesterday. By a strange coincidence the families of the two men, while in no way related, have the same names. The fathers of both were Richard Bardon and both came from Wexford county, Ireland. Each had three sons, whose names are: Thomas, James and John. Thomas Bardon of Ashland and James and John Bardon of Superior are familiar names in this section. The James Bardon of Chicago is a traveling man and his two brothers are in the dry goods business at Kenosha, Wis.

Convicted of Murder.

Guthrie, Okla., Jan. 26.—Charles Maus, on trial under the name of Ben Cravens for murder, was found guilty by a jury in the federal court here. The punishment is life imprisonment.

BUTCHER PUTS POUND OF LEAD IN HIS BIRDS.

New York, Jan. 26.—The secretion by a Third avenue butcher of a one-pound lead sinker in each of his Thanksgiving turkeys led to his conviction and sentence to three months in the penitentiary yesterday. The prisoner was Jacob Ginsberger, against whom Albert Lutz, an inspector of the city weights and measures department, appeared as complainant. Lutz told of buying a turkey at 30 cents a pound and of compelling the butcher to clean it in the open shop instead of in a back room. The result was the appearance of a sixteen-ounce lead sinker inside the bird. Lutz thereupon seized the entire stock and examination showed a similar sinker tucked awa ywithin each turkey.

RAPS RECALL OF JUDICIARY

Judge Alton B. Parker Talks to South Carolina Lawyers.

Also Scores Roosevelt for His Attacks on the Courts.

Columbia, S. C., Jan. 26.—Judge Alton B. Parker of New York, who was candidate for president against Theodore Roosevelt, delivered an address here last night before the South Carolina Bar association, in which he expressed himself as opposed to the recall of the judiciary and took exception to some of the criticism of the bench made in the past by Mr. Roosevelt. He said in part:

"If carried to its inevitable conclusion, recall of judges is the substitution of popular opinion for legal procedure. It is justice—or injustice—meted out, not according to the law of the land, but according to supposed public sentiment. Recall of judges spells in the ultimate result a recall of the judicial system and the substitution of a vigilance committee.

"Never before, I think, in the history of civilization, has any blind leader of the blind advocated as progressive, a return to the chaotic conditions inherent in administration of justice by caprice rather than by the rules of law.

"The recall of judges, however, is but the first step toward the cherished goal of the leaders of the movement for the recall of the judiciary. Their ultimate aim is the recall of the power of the courts to recall such legislation as is considered unconstitutional, either state or federal.

"Started With Roosevelt."

"Whaht happened of late to lead so many to favor stripping the members of the judiciary of their independence and shearing them of the power to enforce the Constitution? Surely the judicial standard has not been lowered of late. The cause of the change in public sentiment, then, it not to be found in the lowering of the judicial standard. It had its beginning during the incumbency of the last president. More combinations to restrain trade and prevent competition came into existence during his incumbency of the office than in all our previous history.

When the protests of the people against the rising tide of higher prices began to be heard, he sought, with his accustomed political shrewdness, to shift the responsibility from the shoulders of his party. To that end he inveighed against the impotence of the law and the well meaning but fossilized minds of the judges, and laid the responsibility of our evil state to the law and its ministers.

"The reports which came to him of the effect of his campaign against the judiciary enabled him to go out of office fully appreciating that through his skill, his administration and his party have escaped, for the time at least, the responsibility whch was justly theirs. What his present motive may be we need not conjecture.

"His grievance is that the decisions are 'in such flagrant and direct contradiction to the spirit and needs of the times.' It means to his multitude of readers that courts should decide, not as the people have commanded in their Constitution, but according to the action of himself and his followers as to the 'needs of the times.'

Battle Against the Law.

"Through his leadership, while president and since, a large and uniformed following has been recruited throughout the United States who are waging, many of them unconsciously, a battle against the supremacy of the law.

"If the people are made to understand the whole truth before it is too late, the movement in form against the judiciary, but in reality against its power to hold in check the wouldbe usurpers of power not granted by the people, will end."

DRASTIC LIQUOR BILL IS PASSED

Kentucky Senate Approves House Action on County Unit Plan.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 26.—The county unit bill, regarded as the most drastic anti-liquor legislation ever enacted in Kentucky, passed the state senate late yesterday afternoon by a voe of 24 to 14. The measure, approved by the lower house, now goes to Governor McCreary, who is expected to sign it. Both Democrats and Republicans in their platform last fall declared for such a law.

GOVERNMENT'S SNOW BULLETIN

The storm that moved over New England at the beginning of the week was accompanied by snow over the interior portions of the Middle Atlantic and New England states, and some snow occurred over the Upper Mississippi valley, Lake region, and the Northeastern states during Thursday and Friday in connection with a moderate storm that moved from the Mississippi valley to New England on those dates. No other general storm occurred during the week and, save for light local falls, there was no snow of consequence in the districts west of the Mississippi river and including the mountain regions.

The generally moderate weather over the Central and Southern portions of the country during the greater part of the week, with the warm rains of the early part, carried off much of the snow covering reported at the end of the preceding week from the Lower Missouri and Middle Plains regions eastward to the Atlantic coast; in fact, save for small areas in the Upper Lake region, New England, Nebraska, and Colorado there was everywhere a general reduction in the snow depths. The decrease was most pronounced from the Middle Mississippi valley eastward over the Ohio valley and Middle Atlantic states, where the depth is now from four to eight inches less than at the end of the preceding week.

There is still a fairly good snow covering from Nebraska, Iowa, and Central Illinois northward and over partions of New York and New England, but elsewhere over the winter wheat growing states there is now only a slight covering or none at all.

In the Mountain and Plateau regions of the West there appears to have been but little snow during the week, and such amounts as covered the lower levels at the time of the last issue have now very generally disappeared. As a rule the accumulated snow in the high ranges appears to be less than usual at this period of the winter, although much that has occurred so far fell early in the season and is thus well packed and frozen.

SAY POLICE CAN WIPE OUT VICE IF THEY TRY.

Chicago, Jan. 26.—Police Captains Stephen K. Healey and Patrick J. Lavin, two of the former inspectors, who were reduced when the office of inspector was abolished recently, have told the city civil service commission that an honest and earnest effort by the police to eradicate all kinds of existing vice would be successful. The commission is completing an investigation of the efficiency of the department.

WOULD MAKE REPUBLIC OUT OF MONTENEGRO.

London, Jan. 26.—A dispatch from Cottinje, Montenegro, reports that the police there have discovered a widespread movement to overthrow the Montenegrin dynasty and establish a republic. It is alleged that the movement is being engineered chiefly by Montenegrins in the United States, who have sent $200,000 to the revolutionary committee whose headquarters are in Belgrade.

Ex-Slave Leaves $116,000.

Champaign, Ill., Jan. 26.—George W. Sims, born a negro slave in Tennessee seventy-five years ago, left property worth $116,000, according to his will filed for probate here. Smith ran away in 1862 and joined the Union army as guide for Gen. John A. Logan. After the war Smith came to Champaign county, where he bought a small tract of land and added to his holdings steadily.

FIANCEE KILLED ON THE WAY TO SEE NEW HOME.

Toledo, Ohio, Jan. 26.—While Ida Gregory and her fiance, Joseph Stockle, were being driven in an automobile by R. H. Blair, a real estate man, to look at their prospective home, they were run down by an Ann Arbor railroad motor car. The car struck the rear wheels of the automobile, overturning it. Miss Gregory's neck was broken. She died instantly. The two men escaped with bruises.

FORWARD TURRET OF THE MAINE IS FOUND.

Havana, Jan. 26.—The forward turret of the Maine, the total disappearance of which was one of the most curious features of the explosion, has been located. It is buried in the mud twenty feet from the starboard side of the ship, and thirty feet aft of its original position. The whole mass, approximating 300 tons and including the turret proper, two ten-inch guns and the massive barbette, is completely inverted, the barbette on top. As it does not form an obstruction in the harbor, no attempt will be made to remove the turret.

Everything is now ready to admit water to the cofferdam, in the way of experiment, prior to floating the wreck, the feasibility of which is not questioned.

TAFT SUPPORT COMES FROM THE SIXTH IOWA.

EXPELLED MAN SUES MENNONITE BISHOPS.

Elkhart, Ind., Jan. 26.—Alleging that the charges upon which he was expelled from the Mennonite church are false and libelous, George H. Lambert has filed suit in the superior court here for $10,000 damages against David Berkholder of Nappanee, Jacob Bixler of Wakarusa and David Yoder of Olive township, all bishops of the Mennonite church. BALD HEADS NOT WANTED

Baldness is too Generally Considered a Sign of Advanced Age

A bald-headed person does not have an equal chance with one blessed with a healthy head of hair, because baldness is too generally accepted as an indication of age. Many large corporations have established an age limit, and refuse to take men over 35 years of age as new employes.

Probably 65 per cent of bald-headed people may regain a good head of healthy hair if they will follow our advice and accept our offer. We have a remedy that we positively guarantee to grow hair on any head, unless the roots of the hair are entirely dead, their follicles closed, and the scalp has become glazed and shiny. We want people to try this remedy at our risk, with the distinct understanding that unless it does exactly what we claim it will, and gives satisfaction in every respect, we shall make no charge for the remedy used during the trial.

We know exactly what we are talking about, and with this offer back of our statements no one should scoff, doubt our word, or hesitate to put our remedy to an actual test.

We want every one in Duluth who is suffering from any scalp or hair trouble, dandruff, falling hair, or baldness to try our Rexall "93" Hair Tonic. We want them to use it regularly—say until three bottles have been used—and if it does not eradicate dandruff, cleanse and refresh the scalp, tighten the hair in its roots, and grow new hair we will return every cent paid us for the remedy for the mere asking. There is no formality expected, and we exact no obligation from the user whatever.

We are established right here in Duluth, and make this offer with a full understanding that our business success entirely depends upon the sort of treatment we accord our customers, and we would not dare make the above offer unless we were positively certain that we could substantiate it in every particular. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Remedies in this community only at our store — The Rexall Store. E. M. Treadway, 108 West Superior street.

FOOD LESS EXPENSIVE

Milder Weather Has Reduced Prices of Meats, Butter and Eggs.

Oranges Plentiful—Lemons and Grape Fruit Scarce and High.

As the long-continued wave of intensely cold weather boosted the already high cost of living, so the comparatively mild temperatures of the last few days have had the opposite effect of causing the prices of many of the principal articles of food to decline.

Irish potatoes are still high, but they are selling at wholesale on the Duluth market for 10 cents a bushel less than they brought a week ago, the present price being $1 a bushel. There is no longer any difficulty in getting potatoes shipped to Duluth. In fact, the railroads are not refusing freight shipments of any kind, either to or from Duluth. The most delicate and perishable vegetables and fruits are now coming in and going out as usual, although once in a while part of a shipment is found to be frozen, making a settlement for the damage necessary.

There has not been much change in the price of the fine garden vegetables from the Southern states, because, while no such shipments at all were being received during the intensely cold weather, just a few are coming in now. There is little demand for that kind of food. It is too expensive for people of ordinary means.

Fancy garden tomatoes have gone up in price. A four-basket crate that brought $3.25 at wholesale a week ago is now selling for $4. This is because the California tomatoes are no longer on the market. The fresh ripe tomatoes that come to Duluth now have been carried all the way from Cuba. Such arrivals are neither large nor numerous.

The milder weather has had a very noticeable effect on the egg market. That Minnesota hens have not been idle is evident from the larger receipts of strictly fresh eggs from the country shipping points. These eggs a week ago brought 33 cents a dozen at wholesale on the Duluth market, but some local wholesalers are now letting them go as cheaply as 29 cents. Storage eggs are selling at wholesale at 26 cents a dozen just as they were a week ago. Storage eggs are getting pretty scarce. One Duluth wholesaler declares that in his opinion a month from today there will not be a storage egg to be had. Being cheaper than strictly fresh eggs, they still induce a strong demand, but their price has been tending upward while that of the strictly fresh eggs has been declining. It is hardly likely, however, that they will come much closer together. Whether the fresh eggs go up or down in the near future depends almost entirely on the weather.

Another food product that has cheapened by reason of the warmer weather, is butter. The best creamery, which a week ago was selling at wholesale in Duluth for 39 cents is now going for 37 cents. The best dairy butter is going for 25 cents a pound. A few days ago some local wholesale dealers were asking as high as 28 cents a pound. Cows give more milk in milder weather, and milk products all tend to become cheaper as a result.

Many kinds of meat are lower in price, because farmers have not found it too cold to bring their animals to the market. Mutton, which a week ago was selling at 7½ to 8½ cents a pound at wholesale, is now bringing 6½ to 7½ cents. The wholesale price of pork loins, which a week ago was 10½ to 11½ cents, is now 10 to 10½ cents. Lamb, whose wholesale price a week ago was 12 cents, is now stilling for 11 cents a pound.

Apples have been going up in price, not on account of any scarcity in the supply, for they are still plentiful, but because of the length of time they have been in storage. There are perhaps enough at Duluth to last through the rest of the winter. Local wholesalers say they can easily replenish their supplies, if necessary, from the quantities in store in the Twin Cities. The cost of storage is continually being added to the price of the apples.

Lemons are very scarce and high, because the California crop is short. A box of extra fancy lemons, which sold a week ago for $4.50, is now bringing $5.25.

Grapefruit is likewise low in supply and expensive. A box that brought $6 a week ago now brings $7. The fruit on the Duluth market at present is from Florida. The California brand will probably come in March. It is inferior to the Floridas.

California navel oranges are plentiful and cheap. The price is still $3.25 for an 80 to 216-box, which is quite cheap. Moreover, they are improving in quality as the season advances.

NATIONAL LIBERALS CONTROL REICHSTAG.

Berlin, Jan. 26.—The political complexion of the new reichstag as determined by the final result of the thirty-three re-ballots is shown by the following general party groupings, (the subordinate or allied factions are included for convenience with the parties with which they generally vote):

Socialists, 110; Progressive Non-Socialist groups, 99; including 46 National Liberals, 42 Radical People's party and 77 Progressive Peasants and others; Clericals with Polish, Alsatian and Hannoverian particularists, 122; Conservatives, allied parties, 69; independent, 1—ex-Minister of the Interior Count Von Hosadowsky-Wehner.

The results completely overthrow the working majority of the Conservative center in the last reichstag which is now able to muster only 191, counting every possible vote, and place the control in the hands of the National Liberals, who will be able to form a majority by throwing their strength with either the right or the left. This makes the National Liberal leader, Ernest Bassermann, a commanding figure in the next reichstag.

MINNESOTA CONVICT ONE OF THAW ROBBERS?

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 26.—The homes of Mrs. William Thaw, Jr., and Isaac Kaufman, wealthy residents of this city, were ransacked in January, 1909, during the dinner hour. The robbers gained entrance through second story windows. From the Thaw home jewelry and family heirlooms valued at $35,000 were stolen, while between $6,000 and $10,000 worth of jewels and furs disappeared from the Kaufman home. Unusual features charactized the Thaw robbery.

A short time ago the jewels were returned without so much as a stickpin missing from the collection. The details of the return never were made public, but a story to the effect that Mrs. Thaw had paid $20,000 for their return, was neither affirmed or denied.

It has just leaked out that on Jan. 16 last, secret indictments were returned by the grand jury against Miss Nellie Price, Harry Robinson, Joe Birch and George Bissell, all of Chicago.

Robinson is said to be serving a sentence of twenty years in the Stillwater, Minn., penitentiary, having been convicted, it is alleged, of blowing open a safe at St. Paul, Minn. The whereabouts of Birch and Bissell are unknown. A detective will go to Chicago for Miss Price.

WOLVES KILLING DEER.

Marquette Man Sees Big Brute Attack Buck.

Marquette, Mich., Jan. 26.—A great many deer are being killed by wolves in various parts of Powell township, according to woodsmen who have come to Marquette during the past few days. The ravenous animals have become unusually desperate, evidently due to the excessively cold weather, and they are even invading the premises of the settlers and logging companies.

One Marquette man, who returned from Powell township Tuesday, said he had witnessed an unusually bold attack on a big buck by a wolf and that the beast was not in the least intimidated by the presence of several men. He came within a few yards of the onlookers, who happened to be without guns, and after showing his teeth and snarling, slunk away.

WILL BE DISSECTED.

No One Claims Body of Minneapolis Swindler-Suicide.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 26.—The body of J. J. Read, who killed himself Saturday at 2 Fourteenth street north, will be taken to the medical department of the University of Minnesota, unless some friend intervenes.

So far no friend has claimed his body. The police say Read, betrayer of friendships for his own ends when he "worked" as a swindler, will go to his "grave" the loser of a decent burial by his betrayals.

Police Bertillon records show Read worked as a swindler over the entire United States. He was arrested many times. A few months ago he was released from the Nebraska state prison. He had been convicted of swindling. Police say scores of men who might have claimed his body and given him a decent burial were swindled by him in land deals.

WATKINS LEFT NO WILL.

Winona Medicine Manufacturer Died Intestate.

Winona, Minn., Jan. 26.—The late J. R. Watkins, head of the J. R. Watkins Medical company of Winona, whose death occurred a month ago at Kingston, Jamaca, left no will, according to a petition filed in the probate court.

The widow to whom he was married only last September will receive one-third of the estate, and the daughter who is also the daughter-in-law of the widow will receive two-thirds. The petition asks that E. L. King, son-in-law of the decendant and son of the widow be made executor. According to the estimate he held $430,000 of the stock in the medical company, and other valuable real estate.

To Celebrate Founders' Day.

Grand Forks, N. D., Jan. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Founders' day will be celebrated by the University of North Dakota, Feb. 22, when it passes the twenty-eighth year of its existence. President F. L. McVey has already appointed the committee to take charge of the arrangements, and one of the features which will be carried out is that of reproducing, on the curtain, pioneer day scenes.

WOMAN FOR THE SENATE

Mrs. Decker, Colorado's "Favorite Daughter," Likely to Be Elected.

Can Have Name Placed By Petition on Primary Ballot.

Denver, Colo., Jan. 26. — Before Colorado dreamed anything so Utopian as a practical primary law Mrs. Sarah Platt Decker was talked of for congress.

Women who stood back of Mrs. Decker in 1909, when her name was formally presented to some visitors from the International Council of Women as a congressional possibility, are calling to mind the excitement that that announcement made.

In less than three years public feeling has experienced a complete change. While there was something positively startling about the suggestion then, Mrs. Decker now stands before the people as a senatorial probability.

The suggestion of Mrs. Decker for the United States senate has been received throughout the state with respect and interest. It is no longer a freak notion and it is taking hold of the people more and more every day.

Not Favored By Machine.

It would have been practically impossible to give the voters of Colorado the opportunity to vote on Mrs. Decker had the primary bill failed to carry. She is not smiled upon by the machine, which controls both parties. Her politics has been a clean game. Under the operation of the primary law any 300 of her friends can by petition have her name placed on the ticket at the primary election. That nomination would, in the opinon of those familiar with Mrs. Decker's personality and ability, be equivalent to an election at the polls in November.

There would then be merely the formality of confirming this election by the nineteenth general assembly. The legislators elected will, under the primary law, be required to take one of two pledges in connection with the election of United States senators. They may either swear to abide by the popular choice in the selection of a senator, or they may vote for the candidate in their own party who has polled the highest number of votes.

First Announcement.

It was when some representatives of the International Council of Women were in Denver in July, 1909, that Mrs. Harriet G. R. Wright — now president of the Colorado Equal Suffrage association — announced that the women of Colorado would work to secure the election of a woman to congress in 1912.

Lady Chrystal McMillan made bold to ask on whom the forces of the women would be concentrated, and was told unqualifiedly that it would be Mrs. Sarah Platt Decker. That news spread across the water to where the English women are making their fight. Miss Sylvia Pankhurst was the guest of Mrs. Decker on her trip to Denver last year.

Mrs. Decker herself, in an address on "The Women of the State—a Commercial Asset," told the chamber of commerce a year ago that she advocated a woman for mayor of Denver.

Since then affairs have so shaped themselves in both of the dominant parties as to indicate that Mrs. Decker can be elected to considerably higher office than mayor of the city of Denver.

The campaign which friends of Mrs. Decker are waging is being conducted very quietly, but in it will be engaged ultimately some of the most widely known suffrage workers in the entire country.

TRAVELS TO SEE COWBOYS.

Youth Is Nearly Frozen on His Stolen Ride Westward.

Greeley, Colo., Jan. 26.—Mystery which surrounded the identity of a boy who was picked up near here Sunday nearly frozen after he had been thrown from a freight train has been solved. The boy broke his silence and gave his name as Russell Reed of Shelbina, Mo., and stated that his mother's name is Mrs. Rena Taylor.

The lad, who is about 15 years old, said he came West to see a cowboy. Last week he went from his home to Quincy, Ill. He lost his overcoat there, but undeterred by the cold he boarded a train for Denver.

DARKEST OF ALL CITY OF LONDON

One of the Worst Plague Spots of British Metropolis.

London, Jan. 26.—Attention has been called to the social conditions in Bermondsey, one of the plague spots of South London, which has been called the city's blackest square mile. A walk through the narrow, dark disgustingly dirty streets would lead one to believe, now that the infamous Tabard street area in Southwark has been torn down, it would be hard to equal Bermondsey for sheer degradation and utter poverty the world over.

It has often been said by English apologists that the slums of some of the American cities, such as New York, can show conditions that are worse than any to be found in London. After a recent visit to Bermondsey, Mrs. Lee Cowle, a famous Australian temperance reformer, said on this point:

"I have traveled much in Australia, in Egypt, New Zealand, the United States and other lands. I have seen the worst there is to see on the surface in New York and Philadelphia. But what I saw in Bermondsey beggers all that I have ever seen before—miles of terrible slums filled with beings so degraded that it appalled me. My husband is unused to work of this kind and was made physicially ill by the mere sight of it."

She was asked in what respect Bermondsey was worse than the slums of New York and she answered:

"In New York, and, in fact, in all the other places I have visited it is only the men who drink so openly. In Bermondsey the women drunkards are in the majority. There are the older women freely entering the public houses and bringing drink out to the younger mothers who could not themselves enter because they are accompanied by children, whom the law excludes from saloons. Futhermore, we were struck by the degeneracy of the people—their physical, intellectual and moral degradation."

In this distriot live more than 125,000 people in houses that would long ago have been condemned in almost any other city in the world. In some cases eight and ten people live in single rooms and in many cases rooms are occupied by different sets of tenants during the day and night. So awful are the sanitary conditions that the death rate among children is five times that of the more healthy residential sections of London. Many of these houses are built on blind alleys and hundreds of the houses have but one window each which, in the majority of cases, has been nailed shut.

DOG BURIES HIS MUZZLE.

Richmond, Ind., Jan. 26.—As a result of Richmond's mad dog scare the police have ordered that all dogs must be muzzled when in the streets. Attorney John F. Robbins is the owner of an exceptional bright fox terrier and, though the attorney regards muzzling as most heartless cruelty, he obeyed the order of the police. The dog fretted and refused to be comforted. The second day Attorney Robbins removed the muzzle while the dog was in the house.

Later in the day the terrier saw an opportunity to dart out into the yard. He carried the leather muzzle in his teeth. The attorney's curiosity was excited and he followed the dog. Beneath a rose bush where the earth was soft the terrier had dug a hole in which he was burying the muzzle.

CHESTNUT TREES ARE THREATENED

Disease Is Destroying All of Them in the East.

Washington, Jan. 26.—The chestnut tree will become extinct in the United States within the next ten or fifteen years unless the disease that is attacking it is checked. Starting with New York as a center, this disease has already spread into ten states, carrying its ravages as far south as Virginia and practically destroying all chestnut trees in and about New York city. It is estimated that the money loss in New York city and the surrounding neighborhood alone as a result of this blight is between $5,000,000 and $10,000,000.

The department of agriculture has sounded a note of warning against the disease, and earnest efforts are being made not only by the federal government but by several state governments to check its disastrous spread. The extreme seriousness with which the danger to one of America's most beautiful trees is regarded is evidenced by the fact that at the meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science in Washington last week eight papers were read on this subject alone. All of the scientists agreed that the menace was grave and demanded heroic measures if the chestnut trees of America are to be saved.

CITY OWNED OPERA IS PROPOSED IN BOSTON.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 26.—Representative Cummings of Boston, has drafted a bill requiring the city to appropriate annually money for the maintenance of the Boston opera house. The bill also enables the city, eventually to become the owner at the time when these appropriations shall equal the assessed valuation.

It also provides for the directors of the opera house and the music commission acting jointly in regulating the prices for admission and seats.

The city appropriation annually for the maintenance of the opera house is to be a sum equal to 5 cents on every $1,000 of assessed valuation of the city for the year in which the appropriation is made.

MARRIAGE LICENSE IS GIVEN TO LEGLESS MAN.

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 26.—Rolling himself through the gate at the marriage license office and lifting himself up the steps to the entrance of the building, George R. O'Kain, without legs, who was formerly a newsboy in the downtown streets, appeared with Elsie Skiles to secure a marriage license.

Amusement was caused when the legless man was asked to sign his name, by the clerk, who was filing out the application. O'Kain could not reach the top of the high desk, consequently a chair was brought and the application pad placed on it. He wheeled himself to the chair, grasped the pen offered him and attached his signature.

After thanking the clerk, he wheeled himself to the door, which he quickly opened to permit his fiance to leave, and then jumped down from step to step and rolled himself out through the gate. As he departed he chuckled that he was the happiest man in the world.

O'Kain gave his age as 22, and his home as No. 600 Arch street, North side. Miss Skiles gave her age as 23, living at the same address.

GIRL RISKS HER LIFE WHILE SAVING KITTEN.

Greeley, Colo., Jan. 26.—At the risk of her life, Miss Loretta Campbell, pretty, 18, and a stenographer employed in an office building, rescued a tiny Maltese kitten from a ledge.

Miss Campbell heard the animal's cries of distress, but it was several minutes before she located the sound, as a snow storm was raging. The young woman moved her desk to a point near the window, and bracing her feet against it, leaned far out and caught the kitten with one hand.

For a moment her balance was precarious, and the sidewalk was 150 feet below, but she remained cool and the rescue of the cat was accomplished.

She did not undertake the task until several young attorneys to whom she had appealed told her it was too dangerous a task for them to attempt.

REJECTS SUITOR WHO HAS EIGHT CHILDREN.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 26.—When Isadore Cohen, a San Francisco tailor, gave Minnie Levy of East Oakland a list of the assets which would go to make him a valuable husband he neglected to inventory his eight motherless children.

Everything else was told her in detail and she was so impressed that she appeared at the county clerk's office and obtained a license to marry him.

Upon learning the suppressed fact the girl hurried to the county clerk's office.

"I have been deceived. I want my marriage license cancelled," she announced.

Miss Levy said that Cohan explained after the license had been issued that he was the father of eight children.

"I don't want to marry a family," protested Miss Levy, as she proceeded to make confetti of the license.

TOWNS TOO POOR TO BUILD ROADS

Settlers Ask Court to Apportion Cost Between Two Counties.

Who will stand the cost of building the public highway which runs on the county line dividing St. Louis and Itasca counties and having the town of Morcom on one side and the towns of Bearville and Carpenter on the other?

This question will be decided in the district courts at the next term. A petition has been filed by Erick J. Eld, clerk of the town of Morcom, which states that the town is unable to pay its share and that the towns of Bearville and Carpenter, across the line in Itasca county are also too poor to pay.

None of the three townships, which the judicial road will serve, has a population of over 100 people and the combined assessed valuation of the three townships for 1911 is but $150,000. The petition requests the district court to determine the cost of the judicial road and apportion its cost to the two counties, leaving no burden on the taxpayers in the towns.

IN THE DAY'S WORK AT WASHINGTON

Talks About Panama.

Washington, Jan. 26.—The ultimate control of all shipping through the Panama canal by the foreign "shipping trust" with chief benefit to big American shippers, such as the United States Steel corporation, would result from the admission of foreign ships to the American coastwise trade, according to President George S. Dearborn of the American-Hawaiian Steamship company, who testified before the house committee on interstate commerce.

Protests have been made to the war department against the proposed advance in freight rates of the Panama Railroad company, effective Feb. 4. The increase in the rates will vary from 11 per cent to 33, and will affect particularly shipments of structural iron and various building materials.

Opens South Dakota Land.

The senate passed the Gamble bill opening to agricultural entry 1,200,000 acres of land on the Cheyenne Indian reservation in South Dakota.

For Panama-Pacific Stamps.

Postmaster General Hitchcock has authorized the preparation of designs and plates for suitable commemorative postage stamps for the Panama-Pacific International exposition in 1915. The opening of the Panama canal and some important event in the history of California, will be represented in the designs.

News and Views of Minnesota Politics

Socialist Activity.

The Socialists are continuous campaigners. They are in the game the year around for their party and they get their candidates into the field early for every election. While the Republican and Democratic parties will not hold their state nominating conventions until along in July, the Public Ownership party will put a state ticket in the field at the convention to be held in Minneapolis Feb. 19.

Talk of candidates for governor centers around Thomas Van Lear, who made a sensational run for mayor of Minneapolis in 1910, and M. A. Brattland, the Socialist county attorney of Norman county. Mr. Brattland is also considered the most available candidate for congress in the Ninth district and members of the party believe he has a chance to defeat Halvor Steenerson if the contest at the polls should settle down to the two. Under those circumstances it is believed Mr. Brattland's friends will keep him off of the state ticket and get him into the race for congress.

Mr. Van Lear gave the old parties a scare in Minneapolis in 1910. While he would hardly be a large factor in the state campaign, he is a strong campaigner and would get many votes.

The St. Louis county Public Ownership convention will be held at Socialist hall, 416 East Superior street, Feb. 12. The St. Louis county members of the party have no candidates to offer for the state ticket, but it is expected that one or two places will be allotted to this district. N. S. Hillman of Two Harbors, the representative in the legislature from the Fifty-first district, and John A. Keyes of Duluth, are considered available as candidates for state offices.

One of the matters to be considered at the state convention is changing the designation of the party from Public Ownership to Socialist. It may be that court proceedings will be brought to set aside the statutory requirements as to new parties, as the Socialist party would be considered a new party under the law, and would not be given a place on the state ticket under that name until it had complied with the requirements.

First District Candidate.

The action of the Progressive Newspaper league in repudiating Congressman Sidney Anderson has aroused talk of opposition candidates. The names most frequently mentioned are those of Dr. Milo B. Price of Owatonna, J. F. Hurley of Waseca and A. D. Gray of Preston. If one of the three is chosen, it will probably be Dr. Price, who is progressive without being radical and who will appeal to Tawney men who were not too greatly embittered by the fight in 1910. Mr. Hurley has had an "on again, off again" attitude for some months and his ultimate landing place is a matter of doubt.

Prospective Delegates.

All over the state candidates for delegates, district or at large, to the national conventions of the two parties are bobbing up, or their friends are putting their names forward. As usual, there will be a scramble on behalf of favorite sons for the places as delegates at large, but the conventions will exercise their own sweet wills and name men thought to be representative of the parties and entitled to the honor by past performances.

Each party will select twenty-four delegates this year, two from each congressional district and six at large, the addition being due to the allotment of an additional congressman, who will this year be elected at large.

For the Democratic delegation the Ada Herald this week offers the name of G. L. Thorpe of Ada for district delegate from the Ninth district. Con O'Brien of Brainerd is one of those mentioned in the Sixth district. In the First district, it is believed James A. Carley of Wabasha will be on the delegation. Eighth district Democrats are talking of Judge Alfred Jaques of Duluth and J. B. Galarneault of Aitkin as the district delegates.

No Faith in the People.

The Dedwood Gazette is added to the list of those who do not believe the people of Minnesota have awakened. The Gazette admits the machine exists and would like to have it overthrown—perhaps. It does not believe Gordon has chosen the right time to make his assault. It says:

Mr. Gordon is a man of ability and would make an excellent public servant but he has taken hold at a most inopportune time. His nomination can be accomplished only by an awakening of the people of the state and a determination on their part to overthrow the machine. This will not take place and Mr. Gordon's chances are extremely slim until something of this kind happens.

Ole Out in the Cold.

It looks as though Ole Sageng must remain in the state senate without even a struggle for higher offices. Ole was mentioned as a candidate against Halvor Steenerson for the Republican nomiantion for congress in the Ninth district, and was mentioned again as the Progressive candidate for the Republican nomination for the senate against Knute Nelson, but both booms have vanished.

The Steenerson men in the Ninth claim that Sageng has given assurance that he will not oppose the Crookston man. James A. Peterson of Minneapolis has corralled all Progressive rights to oppose the senior senator. Sageng is out in the cold without even Populism as a cloak. He is no longer a justice of the peace and he is already beginning to be fearful that his senatorship will be taken from him.

No Money for "Organization."

The Cambridge North Star is an unrelenting and hopeful opponent of the administration. It hears the first notes of the swan song of the organization, although admitting the "gang" will not go down without a struggle. The North Star says:

The argument that the governor is invincible does not seem to find support among politicians outside of the "organization." Last week S. Y. Gordon and W. E. Lee, both men of experience in politics, and both well informed as to public sentiment, announced to the people that they were ready to try conclusions with the governor, and two or three other candidates are said to be about to enter the field.

This does not indicate that the governor is considered strong by anyone except those who are personally interested in his success, either as officeholders or as beneficiaries in some manner of his rule.

The North Star may be too new in the game to make predictions, but it is going to hazard the guess that the coming campaign is going to surpass all others in bitterness. And the "organization" need not plead for mercy. They have sowed to the wind and must reap the whirlwind. The campaign will be one of argument and exposure and more truth will be told concerning conditions in the state than has been customary heretofore. The chances are that the "organization" will be swept down to defeat, for it is founded upon corruption. It has been built by selfish interests to keep the people from getting their rights. It is financed by contributions from the breweries and liquor dealers, and as soon as the people realize what it is and what its control means they will annihilate it. We feel confident that no organization constructed as this has been can long stand.

"Except the Lord build the house, they labor in vain that build it."

NEW BOATS ARE ORDERED

Steel Corporation Will Build Two 600-Foot Vessels, Costing $800,000.

No Accommodations for Passengers on the New Freighters.

The Pittsburg Steamship company, the lake transportation branch of the United States Steel corporation, has placed an order with the American Shipbuilding company for two ships of the Isherwood type, 600 feet long. The purchase amounts to approximately $800,000.

Coming when the feeling on the lakes is beginning to improve, the order has some significance as an avowal of what the management of the steamship company and the Steel corporation think of the business outlook.

It has been the custom of the corporation not to own as much vessel tonnage as it uses even in a dull season. The addition of these vessels, with a season carrying capacity of about 450,000 tons, can be taken to mean the management expects to see a larger ore movement in the near future. The statements of officials of the corporation and its subsidaries have been that the country is on a good sound basis and business is increasing and will increase henceforth. This order apparently indicates they believe what they have said.

The new ships will be duplicates of the steamer W. P. Palmer, the first ore carrier on the lakes of the Isherwood type of construction, with the exception of passenger quarters. Accommodations for passengers on the Palmer are as beautiful as on any lake freighter, but these ships will be built to carry no passengers.

During the season of 1911 the steamer Olcott, a transverse construction ship, and the steamer Palmer, of the same dimensions but longitudinal construction, were operated with a view to testing the merits claimed for the Isherwood type ship; that, although requiring less material to build, is stronger, has a greater carrying capacity and is superior in other ways to the old style. The company intends to build only Isherwood boats hereafter. The American Shipbuilding company owns the exclusive Isherwood rights on the lakes.

The dimensions of the ships will be length 600 feet, beam 58 feet and depth 32 feet. They will be fitted with the new Globe steering engine, directly connected with the rudder; windlass and mooring engines which are manufactured by the American Shipbuilding company. An electric lighting system, hatch operating system and other late improvements will be installed.

The motive power consists of triple expansion engines, having 24-inch high pressure, 39-inch intermediate, 65-inch low pressure cylinders, with a common stroke of 42 inches. The keels will be laid at the Lorain yards. Scotch boilers 16 feet in diameter and 11 feet 6 inches long, fitted with Ellis & Eaves induced draft, and built to carry 170 pounds of steam, will be used. They will be delivered about Oct. 1.

NEW ENTERTAINERS AT THE ST. LOUIS.

The Jess Travers trio has arrived and will open its engagement at the St. Louis hotel cafe this evening.

This is an organization of popular artists who have won a big reputation and their work is exceptionally pleasing. Mr. Travers is the tenor and Fred Nolte, baritone, and the piano work will be given by A. L. Beiner, who has been called "The King of Ragtime." Their popularity might depend upon the work of any one of them alone, but with the combination of these three gifted people, their programs are expected to be very popular with the cafe patrons.

Some of their special hits are "Dan, the Pullman Porter Man," and "If You Talk in Your Sleep."

CAMPAIGN LAUNCHED

Achievements of President Taft's Administration Defended By Senator.

Brown of Nebraska Makes Keynote Speech of Taft Campaign.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 26.—Achievements of President Taft's administration were defended here last night by Senator Norris Brown of Nebraska, at the annual banquet of the Republican editors of Indiana. The speech was regarded as a keynote of the administration efforts in launching a country-wide campaign. Besides the editors, Republican party leaders from all over the state attended the banquet.

Senator Brown reviewed at considerable length what had been accomplished by President Taft and the Republican party and laid the greatest stress on the Payne-Aldrich tariff law, railroad regulation, direct election of United States senators, income tax amendment, enforcement of the anti-trust law and other measures and the peace treaties. In discussing the rayne tariff bill, Senator Brown said: "The Payne law has closed no factory; it has reduced the wage of no man; it has denied labor not a single opportunity; under it the farmer has prospered. It has in no way impaired the general prosperity of the people. And yet the law can be improved. It should be improved a schedule at a time, and this will be done if the president and the Republican party have their way. Today congress has before it a message from the president demanding reduction of duties in one schedule based on the facts as shown by the experts of the tariff board.

The Corporation Tax.

"The tariff law contained two other propositions other than tariff duties which go far to give the measure a good name. It contained a provision to tax corporations, thereby compelling those men who prefer to enjoy the profits and immunities of doing business with the public as incorporators rather than as individuals, to contribute to the support of the federal government. That provision alone has brought to the national treasury in round numbers more than $25,000,000 a year since it became effective."

Senator Brown said it was "left to the Taft administration to complete the job of clothing the interstate commerce commission with power actually to prevent an increase in rates until after investigation by the commission, and by declaring any change in rates unlawful unless first consented to by the commission." He said he well remembered the debate in the senate on that feature of the law, and while the debate was proceeding "the railroads were also proceeding to increase freight rates."

"It is good to know," said Senator Brown, "that while congress talked the president of the United States was on guard for the people, and the day before the increase would become effetive President Taft invoked the power of the court and in the name of the United States stopped by injunction every increase proposed by the railroads. Again it was the executive arm of the government, and not congress, which saved a helpless public from a great wrong. It is not possible that Republicans will hesitate to approve public service of that character."

Senator Brown declared that for more than a half a century the people have been demanding the right to elect by direct vote United States senators, and that while the proposition never found a place in the national platform of the Republican party, it was advocated by President Taft in his acceptance message.

Income Tax Amendment.

Referring to the income tax amendment now pending before the states, Senator Brown said that the resolution providing for this amendment was resting peacefully in committee until President Taft, by special message, admonished congress that such an amendment was right and should be passed and submitted to the states.

As to the enforcement of the Sherman anti-trust act, Senator Brown said:

"For twenty years every attempt on the part of law officers of the government has been met by the lawless with stubborn and arrogant resistance. It has taken the courts many years to hear and determine the various questions so presented; but the day of interpretation, though a long one, is about over. Ever since the decree in the Northern Securities case was written, the march of prosecution has been steady and uninterrupted. The decrees in the Standard Oil and Tobacco cases, however, much you may criticise the phraseology of the opinions of the court, resulted in taking the life of those combinations in restraint of trade. The scene today in Chicago, where the great captains of the beef combinations are facing a trial jury in a fight for their liberty, is a demonstration of the good faith and the determination of this administration to enforce the law. The attorney general echoed the voice of the nation when he said 'guilt is personal.' He said that during McKinley's administration three prosecutions were brought for the enforcement of the anti-trust law; forty-four porsecutions during the seven and a half years of Roosevelt's administration, and that during two years and nine months of Taft's administration, thirty-seven prosecutions had been brought.

Republican Party Responsible.

"If the press of the United States would tell the whole truth about President Taft," said the senator in conclusion, "there would not be enough Democratic votes in the electoral college to make a quorum." He said that if there is any credit to be claimed or any blame to be imposed for what has been done so far during Taft's administration, it belongs to the Republican party as well as to the president.

"We cannot condemn one without impeaching the other. We cannot praise one without commending both," he declared.

Senator Brown paid tributes to former Republican presidents, including Col. Roosevelt, and referring to a third term he said that Theodore Roosevelt never lied to the American people and when he said he did not want to be president again he meant what he said.

"Every man who doubts that statement now impeaches his integrity. I have honored and trusted him too many years to insult him now with the thought that he says one thing and means another," concluded the Nebraskan.

NO COMPROMISE FOR FOLK AND CLARK MEN.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 26.—Efforts of W. J. Bryan to settle the conflict between Speaker Champ Clark and Former Governor Folk for indorsement of the Missouri Democrats for the presidential nomination have produced no material result up to date. Bryan while here suggested a division of the Missouri delegation as between Folk and Clark, the candidate to be dropped who received the smallest number of votes on the first ballot in the national convention at Baltimore.

Former Governor Stephens, a follower of Folk, made the proposition to Mr. Bryan, who in turn gave it to the members of each faction. Each refused to consider any compromise.

LAST CHANCE FOR VOTERS

Those Who Do Not Register Saturday Will Lose Their Vote.

Over 10,000 Are Expected to Go to the Polls Feb. 6.

Tomorrow is the last registration day.

Many voters have not yet put their names on the books. The registration has been satisfactory, as 7,691 are registered in the city, but the vote this year should run well over 10,000, and every effort will be made to get all of the voters out.

The registration on the first day was 5,009 and on the second day 2,682. If the expectation of party workers are realized, about 3,000 should be registered tomorrow.

The campaign is warming up as the time for the election approaches. Workers for both McCuen and Cullum are striving for their candidates. The Cullum meeting at West Duluth last evening was the best of the campaign and the supporters of the mayor are well satisfied with the impression created.

Every ward except the First is showing signs of battle. In every case the present incumbent is a strong favorite but is not overlooking the opposition.

The coming of Henry Truelson to take a hand in the municipal electric plant bond fight promises to add spice to the campaign. Mr. Truelson gives way to nobody as a campaigner and he may be expected to inject some fireworks into the situation, whatever other effort his visit may have.

The men responsible for Mr. Truelson's visit are arranging a series of meetings independent of political parties and improvement clubs. Meetings will be held in West Duluth, the West end, Oneota and in the central part of the city and it is possible that one will be arranged for in the East end.

OPERATORS DISCHARGED

Union Men Say Telegraph Company Is Dropping Old Employes.

Local Manager Denies Making Any Attempt to Disrupt Union.

Is there trobule between the operators and the Western Union Telegraph company?

Manager Kelly of the company says there is not.

Operators say that there is and state that two union men were dismissed this week.

It is claimed by the operators that the Western Union company is discharging old employes because they belong to the union and as a means of reducing expenses, hiring women and young telegraphers in their places.

Manager Kelly says that he does not even know of any one being discharged from the Duluth office and holds that there is no reduction of wage, operators receiving from $75 to $150 per month as formerly.

It is claimed by the operators that the Western Union company is discharging employes all over the country simply because they belong to a union.

It is stated that two men were discharged from the local company last week and that six were discharged in St. Paul and a larger number at Kansas City and other points about the country.

The operators claim that the trouble has struck Duluth.

Mr. Kelly says that he does not know it, if it has.

SOME CONVICTS QUITE THRIFTY

Inmates of Stillwater Penitentiary Save Substantial Sums From Pay.

Stillwater, Minn., Jan. 26.—While the capitalists of the country have patronizingly advised young persons to "save their pennies and be rich some day," the prisoners at Stillwater penitentiary have been biding their time, hoarding their small earnings until many of them now have sums ranging from $1,000 to $1,500 to their individual credit, according to the report of a visit to the institution made by J. R. Swann, a member, and J. C. Matchitt, secretary of the state board of visitors.

The report does not say how long these particular prisoners have been confined in the penitentiary, but some light is thrown on their saving ability by the following paragraph:

What Some Received.

In December, 1911, the fifty-six men employed in the farm machinery division, received an average pay of $4.85 a man; the 205 men in the shoe factory received an average for the month of $4.3 a man; the 114 men in the support division (cooks, waiters, barbers, etc.) received an average of $4.63 each.

Taking up the suggestion of Governor Eberhart that some means be provided for state aid to families left in need by prisoners committed to workhouses and the state prison, the report referring only to the latter, says that "but 5 per cent of the men in state prison have families they have left in need of state aid. This is because the prisoners as a whole are men of roving character, who have no settled home and who, accordingly, have no one dependent upon them."

DENOUNCE PARCELS POST.

Portland, Or., Jan. 26.—Bitter opposition to the parcels post was manifested at the meeting of the Hardware and Implement Dealers' association of Oregon. Various speakers asserted that the adoption of the parcels post in this country would mean the impoverishment and degradation of the rural districts and the exalting of two or three great national mail order centers which would draw to themselves dangerous proportions of the national wealth.

ROYAL VISIT ALMOST OVER

Duke of Connaught Returns From Washington to New York.

Spend Last Day as Guests of Reids in Sight-Seeing.

New York, Jan. 26.—His royal highness, the duke of Connaught, came back to New York this morning from his visit to President Taft in Washington. The duke was delighted with his recepton at the natonal capital, being especially pleased with the democratic simplicity which marked the ceremonials at the White House and at the home of British Ambassador Bryce.

The royal visitor reached the city early, and quite in time for his early morning walk, which he has taken daily since the vice-regal party reached here from Canada last Monday.

The royal guests of Ambassador and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid will conclude their visit to New York today, and plan to leave for Ottawa at 7:40 o'clock tonight. The duke, the duchess of Connaught and Princess Patricia, their daughter, planned to spend their final day here sightseeing. They expressed themselves as being extremely pleased with the cordiality of their reception.

Talked at Press Club.

Washington, Jan. 26.—Although he called on President Taft at the White House and later was a guest of Ambassador Bryce at the British embassy, his royal highness the duke of Connaught made the only speech on his visit to the United States while he was being entertained yesterday afternoon at the headquarters of the National Press club. On being introduced to the assembled newspaper men, he said:

"I assure you it is a pleasure to meet you gentlemen, who hold positions of such influence in this country. I hope you will always use it for the good of the world. I hope, also, that England and the United States will be always the best of friends for the good of the world."

Given Uproarious Welcome.

The visitor, who was accompanied by Ambassador Bryce, had been assured that his visit to the press club would be informal. He was received with an uproarious welcome, and, seeing some members smoking, turned to the nearest:

"I'm glad to see that this really is informal," he said. "May I ask for a cigarette?"

He chatted with the members for some time and then signed his name in the guest book. He did not use his title, but jotted down, "Arthur, Governor General of Canada."

GOVERNMENT GAINS POINT

be able to recognize the real issues when the testimony is all in. There should be a limit somewhere."

Steinger G. Langher, who has been on the stand for four days, confined his testimony at the morning session.

"Did you send an estimated price which it was desired to obtain with each car of meat shipped?"

"I do not remember," replied Langher.

Attorney Butler questioned the witness in regard to a mysterious red book in which were entered the summary margins.

Reported Every Day.

Langher said the red book belonged to J. J. Risch, in charge of the dressed beef shipping, and was sent in to him every day after the entries had been made.

"Was anything put in that red book that is not in the margin books?" was asked.

"I do not think there was," he replied.

The witness read long lists of cities to which shipments had been made and divided them into eastern, southern and western territories.

Attorney Butler then offered in evidence half a dozen of the margin books of the National Packing company. The defense wanted the entries read to the jury, but the court ruled against the proposition.

The witness then was turned over to Attorney John Barton Payne for cross-examination

CHURCHILL TRIES TO AVOID TROUBLE

Will Advise Cancellation of Proposed Meeting in Belfast.

London, Jan. 26. — Winston Spencer Churchill's action in giving up his intention to speak in Ulster hall, Belfast, on Feb. 8, is commented on favorably in today's newspapers. Only the bitterest opponents of the first lord of the admiralty chide him with retreating from a position which he should never have taken up. The home rule meeting in Belfast will now probably be held in St. Mary's hall, which is right in the Nationalist quarter.

Dispatches from Ireland today express the fear that it will not be difficult to prevent trouble in Belfast on the day of the meeting. The Unionists may find that they have created a force which they will be unable to control. Some of the Irish Unionist newspapers advise Winston Churchill to cancel his visit entirely.

Churchill last night sent a letter to Lord Londonderry, ex-viceroy of Ireland, and one of the Unionist leaders who are opposing the proposed home rule meeting, stating that he will advise the Ulster Liberal association not to insist upon holding the meeting at Ulster hall, as contemplated on Feb. 8, but that he intends to deliver a speech somewhere in Belfast on that day.

"BLACK VIRGIN'S" JEWELS FOUND

Priest Is Accused of Murdering Brother for Threat to Blame Him.

Czenstochowa, Russian Poland, Jan. 26.—Precious stones to the value of over $50,000, which were stolen two years ago from the statue of the virgin known as the "Miraculous Black Virgin," in the famous monastery of St. Paul in this city, were recently rediscovered in the store of a jeweler named Adler in the city of Lublin, Poland. Clues were also found which led to the recovery from a house near Lemberg, in Austrian Galicia, of another $50,000 worth of jewels taken from the same statue.

Father Macoch, one of the monks of the monastery of St. Paul, has been accused of murdering his brother because he threatened to inform the authorities that he was the author of the robbery. Father Macoch will be tried on the capital charge next month.

The pope, since the date of the robbery, has presented two diamond crowns of the value of $40,000 to the shrine of the virgin in the monastery, which is visited every year by over 250,000 pilgrims.

STATE NEAR END IN STARVING CASE

Defense Will Call Seventy Witnesses in Trial at Seattle.

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 26. — With the examination of two more physicians who gave expert testimony concerning the effect of starvation diet on the human system, the state expected to rest its case today in the trial of Mrs. Linda Burfield Hazzard, charged with having starved to death Miss Claire Williamson, a wealthy English woman.

Miss Williamson died after having been under Mrs. Hazzard's treatment two months and twenty-one days. Two months after her death her sister, Dorothea, was removed from Mrs. Hazzard's sanitarium, a living skeleton.

Dr. Charles H. Finney and Dr. George B. Campbell were questioned regarding the meager amount of food doled out daily to the Williamson sisters while under Mrs. Hazzard's care, and testified that death from starvation alone could result from the treatment.

Seventy witnesses have been subpoenaed by the defense.

GRANDMOTHERS USED SAGE TEA

To Darken the Hair and Restore Gray and Faded Hair to Its Natural Color.

It is easier to preserve the color of the hair than to restore it, although it is possible to do both. Our grandmothers understood the secret. They made a "sage tea," and their dark, glossy hair long after middle life was due to this fact. Our mothers have gray hairs before they are fifty, but they are beginning to appreciate the wisdom of our grandmothers in using "sage tea" for their hair and are fast following suit.

The present generation has the advantage of the past in that it can get a ready-to-use preparation called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy. As a scalp tonic and color restorer this preparation is vastly superior to the ordinary "sage tea" made by our grandmothers.

The growth and beauty of the hair depends on a healthy condition of the scalp. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy quickly kills the dandruff germs which rob the hair of its life, color and lustre, makes the scalp clean and healthy, gives the hair strength, color and beauty, and makes it grow.

MUNICIPAL LIGHTING PLANT COULD NOT BECOME REVENUE-PRODUCING INSTITUTION

Those theorists, dreamers and agitators who so strongly advocate the municipal ownership and operation of an electric lighting plant for Duluth, no matter what it costs or who pays for it, say that such a plant would furnish electricity to the city at cost.

Do they know what the "cost" would be?

The engineers employed by the city, state in their report, that the cost would be $69 38 a lamp per year. Now, remember please, the character and capactiy of the lamps they recommend are the same that THE DULUTH-EDISON ELECTRIC COMPANY PROPOSES TO FURNISH THE CITY FOR $45 a lamp per year.

As for the statement that the proposed municipal plant would become a revenue-producing institution, you know that that is impossible. To be able to make a profit from commercial business the municipal plant would have to serve ALL the present customers of the Duluth-Edison Electric Company.

Could the city hope to compete with the Duluth-Edison company for the business of selling electricity to the private consumer? The reasons why it could not are many—lower cost of production and distribution, an efficient and well-trained selling organization, and the RESPONSIBILITY OF PRIVATE INVESTMENT which in the case of MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP AND OPERATION IS INVARIABLY ABSENT.

A Permanent Cure For Chronic Constipation

Although those may dispute it who have not tried it, yet thousands of others, who speak from personal experience, assert that there is a permanent cure for chronic constipation. Some testify they were cured for as little as fifty cents, years ago, and that the trouble never came back on them, while others admit they took several bottles before a steady cure was brought about.

The remedy referred to is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It has been on the market for over a quarter of a century and has been popularized on its merits, by one person telling another. The fact that its strongest supporters are women and elderly people—the ones most persistently constipated—makes it certain that the claims regarding it as a permanent cure for constipation have not been exaggerated.

It is not violent like cathartic pills, salts or waters, but operates gently, without griping and without shock to the system. It contains tonic properties that strengthen the stomach and bowel muscles so that in time medicines of all kinds can be dispensed with and nature is again solely relied on. Among the legions who testify to these facts are Mr. Herbert Timm, 404 Idaho St., Oshkosh, Wis., and Caroline Mayard, Chatfield, Minn., and they always have a bottle of it in the house, for it is a reliable laxative for all the family from infancy to old age.

Anyone wishing to make a trial of this remedy before buying it in the regular way of a druggist at fifty cents or one dollar a large bottle (family size) can have a sample bottle sent to the home free of charge by simply addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 405 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. Your name and address on a postal card will do.

THE EVENING STORY

THE SPEAKING IDOL

By Joseph P. Coonan.

There was Jacky, bathed in perspiration, and gasping out, "Oh, Massa Cunel, I saw de Injuns in de forest. Dey near catch me—and—so—me run. I near killum un. I stick um with de big knife, and um give big yell. Oh, Massa, what will um do? Dey am coming to dis house to kilium me."

"Jacky, you had better get a wash. Go away," said the colonel sternly, and Jacky ran off. The colonel said to George, "Get inside the house, George, while I try to get information about the hill tribe." George did what he was told, and sat and thought what they would do to keep the raiders away. He thought for a long time, and then he suddenly imagined he had hit upon a good plan. They could send for the native police, and they would surely drive the hill tribe off. He thought for a bit, and then he suddenly remembered that the police were putting down a raid about twenty miles away, and all the people in the village might have their throats cut by the time the police came—so that was useless. Then he remembered about the idol. The hill tribes were worshippers of idols—could somebody not stand behind the idol and tell the savages to go away?

As soon as George thought of the idol, he went off to look for Jacky. He found him chopping sticks to make a fire with. Jacky did not hear George because the noise of chopping prevented him. George crept behind the boy without being heard, and then quickly caught him around the neck, and gave a whoop like an Indian. Jacky jumped up and wriggled about like an eel. He gave a sudden twist round and came face to face with George. Staring blankly at the supposed Indian, he gasped out, "Why, Mass' George, I thought um was de Injun come to stick um knife in um. Oh, Massa, why do dat?" George burst out laughing, while Jacky went to pick up his ax, saying, "If um had been an Injun, me would have stick an ax in um."

"I say, Jacky," said George seriously, "what would you do if the savage hill men were to come to this house and kill us?"

"Nuffin," replied Jacky, shaking his woolly head.

"But surely you would do something," said George.

"Des," cried Jacky, "me know what to do. De idol. De idol. Dat help um."

"Very well, then," said George, "but do you know what to do?" he inquired of Jacky.

"Des," replied the boy, beaming with delight.

"I am going away to the colonel," said George, running off to the house where his father was writing a letter to George's mother. The colonel started up when George came, but he sat down again when he saw who it was. "Well, George, what do you want?"

George told him about the idol and what Jacky had said, and the colonel said after a pause, "Well, I think you had better tell Jacky to get ready with the idol." George went off to Jacky, who was gazing at the idol in admiration, and told him what the colonel had said.

"Des, Mass' George, me work um," replied Jacky. George went immediately out of the shed, made his way to the house, and had just reached the doorway when he heard Jacky calling in a frightened voice, "Oh, Massa, look over dere." George turned and looked where Jacky was pointing. An army of blacks was moving towards their house and coming nearer every minute, waving their spears and yelling at the pitch of their voices.

"I shall tell father," George murmured to himself, and bolted to fulfill his resolve. His father listened to the bad news calmly, and said to his son: "Go and tell the overseer to bring in the workers to the store room, and also tell him to get out of the stores a dozen rifles and half a dozen revolvers." Williams quickly gathered the blacks into the storeroom. Jacky at this time was not idle. He had a box large enough to hold himself placed on the ground outside the house. The idol was placed against the box, and the hole in the back of the idol's head was exactly opposite the one in the box, which Jacky had cut out. The boy crept into the box, taking with him about a dozen small darts, smeared with the deadliest poison in India. He was just in time, for at that moment the howling mob came rushing up to the house, flinging their spears. But the spears did no harm. The blacks suddenly stopped, rooted to the ground. They had seen the idol. The slightest whispers could be heard, all was so quiet. Then suddenly a loud voice spoke. It came from the idol. George could not understand it, as it was in the language of the tribe, but he knew what Jacky would likely be saying. Jacky was telling the tribe to go away, and if they did not they would be turned to stone. The hill tribe, thinking that it was the idol that was speaking, were very frightened, but their leader, who was braver than they, ran up to the idol brandishing his spear. Thereupon Jacky quickly put a dart into the blowpipe, and pulling it up to the idol's mouth by the string applied his own mouth to the hole in the box, and blew. The black gave a yell and pitched writhing on the ground. In a minute he was lifeless.

The rest of the tribe, mad with anger, rushed at the idol, and if it had not been for the Colonel, Williams and George, who fired into the mob, Jacky would have been found out and killed. Jacky at the same time was shooting darts at the blacks, and he bagged a man every time he blew. The blacks, losing all heart, turned and fled with yells of defiance. The Colonel rushed out of the house and fired two or three shots after them, but there was no need, for the blacks had had the scare of their lives.

While they were running away George heard peal after peal of laughter coming from the box. It was Jacky who had been sitting in the box all the time playing his part very well. He came out of his hiding place and said to George: "Dat is de right way to scare um Injuns away; dey no come back again."

Five years later George and his father were on their way to their home. They had made their fortune with the cotton, and had given up the farm. With them they had Jacky, who was never out of mischief.

WEST END

FAVOR NEW WARD LINES

West End Business Men Want Sixth and Seventh Wards Changed.

Following the announcement that the New Duluth Commercial club is planning to renew the agitation for a change in ward lines, a large number of business men in the West end will now take up the matter of redistricting the Sixth and Seventh wards.

The subject was first suggested last fall but was dropped on account of the approach of the city election, but after election residents in this end of the city will agitate the subject. The Seventh ward, a number of the Superior street business men say, now has nearly twice as many voters as the Sixth, and the plan at present is to add the first precinct of the Seventh to the Sixth ward.

Nearly every one interviewed on the plan is in favor of the change in the ward lines and the fact that nearly all the business men on Superior street live in the Seventh ward will greatly aid the movement. The new plan would take away about a third of the voters from the Seventh ward and give them to the Sixth, which is only half as large as the former. The ward territory is also too large, as it extends from Twenty-first avenue west to Central avenue in West Duluth. The change would place the first precinct in the Sixth ward and would then place the dividing line at Twenty-fourth or Twenty-fifth avenue and would give each ward an equal voting strength in the city elections. It would also place almost all of the business section in the Sixth ward.

The Fourth and Fifth precincts of the Sixth ward now have only 100 voters, whereas at one time they were among the most populous sections in the city and cast about 500 votes. These precincts include Rice's point which has since been occupied by railroads, docks and factories, thus reducing the vote in that section. Most of the voters have moved from there to the Seventh ward.

WOODMEN OPPOSED TO NEW INSURANCE PLAN.

The local delegates to the meeting of the head camp of the Modern Woodmen of America, which is now being held in Chicago, are expected to return tomorrow. The meeting was called for the purpose of opposing the head officers' plan of increasing the insurance assessments. Various addresses have been made during the week by the delegates which are gathered from all over the country, and it is probable that a new uniform insurance law will be adopted before the close of the meeting.

The delegates for this section are: O. W. Olson of the Duluth camp, No. 2341; John H. Norton of the Imperial camp, No. 2206; Carl L. Johnson of Virginia, and John G. Larson of Two Harbors.

Some of the delegates have spoken on the proposed increase saying that the membership of the national order would be reduced over 53 per cent if this new Mobile law were to go into effect. The law was passed at a special meeting held at Mobile a year ago and which has already been adopted by sixteen fraternities.

CAMPAIGN FOR THIRD AMENDMENT.

Members of the Fifth Ward Improvement club have taken up the third amendment and a special committee has been appointed to work among the voters of the Fifth ward. The new plan for paying for paving by annual installments has appealed to the club, and the present campaign is the result.

The special committee of property owners who first started the new paving plan, will speak at a meeting of the club next week and fully explain the amendment to the mtmbers.

Choir Meeting.

The choir of the Swedish Mission church will meet the early part of next week to arrange the plans for the year. The following new officers were elected last week and the various committees will also be appointed at the meeting: Gust Hjelm, president; Carl Mellin, secretary; Albin Carlson, vice secretary; John Johnson, treasurer; Mrs. J. J. Daniels, director, and Miss Esther Ekholm and Ines Turnquist, organists.

The Epworth League of the First Swedish M. E. church, Twentieth avenue west and Third street, will hold a business meeting in the church parlors this evening.

Olaf H. Erickson of Chisholm, Minn., will leave for his home tomorrow, after spending the past week in the West end visiting his brother-in-law, E. H. Olson, 2307 West Second street.

The Republican precinct captains of the Seventh ward will meet this evening at the polling place, Twenty-eighth avenue west and First street. County Commissioner Joseph Cumming, chairman of the ward, will have charge of the meeting.

Mrs. George Craig, 1812 West Third street, entertained the ladies of the McGonagle circle at her home yesterday afternoon. Covers were laid for twenty.

Epidemic in Siam.

New York, Jan. 26.—The Presbyterian board of foreign missions has received further cable advices regarding the epidemic among the Laos people of Northern Siam. The cable reads: "Conditions are alarming and the epidemic is still spreading. Funds are very low."

SEEDS FOR CHILDREN

Youthful Homecrofters of St. Louis County Will Be Encouraged.

Rural school children of St. Louis county will get a touch of farming in their curriculum again this spring.

When seeding time comes they will be given seeds and these will be planted under the instructions of the teacher. The children will be encouraged to give diligent attention to their little garden tracts in the summer time, and at harvest time next fall will be asked to enter the produce raised from these seeds in an exhibition.

County Superintendent of Schools N. A. Young this week sent letters to every rural school teacher in the state informing him or her that each child in the school would be furnished with two packages of seeds if application were made at the office of the county superintendent.

The seeds have been furnishd by the Duluth Commercial club. Last year the club distributed 4,000 packages to school children and the results were so favorable that the plan was again adopted this year. Four kinds of seeds are offered the children: Red globe onions, late cabbage, canning peas and sugar beets. Any two may be selected.

"In the fall," says Superintendent Young, "local contests will be held at every school, at which time exhibits will be made of the products grown from the seeds furnished. There will also be a general county contest or exhibit at which the best products from each school will be sent to Duluth. Reasonable prizes will be awarded."

SANITARIUM SOON READY

Will Be Turned Over By Contractor Zauft About Feb. 15.

The new St. Louis county sanitarium will probably be ready for patients by March 1.

The building will be turned over to the building commission about Feb. 15, and as soon after that time as the furnishings can be installed, patients will be received. Already a large number have made application to enter the institution.

Just at the present time the commissioners are debating as to a name for the institution. A great many have become interested in the matter and many suggestions have been made.

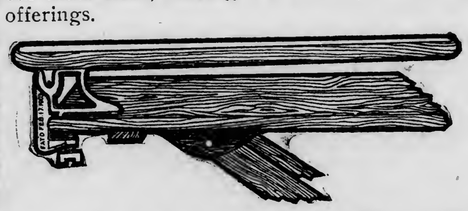

Some want an Indian name used and a great number of these have been suggested. Of these Nopeming seems to be the most popular.

Natick, meaning "place of hills"; Hillcrest, Hillside, Sunnyshelter, Du Lhut and many other Indian and American names have been suggested by people interested in the sanitarium.

Located as it is at Midway, many think that an Indian name is more appropriate and the variety of Indian names suggested has surprised even the commissioner.

MISS GERTIE MILAR.

THE EVENING STORY

THE SPEAKING IDOL

By Joseph P. Coonan.

There was Jacky, bathed in perspiration, and gasping out, "Oh, Massa Cunel, I saw de Injuns in de forest. Dey near catch me—and—so—me run. I near killum um. I stick um with de big knife, and um give big yell. Oh, Massa, what will um do? Dey am coming to dis house to killum me."

"Jacky, you had better get a wash. Go away," said the colonel sternly, and Jacky ran off. The colonel said to George, "Get inside the house, George, while I try to get information about the hill tribe." George did what he was told, and sat and thought what they would do to keep the raiders away. He thought for a long time, and then he suddenly imagined he had hit upon a good plan. They could send for the native police, and they would surely drive the hill tribe off. He thought for a bit, and then he suddenly remembered that the police were putting down a raid about twenty miles away, and all the people in the village might have their throats cut by the time the police came—so that was useless. Then he remembered about the idol. The hill tribes were worshippers of idols—could somebody not stand behind the idol and tell the savages to go away?

As soon as George thought of the idol, he went off to look for Jacky. He found him chopping sticks to make a fire with. Jacky did not hear George because the noise of chopping prevented him. George crept behind the boy without being heard, and then quickly caught him around the neck, and gave a whoop like an Indian. Jacky jumped up and wriggled about like an eel. He gave a sudden twist round and came face to face with George. Staring blankly at the supposed Indian, he gasped out, "Why, Mass' George, I thought um was de Injun come to stick um knife in um. Oh, Massa, why do dat?" George burst out laughing, while Jacky went to pick up his ax, saying, "If um had been an Injun, me would have stick an ax in um."

"I say, Jacky," said George seriously, "what would you do if the savage hill men were to come to this house and kill us?"

"Nuffin," replied Jacky, shaking his woolly head.

"But surely you would do something," said George.

"Des," cried Jacky, "me know what to do. De idol. De idol. Dat help um."

"Very well, then," said George, "but do you know what to do?" he inquired of Jacky.

"Des," replied the boy, beaming with delight.

"I am going away to the colonel," said George, running off to the house where his father was writing a letter to George's mother. The colonel started up when George came, but he sat down again when he saw who it was. "Well, George, what do you want?"

George told him about the idol and what Jacky had said, and the colonel said after a pause, "Well, I think you had better tell Jacky to get ready with the idol." George went off to Jacky, who was gazing at the idol in admiration, and told him what the colonel had said.

"Yes, Mass' George, me work um," replied Jacky. George went immediately out of the shed, made his way to the house, and had just reached the doorway when he heard Jacky calling in a frightened voice, "Oh, Massa, look over dere." George turned and looked where Jacky was pointing. An army of blacks was moving towards their house and coming nearer every minute, waving their spears and yelling at the pitch of their voices.

"I shall tell father," George murmured to himself, and bolted to fulfill his resolve. His father listened to the bad news calmly, and said to his son: "Go and tell the overseer to bring in the workers to the store room, and also tell him to get out of the stores a dozen rifles and half a dozen revolvers." Williams quickly gathered the blacks into the storeroom, Jacky at this time was not idle. He had a box large enough to hold himself placed on the ground outside the house. The idol was placed against the box, and the hole in the back of the idol's head was exactly opposite the one in the box, which Jacky had cut out. The boy crept into the box, taking with him about a dozen small darts, smeared with the deadliest poison in India. He was just in time, for at that moment the howling mob came rushing up to the house, flinging their spears. But the spears did no harm. The blacks suddenly stopped, rooted to the ground. They had seen the idol. The slightest whispers could be heard, all was so quiet. Then suddenly a loud voice spoke. It came from the idol. George could not understand it, as it was in the language of the tribe, but he knew what Jacky would likely be saying. Jacky was telling the tribe to go away, and if they did not they would be turned to stone. The hill tribe, thinking that it was the idol that was speaking, were very frightened, but their leader, who was braver than they, ran up to the idol brandishing his spear. Thereupon Jacky quickly put a dart into the blowpipe, and pulling it up to the idol's mouth by the string applied his own mouth to the hole in the box, and blew. The black gave a yell and pitched writhing on the ground. In a minute he was lifeless.

The rest of the tribe, mad with anger, rushed at the idol, and if it had not been for the Colonel, Williams and George, who fired into the mob, Jacky would have been found out and killed. Jacky at the same time was shooting darts at the blacks, and he bagged a man every time he blew. The blacks, losing all heart, turned and fled with yells of defiance. The Colonel rushed out of the house and fired two or three shots after them, but there was no need, for the blacks had had the scare of their lives.

While they were running away George heard peal after peal of laughter coming from the box. It was Jacky who had been sitting in the box all the time playing his part very well. He came out of his hiding place and said to George, "Dat is de right way to scare um injuns away; dey no come back again."

Five years later George and his father were on their way to their home. They had made their fortune with the cotton, and had given up the farm. With them they had Jacky, who was never out of mischief.

WEST END

FAVOR NEW WARD LINES

West End Business Men Want Sixth and Seventh Wards Changed.

Following the announcement that the New Duluth Commercial club is planning to renew the agitation for a change in ward lines, a large number of business men in the West end will now take up the matter of redistricting the Sixth and Seventh wards.

The subject was first suggested last fall but was dropped on account of the approach of the city election, but after election residents in this end of the city will agitate the subject. The Seventh ward, a number of the Superior street business men say, now has nearly twice as many voters as the Sixth, and the plan at present is to add the first precinct of the Seventh to the Sixth ward.

Nearly every one interviewed on the plan is in favor of the change in the ward lines and the fact that nearly all the business men on Superior street live in the Seventh ward will greatly aid the movement. The new plan would take away about a third of the voters from the Seventh ward and give them to the Sixth, which is only half as large as the former. The ward territory is also too large, as it extends from Twenty-first avenue west to Central avenue in West Duluth. The change would place the first precinct in the Sixth ward and would then place the dividing line at Twenty-fourth or Twenty-fifth avenue and would give each ward an equal voting strength in the city elections. It would also place almost all of the business section in the Sixth ward.

The Fourth and Fifth precincts of the Sixth ward now have only 100 voters, whereas at one time they were among the most populous sections in the city and cast about 500 votes. These precincts include Rice's point which has since been occupied by railroads, docks and factories, thus reducing the vote in that section. Most of the voters have moved from there to the Seventh ward.

WOODMEN OPPOSED TO NEW INSURANCE PLAN.

The local delegates to the meeting of the head camp of the Modern Woodmen of America, which is now being held in Chicago, are expected to return tomorrow. The meeting was called for the purpose of opposing the head officers' plan of increasing the insurance assessments. Various addresses have been made during the week by the delegates which are gathered from all over the country, and it is probable that a new uniform insurance law will be adopted before the close of the meeting.

The delegates for this section are: O. W. Olson of the Duluth camp, No. 2341; John H. Norton of the Imperial camp, No. 2206; Carl L. Johnson of Virginia, and John G. Larson of Two Harbors.

Some of the delegates have spoken on the proposed increase saying that the membership of the national order would be reduced over 53 per cent if this new Mobile law were to go into effect. The law was passed at a special meeting held at Mobile a year ago and which has already been adopted by sixteen fraternities.

CAMPAIGN FOR THIRD AMENDMENT.

Members of the Fifth Ward Improvement club have taken up the third amendment and a special committee has been appointed to work among the voters of the Fifth ward. The new plan for paying for paving by annual installments has appealed to the club, and the present campaign is the result. The special committee of property owners who first started the new paving plan, will speak at a meeting of the club next week and fully explain the amendment to the mtmbers.

Choir Meeting.

The choir of the Swedish Mission church will meet the early part of next week to arrange the plans for the year. The following new officers were elected last week and the various committees will also be appointed at the meeting: Gust Hjelm, president; Carl Mellin, secretary; Albin Carlson, vice secretary; John Johnson, treasurer; Mrs. J. J. Daniels, director, and Miss Esther Ekholm and Ines Turnquist, organists.

West End Briefs.

Miss Alice Nolan, 2718 West Third street, is visiting relatives in Toronto, Can.

The Epworth League of the First Swedish M. E. church, Twentieth avenue west and Third street, will hold a business meeting in the church parlors this evening.

Don't forget B. of R. T. dance tonight at the Armory.

Regular weekly prayer was held last evening at the First Swedish M. E. church. Rev. Edwin Stromberg, pastor of the church, conducted the services.

The Svea Glee club will entertain at a social Sunday afternoon at Sloan's hall, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street.

Olaf H. Erickson of Chisholm, Minn., will leave for his home tomorrow, after spending the past week in the West end visiting his brother-in-law, E. H. Olson, 2307 West Second street.

The Republican precinct captains of the Seventh ward will meet this evening at the polling place, Twenty-eighth avenue west and First street. County Commissioner Joseph Cumming, chairman of the ward, will have charge of the meeting.

Mrs. George Craig, 1812 West Third street, entertained the ladies of the McGonagle circle at her home yesterday afternoon. Covers were laid for twenty.

Epidemic in Siam.

New York, Jan. 26.—The Presbyterian board of foreign missions has received further cable advices regarding the epidemic among the Laos people of Northern Siam. The cable reads: "Conditions are alarming and the epidemic is still spreading. Funds are very low."

SEEDS FOR CHILDREN

Youthful Homecrofters of St. Louis County Will Be Encouraged.

Rural school children of St. Louis county will get a touch of farming in their curriculum again this spring.

When seeding time comes they will be given seeds and these will be planted under the instructions of the teacher. The children will be encouraged to give diligent attention to their little garden tracts in the summer time, and at harvest time next fall will be asked to enter the produce raised from these seeds in an exhibition.

County Superintendent of Schools N. A. Young this week sent letters to every rural school teacher in the state informing him or her that each child in the school would be furnished with two packages of seeds if application were made at the office of the county superintendent.

The seeds have been furnished by the Duluth Commercial club. Last year the club distributed 4,000 packages to school children and the results were so favorable that the plan was again adopted this year. Four kinds of seeds are offered the children: Red globe onions, late cabbage, canning peas and sugar beets. Any two may be selected.

"In the fall," says Superintendent Young, "local contests will be held at every school, at which time exhibits will be made of the products grown from the seeds furnished. There will also be a general county contest or exhibit at which the best products from each school will be sent to Duluth. Reasonable prizes will be awarded."

SANITARIUM SOON READY

Will Be Turned Over By Contractor Zauft About Feb. 15.

The new St. Louis county sanitarium will probably be ready for patients by March 1.

The building will be turned over to the building commission about Feb. 15, and as soon after that time as the furnishings can be installed, patients will be received. Already a large number have made application to enter the institution.

Just at the present time the commissioners are debating as to a name for the institution. A great many have become interested in the matter and many suggestions have been made.

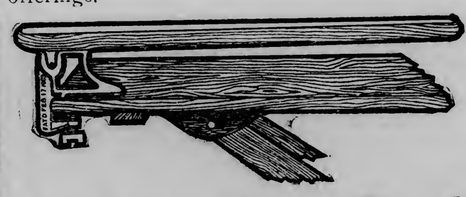

Some want an Indian name used and a great number of these have been suggested. Of these Nopeming seems to be the most popular.

Natick, meaning "place of hills"; Hillcrest, Hillside, Sunnyshelter, Du Lhut and many other Indian and American names have been suggested by people interested in the sanitarium.

Located as it is at Midway, many think that an Indian name is more appropriate and the variety of Indian names suggested has surprised even the commissioner.

MAYOR CULLUM IN PLAIN TALK TO 500 VOTERS

Frankly Discusses His Record and His Claims for Re-election.

Solve Vice Problem By Bettering Living Conditions of People.

At the largest political gathering in the present mayorality campaign, Mayor Cullum last evening addressed nearly 500 voters at Gilley's hall, 324 Central avenue, West Duluth. W. E. Kern acted as chairman and the other speakers called on following Mayor Cullum's address, were Aldermen Bernard and Gibson of the Seventh ward, Alderman Hoar, M. Jacoby and City Assessor Scott.

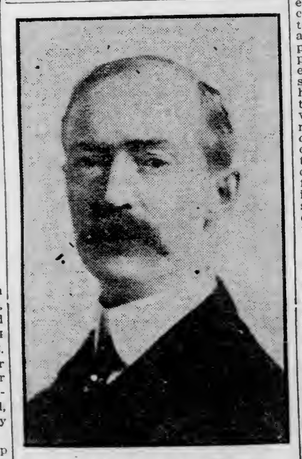

Among the many issues brought up by Mayor Cullum were law enforcement, the social problem, charter amendments, taxation, municipal lighting bonds, and the public welfare board. He especially urged every voter to support the amendments to the city charter and to aid the city officials in establishing a public welfare board, which he believe is the most important issue before the Duluth public at the present time.

During the course of his address, Mayor Cullum challenged the statements made at a West Duluth meeting last week in which H. A. Carmichael said that the mayor had at one time been unfriendly to the laboring men. "This is untrue and I challenge the men who are running Dr. McCuen's campaign to show the evidence for such remarks," said Mayor Cullum.

"When I went into this campaign or race with my opponent, Dr. McCuen," went on the speaker, "I expected fair play. Dr. McCuen chose as his manager a young man who is a member of the Y. M. C. A. from where I have always expected fair play. Such a statement is a falsehood, and I have never said anything in my life against the workingman, and furthermore, I never will. Let them produce any statement that shows I made such a remark, and I am perfectly willing to give up my chair today. I would not care to be mayor of this city, if such a statement can be proven to be mine.

Friendly to Labor.

"I have always been friendly to the laboring man and if the citizens of Duluth would look back and see how I have worked and tried to get the best conditions for the laboring man,

MAYOR M. B. CULLUM.

money will readily see that I consider him my best friend. In my suggestions to the city council I have always favored the workingman, and such a statement is surely not fair play.

"My opponent has said that he is in favor of segregation and will see to it that the people living in that section of the city are all kept there. I will say that there is no law under which segregating can be compelled and that this is a question which thousands have attempted to solve. No city in the United States has yet succeeded in segregating the people of the underworld. The women who ply this trade want their own location. I simply question the stand of my opponent who says that he will segregate the social evil. The law does not allow it and when my opponent stated that he would fine every woman in the red light district, he is attempting to put this condition on a business basis and obtain a revenue for the city from the sale of the bodies of these women. Such a plan can only appeal to man of the lowest morals, when he wishes to go in partnership with vice. It cannot be done and I would rather raise a tax of $20,000 by charging more for automobiles and lumber than taking the money from such a source.

Remove the Cause.

"I have talked with many people who have appealed to me during my term of office. I may go back to the beginning and remove the cause. In my amendment asking for a public welfare board I will have the authority to and power to remove the cause. We must help the laboring man to get a larger wage, so that his children will not want. We must provide for the child of degenerate parents, so that he will not grow up in the same way. We must help the poor girl who is on the verge of selling her soul and we must aid the woman of the red light district so that she will give up this life of shame. This can only be done with a proper system of laws and officials who will work for that end.

"While good men agree that poverty and lack of opportunity are the causes of vice, they also agree that these causes must be removed as far as possible. In order to make any progress in suppressing the evils complained of, The public official, however, cannot ignore the results, and such repressive methods adopted as he may be privileged to use, seeking to diminish the evil to as near the vanishing point as possible form a moral standpoint, must be adopted. It cannot even be agreed upon that in order to do this some sort of restrictive method or methods of regulation could be resorted to pending the further solution of this problem. But it must all be treated from a moral standpoint. The public will not long countenance any other policy than this.

Commercializing Vice.

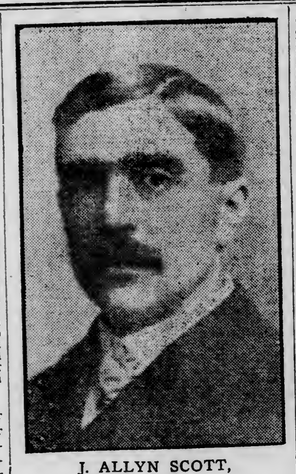

"To deliberately segregate vice for the purpose of commercializing it or for the purpose of adding to the income of the city by a left-handed license, by the fining system, will never be permitted again. I realize that there are men who believe that this is the business end of it; but it can no longer be handled from a business standpoint. I think the public should not hesitate to supply the money from some other source.

"In all the entangling difficulties surrounding this question the motive must be to get the best results.

"Again, the difficulties surrounding the enforcement of the law in other directions are innumerable, and those not close in touch with the police department know little of them. In every respect the executive must show to the public that he is using whatever force may be at his command to bring about an orderly, clean administration of affairs.

P. H. MARTIN.

J. ALLYN SCOTT, City Assessor.

"In the matter of law enforcement, administrations are held accountable for the orderly conduct of the public's affairs, and the police department in its workings is largely responsible for the success of the administration.

"While I have occasion to sometimes complain of individual efficiency, yet on the whole I believe the department is as clean and capable as any police force in the country.

The Police Force.

"I have always been in favor of enforcing the law, but you must realize that the law is limited. We can only do certain things with our power. We have a police force of seventy-two men, who cover the entire territory of Duluth night and day, which gives each officer two square miles of the city to look after. And at that I personally believe that we have as good a force as any other city. We must do our duty as the law states, but if we should adopt the public welfare board, the city government would then have an opportunity to do more for the good of Duluth. What we are now trying to undo is the work of centuries and to remove all that will take a long time. But the results will pay for the work and the great fight that is now being waged by Jane Addams of Hull house, Chicago, is similiar to the campaign I would establish here in Duluth. We must get after the degenerates, and, although I have nothing personally against my opponents, I again challenge his plan of taxing the women of the underworld and telling them to go ahead and ply their trade.

Lower Taxes.

"As mayor of Duluth I have succeeded in reducing your taxes 8 per cent for the year. I have been assisted by City Assessor Scott of your own part of the city, who has worked hard with me and his own department to place the tax burden where it can best be borne. The poor man has been too highly taxed in the past and we opened our present term with the idea of reducing the tax for the poor man. We have succeeded in our attempt by placing the burden with the rich man, the man who is well able to pay. By raising the valuation nearly $2,400,000, we have taken 704 working men off the tax rolls. Does that not prove that I am with the laboring man?

"There is not a city in the United States that has made such a showing and with such an issue alone before the voters of Duluth it is enough to send the same body of men back to the city hall.

Charter Amendments.

"The charter amendment referring to the matter of public improvement is essential, inasmuch as it will be so very much easier on the property owner to extend our improvements so that it will be helpful in the way of general appearance, and employ hundreds of men in the next two years that otherwise might be idle.

"While all these amendments are good, yet because of my frequent intercourse with those in need and distress, I am more concerned about the success of the 'public welfare' amendment than any other question. I believe it will be a step in the right direction, not only to relieve actual distress, but to provide a more humane treatment of the petty offender, and will have much to do with removing the cause of vice that is so prevalent.

"I have, in and out of season, urged upon the business interests of Duluth that the laboring man and his surroundings must be given every encouragement in order that the business of building a city might proceed. The climatic conditions, and perhaps the high cost of living, are not encouraging to the average workman; and anything that can be done in a legislative way or a business way to surround the workingmen and their families with opporeunities of a beneficial nature must be brought about.

"These amendments bear directly on this question and should receive the hearty indorsement of the laboring-man.

"Another word regarding that statement that I am not in sympathy with the working man. I have nothing against my opponent personally, and expected fair play in this little race between ourselves, but say now that my entire campaign is based on the working men of Duluth, and if you will notice the different amendments before you, they are all there to help the laborer. At every banquet table I have urged better conditions for the laboring men, and such statements that I am against the laborer are false and should be branded thus from the start.

"My opponent has not given any statement regarding his stand on the different public issues, or just what he indorses as candidate for mayor of this city. He has not made a public report to the voters, so that they may know just what they are voting for. He must know something about these different measures and has surely formed some opinion on them. Why does he not say so? He should be more explicit, to get the trust of the voter. In suggesting the welfare board, I am bringing before you a plan that will finally cure the social evil. It will investigate the social conditions and sanitation, and will compel proprietors to pay better wages to their help, if necessary."

Bernard Talks.

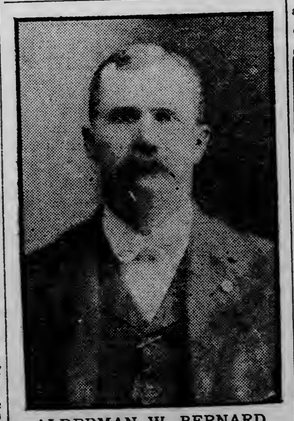

Following the mayor's address, Alderman Bernard was called on, and he asked for the support of the voters on his past record. He told of the number of improvements he had secured during his present term, and emphasized the fact that his two years of valuable experience on the city council would be of benefit to the city of Duluth, if re-elected. He also urged the election of Dr. Cullum, whom he said had served faithfully in the past, and knows the conditions and needs of the city better than any other man.

P. H. Martin, candidate for alderman of the Eighth ward, was the next speaker and he gave a forceful talk on the different public issues. He told every voter to be sure to place "X" for the municipal lighting bonds. He promised his support to every demand of the voters and said that if elected, the voters of the Eighth ward would never regret their move.

The surprise of the evening was the address made by M. Jacoby, a West Duluth resident and assistant in the city assessor's office. He urged the voters to all vote for the bonds "You will then have a gun in your hands and be prepared for the enemy," went on the speaker. "You cannot lose, and it is the only logical thing to do. Get up and act and do like the people of Denver, who asked and fought for their rights, finally winning out. Your old friend, Henry Truelsen, is coming here to address you on the municipal light question, and every voter in Duluth should make an effort to hear this man, the man that gave the municipal water and gas plant to Duluth."

Scott Warmly Greeted.

City Assessor Scott was the last speaker of the evening and he was urged to speak after he had been recognized in the gathering. He was received with a great deal of applause and he told in a few words how the tax assessments had been reduced 8 per cent. He gave considerable credit to Mayor Cullum and urged his reelection for this good work alone. He showed how the old assessors have been overlooking 75,000 tons of coal on the dock, while they never failed to see a small cook stove in a poor man's home. They seemed to miss 5,000,000 feet of lumber, but always looked in the poor man's woodshed. It was such things as these, he said, that have been stopped and which enabled them to lower the tax rate. If given a chance, he concluded, the department could bring the taxes 15 per cent lower than they have been.

A SCENT OF JOYOUS BATTLE.

Although the conventions are five months away, conditions are beginning to clear themselves a little. A shaft of brightest light begins to creep through the caverns of mystery and doubt and to illumine the future.

Bearing in mind that he is either very brave or very foolhardy who ventures a prediction thus early, The Herald will hazard two, just to see how they come out:

Prediction No. 1. When the Republicans gather in convention in Chicago June 18 they will be obsessed above all other things by the desire to win. They will nominate as their candidate for president Theodore Roosevelt of Oyster Bay, N. Y.

Prediction No. 2. When the Democrats gather in convention in Baltimore June 25 they will be obsessed above all other things by the desire to win. They will nominate as their candidate for president Woodrow Wilson of Princeton, N. J.

And then—

What will happen then reminds us of that irreverent tale about the man brought face to face with a ferocious grizzly bear on the edge of a precipice where he had to fight or be eaten. The man, it is related, put up this petition: "Oh Lord, if you can't help me, don't help the bear, and you'll see the doggonedest scrap you ever saw in all your life!"

In the Republican convention, the view will be that Taft can't possibly win, that any one of half a dozen likely Democrats can beat him, but that Roosevelt can win if anybody can.

In the Democratic convention, Roosevelt being already nominated, the view will be that there is but one man who can beat him, and that man Woodrow Wilson.

In that event, both Republicans and Democrats can throw up their hats and yell themselves hoarse with good reason. The Old Guard in both parties will retire sulkily to its tents, and Standpatism will take to the woods.

And you'll see "the doggonedest scrap you ever saw in all your life!"

SHARP PRACTICE.

Minneapolis has for a generation been permitted by railroad favoritism to steal from Duluth the advantages of its situation at the head of a great waterway.

For most of that generation Minneapolis chuckled in its sleeve while Duluth dozed, waiting for manifest destiny to come to it along a road that had been closed by a conspiracy.

Minneapolis has known for several years that Duluth is awake, that Duluth knows at last what the trouble has been, and that Duluth is demanding redress.

Yet when this city finally got a hearing and presented its case before the interstate commerce commission, Minneapolis blandly professed to be unprepared and asked a continuance, obviously with a view to a leisurely digesting of the evidence as a help to cooking up a case against it.

Had this been a lawsuit, judgment would have been entered by default in favor of Duluth. The interstate commerce commission, however, recognizing the importance of the case, wants all the evidence, so Commissioner Harlan reluctantly granted the continuance, expressing sympathy, however, with Duluth's protest.

Such sharp practices will in the long run profit Minneapolis nothing.

A STATE DEVELOPMENT ASSOCIATION.

The St. Peter Free Press, in which a good deal of sound sense seems associated with a rather waspish disposition, deprecates sectionalism in state development.

It notes that there is a Northern Minnesota Development association, and that there is talk of a Western Minnesota Development association. Presently, it doubts not, there will be a Southern Minnesota Development association. Why not, instead of all these, a Minnesota Development association, it asks.

There is no reason on earth why there shouldn't be a state development association. There ought to be no sectional development association. There ought to be no need of any, but since there was a need, the Northern Minnesota Development association came into being, and it will exist so long as there continues to be a need for it. There would be no need for it if the state at large had given sufficient consideration to the needs of Northern Minnesota.

If Southern Minnesota—which has an interest in the development of Northern Minnesota almost as great as that of Northern Minnesota itself—wants to get in on a Minnesota Development association, let it get aboard.

The nucleus for such an association is already in existence. The Northern Minnesota Development association will serve the purpose nicely. Let all the rest of the counties join it, as the thirty-three Northern Minnesota counties have done. Let them send delegates and participate in the active and practical work that is being performed. And when they have joined some Northern Minnesota member will be the first to propose an amendment to drop the word "Northern" and make it the Minnesota Development association; thereby driving sectionalism out of the state and uniting all parts of the commonwealth in a common movement for the greater glory and prosperity of the entire state.

The fact that there is a Northern Minnesota Development association constitutes in itself an indictment of Southern Minnesota for indifference and neglect. The interests of the two halves of the state are common. The citizen of Rock county or Nicolet county has the same ownership in the state's dormant resources in Northern Minnesota as the citizen of Roseau county or St. Louis county. Both should be interested in seeing the state's idle acres tilled and producing wealth and paying taxes. But both haven't been. The citizen of Northern Minnesota has labored under the handicap imposed by these idle acres, which pay no taxes, help build no roads, schools or churches, and are tenanted only by trees or stumps. Wearying of this handicap, and tiring of the state's neglect, Northern Minnesota formed its development association.

That association is asking reapportionment, so that the voting power in the legislature of a citizen of Northern Minnesota shall balance the voting power in the legislature of a citizen of Southern Minnesota. It is asking that the state give more attention to the settlement and development of its idle acres, and, better still, it is doing practical work to that end by financing an immigration bureau and by fostering road building on a large scale. It ought not to be compelled to do this work alone, because it is work that benefits and profits all parts of the state.

By all means let there be a Minnesota Development association, and let sectionalism cease. The way to bring that about is for Southern Minnesota to awake to its direct interest in the development of Northern Minnesota, and to join hands with the association already formed and working to that end. The restrictive word "Northern" will be dropped the moment it is no longer needed.

CHARTER AMENDMENT NO. 3.

The third amendment to the city charter on the ballot for the city election to be held Feb. 6 is intended to encourage home-building and home-owning by lessening the burden of street improvements on the home-owner.

Under the present system, when a street improvement is ordered the estimated cost is assessed against the property benefited and 80 per cent of this is collected in advance. The rest must be paid when the work is completed. Often the property-owner is compelled to pay this 80 per cent assessment several months or even a year or more before work on the paving is begun.

This makes improvement a heavy burden on the small home-owner. It discourages him from signing petitions for improvements, and failure to improve the streets holds back development in his neighborhood.

If the burden can be lightened improvements will be made more freely where they are needed, the value of homes already built will be increased, and neighborhoods that are sparsely settled because there are no street improvements will settle up more quickly.

To meet this need the charter commission proposed Amendment No. 3. It does not go as far as some would like, but probably it goes as far as it should. At any rate it is a vast improvement, from the viewpoint of the prospective or present home-owner, upon the present system. Those who advocate going further than this amendment goes should remember that there is an extreme on the other side to be guarded against: the danger of making improvements so easy that the country-side will be covered with them and the city swamped under a load of bills that it would have difficulty in meeting.

Under the proposed amendment, wherever the cost of a street improvement—not including sidewalks unless they are a part of the street paving job—exceeds $25 for each 3,500 square feet of property any owner of real estate benefited may apply to the city council to have his assessment spread over three years. He must accompany his petition with a payment of 25 per cent of the assessment, and the council may then extend the balance into three equal instalments, to be paid annually, and to bear 7 per cent interest. If he has the money in hand he can save this interest by paying his assessment in full.

The amendment also provides for the issuance of "extended assessment certificates," not to run more than five years nor to draw more than 6 per cent interest, the sale of which will keep the permanent improvement revolving fund up to its requirements.

This amendment should be adopted. Under it the small home-builder who cannot afford to pay his assessment in full will be given three years to pay in if he asks for the extension. It is optional with the property-owner, who can pay in full if he wishes and thus save the interest charge.

It will foster home-building by lightening the burden on the home-builder and by encouraging the making of improvements that will make outlying locations more suitable as home sites.

REGISTER TOMORROW!

If you voted at the primary election, you are registered for the city election which will be held a week from Tuesday. If you registered last Tuesday, you will be able to vote at that election.

But if you did not vote at the primary, and if you did not register Tuesday, you will not be able to vote unless you register tomorrow, which is your last chance to do so.

If you don't register tomorrow you can't vote.

Every citizen ought to be registered, and every citizen ought to vote.

Aside from the election of a mayor, aldermen and other city officers, questions of business policy of large consequence are to be decided Feb. 6. It is your privilege and your duty to take part in deciding these questions.

An important bond issue for the purchase or building of a city electric lighting plant is to be passed upon. Four very important charter amendments are up for the decision of the citizens.

You should register tomorrow, and vote a week from Tuesday.

VOTES FOR WOMEN.

The speech from the throne at the recent reopening of the Swedish parliament foreshadows the granting of the ballot to the women of Sweden. Women in Finland are already on equal terms with men, and in Norway too with certain modifications.

No calm and careful observer can fail to realize that though its coming has been slow—it is getting faster all the time—woman suffrage is at hand. Whether or not the men like it, whether or not the women want it, whether or not it will be good for society, the women are going to vote.

Whether the men like it or not is not of much consequence. Whether or not the women, or most of them, want it or not is of less. Probably when general manhood suffrage was first conceded by the powers that then were, there were plenty of men who were not concerned in it, and perhaps some who didn't want it; just as there are lots of women now not concerned in the ballot, and some who profess they don't want it.

Woman suffrage is no magic panacea that will cure all social and political evils. Women are human, just like men; sometimes we think a little more so. Like men, they err in judgment, and they will make mistakes, as men have made them. They can hardly make sorrier work of it than men have done in many cases, and they may in some cases do better.

But all this is of very minor importance beside the fact that no state or nation will have true democracy, true liberty, or true equality, until every human being is given the same right in the ballot.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

COMMISSION PLAN OF GOVERNMENT.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I have been a reader of your paper for ten years and have never asked a favor of you. Will you please explain in your Open Court column what the commission form of government is and what it consists of? What are the fundamental principles? I have inquired of several and they are as much in the dark as I am.

Thanking you in advance, I am
Yours respectfully,
G. E. LE SUEUR.

Duluth, Jan. 25.

The Herald was under the impression that it had explained the commission plan, but it has no objection to explaining it again until everybody understands it. The commission plan places all branches of the city government under five commissioners, each to be the head of a separate division and all to work together, combining executive and legislative duties. These commissioners are elected from the city at large, doing away with the ward system under which the disposition of public funds is a scramble in which the need of a community as a whole is lost sight of. It centers responsibility so that the public will know always just where to locate the trouble when anything goes wrong, where the present system permits a diffusion of responsibility that baffles the public. To guard against abuse of this centralization of responsibility, which necessarily includes centralization of power, the initiative, the referendum and the recall are included in the plan to give the people the closest possible check upon their government. In short, it reduces city government to the simplest possible terms, puts it on a business basis, and thoroughly safeguards against abuses by giving the people the opportunity to exercise close and direct control whenever it is needed.—The Editor.

WHERE IS CITY'S SMOKE ORDINANCE?

To the Editor of The Herald:

Why is Duluth's smoke ordinance not enforced? The first thing that gets the stranger's eye or nose, is a huge hunk of soot, followed perhaps by a cloud of filthy smoke from one of our large buildings, railroads or steamboats.

Four years ago in the city of St. Paul they had a German health commissioner, who feared nothing but God. He was a Democrat, appointed by a Republican mayor, and he was just bull-headed enough to enforce the smoke ordinance irrespective of party or privilege. He served the public for three terms in spite of the tremendous opposition brought to bear by large building owners, railroad companies and vessel owners.

I venture to say that our ordinance could be enforced if we had this same man in power.

Please create a little enthusiasm along this line, and if the present man higher up has any personal reason for not abating this nuisance, get the enforcement of the smoke ordinance incorporated in one of the party platforms, and that party will elect our next mayor. We have some inalienable rights. One of them is fresh air. If same is allowed to be polluted, then the city is not doing its duty by its citizens. Yours truly.

FRESH AIR.

THAT CAT SHOW.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I noticed in last night's Herald that Duluth might have a cat show. Let us hope not. It is a deplorable thing that anybody with good common sense would advocate such a silly thing as a cat show. In New York or Chicago, where there are many simple-minded, brainless people, made so by abundance of wealth and luxuriates, this thing might be looked for. The money that would be necessary to finance this affair could be used to a much better purpose of relieving the suffering of the poor and needy.

"SNOW ON SIDEWALKS."

To the Editor of The Herald:

"Snow on Sidewalks" is a fertile subject for discussion these days. "The Man Up a Tree" proposes to "Merchant" and "Taxpayer of Fifth Ward," and all other public spirited citizens, that they notify their prospective and present aldermen (and election time is a good time to make known your wants), that they make provision for and include the clearing of sidewalks of snow in their street cleaning appropriation. "What is everybody's business is nobody's business" to be sure, and certainly applies to this subject. It is the city's business to attend to public affairs, is it not? And most of us are under the impression that the sidewalk is a public highway, at least it is so used.

THE PASTOR'S DILEMMA.

To the Editor of The Herald:

In regard to the letter of Jan. 12 from "A Pastor," asking "What Should I Have Done?" and especially the letters following with quick judgment upon him because he did not do more to start the young woman to a better, happier life, I would like to say a few words.

I do not write to defend him—nor to criticize him. I believe he surely had some reason for allowing such a golden opportunity to slip by. But why? What reason? A place to take her?

I have lived in several range towns and this I know. A young unmarried minister coming in on the late or evening train would find it very hard to find a place to take her even for a night. A home where she would feel she was really welcome and where some one earnestly wished to help her.

True, he could take her to a hotel, such as there are. No doubt in the morning he would not find her there.

Oh, you church members and righteously safe, who have never known the weight of being down with sin. Few of you are capable of taking a fallen woman in—I mean into your heart, into your home life and friends. It is hard to do I know.

Had the "Pastor" a home where he was positive he could take her that night I am sure he would have done so. As he could not, he spoke cheering words and escorted her to the livery stable. I believe she thinks of him as a kind-hearted, not a cold-hearted Christian.

THE WOODLAND SEWER.

To the Editor of The Herald:

We who are to be benefitted by the Woodland sewer should pay our proportionate part of the estimated cost of construction, which is $45,000, and no part should be paid from the city's general fund, which would be the case if the present assessment is illegal. I understand that there are some legal objections to the present proceedings and if true, the proceedings should be investigated thoroughly prior to the letting of the contract for construction.

Two methods are provided for ordering the construction of sanitary main trunk sewers. First: On petition of property owners. Second: The Common Council has the power to order their construction, without the petition of the property owners. The charter defines a sanitary main trunk sewer to be the main outlet for the drainage of any sanitary sewer district terminating at the point of final discharge of sewage into Lake Superior, the whole length of which shall be designated and intended as the outlet for lateral sewers, and shall not include any other main outlet, branch, lateral sewer, or any extension of such main trunk sewer.

As the property owners have not petitioned, the legality of the council proceedings must determine the result, and these are questioned. First: A sanitary sewer district has not been established. Second: The sewer proceeding from the lake to St. Marie street is designed to serve two basins, the St. Marie street and the Columbia avenue. As the sewer divides and serves two basins at St. Marie street, it is not a main trunk sewer beyond St. Marie street. Hence the council had no authority to order the construction beyond St. Marie street and any assessment levied pursuant thereto is invalid, and the $45,000 will have to be paid from the general fund by the taxpayers if the Woodlanders resist this assessment. Why such haste to let the contract?

A WOODLANDER.

Duluth, Jan. 25.

CONDITIONS ON PACIFIC COAST.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Enclosed find clipping from the Bellingham Herald. The situation described is common to all Sound ports. Men have been induced to come West with the expectation that work and money are plentiful. The criminality of inducing people to come under such conditions, and the hope of deterring some of them is my reason for writing you.

MRS. M. J. HAWKESWORTH.

Bellingham, Wash., Jan. 17.

The clipping which sets forth the situation, is as follows:

"Portland has no reason to boast of the ethics of her course in ordering all of the unemployed to seek residence elsewhere. The fair city of roses has, by this process, been guilty of fostering crime, of making criminals. Her first big blunder was in unwarranted advertising. At the expense of thousands of dollars she proclaimed the advantages of industrial activity in the city and of free lands on the bleak alkali steppes of Central Oregon. Thousands of moneyless men came West to avail themselves of the golden opportunity and found that they had been goldbricked. When the cold spell came the city was accordingly full of men without employment and without food. An ineffectual attempt was made to furnish them employment on municipal works, but this did not solve the problem; and Portland passed her difficulties on to her neighbors by ordering the men out. It is not to be expected that these men should leave in a placid frame of mind, particularly as they had found Chinese employed in many of the mills and factories where they had sought work. Would it be surprising if many of them turned to careers of crime? If an epidemic of larceny an drobbery breaks loose in the Northwest, Portland must take the blame."

MORE ECHOES OF HARMONY.

Perhaps!

Chisholm Tribune-Herald: It is expected that Ed. Smith will call the state central committee together to prepare plans to submit the presidential as well as the state primary to the people. Eberhart referred the matter to the committee and it is expected that they will devise some plan to have the power of nominations extended to the people.

Sam's Position.

Virginia Enterprise: Accompanying the announcement of Sam Y. Gordon that he would become a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor is a declaration of the platform on which he goes before the people that is not only unique from a Republican standpoint because it stickles for the interests of the people but which presents to the special interests and to the present administration a bold and direct challenge.

Fight for Eberhart.

Holt Northern Light: Sam Gordon has declared himself to be a candidate for governor, and so has W. E. Lee of Long Prairie. It really begins to look as if the man of destiny is destined to have some fight on his hands this year, and possibly be defeated.

When Eberhart Gets Lost.

Thief River Falls Times: 'Tis a big relief to know that Mr. Gordon has decided to contest for the nomination, as Minnesota now stands an excellent chance of having a governor, who will be able through familiarity, to walk around St. Paul without having to be directed by the corner policeman as to how to arrive at where he wants to go.

Looks for Fur to Fly.

Warren Register: William E. Lee this week announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for governor. His platform of principles differs but little from that of S. Y. Gordon, who made his announcement on the same day as Mr. Lee. Whether or not there be other entries, we are now assured a lively gubernatorial campaign this year. Governor Eberhart has been catching it from all sides lately, being criticized for things he did and for things he failed to do, and with and without excuse or reason; but with no one contesting the nomination with him, the critics have seemed to accomplish little and to be merely wasting their ammunition. Now that Lee and Gordon have set out to oust Eberhart from the governor's chair, the fight against the governor will rapidly increase in size and bitterness and he will be compelled to change his policy of silence and reply to his accusers. We may look for the fur to begin to fly within a month or so.

Against Apologies.

Park Rapids Enterprise: Either Gordon or Lee would be a great improvement over the figurehead that now jumps when Billy Hamm pulls the string, and unless the brewery and other large interests control the next Republican convention the Republican party may go before the voters of the state with a candidate for whom it will have no apologies to make.

Very Much Alive.

St. Peter Herald: Lieutenant Governor Sam Y. Gordon has announced his candidacy for the Republican gubernatorial nomination. His platform contains a lot of good Democratic doctrine, and is one that will appeal to the plain people. Sam is not as near dead politicaly as the corporation dailies would have it appear.

Warm Times.

Cass Lake Times: From the moment Sam Gordon announced his candidacy for governor the thermometer began to rise. Significant, eh?

That Was Why.

Washington Herald: "Why are you so sore on that eminent millionaire? He has done some good things."

"I was one of them."

There Are Others.

New York Mail: In our adolescent inexperience we cherished the notion that hotel clerks and book store attaches were the most conspicuous of the unintelligents. Yesterday, however, a telegraph operator objected to our using "juxtapose" in a night letter. "We don't allow code words," said he. And for the life of us we couldn't think of a snappy comeback.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Mayor Davis yesterday sent the name of A. B. Chapin to Judge Ensign for approval as a member of the park commission. Judge Ensign has given his approval and Mr. Chapin will take his seat Feb. 1. He will hold office for four years.

R. G. Coburn, one of the oldest settlers in this region, died at his home in Old Superior at 1 o'clock yesterday. He was born at Seneca Falls, N. Y., in 1825 and in early years was a sailor. He arrived at Superior on Oct. 8, 1856 and became a merchant and contractor. He leaves a wife and four children, Capt. Roselle P., R. Percy, Fannie and Mrs. John Bertrand.

Fred W. Ford arrived in the city this morning bringing with him the body of Joe Stone of Duluth, who was killed at the Ford camp on the Cloquet river by a falling tree yesterday. Stone has a father and mother living here.

J. W. Hartwell is in Duulth, the guest of his sister, Mrs. Ella Barkey.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Marvin leave this afternoon for Birmingham, Ala.

William Summerville of West Duluth has returned from a visit with his parents at Menominee, Mich.

N. F. Hugo and J. H. Logie are both proudly exhibiting some "wind sifters" which are still new, and considering the unusual ornaments there is a story. Both, it is said, have agreed not to shave until Charles A. Laig is elected mayor.

A regular post of the salvation Army is to be established in Duluth. Staff Capt. Peebles, in whose district Duluth is, will have charge for the present and is here now making arrangements. He will be assisted by Staff Capt. Howell and wife of Chicago. The regular barracks will be in the building on East Superior street formerly occupied by the dime museum.

The difficulty between Richardson, Day & Co., and the Duluth Street Railway company has been amicably adjusted and the cars are running to Woodland today. A proposition which Mr. Richardson made some time ago for the sale of his interest in the land in dispute was accepted and now the company has the necessary right-of-way, without proceedings in condemnation being necessary.

The following have been drawn as grand jurors for the February term of district court: Daniel Cox, Phineas Browell, I. Freimuth, J. C. Helm, James Sullivan, Oscar E. Jones, Nathaniel Youngblood, F. W. Partridge, S. D. Hill, W. S. Woodbridge, C. P. Magmores, George N. Messick, W. J. Suffel, H. W. Birch, C. L. Rakowsky, Charles Schiller, A. P. Cook, A. R. Macfarlane, E. G. Chapman, O. E. Berthram, Oliver G. Traphagen, E. L. Bradley and David Mair.

THE REGULAR PARTY MAN.

J. W. Foley in Saturday Evening Post: I am the Upright Citizen—Taxpayer is my name; I'm one of the City's Solid Men and I'm everywhere the same; I've built the sewers and paved the streets and paid for the parks, you see, and all the contractors, bosses, beats and leeches feed on me—you see, I'm a regular party man—it's bred in my flesh and bone. I've voted for every Republican since the party has been known; I always vote my ticket straight, though at times it's a bitter pill; but I never split it, and I may state that I hope I never will. Now Smith, next door, is a Democrat, and another solid man, who always knows right where he's at—and he votes by the selfsame plan; and Smith is an upright citizen, and his name's Taxpayer, too; and as one of the city's solid men he's down on the grafting crew; and so am I—so we go to the polls and vote straight down the line; two square and quite well-meaning men—and his vote offsets mine.

Now, I've talked with Smith, and he's talked with me, and we've talked quite plainly, too; and I've said to him: "Now Smith, you see, I'm down on this grafting crew; our man is the man to win the fight—he's a clean and able man." And Smith says: "Yes, I guess that's right; but he's a Republican. And I always vote my ticket straight from A to Z—that's how I've always done and it's getting late to change my methods now. Our man isn't what he ought to be—I quite agree in that; but he's the party nominee, and you know I'm a Democrat. So I guess I'll stick to the good old ship and vote right down the line." And Smith makes one cross on his ballot—and so his vote kills mine!

Smith talks with me in the selfsame way, and he says: "This paving job is a downright steal, I'm free to say; and our man's pledged to play hob with the deal they've made, and we ought to stand behind him to a man." And I know our man has made a trade—but he's a Republican. So I say to Smith: "I'd like to vote for your candidate, that's flat; but somehow it sticks fast in my throat, for he is a Democrat. And you know that I belong to the G. O. P.—the party of Lincoln and Blaine—and it ought to be good enough for me; so I'll vote her straight again." And so we go to the polls and vote for the Gods of the Faith That Is—it's not good; but what's the odds?—and so my vote kills his!

Now Smith and I, we mean all right and we want things on the square; but when there's a regular Party Fight, a man must do his share. My faith comes down from Fremont's time and his from Jefferson; and to cling to an old-time faith's sublime—no odds how the paving's done! Sometimes I think his man's the best—sometimes he thinks mine is; but I vote straight, north, south, east, west, and he votes straight for his. We quite agree on little things, like the taxrolls and the streets, the city schools, police, white wings and the health of milk and meats; but when it comes to matters big, like a Regular Party Plank, why, Smith is stubborn as a pig and I'm somewhat of a crank. And we'd like to vote alike—and then we could down the grafting crew; but we're both Regular Party Men—so what are we going to do?

A Shame to Work the Cows.

New York Morning Telegraph: A chorus girl, playing in a Broadway production, went to a Connecticut farm to spend Sunday with her aunt and uncle. The next morning, when she came downstairs, she saw her uncle entering the house with a pailful of milk.

"Where have you been?" asked the chorus girl.

"Milking the cows," he replied.

"What—on Sunday?"

"To be sure," said her uncle. "I have to do the chores on Sunday as well as on any other day."

"Oh, I wasn't thinking of you," said the girl, whose visits to the country have been extremely few. "I was thinking of the poor cows. It's a shame to make them work on Sunday after they have given you milk all week."

Groundhog Day in Emporia.

Emporia Gazette: The committee in charge of the celebration of Groundhog day in Emporia is making every effort to insure the success of the meeting. Humboldt Park, where the exercises will be held, will be piped with steam coils, and cut flowers and tropical plants will furnish the decorations that are expected to coax the groundhog out. A cluster of tungsten burner lamps from the city lighting system are expected to shine over his hole, to make him think he is in the heart of spring. The committee was dissatisfied with R. M. Hamer's ode to the groundhog, and asked Carl Ricker to submit one. He wrote it this morning, and after trying it over a few times on the new $15 Victor Victrola, sent the ode to the committee appropriately tied in flexible pink icicles. It follows:

O groundhog, in thy hour of ease,
Uncertain, coy and full of fleas,
Fly hither on thy joyous wing,
Thou festive harbinger of spring.
The frost is in the bluebird's pipes,
And frozen are the lambkin's tripes.
So bring us back our singing birds,
And, oh, thaw out our bleating herds.
The bosky dells are frozen stiff,
So give the weather man a biff.
Oh, gentle spring's sweet in a sack,
So come and break old winter's back.
For you are all the hope there is,
And say, we need you in our biz.
Get busy, spirit births and say,
Upon this gladsome Groundhog's Day.

"A Gun Behind the Door."

The following letter from Governor Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey to Prof. R. H. Dabney of the University of Virginia is published in the Richmond Times-Dispatch:

My Dear Heath: We did not have a chance when I was with you to have our talk out about the initiative, referendum and recall. It may be worth while, therefore, in view of the importance of the subject, to summarize somewhat more formally what I said to you in scraps.

In the first place, with regard to my own state of mind, I surrendered to the facts, as every candid man must. My whole prepossession, my whole reasoning, was against these things. But when I came into contact with candid, honest, public-spirited men who could speak (with regard, for example, to Oregon) from personal observation and experience, they floored me flat with their narration of what had actually happened. I found in the men who had advocated these things, who had put them into operation and who had accomplished things by them, not critics or opponents of representative government, but men who were eager to restore it where it had been lost, and who had taken—successfully taken—these means to recover for the people what they had unquestionably lost—control of their own affairs.

In short, they were not trying to change our institutions. The initiative, referendum and recall were to their eyes (as they are to mine) merely a means to an end, that end being the restoration of the control of public opinion. Where opinion already controls, where there is now actual, genuine representative government, as I believe there is in Virginia and in the South in general, they are not necessary. Each state must judge for itself. I do not see how it could be made a subject of national policy. The people will, in my opinion, demand these measures only where they are manifestly necessary to take legislation and the control of administrative action away from special, hopelessly entrenched interests. They are no general or universal panaceas.

The recall of judges I am absolutely against, and always have been. It is a remedy for a symptom, not for a disease—the disease being the control of the system by influences which general opinion has ceased to control.

It interested me very much to find that even in Oregon literally no one thought of these new methods of action as a substitute for representative institutions, but only as a means of stimulation and control. They are as devoted to the idea of our representative institutions as we are, and are bent upon realizing these ideas in practice. That is their conscious object.

As for the recall, it is seldom used outside the municipalities. I do not remember an instance of its use on a state officer. It is merely a "gun behind the door."

What They All Say.

Pittsburg Post: A Pittsburg man was over in an Ohio county recently where they had a state senator on the carpet under charges of doing a little coarse grafting. The senator was to make a speech and explain.

"Well, did you hear the speech?" inquired the hotel clerk, who couldn't go.

"I did that. I was much interested," replied the Pittsburg man.

"And what did the senator say about those charges of grafting?"

"He didn't touch on that subject. But he assured us that the constitution must and shall be preserved."

Cases in Point.

Law Notes: A construction case—Crane vs. Derrick, 157 Cal. 667.

Splitting the woodpile — Pyle vs. Woods, 18 Idaho 674.

Substance and shadow: Dollar vs. Wind, 135 Ga. 760.

Two kinds of nuts: Nutt vs. Knut, 200 U. S. 13.

Non Constat: In State vs. Winner, 153 N. Car. 602, the defendant came out a loser.

Cheese wrong: In U. S. vs. Baumert, 179 Fed. Rep. 735, the defendant was charged with misbranding cheese. One of the informing witnesses was James W. Cheesewright.

You Can Name Them.

Collier's: One of the many aphorisms with which Senator Jonathan Bourne of Oregon expresses the doctrine of progressive government is this:

"If a politician won't trust the people, the people won't trust him."

A politician who won't trust the people is a presidential candidate who wants to get his nomination through the bosses and isn't willing to submit his candidacy to the people through direct primaries.

NEW SYSTEM IS WANTED

Changes in Plan of Road Building Urged at Boosters' Meeting.

More Money for Engineering and Competent Inspectors, Is Asked.

Resolutions which provide for greater attention to the engineering feature of building roads were adopted at the good roads meeting held at the Commercial club last evening by the taxpayers of St. Louis county.

The meeting was well attended. While no attempt was made to criticize the county commissioners and their work, the sense of the meeting seemed to be that the present system should be improved.

A set of resolutions was adopted and a committee was appointed to present them to the county commissioners at their next regular meeting.

The resolutions provide for more money for engineering, ask that all tools and implements used in road building be purchased on bids, that to each payroll be attached a statement telling of the class of work, the location and the progress so that the engineers will be able to record their findings on plats and charts at all times. The resolutions also ask that the engineering force be increased and higher salaries be offered so that better and more competent men may be secured.

It is also asked that section men be employed on highways, that each portion of the road may be always kept in first-class repair.

As a whole the resolutions are but a new form of the recommendations made by the November grand jury. This grand jury investigated road conditions in the county and made several suggestions to the court in its report.

W. E. Culkin acted as chairman of the meeting last night. The committee selected to present the resolutions to the county commissioners consists of: F. E. Randall, Duluth; J. Gleason, Eveleth; O. B. Warren, Hibbing; W. B. Silvey, Duluth, and E. J. Fillatrault, Duluth. F. E. Randall acted as secretary of the meeting.

A. P. Silliman of Hibbing addressed the meeting. He stated that there are 2,400 miles of road in St. Louis county and that the cost of the roads was not exorbitant either for construction or maintenance. He stated that they would have been satisfactory even if the cost had been greater.

System at Fault.

There was considerable discussion but no criticism of the county commissioners. It was the general opinion that the county commissioners are doing the best they can under the present system.

Commissioner Joseph Cummings was present and he set the men right on several little points of difference. W. B. Silvey, P. E. Dowling, William T. Bailey, C. E. Adams, O. B. Warren and E. J. Fillatrault were heard in short talks during the evening.

The resolutions adopted follow:

Therefore be it resolved: First—Road Petitions: That when a petition for a road is presented to the board of county commissioners said petition be turned over to the county engineer or surveyor before any action is taken to definitely establish the proper route for the road not only with a view to topographical conditions, but also the most beneficial location as concerns the community in question. Such petitions to prevent delay should be immediately inspected by the engineer in question, and then be reported back to the commissioners with recommendations passed on conditions as found. Then if the project is approved by the commissioners after receiving this report the matter should again be submitted to the engineer for survey, and estimate. Records of all such surveys and estimates to be kept on file by such enginering department, together with the action of the commissioners thereon. Following this survey and estimate when the contract is let that the road work be placed under the direct supervision of the engineering department, and all data in connection therewith shall be kept on file in the office of such engineer.

"Second—That all road tools, materials, machinery and supplies which may be required by the commissioners be equipped with all available price ment consisting of a committee appointed for that purpose, and whenever practical that all such purchases be made under advertised bids. Further, that said purchasing department be equipped fith all available price catalog indexes showing lowest cost price obtainable on small or large quantities of all materials usually required in road work.

"Third—That to each payroll filed by road foreman or contractors shall be appended a brief showing the location and amount of each class of work done and that said brief be immediately surrendered to the engineering department in order that the said engineer may be enabled to chart conditions as to cost and nature of the work being done.

"Fourth—That the engineering force now available be increased, and that all contracts including all day labor work be placed under its direct authority and supervision, and that as far as possible all road work be done by contract instead of day labor. That in the employment of road foremen a sufficient wage be paid to secure first class men.

"Fifth—That in increasing the engineering forces sufficient increase be made to permit of the retaining of at least two engineering superintendents for each commissioner to superintend under the county engineer the nature of all road work done throughout the respective districts. Thus insuring close engineering application to all work done throughout the county.

"Sixth—That the commissioners employ section men to maintain all highways connecting the various business centers.

"Seventh—That the commissioners discontinue as far as possible the appointment of road overseers in the section in which they reside for the reason that too close a bond of friendship frequently exists between such overseer and their neighbors, thus preventing the securing of the maximum efficiency in the labor thus secured.

"Eighth—That in future whenever deemed feasible by the engineering department nothing but materials of a permanent nature, such as concrete or galvanized piping be used in all culvert work on account of the heavy saving in up-keep expense by reasaon of the said permanency.

"Ninth—That a beginning be made in the building of more permanent trunk roads between the existing centers of population in the county."

SWINGS TO ROOSEVELT

Officer in La Follette League in Ohio Will Resign.

Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 26.—Prof. W. H. McFarland, secretary of the Franklin County Progressive Republican league, which indorsed Senator La Follette, has announced he will tender his resignation and join a Roosevelt movement which is to be started by the organization of a club. Secretary McFarland recently wrote Col. Roosevelt telling him a large percentage of the membership of the progressive league was for him. The colonel replied:

"I am really touched by your letter, but of course you would not have me make any comment upon what you say. It was really good of you to write and I appreciate your doing so."

Start Roosevelt Boom.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 26.—The Roosevelt Republican club of Sangamon county was organized last night at a mass meeting of Republicans here. The colonel was unanimously indorsed for president and resolutions were adopted declaring the club's belief in the doctrines of the Republican party as against the "Socialistic" propaganda of the initiative, referendum and recall. The meeting was presided over by Abner G. Murray, an anti-Deneen Republican and former chairman of the county committee.

Efforts to launch rival presidential booms probably will cause trouble at the Progressive Republican conference to be held in this city Saturday. It is said that some Progressive Republicans of Illinois would like to see Roosevelt again president and to gain this would sacrifice Senator La Follette, Progressive candidate for the nomination. There will be some Roosevelt Progressives present at Saturday's conference, and it is said that friends of the former president will attempt to offer resolutions calling on him to enter the contest.

COLD WEATHER RECORDS ARE BROKEN THIS MONTH

Mean Temperature for Twenty-Five Days Is 10.5 Deg.

January, 1912, is the coldest month in the history of Duluth.

The records at the United States weather bureau show that the mean temperature for the period from Jan. 1 to Jan. 25, inclusive, is 10.5 deg. below zero.

The coldest month previously in the history of the weather bureau, forty-one years, was January, 1875, when a mean temperature of 2.7 deg. below zero was recorded.

The normal temperature for the month of January is 10.4 deg. above zero, based on the records of the weather bureau for forty years, so that this month's mean temperature is 20 deg. below the normal.

Another cold wave is coming, so there is little probability of the mean temperature for the month being materially changed by the records for the remaining six days.

The mercury will drop well below zero again tonight, according to Forecaster H. W. Richardson, and no wild weather is in sight for the remainder of January.

SHARP PRACTICE OF MINNEAPOLIS TRAFFIC MEN OF DOUBTFUL VALUE

Wait Until Duluth Completes Case and Then Ask Adjournment.

Postponement Is Granted With Reluctance By Commissioner Harlan.

"Where Railroad Presidents Meet" vs. "Where Rails and Water Meet."

Minneapolis, "where railroad presidents meet," can take little comfort out of yesterday's proceedings in the hearing of the lake and rail case before Interstate Commerce Commissioner James S. Harlan, while there is a bright gleam of hope in the developments for Duluth, "where rails and water meet."

Minneapolis scored a doubtful success in its game of holding back until Duluth had exposed its hand and then obtaining a postponement to gain time to frame up a defense, but the postponement was given reluctantly by the commissioner. He said that if it were any ordinary case, he would give Minneapolis an opportunity to go ahead, or he would close the record, but the commission desired to have all the light possible on a case of such importance and the postponement was granted for the commission's sake and not for the sake of Minneapolis.

The hearing will be resumed in Washington Feb. 16, which is two days after the grain rate case will be argued orally before the commission.

Judge Dille, counsel for the Minneapolis Traffic association and the St. Paul Association of Commerce, gave no intimation of his intention to ask for an adjournment, until the opening of yesterday afternoon's session, which was after Duluth's case was all in and he had possession of Duluth's exhibits. He then said he would ask for a postponement and he made his petition after the defense of the Eastern railroads and the boat lines had been presented.

He stated that he had been retained in the case only a few days previously and knew very little about it. Pierce Butler of St. Paul had been the principal attorney and Mr. Butler was in Chicago trying a case and had failed to communicate with him, he said. W. P. Trickett, the principal witness was in the East. Judge Dille said that he was in the grain rate cases and had not yet prepared his briefs, which had to be submitted by Feb. 1.

Judge Dille also claimed that the attitude of the railroads indicated that the burden of the defense would fall on Minneapolis and, anyway, Duluth was not fighting the railroads, but was fighting the Twin Cities. Judge Dille was supported in his plea for a postponement by D. F. Peebles of St. Paul, representing other Minnesota cities.

Vigorous Protest.

Mr. Sullivan entered a vigorous protest. "I know Mr. Butler very well and if he was retained in this case, I cannot conceive of him letting it go unprepared," he said. "It seems strange that with representatives of the Minneapolis Traffic association and the jobbing interests here and with the eminent counsel, including the former attorney general of the state, nobody seems to know anything about the the case. It appears that there is a little lack of frankness to the proposition, or an almost inexcusable lack of care.

"This case has been debated for two years. Our memorial was introduced more than a year ago. The Minneapolis Traffic association prepared and printed what it was pleased to call an answer to it. It is absolutely inexcusable that Judge Dille did not speak of this at the opening of the hearing. The Minneapolis people knew of this hearing six weeks ago and if they couldn't get ready, they should have said so. They have used this commission as a catspaw to pull out our testimony. They come in here with unclean hands and I don't think they are entitled to a hearing. I don't think it is fair.

"We have railroad officers here to testify. We have tried to get others. We have gone to trouble and expense. A continuance of this hearing means a continuance of unjust conditions. The conditions of which we complain are costing our people money every day. We want a speedy hearing, for the opening of navigation is approaching and the tariffs will soon be made up. We may have to go through another season of navigation under the existing conditions unless we go on now."

Mr. Harlan's Attitude.

"I am in sympathy with what Mr. Sullivan has said in regard to the inability of the Twin Cities to go on," said Commissioner Harlan. "Long notice of this hearing was given and the formal complaint was filed some months ago. The contest has been pending for a long time. If it were the ordinary case an opportunity would be given to Minneapolis to go on or close the record. The commission, however, realizes the importance of the case. The commission would not like the case to go to argument without hearing from the Twin Cities. Under all the circumstances and despite my own views, an opportunity will be given. On Saturday, Feb. 3, we will close the record. We can't afford, from my point of view, to defer it for any length of time. Nothwithstanding the engagements which Mr. Dille has, he must be prepared to close the case at that time."

Mr. Sullivan asked for a little longer time on account of the arguments on the grain rate case at Washington Feb. 14. Commissioner Harlan then fixed the date at Feb. 16.

The Eastern lines and the lake lines had their innings yesterday afternoon, combating the contention of Duluth that at this port should be at least on a parity with Chicago in the matter of lake and rail rates. Capt. Slattery of the Western Transit company, Capt. Boggan of the Anchor line and Capt. George B. Crawford were put on the stand by Attorney Ballard. They all gave as their opinion that more trips would be made to Chicago in a season than to Duluth. The hazards of navigation on Lake Superior were discussed and they stated that better time could be made in the ports of Chicago and Milwaukee than in Duluth.

C. C. McCain, chairman of the Trunk Line association, gave the history of lake-and-rail rates from the East. He said that the present spread of 6 cents, Duluth over Chicago, was fixed in 1897, when he was commissioner of the Association of Lake Lines. He said he considered the differential, Duluth over Chicago, as the minimum. He evaded an opinion on the 2-cent differential, Minneapolis over Duluth, on sixth class business, but stated, "The lake-and-rail rates from New York to Minneapolis are too low, as a through rate proposition."

Fred Signer, commissioner of the Association of Lake Lines; J. C. Evans, vice president and general manager of the Erie & Western Transportation company; E. J. Douglas, general manager of the Western Transit company, and W. E. Lloyd, superintendent of the Mutual line, also spoke.

Figures were given on the tonnage of the line boats during a season and the number of trips that could be made.

Flour Rates.

While Mr. Douglas was on the stand, the fight of the Minneapolis millers for a lower lake-and-rail rate on flour came up. Mr. Dougles said that he had read that the Minneapolis millers intended to divert flour shipments to the all-rail route in order to force a reduction of the lake-and-rail rate. He said he hadn't noticed any reduction in the flour tonnage on his line. They didn't go very far into their pockets to carry through their bluff, he said.

Mr. Douglas was asked if he thought an increase of the Minneapolis lake-and-rail rate to $1.03, the all-rail rate being $1.15, would cause a diversion of traffic to the all-rail route.

"They wouldn't divert traffic for a difference of 2 cents in the flour rate," he said. "You may draw your own conclusions."

The witnesses for the boat lines made much of the claim that overhead expenses of a boat line are heavy and that the estimate of earnings of a lake boat, made by Capt. Rose in the morning, did not provide any charge for that service.

At the request of Commissioner Harlan, G. Roy Hall yesterday submitted figures to support his assertion that the ordinary charge in Minnesota for a haul of 152 miles is 51 cents and that the rate of 35 cents to Minneapolis is already a special charge. The statement, made in the morning, had been questioned by the railroad attorneys.

Mr. Hall read from the Great Northern tariff, which became effective July 1, 1911, after the Sanborn decision.

The distribution distance rates, applicable from certain distributing centers, he said, are:

First class, 51; second, 43; third, 34; fourth, 26; fifth, 20; A, 20; B, 18; C, 15; D, 12; E, 10.

The general distance rates between stations are:

First class, 54; second, 46; third, 36; fourth, 27; fifth, 22; A, 22; B, 19; C, 16; D, 13; E, 11.

The rates from Duluth to Minnesota points generally are on the distribution distance basis, he said. The local rates from Duluth to the Twin Cities are:

First class, 35; second, 30; third, 23; fourth, 17; fifth, 10; A, 14; B, 12; C, 10; D, 9; E, 8.

The divisions accepted by Duluth-Twin City lines in through lake and rail shipments from the East are:

First, 18.2; second, 15.6; third, 11.5; fourth, 7.8; fifth, 6.3; sixth, 5.

The differentials, Twin Cities over Duluth, on through lake and rail shipments are:

First, 15; second, 13; third, 9; fourth, 5; fifth, 4; sixth, 2.

SOME OF THE OPINIONS.

"The through lake and rail rates, New York to Minneapolis, taken as a through rate proposition, are too low."—C. C. McCain, chairman, Trunk Line Traffic association.

"The Minneapolis millers made a bluff at diverting flour traffic, but in my opinion they didn't go very far into their pockets to send flour over a route with a rate 2 cents higher."—E. J. Douglas, general manager, Mutual Transit company.

"Minneapolis has used this commission as a catspaw to pull out our testimony."—Francis W. Sullivan, attorney for Duluth traffic commission.

"I am in sympathy with what Mr. Sullivan has said and if this were any ordinary case, I would give Minneapolis an opportunity to go ahead, or I would close the record."—Commissioner James S. Harlan, interstate commerce commission.

HARRISON'S CANDIDACY

forces as well. That is to say that the Lake Shore drive and "Bath House John" are equally friendly with Mayor Harrison.

He comes from one of the most distinguished families of the nation. A signer of the Declaration of Independence and two presidents of the United States were among his blood relations. Probably no family has had more to do with the government of this country than his.

But after all it is not family that counts in public affairs. If the nation needs an executive of experience Mayor Harrison can point to the fact that for many years he has been the chief officer of a city, the expenditures of which exceed those of many nations of continental Europe. Chicago alone expends more than Switzerland, Holland or Denmark. Its mayor has more power than the president or the king of any of these countries.

The appearance of Harrison as a presidential possibility complicates political matters greatly. He should be easily able to get the Illinois delegation. His strength should extend beyond the borders of that state into Indiana. As a second choice he ought to find support in Wisconsin, Iowa and Minnesota. As he has not appeared as one of the principal figures he has made no antagonisms, awakened no hostility. He has had no press bureau urging his cause and perhaps thereby has been strengthened. Still it might have been well had his record as the chief executive of the second city of the Union been more widely celebrated.

The Cummins Candidacy.

Senator Cummins's announcement that he will be a candidate for the presidency surprises no one who knows anything about the so-called Progressive wing of the Republican party. Just as soon as Roosevelt appeared as the probable leader, the Cummins announcement was made certain. Indeed if the Progressives had been wise they would have thrust Cummins forward at the time of their Chicago conference. The Iowa senator has as few enemies as any man in public life. He stands well with the voters and with the leaders of his own party. He is neither a noisy radical of the Roosevelt sort, nor a standpat statesman. It is no surprise to those who know Cummins to find him suddenly in the fight. I asked him when Roosevelt was abroad and Progressiveism was booming, what would be the attitude of the insurgents should the colonel come back and seek the leadership.

"We would welcome him into the ranks," said he, "as a soldier ready to march, shoulder to shoulder, with us. We want every possible recruit of that sort. But if he thinks he can come back after hunting lions in Africa and being a lion in Europe, and grab our banner and assume our leadership, he is mistaken. We have fought the fight of Progressive Republicanism in his absence. We have been ostracized at the White House and denounced by the organization managers of the party. While we fought he has been hunting or talking. When he returns it must be as a recruit and not as a captain."

One wonders just how Senator Cummins feels on this subject at this moment. Certainly it does not seem probable that his candidacy is, as some papers put it, a mere cloak for the Roosevelt boom.

Men say that if Roosevelt shall be nominated it will compel the nomination of Harmon. That is probably true. Col. Roisevelt is not so radical as he talks, but he is the idol of the Republican radicals. Governor Harmon is not as ultra-conservative as he is described, but he is nevertheless approved by the conservative element in both parties. Probably there could be no more illuminating contest than one between Harmon and Roosevelt. It would determine whether the American electorate stood for extreme radicalism or for moderate conservatism. I find that even the supporters of Governor Wilson and of Champ Clark admit today that Roosevelt's renomination will necessarily cause that of Harmon on the Democratic ticket.

NEW AKELEY HIGH IS HOME PRODUCT

Building Just Opened Constructed Cheaply of Local Material.

Akeley, Minn., Jan. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Akeley high school building, which has just received the finishing interior touches, was thrown open to the public in a general housewarming gathering, a large number being present. A program including addresses by R. F. Pray and Dr. A. Desmond, members of the board of education, and Charles Cohen; solos by Mrs. B. L. Mathieson, Miss Marian Kleinegger and two numbers by the high school glee club were rendered, after which the entire building was inspected.

Refreshments were prepared by the domestic science class and served by the girls of the junior class. The high school was constructed entirely of home material, by home labor under the supervision of Secretary Pray of the board of education. The building compares very favorably with buildings that have been erected at a cost of $40,000 to $50,000, while the total cost of this building was a trifle less than $26,000. Its dimensions are 48 by 112 feet, and it has: Basement—domestic training and manual training rooms, gymnasium, toilet rooms, ventilating system and furnace room; first floor—laboratories for physics and chemistry, commercial room, kindergarten, two grade rooms; second floor—high school assembly room, three recitation rooms, office, library and two grade rooms. The building is electric lighted throughout, has sanitary drinking fountains and paper towels in use. It has maple and birch finishing and two entrances.

HEIRS WILL BE SUED.

Civil Action Following Settlement of Peter Prinzl's Estate.

Fergus Falls, Minn., Jan. 26.—It is understood that the Austrian consul in Chicago, who represents the heirs of the late Peter Prinzl, has been conferring with attorneys in Chicago relative to bringing a civil suit against the relatives of Mrs. Prinzl and the other parties, who profited by the division of the property under the disputed will. Mr. Prinzl's Austrian heirs contested the will when it was presented for probate here, and later compromised, taking $6,000 in stetlement and giving the balance of the property to Mrs. Prinzl's relatives, the will having directed that all of it should go to them. The Austrian heirs now claim that the will was a forgery, and expect to sue all those who benefited by it. The Chicago attorneys have written to a Fergus Falls attorney inviting him to assist them in handling the case, which will probably be brought in the United States court either in this city or in Wisconsin.

CONVICTS TRANSFERRED.

A BAD COLD IS EASILY BROKEN

Surely Cures a Cold and Ends Grippe Misery in a Few Hours.

There is not one grain of quinine in Pape's Cold Compound, which, when taken every two hours, until three consecutive doses are taken, will surely end the grippe and break up the most severe cold, either in the head, chest, back, stomach or limbs.

It promptly relieves the most miserable headache, dullness, head and nose stuffed up, feverishness, sneezing, sore throat, running of the nose, catarrhal affections, soreness, stiffness and rheumatic twinges.

Pape's Cold Compound is the result of three years' research at a cost of more than fifty thousand dollars, and contains no quinine, which we have conclusively demonstrated is not effective in the treatment of colds or grippe.

Take this harmless Compound as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine made anywhere else in the world which will cure your cold or end Grippe misery as promptly and without any other assistance or bad after-effects as a 25-cent package of Pape's Cold Compound, which any druggist in the world can supply.

A Blessing to Rheumatic Sufferers

"Last winter was the first time in twenty years that I did not have an attack of rheumatism," said a man who was recommending Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for this painful disease.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People do the only thing that will permanently cure rheumatism. They build up the greatly thinned blood and purify and cleanse it of every trace of the rheumatic poison. They are invaluable both during an attack of the disease and during the intervals between attacks. If you have already passed through one or more sieges of the disease, it is advisable not to wait for an attack before using Dr. Willaims' Pink Pills but to start taking them now and prevent a return of the trouble. Don't be satisfied until you have thoroughly cleansed your blood, for until this is done you will never be free from rheumatism.

Rev. F. J. Harrell of No. 1716 North 7th street, Waco, Texas, says: "I suffered intensely from rheumatism. From eighteen to twenty-one I was an invalid, the larger part of the time confined to my room, a great part of that time unable to move myself. The cause of the rheumatism was probably exposure to cold and rainy weather. My arms many times were so stiff they could not be moved without extreme pain. My hips were affected also. A large part of the time that I was sick my feet would swell until I could not wear shoes or soft slippers of any kind. All the money that I could get would be spent for medicine, liniments of all kinds, everything that was recommended for rheumatism, but nothing seemed to help me. An old lady who had been cured of rheumatism heard of my case and came several miles to see me and recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I had not taken the pills very long before I was sure they were helping me. After taking the contents of fourteen boxes I was entirely cured and have not suffered from the effects of rheumatism since, which is now over twelve years. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People were a blessing to me and it is my hope that they shall be to any sufferer who shall turn to them for relief."

Start today to cure yourself with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. They are for sale by all druggists, or will be sent, postpaid, upon receipt of price 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y. ACTOR AT POOR FARM

Former Vaudeville Performer Forced to Ask Help From County.

The same unkind fate, which drove Walter Phoeniz, a vaudeville actor, from the stage seven years ago, robbed him of his wife and child and left him an almost hopeless paralytic, has decreed that he shall spend his remaining days at the St. Louis county poor farm.

Phoeniz was born in New York City, fifty-eight years ago. About fifteen years ago he went on the stage and among other things did a blackface turn. His wife and child toured the country with him on a vaudeville circuit. Seven years ago, while playing New York, he was suddenly stricken with paralysis and was forced to cancel his engagements.

While an actor, he was earning $250 a week.

His wife tried to make a livelihood for the family by keeping at the vaudiville work, but her health failed and she died. Their child also was taken away by death. Shortly after his last misfortune, he came to Duluth, where he has resided for more than six years.

Phoeniz tried to go back to a trade which he had attempted to learn before he went on the stage—that of tailoring, but the cramped positions of his hands reduced his earning capacity to between 25 and 50 cents a day. He has been finally forced to go to the poor farm.

CLIFFS SLIPPING INTO THE OCEAN

Large Portion of England's Coast Has Been Washed Away.

London, Jan. 26.—England, long known as the tight little isle, is rapidly becoming loose, if we are to believe the alarming reports that come from various parts of the coast. The recent dropping of a huge slice of the Dover Cliffs into the sea is but one of many similar incidents that would lead one to believe that the total disappearance of the whole island is but a question of years.

From Dover comes the report that at least 10,000 more square yards of ground show evidence of instability and it is expected that, with a little more of the extraordinary run of wet weather we are having, there is serious danger of their slipping into the water. At Pakefield in Suffolk, Kinsea in Yorkshire and Borth on Cardigan bay, something approaching a panic has taken possession of the people who live near the water's edge.

For five years a royal commission on coast erosion and afforestation sat in England and made exhaustive investigations into the former subject. About a year ago the commission made some valuable suggestions for preventing just such accidents as that which occurred near Dover recently. One of the members of the commission takes an optimistic view of the situation.

"Although the sea is encroaching on certain parts of the coast," he says, "we need have no fear that the sea, in its fight with man for the land, will win the battle. On the whole, the coast is growing outward and much more land is being added to the country than is being lost.

"Nevertheless, at certain parts of the coast the sea is making serious inroads. At Pakefield, near Lowestoft, for instance, the village is gradually being swallowed up by the waves. There can be no doubt that the encroachment of the sea at Pakefield is due to the protective methods for keeping back the sea at Lowestoft. If the sea is held off at a certain point it is apt to 'get in behind.' Somewhere along the coast it will get its own back. It cannot be set back.

"The only way to protect the coast effectively is to protect it everywhere. But in certain parts of the country the value of the land hardly justifies such an expense."

In the last thirty years more than 3,000 acres of England's coast have slipped away. The county of Yorkshire has been the chief sufferer, losing about 800 acres. Lancashire and Suffolk have lost almost 600 acres and Kent, Sussex and Lincolnshire have added materially to the total.

SUN SPOTS.

Not Responsible for Disturbances on Earth, Says Prof. Brooks.

New York, Jan. 26.—The universal belief that sun spots were responsible for various disturbances on the earth was declared to be unfounded by Prof. William R. Brooks, the well-known astronomer, in a lecture delivered before a large audience in the auditorium of the West Side Y. M. C. A.

"Many people now believe, and it was generally believed years ago that famines, cholera, epidemics, the rise and fall of stocks, hurricanes and extreme hot or cold spells were due to some disturbances on the sun, but conservative astronomers all now agree that there is no foundation for such belief," he declared. "Very often it has occurred that something remarkable has happened upon some part of the earth at the same time that a large spot was located upon the surface of the sun, but this is merely a coincidence. About the only effect a sun spot has upon the earth is that two or three nights later an aurora makes its appearance."

The professor, in referring to the heat of the sun's rays, declared that if the sun's rays which drop on Manhattan island each day were made capable of driving machinery, they would be able to move every steamship in the world.

LAWYER SEEKS DAUGHTER OF SOLDIER OF FORTUNE.

New York, Jan. 27.—The story of a fortune of several hundred thousand dollars left by an old military adventurer, which awaits the appearance of a missing daughter to claim it, is told by Burton W. Gibson, a lawyer, who prepared the following advertisement to be put in a newspaper:

"Daughter of Paul Dillon, also known as Paul Low, and in European circles as Paul d Allu: Before his death your father left securities, vault keys, maps full instructions with me. Communicate. European papers please copy."

"Mr. Dillon was of Russia-French birth," said Mr. Gibson. "He had minor titles of nobility, both of France and Russia. He was a soldier of fortune and adventurer in various parts of Europe, and accumulated much property, some of it in America.

"He married a European woman under the name of Dillon, I think. They had some differences and separated, the wife coming to America with their daughter. The daughter married a man named Lacey or Delacy, who died, leaving her a widow. Her mother died, and she returned to Europe, and is abroad now, I believe."

TWO BOYS AND THEIR CENTS.

New York Sun: As a rule a boy with a cent to spend will blow it in at a slot machine for candy or chewing gum, but here were two boys who with their cents did something quite different. They were together on an elevated train, each with a bundle for delivery, these bundles being not very big but both tremendously heavy.

When these boys had come to their station they found in front of them as they stepped off the car a weighing machine, and without another thought the first boy set his bundle on the scale platform and dropped his penny in the slot. He wanted to know just how heavy that bundle was, and the other boy followed him with his bundle on the scales.

Then they picked up these bundles and marched on with them, their faces reflecting with amazement, first at the imposition practiced upon them by giving them such heavy bundles to carry, and second at their own strength in being able to get away with them; evidently each boy had got far more for his cent spent in this way than he could have got out of it in any mere candy or um machine.

MORE GRIEF.

Chicago News: "I came over to see if I can borrow your baby for a few hours Mrs Wagstaff," said Mrs. Cumback. "My husband's sister, Mrs. Harbinger, has come to make a long visit, and she has brought the crossest child you ever saw. He is 6 months old and his name is Algernon, and he sounds like a steam whistle. Mrs. Harbinger says he's used to the company of other children, and would be perfectly safe and sane if there was another baby in the house, so I thought I would ask you for the loan of your little Beryl Gwendolen.

"I haven't had any sleep for two nights on account of that child's howling, and I'm in a frame of mind I tell you. I feel particularly annoyed because Mr. Cumback seems to enjoy all the racket, and he's always holding Algernon on his knee, and feeding him candy, and making a pet of him. A year ago my own sister came to make me a good long visit, and she had the sweetest child with her! That baby was a born optimist and just laughed and crowed all day, and yet my husband took a dislike to him and made things so unpleasant my sister had to leave.

"I remember one evening the baby had the colic or something, and I begged Mr. Cumback to go for the doctor, the telephone being out of order, and he came back home at midnight, and said he forgot all about the doctor, as he got interested in a game of cards down at the drug store. But when this little Algernon, his sister's child, had a spasm, night before last, my husband ran seven blocks in his barefeet to get the doctor. It just shows how mean husbands are.

"A dear old uncle of mine came to see me last spring, intending to spend the summer with me. He had always been good to me and I was glad to see him come, but Mr. Cumback didn't like him, saying he ran to whiskers too strongly. My husband has such a violent prejudice against long whiskers that he can't see any virtue in a man who wears them. So he went to work deliberately to make Uncle Adam's life a burden to him.

"There was a hammock slung up between two trees in the back yard, and my uncle used to lie down there for a nap in the afternoon, and one day the rope broke, and he came down on his head with an awful crash, and I don't think he ever will recover from the effects of that fall. I looked at the rope afterward and saw that it had been cut half way through, and I feel sure that Mr. Cumback was responsible.

"Then I went into the garret and brought down an old fashioned reclining chair and put it under the old tree and told Uncle Adam to use that, and the second time he used it something gave way and the poor old man turned a back somersault and struck his head against a tree, so that the bark came off both his head and the tree—and I don't think it very nice of you, Mrs. Wagstaff, to laugh at the misfortune of that poor old man. I had seen my husband working around that chair and was morally certain that he had caused the accident, but when I accused him he looked at me so reproachfully that I was ashamed of myself.

"One morning my uncle decided to drive into the country to see an old friend and I went to Mrs. Camperdown and borrowed a gentle horse and top buggy. The rig was standing by our house while Uncle Adam was getting ready and my husband must have taken the burrs off the front axle then When my uncle started off we stood on the front porch watching him and suddenly one of the front wheels came off, and then the other, and the horse began kicking until the air was full of wood and iron, and when the dust had cleared away there was poor Uncle Adam sitting in the middle of the road, with the wreck of the buggy around his neck. He left for home on the next train and was thankful to get away alive.

"That's the way my husband treats my relatives, but he has nothing but affection for the squalling baby his sister has brought to our house, and I wish I knew how to play some tricks on her to drive her away, as he drove my uncle."

THEIR WINTER GARDEN.

"If we were to do it over again," writes a correspondent of Country Life in America, "we could do it better, but even as it is our winter garden is a joy and a delight. When we built we did not think of all the things we wanted, and a good many of the things we did think of we could not afford, but if we could have afforded it and if we had thought of it we would have planned our winter garden better and, above all, larger.

"However, this is just what we did. The floor of a useless porch was torn up and good top soil put in to the depth of about two feet. The porch was enclosed with glass sash, and heavy canvas shades on spring rollers covered the inside, to be pulled down at night for protection from the cold. These canvas shades are a great conservator of heat and are strongly recommended.

"The French doors opened into the dining room originally, so no change had to be made in that respect, and the work was done by a local carpenter.

"This is really a winter garden, not a greenhouse or a conservatory. There is no artificial heat except on very bitter snaps, when we place an oil stove or two to take the edge off the cold; the temperature runs from 50 to 65 all winter.

"Mainly the winter garden is full of evergreens. We plant daffodils and crocuses and get blooms in mid-March. We winter our bay trees and oleanders here and some of our more tender plants. If we were to do it over again we should either put in a hot water heater or in some way connect it with the heating system of the house, so that we could really have flowers all winter.

"One delightful feature is a fountain which tinkles along night and day, summer and winter, and is a pleasant sound to hear through the open door of the dining room. In summer the sash comes down and the winter garden then becomes a charming little summer garden.

"We are glad to be able to say we don't know what our winter garden cost. In all our home making we felt that if we kept account of what cash passed away from us we might count it all up and wish we had it back; it takes a great genius to eat his pie and have it, too. We have often heard it stated that it takes a good business to make a country place pay; experience has demonstrated the truth of this statement, but we wouldn't care for a good business if we didn't have a country place to spend the money on."

AN EIGHTY-MILE PRECIPICE.

Youth's Companion: Capt. C. G. Rawling, a member of the British expedition that recently explored Dutch New Guinea, describes what may be the greatest unbroken precipice in the world. It runs, he says, for a distance of eighty miles from Mount Carstenz westward to the Charles Louis Mountains. Its greatest sheer height is at Mount Leonard Darwin.

The explorers were never in a position to measure with the theodolite a sheer height of this immense precipice exceeding 6,500 feet, but from many views obtained of it while he was climbing, Capt. Rawling has no hesitation in stating that the greatest perpendicular height is not less than 10,500 feet or almost exactly two miles.

RELIEF FROM HIGH PRICES

Is Sought in Vain Despite the Many Remedies Offered.

Problem of Living to Be an Issue of Next Campaign.

New York, Jan. 26.—One of the questions which is troubling the minds of the great majority of the people in this city is the constantly advancing price of supplies for their households and the lack of results from the various measures that have been proposed as sure to bring relief.

The prices of meats, poultry, butter, eggs, potatoes and other important articles of food have been advancing since Jan. 1, and, despite investigations of congress, the legislature and other bodies, and notwithstanding prosecutions of trusts by national, state and city authorities more and more money is being exacted from the people for the articles which can be classed as necessities of life.

The last two weeks have caused extreme pressure upon the scant purses of hundreds of thousands of our people here, and upon every hand the complaints are numerous, vigorous and often pathetic in the extreme.

Combination of Woes.

The cold weather added to the costs of living through the requirements for fuel in every household, and while the money supply of the poor was thus consumed to a greater degree than usually the advancing costs of food made it seem a combination of adversities that has produced widespread discontent.

A word here to the politicians of the country to the effect that in the cities and towns of the republic next campaign this question of the costs of living is certain to be a factor of powerful influence at the ballot box.

The minds of millions of the people of the country are forcibly appealed to each day through their efforts to meet the costs of living and fine theories of speculative statemanship, eloquently spun out, will not have any effect compared with a logical argument that will show them how to reduce the amount of the bills of the butcher, the grocer, the clothier or the coal dealer.

At Albany last week, in an address to the state agricultural society, which met in the hall of the state assembly, Mayor Gaynor gave his views upon the subject.

The mayor said he did not deny that illegal combination in many instances might have been responsible for the wicked and inhuman practice of running up prices, but it could not all be blamed upon the trusts.

Sign of Prosperity.

He declared that high prices were a sure sign of prosperity, and that low prices were a sign of hard times.

Speaking as he was to an assemblage of agricultural producers the mayor made this point:

"You complain of high prices, too. Not the high prices you are getting, but the high prices you are paying.

"The delegations that come to see me in the city hall complain of the high prices they are being asked for your products."

The mayor spoke of the outcry against the middlemen and said the farmers denounced them, and so did the consumers, but the farmers could eliminate the middlemen by establishing their own agencies of distribution and thus securing direct trade with the consumers.

High prices, he said, do not mean bad times, but prosperous times; low and falling prices mean bad times. Prices now are high and rising and the world is fairly prosperous.

"When prices begin to fall with a sag and a jar some of you, young men, will be here, and then will come a crucifixion and the agony of everybody."

The mayor attributed the rising values of all commodities to the increasing output of gold, and said it would be with a decreasing output of that metal that the agony would begin.

The mayor's logic was to the effect that all values should be adjusted to the volume of the money in circulation.

Samuel Lewis Shank, mayor of Indianapolis, was the next speaker, and he placed the cause of the high prices directly upon the middlemen, and gave numerous examples of small prices to the farmers and high prices to the consumers, showing enormous profits to the middlemen of the several transactions.

Cutting Down Profits.

It would seem that actively directed, well-organized consumers leagues acting in co-operation with farmers' agencies or buying direct from farmers, would certainly cut out extortionate middlemen and thus lessen prices to the extent of the middlemen's profits.

That Mayor Shank is striking at one factor of high prices is apparent to all, and if the laws of supply and demand were accorded fair play and free operation the adjustment of wage scales to ruling prices would follow in due course of time.

This question is a live one with the people of all classes save the wealthy, and must be solved rightly before it can be set aside.

It is announced now that the directors of the White Star Line are preparing to arrange for a line of steamship service from this port to San Francisco, via the Panama canal.

Thus another of the great European steamship lines give evidence of their estimate of the profit that will be in such an enterprise and show their readiness to back their faith with their capital and energies.

Citizens of the United States surely ought to be able to sustain steamship lines under their own flag to ply between the two great ports of the east and west coasts of our own country. While we welcome the flag of every nation in our harbors and to ocean trade, we should permit nothing to stand commercial marine service of our own sufficiently great to do honor to the Stars and Stripes.

Stocks of silver bullion show a heavy reduction as compared with the amounts on hand one year ago. Shanghai, Bombay and London are the great reservoirs of silver bullion, and it is stated that the total available stock of the world on the first of January was abou 10 per cent less than on Jan. 1, 1911.

Silver has been advancing in price pe rounce for several months and now is held here at 58⅝ cents per ounce, with a feeling among silver dealers that it is going still higher.

With the establishment of a republic in China, it is thought there will come a marked activity in trade, and that business with the provinces of the far interior will be speedily developed in a way that will cause a tremendous absorption of silver bullion through the payments to the natives for the commodities that will come to the markets of the coasts.

Advices from Great Britain are that money is working very easy again through receipts of gold from Africa and a slackness of home investments.

Great Britain is financing her customers abroad and for years her surplus gold has gone to Canada, South Africa, Egypt, Argentina, Brazil, Mexico and other countries in commercial enterprises and investments coincident with the growth and development of the countries listed above.

Hundreds of millions of pounds sterling have been placed in those countries by English investors during the last ten years, and owing to political conditions and financial burdens placed upon capital and investors in Great Britain itself, the tide of investment will continue to flow out of the kingdom.

Imperial Germany, and the various states of that empire, Italy and its provinces, Turkey and Spain will all need money during the present year, and France, England, Holland and Belgium, as well as the United States, will have an opportunity to get the securities they will offer.

Money promises to be very easy in New York for the next twelve months, and before two weeks pass by its effect will be seen in various schemes of promotion and in issues of new securities.

WOULD NOT MEET RYAN

the limelight the New York World, in a dispatch from Washington, revealed the fact that Col. Harvey had been spending a week-end down on the old Virginia farm of Thomas F. Ryan, and that that fact had brought about the meeting in New York.

Story of the Conference.

While Col. Watterson will not confirm or deny, here is what is known to have happened at the conference in the Manhattan club: Col. Watterson and Col. Harvey were present when Governor Wilson entered. In the early course of the conversation, it was suggested by Mr. Watterson, not by Mr. Harvey (but entirely with Mr. Harvey's knowledge, consent and, in fact, at his instigation)—well, anyhow it was suggested by Col. Watterson that the Princeton alumni, while undoubtedly a fine lot of men, could not be expected to finance a campaign for the presidency. That being admitted, Mr. Watterson (still with the knowledge and well-wishes of Col. Harvey) suggested a meeting with Thomas F. Ryan.

At this point Governor Wilson buttoned his coat, preparatory to a frigid departure. It was at this point, also that Col. Harvey, noting the symptoms of denial, rose to his feet and asked:

"And, governor, do you also think that our (Harper's Weekly) support is hurting you?"

The governor said he thought just that.

Col. Watterson in his account of the affair omitted the Ryan incident.

In conversation with friends of the South—editors and statesmen, however, Col. Watterson has been most frank. Three incidents came before the climax:

Harvey's Visit to Ryan.

First—Col. Harvey went to Ryan's farm, in Nelson county, Virginia, and there talked over the candidacy of Governor Wilson. Ryan expressed a desire to take part in the coming Democratic campaign, and a preference for Wilson because of the fact that he is a native of the Old Dominion. Col. Harvey talked eloquently of Governor Wilson. Mr. Ryan, becoming enthusiastic, declared that he would announce himself for Wilson, pull off his coat roll up his sleeves, open his purse and work for him. The enthusiasm of Mr. Ryan, coupled with the statement that he would announce himself for Mr. Wilson, frightened Col. Harvey, who threw up his hands and exclaimed:

"Don't you do it. If you were to announce for Wilson you would kill him politically." Mr. Ryan agreed to curb his feelings and remain quiet.

Second—Five days before the memorable meeting in New York, Col. Harvey visited Washington and talked to a number of congressmen of Wilson's prospects. To several representatives of the house he said he had been in Virginia and had a visit with Thomas F. Ryan, who, he said, was for Woodrow Wilson for the presidency. These congressmen marvelled at the Harvey story about Ryan. They wondered if Mr. Wilson's booster had lost his mind.

Third—This was followed by the meeting in New York where the break came. Messrs. Watterson and Harvey invited Mr. Wilson over to the office of Thomas F. Ryan, who, it was explained, was desirous of financing the Wilson campaign. This suggestion Mr. Wilson resented. He said that he would not go to see Ryan or have anything to do with him. He told Messrs. Watterson and Harvey that the support of Ryan would hurt him. Whereupon Mr. Harvey asked if he (Mr. Wilson) thought the support of Harper's Weekly was hurting him and Mr. Wilson answered in the affirmative.

HUNT HERD-KILLING LIONS.

Cold Weather Driving Beasts of Prey to Settlements.

Loveland, Colo., Jan. 26.—On account of the severely cold weather in the higher mountains many mountain lions have come down into the foothills west of this city and have raised havoc among the cattle herds, many head having been killed.

As a result several ranchmen have organized a party to go on a mountain lion hunt. About fifty men from this vicinity will take part. An appeal was forwarded to the forestry service to get official help and a petition has been sent to the county commissioners to have them place a bounty on each lion's head.

PRETTY BLUE PIGEON AND COLLIE ARE CHUMMY.

Oxford, O., Jan. 26.—Isaiah's prophecy of old, that "the leopard shall lie down with the kid," is recalled here by the strange case of a big black and white collie dog and a pretty blue pigeon, which are as chummy as a pair of turtle doves.

They belonr to Rav Broster of this city and have been inseparable companions for three years. They were pup and squab together. Mr. Broster moved here from Woods Station a few months ago and brought both the pets. "Collie" didn't like the move and returned to the country, about three miles southwest of here. The pigeon went, too, and they were found together a few days later.

They may be seen any day at Mr. Broster's home in this village, never but a few feet apart.

They sleep together, eat together and are always together. Wherever "Collie" goes the pigeon follows, flying a few feet above the ground.

Delaney's Death Marks Passing of a Great Character of the Sporting World---Baseball Is Picking Up---Fred Clarke Has Signed.

(BY BRUCE.)

DEATH, the grim taker of toll, that cometh at night, that stalketh in the early morning, that walketh boldly in the broad light of day; death, that descends like the withering shadows of bleak night, taking the children of this earth like a grim goblin, or like a protecting mother, we know not which—death, grim, inevitable and foreboding, has claimed old Bill Delaney. A game old battler, a kindly man in his way, has gone to the silent majority, and in the world of sports there is regret and genuine sorrow.

Since that memorable night at New Orleans when Jim Corbett, then but a youth in the flower of his prime, astonished a waiting world by defeating the great John L. Sullivan, the name of old Billy Delaney has been a byword in the world of sports.

It was Delaney who discovered Jim Corbett. Some critics of history state that it was not Chris Columbus who first strained his orbs for the majestic sight of the land of the free and easy; some sooth sayers in the world of sports are also wont to dispute the right of old Delaney's discovery of the man who whipped Sullivan.

But if all of the historians do not give C. Columbus credit for being the original member of the anti-Indian society, the song books glorify him and the grade school children believe in him, and also comic operas are written about him. Some critics may quibble over the matter of the discovery of Corbett, but Delaney was the man in the ship the night the world discovered young Jim Corbett.

Few men have discovered one world's champion. To Billy Delaney fell the honor, as it is rated in the world of sports of bringing two heavyweight champions into the world of pugilistic activity. Corbett he discovered boxing as an amateur in the old Olympic club of San Francisco. His keen eye discerned pugilistic possibilities in James J. Jeffries when others regarded him as merely a lumbering youth so awkward that he often ran into himself.

It was the trainer's art of the veteran Delaney that brought Corbett to the perfect condition of that New Orleans history-making evening. He brought Corbett to the Mitchell contest in superb shape—Corbett went against the sage advice of Delaney in preparing for the Fitzsimmons contest and a new champion of the world was crowned out on the wind-swept, chilly March plains of Nevada, a cold and bleak St. Patrick's day, fifteen years ago.

It was Delaney who observed with shrewd old eyes the fall of a great champion and it was Delaney who planned with adroit skill for the bringing forth into the land of pugilism a young Lochinvar from out of the West. It was the skill, the patience, the kindly advice and the perseverance of the man who died yesterday that brought Jeffries triumphantly through the trials that beset his early experience in the ring.

Almost two years ago a dirty and contemptible pugilistic plot was conspired. Rumor, swift, persistent and of a hundred tongues, has often repeated the infamy of the plot that was to permit Jeffries, a mere shell of his former greatness, to win the fight with the black. An old man, sick in body, old in years, but undaunted in spirit, prevented the greatest swindle in the history of fighting—that man was Billy Delaney.

The presence of Delaney struck terror to the hearts of the plotters. Jeffries knew he was beaten. Jeffries had cast his old mentor aside in the days of his greatness and in the hour of his greatest need Delaney came to hasten the pugilistic end of the man he had moulded with infinite skill and the patience of Job.

Perhaps the greatest trainer in the world, Billy Delaney was a man loved by those who knew him. He was a relic of the days of old, of the great fighting days of America, and it is a peculiar fact that with the very shadow hovering over him that it was the brain of Delaney that decided the issue in the last world's championship fight, as the hand and brain had been largely the determining factor in countless other ring battles where the title was the highest in the world of fistiana.

WORD was received here yesterday from the manager of Karl Lehto. The former Duluth wrestler leaves Saturday for Vancouver, where he is going to wrestle some grappler out on the Pacific coast. According to the statement of the pilot of Karl, the Finnish champion is meeting with success upon his trip and expects to wrestle a number of matches in the West.

WITH Winnipeg apparently willing to come into a league that may be framed up with the two cities at the Head of the Lakes, and with Grand Forks displaying more interest in baseball than the North Dakota town has ever shown, the nucleus of a league seems to be provided.

According to Dame Rumor there promises to be something doing in the near future—even admitting for the time being that the "near future" often covers a multitude of indefinite sins of time and omission. There will have to be something doing, something stirring in a baseball way very soon if we are to hope for league baseball the coming season.

Darby O'Brien is authority for the statement that he is going to have a fine team the coming season. Dr. J. A. McCuen, if we have any kind of a league, will give this town a good team. The greatest question confronting us at the present time is the one of the league. While hope lingers let us do a jig of expectancy.

THEY have a scheme in the Pacific coast league of numbering the players. It is said that it will be tried out the coming season. If we are not mistaken the fans in the right field bleacher at Athletic park used to be adept at getting the numbers of both local and visiting players. We are living in an era of education and free speech—there is really no use for the printed number on the arm of the slave of baseball.

IT was Patti, who set the example of procrastination—or was it the pitcher who played the lead with the maiden in support in the famous wail drama "One Trip Too Often?" Since then Alexander Dowie, John L. Sullivan, Dr. Cook, Frank Gotch, Sarah Bernhardt, Ballinger and Abe Attell have been caught rehearsing the drama. Fred Clarke of the Pittsburg Pirates has been threatening to retire for the past five years. Yesterday he signed a contract to manage the runners up for another campaign, Patti's patience has been widely imitated.

Abe Attell has been suspended by the New York commission of boxing for six months as a result of his faking in the fight with Knockout Brown. This prompt action will save the fighting game. Attell will think seriously of his offense before the six months are up. If such action was taken with wrestlers who refuse to consider the paying public it would be a wise and healthy move.

MOJE IS CONFIDENT.

Jess Pedersen's Manager Says Scandinavian Will Defeat Mahmout.

Writing to The Herald sporting editor, John Moje, manager of big Jess Pedersen, the giant Scandinavian who is to battle with Henry Ordemann here Washington's birthday, says that it looks now as if the big man is going to clash with Gotch the present season.

According to Moje, Gotch is not through, but is keeping in fine condition. Moje says the Humboldt wonder plans on meeting the best man in sight, and the manager of Pedersen modestly claims that his man is the best of them all—Gotch excepted. In his epistle Moje says Pedersen will beat Mahmout just as he beat the huge Turk, Coorderell, and that with the Bulgarian out of the way, all obstacles to a match with Gotch will be removed.

As Ordemann stands above all the rest of the American grapplers, it might be mentioned that he is one the obstacles on the Pedersen path of progress.

Afraid of Meningitis.

Philadelphia, Jan. 26.—Because of the prevalence of meningitis in Texas and the possibility of the Philadelphia Athletics having to avoid that state in their spring practice, Horace Fogel, president of the Philadelphia Nationals, has offered the world's champions the use of the grounds leased by the Phillies at Hot Springs, Ark. Connie Mack, manager of the Athletics is investigating conditions in Texas and if he decides not to go there he will consider President Fogel's offer. The Athletics are scheduled to leave here the latter part of February for San Antonio.

ST. PAUL PREPARING FOR BOWLING MEET

St. Paul, Jan. 26.—All arrangements have been completed in St. Paul for the fourth tournament of the International Bowling association. Entries or requests for specified dates have been already received from Chicago, Winnipeg, Superior, Sioux City, Milwaukee, Duluth and Winona. Many St. Paul and Minneapolis teams have also entered. Last year only two entries were actually made before the final date, while so far this year there are twenty-six.

Inquiries are being received daily from many of the smaller cities and towns that have not heretofore had teams in the tournament. The large cities are also showing more interest than ever, and the officers of the international feel certain that this tournament will be the best they have had, as well as the largest.

The aldermen of St. Paul have voted $1,000 as the city's donation to the prize list, and the various commercial organizations have all responded with substantial contributions. These funds will be used to provide entertainment and to swell the prize lists. The thought of every St. Paul bowler is to give the visitors not only a good time, but a profitable one as well.

Winnipeg bowlers are sending six teams, and they will be accompanied by Capt. Scrase and his "Pinkmights" from Edmonton, Alberta, also a team from Calgary. These two latter teams will be the long distance champions, as they are 1,300 miles away from St. Paul.

Interest in the father and son and lady and gentleman specials has been growing daily, and the big ambidextrous event is the source of much speculation.

Numerous special matches are being arranged. The five Matak brothers challenge all teams composed of brothers, and are looking especially for the Halls of Chicago. Rudy Matak's Bohemian team is also looking for a match with an all Bohemian team from the Windy City league in Chicago, or the Hospodars of Omaha.

Manager Robert Grady of the Seven Corners' team, claims for his team the heavyweight championship. The five men comprising it have an aggregate weight of 1,483 pounds. They will defend their title during the I. B. A. tournament against any team weighing 1,200 pounds or more.

All teams or individuals wishing to participate in the tournament must mail their entries before midnight of Friday, Jan. 26.

POTTS IS AFTER BOUT WITH BROWN

Minneapolis Fighter Says He Is the Real Lightweight Champion.

Jimmy Potts, the fast Minneapolis lightweight, objects to Pal Brown claiming the lightweight championship of the Northwest. James Ebenezer says he is the recognized champion at the 133-pound mark and that he is willing to defend his title. In a letter received today the Minneapolis boy asks that he be matched with the winner of the Brown-Reynolds bout.

Potts is one of the best boxers and one of the fastest fighters in the Northwest. He would prove an excellent man to try out the championship aspirations of Brown. Fast and clever and one of the shiftiest boxers in the country, Potts has for years met and made a great showing with the best boys of the country.

While not as hard a puncher as the little Hibbingite, Potts is an expert mittman and is one of the cleverest defensive fighters in the ring. If Jimmy can do 133 pounds at 3 o'clock and be strong, he would make a great match with Brown.

"I will fight Brown and make weight," writes the Minneapolis man. "I am in good condition and if given the chance will make Brown go some. I can do the lightweight limit and am the recognized champion of the Northwest."

JEFFERSONS WIN FROM THE ADAMS

Last evening at the Auditorium the Jeffersons won from the Adams at indoor baseball by the score of 15 to 7. Erickson was on the mound for the triple A. forces and proved easy picking for the East enders. The skidoo number of blows was gathered from his benders, twenty-three hits being pickled during the evening by the busy hitters of the Jefferson club.

Bill Jones handled the curves for the Jeffs and held the West end aggregation to nine blows.

One of the biggest and best crowds was out to view the contest. The members of the two rival clubs let loose some rooting that reminded one of fall football games. The Jefferson followers were elated over the victory.

Following is the lineup:

DISCUSSING SUMMER BALL

This Is Principal Business of Western Conference Now in Session.

Chicago, Jan. 26.—Determination of the summer baseball question in the Western conference was the principal business at the meeting of the Big Eight representatives here today.

Another subject of discussion was removal of the ban on the University of Michigan, which withdrew from the conference in 1906. The University of Minnesota and of Illinois entered the meeting favorable to Michigan's return to the conference. It was argued by representatives of these universities that Michigan furnished the keenest competition, both in football and baseball, of any Western school.

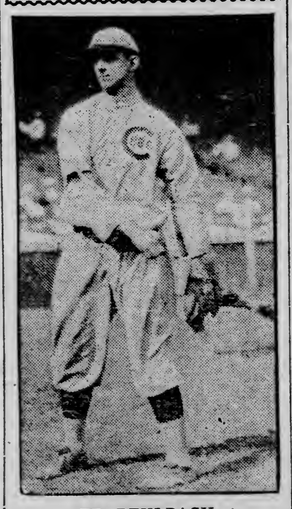

Wrestler Is Hurt.

Mason City, Iowa, Jan. 26.—The wresling match between Paul Penn of Mason City and Bert Blair of Sioux Falls, S. D., for the middleweight honors of the Northwest, came to an end in 25 minutes when Blair received a severe blow on the neck as the result of going over the stage. Physicians say his condition is critical. Penn was awarded the decision.

McFarland vs. Erne.

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 26. — Announcement was made here yesterday that Packey McFarland of Chicago and Young Erne of Philadelphia have been matched to fight six rounds at the National Athletic club here on Feb. 7. The fighters will weigh in at 138 pounds at 6 o'clock on the night of the contest.

BIG DULUTHS WILL MEET FAST FITWELLS

Next Monday evening at the Auditorium a star attraction will be furnished when the Big Duluths, champions of the Twin Ports Indoor Baseball league, and the Fitwells, the leaders of the Auditorium league, will oppose each other. The Big Duluths have a fine record, losing only one game and being victorious in fourteen, while the Fitwells have as yet been undefeated. The Big Duluths intend to break the winning streak of their opponents, and the Fitwells say they will fight hard to keep their slate clean.

The Big D's have Harris to do their hurling and say they will have the advantage in this respect, but the Fitwells are just as positive that either Simpson or Jacobson will be able to take his measure. Both clubs have many hard hitters on their roster and claim they will have no trouble in solving the pitchers' delivery. In fielding it is a toss-up as to superiority, and it looks like anybody's game when it comes to comparisons.

The winning team will take the entire gate receipts and this will be an added inducement to make the teams fight harder. The Head of the Lakes championship undoubtedly lies between these two teams.

The game will start promptly at 8:30 p. m., with roller skating before and after the contest, which will consist of seven innings. The management of the rink has arranged to handle a large crowd.

On account of the great rivalry between the leaders of the two indoor leagues, and the fact that the city championship being at stake, two competent umpires have been secured, Fenton and Fritzenmaier. The line-up is as follows:

Fitwells—		Big Duluths—
Bennett	c.	Quinn
Simpson-Jacobson	p.	Harris
Meniece	1b.	Lingwall
Schaeffer	2b.	Hilber
McGraw	3b.	Bruin

DELEGATES WILL GO TO CHICAGO

Duluth to Make Fight for Next National Ski Meet.

John Mangseth, who will ride for the Duluth Ski club in the National Ski tournament which starts in Chicago tomorrow, and Nels Floan, who will represent the club in the amateur class, to gether with a number of the representatives of the club and the accredited delegates to the annual meeting, will leave this evening for the Windy City.

In addition to Mangseth and Floan there will be Jens Jenswold, Jr., national delegate, and Peter Wright, financial secretary of the club; Dr. H. Hovde, president; George Jensen, corresponding secretary, and the other officers of the club. The representatives of the local club and those who will represent Superior will have a special car.

At the national meeting it is expected that action will be taken on the case of the professional riders who boycotted the Duluth club last winter. Ole Piering and John Evensen were the two local riders involved in the boycott and it is stated that summary action will be taken in the Chicago meeting.

Duluth representatives will make every effort to land the next annual national meet. Jens Jenswold, Jr., has been selected with this idea in view and he will make a strong argument for the 1913 tournament.

BIG DULUTHS WIN AN EASY BALL GAME.

The indoor baseball game last night between the Big Duluths and the Kenney & Ankers was something of a joke. The Big Duluths ran their score up to 19 while the K. & A's had great difficulty in getting one run across the home plate.

The heavy cannonading of the winning team was the real feature of the evening. The losers were simply outclassed.

The line-up:

WISCONSIN BOWLERS GATHER AT RACINE.

Racine, Wis., Jan. 26.—The tenth annual state bowling tournament will open in this city at 6 o'clock this evening, when the Kenosha city officials will bowl the Racine city officials. It is expected that fully 2,000 bowlers will attend the meet. That it will be one of the biggest events of the kind ever held in this state is asserted. Local bowlers claim that the ten days set for the limit of the tournament will be insufficient as they are so many entries in the singles and doubles that it will take at least fifteen days to complete the scheduled events.

Bleachers have been erected in all the alleys to accommodate the crowds and, band concerts will be given for the entertainment of the visiting bowlers. Several entertainments and banquets have been arranged for.

BLACK FIGHTER IS GETTING IN WRONG

JACK JOHNSON.

SCHMIDT GOES TO THE MINORS

Veteran Catcher Released Together With Six Other Tigers.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 26.—Seven members of the Detroit American league baseball team were released today, according to the announcement of President Navin. Six go to the Providence club of the International league, recently purchased by Mr. Navin.

Outfielder Drake, Infielder Lathers and Pitcher Liveley go to Providence in a trade for Outfielder Perry.

The same club secured by outright release Catcher Schmidt, Pitcher Renfed and Catcher Reynolds. Ralph Stroud has been released to Buffalo.

Schmidt's release marks the passing of an American league veteran. A lame arm made him practically valueless to the Detroit club as a catcher last season, but he performed well as a timely pinch hitter.

WILL SEND ALUMNUS.

George Belden May Accompany Paige to Conference Meeting.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 26. — Alumni of the University of Minnesota will be actively represented at the meeting of the Western intercolligiate conference in Chicago Friday.

The athletic board of control at its weekly meeting Wednesday voted expenses to send an alumnus of the institution along with Prof. James Paige, the Gopher representative, to the meeting of the conference board.

The board did not stipulate what alumnus should be sent to Chicago, leaving the selection of the man entirely to the Minnesota alumni themselves. It was declared on the campus last night, however, that George K. Belden, alumni representative on the athletic board of control, would in all probability be selected to represent the university graduates. In order to be properly representative of the Minnesota alumni, however, it will be necessary for the delegate to be appointed by the board of directors of the alumni association. It is expected that a meeting of this board will be held at the university late today.

HENRY ORDEMANN IS MATCHED WITH KARLA.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 26.—Henry Ordemann today was matched to meet Karla, the East Indian heavyweight wrestler, in a finish contest, best two in three falls, at the Dewey theater Saturday night.

Karla is well known to local wrestlin' enthusiasts as he met all comers for one week in this city last fall. At that time he met Ordemann in two handicap bouts, once over the fifteen-minute route and later for thirty minutes. He not only failed to throw Ordemann, but the Norsk held him on even terms throughout.

Ordemann and Karla were later matched for a finish contest at the Dewey theater, but Karla was compelled to cancel the bout because of a badly injured knee. R. B. Benjamin, manager of Karla, writes Archie Miller, manager of the Dewey theater, that Karla's knee is strong as ever and that the East Indian is in splendid physical condition. Karla weighs 205 pounds.

JACK JOHNSON MAY NOT EVEN BOX IN CHICAGO.

Chicago, Jan. 26.—Jack Johnson will do no fighting or even boxing in Chicago. His efforts to pry the lid off the fistic game were unavailing and he received word from Chief McWeeny that any effort to stage a mill or a sparring exhibition in violation of the ordinance would be followed by immediate arrests.

Johnson made his plea to Chief McWeeny Wednesday night while he was conveying that official to the stockyards in his automobile. The champion now believes that he ruined his own case because he drove his automobile so fast that three times the chief threatened to arrest him for speeding.

BEGIN WORK ON A. A. SCHEDULE.

Chicago, Jan. 26.—Work on the 1912 schedule of the American association was started today by President Chivington. He plans to have it completed within three weeks and will then submit it to the club officials for adoption by mail vote.

The season will start April 22 and 168 games will be scheduled. Each club will make three trips around the circuit instead of four, which was given a trial last season.

Pitcher Slapnica, whom President Murphy of the Chicago National league club sold to Louisville yesterday, will make his second appearance in the American association this season. He started the 1911 season with Toledo and remained until May 17, when President Armour of the Toledo club sent him to Rockford in the Wisconsin-Illinois league for more training.

ONLY SIX GAMES FOR MICHIGAN

Vanderbilt and Nebraska Are Dropped By the Wolverines.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 26.—The University of Michigan 1912 football schedule was adopted last night at a meeting of the board of control of athletics and the announcement that the season would end with the Cornell game at Ann Arbor, Nov. 16, caused general disappointment on the campus. A game on the following Saturday was hoped for.

The schedule is as follows:

Oct. 5, Case at Ann Arbor.
Oct. 12, M. A. C. at Ann Arbor.
Oct. 19, Ohio State at Columbus.
Oct. 26, Syracuse at Syracuse.
Nov. 9, Pennsylvania at Philadelphia.
Nov. 16, Cornell at Ann Arbor.

The fact that Vanderbilt and Nebraska were dropped from the schedule caused no great surprise.

WILL MEET THE BADGERS AGAIN

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 26.—The University of Minnesota football team will meet that of the University of Wisconsin on Nov. 2, according to an announcement made here today. As a result of the protest made last fall which took Capt. Earl Pickering from the Wisconsin game, there was considerable talk at the University of Minnesota that the teams would not meet next fall, but the athletic authorities opposed the boycott.

Lauben Wins at Billiards.

Chicago, Jan. 26.—Walter Lauben of Chicago, Western champion, defeated Charles Warren of Boston, 50 to 48, in ninety innings of three-cushion billiards here last night. It was the opening game of the Chicago-Boston series. Each had high runs of five.

VARSITY RIFLE TEAM IN LONG DISTANCE CONTEST.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 26.—University of Minnesota's rifle team yesterday scored 925 in its by-mail shoot with the University of California.

Some New Highlanders.

New York, Jan. 26.—Manager Wolverton of the New York American league team announced today that he had received the signed contracts of Pitcher G. H. Spears and Outfielder Wilfred Osborn. Spears was procured from the Paris club of the Bluegrass league. He is 6 feet 3 inches in height.

Records Broken.

New York, Jan. 26.—Two world's records went by the board at the annual athletic carnival games of the Irish-American A. C., held in Madison Square garden last night. The first was the record for throwing the eighteen-pound shot when P. McDonald threw the weight 44 feet, 1½ inches. The former record was 43 feet 9 inches.

In the 5,000-meter run, George Bonhag clipped 17 2-3 seconds from the record made last summer by Louis Scott at Celtic park.

To Coach at Notre Dame.

South Bend, Ind., Jan. 26.—Fred Erickson of Chicago has been engaged as assistant coach for the baseball team of the University of Notre Dame. This gives the baseball squad the experience of two old professional players as Manager Ed Smith of the Grand Rapids Central league team is acting as head coach. Erickson, who will report for duty Monday, has five years' professional baseball experience, and was with the Boston Nationals in 1907.

Gary vs. Larson.

Chicago, Jan. 26.—Tommy Gary and "Chuck" Larson, lightweights, will fight ten rounds before a suburban club here tonight. Eddie Santry, the former featherweight champion, will referee.

Maroons Win Game.

At the Superior Curling club last evening the Maroons of Duluth defeated the Superior Curling club hockey team by the score of 8 to 2. The game was fast and snappy. Two 20-minute halves were played.

Graves Given Decision.

Cleveland, Ohio, Jan. 26.—"Kid" Graves of Milwaukee won the decision over Walter Sikora of Detroit in a 12-round fight here last night. Only the gong saved Sikora from a knockout in the twelfth. He was the aggressor throughout but Graves showed more cleverness. Sikora suffered much punishment. Young Joe Grimm of Pittsburg and Jack Lepper of Milwaukee fought 10 fast rounds to a draw in a preliminary.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE

We submit the following as our ideas of the probabilities under Fulton's Renal Compound in Bright's and kidney disease:

Where patients are seriously weakened and crisis may be expected in from ten to twenty days probably not more than 10 to 20 per cent respond. Where physicians aid by holding up the heart, increasing and eliminations, etc., the efficiency can be increased. In cases where patients have from thirty to sixty days of life we look for correspondingly better results.

Where patients do not wait until bedridden we believe three-fourths can be controlled and that in cases that take the treatment on the appearance of the disease that nearly nine out of ten will respond with final recovery or prolongation of life.

Albumen, casts and dropsy do not prevent recovery. The point is that the renal inflammation should be attacked before the heart and recuperative powers are too greatly weakened.

Fulton's Renal Compound is used both with and without physicians' prescriptions. The motive of the Renal Compound being to relax the kidney (the Old School having nothing to reduce inflamed kidneys) it will be seen that the heart, eliminative and tonic treatment usually prescribed in Bright's and kidney disease do not conflict, but are often required in extreme cases.

We desire patients not improving the third week to write us. Literature mailed free. John J. Fulton Company, 645 Battery, San Francisco, Cal. We invite correspondence with physicians who have obstinate cases.

How I Took My Wrinkles Out

After Plasters, Massage, Creams and Beauty Doctors Had Failed.

By FRANCES E. LOFTIE.

Trouble, worry and ill health brought me deep lines and wrinkles. I realize that they not only greatly marred my appearance and made me look much older, but that they would greatly interfere with my success, because a woman's success, either socially or financially, depends very largely on her appearance. The homely woman with deep lines and furrows in her face must fight an unequal battle with her younger and better looking sister.

I therefore bought various brands of cold cream and skin foods, and massaged my face, with most constant regularity, hoping to regain my former appearance. But the wrinkles simply would not go. On the contrary, they seemed to get deeper. Next I went to a beauty specialist, who told me she would easily rid me of my wrinkles. I paid my money and took the treatment. Sometimes I thought they got less, but after spending all the money I could afford for such treatment, I found I still had my wrinkles. So I gave up in despair, and concluded I must carry them to my grave. One day a friend of mine, who was versed in chemistry, made a suggestion, and this gave me a new idea. I immediately went to work making experiments and studying everything I could get hold of on this subject. After several long months of almost numberless trials and discouragements, I finally discovered a process which produced most astounding results on my wrinkles in a single night. I was delighted beyond expression. I tried my treatment again, and lo, and behold! my wrinkles were practically gone. A third treatment—three nights in all—and I had no wrinkles and my face was as smooth as ever. I next offered my treatment to some of my immediate friends who used it with surprising results, and I have now decided to give it to the public.

I will send further particulars to any one who is interested, absolutely free of charge. I use no plasters, cream, massage, face steaming, or so-called skin foods; there is nothing to inject and nothing to injure the skin. It is an entirely new discovery of my own, and so simple that you can use it without the knowledge of your most intimate friends. You apply the treatment at night and go to bed. In the morning, lo! the wonderful transformation. People often write me, it sounds too good to be true. Well, the test will tell. If interested in my discovery, please address Mrs. Frances E. Loftie, 320 Loftie building, Syracuse, N. Y., and I will send full particulars.

FROM FRUIT RAISING IN THE SOUTH TO FIREPROOF BUILDINGS IN NORTH

Suggestions to the $1,000 Man Cover a Wide Range.

Advice Continues to Pour in During Last Week of Contest.

In the closing week of The Herald contest, advice to the new and inexperienced investor still continues to pour in.

The man with his first $1,000 and an ambition to invest it so that it will provide him a good return is today advised to go to the Isle of Pines and go into the fruit-raising business.

Another advises him to get three acres of land on the outskirts of the city and live on it, devoting his spare time to the raising of garden truck.

One contributor suggests that the would-be investor spend the money for an education. An investment of knowledge pays the best interest, he says.

"First find your calling and then consider your inclinations," is the advice given by one, who would not see the investor make a misstep, as, for instance, going into some business that he was not adapted to.

Inexperienced investors are advised by one contributor to ally themselves with business men in making an investment. He suggests the forming of a corporation for the purpose of erecting furnished apartment buildings of fireproof construction.

Today's answers are as follows:

A. M. Pearson, Thief River Falls, Minn.—First, find out your calling—what you are best adapted for. If yet in doubt on this point, a phrenological examination by a competent examiner will be well worth the price.

Having business ability, but no desire of traveling, invest $500 in some business which you can conduct with your own help, in a business where you feel at home and for which you will not be ashamed before anyone. If your wife can assist in the business, invest $400 in such real estate where the building can be used both as a business place and as residence. Deposit the balance in the bank, subject to check. You should not buy any of the goods on credit. On the real estate assume such indebtedness as local conditions will safely permit.

If your wife cannot assist you in the store, invest the $400 in suburb residence property, where chickens, or a cow or both, can be kept. If you decide to be a "traveling salesman," invest $900 in suburban property.

If you have literary talents, find a good location for a weekly newspaper. Many have entered this field, (with less money than you have now) gaining success and prominence.

If you feel that you can become a successful farmer, either buy a piece of land or take a homestead, or do both. In either case get land which will permit the cultivating of at least forty acres the first year.

Buy Minnesota's best,
In Pennington, Northwest.
Our climate does the rest.
Your children will be blest.

As details cannot be enumerated here and as business adaptations vary, therefore, look over the occupations in the artistical, commercial, literary, mechanical and scientific fields. Decide for yourself in which you will be most excellent and act accordingly.

Albert G. Evans, 28 North Washington avenue, Minneapolis, Minn.—Neither farming nor a business for himself can be unreservedly recommended to this young man, for he may lack the natural ability, experience or special training for either.

Suppose he makes a part payment on a $3,000 home. He will then have a $2,000 mortgage at 6 per cent. Taxes, and life insurance, to pay the debt if he dies. Increase the rate to 8½ per cent. Suppose his rent is now $25 per month, and he uses it all to pay off the mortgage. After paying $300 annually for ten years, he will still owe $23.40, having paid $1,000 in taxes, interest and life insurance.

Had he been able to save this $300 for ten years and invest it at 8½ per cent he would have $4,350.

Can he do this?

I am ten years younger than this man, have a wife and two children, and three years ago I had saved my first $1,000.

I found a good lot for $450 cash. The lowest bid of any contractor on a warm cottage, 20 by 23 feet, with hardwood flooring and screened porch was $435. I got all the building material at snaps for $135 cash. A carpenter put up the same building for $85, total cost $220. This left $200.

We live in the cottage and find it more satisfactory than a $25 flat. We save $300 rent every year on an investment of $670, and have several times refused $1,200 for the property.

The advantages of this over the $3,000 house investment are: No debts, no interest, no life insurance, and fuel bill cut in half.

I have started in business for myself, doubled my earning capacity, and trebled my net worth in three years because of a wise use of my first $1,000.

Andrew E. W. Vang, Duluth, Minn.: My advice to your young man is to take his $1,000 to some reliable real estate firm and invest it in two $500 first mortgages on improved city property at 7 per cent per annum, interest pabable semi-annually. The agents will take you out, or give you the street number and you can see the property and judge for yourself whether the security is ample. This would be easy to do, as I know that all large real estate firms carry a number of mortgages on hand most of the time. There is no charge for this, as the mortgagor pays all the expense of making the loan, mortgage, recording, etc. This is a "sure thing" with no "ifs" attached to it. From this investment you would get a return of $70 a year and with what you are able to save from your salary and invest in mortgages from time to time, in about five years you would have your second $1,000, and all drawing interest.

This is no "get rich quick" plan, but in time will put you beyond want and will have formed a habit of thrift that will descend to your children and be a blessing to all.

C. F. Bradfield, Box 177, Chisholm, Minn.: My advice of what to do with your first $1,000: "Put it in your head." No man can take it from you; an investment in knowledge pays the best interest.

He can take $500 to pay for his expenses and $500 for his family to live upon, and when he gets through he will very likely be broke, but then he can get a good paying position.

S. W. Richardson, 3023 Minnesota Avenue, Duluth, Minn.: I have been very much interested in the advice given to our friend as to the way of investing this $1,000. It seems to me all have failed to understand the conditions which must govern his future investment. This man saved his money from his salary in ten years hard work and therefore is not an experienced investor. He naturally hesitates to invest for fear he will lose his hard earned dollars, and justly so.

My advice for this young man is to ally himself with businessmen in forming a local corporation for the purpose of erecting furnished apartment buildings of fireproof construction. The demand for this class of buildings is felt now in Duluth, while in the West it has been hard to meet during the last four or five years. Net returns on those buildings in the West run from 15 to 18 per cent over and above maintenance. This will guarantee to our young man 6 per cent compound interest on his money, and in addition dividends of at least 5 per cent on his money invested.

If he allows the interest to accumulate and withdraws only his dividends, at the end of ten years his investment would amount to $1,800, and his dividends which have been withdrawn would equal $700.

At the same rate, provided he leaves his investment untouched for thirty years, it would amount to the sum of $10,000 and in addition he would be paid in actual dividends during that time the sum of $3,000. This would leave our young man free to hold his present position and perhaps allow him to save his second $1,000 during the next ten years, besides identifying himself with businessmen in the management of a safe and profitable enterprise.

August Westlin, 4411 Oneota street, West Duluth—In answer to your contest how to make the most out of $1,000, I will say this, on fruit raising a man can make 50 per cent on his money every year, which I think no other business can beat.

My personal advice would be to buy ten or twenty acres of land in the Isle of Pines, go down there and start your own business.

The Isle of Pines is the finest country I know of for fruit and garden raising and it is also the best health resort for catarrh, rheumaitsm and asthma, in the world.

I invested a few hundred dollars there some years ago and have paid the balance in monthly payments and I have doubled my money many times. The main products are grape fruit, oranges, lemons and pineapples, which will bring you from $500 to $3,000 an acre. You live in a climate where it is warm with sunshine and flowers every day of the year.

If your correspondent will write or come to me before I go back there again, I will gladly show him views and letters from Duluth men who are down there and are happy. I can tell you everything about the Isle of Pines as I have been there a long time and ought to know whereof I speak. Hoping my advice how to invest your first $1,000 will make you happy, healthy and rich. And if you want to come back to your old home after a few years you can do so and live from the income of your grove.

D. C. Eaton, 13 East Fourth Street: In reference to your man with $1,000, we would remark that the information about this gentleman is rather meager, but I would suggest that he should not make any radical change in his mode of life. Supposing his work is near the center of Duluth, he should by all means get a small tract of land as close to his work as possible, not to make a living on but to add to his already well-equipped saving ability.

Suppose Mr. Man gets three acres of such lands, builds a neat little home and moves there. He pays no rent, but raises say 300 bushels of potatoes, all the cabbage and small vegetables he can use and some to sell. He buys a cow; this saves exhorbitant prices for milk and butter. Now here comes the saving. This property will double in value in two years. He'll pay no rent; produce will net him at least $350 per year; cow will save him $25 over her own keep and after furnishing his butter and milk, and that is a very low estimate. Thus he can save on a very conservative estimate $375 beside the increase in value on his property and in addition to this he will save the same as he has formerly and in the same way.

Now using all his profits in land that he knows will soon advance in price he will not get rich quick, but will soon be on easy street and in a fair way to take advantage of the bargains that are occasionally offered in land and in this way he can't lose out, but do not take a chance in outlying wildcat, real estate speculation in which he may win, but for every winner there is 100 losers, for chance only can determine real valuable locations in these new outlying districts.

Herbert Scanlon, 209 North Fifty-third avenue west, Duluth, Minn.—If I had $1,000 I should invest it in this way: I would watch the newspapers until I would see a 40 to 60-acre tract of land, with building on, advertised for sale, as close as possible to a school. Have about thirty acres cleared, pay down about $300, have the balance an easy terms. Get a team of horses worth about $300, as there would not be much work for a team on a small tract of land; have them both mares, so they could raise colts. Get three cows, pay about $50 each for them, so your stock would increase every year. Get your farming implements on easy terms, pay down about $50 on them. Have about $50 worth of poultry, etc. Buy about $50 worth of grain and seed to sow. Have the balance of the $1,000 to live on until the crops are ripe. If you see you need some more stock or necessary things to manage the farm, borrow about $200 on as long terms as you wish. If the crops are good, you will be out of debt in five years, then get about that much more land, and by the time you are 50 years of age you will be an independent man and most likely have the best of health.

"I'VE GOT THE FIRST $1,000; WHAT SHALL I DO WITH IT?"

For the second of its series of contests The Herald has an interesting problem which comes to it in the form of a letter that explains itself:

To the Editor of The Herald:

We have often been told—at least we used to be—by rich men that the hardest work on the road to wealth is to get the first $1,000.

I've got that sum now—saved it out of my salary during ten years. Who will tell me how to go the rest of the way? How shall I invest it? Shall I go into business, and what kind, and how?

I am 35 years old, with a wife and two small children, and have a fair position with a living salary, but that's about all. Probably I could, if nothing happened, save another $1,000 in another ten years, but with the cost of living going up faster than salaries—and I can't expect mine to go much higher than it is—it is going to be harder. If I am ever going to start out for myself and gain independence or wealth, now is the time for me to begin, while I am strong and healthy and young.

What shall I do with myself and my $1,000—and my family?

Here's a real problem, a vital one that will interest everybody; and The Herald hopes to see a large and interesting variety of answers. It hopes, too, that men who have traveled the road that lies before this young inquirer will take part in the discussion. The prizes will, of course, be no temptation to them; but this is a subject of wide interest, and they should be glad to contribute their wisdom and experience to its solution.

Write out your answer, limit it to 300 words, put your name and address at the top of the sheet, write on one side of the paper only, and send it to the Contest Editor of The Herald before Feb. 1.

For the best answer to this young man's problem The Herald will give a prize of $10.

For the next best answer The Herald will give a prize of $5.

For the third best answer The Herald will give a prize of $3.

SAYS HE CAN BRING RAIN BY USING LIQUID AIR.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Jan. 26.—Prof. Jamieson of the Edmond branch of the state normal school system will make further experiments in the way of rainmaking as a result of what he says was a successful trial recently. His recent experiments was made on a foggy morning from a high platform. He released liquid air in the form of a spray and rain followed. Next time Prof. Jamieson says he will use an airship for the experiment and rise above ordinary cloud height, where he expects the liquid air spray to condense the moisture and cause considerable precipitation.

Rockefeller had been listed at nearly $86,000 less than its real value, the Cleveland board of review will attempt to have the mistake corrected by the state tax commission here next Tuesday. The board claims that because of a clerical error the property was listed at $14,000 when it should have been $100,000. The tax commission will also hear a complaint that the assessed value of $1,326,500 on Rockefeller's Forest Hill estate here is too high.

McNAMARA WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS KILLED.

New York, Jan. 26.—The writ of habeas corpus secured on behalf of John McNamara, alias "Australian Mack," has been dismissed by United States Judge Hough. McNamara is wanted in Canada on the charge of robbing the branch of the Bank of Montreal at New Westminster, B. C., of $375,000 in cash, negotiable notes and notes unsigned. He was arrested here early in January and turned over to the federal authorities. His attorney secured the writ of habeas corpus now dismissed because Commissioner Shields refused to admit McNamara to bail. When the matter came up before the commissioner yesterday, on motion of counsel for the British consulate, it was adjourned till Monday, awaiting further depositions from the attorney general of British Columbia.

DUNN RESIGNS FROM THE COOK COUNTY COMMISSION.

Chicago, Jan. 26.—Ballard Dunn has resigned from the county civil service commission, of which he was formerly president, and thereby shifted the controversy between himself and President Peter Bartzen of the Cook county board, over the operation of the merit law, to the state's attorney's office. Bartzen was accused by Dunn in a long statement of making the civil service commission a farce, and of nullifying the merit law. Bartzen retorted with a petition to the county court for the ousting of Dunn on the grounds of malfeasance in office.

ON THE IRON RANGES

HEAR TALKS ON BOILERS

Representatives of Boiler Concerns Address Two Harbors City Council.

Bids Opened, But No Conclusions Reached as to Making Purchase.

Two Harbors, Minn., Jan. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city council held a special adjourned meeting last night, which lasted until after midnight. The chief discussion was on the bids received for the installation of a new boiler, 72-inch shell and 18 feet long. Three bids were received from agents present.

The Erie City Boiler company offered to sell a new water tube boiler for $3,042. The bid of the Lyons Boiler company, with plant at De Pere, Wis., amounted to $3,225, while the Dwyer-Field Company of Philadelphia, presented a bid on a boiler radically different from the others for $3,697.

The council sometime ago brought up the boiler proposition and decided to repair the present boiler. They then let the contract to the Gogebic Iron Works of Duluth for the repairs, but before the contract went through, the mayor would not approve it and returned the resolution allowing the contract for repairs with his veto, to the council. Consequently the council advertised for bids for a new boiler.

Power Proposition Changes Things.

When the proposition from the Great Northern Power company was discussed it was stated that the city could get along with the present boiler equipment, since if electrical power were to be used it would be necessary only to have the boilers ready in case of emergency. The proposition of installing a new boiler will involve a considerable expense. W. E. Pollard of the Dwyer-Field company has a bid for doing all work for a sum totaling in the neighborhood of $9,000. Then, in addition, the city would like to install an oil separator in order to keep all oil from within the boiler, which would cost close to $1,000.

After listening to the arguments of the three agents, W. E. Pollard, W. P. Lyons and H. B. Hanks, the council decided to lay the matter over till the regular meeting next Monday night.

The city has now attained, probably, its highest standard of credit. Bills are being paid so promptly that creditors are allowing a cash discount on all bills.

SECTION 30 MINE BOSS LOSES LIFE

John Lindbeck Fatally Crushed Beneath Mass of Ore and Earth.

Ely, Minn., Jan. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Buried beneath tons of ore and debris in one of the dangerous levels of the famous Section 30 mine near here, John Lindbeck, aged 50, having a wife and seven children was crushed to death yesterday. The body was not recovered until many hours after the mass dropped without warning upon Lindbeck and John Hilbert. The latter was buried to his armpits and was pulled out by the rescuers badly bruised, but not seriously injured.

Mr. Lindbeck was an old employe of the Oliver Iron Mining company prior to entering the employ of the Section 30 Mining company and was conaidered a safe under ground man. The mass of ore and rock appears to have dropped upon the men without any warning although it is said that particular level was known as a dangerous one because it was not properly timbered.

BOY SAVES CARTRIDGES

By Beating Wolf's Head to Pulp With Club.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Jan. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Not desiring to waste a cartridge from his rifle in dispatching a big timber wolf he had caught in a trap, Adolph Graff, 15 years old, beat the imprisoned animal's head to a pulp with a club, according to M. W. Pogue of Warba, who is here and related the incident which occurred near his home a few days ago. He says wolves are very thick in that section.

Pogue was looking at the carcass of the wolf the boy had trapped and asked the boy why the head was so badly smashed.

The young nimrod replied that he had set his gun against a tree on discovering the wolf in the trap, and had gone to the logging road nearby and obtained a club with which to finish the brute. When asked why he did not shoot him, the boy replied, "Why, I didn't want to waste a cartridge on him." The bounty paid by the state and county this year amounts to $10.

KINNEY MAN IS ACTING QUEERLY

Returns From Serving Sentence in Duluth Jail; Again Arrested.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Brooding over the disgrace resulting from spending forty days in the county jail at Duluth may be responsible for the unfortunate mental condition of Martin Schuss, a resident of Kinney, who was picked up on the streets by a policeman here while wandering aimlessly about as though mentally irresponsible. He may be sent to Duluth to be examined. Schuss was one of the settlers in the Kinney district, who was last fall arrested by Game Warden Woods for violation of the game laws. He was convicted and, unable to pay a fine, served a sentence of forty days in the county jail at Duluth. Upon his return to Kinney he was taken ill and confined to his home for some time and began to show signs of mental derangement. It is said he brooded considerably over his imprisonment and his friends believe this is largely responsible for his present condition.

In Jail Several Days.

Schuss was picked up in the street in Hibbing several days ago by one of the patrolmen on the south side of the city. He was wandering about in an aimless fashion and was unable to give a clear account of himself, so he was taken to the station and later sent to a hospital for treatment.

It now develops tha Schuss was a patient of a Kinney physician and that left alone for a short time last Friday morning he arose from bed, dressed himself, left his room and took a train for Hibbing. His disappearance caused his friends and the Kinney physician considerable anxiety. Yesterday a resident of Kinney, who knows him well, came to Hibbing and identified him.

COLERAINE HAS GOOD ROAD MEET

That Section of Itasca County Considering Improving Highways.

Coleraine, Minn., Jan. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—An enthusiastic meeting was largely attended at the Coleraine village hall last evening in the interest of good roads for the new settlers of this part of Itasca county. Large delegations were present from Bovey and Taconite and from the town of Balsam to confer with the citizens if Coleraine as how best to expend the $10,000 of the county road and bridge fund which it is expected will be used in this commissioner's district. Iron Range township, in which is situated the three villages named, generously waived any claim which they might make in favor of the now sparsely settled town of Balsam.

Committee Is Named.

There was a free discussion of routes of the proposed roads and of the probable cost of each. A committee of five consisting of D .D. Greer of Coleraine, Frank Provinski of Bovey, W. C. Watson of Taconite, and J. G. Hendrickson and G. W. Sumners of Balsam. They were instructed to prepare more definite plans with the assistance of Oscar Lidberg, the engineer, and present the matter to the county commissioners at their next regular meeting.

DROP GAME ON SEEING WARDEN

Illegal Hunters Near Hibbing Are Nearly Caught By Warden Woods.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Game Warden George Woods was at Nashwauk yesterday to investigate a report that a cow moose had been shot by some settlers near that village, but was unable to secure sufficient evidence to warrant arrests. Returning to Hibbing he came on three packsacks abandoned by the roadside. Upon searching them several partridges, still warm, wer found. The hunters had evidently espied Woods coming and had dropped their packs and taken to the woods. The packsacks and their contents were confiscated and brought to this city. Woods has thirty warrants for game law violaters in his possession and it is said that arrests are to be made within the coming week, which will be much the most sensational he has effected during his somewhat strenuous career in this section.

BROKEN RAIL IS BLAMED FOR WRECK

Iron Range Derailment Near Athens, Minn., Had Very Lucky Outcome.

Tower, Minn., Jan. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The wrecking crew from Two Harbors that hastened to Athens, south of here yesterday, on learning of the wrecking of Train No. 2 of the Iron Range road yesterday morning, spent the day at the wreck and had the track cleared last evening so that traffic was resumed. The wrecking of the train is blamed to a broken rail. The train was on its run from Ely and Tower to Duluth on the Vermilion line and struck a broken rail. The engine, tender, mail and baggage cars passed over all right but the four coaches comprising the smoker, two day coaches and observation car jumped the track and partially turned over. The wreckers were sent from Two Harbors and spent the day opening traffic last evening. Conductor George Wollen was in charge of the train.

No One Was Injured.

No one was injured. The stop was made within 400 feet or about a train's length, which seems the only thing that prevented a serious wreck. The passengers were transferred to Nos. 3 and 4 and returned to Duluth except those routed to Ely and the Vermilion range, who were taken onto a special sent out from Tower consisting of a baggage car and engine This was the first passenger train wreck on either of the Range roads in years.

TWO HARBORS FIRE PROBE FRUITLESS

State Fire Marshal Says Clifton Hotel Blaze Blame Is Not Fixed.

Two Harbors, Minn., Jan. 26.—(Special to The Herald.) — State Fire Marshal Keller, who recently conducted an examination into the Clifton hotel fire here that claimed the life of Amy Anderson, has notified Fire Chief Brickley in the following language that the blame for the fire cannot be placed and the blaze was probably accidental:

"After making a thorough investigation of the fire which occurred on the 15th inst. in your town, destroying the Clifton hotel, I have come to the conclusion that this fire was purely accidental. And from such investigation I am convinced that the cause of said fire was defective electrical wiring.

"From the testimony I gathered relative to the unfortunate loss of life of a young girl, Amy Anderson, in the fire I am satisfied that no blame can be attached to either the policemen or firemen who were at the fire.

Building Was Fire Trap.

"And considering the fact that the building was a veritable fire trap and the fire had gotten great headway before the alarm was turned in and the weather conditions very severe, I think the fire department is deserving of great credit for the work they did in extinguishing the fire and confining it to a portion of the building and saving the adjoining buildings.

"Upon running down the ugly rumors in circulation regarding the death of Amy Anderson, I found to be wholly untrue, and that were the firemen and policemen apprised of the fact that this girl was in her room at the time they reached the burning building, instead of being told as they were of her being taken out of the building, that her life might possibly have been saved.

"From examination of your apparatus and equipment and the conditions of your town I would strongly urge your city council to purchase at least an additional 500 feet of hose."

AMUSEMENTS

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

ORPHEUM—Vaudeville.
EMPRESS—Vaudeville.

Amusement Notes.

If the audiences at the Orpheum this week knew of the youth of the two Arnaud Brothers, who are appearing in the opening act, their turn would be much more of a hit than it is.

The two brothers are mere boys, one being 17 years of age and the other 19. Their father travels with them, and acts as their manager. He is an old performer himself.

The boys have a novel and clever acrobatic act, appearing as French clowns. The feature of their act is the manner in which they play violins while they are performing their feats. They do not stop fiddling for an instant, while executing some difficult tumbling and acrobatic stunts. In their fantastic makeup they look like old-time clowns from the circus ring, and the audiences do not suspect that they have not yet reached maturity.

While their name would indicate that they are French, the brothers were both born in Holland. They speak English brokenly, not having been in this country any great length of time, but if they continue to improve as acrobats and comedians, they should be heard from in the vaudeville field by the time they reach the voting age.

Miss Ray, who is featuring the bill at the Empress this week and whose wonderful experiments in somnolency are causing much talk, has been called upon to assume many roles in connection with her work and her latest is the role of Cupid, which she assumed with great success this week. During one of her performances this week, Miss Ray received the following question: "Miss Ray, will Alice and I ever be more than friends?" Miss Ray's reply to the young man was, "Yes, and if you don't get up a little nerve and do the proposing, the young lady will have to exercise the right which Leap Year gives her and do the proposing herself." Evidently the advice given him by Miss Ray proved of benefit to the young man, as Miss Ray received a letter from the gentleman in question, informing her that he had taken her advice and proposed and was accepted. In closing his letter, the young man said, "And do you know, if you had not answered me in the manner in which you did, I don't think I would have ever summoned up enough courage to pop the question." Consequently Miss Ray considers that she is a success in the role of Cupid.

QUAYLE-LARSEN CO.

14 and 16 West Superior St.

This morning he entered a plea of guilty to second offense drunkenness. He was given a straight sentence of thirty days in the county jail by Judge Windom. No work or "jag" farm being among the assets of the city or the county, practically no other course was open to the court. The man had been given more than one trial, and he couldn't hang on. He had been helped through the agency of the Associated Charities and he had been furnished with a steady, paying job. He did not make good, and as is the case with the majority of these men, his family has had to bear the suffering.

Last summer Parker was brought into police court for drunkenness. At that time it was reported that he had abused his wife and children while under the influence of the booze. A couple of weeks ago he was brought in on the same charge and a similar report made. Each time he promised to reform. But he didn't, and last night the third call came from the Parker home for the police. This time he did not get off as easily as he had previously.

WILL TALK TO THE CLUB

Member of Charter Commission to Speak on the Amendments.

Commercial Club Will Discuss West Duluth Railroad Station Problems.

Before the regular business session of the West Duluth Commercial club this evening, one of the members of the charter commission will speak to the members of the club. Just which member it will be has not been decided yet.

At the regular session the members of the club will again take up the new Northern Pacific station for West Duluth and will urge its construction next spring. The petition will be signed by the members present this evening and will then be sent to City Attorney Bert Fesler, who will be urged to push the request. A committee will be instructed to attend the council meeting Monday evening and present the matter.

Besides the request for a new station on the Northern Pacific line, a passenger and freight station will be asked from the Soo road, under the franchise given the Wisconsin Central. The Soo road, which now has the franchise, claimed at a hearing last year that at the time of the purchase there were no trains running to West Duluth and as long as no service had ever been started, the building of a station could not be enforced.

The West Duluth people claim that the franchise calls for railroad service within a specified time and that the time has now expired. The transfer of the franchise from one company to another, they say, does not give the holder the privilege of evading agreements. The station was to have been erected and maintained west of Forty-eighth avenue west.

LAKE COUNTY WINS APPEAL

St. Louis Barred From Claiming Strip on the Knife River.

Supreme Court Also Rules on County Liability for Bonds.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—The state supreme court today in an opinion written by Associate Justice Holt gave to Lake county the strip of land one mile wide running from the mouth of Knife river to Lake Superior, on the line between Lake and St. Louis counties. Action was brought by St. Louis county disputing the boundary line and claiming the right to tax the strip.

In 1895 the legislature prescribed the line between the two counties, changing it so as to include in Lake, the strip of St. Louis. The supreme court holds that as the state and St. Louis county have acquiesced to this for a period of fifteen years, this is not the time for inquiry into the correctness of such location. A writ of ouster directed at St. Louis county, is ordered.

May Damage Another's Land.

The state supreme court read the "rule of reason" into drainage of surface water from lands today, and held that a proprietor may damage adjoining lands to a certain degree without liability for his acts.

The decision was in the case wherein Fred Rieck in Steele county had obtained an order from the district court restraining Rudolph Schamanski from draining surface water onto his land. The opinion was written by Chief Justice Start.

The court found that the facts as shown by the trial in the lower court, did not sustain the conclusions of law, and the case was reversed and a new trial ordered.

Ditch Bond Liability.

Bonds issued by a county in Minnesota for construction of drainage ditches are obligations against the entire county and not confined to the benefited districts.

This is the opinion of the supreme court, given today in a case wherein W. E. Van Pelt had brought action against the county auditor and county commissioners of Roseau county to restrain them from issuing $13,000 in bonds as part payment for work done on County Ditch No. 24.

The decision of the court is looked upon as one of the most important handed down this year. The state of Minnesota has approximately $2,700,000 loaned to counties on ditch bonds.

Liability for Prisoners' Expenses.

A county which for lack of a jail of its own causes prisoners to be confined in another county is responsible for the bills incurred. The county taking them cannot be held liable for costs. This opinion was given by the state supreme court in a suit brought by Orrin Daniels, sheriff of Polk county, against Polk county.

In October, 1909, certain persons arrested in Mahnomen county for willful destruction of propery, were taken to the Polk county jail. Soon thereafter, the prisoners were ordered taken to Duluth on writs of habeas corpus issued by the federal court. Expense of $690 was incurred and Polk county commissioners refused to pay it. The sheriff brought suit. This morning the supreme court held that Daniels should appeal to Mahnomen county to pay the bills, as Polk county was not concerned.

MICHELET ASKS TO BE HEARD

Wants to Defend Himself at White Earth Hearing.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—Simon Michelet, former agent at the White Earth reservation, against whom charges of irregularity were made yesterday in the congressional hearing of land fraud charges being held here, today appeared before the committee and asked that he be heard in his own defense. Mr. Michelet denies that he showed favoritism in land allotments.

H. E. C. O'Brien, one of the government attorneys, attacked the report of Maj. James McLaughlin, who investigated the re-allotment question, saying that it was not submitted to the entire membership of the reservation.

Rev. Duane S. Porter, a mixed blood, gave testimony concerning the price of land and declared that the Indians did not receive full valuations.

"The way conditions are now," he said, "our people are starving to death."

Mr. Poter's testimony was brought out by the government in an attempt to show that mixed bloods were favored by the officials, as asserted yesterday.

The DOCTOR'S ADVICE

by Dr. Lewis Baker

The questions answered below are general in character, the symptoms or diseases are given and the answers will apply to any case of similar nature.

Those wishing further advice free, may address Dr. Lewis Baker, College Bldg., College-Elwood Sts., Dayton, Ohio, inclosing self-addressed stamped envelope for reply. Full name and address must be given, but only initials or fictitious name will be used in my answers. The prescriptions can be filled at any well-stocked drug store. Any druggist can order of wholesaler.

"Miss M." writes: "I suffer greatly with my nerves, am almost on the point of nervous prostration. I cannot sleep and am hysterical at times. Can you help me?"

Answer: Many women, old and young, who have suffered as you do, have been cured by using the following tonic restorative treatment: Get from your druggist 1 oz. tincture cadomene (not cardamom) and 5 ozs. syrup of hypophosphites comp., mix and take a teaspoonful before each meal. Always shake well before taking.

"Mary" writes: "In the last year I have been gaining weight so rapidly that I am uncomfortable and frequently embarrassed by slighting remarks. Diet does no good whatever. What shall I do?"

Answer: You can very easily reduce your weight by using the following: Aromatic elixir 5 ozs., glycol arbolene, 1 oz. Mix, shake well and take a teaspoonful after meals for three days, then double the dose and take for several weeks. This is harmless and I have had many people write that they lost a pound a day after the first week or so.

"Carpenter" writes: "My liver and kidneys are in a bad condition. I have dizzy spells and dark spots before my eyes. Also have twinges of rheumatism. Can I be helped?"

Answer: To cure kidney and liver trouble use three grain sulpherb tablets (not sulphur). These are packed in sealed tubes with full directions for taking. They act pleasantly and tone up the bowels and liver and purify the blood. They are convenient, effective and highly curative.

"Phoebe"—The following will cure your children of bedwetting: Get 2 drams of tincture rhus-aromatica, 1 dram tincture cubebs and 1 oz. comp. fluid balmwort. Mix, and give the child from 10 to 15 drops in water about one hour before each meal.

"Maud" writes: "I have suffered a great deal with catarrh. It gives me headaches, affects my eyes and my breath is awful. Can you prescribe something to cure it. Only my nostrils and throat are affected."

Answer: I have prescribed antiseptic vilane powder and grateful letters from hundreds indicate that it is speedily curative, but must be used occasionally to prevent a recurrence. Get a two ounce original package of vilane powder; use a half teaspoonful to a pint of warm water. From the palm of the hand snuff the water through the nostrils until thoroughly cleansed, two or three times daily. Mix a level teaspoonful of vilane powder with an ounce of lard or vaseline and apply well up into the nostrils twice daily and your catarrh should soon be cured.

"Onda" writes: "I am troubled with itching scalp, dandruff and my hair is falling out. It is harsh and brittle."

Answer: Plain Yellow Minyol is the best remedy for itching scalp, falling hair and dandruff that I know of. It can be bought in 4 oz. jars and if used according to directions will cure all diseases of the hair and scalp. If the hair is harsh and brittle and you are bothered with those straggling locks, the use of minyol will resore that soft, fluffy appearance and bring back the intense natural color.

"Kit" writes: "I am far below normal weight. I suffer with headaches and am nervous to the point of exhaustion. If you can tell me something to help me I shall be very grateful."

Answer: I can prescribe nothing so effective as a thorough course of three grain hypo-nuclane tablets. These tablets will aid in extracting the nutrition from the food which will increase the red blood supply, overcome nervousness and you will become plump and healthy. This treatment should be continued for several months, as it takes time to change the tissues and cells of the body.

"Sarah" says: "Can anything be done for one who is bothered with rheumatism? If so, please reply."

Answer: You can be entirely cured of your rheumatism if you take the following: Mix by shaking well and take a teaspoonful at meal times and at bed time and you will soon be cured. Comp. essence cardiol, 1 oz.; comp. fluid balmwort, 1 oz.; syrup sarsaparilla comp., 5 ozs.; wine of colchicum, one-half oz.; sodium salicylate, 4 drams; iodide of potassium, 2 drams.

"Ray" writes: "Can a sufferer from bronchial trouble be relieved? Doctors do not seem to help me, what would you suggest?"

Answer: To cure chronic cold, sore throat and bronchitis, I would advise the use of concentrated essence mentho-laxene. Purchase this at any drug store in 2½ oz. packages and mix according to directions given on bottle and you will very shortly be cured of all bronchial trouble. This will not only relieve, but will cure, and is very pleasant to take.

"Hulda" says: "I cannot eat without great distress after eating. I am sleepless and restless, nervous and irritable. Can you tell me anything that would cure me?"

Answer: Your trouble is all due to your stomach, which causes the nervous, restless feeling. Take tablets triopeptine and you will soon be cured of all this trouble. These are packed in sealed cartons and are pink, white and blue tablets to be taken after meals. Take the pink tablet after breakfast, white after dinner and blue after supper. If this is continued the curative agencies will soon restore natural digestion.

THE SCOTS OF DULUTH PAY THEIR ANNUAL TRIBUTE TO THE MEMORY OF BOBBIE BURNS

SCENE AT CLAN STEWART DANCE.

More than 400 of the Scotch residents of Duluth attended the celebration of the 153rd anniversary of the birth of Robert Burns at the Spalding last evening.

The affair was held under the euspices of Clan Stewart of the Order of Scottish Clans. The celebration could not have been a greater success than it was. It seeemd that every individual in that large assemblage was brimming over with the spirit of the occasion.

The early part of the evening was taken up with the rendition of an elaborate program of Scottish songs and music, with several appropriate literary numbers, the principal one of which was an address on the life and character of the great Scottish bard by Rev. Donald McKenzie of Mankato. The speaker gave a most vivid word portrayal of the brief, pathetic and intensely interesting career of the remarkable man, who notwithstanding the wretched poverty that blighted his life, made his name immortal throughout the civilized world by what he gave to its literature.

Alexander Macrae, chief of the clan, was toastmaster. The program was opened with a bagpipe number rendered in true Scottish style by the clan pipers, arrayed in the proverbial Highland costume, with the plaid and kilts. Toastmaster Macrae gave a few opening remarks, calculated to raise the audience to the proper degree of enthusiasm for the object of the gathering, but that was far from necessary. Every one of the early numbers was instantly encored, until the chairman announced that the encores would have to be dispensed with, as there was no time for this lengthening of the literary and musical program, for some time must be reserved for the dance that was to come afterwards.

Scotch Songs.

Many were the songs, dear to every loyal Scottish heart, that were sung during the evening. Philip Gordon Brown rendered "Scots Wha Hae," "There's a Wee Bit Land," and "The Battle of Stirling Bridge"; Miss Glenn Bartholomew, "Ye Banks and Braes," "The Land o' the Leal" and "My Heart Is Sair for Somebody"; J. R. Batchelor, "Flow Gently, Sweet Afton," "Jessie, the Flower o' Dunblane" and "O a' the Airts the Win' Can Blaw"; Wilbur Foster, "My Love Is Like a Red, Red Rose" and "Oh, Where, Tell Me, Where"; Miss Ruth Brown, "My Ain Folk" and "A Highland Lad My Love Was Born"; and John H. Matheson, a Gaelic song entitled "Duthaich Nan Craobh" or "The Land of the Trees." Two of these songs, "The Land o' the Leal" and "My Love is Like a Red, Red Rose," were sung in tunes that were not familiar to the audience, and while exquisitely rendered, evoked a general comment that they would have been still more enjoyed had they been given in the old tunes which were familiar to the Scottish ear. The accompaniments were played at the piano by Miss Lillian Macaskill.

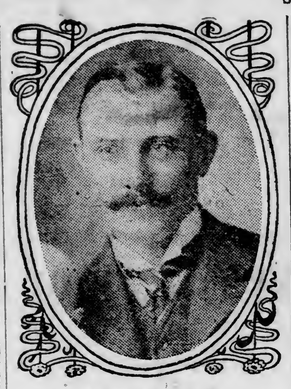

Probably no part of the program was more heartily applauded than the dances by Miss Myrtle Kilgour, who first gave the "Highland Fling" and as an encore rendered another Highland dance entitled "Shean Triubhas." The dances were accompanied with the bagpipes by Robert Mowbray. Both the performers appeared in Highland costumes.

Several exquisite violin solos were given by Miss Wally Heymar, accompanied by Miss Alice May Brown at the piano.

Miss Agnes Mae Johnson, though of Danish descent, showed that one did not have to be Scotch in order to master the Scotch dialect, when she recited "Eilleh McJones, Aberdeen." In response to calls for an encore, she gave a Swedish dialect piece of her own composition, entitled "Ole at the Baseball Game." It was an intensely amusing production.

The program of songs and other renditions befitting the occasion was closed with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne" by the whole gathering.

About 11 o'clock, the dancing commenced. The participants danced away into the "wee sma'" hours. Music was furnished by Di Marco's orchestra.

CLAN STEWART ORATOR DIES IN UNION STATION

Rev. Donald MacKenzie of Mankato, who came here to speak at the Clan Stewart banquet last evening, dropped dead shortly before 2 o'clock this afternoon at the union station while waiting to take his train. Mr. MacKenzie had just finished luncheon with a number of his friends at the Spalding, and they escorted him to the station. He fell to the floor in the main waiting room a few moments after purchasing his ticket. Heart disease is given as the cause of his death.

Rev. MacKenzie was 46 years old and one of the most prominent ministers in Minnesota. He also took an active part in the state anti-saloon league and was superintendent for the southwest district. He leaves a wife, who is now visiting in Minneapolis.

Rev. MacKenzie was the principal speaker at the Clan Stewart celebration last evening, telling of the life of Robert Burns. A. G. McKnight, former chief of the clan, was one of the members at the dinner party this noon and was with Mr. MacKenzie when he dropped dead.

WOODMEN NEAR VOTE ON RATES

Another Day of Argument Is Scheduled at Chicago Meeting.

Chicago, Jan. 26. — Delegates to the convention of the Modern Woodmen of America were expected to vote today on the question of raising insurance rates for the order.

Those opposed to an upward revision of the rates have thus far not been heard but they were promised they would be allowed to state their side of the case before a vote is taken.

The case of the opposition was to have been presented yesterday, but this was prevented when an extra allotment of time was granted George D. Eldridge and James Egan, who spoke in favor of the increase.

NO BASIS FOR PEACE IN WAR OVER TRIPOLI.

Rome, Jan. 26. — Although the work of the European diplomatic chancellories has been carried on actively both in Constantinople and Rome during the last few days in the endeavor to find a means of bringing about peace between Italy and Turkey, no basis has yet been found on which can be started negotiations which are likely to have any probability of success.

MISSOURI REPUBLICAN EDITORS IN SESSION.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 26.—With an atendance greater than at any previous meeting, the Republican Editorial Association of Missouri began a two days' session here at 10 o'clock today. The program for the afternoon meeting included a number of addresses.

Tonight the association will hold its annual banquet. The guests of honor, who will address the editors at the banquet, include Charles Nagel, secretary of commerce and labor; C. A. Newton of the department of justice, Washington; Frank A. Reid of Illinois; Governor Herbert S. Hadley of Missouri, and Charles F. Scott, former congressman from Kansas.

CHANGES ARE VERY SLIGHT

Bull and Bear Wheat Factors Almost Neutralize Each Other.

Higher Argentine Flax Cables Offset By Large Country Receipts.

Duluth Board of Trade, Jan. 26.—Fluctuations in the wheat markets of North America were very slight and within a narrow range today. Duluth May wheat closed unchanged to ⅛c higher. Cash wheat closed at the May price. Durum and rye were unchanged and oats ¼c off. In flax, as in wheat, the bull and bear factors were about evenly balanced. Duluth January closed ½c up and May ½c down.

Wheat movements on the markets of North America today were irregular and mixed. At noon it could hardly be said that the general situation was either bullish or bearish. May wheat was slightly up at Duluth and Minneapolis, almost unchanged at Chicago and sligthly down at Winnipeg.

Buenos Ayres wheat last night closing 1c to ¾c off and this morning opened at a further decline of ¼c to ⅜c. This was due to an improved outlook in the strike situation and to generally favorable weather. The Liverpool market was bullied, however, by a better demand on the part of the United Kingdom and the Continent, lighter shipments from Argentina and Australia. Wheat closed on the Liverpool market ½ to ⅝d higher.

Winnipeg today reported, as usual, that its receipts of wheat from the country were vastly in excess of those of last year, but the primary wheat receipts of the United States showed the usual falling off in comparison with those of last year, though they were somewhat larger than those of the week ago. Wheat on the whole was rather dull. Minneapolis, however, reported a fair cash demand.

Duluth May wheat, which closed yesterday at $1.05⅞, opened today at $1.06 bid and at noon was quoted at this same figure.

Flax Slightly Higher.

Offers of flax on the Duluth market were fairly large today, being considerably greater than those of last on the track for inspection, showing that country people with flax for sale have not been idle during the milder weather. The Duluth price would probably have taken quite a drop had it not been for bullish news from Buenos Ayres. Showers in Southern Argentina have been interfering with the harvesting of flax seed. February closed on that market last night at $2.01⅝, showing an advance of 1⅜c over the close of the day before. This morning there was a further advance of 1⅛c. Duluth January at noon today was 1c up and May ½c down.

Cash Sales Friday.

The Modern Miller: St. Louis says: "Moderate weather has removed the snow over a large area of the winter wheat belt, uncovering the crop as far north as the 40th deg. latitude. Both good and bad conditions have been revealed. The appearance of the crop is the poorest in the late planted wheat, which to a large extent went under the snow in an unfavorable condition."

Bradstreet's report of business conditions at Duluth for the week ending today is as follows: "Wholesale trade is generally improving. Jobbers in dry goods, hardware, shoes, leather and furniture report good trading in futures, and orders for immediate shipment show good volume. Collections are somewhat slow, but improvement is noted. Logging operations are fairly active. Some unfilled orders for men are noted. This is due more to past excessive cold weather than to scarcity of labor. Building operations are slow, but there is an encouraging increase."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Scarcity of Contract Wheat at Liverpool Hardens Market.

Chicago, Jan. 26. — Scarcity of contract wheat at Liverpool tended today to harden the market here. Receipts at points northwest of Chicago were small. Strength of coarse grain also was a source of sentiment adverse to the bears.

Opening prices were a shade off to ⅛@¼c advance. May started at $1.02 to $1.02¼, a gain of a sixteenth to ⅛@¼c, touched $1.01⅞ and then rose to $1.02¼.

Afterward the market declined owing to realizing sales, but rallied because of better flour trade. The close was firm with May at $1.01⅞@1.02, exactly the same as last night.

Some new investment buying had a bullish effect on corn, selling was largely in the way of profit-taking. May opened a shade down to ⅛@¼c higher at 67⅝c to 67⅞c, and climbed to 68c.

Slackness of Eastern demand coupled with more liberal offerings from the country led to a setback. The close was steady at 67½@67⅝c, a net loss of ⅛c.

May oats started unchanged to ¼c higher at 50⅞c to 51c and ascended to 51⅛@51¼c.

Heavy receipts of hogs depressed provisions. First sales were 2½c to 5c lower, with May delivery $16.27½ to $16.30 for pork, $9.40 for lard and $8.77½ for ribs.

Cotton Market.

New York, Jan. 26.—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of 4 to 6 points in response to better cables than looked for and covering by recent sellers.

There were selling orders from the South, apparently, but nothing to indicate any immediate weakness in the spot situation, and while reports were received from Memphis that picking and ginning were becoming more active, with cotton reaching the towns freely, both in seed and bales, prices here were very well sustained. Trade interests were moderate buyers and continued firmness in Liverpool undoubtedly helped the tone of the local market.

Fuures closed weak. Closing bids: January, 9.30; February, 9.31; March, 9.41; April, 9.48; May, 9.57; June, 9.62; July, 9.69; August, 9.72; September, 9.77; October, 9.79; November, 9.82; December, 9.85.

BOSTON COPPER STOCKS

The Boston stock quotations furnished by Gay & Sturgis, 326 West Superior street.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 26. — Quite an active speculation went on today in the cheaper copper stocks, while standard issues were dull, spiritless and heavy. The general list was also heavy, as was to be expected in view of the reduction in the St. Paul dividend. Today's transactions indicate a desire to speculate. The reason why it is not more general is of course, apparent. It looks as though this speculation in the cheaper coppers would go further. Franklin looks like a good purchase.

Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 26.—Barrett & Zimmerman report: The market showed a fairly good tone and there was a satisfactory clearance in all classes of horses, especially general purpose farm mares and horses, but as yet there has been no indication of values assuming a higher level as dealers and shippers who buy horses on the market insist that they must have them cheaper than heretofore or they cannot buy them. Buyers in the country should impress this upon the minds of farmers, as the price certainly will not advance under present business conditions. Mules and common grade horses are without call. Receipts about 100 head.

London Stocks.

London, Jan. 26. — American securities opened quiet and about unchanged today. Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul shares became weak and declined about 2 points on the dividend reduction and the rest of the list eased off in sympathy before the end of the first hour. At noon St. Paul was 1⅜ below yesterday's New York closing, while the other stocks ranged from unchanged to ½ lower.

The people your property would appeal to are, almost surely, readers of Herald real estate advertising.

STOCKS ARE IRREGULAR

United States Steel Gives Way and Weakens General Market.

Industrials Advance Toward the Close, Which Is Firm.

New York, Jan. 26. — St. Paul dropped sharply at the opening of the stock market today, on account of the reduction in the dividend rate after the market closed yesterday. The first transaction was a lot of 2,000 shares at 107¾ to 107¼, compared with yesterday's close of 108¾. It subsequently rose to 108. The general market was irregular. Trading in Reading was unusually heavy and the quotation was raised 1¼. Great Northern preferred advanced a point, Lorillard ⅝ and New York Central ⅝. Union Pacific, Lehigh Valley and Northern Pacific were heavy.

Stocks were purchased for a time when Reading and the Hill group began to show strength, but when the list had improved to about yesterday's closing large selling orders were executed and the market drooped rapidly. Union Pacific sold 1⅝ under last night, Lehigh Valley 1⅜, Utah Copper 1¾ and Northern Pacific 1.

St. Paul broke to 107 and the active list generally ruled a large fraction below yesterday's final figures.

Tobacco stocks were buoyant. American Tobacco gained 4 points and Liggett & Myers 2¼.

Highly irregular movements of stocks during the morning apparently reflected a confused state of speculative opinion. The sentimental effect of the reduction of the St. Paul dividend and the sharp break in the price of the stock in London before the opening here gave the market an appearance of heaviness, despite the bidding up of a few stocks at the outset. This manipulation was most pronounced in Reading, Great Northern preferred and New York Central, and apparently was designed to conceal selling elsewhere. When traders discovered that sales of this nature were being made they attacked the list and the whole market gave way.

The bears widened the scope of their selling and stocks which had showed decided strength earlier, particularly Great Northern preferred, registered sharp losses. United States Steel was vulnerable and when it gave way to 65⅛ it weakened the resistance of the general market. International Paper preferred was unusually active, and converted an early loss of a point into a gain of over 2 points. American Tobacco rose 7½ to 267½. Bonds were irregular.

The market closed firm. Room shorts showed concern over the unaccountable heavy accumulation of New York Central, which lifted it 2½ and began to buy more generally of the active list. St. Paul ended with a loss of a point. Recruits were added from time to time to the long list of industrials and specialists which advanced in striking manner.

WILSON GETS BOOST BY REFUSING TO TAKE AID OF WALL STREET

Latest Developments in Row With Harvey Help Governor.

Wilson Denies Watterson Was Authorized to Raise Funds.

Tillman Calls Upon Kentucky Editor to Publish Any Proofs.

Washington, Jan. 27.—The revelation that the break between Woodrow Wilson and Col. Harvey of Harper's Weekly was caused by Wilson's refusal to ask Wall Street aid is the political sensation of the day here. It is agreed by all that the latest development has helped the New Jersey governor immensely.

There is much speculation as to why Mr. Wilson did not make this public at once as a reply to Henry Watterson's attack on Wilson for casting off Harper's Weekly.

It was only a few days ago that it became known that the break between Harvey and Wilson came when Harvey suggested that the governor go to Thomas Fortune Ryan, the Wall Street man, and ask him to finance the Wilson campaign for president.

Hurt Wilson at First.

At first the Watterson attack upon Wilson was looked upon even by Wilson's friends as rather a serious blow to the governor. Now, however, the tide has turned and it is generally admitted that the incident has strengthened Wilson. Col. Watterson is now coming in for criticism, not only by the Wilson adherents, but by the unprejudiced as well. It is argued that the Kentuckian knew of the Ryan suggestion at the same time that he wrote his "knock" upon Wilson, but he carefully refrained from saying anything about it.

Why, ask Wilson's friends, did the Southern editor go into such details as to the conversation between Harvey and Wilson and then completely eliminate the Ryan matter, which would have placed an entirely new aspect upon the whole affair? They say that it was an attempt to entangle Wilson with the big interests and, after they had him tied and hobbled, to sidetrack him. It was a Harvey move, say Wilson's followers, but Watterson knew

CUMMINS AND ROOSEVELT

Iowa Man Not Desirous of Seeing Roosevelt the Nominee.

Indiana Politicians Are Grooming Fairbanks as a "Dark Horse."

(By Willis J. Abbot.)

Washington, Jan. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Senator Kenyon's announcement that he will use all his influence for his colleague, Senator Cummins, for the presidential nomination, is a matter of importance in the political situation today. Kenyon is an Insurgent Republican. In conversation with me not more than four months ago he described himself as "a Progressive who is for Taft." Now he has changed front. He has not gone the whole course of the Progressives and declared for La Follette. Neither does he announce himself for Roosevelt. He finds a convenient halfway house in the candidacy of his Iowa colleague, Senator Cummins.

Now Cummins has but the slenderest chance of a nomination. Men in politics are wondering why he allows his name to be used as a candidate. Those

TEXAS IS WINNING MENINGITIS FIGHT

Theaters Will Reopen Monday and Schools Will Resume Feb. 5.

Dallas, Tex., Jan. 27.—Success which has marked attempts of physicians to combat the spread of meningitis, and the gradual eradication of the epidemic has developed such optimism among officials and citizens that public schools will reopen Feb. 5. Theaters, which closed their doors because of lack of audiences, will resume business Monday next.

ALASKA WARMED BY OCEAN FREAK

Japan Current in the Pacific Has Changed Its Course.

Cordova, Alaska, Jan. 27.—A phenomenal change in the course of the Japan current, which brings it closer to the Alaskan coast, was reported here today by Capt. J. C. Hunter of the steamer Northwestern, and Capt. P. A. Ebert of the steamer Edith, arriving from Seattle. Capt. Hunter said the Northwestern was set fifty miles eastward ahead of the fog, running from Cape Flattery to Cape St. Elias.

Unusual weather conditions, believed to be due to the change in the current, have prevailed here for weeks. The average temperature has been 44 deg. below zero and there have been heavy rains.

Reports from the interior show temperatures there 15 deg. warmer than ever before recorded at this time of the year.

Warnings by wireles have been sent to steamships now approaching Cordova.

DRIFT FIVE DAYS IN GASOLINE BOAT

Man, Woman and Child in Philippines Endure Terrible Hardships.

Manila, Jan. 27. — Terrible hardships were suffered by two school teachers, Arthur Young and his wife, of the town of Maasin, Island of Leyte, while on a visit of inspection of the schools of the district, accompanied by their 2-year-old child.

They started from Maasin in a gasoline launch, which soon became unmanageable. As there were no oars in the boat they could not reach shore, and the little craft drifted out to sea. For five days and five nights they floated about without meeting any other vessel. They had neither food nor water with them, and were almost in despair when they were cast on the beach of Siquijor island, 200 miles distance.

When they landed Mr. and Mrs. Young were both fearfully emaciated and suffering, but the child was quite well. All will recover.

FRENCH BOAT IS SEARCHED

Passenger Steamer Stopped By Italians in Search of Contraband.

Barges Are Shelled While Said to Be in French Water.

Rome, Jan. 27.—The French passenger steamer Tavignano was seized by Italian torpedo boats last night, off Biban, Tunis, and was released this morning.

A semi-official note issued this morning explains that the French steamer Tavignano was seized by the Italian torpedo boat destroyer Fulmine nine miles east of Zarzis, and outside of French waters.

As it was rumored that Travignano was engaged in carrying contraband, and as the Italian officers on searching the vessel did not find any customs receipts on board, the steamer was escorted to Tripoli. Three hours later, however, after a thorough inspection of the ship had not revealed any contraband, the Tavignano was released.

TRAINS GUNS UPON BOSSES

Merriam Is Made Temporary Chairman of Illinois Progressives.

Flays "Lincoln Protective League" and Deneen and His Allies.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 27. — Prof. Charles E. Merriam, former alderman and once candidate for mayor of Chicago, was made temporary chairman of the conference of Progressive Republicans here today. The conference was called to order by Fred S. Wilbur of East St. Louis, candidate for nomination for congressman against William A. Rodenburg.

In his address to the conference Mr. Merriam attacked the Lincoln Protective league.

"The Progressive Republicans of Illinois are surrounded by foes of various descriptions," said he. "The so-called Lincoln Protective league is organized for the alleged purpose of protecting representative government.

Effrontery Is Astounding.

"The effrontery of the leaders, whose real purpose is the defense of Lorimer, is astounding. The use of the name, 'Abraham Lincoln,' for this purpose is a piece of political sacrilege unparalleled in the history of this or any other state. That action deserves the rebuke of every Republican in whose heart the name of the great Republican is enshrined.

"We also have 'the Deneen Protective league.' Yesterday we find the governor tickering with Busse, and a few months ago with Lorimer, and a little later on the porch of James Pease (not in the kitchen), with Roger Sullivan, Roy O. West, et al. He has not been a governor of the people of this state, who are progressive.

Platform of Progressives.

"We stand for the direct election of United States senators, the initiative and the referendum and recall, and we find the political bosses and the moneyed interests of this state formidably arrayed against these reforms."

TRANSIENT HELD AS MURDERER

Herman Schultz Accused of Killing Man Near Anamoose, N. D.

Rugby, N. D., Jan. 27.—(Special to The Herald.) — Charged with murder in the first degree, Herman Schultz, aged 42, a transient laborer, has been arrested here and will be arraigned Tuesday for the death of William Murray, the night watchman employed near Anamoose, whose body was found on the right-of-way of the Great Northern line.

That Murray came to his death by a blow on the head from a blunt instrument was the finding of the coroner's jury. A pick ax was found near the scene of the crime, and it is supposed that it was used by the murderer. Officials have as yet been unable to find any motive for the crime.

Otto Luther, a roommate of Schultz, is said to have given damaging evidence against the latter.

"RED PLAGUE" FIGHT BEGINS

Wisconsin State Officers Open Determined Safety Campaign.

Investigation of City Fire-Fighting Equipments Started.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 27.—"Anti-Red plague" posters with some flaming touches of red ink have been put out by State Fire Marshal T. M. Purtell, and will be distributed broadcast throughout the state. Some will be posted in the woods to back up the notices that are tacked up regularly by the state forester. The fire marshal's department, chiefs of local fire departments and members of the Wisconsin State Fire Prevention association will join in the work of plastering these placards in every village, town and city of the state.

The poster is headed: "Anti-red plague fight for fire prevention! Will you help?" After calling attention to the per capita fire waste of the United States as compared with Europe, comes the A, B, C of fire prevention in the form of a few rules of caution which originated in the fire marshal's department.

Ask About City Work.

To ascertain to what extent fire departments in Wisconsin cities are equipped to do effective work in reducing the fire loss and how completely the common councils co-operate in standardizing the departments, the Wisconsin legislative fire insurance investigating committee is sending letters to chiefs of fire departments which are entitled to fire department dues payable by insurance companies.

The effect of the improvement in fire departments upon insurance rates and the general sentiment in the community regarding the prevention of fires and the co-operation of the individual property owner with the public in reducing the fire loss are among the conclusions desired.

SUFFRAGETTES AFTER HARCOURT

Intend to Make Life Miserable for British Secretary.

London, Jan. 27.—Lewis Harcourt's life is to be made miserable if the suffragettes can do anything to make it so. In reply to a deputation, Mr. Harcourt, who is secretary in state for the colonies, reiterated his opposition to women's suffrage, and the head of the deputation declared that the women of Great Britain would do all in their power for his discomfort. His bread, she said, was buttered, and he had no sympathy for working women.

STUBBS MAY SEE TEDDY

Kansas Governor Who Indorsed Roosevelt Is in New York City.

Glasscock of West Virginia Confident Colonel Would Take Nomination.

New York, Jan. 27.—Governor Walter R. Stubbs of Kansas, who with Governor Glasscock of West Virginia, recently declared himself for the nomination of Col. Theodore Roosevelt for the presidency, reached New York today.

Col. Roosevelt spent the day at Oyster Bay and Governor Stubbs could not say whether he would see the former president before leaving New York. Governor Stubbs will address the Kansas society at its annual banquet Monday night.

Governor Glasscock will address the West Virginia society tonight. President Taft also will make a speech before the society.

Glasscock Is Confident.

William F. Glasscock, governor of West Virginia, called at the Outlook office yesterday to see Col. Theodore Roosevelt, and took part in a luncheon engagement with the former president. When the governor left he said that he still was of the opinion that Mr. Roosevelt should and would be nominated.

"I think he will never be a candidate for the office," said Mr. Glasscock. "I am not authorized to speak for Col. Roosevelt, nor am I attempting to do so, but it is my opinion that he will have to be nominated without being a candidate."

"Do you think that he would accept the nomination?"

"It is my personal opinion that he would, if the American people ask him to accept. This is not based, however, on anything that Col. Roosevelt said.

MANITOBA GOLD BUBBLE BURSTS

Eight Thousand Claims Staked Out on Ground Declared Worthless.

Winnipeg, Man., Jan. 27.—The gold mining bubble at Minitonas, Man., which has been exciting the people of the country for the last two weeks, burst last night when California and Yukon mining experts, at a mass meeting of prospectors, after having spent the day in examining samples, announced they were unable to find traces of gold making it worth while to develop.

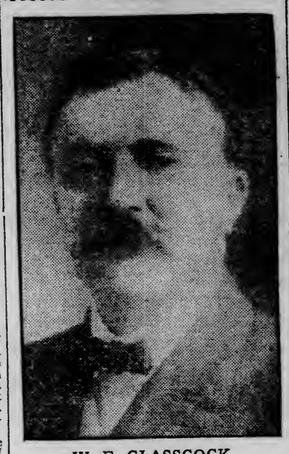

Eight thousand claims have been staked out. Hundreds of men rushed into the new fields, 250 miles northwest of Winnipeg, where "discoveries" were announced two weeks ago. Many now are suffering from the cold and hunger. The little town is out of provisions and many of those arriving are ill-prepared for the cold weather. The rush resembled that to Klondike fifteen years ago. Old miners went by the score with tents and mining outfits.

A LITTLE LAZY

PRESIDENT SUN SAYS THE THRONE MUST BE VACATED BY JAN. 29

BELIEVES ROOSEVELT IS WILLING TO RUN

W. E. GLASSCOCK, Governor of West Virginia.

Ultimatum Issued By Head of Republic to Chinese Imperialists.

Dynamite Campaign Threatened By Rebels Has Been Begun.

Two Prominent Officials of Manchus Attacked and One May Die.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 27.—President Sun Yat Sen of the Provisional Chinese republic, has issued an ultimatum declaring the Manchu throne must be abdicated by 8 o'clock on the morning of Jan. 29, the date set for the ending of the armistice between the government and the Republicans or an attack will be made on the capital.

This information reached here today in a cablegram to the Chinese Free Press.

Blowing Up Manchus.

Pekin, Jan. 27.—The agents of the revolutionaries in this city recently intimated that a dynamite campaign was not improbable in the near future. Yesterday's and today's outrages may be the beginning of a series of similar crimes. It is evidently the intention of the dynamiters to pick out the most prominent officials and military officers who are known to be opposed to the republican movement.

The Republican agents, who do not attempt to keep the nature of their mission in Pekin secret, declare that fighting will not be resumed immediately, although isolated conflicts may occur. They communicate openly with the staff of Premier Yuan Shi Kai, many of the members of which have expressed revolutionary sympathies.

One of the revolutionary agents here makes the assertion that he has been received by Premier Yuan Shi Kai, who made him the promise to release a number of suspected dynamiters who have been imprisoned recently.

Yuan Shi Kai was yesterday created a marquis, an act believed to cover some unrevealed plan on the part of the imperial government.

Liang Pi Wounded by Bomb.

Gen. Liang Pi, a high Manchu official and former commandant of the imperial guards, was injured, perhaps fatally, today by a bomb thrown by an unidentified Chinaman in military uniform. The man hurled the bomb from the side of the road as Liang Pi was alighting from his carriage to enter his home. Both of the general's legs were broken and torn, and the immediate amputation of one leg was necessary.

The assailant was himself instantly

PACKERS ON THE DEFENSE

Margin Clerk of National Company Is Under Cross-Examination.

Effort Is Made to Refute Charge of Uniform System.

Chicago, Jan. 27.—Cross-examination of Steiner G. Langher, margin clerk of the National Packing company, by Attorney John Barton Payne to show the varying margins and selling prices of shipments of beef from the same plant held in different cities, was continued in the packers' trial today.

The witness read long lists of shipments showing the weights, margins and selling prices of beef sent from Chicago, St. Joseph, Kansas City and Omaha plants of the National Packing company to Eastern cities.

The period covered was from 1907 to 1910 and the prices ranged from 5 to 8¾ cents a pound. Several instances were referred to where there was a difference of more than a cent a pound in the price of dressed meats sold in an Eastern city the same day.

By these comparisons the defense endeavored to refute the charges of the government that the test cost and margin system used by the alleged packers' combination was uniform and played an important part in fixing the selling prices of fresh beef.

The witness produced the "red books" in which the average sales and margins were kept.

MAN MURDERED ON ABANDONED FARM

Two North Dakota Laborers Are Sought With Warrants.

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 27. — (Special to The Herald.) — The body of John Kutman, a Polish laborer, has been found three miles southwest of Skyeston, N. D., on an unoccupied farm. Kutman had been shot in the back of the head and a coroner's jury found that he had been murdered Oct. 28, and charged Bruno Zytko and John Kempski with the crime. The three were companions during the thrashing season and Kutman was known to have had $200 in cash. Zytko is in Michigan and Kempski is in Chicago. Warrants have been issued for their arrest.

MORSE LEAVES ARMY HOSPITAL

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 27.—Charles W. Morse, the New York banker whose prison sentence was recently commuted by President Taft, left the army hospital at Fort McPherson this morning. He was brought to a local hotel, where he will stay until he is able to be moved, probably to some Florida resort.

Morse was accompanied by Mrs Morse and his sister, Miss Jennie Morse. He was conveyed from the military reservation in an ambulance.

For the first time in more than two years Morse this morning escaped the eye of government officials. Since his freedom was given two weeks ago, he has remained in the hospital, too ill to be moved, according to his doctors.

Duluth Chinese Have Contributed Freely Toward the Revolution.

Were Desirous of Seeing Overthrow of the Manchu Dynasty.

Duluth shared in the expenses of the Chinese campaign—the campaign that has resulted in the changing of the aged empire into a republic. Duluth's Chinese population forwarded an amount estimated at $5,000 to the Chung Sai Yat Bo, the largest daily Chinese newspaper of San Francisco, and the editors of the paper have in turn forwarded the money to China for the general need of the cause of Dr. Sun.

Chin Ong, one of the most intelligent and progressive of the Duluth Chinese, was asked whether the Chinese residents of Duluth took any interest in the transformation of China from an empire into a republic. He smiled the mysterious, the childish, the enigmatical smile of the East. "We send money," he said, implying that when one sends money their interest is very high.

"This paper of San Francisco is taken by most of the Chinamen in Duluth," continued Chin Ong. "In all the stores, in the laundries and in the homes of the Chinese you will find Anti-Eberhart Combine.

Each for himself and both against Eberhart, is the position of Sam Y. Gordon and William E. Lee. The two Progressive candidates for governor have "gotten together." Not in personal contact, but by pledges to an interested person, they have agreed that the man who goes into the convention with the greater number of delegates will be accorded the support of the other, insofar as it can be swung.

The fact clears the atmosphere. There was a fear among the Progressives and a hope among the "organization" adherents that Gordon and Lee would so split the Progressive strength that Eberhart would slip in between with the nomination. An agreement to pool interests in the convention obviates that possibility. It has now develo, d into a contest to gain Progressive delegates enough to nominate one or the other.

Anti-Eberhart people who desire above all things to defeat the governor in the convention are responsible for the Gordon-Lee agreement. They have put it up to Gordon and Lee to have their fight before the convention. The two candidates will stump the state, each appealing for his own cause and denouncing the influences that now govern the state. ..ach will get as many delegates as he can for himself and when they enter the convention the elimination will take place and the weaker man will drop out.

The agreement will be satisfactory to most friends of the respective anti-Eberhart candidates. Gordon men would pick Lee as second choice, and vice versa. It is doubtful if any delegations will refuse to tie themselves up to one for fear of their candidate dropping out in avor of the other.

The arrangement doesn't improve the outlook for the governor. Neither does it hold much comfort for the organization. Lee can get delegates where Gordon cannot and Gordon will get some that Lee could not influence. Together they make a formidable pair of campaigners. If they should go into the convention without an agreement and Eberhart's nomination should appear impossible, the organization might swing to the weaker of the two and then claim part of the credit for the nomination, whether the candidate wanted such a development or not. They have an agreement and that avenue is blocked to the "machine."

It is the field against Eberhart and if any more enter the contest, they may be expected to tie up to the governor's adversaries.

County Option Not Dead.

"County option is not a dead issue, but it is not an issue in the governorship campaign. Eberhart is the issue there," said E. L. Quist of Thief River Falls, a member of the board of directors of the Anti-Saloon league yesterday. Mr. Quist was in Duluth, coming from Minneapolis, where the league met this week.

The absence of a county option pledge from any of the candidates will not keep the Anti-Saloon league out of the fight, according to Mr. Quist. The league regards county option as an issue in the campaign for house members and the league hopes to strengthen its position in the lower branch of the legislature, but with the senate as it is now constituted a county option governor could do nothing in the next session. However, the league is opposed to Eberhart and will throw its strength to the Progressive candidates, without distinction between them unless one should voluntarily come out for county option. In any event in the convention the league will support the man with the most delegates at the start.

The league is in good condition for a campaign for house members, Mr. Quist says. It will make its influence felt in almost every district in the state, and in 1914 will make a similar attack on the senate.

Personally, Mr. Quist is evidently partial to Lee, and he says there is considerable Lee sentiment in the Ninth district. The anti-Eberhart sentiment is the main feature of the situation, he says, and the majority of the Republicans of the counties with which he has been in touch will prefer either Gordon or Lee to Eberhart.

"I have spent five weeks traveling through the state and I have yet to find a man who will say a good word for Eberhart without adding an apology," said Mr. Quist. "I don't see how he can win."

Ta a Common Cause.

It becomes more evident that all Progressive candidates for governor will be united by a common cause, the desire to defeat Eberhart. The preconvention fight will be the elimination contest. In the convention there will be a pooling of interests, and the man with the most Progressive delegates will take them all, with the exception of a few spilled in the transfer. The hope of the anti-Eberhart men is that all Progressive candidates will get a majority of the delegates.

"If we have a majority of the delegates we will nominate the ticket from top to bottom and give the Republicans of the state a clean ticket for once," said one enthusiastic anti-Eberhart man.

The Anti-Saloon league has taken a position in favor of supporting the strongest Progressive in the convention. Similar action was taken at a secret conference held in the office of Representative W. D. Washburn, Jr., in Minneapolis yesterday. Those present, according to dispatches from Minneapolis, were Senator Carl Wallace of Minneapolis, Representative Andrew Davis of Elk River, Paul Gilford and George S. Loftus of Minneapolis and Representative C. A. Congdon of Duluth.

It is significant that the Progressive league meeting called at Minneapolis for tonight was indefinitely postponed and Mr. Gilford and Mr. Loftus, representatives of the league, attended the conference in Minneapolis. The Progressive league has evidently despaired of bringing out a candidate of its own with a chance of success, and has decided to allow Gordon and Lee to go as they will, giving its support to the stronger when the convention meets.

Dunn Not a Candidate.

In the Princeton Union this week, Bob Dunn announces that he is not a candidate for the lieutenant governorship, or even for delegate to the Republican national convention. He says:

To preside over the deliberations of the Minnesota state senate would be a great honor, an honor to which any man might well aspire; but the publisher of the Union has no ambition in that direction, hence he is not a candidate fo the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor; furthermore he has not the slightest desire to serve as a delegate to the Republican national convention.

The announcement upsets the machine slate and leaves the place open. ...s. Parsons of Winona and D. M. Neill of Red Wing are among the men considered for the nomination but the organization would probably like to get a Northern man on the ticket

May Drop Schmahl.

There is a rumor that the organization would like to drop Julius Schmahl from the slate and substitute C. W. Gletfelter, president of the state fair board, or some other candidate. Schmahl has never stood any too strong with the Eberhart faction and only fear of results has blocked efforts to drop him. The fear may be overcome, but Schmahl has many friends and they may take a hand to save him if the organization has control of the convention.

Progressive Candidates.

Although it may keep out of the governorship contest between Lee and Gordon, the Progressive league is showing a disposition to bring forth candidates for other offices. It is considering J. A. A. Burnquist of St. Paul as a candidate for congressman-at-large and it may also indorse candidates for secretary of state and attorney general.

GEORGE D. McCARTHY.

INSANE FROM OVERSTUDY

Brainerd, Minn., Jan. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—With the car echoing with her hysterical laughter, Annie Peterson was taken to a hospital at Fergus Falls, relatives and Rev. Elof Carlson, the pastor of the family, accompanying the unfortunate girl on her journey. Annie is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Swan Peterson and the young woman had until recently been employed as a domestic by Dr. F. J. Patton of 1130 East Third street, Duluth. She was an ambitious girl and had been working as a domestic to earn her way through the normal school to get the certificate which would enable her to teach. Unremitting study broke the girl's mental faculties and her condition was first noticed by a street car conductor in Duluth who reported her strange conduct and hysterical laughter.

Her parents were summoned and took her home to Brainerd. Quiet and rest did not alter her condition and her removal to the Fergus Falls hospital is the last chapter in the student-working girl's life.

RICH PROPERTY ON NORTH SHORE

Cambrian Company Is in Extension of Keweenaw Copper Vein.

Copper rock that assays 2 to 3 per cent and better, opened up in tunuel, making the Cambrian Mining & Development Co., Ltd., a very rich property.

After three years of prospecting, the above company, by sinking shafts, drilling and other development work, has discovered rich amygdaloid formation carrying shot copper, stamp rock running 2 to 3 per cent or more in the red metal, and only 175 feet from mouth of tunnel, 200 feet above the lake level.

The formation of the Cambrian is simply a continuance of the Keweenaw vein, extending from the south shore under Lake Superior to the north shore, confirming the opinion of geological experts on mineralized formation, as illustrated by the Isle Royale and other Canadian copper mines on the north shore.

There is a great similiarity between the formation of the Cambrian property and that of the south shore. The whole peninsula being mountainous and heavily timbered surface with thick beds of conglomerate, showing outcroppings of mineralized copper rock, the same earmarks as are discernable on the south shore.

Now with only surface depth through the tunnel they have uncovered copper rock, which stamps the Cambrian as one of the richest in mineralized rock in the whole Lake Superior copper zone.

It is enough for the shareholders in the Cambrian Mining & Developing Co., Ltd., to know that there has been opened up a rich copper vein, and with further development they should have one of the mines such as made Keweenaw peninsula famous, yielding vast wealth to the stockholders in dividends and stock values.

Cambrian Mining & Development company's property is located on Black bay peninsula, north shore Lake Superior, in Canada, and contains 2,080 acres, with two natural harbors. The water here is of sufficient depth to allow vessels of heavy draught to enter, and numerous islands make it a perfect shelter from the severe storms.

Access to the property during the season of navigation is by water from Port Arthur via Thunder cape and the world's renowned Silver islet, and can be made in four to five hours.

Capt. J. King, a practical mining man, has examined the rock taker from the tunnel and pronounces it vein or amygdaloid, carrying native copper that reaches 2 to 3 per cent and better. Capt. King has spent thirty years in copper mines and in such mines as the Calumet & Hecla, Quincy, Ahmeek and others.

Development of the property will be pushed as fast as possible. A shaft is now being sunk and shipping equipment will be installed.

The officers and directors of the Cambrian Mining & Development Co., Ltd., are such business and professional men as Martin Smith, J. A. Scott, F. H. Barnard, Jr., H. Hovde, of Duluth, Minn., and Robert Ferguson of Port Arthur, Canada.

W. R. Rathbun of Duluth, Minn., is one of the promoters and is representing the company as agent.

Three Milwaukeeans Asphyxiated.

Milwauke, Wis., Jan. 27.—Charles Schultz, his wife and foster son, William Bartell, were found dead Friday afternoon at the Schultz home here from asphyxiation. It is said the gas from a coal stove overpowered the family.

BIG SUM FOR RELIEF FUND

Would Give Every Fireman in Duluth $1,800 If Divided.

The annual report of the Duluth Firemen's Relief association shows the organization to be one of the richest in this part of the country.

January 1 the books of the association showed the remarkable balance of $187,444.85. Could the money be distributed on a pro rata basis, every man on the department would get over $1,800. The number of men on the force at the present is approximately 100.

The statement shows that a year ago the balance was $169,633.03. The interest on that sum brought the fund $9,338.60; the state appropriation swelled it $12,104.68, while the dues received were $441. In the same period $1,458.25 was paid for relief and $1,797.71 in pensions. One death benefit of $300 was paid.

The jury was discharged by Judge W. S. McClenahan, and the case dismissed.

Eat and Get Thin.

This is turning an old phrase face about, but modern methods of reducing fat have made this revision possible.

If you are overfat and also averse to physical exertion during this warm weather, and likewise fond of the table and still want to reduce your excess flesh several pounds, do this: Go to your druggist (or write the Marmola Co., 491 Farmer Bldg., Detroit, Mich.) and give him (or send them) 75 cents. For this modest amount of money the druggist will put you in the way of satisfying your ambition for a nice, trim, slim figure, without fear of harm even on the hottest summer days. He will hand you a large case of Marmola Prescription Tablets (compounded in accordance with the famous Marmola Prescription), one of which you must take after each meal and at bedtime until you begin to lose your fat at the rate of 12 to 16 ounces a day. That is all. Just go on eating what you like, leave exercising to the athletes, but take your little tablet faithfully and without a doubt that flabby flesh will quickly take unto itself wings, leaving behind it your natural self, neatly clothed in firm flesh and trim muscles.

We Took His Advice

ONE of the six biggest men in the United States told us that we could do a real service by publishing the truth about corrupt judges.

This was two years ago. In the February number of Everybody's Magazine appears the first of a series of articles, by C. P. Connolly, entitled 'BIG BUSINESS AND THE BENCH.'

This is the outcome of that suggestion.

It will be denounced by many as muck-raking. It is muck-raking. We want you to know in advance what kind of muck-raking it is.

Mr. Connolly's investigation shows that there is incompetency--corruption --miscarriage of justice, and that these faults are undermining the people's respect for their courts.

We want to respect judges. We hope that the publication of the truth will lead to that reform of the judiciary which is necessary.

The unjust judge should be drummed out of service. We intend that some of them shall be.

We mean to respect judges.

If you believe in this kind of muck-racking, lend a hand. We can't do anything alone.

If you pass by on the other side, like the priest and the Levite in the parable, nothing will come of this effort; but if you read, and think, and discuss, you will help hasten the day of just and equal laws for rich and poor.

We firmly believe that this is the most important magazine contribution to good government for years.

We ask you to do your part in making it effective.

LAND, ROOMING HOUSES, FIRST MORTGAGES AND BATHING BEACHES

Herald's $1,000 Man Is Getting Advice of All Kinds.

One Woman Says She Really Made Poultry Pay.

Land!

That's still the keynote of the "what to do with my first $1,000" contest.

Today one woman gives her experience on the land. After that experience, she does not hesitate to suggest farming as the best way to become independent. She gives a part of her experience.

One man suggests that the owner of the $1,000 buy a house and go into the rooming business. Another suggests first mortgages.

A Crystal Falls man suggests a sort of lake beach plan which he thinks would pay well. It is that of having bathhouses and amusements for women and children on the shore of the lake.

A Cloquet man says, "salt it."

Some of the letters follow:

Carl Kronholm, 119 Michigan avenue—In answer to your contest, "What to do with my first $1,000," my advice to the man with the $1,000 is to buy a team of horses and a wagon, get a peddler's license and start out in the spring to sell fruits and vegetables. In the fall he could hire out his team and start a small grocery store. Next spring he could start out with his wagon, and his wife could tend to the store a part of the time, and hire a girl to tend to it the rest of the time, and after two or three years he will earn enough so he could sell his team and wagon and tend to the store himself.

H. E. Heisler, Harvey, N. D.—If I had the $1,000, I would go up to Canada and file on a homestead in Alberta or Saskatchewan and live on it. I would buy three young horses, one cow, about thirty-five chickens, and take them along with me. I would have between $300 and $400 when I got up there, and I would build a shack and a little barn on my claim, and you only need to live on it six months out of a year, and six months you can go out and work, or help your neighbor the same time you are farming your claim, and inside of three years you can prove up on it, and you have 160 acres of land in your name, also your stock of horses, cattle and chickens would have increased. Your land is worth from $3,000 to $5,000, you are your own boss, and its a healthy place to live and work.

Lottie Wilson, Cloquet, Minn.: I am herewith submitting to you what I consider a feasible solution to the problems of a man with $1,000 and a permanent position.

I should purchase a house, in or near the business center of Duluth, a house large enough for my family and three rooms besides. These extra rooms I should fit for renting to roomers. A house of this kind would cost approximately $2,500. Then rent would be eliminated for the future and my three rooms would be netting me about $24 a month. Now, adding to this $24 the usual $20 per month for rent I have $44 to pay each month on my house, and thus would in three years wholly wipe out the mortgage on my property, at the same time leaving me the same chance I had in the past for saving out of my salary.

Then in three years I should have a house worth at least $3,000, judging from present increase in value of property and $300 in the bank (at the rate of $1,000 in ten years). I should then wait to dispose of this house and purchase a bungalow for $1,500, with a large double lot. Then I should have $1,500 to invest, and I should give it to a good, reliable attorney to invest in tax titles, at the same time leaving the $300 in the bank and adding to this at the rate of $340 a year (rent plus usual saving.) Thus at the age of 40 I should find myself with a good position, a $1,500 cottage, $1,500 in real estate and $300 in the bank. At this I should be prepared for things as they would come and be almost independent. I think with a little consideration this plan will be found to have a solid foundation.

Stewart Irwin, Two Harbors, Minn.: In answer to your contest, "What to do with my first $1,000," I would advise that man to put the $1,000 in first mortgages in Duluth, Minn., and draw 6 per cent interest on it.

Charles A. Gross, Cloquet, Minn.: My advice to the young man with his first $1,000, is to take his $1,000 and salt it down in some local bank at 3 per cent interest, or more, as he is working for a good firm as clerk at a good wage. I would advise him to be loyal, hustle and be economical for the firm he is working for, for some day a vacancy may be made in the firm, or they might add on another man, and so if this young man has shown the qualities of good salesmanship he will most likely be added to the firm, at which time his $1,000 has grown and will continue to grow at a rapid rate. If this young man is waiting for luck to come around and make a fortune out of his $1,000, he will be like the man who built his house upon the sands. For fortune comes only to those who are willing to hustle, always having one eye open for new opportunities.

Ed. Karstad, Thief River Falls, Minn.—Move to Thief River Falls early in the spring and purchase a government claim of 160 acres for $640 near High Landing. Pay $142 down and the balance, $498, at the end of five years. By doing this you will not be in debt, and will, therefore, have no interest to pay on your investment. Build a comfortable house and move your family and household goods into it. Buy a team of horses, some cattle, pigs, chickens and other necessities. In the spring plow eighty acres and raise flax, and the balance put into timothy hay. In the fall harvest the crop, bring it to town and sell the flax for $2.50 a bushel and the hay for $10 a ton. With this money buy more provisions to last through the cold winter. While others are working in the cold for $1.50 a day, you are at home with your family enjoying comfort, prosperity and independence. Thousands of men work hard from spring until fall for their bread and butter and when winter comes they have to work still harder to keep their families alive. Besides they never have anything to show for their labor. But the farmers rest up during the winter months. Don't buy a farm for $1,500 or more and go in debt, when Uncle Sam can protect you and save you money. After being on the claim during any eight months steady out of the five years, the claim will be yours, providing you pay the remaining $498 at the end of five years. You will then be free from all incumbrances and no one can contest or deprive you of it as long as you pay the taxes. I feel sure in saying that no other proposition will profit or protect you from panics or hard times as much as a good farm. No policemen to run you in jail, no automobiles or street cars to run over you, no robbers to say, "hands up" and no fashions or styles to trouble you. You can always make a loan on a farm and the valuation never depreciates. The land is working while you are sleeping. A farm will always be a farm, but your money tied up in banks or other investments outside a farm, is always a conundrum. You can easily sell a farm, but a store, etc., you cannot. And you never can get from a store what you have once paid into it. I hope I have made farming clear to you.

Thomas Kermeen, Crystal Falls, Mich.—My advice to the man with a wife and family who has $1,000 saved and wanting to know what to do with it, is to get some rowboats made in Duluth about one dozen to start with each one to carry six people and put them on the lake in the season and charge 25 cents an hour for each person. He could have some good old sailor to look after his boats. Then he could get about six bathing vans on the lake shore at a convenient place, buy a horse to haul the vans in and out of the water, the charge to be 10 cents a head for the baths. Try it Mr. man. You can have a few donkeys on the shore for the kids to ride. You can clear $100 a week all summer. That is what I would do if I had $1,000 to start with. (Not on Lake Superior, Mr. Kermeen.—Contest Editor.)

Miss Ada Robinson, 1004 Lake avenue south — The man with $1,000 should keep his job as long as it will pay him.

He should also have $2,000 fraternal insurance for his family and himself. Then secure five or more acres of good land within easy walking distance of a 5 or 10-cent car line near the town where he is employed. Select a good view (if located in Duluth — Lake Superior could not be improved upon) the view will add to its value when improved. Consult an architect as to improvements. Build two rooms permanent that can be added to later, the rest of the rooms he may need at present build temporarily. Build back on an acre or an acre and a half, so he can have a large lawn. Make a good well, get a cow and some chickens. Live plain and economically, hire all the help he can afford to, to improve his place. Consult his wife for she likely has better judgment than himself. Let her superintend things generally. Keep out of debt as much as possible.

Plant as many hardy fruit trees as may seem advisable with plenty of currant and raspberry bushes, strawberries, etc.

Hedge his lawn and lay it out artistically, plant ornamental trees and shubbery with a view of having a fine country home. Raise as much produce as he can dispose of to advantage and in ten or fifteen years he will have a home that he will not want to part with, besides he will have health, a clean living for his family and happiness for himself, and can live in comfort the rest of his life by a little work at home when he feels like it.

Mrs. G. Mathewson, Merrill, Wis.—My advice to the young man who has $1,000 to invest, would be to buy a home, by all means, but not to put it all into city property. I would advise him to get a cheaper place near a good market—he might put part in such a place, and keep some for working capital.

I feel quite capable of giving such advice, for I have had the experience, within the last two years. I put over $1,000 in a home in this city, raising all my cash—not thinking of the expenses—taxes, insurance, water and light, and numerous other improvements.

Not counting on sickness, making it impossible to continue my occupation, so you see I made a great mistake.

My advice would be to get a cheap place at first, until he had more money, which he will soon have if he goes into the poultry business, by getting three or four dozen good thoroughbred hens, which will, from the start, keep a family of four in provisions, and by keeping 250 hens, he can clear a profit of $500 a year.

His wife and children could take nearly all the care of them, which is both healthful and entertaining employment, as all children like the idea of earning something themselves.

We have a number of ladies in our city who carry off most of the prizes at the county fair each year. They are not obliged to do it, but enjoy the occupation, and are proud of their flocks.

"I'VE GOT THE FIRST $1,000; WHAT SHALL I DO WITH IT?"

For the second of its series of contests The Herald has an interesting problem which comes to it in the form of a letter that explains itself:

To the Editor of The Herald:

We have often been told—at least we used to be—by rich men that the hardest work on the road to wealth is to get the first $1,000.

I've got that sum now—saved it out of my salary during ten years. Who will tell me how to go the rest of the way? How shall I invest it? Shall I go into business, and what kind, and how?

I am 35 years old, with a wife and two small children, and have a fair position with a living salary, but that's about all. Probably I could, if nothing happened, save another $1,000 in another ten years, but with the cost of living going up faster than salaries—and I can't expect mine to go much higher than it is—it is going to be harder. If I am ever going to start out for myself and gain independence or wealth, now is the time for me to begin, while I am strong and healthy and young.

What shall I do with myself and my $1,000—and my family?

Here's a real problem, a vital one that will interest everybody; and The Herald hopes to see a large and interesting variety of answers. It hopes, too, that men who have traveled the road that lies before this young inquirer will take part in the discussion. The prizes will, of course, be no temptation to them; but this is a subject of wide interest, and they should be glad to contribute their wisdom and experience to its solution.

Write out your answer, limit it to 300 words, put your name and address at the top of the sheet, write on one side of the paper only, and send it to the Contest Editor of The Herald before Feb. 1.

For the best answer to this young man's problem The Herald will give a prize of $10.

For the next best answer The Herald will give a prize of $5.

For the third best answer The Herald will give a prize of $3.

YEAR'S WORK AT POOR FARM

Superintendent's Report on County's Three Charitable Institutions.

Dr. C. J. Woolway, superintendent of the county poor hospital, has made a comprehensive report on the work done at the county hospital and poor farm during the year of 1911.

At the beginning of the year, 1911, there were 68 patients at the county hospital, 48 patients at the tuberculoss sanitarium and 60 inmates at the poor farm, a total of 176.

During the year just closed, 363 cases were admitted at the county hospital, of whom 351 were discharged. On Jan. 1, 1912, there were forty-eight hospital cases.

Seventy-five people were sent to the poor farm during the year and forty-nine were discharged. On Jan. 1, this year, there were seventy-three inmates.

Out of the 438 admissions at the hospital and poor farm 292 were afflicted with diseases, 5 were blind, 1 was insane, and the others are put under the following classifications: Childbirth, 3; old age, 29; accidental, 67; able-bodied, 26, and deformed, 15.

There were forty-five deaths from various causes at the poor farm and hospital during the year. The classification as to ages is as follows:

Between 60 and 82	15
Between 50 and 60	9
Between 40 and 50	9
Between 30 and 40	9
Between 20 and 30	4
Total	45

Of the total admissions at the poor farm and hospital, 414 were males and 24 females. Three children were born at the poor farm during the year, two children between the ages of 5 and 16 were admitted to the hospital and 81 persons over 60 years of age were taken in either at the hospital or poorhouse.

The nativity of those admitted during the year is as follows:

United States, 89; Finland, 83; Sweden, 60; Norway, 30; Ireland, 34; England, 12; Scotland, 5; Canada, 30; Russia, 4; Austria, 35; Germany, 23; Poland, 9; Italy, 7; Switzerland, 3; Australia, 1; Holland, 1; Bulgaria, 2; France, 1; Denmark, 1; Hungary, 1; Galicca, 1; Montenegro, 2; Bohemia, 1; Iceland, 1; Unknown, 2. Total, 438.

The report is a complete one and is also supplemented by a resume of the work done at the county tuberculosis sanitarium. At the beginning of 1911 there were forty-eight patients. Ninety-one were admitted during the year; 43 were discharged and 51 died, leaving 25 patients on hand at the beginning of the year 1912.

The number of deaths is large, the report says, owing to the advanced stage of the majority of cases—most of them being hopeless. A great good is done, however, says the report, in that they are removed from infecting others and that they are made more comfortable in their declining days.

Out of the forty-three discharged from the sanitarium, four were deported and eleven are now working and supporting themselves.

Have You the First $1,000?

If you have, you ought to see W. H. Smallwood regarding a farm in the Cook district. We have one farm of 160 acres for sale that would certainly suit you. There are twenty acres cleared and broken and $1,000 worth of improvements. This land is five miles from Cook, Minn., and in the very best farming district that you could conceive. $1,000 down and balance on easy terms. The price is only $13.50 per acre.

INTERNATIONAL FALLS LOSES TO RAILROAD.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 27.—It it not necessary for railroad companies to obtain franchise merely for the crossing of intersecting streets along their lines in cities or towns of Minnesota, according to a decision given by the supreme court Friday. This decision was given in the case of the city of International Falls against the Minnesota, Dakota & Western railway company in which the town was seeking to prevent the construction of four tracks across Fourth street.

The court draws a distinction between crossing a street and occupying a street. It holds that to cross a street is not to construct a railroad in or upon such street; that the words "in or upon" refer to a longitudinal occupation and that it is not necessary under this section to obtain from the city or village a franchise conferring the right to cross a street.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY FOR UNIVERSITY PASTOR PLAN.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 27.—The superintendents and secretaries of the Congregational State Missionary society from nearly every state, passed a resolution yesterday recommending the adoption of the Wisconsin plan of a university pastor, the emphasis in whose service shall be on an individual pastoral relation to students. The Congregational Educational society is called upon to incorporate it in its immediate program and it is proposed to establish this work in every state university in the country.

Want Dairy Laws Enforced.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 27.—Upholding the contention of numerous dairymen that stale and impure cream is being shipped to centralizing plants throughout Minnesota and that creameries in and near the Twin Cities are manufacturing butter therefrom, the State Dairymen's association has written Governor Eberhart asking that the dairy and food laws be more rigidly enforced.

INTERIOR VIEW OF VIENNA BAKERY AND CAFE

The Vienna Bakery and Cafe, 27 East Superior street was opened Wednesday, Nov. 30, 1910, by Chas, Schober. For six years Mr. Schober conducted the Old Vienna Bakery, now occupied by the Oak Hall building, and was also connected with the Bon Ton Bakery previous.

It is claimed that there is no finer place of its kind in the city in point of equipment for the convenience and comfort of its patrons. Special attention is given to the sanitary features, which are up to date in every respect. Mr. Schober's ability along the line of baking bread, pies and pastry and the manufacture of pure goods is too well known to need comment. He gives personal supervision to the business. The dining room, kitchen and store is bright and airy. The Vienna makes a specialty of noon lunches and dinners in connection with the bakery. If you want an elegant dinner for 25c or 30c The Vienna is the place.

LAST CHANCE TO REGISTER

Today is the last day of registration for the city election, Feb. 6.

Any voter who fails to get his name on the books today, and who has not previously registered, will not be allowed to vote at the city election. Party workers are out endeavoring to get all the voters to register and it is expected that many names will be added to the poll lists.

On the first two days, 7,691 names were registered. The normal vote is over 10,000, so that many have not yet qualified.

The polls will be open until 9 o'clock tonight.

who know little describe him as a stalking horse for Roosevelt, but those who know anything at all understand that the Roosevelt candidacy does not appeal to Cummins a little bit. The Iowa man was fighting for the cause of insurgency when Col. Roosevelt was far away from the seat of war. He is not particularly desirous to see the great African hunter seize upon the leadership of the Progressive wing of the Republican party today. Just what Cummins may think will come out of his own candidacy, I don't know. But I do know that a few months ago he despaired of the election of any Republican. He then thought that no Republican could be elected. At that time he seemed to think that it would be disastrous to the Progressive cause if one of its leaders—La Follette or anyone else—should be nominated. For he felt that any Republican would be beaten, and if the defeated one were a Progressive the successors of the present standpatters would go before the country in 1916 saying, "See what the Insurgents have done and recall how well and excellently we regular Republicans governed the nation for a quarter of a century. Restore us to power and you will have peace again."

Therefore Cummins felt that the nomination, and the probable defeat of a Progressive Republican now would be, from his point of view, a national disaster.

A Curious Situation.

However, that was eighteen months ago. Perhaps now he thinks differently.

It is curious to see Cummins, who frankly despaired of the election of any Republican, becoming himself a candidate, and Kenyon, who has always been for Taft, suddenly announcing himself for his colleague. If either of the two was looked upon as a mere machine politician the situation would not be so curious. But Cummins and Kenyon are two of the men in the senate in whom people—even those of opposing political faith—believe. More prudent than La Follette when the matter of causing personal antagonisms is involved, they have been quite as radical as he when it came to voting in the senate. Neither one has the wide national reputation of the Wisconsin man, but neither has the large assortment of enemies which La Follette's masterful course has won for him. All the same if the unexpected happens, and Roosevelt does not appear as the leading anti-administration candidate at Chicago, it will be worth while to watch Cummins. One thing is certain. If his name is presented it will be for himself alone and not with any intent of holding delegates for Roosevelt.

Indiana and Fairbanks.

The Indiana politicians in Washington have a lingering hope that the Hon. Charles Warren Fairbanks may loom large as a Republican presidential possibility. This could only happen if there should be an unexpected deadlock between Taft and the field. Just now there does not seem the vaguest probability of such a situation. And yet Indiana is a state of much political wisdom. One of its well known citizens, Perry Heath, has been making a mysterious trip to the Pacific coast from which he has just returned. He admits that his purpose was to urge the selection of uninstructed delegations to Chicago, but declines to say just why he urged that sort of delegations or who dispatched him on the errand. Mr. Heath when active in politics, was the handy man for Mark Hanna. He is not personally friendly to either Taft or Roosevelt, hence his trip could hardly have been in behalf of either of these statesmen. His home is in Indiana. His relations with ex-vice president Fairbanks are known to be rather more than merely cordial. The ex-vice president is a man of large means, quite able to send emissaries over the country in his behalf. Where the Washington looks with some suspicion on Perry Heath's assertion that he represented no man on his trip. There is no doubt whatsoever here that if Mr. Fairbanks should allow it to seek the nomination he would get a very strong support in the convention. And there is a growing sentiment that some names other than those of Taft, Roosevelt and La Follette, will be mentioned in that body. Six weeks ago nobody thought that there would be an opportunity in the Republican convention for a dark horse, nobody thinks today that such a nomination is probable. But the bitterness of the Republican fight upon the president and hostility of the administration forces to Roosevelt and to La Follette do give a certain opportunity for the man heretofore unmentioned. This is the chance for Cummins and even more for Fairbanks.

JEW VICTIM OF CALUMNY

Rabbi Lefkovits Says Race Has Been Subjected to Misrepresentation.

Prominent in All Professions and Not Afraid of Manual Labor.

In his sermon last evening on "Facts and Fancies About the Jew," Rabbi Lefkovits of Temple Emanuel gave a very interesting character study of the Jew as he really is and told of the way in which he is misrepresented throughout the world. In speaking of the facts which history proves, Rabbi Lefkovits showed how the Christian people today pray from the original Hebrew Bible and how the courts practice their law from the old Hebrew laws.

"The Christian today prays from the old Hebrew Bible," said the speaker, "and he sings the psalms that were taken from the old Hebrew songs. In the courtroom the witness must swear by the Holy Bible and the judge in giving his sentence follows the Hebrew law of justice and right. In numerous other walks of life I could name a system of operation transformed from the old Hebrew customs.

Persecution of the Race.

"We can go back and see how the Jew prospered in every effort and how well represented he was among the different classes. The fact that he has been persecuted and kept down by the reigning powers has made him what he is today, if he has denegerated as some people say. If there is any degeneration, then it came through the many hardships that he was compelled to endure. He was kept out of the schools and thrown off of his farm. He could not practice a profession like the other races and was compelled to live in the gutter and thrive as best he could. But is there a degeneration of this oldest race in the world? We can look about today and find the greatest men in every profession, in every land, to have been born of Jews. Among the statesmen, philosophers, poets, artists and sculptors, we can today find the Jew.

"In the past it has been said that the Jew has always been mad for money and was the most shrewd man to deal with. This is also a fancy and untrue as we can see the many men of that race today. The old saying "rich as a Jew" never was and never will be the truth and the sooner that expression is forgotten the better. Look about today and you will find a great number of poor Jews in every city of the world. There are, of course, a few rich Jews, but they are few and not representative of the race itself. Just why the Jew has been branded the "Christ-killer," from which expression untold agony and pain has been suffered by the Jew, I have never yet learned. These are the fancies of the Jew, they are the untruths about him and when eradicated will place the Jew where he belongs.

Ideal of the Jew.

"The Jew has lived through persecution and agony because of his belief, because he had an ideal. The Jew has always worked and proven himself capable to do any manly labor in the world, but he has had an ideal, his belief in God and thought of right. What did the other nations have for their ideals? Rome loved power and after winning it, toppled over to become a mere name. Greece and Egypt also held such ideals and they have crumbled. But the Jew, who had had an ideal of righteousness and truth, lived and will live until the end of time. The belief that the Jew does not care to labor and would rather work with his brain is false, and a glance about the world will show that he is engaged in every manly labor one can name. These fancies must be forgotten and only the facts be known by the world before the Jew will have attained his own and the recognition of the nations of the globe."

We discussed the weather and conditions in general, but nothing about the political situation that I would care to repeat. I do not think, however, that Col. Roosevelt will be a candidate in the sense that Clark, Harmon and Wilson are candidates."

West Virginia for Teddy.

Governor Glasscock said he was not here to urge Mr. Roosevelt to define his position, or as the bearer of an appeal for him to do so from other governors. He would hardly be so presumptuous, he said, as to advise Col. Roosevelt how to act. He was satisfied, he added, that a great majority of the Republicans of West Virginia wanted Mr. Roosevelt to be the nominee. He believed that the state would send a solid Roosevelt delegation to the Chicago convention.

"Do you think Col. Roosevelt will be nominated?" he was asked.

"That is my opinion," he replied.

"And elected?"

"I have no doubt about his election if he is nominated."

"What objection, if any, have the people of West Virginia to re-nominating President Taft?"

"Well, our people want Roosevelt."

"If President Taft should be nominated, do you think Col. Roosevelt would work for his election?"

Speaks Without Authority.

"I do, but I am not authorized to speak for any one but myself."

Governor Glasscock declined to say whether he had been strengthened in his opinion that Col. Roosevelt would accept the nomination, saying it was a matter which only Col. Roosevelt could decide.

ture by Italian warships of a party of Turks on board the French steamer Manouba is received here with satisfaction.

The Turks are now to be delivered into the care of the French consul at Cagliari, Sardinia, and by him transferred to Marseilles. The French authorities are to take measures to see that if there are any combatants among them they shall not reach the scene of the war in Tripoli.

In French Waters.

Paris, Jan. 27.—The Italian torpedo boats which seized the French steamer Tavignano last night also shelled several barges which were going out from shore yesterday to unload the Tavignano off Biban, Tunis. According to a special dispatch received here today from Ben Gardan, a coast town on the frontier between Tunis and Tripoli, the capture of the Tavignano and the shelling of the barges occurred in French waters. The indignation over the incident is very great.

all about it and didn't have the fairness to say that the presidential candidate rejected the proposal.

Practically all the friends of Governor Wilson are now convinced that self-appointed support of Harper's Weekly for Wilson was in reality a plan of the interests to get Wilson so involved with big business that sooner or later they hoped to turn the Wilson support to their advantage.

Is Allied With Big Business.

It is known that the Harvey publication is allied with certain big financial interests in New York. To these interests Harper's Weekly looks for help and this same big business looks to the publication for favorable publicity. It had been for that reason that Wilson's loyal friends have from the start been suspicious of the Harvey support. These friends of the governor told him of their suspicions long ago and advised him that he ought to take steps to sever relations with Col. Harvey. The governor appears not to have shared the suspicion and maintained amicable and close relations with Harvey until a short time ago.

Tillman to Watterson.

Senator Benjamin R. Tillman of South Carolina today declined to reply to Henry Watterson's "challenge" of last night in connection with the Watterson-Tillman-Harvey-Wilson controversy.

"If Col. Watterson has any proofs of what he says he ought to publish them. I have nothing more to say."

This was Senator Tillman's only comment. It had been reported earlier in the day that he would make a detailed reply. Col. Watterson in the meantime had issued another statement in which he said:

"In my letter to Senator Tillman I promised proof of any statement made by me which might be disputed. Governor Wilson denies that I had any authorization from him or any agent of his to raise money for his campaign. I have the proof that I not only have authorization, but that I actually raised a considerable sum.

"I hold myself ready to furnish this proof to Senator Tillman at once if he will do me the honor personally to call upon me, as I am confined to my hotel and cannot call upon him. If Senator Tillman's single averment after inspecting this proof be either equivocal or insufficient, I propose that Governor Wilson name two confident friends, I naming two, the four to name a fifth and this court of gentlemen to determine the issue between us.

"I must insist that this be done without delay as I shall have to leave Washington next Tuesday night to fill important engagements elsewhere."

Senator Tillman later dictated the following:

"Senator Tillman declined to be interviewed further in regard to the incident, saying there was no longer any issue between Col. Watterson and himself. The issue is now between Governor Wilson and Col. Watterson, and they must settle it for themselves. So far as he was concerned, he considered the matter settled and ended."

Watterson's Latest Story.

Last night Col. Watterson gave out correspondence that passed between himself and Senator Tillman regarding the Ryan story. In one of Mr. Watterson's letters he says:

"I have been aware for nearly a week that recognized spokesmen for Governor Wilson were industriously circulating the story that the real reason why Governor Wilson broke with Col. Harvey was that Col. Harvey tried to bring Thomas F. Ryan to the governor's campaign. But until you gave credence to the story, it could not be invested with any responsible authority. Its origin was mysterious, its circulation surreptitious. Consequently there has been up to this time nothing to either deny or recognize.

"Now, senator, I know of my own knowledge that story is a lie made out of the whole cloth. If any person ventures to question this assertion I have in my possession proof conclusive which I hold myself ready to place before your honest and truth-seeking mind.

"I do not accuse Governor Wilson of originating or circulating this invention manufactured to make a hero of him at the expense of the friend who has most effectually served him. I do not assume that he is aware of the dastardly work being done by his alleged agents, but the fact remains that Governor Wilson knows as well as I do that the story is false. He may or not feel that he owes any obligations to Col. Harvey. That is a matter of which he must be the judge. But I do insist that he owes it to his own honor to disavow those who are striving to inject the calumny into the public mind.

"At Governor Wilson's instance, I had undertaken to assist his accredited managers in raising the considerable sums of money needful to the prosecution of his campaign and in this my efforts were not wholly unfruitful. As the business proceeded, the name of Thomas F. Ryan not unnaturally came into my mind. He is a Democrat, he is a Virginian. He my friend. Knowing him to be a disinterested man, having no ax to grind, I hoped that I might induce him to help out what I believed to be a worthy cause. Governor Wilson's managers were delighted with the suggestion. Col. Harvey had nothing whatever to do with it, and, as far as I am aware, knew nothing whatever about it."

What Tillman Said.

The above was in reply to a letter by Tillman in which he said:

"My dear sir—In your note of Jan. 25, handed me by the Hon. Swagar Sparley you call my attention to an interview which I had given out in reference to the Harvey-Watterson-Wilson incident in which I say, 'I had given Henry Watterson credit for more sense than to try to foist off a story like this with the material facts concealed.'

"You demand to know 'upon what warrant of authority you make this serious accusation against me.'

"In your statement to the press you described in detail the rupture between Governor Wilson and Col Harvey, but said nothing as to what caused it. All the leading papers of the country seem to know why Governor Wilson severed relations with Col Harvey and you, as a leading newspaper man and self-confessed expert groomer of presidential candidates must have known it at the time your statement was published. I very properly concluded that you knew the reasons for the rupture and when you made public the manner in which it occurred without giving the causes, you were unquestionably concealing the material facts."

Denied By Wilson.

New York, Jan. 27.—Governor Woodrow Wilson, on his departure for Boston on the midnight express last night, issued the following statement in reference to the Watterson-Tillman correspondence given out in Washington:

"So far as I am concerned, the statement that Col. Watterson was requested to assist in raising money in my behalf is without foundation. Neither I nor anyone authorized to represent me ever made such a request of him."

GAVE $1,000 TO THE FUND

this paper. The editors of the paper asked us to contribute money toward the cause of Dr. Sun. It was expected that every Chinaman in America would give $10. Some of the Chinamen here have given $100, and some have given as much as $150. It is estimated that about $5,000 was sent to San Francisco from the Chinese people of Duluth."

Chin Ong was asked why the Chinese of Duluth took so vital an interest in the election of a president, especially when some of the Chinese residents may never return to their native country. The over-throw of the Manchu dynasty is the answer. The Chinese in this country hate the cause of the Manchus and they therefore gave their money willingly, much more than was asked.

"There are very few Manchus in this country," said Chin Ong. "For some reason they don't come to the United States or to other countries. Practically every Chinaman in this country was opposed to the rule of the Manchus and the appeal for money was one that was met instantly. The Manchus do not speak the same language as the rest of the inhabitants of China; the only way that the Chinamen of this country, or the kind that come to this country can talk to him, is by writing. Dr. Sun is one of us—and therefore we have supported him."

The money collected in this city was gathered through the direction of Chin Ong and several others of the prominent Chinese. According to Chin Ong, the money was eagerly given. The Duluth Chinese took an intense and active interest in the progress of the revolution that gave China its first president, and when the appeal to the Chinese of this country was made, more money than the local leaders had any idea of raising, was instantly poured into the hands of the committee.

"China will go forward from now on," said Chin Ong. "Reforms will come, there will be an improvement in the natives of the country, and the Chinese of this country will take a new pride in their native land."

killed by the explosion.

Gen. Liang Pi was a strong reactionary and had been suspected of implication in the recent assassination of Gen. Mulucheng.

Attack at Tien Tsin.

Tien Tsin, China, Jan. 27.—An attempt was made this morning to assassinate Brig. Gen. Chang Hual Chih at the railroad station here. The general was not injured.

The would-be assassin, who is a young Chinaman, apparently arrived here on the same train as Chang Hual Chih from Pekin. The general, on leaving the train, proceeded to his brougham. The assassin followed him and threw two bombs, which wrecked the carriage.

The assassin fled, but was quickly surrounded by soldiers and police. He kept his pursuers at bay for some time with his revolver, but was finally overcome.

Chang Hual Chih, who is well known here, has been largely responsible for preventing the population of Tien Tsin from going over to the revolutionaries.

To Preserve Integrity.

Tokio, Jan. 27. — Japan intends to adhere to the principle of the integrity of the Chinese empire. So much was gathered from the replies of Viscount Uchida, the foreign minister, to interpellations introduced at a meeting today of the committee of the house of representatives.

M. Inukia, leader of the Nationalist party, who has just returned from Shangai, strongly criticized the unsteadiness of the government's policy as regards China, continuing:

"It is now an open secret that the Japanese government's sympathy leaned first toward the reigning dynasty in China. This policy afterward was changed under the convenient cover of strict neutrality. The result is that a want of confidence in Japan exists both in Pekin and among the revolutionaries."

An animated discussion followed on the same lines, but the doors of the house of representatives were closed.

Use American Biplanes.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 27. — Six American built biplanes are carried by the revolutionary army advancing on Pekin, according to a cablegram received by the Chinese Free Press. The aeroplanes will be manned by Chinese aviators who have spent months in the practice for aerial warfare.

Revolutionary chiefs regard the attack on Pekin as unavoidable.

Supercedes Massage as Wrinkle Remover

(The Woman Beautiful.)

Many women regularly visit the beauty specialist to have their wrinkles ironed out with the help of hot applications, cold creams and massage. Most of us realize that there comes a time when no amount of persuasion of this sort will avail. This process of "wrinkle removing" is wrong in principle. Both the hot water and the massaging tend to expand and loosen the skin, besides softening the muscular foundation.

The very opposite result should be aimed at. The tissue should be strengthened, the skin tightened, so there'll be no room for wrinkles. The best known preparation for the purpose can be made at home by dissolving 1 oz. saxolite in ½ pint witch hazel. Use as a wash lotion. The effect is really marvelous. Tell the druggist you want the powdered saxolite, which dissolves immediately.

City's Bond Issue Now Too Large and Tax Rate Too High.

The assessed valuation of all property in Duluth for the year 1910 was $41,385,284.00. The bonded indebtedness of Duluth is $7,022,000.00, more than 16.9 per cent of the assessed valuation of all the property in the city. The bonded indebtedness of the city, not including the school bonds, amounting to $1,175,000.00, is a fraction over 14 per cent of the total assessed value of the property in the city. THESE BONDS ARE A FIRST MORTGAGE ON YOUR PROPERTY.

The city tax rate has increased from $27.90 per $1,000.00 of valuation in 1895 to $39.30 on each $1,000.00 of assessed valuation in 1910. This compares to Duluth's disadvantages with the total tax rate on property in other cities as follows:

In 158 cities of more than 30,000 population, per $1,000.00 of valuation, the tax rate is $18.34, and in 47 cities of 50,000 to 100,000 the rate on the same valuation is $16.86.

The total bond issue of the city is now so large that the city's credit is impaired. This condition would be much worse should the city vote to build a competing electric light plant, ALSO IT WOULD TEND TO INCREASE THE TAX RATE, AND CONSEQUENTLY DISCOURAGE INVESTMENT IN THE CITY.

EVERYONE WHO DESIRES NICE HAIR MUST SURELY TRY THIS

You can double the beauty of your hair in ten minutes with a little Danderine

When you see a head of heavy hair, that glistens with beauty and is radiant with life; has an incomparable softness and is fluffy and lustrous, you can at once conclude that this man or woman is using Danderine, because nothing else accomplishes so much for the hair.

Just one application of Knowlton's Danderine will double the beauty of your hair, besides it immediately destroys and dissolves every particle of dandruff; you cannot have nice, heavy, healthy hair if you have dandruff. This destructive scurf robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life, and if not overcome it produces a feverishness and itching of the scalp; the hair roots famish, loosen and die; then the hair falls out fast.

If your hair has been neglected and is thin, faded, dry, scraggy or too oily, don't hesitate but get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine at any drug store or toilet counter; apply a little as directed and ten minutes after you will say this was the best investment you ever made.

We sincerely believe, regardless of everything else advertised that if you desire soft, lustrous, beautiful hair and lots of it—no dandruff—no itching scalp and no more falling hair—you must use Knowlton's Danderine. If eventually—why not now? A 25 cent bottle will truly amaze you.

It's truly astonishing—almost marvelous, and the joy is its harmlessness.

A large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin will give you a hundred dollars' worth of satisfaction or your druggist hands you your money back.

SEES MISTAKE IN DISSOLVING TRUST

W. W. Tarbell Tells Views on Regulation of Big Business.

New York, Jan. 27.—The dissolution of the Standard Oil company was a mistake, according to W. W. Tarbell, treasurer of the Pure Oil company, an independent concern operating in Pennsylvania and West Virginia, who testified before the interstate commerce commission in its inquiry to determine to what extent pipe lines should be regulated as common carriers.

"Irrespective of the Sherman act, I believe that the salvation of small refineries is consolidation," the witness said. "I think that the Sherman act as applied to the Standard Oil company was a big mistake. If the Standard Oil be placed back in the position it was in before dissolution, I think you would see a general improvement in the oil industry all over the country. If the Standard Oil had remained as one company, it could have been watched."

As to Steel Affairs.

Mr. Tarbell says that if, instead of dissolving the United States Steel corporation, the government would allow small steel companies to combine, "a competition would be created that would result in fairness to all interested." The government would then be in a position to regulate the competitors, Mr. Tarbell declared, citing the success of the government in regulating the railroads as an example of what could be done where corporations are practically on the same basis as to competition.

That the business of the Pure Oil company was ruined in New York after publication during the Standard Oil dissolution suit, of a statement that the Pure Oil company was owned by the Standard Oil, was also asserted by the witness, who said that the evidence had been misquoted. The Standard Oil had no interest in the Pure Oil company's refineries, he said, though it owned one-third of the stock of the United States Pipe Line company, of which Mr. Tarbell also is the treasurer.

The wonderful medicinal powers of Hood's Sarsaparilla are clearly shown by this testimonial:

"We had our daughter vaccinated. Before her arm healed she began to have sore eyes. Soon she was blind in one eye and could see very little with the other. Five doctors said she would be totally blind. She could not stand the light. We then gave her Hood's Sarsaparilla. When she had taken eight bottles she could stand the light, and now she can do the finest needlework." Mrs. J. Beardsley, Elmira, N. Y.

WILL MEET AT DULUTH

Next Annual State Christian Endeavor Convention Will Be Here.

Will Probably Be Held Sometime in June—Preparations Are Begun.

C. J. Hockin of the local union of Christian Endeavorers is advised by the State Association of Endeavor Unions that this body has selected Duluth for the next annual state convention. Endeavorers have been fighting to have Duluth as the convention city for the last two years and the news is welcome, to say the least. Invitation from the ministers of the city and from the Commercial club have been sent to the State society but only at this late date has any decision favorable to Duluth been reached. It is expected that the date of the meeting will be in June and Mr. Hockin and the officers associated with him in the union work here will make plans at once to make the Duluth gathering a success in every way.

As indicating the activity of some of the forces for the kind of young people's work in which the Christian Endeavor societies are interested, the formation of a Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor at the Highland Presbyterian church on Duluth Heights, is to be noted with interest. The notice of the meeting of this society appears for the first time in this column, and the society will make application for admission to the local union at the next meeting of the union executive committee. The first officers of the new society are: President, G. H. Johnston; vice president, Elmer Brayton; secretary, J. D. Wilson; treasurer, Miss Ruth Webb. In a social way this society has been quick to become active, having announced last week a sleighride for Friday evening, Jan. 26. Its officers expect to make a strong and flourishing Christian Endeavor society of this latest addition to the ranks of Endeavor in Duluth.

The regular Christian Endeavor topic, which will be studied in all societies on Sunday evening, Jan. 28, will be "The Foreign Missionary Whose Life Has Most Inspired Me." As suggested by the name, the subject will be given special missionary treatment and the reference will be from II Corinthians v, 14-20.

The First Christian society will meet at 6:30 p. m. in the church. Homer Holdren will lead the meeting. Mrs. W. L. Whipple will speak on her work while in Persia. A musical number on the program is a solo by Mrs. Kelly Compton.

The First Presbyterian society will meet at 6:45 p. m., in the lecture room of the church. Mrs. Warren will be the leader of this meeting.

The Highland society will meet at 6:30 p. m. in the Highland Presbyterian church. The leaders will be Ray Johnston and Miss Alice Reamer. All young people are cordially invited to attend. The society is an interdenominational one and visitors will be made to feel at home.

The Lakeside Presbyterian society will meet at 6 p. m. in the Christian Endeavor room. The Misses Mary Westaway and Jean Currie will be the leaders of the meeting.

The Second Presbyterian society will meet at 7 p. m. in the church. Miss Helen Rooney will lead. All members are urged to attend and to bring their friends.

The Union Church Disciples society will hold no meeting at the regular hour on Sunday evening on account of being in charge of the poor farm meeting Sunday afternoon. At this meeting special music in the form of a solo by Mrs. George Bergtold and the Christian Endeavor quartet will be rendered. Mr. Black will be the principal speaker at the poor farm meeting, which he will attend with the Christian Endeavorers of his church.

The Westminster Presbyterian society will hold the regular meeting at 6:45 p. m. in the church parlors. Miss Florence Melin will be in the chair and will lead the meeting.

The Smithville society will hold its meeting at 7 p. m. August Lundquist is to be the leader.

Especial interest attaches to the meeting to be held at the First Christian church this week. Mrs. W. L. Whipple, who is to speak on her work while in Persia, was a missionary to the Presbyterian mission there. Her story is one full of interest to the Endeavorers and the society has extended a cordial invitation to the members of other societies and their friends to gather with them at this meeting.

The Smithville society recently elected new officers as follows: President, Miss Myrtle Amundson; vice president, Edwin Nelson; secretary, Miss Anna Neubauer; treasurer, Irvin Amundson. Under the new leaders the society hopes to continue to make the same strides that it has made in the past few months. It is now one of the best societies in the city owing to the work of those who have been its officers in the past.

The Lakeside Presbyterian society has announced a skating party to be held Feb. 2 and a concert for the evening of Feb. 9. Judging from past performances these social events should be most successful.

As Feb. 4 is the Sunday nearest to Christian Endeavor day, Feb. 2, it will be observed in all societies in Duluth and throughout the United States as the anniversary of the founding of the first Christian Endeavor society. Many of the local societies will arrange special services commemorative of this event.

MISSOURI REPUBLICANS WILL MEET APRIL 25.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 27.—The Republican state central committee met in executive session yesterday, selected St. Louis as the place and April 25 as the date of the Republican state convention to select delegates to the national convention in Chicago, and adjourned without even so much as a mention of factional troubles. No indorsements were made because the leaders were unanimous in the belief that it was too early to take any action that might precipitate a fight in the Republican party of Missouri. The method of selecting convention delegates throughout the state was left in the hands of the chairman of the county committees. All delegates except those from St. Louis must be elected by April 15.

DYNAMITE STORED IN SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Jan. 27.—A suitcase containing fifteen pounds of dynamite, a box of caps and about 150 feet of fuse was found in a storage house here yesterday afternoon by detectives. Records of the storage company show that the suitcase was put in storage in October, 1909, by a man giving the name of H. G. Botts. The case had been opened afterwards as a portion of the dynamite was wrapped in a local newspaper wrapper bearing the date of Nov. 28, 1909.

The dynamite was in two packages. The contents of the grip showed that a package of about equal size had been removed from the case after it had been packed. Local detectives believe the package removed contained the dynamite that was used in the attempt to dynamite thte Hotel Utah early in December, 1909.

The name of H. G. Botts does not appear in the local directory and he is unknown here. Two officers of the local police force are now in Indianapolis as witnesses before the federal grand jury regarding the explosions at the Hotel Utah.

MacALPINE HAS TO WAIT

State Pardon Board Will Not Consider Two Harbors Man's Case Monday.

Mayor Halliday of Two Harbors Denies Claim Shortage Is Made Good.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Notwithstanding a hard fight made to prevent John P. MacAlpine, former city clerk of Two Harbors, from serving in state's prison for embezzlement of city funds, the state pardon board has refused to consider his case at its meeting here next Monday. Although Duluth and Two Harbors men tried to bring the matter up, the board has decided not to yield from the inflexible rule that all applications for pardon must be in at least ten days before the day scheduled for the meeting.

This means that MacAlpine must stay in prison until the next quarterly meeting, at least.

What Friends Claim.

In the petition for a hearing of the case, friends of MacAlpine set forth that he was 35 years old, that he had turned over all his real and personal property to make up the shortage of several thousand dollars, that business men did not believe him a felon and that the ends of justice would not be further subserved by confining him in prison. Personal calls were made on the governor and the attorney general in his interest. Chief Justice Start, however, of the supreme court, was inexorable. He was unwilling to advance the case, and all three members of the board eventually took the same stand.

Still About $7,000 "Shy."

Two Harbors, Minn., Jan. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mayor Alex Halliday denies the newspaper reports emanating from St. Paul that the shortage of ex-City Clerk MacAlpine, who is serving a sentence for embezzlement, has been entirely made good.

"The bonding companies have turned over to the city $3,500 in cash and MacAlpine has made over to the city, property valued at approximately $5,000, making a total of about $8,500," says the mayor. "This still leaves a balance of about $7,000 that has not been provided for.

"It is not the desire of the people of this city to inflict needless punishment on any one, but on the other hand neither do they wish to see clemency exercised on account of misrepresentation. Furthermore, our sense of justice revolts at the idea of one man being set free for embezzling $15,000, while another is made to serve two years for stealing two pounds of butter. I trust that the governor and the board of pardons will keep the above in mind while making their decision."

Mayor Halliday has forwarded a similar statement to Governor Eberhart and the state board of pardons.

HIBBING MOURNS FOR McKINDLESS

Popular Young Man From L'Anse, Mich., Succumbs to His Injuries.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 27.—(Special to The Herald.) — Robert McKindless, 21 years old, a popular employe of the Oliver Iron Mining company, died yesterday afternoon at a local hospital. The body was taken today to his old home at L'Anse, Mich., for burial.

McKindless came to Hibbing last March and has been employed as a fireman on one of the locomotives at the Hull-Rust pit. Last Monday, while working about the engine, he slipped from the running board at the side of the boiler and sustained a bad fall on the frozen ground. He continued at work for several hours, when he began to complain of pains and was taken to the hospital, where his condition was found to be serious.

While his death had been almost hourly expected for several days it came as a shock to a wide circle of friends in this city. His mother, Mrs. Elizabeth McKindless and brother, Reginald, arrived from L'Anse Wednesday and Wednesday afternoon the last rites of the Catholic church were administered to him by Father Hogan of the Church of the Blessed Sacrament.

McKindless was born at L'Anse, Mich., in 1891, and was graduated from the high school of that city. He was known as one of the best basket ball players in the Upper Michigan peninsula and was a young man of clean habits and fine moral character, whose death brings sincere regret to many friends in Hibbing as well as at his old home.

FOURTH STREET ROW MAY BE ADJUSTED

Opening of Hibbing Thoroughfare That Caused Trouble May Be Compromised.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is a prospect that the opening of Fourth avenue, for which there is before the council a petition and a counter petition, and which has given rise to considerable feeling, will be negotiated satisfactorily to all parties to the controversy.

The petitioners for the opening of the street, which has been closed for fifteen years in that portion which it is proposed to open, and those who are opposing the opening on the ground that it will destroy the present baseball park, it is said, have reached an agreement whereby it will be possible to open the street, and by a readjustment of the baseball park still retain the grounds intact.

At the last meeting of the council the matter was referred to the village attorney on a question of law, and will come up again on his report Tuesday night of next week.

MANY FARMERS ARE EXPECTED

Proposed Meeting of Farmers Around Chisholm Proving Popular.

Chisholm, Minn., Jan. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—About twenty homesteaders in this vicinity have responded to the notice sent out a week ago by Mr. Stukel, the Wilpen farmer, for a meeting of farmers to discuss the best crops for this section, and other matters, and the list is growing, so that in a short time a date and place for holding the meeting will be announced.

Mr. Stukel pointed out in his appeal that homesteaders in this vicinity could profit by a general get-together meeting and discuss methods and topics of interest, as he is convinced that had he known what to have sown last spring he would have realized more than $200 an the fifteen acres he has cleared, while with farmers who have been here a number of years their experience and success will be of value. The prospects of a frostproof potato warehouse will come up at the meeting.

Within a short time Mr. Liend will begin a canvass of the farmers in the vicinity of Onega to determine how many cows there are in that section and how much milk can be had for the creamery. Besides this he will stock his own 400-acre farm with a herd of forty good cows and as soon as spring opens will begin the construction of a building. He already has part of the equipment on the ground.

WHOLE CREW IS NEARLY CAUGHT

Narrow Escape in Section 30 When John Lindbeck Was Killed.

Ely, Minn., Jan. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—By little short of a miracle the whole timber crew of Section 30 mine, near here, escaped death when John J. Lindbeck, shift boss of the mine, was crushed to death by a fall of ore and rock in a drift of the mine Wednesday afternoon.

It is stated that the whole timber crew intended a few minutes afterwards to go into the fatal drift and they all would have been caught and perhaps met Lindbeck's fate.

Worked Only Two Weeks.

Mr. Lindbeck had only been employed at the mine two weeks, having held a similar position at the Pioneer mine for twenty years. He leaves a wife and six children. He has been a faithful member of Lodge S. H. and E. F. of A. of Ely, being one of the charter members in this city, under whose auspices the funeral will be held Sunday.

Mr. Casey was located in this city until four months ago and came over to secure data and information on the white way lighting system, as Biwabik contemplates a like improvement in the spring. Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—While here yesterday Vice President Pentecost Mitchell and General Manager F. H. FIRES WEAPON TO HALT RIOT

Keewatin, Minn., Jan. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The men who broke the plateglass windows in the saloon of Thomas Dandrea settled the damages rather than have the matter brought into court.

About fifteen men under the influence of liquor went to the saloon and were told by Mr. Dandrea that it was time to close up and that he could not accommodate them with drinks. There was quite a number of other men in the saloon at the time, and these men were requested by Mr. Dandrea to leave the saloon too. Some went on out, but before the other men could get outside those outside picked up empty bottles from cases in the rear of the saloon and began throwing them through the windows. Some of the bottles struck a few of the men inside, and this so incensed them that they immediately began returning the fire with bottles they gathered inside the saloon.

Mr. Dandrea soon put a stop to the trouble by getting a loaded rifle and firing one shot in the air, followed by an announcement that if the troublemakers did not disperse they would be sorry. After the shot was fired the disturbers were not long in making themselves scarce in that vicinity, and afterwards they paid Mr. Dandrea $75, which nearly covered the amount of the damage. Besides the damage done to the windows, one of the electric light globes and shades on one of the chandeliers was broken and the door in the rear of the saloon was broken in.

LOOKING AFTER LAW VIOLATORS

Biwabik, Minn., Jan. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—State Deputy Fire Marshal Sam Fullerton lefthere yesterday for St. Paul after visiting Virginia, Eveleth, Gilbert, McKinley, Biwabik and other range towns in the interests of the investigation being made by the insurance commissioner into the methods of operation of two Virginia insurance agencies.

Complaints have been filed with the commissioner and fire marshal from various points on the range charging violations of the anti-rebate and discrimination laws of the state. Upon the finding of violations of the law the matter was referred to the fire marshal's office for investigation.

New Law Prevents Rebate.

The new law provides a heavy penalty for the offering of a rebate in insurance rates or discrimination as between two assureds as well as imposing a heavy fine upon any person receiving such rebate or advantage. The law was passed to prevent favoritism in rates or unscrupulous methods in the insurance business, which has caused rate wars in other states, resulting in the failure of a large number of companies as well as the loss of premiums paid.

The operations of these agencies have been known for some time. Mr. Fullerton procured affidavits and sworn statements from various persons interested and stated that he has an unlimited number of cases in his possession.

Mr. Fullerton states that one of the insurance agents in the Dumas case, who was permitting rebates and overinsuring is also coming under this investigation.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

The weather man made good on his 10 deg. below zero prediction for last night and there is no prospect of the record breaking mean temperature for this morning being increased very much over the 10.5 deg. below zero recorded for the first twenty-five days. More cold weather is predicted for tonight and tomorrow with light snow probable.

Mild weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 7:39 and it will set at 5:03 this evening, giving nine hours and twenty-four minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The high pressure centered over the Red river valley has caused a cold wave in the Dakotas, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa and Eastern Nebraska, the lowest reported temperature being 32 deg. below zero at Grand Forks, N. D. The low pressure areas overlying the West and the Atlantic coast, respectively, caused rain or snow in Pacific states, Nevada, Montana, Idaho, Western North Dakota, West Gulf states, Southern Florida, the Lake region and North Atlantic districts. A continuance of rather cold weather may be expected at the Head of the Lakes during the ensuing thirty-six hours, but the expected shift to northeasterly winds will undoubtedly modify the temperature somewhat at Duluth and Superior Sunday afternoon."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, Jan. 27. — Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Sunday:

Upper Michigan—Fair tonight; Sunday snow flurries with rising temperature.

Wisconsin—Fair and continued cold tonight; probably becoming unsettled Sunday.

South Dakota — Snow tonight and Sunday; not much change in temperature.

Montana—Snow tonight or Sunday; not much change in temperatue.

Shipper's forecast: Protect thirty-six-hour shipments of perishables against temperatures zero to about 20 deg. below zero in the Eastern Dakotas, Minnesota and Wisconsin.

NATURE'S WARNING

Duluth People Must Recognize and Heed It.

Kidney ills come mysteriously.
But nature always warns you.
Notice the kidney secretions.
See if the color is unhealthy—
If there are settlings and sediment,
Passages frequent, scanty, painful.
It's time to use Doan's Kidney Pills.
To ward off serious diseases.
Doan's have done great work in Duluth.

William Bain, 1402 E. Fourth St., Duluth, Minn., says: "Two years ago I gave a public account of my experience with Doan's Kidney Pills. I can now say that I have had no need of a kidney medicine since. My kidneys were so badly disordered that I was miserable in every way. The kidney secretions passed too frequently and were discolored. I had backaches and felt weak and tired. Doan's Kidney Pills quickly relieved me and the contents of two or three boxes made me well. I feel as though it were my duty to recommend this remedy when I can."

Ball Players' Future Salaries May Shock Nervous Magnates---The Wrestling Situation--- A School for Umpires.

(BY BRUCE.)

TYRUS COBB is authority for the statement that within a few years it will not be at all uncommon for a ball player to be receiving a salary of $15,000. Aside from shocking the nerves of some of the more sensitive of the baseball magnates—Charley Murphy excepted—this statement leads one to wonder just where the progress of the national pastime is to stop. Think back over the past decade and consider for a moment how the game has grown in that comparatively short space of time. The day coaches for the wilting players have been succeeded by the pullmans and the compartment cars; the single decked wooden stand and shabby and unpainted baseball park has been succeeded by the concrete and steel plants—and the ball player of barroom conversation and tough expression has been made out of date by the neatly dressed and well informed young man who generally has some good business during the winter months.

Dick Schell of our fair village has been watching baseball games for over forty years. Four decades of the great national pastime have passed away under the lingering look of Richard. He remembers the days of Tommy Daly, of Silver Flint, of King Kelly, of Dicky Johnstone, of Jimmy Ryan, of Deacon White, of Gore, Dalrymple, Williamson, Charley Bennett and Buck Ewing. In those days the players received salaries that were so small that the increasing and haughty holdout brigade of today would turn up its collective nose at the mere mention of some of the figures.

This is surely an age of where the amusement purveyors are willing to pay the price for that for which the public cries. In the cities of the big leagues the fans are crying for star players. Where are the managers going to get them? It is pretty safe to say that McGraw of the New York Giants would pay about $20,000 for Konechny of the St. Louis Cardinals. Chance would also be tickled to death to spend a lot of Murphy's money for the same player—and there is not the least chance in the world to get him.

With the increase of patronage to the big league parks, with the progress of baseball continuing into the future, the prediction of Ty Cobb that players of the future may be receiving salaries of $15,000 may not after all be so wide of the truth.

EVERY wrestler who hits the hospitable shores of Uncle Sam's domain, comes here with the loud declaration that he is seeking a match with Frank Gotch and comes through eagerly with the information that he has defeated all of the best wrestlers of Europe. There is really a good deal of nonsense to all that. Mahmout, Zbyszko and Pedersen are the greatest of the invaders. Gotch has defeated two of these men. If these three men stand at the head of all the men who have come over from Europe, and our own champion has taken the measure of two of them, it does sound rather foolish for all of these fellows to set up the cry that they are seeking a match with the King of Humboldt.

Let these three men settle the question of European supremacy right over here within sight and hearing of the American followers of the game, and then maybe Gotch will take on the winner. Zbyszko has improved wonderfully in the past year, Mahmout is a wonderful wrestler and Jess Pedersen has a real and genuine European record—let them settle it.

SHOULD they start the school for umpires there should be some of the Minny league students of the game admitted to the preparatory grades. Augur, Griffith and some of the others should either go to school or see an oculist. Maybe the proper school for some of the umps we have had in these parts would be the reform school. Yes, really, something should be done.

SYLVESTER BREEN, sometimes known as Jimmy, is wondering just what his fate is going to be. The youngster was sold by the Brewers to the Brooklyn club at the close of last season. Now it is stated that he is coming back to Milwaukee. Ball players hate Milwaukee for some reason. Much as we regard young Breen, it is really difficult to see why Brooklyn purchased him.

JACK CURLEY still insists that the Johnson-Flynn fight will be one of the best battles ever fought in this country. If that is the case Flynn must have been hiding his true fighting ability through ten years of rough usage in the prize ring. The memory of what Sam Langford did to the fireman, one sunny afternoon at Los Angeles will not down—even in the face of the eloquence and logic of Curley.

PERHAPS the best indoor baseball game ever played at the Head of the Lakes will be the contest between the Big Duluths and Fitwells. These two teams have been invincible all of the present season. They have been playing in different leagues and have not met. The clash Monday evening is expected to be one of the events of the winter season and should provide some great baseball playing.

HARLEY DAVIDSON, known in Duluth by hundreds of admirers, was beaten at St. Louis the other night. Can it be that the hero of hundreds of bicycle races, ice skating races and roller skating races, is beginning to go back? Two years ago in this city Davidson defeated Frank Bryant in one of the prettiest races ever skated here. In the face of the races Bryant is winning away from home at the present time, there are some of the friends of the Duluth youngster who believe he would stand a very excellent chance with Davidson.

IF THEY ever form the new collegiate conference we shiver to think what will become of Chicago. Without the bully-ragging Stagg and his domineering ways, Chicago would really be lost sight of. Let them form a new conference with some live people who wouldn't stand for the old town stuff that has been pulled off for years in the present sissy society, and there will be a more sane government for athletics here in the West.

WORLD'S MIDDLEWEIGHT WRESTLING CHAMPION

WALTER MILLER.

JOHNSON MAY NOT FIGHT JIM FLYNN

The Public Will Hardly Pay Good Money to See Such a Burlesque of a Real Fight.

Philadelphia, Jan. 27.—As might have been expected, the return of Jack Johnson, the kingpin of all pugs, to his native heath has not only stirred the animals up, but has caused a rattle of the dry bones in the fistic graveyard, writes Frank Hough in the "Old Sport's" column of the Inquirer. That defis should be hurled at Johnson was only to be expected, not that there is any one on the pugilistic horizon who would have the ghost of a chance with him, everything on the level, but because there is always with us an impecunious manager or two with an equally impecunious fighter anxious and willing to hoop up with the champion for McCormick's end of the purse. According to report, Johnson is to meet Jim Flynn, the Pueblo fireman, somewhere out West, and for his trouble he is to receive $30,000, one-third the loot from the moving pitcure privilege, and something like $1,100 for expenses. It looks like a good bet that this particular mill will never go through. Flynn would probably appraise his services at one-half that amount at least, which, with the incidentals, would bring the amount which the promoters would have to fork over to about $30,000, to say nothing of the cost of the construction of the arena and the money they would have to put up to stiffen the authorities.

It is inconceivable that the American public, the sofest sporting public in the world at that, will fall for any such proposition as that which is being advanced by Jack Curley. It won't do to recall how the talent came across for the most monumental bunk ever pulled off in the history of the ring at Reno last Fourth of July, one year. Before that affair at least there was considerable doubt about Jeffries' condition, and even those who really believed that he had come back were of the opinion that he could go still further back and still be good enough to lick the tall dark man. But there can be no doubt as to the relative merits of the two proposed contestants in this instance. Flynn is a husky, willing chap of about the same caliber as Mike Boden or Mysterious Billy Gabig, who used to meet the crackerjack heavy weights at the Comique in the old days, but he would have no more chances with Johnson with the latter spieling for fair than a cat without claws would have in the devil's hot-air room. Americans are the best developed bunch of all-around suckers that the sun ever shone on—in fact, they act sometimes as though they were really enjoying themselves while being handed something—but as soft as they are, it is not likely that they will fall for anything so palpably raw as the proposed meeting between Johnson and Flynn.

Saving His Job.

About the size of it is, among the white brigade of fighters there is not one who would afford Johnson common amusement for more than a round. Before his meeting with Jeffries, Johnson might have met any of the present "hopes" and taken them over a nicely-gaited six or ten-round course, and got away with it. In those days he had to do it. He was like the navy yard painter who was always found busy puttying up a screw hole when the inspector came around and would yank the putty out when he had gone, in order to have something to do when he came around again. Johnson could not afford to run out of putty when he was boxing around here. The only time that he extended himself for keeps in this city, so far as The Old Sport can recall, was in a bout with Joe Butler at the old Washinton club, Fifteenth and Wood streets. There was a certain contingent who used to bet on Johnson's opponent staying the limit, and they picked up quite a bunch of easy money; but one night Jack caught them cheating—they failed to come across with his bit—so he resolved to get square. When the match with Butler was made the sure-thing contingent started to get their money down on Joe staying the limit. They got down all the money they wanted, and more, for Johnson had tipped off some of his other friends to take the other end, for he intended to cut loose. He stopped Butler in the third round, and the sure-thing players were good ever afterward. He subsequently stopped Jim Jeffords, Walter Johnson and Morris Harris, but there was no chance for a repeat with them.

Johnson would undoubtedly like to pick up some of the easy money that has been hanging around New York ever since the passage of the Frawley bill, and though he should be a natural one-to-twenty shot in the betting with either Palzer or Carl Morris, he would draw a tremendous gate in Gotham, particularly if Madison Square Garden could be secured. But Commissioner O'Neil has put his foot down on that. He maintains that any contest in which Johnson figures with a white man would be no contest at all, and that such a meeting would be contrary to the spirit of the Frawley bill, and would doubtless cause a protest which might lead eventually to the repeal of the bill under the provisions of which boxing is possible. Barred out of New York, it is not likely that the authorities of any of the Eastern cities in which boxing is now tolerated would permit the champion to appear in a real competition. At this writing it really looks as though Johnson will have to confine his ring activities to Australia.

Only Real Opponents.

Before he is compelled to relinquish the championship because of the advance of the years, Johnson should acquire a clear title by making one grand cleanup with McVey and Langford, although at that, on form, they only have an outside chance. Of the two, McVey by virtue of his recent decision over the Boston Tar Baby, should have the call on Johnson's attentions. Decisions in limited-round contests are not always conclusive, but McVey must have shown something that he never revealed here, and for that reason he would doubtless have the call in the making of a match with the Australian sporting public. Anyhow, Johnson should meet both men, and resolve all doubt as to his superiority. He has got nothing to pull for now, and the likelihood of him ever making a killing with any of the white hopes now in sight is so remote that it is not worth considering.

While it is true that Johnson never did and never will enjoy the popularity of many of his predecessors, due more to radical prejudice than to any particular act on his part since he defeated Jeffries, where does James J. Corbett, the only heavyweight champion who deliberately tried to debauch the fighting game, get off to give him the third degree? Corbett says that since winning the championship Johnson is trying to pick soft marks. Well, if he is, didn't he have a distinguished precedent? How many fights did the bold Corbett have between the time he won the championship from Sullivan, at New Orleans on the night of Sept. 7, 1892, until he lost it to Fitzsimmons at Carson City, on St. Patrick's day, 1897? He knocked out little Charley Mitchell, weighing 140 pounds; he made a punching bag of a stiff named Pete Courtney, for the benefit of the kinetiscope people at Orange, N. J., and he boxed a four-round draw with Tom Sharkey at 'Frisco. Then to swell his record mention is made of his three-round exhibition with Jim McVey in New York. If you want any softer picking than that you will have to wait until they fall off the trees.

Jim's Number.

Corbett declares that Johnson faked with Kaufman and Ketchel. He may have permitted Kaufman to stay the ten rounds, but according to the reports he had the better of the milling. In Ketchel's case, though, he must have been a bum faker, for he stopped that great little fighter in twelve rounds. But isn't Gentleman Jim the sweet-scented honeysuckle to call anyone for faking! He was the big factor in the most gigantic most contemptible job that was ever tried in pugilism, when he was to quit to Tom Sharkey at the Lenox club. But even the thieves who were in the job with him were afraid that he could not be an honest crook—that he might try to double cross them at the end (although there was not a chance for that, for as the fight was going Sharkey would have won on the level), and they cinched it, as they thought, by sending Cal McVey into the ring, Sharkey thus winning on a foul. Referee Honest John Kelly scotched the job, however, by calling off all bets, but the stink of that job still hovers around upper Broadway.

Johnson may have faked, but he is only a shoemaker at the art compared with Corbett.

It was said today that Somers wanted Harry Lord, the Sox third sacker, but Callahan declared he could not part with Lord. It is believed possible, however, that some of his recruits in the Comiskey string may be given to Somers in exchange for his star first baseman.

BASKET BALL IS POPULAR

Game Is Regaining Its Old Time Standing in Duluth.

Proctor After Challenge Cup —Cliffords vs. Superior Athletic Club.

Basketball has been coming into its own in Duluth this winter, and the game has been rapidly growing in popularity.

The games at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium have been drawing good crowds, and much interest has been aroused over the contest for the Northern Hardware challenge cup, now held by the Boat club team.

Two games will be played this evening, between the Boat club and the Proctor teams, and the Cliffords and the Superior Athletic club.

The first game between the Proctor and the Boat club is for the possession of the Northern Hardware company championship cup, recently won from the Cliffords by the Boat club five.

The Proctor "Y" five is playing a very good game this year, and is probably the fastest team that ever represented the "hilltop."

The Boat club team is out to win the championship of the Head of the Lakes, and is showing good team work and fine basket shooting in its games.

The game between these two teams should be a good fast one.

In the second game the Cliffords will take on the Superior Athletic club team, a recent arrival in sporting circles. Their line-up shows some strong players, and they should give the Cliffords a stiff argument.

The Cliffords have recently strengthened their team by the addition of Allan Nelson and Wolvin, and their team is considered a contender for the Head of the Lakes honors.

On Feb. 16 and 17 they play the Keewatin and Grand Rapids teams. Keewatin has claimed the range championship for two years. The line-up:

D. B. C—		Proctor Y—
Boerner	f.	Wiles
Harris	f.	Donovan
Paddock	c.	Shelton
Solheim	g.	McBeth
Lathrop	g.	Hodupp
Cliffords—		Superior Ath.Club—

MINNY LEAGUE'S BONES STIRRED

Meeting May Be Held at Winona on Thursday, Feb. 1.

Winona, Minn., Jan. 27.—A meeting of the Minnesota-Wisconsin Baseball league, it is expected, will be held at Winona on Thursday, Feb. 1. At a meeting of the local organization, which has a team in the league, here last night, it was decided to call upon Vice President J. J. Ferrin of Red Wing to call the meeting at that time, when it is hoped that the future of the league will be setled definitely. It is understood that in case the league remains intact, Fred Curtis, last year's first baseman with the Winona team, will be made president.

TEAMS IN CONTROVERSY.

Adams Dispute Curling Club's Claim of Hockey Victory.

A dispute occured last evening over the outcome of the hockey game between the Adams and the Duluth Curling club teams. The Adams players claim that the game was a tie and the members of the Curling club aggregation say they won by the score of 4 to 3. The disputed score was allowed by the referee and the game will probably stand a tie. The Curling club players claimed that the goal was thrown in by Helmer Grenner and was not a clean score. Whether the game will be played off remains to the disposition of the Curling club players.

While the Adams were heavier and presented a strong defense, the Curling club played the best game of the year and showed some flashes of great form.

While the score will officially remain a tie, 4 to 4, the Curling club players are claiming a victory and say that the game should count for them.

The lineup:

Curling club—Mullin, goal; Swanstrom, point; Wharton, cover point; Clark, center; Taylor, rover; McCrea, left wing; Wood, right wing.

UNIVERSITY ATHLETICS

Basket Ball Team Returns —Showing at Iowa Raises Spirits.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—An unofficial report says that the student body and athletic board at Harvard favor a Gopher game. A dispatch from Harvard says:

"It seems more than probable that Minnesota will get a game with the Crimson. All of the student body is in favor of making such an arrangement. The board of control also seems favorable to the plan, as it is desired to see Harvard play against the strongest Western team. This contest, if it takes place, will furnish a comparison on which to base a probable championship of American colleges. Overtures are said to have been already made by Minnesota in an unofficial way. It is expected that a definite announcement will be made shortly."

Nothing would please the Gopher followers more than a big Eastern game next fall. They are tired of seeing their team play against teams so much inferior that it is only a question of how large the score will be. There is still that clamor among the students to break away from the conference and assume relations with Michigan, but if they can't have that they want the next best, and a Harvard game would be an excellent substitute for the Gophers' old athletic rival.

Basket Ball Prospects.

With the preliminary games out of the way the Minnesota basket ball team is back after a strenuous trip of invasion among the Eastern members of the conference. Though the showing made was not exactly pleasing to the followers of the game, it was by no means a disappointment.

Although their defeat at the hands of the Badgers is still a blue spot, for the Gophers, the Iowa game has brightened things up. It is not the score so much as the complete reversal of form that pleases the coaches. With a man in the game for the lone purpose of watching Lawler, Iowa expected to make a grand showing. But their relying too much on reports from Madison caused them to forget that there were four other reliable men on the team, and while an Iowa sub was employing his rough tactics on the diminutive Gopher captain, the others found themselves showing a complete reversal of form displayed at Wisconsin, and swept everything before them.

Tonight Nebraska plays on the Minnesota floor and the team is going into the game in a splendid condition and with a firm determination of winning.

CHANCE PLANS A CUB SHAKEUP

Famous Old Infield Will Be Shifted By Peerless Leader.

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 27.—Heine Zimmerman, first base; Johnny Evers, second base; Joe Tinker, shortstop; Artie Hofman, third base. This, in all probability will be the lineup of the Cubs when the bell rings for the opening of the National league. President Murphy and Manager Chance have practically agreed that the Cub machine needs a big shaking up, and the above changes will probably be their first attempt at reconstructing the Cubs.

Zimmerman at First.

There are some mighty good arguments to sustain their judgment. Take Zimmerman at first. Heine played the bag occasionally on the last trip the Cubs made. He held down Chance's old corner in Pittsburg, and later in Chicago. He showed that he was pretty nifty with the big mitt, and every one knows how he can hit. Evers, of course, will be a feature at second, if he comes back in anything like the form he displayed before he contracted the illness which kept him out of the game last summer. Joe Tinker's ability as a shortstop needs no comment.

Artie Hofman at third base will be no experiment. He is a finished infielder and hits the ball hard when in form. He was only forced into an outfield position when it was found he was too good a man to keep on the bench, and the old Cub infield was playing too fast ball to displace any of them.

Miller at Center Field.

Ward Miller, who set the International league afire last summer, will take Hofman's place in center field. He is the strongest kind of a sticker and runs the bases like a wild man. Sheckard and Schulte will make up the outfield.

President Murphy, in speaking of the shakeup in the Cubs, today said:

"Our new plan, while, of course, subject to change, looks like a mighty strong combination. We get the batting strength without sacrificing speed or fielding. If our pitchers hold out, and some of our new hurlers develop, as every manager in the league is saying about his team, I will say 'just watch the Cubs.'"

ENGLAND WANTS TO SEE ONE-ROUND HOGAN.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 27.—England has heard of One-Round Hogan and wants to see him in action.

Gil Roag, manager of the San Francisco boy who is matched to meet "Harlem Tommy" Murphy next Wednesday night, received a letter today from Dave Levy, backer of the British lightweight, Matt Wells. Levy would like to have Hogan and Wells come together on Derby Day next May.

The National Sporting Club of London is eager for the match, he writes, although he personally would be willing to bring the idol of the British public to New York.

Hogan looks fit for his Wednesday night fight. He trotted eight miles on the road yesterday and boxed eight brisk rounds with his partners.

SUMMER BALL IS TURNED DOWN

Conference Refuses to Allow College Boys to Play With Professionals.

Chicago, Jan. 27. — Summer baseball was voted down, the proposition to admit post-graduate students to enter athletics in schools where they had taken out one degree was defeated, and the eligibility questions before the Western conference universities constituting the Big Eight were left to a committee to report to today's session of the conference here.

Topics before the Big Eight representatives were the White amendment, summer baseball, eligibility of graduate students, intersectional games, the status of the University of Michigan, and the application of the Ohio state university for membership. It was reported that the summer baseball question brought out the most discussion and resulted in the protracted session.

Chicago, Wisconsin and Purdue fought the passage of the rule permitting Big Eight athletes to play professional baseball and then take part in conference competition.

The White resolution, adopted in 1902, provides for a two-thirds vote on questions of policy and it was under this plan that the vote was held. There were only five votes of eight, it was said, in favor of summer baseball.

Application of the Ohio state university for admission to the conference was brought up, but no action was taken. Prof. G. W. Wrightmore, Prof. J. A. Leighton and Carl E. Steeb represented the Ohio school.

Delegates to the conference refused to admit that any action regarding the removal of the ban on the University of Michigan, which withdrew from the body in 1907, has been taken. It was said, however, that the subject was discussed.

It was also reported that the University of Minnesota, which has urged Michigan's return to the organization, would withdraw unless the Wolverine school was again taken into the conference.

ALL IS READY FOR BIG MEET

More Than 100 Expert Ski Riders Will Compete at Chicago.

Chicago, Jan. 27.—The packing of the runway with snow and the leveling of the landing hill have been completed for today's ski events at Gary, Ill., where more than 100 experts will try for national nad international professional and amateur honors.

Hans Ruud of the Norge club of Chicago made the christening leap on the slide. He fell in landing. Several others tried out the slide, including Sven Welhaven and Ragner Omtvedt, the foreign experts. Both these skiers made beautiful leaps.

Kuhn Reinstated.

Portland, Or., Jan. 27.—A telegram was received in Portland yesterday from John H. Farrell, secretary of the National Association of Minor Baseball Leagues, announcing that Walter Kuhn, backstop for the Portland Coast league team, has ben reinstadted and will report to the Chicago Americans. Kuhn, under the rules, would have reverted to the Minneapolis club, but was released by that club to Chicago. Kuhn was suspended for three years from playing in the major leagues for having failed to report to the club holding title to his services.

LATEST SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

THE BUSHERS' ANNUAL VISIT TO TRAINING CAMPS IS NEAR

Highly-Touted Ball Players Will Burst Into the Limelight With the Coming of Spring, Only to Fall By the Wayside When the Pace Grows Faster as the Season Advances.

Chicago, Jan. 27.—Breakers loom ahead for the busher. Highly touted pastimers armed to the teeth with glowing press notices achieved by dint of brilliant playing as it's seen in the wee circuits will soon learn their fate. Seven weeks hence and the plot will thicken, bringing with it heartaches, joy, anticipation, gloom, day dreams and hideous nightmares. The scenes will be staged in various training ground way down south in the land of cotton, shrimp, red clay and mosquitoes.

Spring scrimmaging sans the busher is like musical comedy without its German slap-sticker. These chesty, hard-working, berth-seeking "rooks" swoop down upon the camp vowing sure death to Wagner, Cobb, Lajoie, Schulte and all the other truly greats, but in the main these same cocky new comers linger for a thorough tryout, then gather up their bat bags, and folding their tents like the Arabs, silently gumshoe away.

Ever see a busher during the training days? A fresh freshman, president of his high school debating society, during his first day on the university campus was never arrayed like one of these.

How He Does It.

Along about this time Mr. Busher is getting his summons to report for the conditioning process. Flashing the letter or telegram the dreary athlete prances into the sanctum of the home town sporting authority to comment casually on the general aspect of the weather and incidentally to add that he has just received the big command to join the pitching staff of the Cubs, Pirates, Giants or Athletics. This over, it's customary for the "rook" to pass the "torpedoes" (code for stogies) and to depart leaving the telegram and an action likeness conveniently in the wake.

Next in the course of human events comes the getaway day, which features the all-powerful diamond marvel hotfooting it around the town square, bidding adieu to the man on the monument and cutting a wide trail through the cigar stands and thirst parlors. He invariably hits 1,000 while receiving the congratulations of local fans and departs in a blaze of glory and the automobile of some prosperous pal.

Take the case of one youngster who breezed into the Cubs' camp at New Orleans two years ago, preceding the main body of athletes by twelve hours. Horning his way into the hotel selected as team headquarters the busher registered, surveyed conditions in general, cussed the desk clerk and in the afternoon meandered to the grounds. There he encountered a dozen other "rooks" working out. Innocently enough he may or may not have looked upon them as regulars. At any rate he studied them, watched the manner in which each man handled himself and drew conclusions detrimental to the other fellow.

Might Feel Pangs.

Probably this fresh laddie buck felt pangs of disappointment at the blase way in which the "war correspondents" assignment to the team accepted his announcement of name and intended berth. At least this was the case when Zerat Zequiel Hagerman later caught on at Atlanta to tell the other Cubs and would-be Cubbies all about the old home town of Hayfield, Minn. Z. Z., or "Hip," as he was later dubbed, since has slipped back to the small fry.

Returning to the incident at the Crescent City, the next morning found ye aspirant for a regular job all dolled up in a weather-beaten uniform, one of the "at home" suits of questionable white. The same men were out floundering around the bases to shed the excess poundage by chasing fungoes in the outfield. A pitcher and catcher with sinister intentions regarding future hitless wonders were steaming up on the melting pot.

Nearby stood the customary small boy, but the sporting writers had lost their indifferent air and were clustered about a couple of quiet men lounging on the bench. The larger of the two arose, yawned, and stretched his arms lazily in the sunshine.

"That's Frank Chance," a small boy murmured, his eyes agleam with adoration, hero worship and all that sort of thing.

Edging confidently over toward the bench, Mr. Busher awaiting a pause in the conversation and introduced himself. Chance was cordial, asked how he felt, spoke of the coming season and then resumed his detailed prospectus on training plans for the edification of the baseball scribes. His audience with the great man over, the youngster gamboled out to the field and burned up much energy pursuing flies, circling the bases and in lashing himself into a state of general perspiration.

"The Old Guard."

That afternoon and evening other "old heads" dropped into town, and at night there was a fanning bee in the hotel lobby, participated in by veterans of the old guard. Practice the next day found the whole team out, and Mr. Busher expected to feast his lamps on championship ball. Again he was disappointed. The "vets" warmed up the benches, discussed battles of the previous campaign and generally manifested keen disgust for any kind of exercise.

The following days were little different. Now and then a bunch of regulars would desert the "comfy" plank to jog around the outskirts or to play "hy-low," a game designed purely for limbering up knotted muscles. There was little hurry, and no seeming intention to buckle down to hard work.

With greater experience the busher would have understood that conditioning a major league team is a more serious proposition than he had thought. Charley horses and strains must needs be tackled slowly, and more is lost through rapid preparation than the outsider can imagine.

Hence the busher begins to chafe. He is cautioned once or twice by the trainer and the veterans in regard to too strenuous pastiming, and unless he is particularly wise, this warning breeds in him a feeling of superiority over the giver. He is young, vigorous, rich in the joy of living and only too confident of his prowess. Then comes the rude awakening. Gradually he notices the pace of the old men is quickening. The balls fly back and forth a little faster than during the first days. There is a little more snap in the returns and the men run the bases faster and more frequently. Soon after comes a day when Chance leads the old men protesting in a circle of the fence.

"Vets" Don't Like It.

They come in puffing and "fagged" from the exertion, softly cursing the unnecessary exercise. Again Mr. Busher feels his intense superiority. His condition has been better and just by way of showing off he struts to the platter and burns over an assortment of fast balls to show the maskman who has been drafted from the Central league how truly promising he really is. Stiffness of the salary arm then clutches the fiery athlete and the next day he learns to his sorrow that the work of yesterday was a bit severe. "But," he argues, "what's the difference; that will wear off in a hurry." He finds, however that the old men rarely complain of sore arms. They are far too careful for that, but daily increase their pace. This increase is almost imperceptible, but the busher feels something that the old men are getting better and he begins to have hopes of the ultimate outcome, although he wonders why the manager and captain permit him to loaf so much.

By and by along comes the day when the recruits and the regulars collide in the first game of the trip. Probably the "rooks" carry the day; they usually do, at first. Facing the star pitcher of the old guard the busher finds little difficulty combing out base hits. In fact, said star has nothing on him, his offerings are generally pie, and that night the busher falls asleep dreaming sweet dreams of having cinched his job in the big show.

During that particular combat the "rookie" observes a lot of "ragging" between the old heads over the handling of certain plays. This he can't fathom.

"Little More Pep."

"A little pep, there," or "get next," yells the shortstop to the second sacker. "What are you trying to do. Fall up the signs, eh?"

If there was a signal passed the "rookie" didn't know it. In his league of the season before signs were unknown quantities. For a few days the recruit faces the old flingers successfully. He swats every old thing they serve him and in his fancy he sees himself already starring as the pinch hitter of the team.

Finally the blow-off is reached. The ball comes over with a sharped break, the curves are wider and more baffling. Mr. Busher grasps the wagon tongue or the "barrel-hammer," firmly and waits for the good one. The old-timer on the hill grins wickedly, rubs a bit of dust on the ball and shoots one across like a bullet from a magazine gun. The recruit retires, a strike-out.

Then comes the tour back toward the northland, stops being scheduled every two or three days for games with the teams along the line. Mr. Busher is put to the test frequently. There are no errors, everybody is playing in near "mid-season form." The Chicago baseball writers wire their papers that the team is in "the pink." Mr. Busher's name is not mentioned.

By this time the "rookie" has been relegated to the bench, and the chastening experience isn't exactly to his liking. One day the team, jaunty, cool, alert, with all languor gone from its movements, the men clear-eyed and brown from the Southern sun, disembarks from the train in one of the Chicago depots.

In the Last Seat.

Automobiles laden with fans greet the team for a parade through the loop. Mr. Busher draws an obscure seat in the last vehicle, and the crowd along the curbing looks his car over silently as it passes, while up ahead the cheers of the "bugs" ring with the passing of each old-timer on the pay roll. The next day, silently nervous, Mr. Busher hears from the clubhouse the cheering of the fans while he climbs into his uniform and, with the other members of the squad, marches across the lot.

The march of triumph over, the men scamper to their positions. The umpire dusts off the marble, approaches the press coop and bellows: "Batteries for-r-r-r today, for the home club, Brown and Archer; for St. Louis, Sallee and Bresnahan. Play ball."

Ye Busher slaps a bit of dirt into the palm of his glove and flops back into his regular position—on the well-worn bench.

A DULUTH SKI RIDER

NELS FLOAN.

John Mangseth and Nels Floan are representing the Duluth Ski club at the National Ski tournament, in progress at Chicago today. Floan is but a youngster and yet he is one of the most promising amateur riders in the Northwest. He is expected to make a great showing in the big February tournament to be held here.

BRYANT SHOWS SPEED.

Local Champion Has Won Five Races on Present Trip.

Since leaving Duluth, Frank Bryant, the champion roller skater of the Head of the Lakes, has won five races and has not been defeated once. With several more races to skate, the little local speed merchant hopes to come home without a defeat chalked up against him.

Racing on strange tracks and against local champions, Bryant has made an excellent record. He is making some fast time in his races, a mark of 2:48 being hung up in one of his races at Escanaba.

Verner Nyberg was defeated by Frank on Thursday evening at Ironwood. According to the letter of Bryant, he won the race by over half a lap. Bryant writes that the race was close for about half the distance, and after that he drew away from the Ironwood boy.

Since he started racing on the present trip Bryant has defeated Howard Gilbert, Jack Archenbeau, Stewart Johnson, Hugh Boyle and Verner Nyberg.

Students to Donate.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 27.—After Oct. 1, according to a decision of the board of regents, every student attending the University of Michigan, who is financially able, will be required to pay an additional fee of $5 to make possible the maintenance of athletics without charging the students admittance, as has been the custom. The new plan was discussed for some time and won approval. It is expected to greatly swell the attendance at athletic contests, especially track and baseball games.

New York Shooter Wins.

Pinehurst, N. C., Jan. 27.—A. E. Ranney of the New York Yacht club won the preliminary trophy of the annual midwinter trap shooting tournament yesterday, scoring 95 from the 18-yard mark. The outcome was uncertain until the last shot was fired.

Fast Hockey Game.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 27.—In a spectacular contest the Detroit hockey team and a seven from Toronto played sixty minutes last evening, but neither succeeded in scoring.

FUNNY HABITS OF THE SOUTHPAWS

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 27.—"Among all these people there were 700 chosen men left handed; every one could sling stones at a hairbreath, and not miss."—Judges xx., 16.

Our left-handed hurlers of this age do not exactly tally with the southpaws described in the Scriptures. As a general rule, left-handed throwers who have taken up baseball pitching find the lack of control a stumbling block to ultimate success. The majority of left-handed men are naturally good throwers. In throwing a baseball they have a sweeping side motion of the arm that sends it shooting along in a pecular zigzag course. This is more noticeable in young left-handers who are taking their first lessons in the art of curving.

They impart all sorts of strange and weird breaks to the ball in their attempts to master the curve. So it takes the southpaw much longer to gain control than his right-handed brother.

Baseball has had many left-handed pitchers that were wonderfully successful and became famous. But the majority of them have failed and for one principal reason—lack of control.

Soon Sidetracked.

They go along all right until they strike the big leagues, where the experienced and crafty batsmen—knowing their crowning weakness—wait, wait, wait—until the youngster is crazed. He has been used to the batter reaching after his curve and biting at his pet "drop" ball. These young "phenoms" have everything but good control.

In the early '90s the Philadelphia Nationals signed a twirler by the name of Killeen from the Three-I league. He was left-handed and possessed cannonball speed and had an astonishing assortment of curves, but he was as wild as the proverbial hare. To make a bad matter worse he was cross-eyed—an awful combination for a batter to face.

In his first try-out he certainly kept the opposing batters on the jump, for none of them could judge the course of the ball. It was just as liable to shoot in and clip off an ear, or take a sudden downward flight and smash a toe. He was turned loose without further trial. This is about the style in which the average young southpaw has made his debut in big league society two decades ago.

Today they handle them differently, as in the case of Marquard, Benton and many others. They are coached, groomed and trained for a year or more in major league tactics.

Two left-handers who made themselves famous for lack of control were "Billy" George and Bently Seymour. Both pitched for the New York Nationals. George was with them in 1887. He certainly had everything but control; he had as much speed as any of them. But he was so atrociously wild that the sod in front and around the plate would be well plowed up. At that, George had nothing on Seymour, who did slab duty for New York ten years later. "Cy" could make the wildest kind of a wild pitch; in fact, his effectiveness was largely due to his extreme lack of control. When Seymour had on one of his wild streaks no batter dared stand up to the plate. He has a record of passing eleven men in one game and offsetting this by striking out eleven.

Richmond a Wonder.

Dr. Lee Richmond was the first portside flinger to make a pronounced success of that style of pitching. Richmond had a good head, a strong arm and some wonderful deliveries. Shaw, the "wizard," followed Richmond, and he demonstrated to the baseball world what a valuable asset a finished left-hander was to a ball team. Ed Morris started his baseball career as a catcher, but he showed such wonderful throwing power that he was induced to try his hand at pitching. He proved a success from the start and in less than two years Morris was known from coast to coast as one of America's great left-handers. The famous Charles "Lady" Baldwin from 1883 until 1887 was considered a "king bee" among the great southpaws of those days. His control of the ball was remarkable.

Tom Ramsey graduated from the Southern league in 1885 with a marvelous pitching record. The Louisville club of the American association secured him, and while with that team during 1887 he made a record that will live in baseball history as long as the game exists. It is conceded by the majority of writers and critics that Ramsey had the most wonderful curves, with the greatest amount of speed in them, of any pitcher before his day, or since.

Cushman's Great Record.

Ed Cuhsman, another great left-hander who made great fame for himself during the early '80s, had magnificent control of the ball. In 1884 he lost just one game of twenty-seven in which he pitched. In 1886 Mat Kilroy vied with Ramsey in sensational pitching stunts. Some critics considered the little left-hander the best of his time. John "Phenomenal" Smith, as a baseball pitcher, was considered a real phenomenon. His pitching for Newark in 1885-86 proved him such; he faced all the big league teams in exhibition contests, and they were as clay in the potter's hands to him.

Dan Casey, with the Philadelphia Nationals during 1886, 1887, 1888 and 1889, made a success in fast company with his deceptive southpaw delivery, winning a large majority of his games.

Elmer Smith starred for Cincinnati in 1887 and for a number of years was considered a high-class left-hander. Many promising left-handers were tried by the major leagues in the '80s. Titcomb, Madden and "Billy" Daly, together with Steve Toole and Phil Knell, all had one god year or more in the big show.

George Van Haltren came from California heralded as a wonder, and without doubt if George could have controlled his marvelous curves he would have made a lasting name as a pitcher.

The '90s produced few sucessful southpaws, but the few that did make good were wonders. Theodore Breitenstein, Frank Killen and G. Edward Waddell were the bright particular stars. Breitenstein for twenty years has pitched high-class ball and holds the record for length of service. Killen had a remarkable career. During the middle '90s he was considered the leading twirler of the country. Waddell, with his mighty left arm, made many notable pitching records; the eccentric one has seen many years of service on the diamond. To give a full history of G. Edward's pitching career would fill a book.

Waddell, when at the zenith of his power, was practically unhittable. It is recorded that on several occasions he called his seven fielders in and then proceeded to strike out three batters, and he generally succeeded in doing it. In 336 games the big southpaw struck out 2,284 batters, an average of 6.50 per game.

Ramsey "Strikeout King."

Ramsey, the greatest of the great, has this record beaten. In 298 games he fanned 2,132 men, an average of 7.13 per game. No other pitcher, either right or left handed, in major league baseball has these records approached.

Tannehill, Hahn and Dohehy toward the end of the last decade broke into the charmed circle of famous portsiders. They were all great twirlers and made much fame for themselves.

Ed Plank, Pfeister, Dr. White and Jake Weimer, with Ed Killian, and not forgetting the famous and only Nick Alrock, are the veteran left-handers in active service today.

It is a possibility that out of the small army of promising left-handers now being tried out by the major leagues some may develop into Ramseys, Kilroys and Breitensteins. However, it is up to them to uphold and glorify the grand records made by the famous old guard of southpaws whose performances in the past have added much interest to our national game.

SCIENCE IS NEEDED IN SELECTING RIGHT PITCHERS

(By Billy Evans.)

A formidable pitching staff is very essential to a pennant winning ball club. Picking the proper spots for that pitching staff is a very important task that falls to the manager. Certain managers will get twice the results others do out of the same corps of twirlers. Thus a manager can greatly increase the strength of his pitching staff by exercising good judgment in making his selections.

Not so many years ago it was customary for the managers to work their pitchers in turn. Usually four men would get the honor of being selected as the regulars, while two or three others would be kept as second string men, out of the long list of twirlers seeking a big league berth. It become the duty of the four regular men to officiate on the rubber every fourth day. Very seldom did a second string man get a chance to start a game. Only a complete reversal of form on the part of some of the regulars, or unexpected injuries, ever gave one of the substitute twirlers a chance to hear the umpire announce his name as the pitcher before the start of the game. Relief duty was about all that was expected from the second string heavers.

Nowadays very few managers cling to the theory of working the pitchers in regular form. If a manager happens to have four great starts on his staff he naturally gives them the preference, but usually shifts their turn, so that their work will show to the best possible advantage. Winning ball games is the goal of every club leader. He always seeks to attain such an end, and a 9 to 8 victory in a sloppy exhibition boosts his managerial stock more than a 1 to 0 defeat in an extra inning game. Defeat in a brilliant extra inning game simply means a waste of so much pitching energy of the best grade, a victory in a poor exhibition simply means that so much poor twirling has been put to the best possible use.

Few managers have been more successful than Connie Mack, and I know of no leader who juggles his pitching staff more than the silent general of the Athletics. During his highly successful career as leader of the Chicago White Sox, Fielder Jones was constantly forced to depend on strategy rather than strength to return his club the winner. Much of the strength of his club was in his pitching staff. No manager could have got better results from that staff than did Jones. No manager made so many changes in his twirling arrangement. It was a well-known fact that you could never tell who was going to pitch for the Sox, although you always had an idea it would be Walsh.

There is no getting away from the fact Jones was a wonder when it came to getting every bit of ability possible, not only out of his pitchers, but out of every other member of the squad. He always seemed to know when the derrick should be used on a faltering twirler. He invariably selected the proper spot to insert a pinch hitter, and fortune usually smiled on him, for the pinch hitter came through in a great majority of the cases. He never appeared to be caught napping by having some pitcher who had been working fine suddenly blow up. It always seemed as if Jones had a pitcher all warmed up ready to take up the burden.

Walsh Works Hard.

Ed Walsh, the great spitball pitcher of the Chicago team, is an "iron man" when it comes to standing work. The spitball is supposed to be very weakening on the arm, but it never seemed to have any bad effect on Walsh. Since Jones left the Chicago team Walsh has done a lot of work for Comiskey, but I seriously doubt if any manager will ever get the work out of him that Jones did. It seemed as if Walsh worked a whole or part of every game in 1906, when the Sox won the pennant after a bitter struggle. Any time you looked at a box score of a Chicago game you could usually see the name of Walsh at the bottom of the box score. If the name happened to be missing, you could rest assured that Walsh spent most of the afternoon warming up so as to be ready to take up the burden of any wavering heaver.

While it is not generally known, Fielder Jones was responsible for the adoption of section 3 or rule 33, by the men who look after the playing code. That section reads as follows: "In event of the pitcher being taken from his position by either manager or captain, the player substituted for him shall continue to pitch until the batsman then at bat has been either put out or reached first base."

The adoption of this rule was made necessary because of the manner in which the managers abused the old rule. Before the adoption of the rule referred to above, a manager could announce a pitcher, let him assume his place on the rubber, throw the regulation five balls allowed to warm up, and then decide that he was not the pitcher wanted. Naturally the pitcher could take his time throwing these five balls. Immediately the manager would announce another pitcher, who would go through the same performance, only to be recalled after he had thrown his five practice balls. In the meantime the pitcher really desired would be working his head off, getting properly warmed up.

Very often a strong left-handed batter would come up in a pinch. A right-handed pitcher would often be working. Instantly, as the manager of the team in the field, saw the hard-hitting left-hander approach the plate he would stop the game and summon his star southpaw to the rubber. The batter known to be weak against left-handers would be removed from the game by the manager of the team at bat, and a hard-hitting right-handed substituted. Immediately the manager of the team in the field removes the star southpaw, and sends in his crack "spit" ball pitcher. Such tactics, while often gaining victory, tended to delay the game. No manager ever profited more by the continual shifting of batters and pitchers than Fielder Jones. Usually White would be sent in when the hard-hitting left-hander came up, and instantly on his removal Walsh would be summoned to the center of the diamond to save the day. Seldom did he fail to deliver the goods. Compelling the pitcher substituted to continue to pitch until the batsman either reaches first or is retired has done away with this feature, which was so very common five or six years ago.

Good Spots for Pitchers.

In selecting the proper spots for his pitchers Connie Mack is a past master. No manager keeps a more careful record of the success of his twirlers against the various clubs than Mack. Often he will work a certain pitcher three times inside of seven days, and then perhaps he will not call upon that twirler for another week. It is not an uncommon thing for certain Athletic twirlers to go through an entire season without working against certain clubs.

It is a well known fact in baseball that every twirler appears to have certain clubs which are easy for him, while certain other clubs are hard for him to win over. Very often a star twirler will find a tail-end club his jonah team to beat. Quite often a mediocre member of the pitching staff shows his best form against certain first division clubs. Pitchers are superstitious; they know which clubs are their hoodoo teams, and they never work with the same confidence against such teams.

There are any number of managers

SPORTING EVENTS OF THE PAST WEEK AS SEEN BY THE HERALD CARTOONIST

who don't take these things into consideration. Knowing the ability of their pitchers, they work them, regardless of the ill luck that usually follows them against certain teams. Mack caters to every whim of his twirlers. I once heard a pitcher say to Connie before the start of the game, "I'm feeling pretty good today; I would like to work against this club, and see if I can't shoo the jinx." Connie simply smiled and replied: "Why, you haven't beaten this club for a couple of years. This team is always easy for John, so I think I will work him today. The Red Sox are here tomorrow, and you always make those fellows look foolish, so be prepared to work against them at least once, and possibly twice during the series." The pitcher smiled, made no further comment and walked away. Sure enough, Coombs won his game with ease, and the other twirler worked twice against the Red Sox and won both games.

How often have you seen your home team hit the ball all over the field and still get beat 12 to 11, because of inferior pitching. Perhaps the following day the home team pitcher holds the visitors to two runs, yet is beaten 2 to 0. How often have you said under such conditions that it was a shame such and such a pitcher didn't work yesterday, then those eleven runs wouldn't have been wasted. Fans often wonder why managers seldom use the pitcher they select in advance. Usually it is because conditions arise which convince them it is not the proper spot to work that twirler.

SCHEDULE IS REVISED

Big Duluths Join Auditorium League and Teams Sign New Players.

With the Big Duluth's indoor baseball team in the Auditorium Indoor Baseball league, that organization should be by far the strongest league ever organized at the Head of the Lakes and should give the lovers of the indoor game the best sport that Duluth has ever had in the way of indoor baseball.

The Big Duluths have one of the best indoor baseball teams ever organized in the Northwest. The Fitwells have also one of the best teams ever organized in Duluth. With the Jeffersons and the Adams strengthening, the league should finish out the winter season with some close and exciting games.

A. J. Reach & Co., through the Northern Hardware company of this city, have offered a big loving cup for the winning team. While the Fitwells have had the edge on the other teams so far, the coming of the Big Duluths, the Adams are signing some new players and one of the best baseball players in the Northwest, "Hank" Boyle, the old Central high school baseball and football star, and later a football star at Michigan, has signed with the Jeffersons and should greatly strengthen the East end organization.

Following is the revised schedule and also the standing:

Feb. 1—Jeffersons vs. Fitwells.
Feb. 5—Big Duluths vs. Adams.
Feb. 8—Adams vs. Fitwells.

CURLING GAMES

Catterson won from Palmer last evening in the Gruesen event, the doctor's rink curling a strong game and winning by the score of 12 to 5. Ron McLeod won from Ron Smith by the score of 11 to 9 and Cooley defeated Graham, 15 to 10. Ralph Bradley's rink won from Brewer in The Herald evening by the score of 12 to 4.

The games committee of the club may set the local championship event on Lincoln's birthday. The state championship event, which was won last year at St. Paul by Ron Smith's rink, may be played on Washington's birthday, though the date has not been decided upon as yet.

MOSE CANFIELD MAKES HIGH RUN AT POOL.

Last evening Mose Canfield made the remarkable run of 71 in pool at the Majestic parlors. A run of 66 was made in the match with Nolan, this completing the score of Canfield. To see how far he could go Mose continued stringing them up, missing on the seventy-second shot. This is within four points of the present city record. The final score of last night's game was 100 to 50. The grand aggregate so far is 500 to 324 in favor of Canfield.

Last night's score by innings:

Canfield	0	0	1	0	1	0	13	9	3	26	6—100

As both of the teams are considered the best at the Head of the Lakes the game is expected to be a close contest.

THE VARIED CAREER OF CHAMPION ATTELL

Abe Attell, philosopher, reviewed his fourteen years of fighting the other day. He holds the title of featherweight champion of the world. He has fought 250 times—perhaps more. He has fought more champions than any other man now in the ring, and has defended his title every time a 122-pound man could get the offer of a purse and suggested his complicity. He has been wipped just four times—and the men who bested him were out of his weight class. He has fought perhaps 3,000 rounds in all, and he doesn't bear a mark where a glove touched him. He does not use tobacco in any form nor has he ever tipped the goblet. He is 28 years old, and when he has four or five more good fights, he thinks he will retire. He is getting tired of the game. He has been modestly rich, and he has had to pawn his wife's diamonds. He learned how to plunge, and—hardest of all—he learned how to quit plunging.

"It's been a pretty good game," he said, reflectively. "Of course, I'm kind of sore when I think of all the money I've let get away from me—but I can console myself. I'm just as good as I ever was, and I've had a mighty good time."

The skinny little man who is to fight Johnny Kilbane in San Francisco on Washington's birthday for the featherweight championship of the world, declares he is but 28 years old.

"I was born on Washington's birthday twenty-eighth years ago," said he, "and my mother named me for Abraham Lincoln. How's anybody named Kilbane going to beat that combination next Washington's birthday?"

Started With Britt.

"Four of us started together in San Francisco," said he, reflectively. "There were Jimmie Britt and Eddie Hanlon and Frankie Neil and myself. We were all kinds together, fighting preliminaries about the same time. The others are all done for now. I'm the only one that's left in the ring."

He wasn't sounding the long roll, you know. Merely stating a fact. A little later he recollected that his ring career had netted him something more than $50,000 in the coldest cash, which isn't bad for a youngster of 28. Not much of it is left now.

"I was a good saving kid until I met Young Corbett in Denver. He taught me how to play my money. I'd never made any bets until I caught up with him. He made a plunger out of me. Well, he sure made a good one. I bet 'em as high as anyone while it lasted. Now I'm through. No more betting for me. I promised my wife a year ago I'd cut it out and she didn't believe me. Last week she came out to see me.

"'Abe,' said she, 'I didn't believe you would stick when you said you would never bet again. But you have. Now I know you will.'"

And it was not with the slightest evidence of emotion that he told the story of the biggest bet he ever made on a horse—and he was a skilled pony-chaser. It was when the Empire City track was running at Yonkers, and Senator Pat McCarren, the tall leader of the Brooklyn democracy was still alive. Attell had been fighting for months, always with success, and had a neat bank roll put away where the mice couldn't nibble. He rather fancied himself at the pony game, too.

"I got a tip to play Prince Armor," he said. "'Prince Armor!' I'll never forget that name. I wasn't going to do it, when I saw McCarren go to it. I saw him bet $25,000 on Prince Armor, and I thought that if it was good enough for him it was good enough for me. So I sent in $11,000. And we were just nosed out of the money.

Matched With Kilbane.

"Now I'm about ready to quit. I expect to lick Kilbane, and then I want three or four more good fights, and I'm through. I want to be able to quit with honor. I have never believed in this giving of benefits to exchampions. I don't want any one to give a benefit for me when I step out. Look at Young Corbett! He made a ton of money, and they keep on giving him benefits. Look at a dozen others. If they hadn't blown their money they wouldn't need a benefit now."

He began as a "tough kid" in the San Francisco streets. He is a bit proud of that early record, too. Being the one kid in his gang who "packed a punch," the others relied on him to do their fighting for them. Now and then some kid belonging to another gang would have the death sign put on him by the overlords of the kids that Attell trained with.

"So," said Attell, "by and by that kid would come by my mother's store—or mebbe he'd meet me in the street and cadd me a 'dirty Jew,' or we'd catch him in the alley, and then I'd murder him."

The process of murdering kids was helpful to his shoulder muscles, but began to disturb his neighbors. Mrs. Attell was very busy in her loan office and could not keep a close watch upon her eagle-beaked young hopeful as she would have liked. By and by she became impatient.

"So she had me sent away to a reform school," said Abe, "and I stayed there for fifteen months. When I got back I remember all the kids around on the street yelling 'Abie's home.' I told my mother I'd be good, and I was good. I was afraid she'd send me back. But one of the kids I used to murder—"

"His name was Everett Wires."

Abe's Rapid Rise.

"Yes—Wires—he had been fighting preliminaries, and he had won twenty-nine straight fights. All the kids told me to go in and clean him. He was swelling around the streets. Alex Gregains used to pay $15 for preliminary fights then. By and by some of the boys went to Greggains and told him they had a kid who could lick any of his prelim. fighters. One of 'em said he was my manager, and Greggains made a match for me right away with Eddie Lenny. Then they got out bills all over town, and one of my brothers told my mother. I told her I didn't know anything about it.

"'If you fight you'll be sent away,' she told me.

"I didn't want to go back to that reform school, and I made up my mind I wouldn't fight. But when the day came, and I told the kids, they told me I'd have to fight. They talked to me until I went to my mother again. 'I want to fight,' I said.

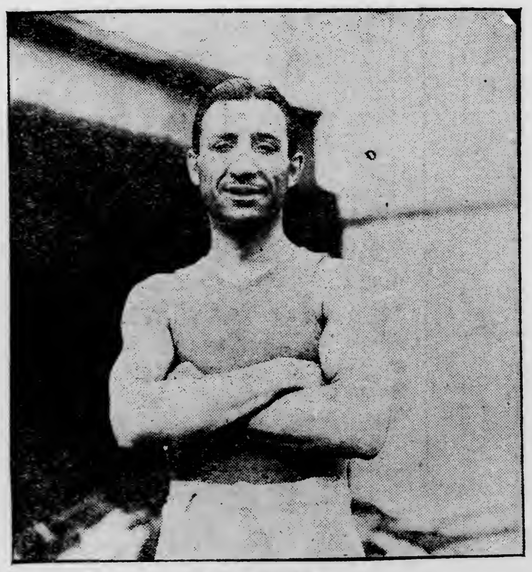

"'If you fight, you go back to the school,' she said.

"'But, ma,' I said, 'if I don't fight they'll call me a "Jew coward" and a "Jew quitter." You wouldn't have them call me that, would you, ma?'

"So she told me to go ahead and fight. I won that fight without a scratch, and I gave the $15 Alec Gregains gave me to my ma. Then she kind of softened and let me go on fighting, without saying anything more about it. Every time I won—and I won thirty-four fights straight with a knockout—I gave her my dough. That didn't make so much difference, but by and by the neighbors began to come to her.

"'That boy Abie's a fine boy,' they told her. 'Such a fighter.'

"So she got kind of proud of me, and never tried to make me stop fighting from that time on."

COLLEGES AND CLUBS ARE OUT FOR OLYMPIC HONORS

(By Edward R. Bushnell.)

New York, Jan. 27.—Since plans are being made by the American committee for the selection of the 1912 team to represent this country in the Olympic games at Stockholm, Sweden, devotees of field and track athletics are beginning to consider which element will furnish the greater strength to the American combination, the colleges or the clubs.

In 1896, when the games were held at Athens, and in 1900, when they were conducted at Paris, the collegians far outscored the club athletes. This was only natural, because up to that time not very much had been done towards developing track and field athletics throughout the clubs of the country.

Since that time the clubs have been rapidly forging to the front, and in 1904, when the games were held at St. Louis, the club men carried off the more honors. This, however, was due to the fact that the games were held during the summer months, and hardly any of the college men, except those who were members of various clubs, competed.

In 1906, when the United States swept the boards at the set of games held in Athens, practically all the honors were won by the club men. This also was due to the fact that, with a few exceptions, there were no college men on the team. Before the American team was selectd the committee announced that it would not take any undergraduates unless they had the written permission of their faculties to accompany the team.

In 1908, when the games were held at London, was the first time that a real serious effort was made to collect one team to contain the best of the college and club athletes. The result was an almost equal distribution of men between these two bodies. In the games themselves the college men slightly outscored the club athletes, but the wonderful progress made by the clubs led many persons to predict that the next time an American team was sent to win the Olympic honors the club men would outscore the collegians.

An analysis of the available strength of the two sections indicate quite plainly that the college men have made even greater progress since 1908 than the club men, and if they do as well as they did in the last intercollegiate championships, both East and West, they are likely to more than hold their own. With the possible exception of the runs above two miles the college men now promise to be stronger in every one of the track events.

Taking up these events separately, there is no man in the club ranks the equal of Ralph C. Craig of the University of Michign in the 100 and 220-yard dashes. Craig's record of running 100 yards is 9 4-5 seconds and 220 yards in 21 1-5 seconds has never been equaled by a club man. Gwyn Henry, who hails from Texas, is the best of the club men, but he will have to improve several feet to hold his own against Craig.

Passing on to the quarter mile, no club has yet turned out a man as fast as D. B. Young of Amherst. Young's feat of running 440 yards in 48 4-5 seconds at the intercollegiate championships, has not been surpassed by any club man. Wendell Baker of Harpard and Maxwell Long of Columbia, both college men, are the only ones to have beaten Young's performance. J. B. Taylor of Pennsylvania and I. N. Davenport of Chicago university have both equaled this performance.

M. W. Sheppard of the Irish-American Athletic club has been given credit for being the fastest half-miler in this country. Sheppard has a record of 1:53 3-5, which is just 1-5 of a second behind the world's record.

Jones Could Outrun Sheppard.

But while Sheppard enjoys the reputation of being the fastest half-miler in this country, there is no doubt in the minds of most experts that J. P. Jones of Cornell could beat him in a match race. The only effort Jones ever made to establish a record for this distance was at the last intercollegiate meet, when he ran the distance in 1:54 4-5. This was just after he had made a new world record of 4:15 2-5 in the one-mile event. It is hardly likely that Sheppard can expect to be at his best this year in view of the many years he has been competing and the serious illness he had this winter.

For the one-mile run, there is no one in the same class with Jones. It was the unanimous opinion of the experts who saw him do 4:15 2-5 at Cambridge last year that had a faster pace been set Jones could have smashed the world's professional record of 4:12¾. The best man the club would have to pit against him will be Kiviat, who has a record of 4:19 3-5.

Taking up the two-mile run, Jones is probably the fastest man at this distance, though he could not run it as well as the mile. Next to him, Berna, also of Cornell, is the fastest, and he still holds the intercollegiate mark of 9:25 2-5. There is no doubt, though, that George Bonhag of the Irish-American Athletic club could beat either man, still, if Jones trained especially for this distance, it would be a wonderful race between the two.

Where Clubmen Shine.

For all the distances above two miles this country will have to depend upon the club men. The best three-milers in the country are Bonhag, Kramer and Collins. The last two named have been developed since the 1908 games and seem to be stars of the first magnitude.

It is entirely too early to make any predictions regarding the Marathon runners. It is very unusual for a man to be a star at this distance for more than a year or two. It is entirely likely that a new crop of Marathon men will be developed during the coming season. On account of their youth, it is hardly likely that any of the college men will be serious contenders for this event.

If the Carlisle Indian school can be classed as a college, the intercollegiate element will be well represented by Lewis Tewanimi. Trainer Mike Murphy thinks that if Tewanimi trains properly he will be one of the best Marathon runners this country has ever developed.

The college men have always been superior at the hurdles, and they will likely retain their advantage this year. From present indications Chisholm, the former Yale star, and Edwards of the University of Pennsylvania, both of whom are consistently good for 15 2-5 seconds, will be the best men over the high sticks. In the low hurdles Eller of the Irish-American Athletic club is probably as good as any of the college men.

In the field events there is likely to be a more even distribution of honors. In the weight events the club men will have to supply nearly all the strength in the hommer throw. There are three or four club men, notably McGrath and Ryan, who are always booked for more than 170 feet. It is not likely that any of the college men come within 15 feet of their best throw.

In the shot-put it will be a nip and tuck battle between Ralph Rose, the former University of Michigan man, and Beatty of Columbia university. Both of these men can heave the ball in the neighborhood of 48 and 49 feet.

In the pole vault, of course, the college men are much superior, with H. S. Babcock of Columbia university the holder of the world's record. There are a half dozen or more ex-college men who will keep in training for this event.

In the broad jump the club men are likely to have a better performer in Frank Irons of the Chicago Athletic association. Irons was the winner of the broad jump at the Olympic games in 1908, when he cleared 24 ft. 7 in. Probably his strongest opponent from the college ranks will be E. R. Mercer of the University of Pennsylvania, who has done in the neighborhood of 23 feet.

In the high jump Harry Potter, the former Cornell university star, and Burdick, the University of Pennsylvania captain, should more than hold their own with any of the club men, although the latter will have several representatives who can do consistently better than 6 feet.

May Play Nebraska.

Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 27.—That advancements have been made by the Michigan university authorities within the last twenty-four hours looking toward the scheduling of a football game with Nebraska for next fall was the statement of Dr. R. C. Clapp of the Nebraska athletic board today. He refused to give out details, but intimated that the Michigan schedule as announced might not be final.

AUTOMOBILES

SHIPPING CAR ABROAD

Many American Auto Owners Will Tour Europe During Coming Season.

Touring Club of America Makes All Arrangements for American Parties.

In spite of an increase of 10 per cent in the cost of shipping automobiles to European ports, there is, however, an increasingly large number of American motorists planning to take their cars abroad to tour the continent during the next few months, according to a statement which has been issued by the foreign department of the Touring Club of America.

While there has been more or less dissatisfaction expressed by automobile owners making foreign tours about the exorbiant rates charged for the forwarding of their cars, the Touring Club of America has recently concluded arrangements which will be most advantageous to motorists contemplating touring abroad.

On the other hand, the new ocean rates have had a tendency to enlist motor touring enthusiasts in the movement to "See America first," and this knockout—I gave her my dough. That didn't make so much difference, but by and by the neighbors began to come to her.

Many prominent automobilists planning to tour Europe have received through the touring club road dirictions which have been compiled by the club's official car under the direction of its foreign department. These tours cover interesting trips, taking in the historic and scenic points of interest and in localities where the very best of accommodations are obtainable.

The touring club is well organized for the convenience of motorists planning tours on the continent and can secure trip-tyques and licenses without any inconvenience as well as having on hand the latest road books and maps covering all the popular touring countries. The Touring Club of America has affiliations with the Touring Club of France, Touring Club of Italy and the Automobile Association and Motor Union of Great Britain where special courtesies are extended upon presentation of an introductory card. Delegates appointed by the touring club, located in the principal cities are always ready to extend every coutesy to tourists from the United States. Tourists are furnished with a copy of the international directory, containing a list of over 500 of the leading hostelries, restaurants, and best equipped garages where American tourists will receive the best service and attention.

LOUD, SHRILL NOISE NEEDED

People No Longer Pay Any Heed to Ordinary "Honk Honk."

New York, Jan. 27.—Perhaps Edison more than most people, realizes the danger to deaf pedestrians in the simple, inofensive "honk honk" of the average automobile. He maintains that a louder and less frequent salute would be better. The idea was prompted by the recent anti-noise crusade in Orange, N. J., where he lives.

"I believe," said Mr. Edison, "automobiles should be made to carry a louder, more efficient warning device than the bulb horn. In order to attract any attention with the latter—especially where traffic is dense—it is necessary to sound it almost continuously. This means an incessant din; but it is ineffective noise.

"One short, sharp blast of a more powerful signal is a better warning than a doezn 'honks' at a about a tenth of the volume of actual sound produced. The bulb horn has come to mean nothing to the average pedestrian, and it is consequently useless as a danger signal.

"The proper method of warning, in my opinion, is an electric horn, with its powerful, uncanny and extremely short blast, and allow it to be used only when danger is imminent."

ARMY WILL USE MANY TRUCKS

Experimenting Now Going On With Motor Cars for Transportation Purposes.

The latest type of field wagon for the United States army has been delivered to the quartermaster's department and placed under a severe test in Texas to determine the efficiency of motor wagons for field supplies, and troops when necessary, across country.

That the war department recognizes the national defense as a problem of transportation quite as much as one of firearms, is indicated by the interest which army officers and others in Washington have taken in motor trucks since reliability became a strong feature of the modern automobile. There has been much speculation as to what will eventually happen to the army mule and gossip of army circles has had it that Uncle Sam would soon be in the market for a great many motor cars.

Whatever foundation there may have been for this report, nothing of an official nature has been done toward wholesale buying or ordering and the activity of the quartermaster's department, so far as officials have been willing to admit, has been limited to two contracts for the construction of motor field wagons.

From the standpoint of army practice in field equipment, these trucks are not unusual although the features are interesting in that they differ from what is standard trucks for commercial purposes. For example, the wheels of the Sampson field wagon are forty-two inches in diameter, both front and rear, this size being necessary to give the clearance which is required by the army in cross-country work.

Fording the streams, traveling through great open fields, and running over stones, sticks and stubble have long been a part of the routine of the mule. The government has made certain that his motor successor shall be equipped to do likewise when it becomes necessary. To pull the truck out of mud holes or other tight places where traction is lost the wheels are built so that winchheads can be attached to them by means of simple hookbolts.

With a rope attached to some fixed object and two or three turns taken around the winchhead, the slipping of wheels will wind the rope on the winchhead and pull the truck out. The double side chains which furnished the final drive are enclosed in sheet metal cases to keep out mud and grit and at the same time to act as distance and brake-torque rods.

The seat is over the engine in the manner characteristic of the standard 3,000-pound Sampson. The inside body dimensions are nine feet long by forty-three inches wide. It is equipped with flare-boards on the sides and a tail-gate which runs up to the height of the side-boards. These are heavily reinforced with iron and chained. Conforming with army practice, the body is fitted with removable bows and a canvas covering.

What is equally interesting is the attitude of the army toward speed, as expressed by the specifications of this truck. Nine miles an hour is the highest speed th. t it will make. The normal engine speed is 1,000 revolutions per minute and the engine is restricted by a governor to this speed. Also an especially low gearing has been adopted.

GETTING AUTOS READY FOR USE

Local Garages Are Busy Overhauling Cars for Duluthians.

Local automobile garages are busy places these days.

Automobiles are being overhauled to be ready for use in the early spring.

Every garage in the city is pushed to the utmost, many of the men putting in a great deal of overtime.

At least three-fourths of the owners in Duluth lay up their cars during the cold winter months. Just at this time they are rushing the mechanics to get them ready for the next season's run.

Every one seemed to get the overhauling idea at once this year. Automobiles are piled in confusion at the several repair places of the city. They are being overhauled in turn.

As most of the owners want their cars ready for use about the last of March, it is keeping the mechanics more than busy to turn them out.

Tire Hints.

Don't just drive the car into the garage and let it stand there. Jack it up clear of the floor. Let the air out of the tires, except enough to shape them. Examine both tires and rims carefully, removing all oil and grease from the former. This is important and must not be neglected.

All cuts, etc., should be repaired at this time and tires, whether on the car or not, wrapped to exclude light. Don't store in a room that is too warm. Heat and light are both injurious to tires.

This is a good time to examine the rims, and have dents and imperfections removed. Motorists should always remember that water seeping into the casing through a flaw or break in the rim will ruin the best tire made. Rims should be sandpapered and painted with graphite to prevent rust.

A little atention to these features will keep the tires in good shape until you use the car again, while a little neglect may mean a new set of tires.

CLEANED.. ALONG THE POLICE RUN

When some men imbibe a few drinks they will be almost anything to get the where - with - all with which to get just a few more. It seems to make no difference to them whether they borrow, beg or steal; the main thing is to get the drinks.

The records will show plenty of cases where men have been killed just because one of this class had an insatiable craving for whisky. They will tell more stories of hold-ups and robberies that were prompted by the same motive, while the instances of petty thievery are marked up by dozens or hundreds.

Sometimes, too, men will make incomparable fools of themselves for the same reason. They do things of which they would never think when in their sober senses. An example was furnished in police court this morning.

John Palmquist, a young fellow of excellent appearance, a clean-cut face, well-tailored clothes and a job which many men of his years would envy, was arraigned on a charge of petty larceny. He entered a plea of guilty, but as he did so, it was apparent that he would have felt much more comfortable could he have unobstrusively sunk through the floor and out of sight. And as the judge talked to him and the crowd of the idle curious back of the railing focussed their eyes on him, that feeling did not grow less.

Palmquist was accused of stealing a suit of clothes—the suit which he was wearing and which had lawfully been his until he utilized it to get those few more drinks which he felt that he must have. Looking for the necessary cash, Palmquist walked into the second-hand store of Aaron Siden at 17 Sixth avenue west. After some dickering he traded his suit for another, getting a couple of dollars in cash.

He put the other garments on in the rear of the store and left his own there. Later in the day he began to size himself up in his newly-acquired togs. They did not meet the approval of his critical eye. They fitted him like a gunny sack and he couldn't see that they looked much better. He came to the conclusion that he had been given the worst end of the bargain; that he had been cheated. So he went back to the store where he had made the trade and secured the "boot," or booze, money. He made his mistake by not trading back, provided the proprietor would have been willing. Instead, he just walked off with his first suit of clothes. About the next thing he knew he was in the hands of a policeman, who sent him to headquarters, where he was locked up on a charge of petty larceny. This morning he was very contrite. He wouldn't have done it had he been in his sober senses.

The court was favorably impressed by his appearance and his story. He was placed on parole, with the admonition not to let it happen again.

Edward Parker, claimed by the police to be a fake deaf mute, was arrested this morning on a charge of begging. He was soliciting money on the street on the plea that he wanted to start a small news stand. He entered a plea of guilty when arraigned in police court and got $100 or sixty days in the county jail.

John McKenna, James McTaggert and John Kelly, familiar faces in the police court grist in the past, were up again this morning on charges of vagrancy. For many nights past they have applied at the police station for lodging. They appear to have a growing distaste for physical labor, and to be willing to live from hand to mouth along the path of least resistance. When they repeatedly failed to heed the advice of the police to go to work they were booked for vagrants. All of them admitted the allegation and were sent over the hill for fifteen days each.

Joe Matel, who runs the saloon at 625 West Superior street, entered a plea of guilty when arraigned in police court yesterday afternoon, to having kept his place open last Sunday. He got off on the payment of a fine of $75.

The size of the bunch which has been coming to headquarters for lodging is growing smaller. A couple of weeks ago the average was well above fifty, while the last few days it has dropped down to forty. Last night thirty-eight men rested on the benches or the cement floor of the bull pen. The benches are a luxury but there's not enough of them to go around.

H. A. Rider, executive agent of the state game and fish commission, will be a visitor in Duluth some time next month. He will meet with a number of deputy game wardens in this part of the state, including Deputies Huseby, Storey, James, Beatty and Taber. They will talk over general matters pertaining to the protection of game in this end of Minnesota. Deputies Storey and Huseby returned yesterday from Grand Rapids, where they made four arrests. One was a small logger who pleaded guilty to illegal hunting, not having his deer tagged. The other three are accused of having killed nine deer since the close of the hunting season, the meat being alleged to have been used to feed a crew of men in a lumber camp. They pleaded not guilty and will be tried later. The deputies claim to have conclusive evidence against them, with the dates and places of the killing of each deer. It is said that one of the last three was a man who killed a mare and a colt last fall while shining for deer.

"Davis told me he did not want to help do 'the job' at Durand, Mich., which caused him to be sentenced to state's prison," Mr. Keller said.

"He declared that there were few chances left in this country for a respectable 'yegg' to do any business, and he wanted to go to the Southern continent, where there is a chance of adventure."

SOO STATION IS WANTED

Commercial Club Wants to Know Why Franchise Is Ignored.

Some Hope of Securing Improvements Asked of Northern Pacific.

M. J. Murray, secretary of the West Duluth Commercial club, at the regular weekly meeting of the club last evening, was instructed to inquire of City Attorney Bert Fesler the reason why the Soo Line is not living up to its franchise in the matter of building and maintaining a freight and passenger station west of Forty-eighth avenue west.

The meeting was one of the busiest held in months, and the members finished a large amount of work before adjourning. Mr. Murray was also instructed to learn why the Northern Pacific railroad had not installed its gates at the street intersections, as ordered by the city council.

The Northern Pacific railroad was instructed last fall to build gates and signal bells at the Fifty-seventh, Fifty-ninth avenue and Raleigh street crossings. Up to the present time the railroad has not lived up to the order, and the club members plan to again agitate the campaign for crossings. A large number of school children use these crossings every day, and the residents of this end of the city are anxious for their safety.

One of the surprises of the evening was the report by J. J. Frey, a chairman of the railroad committee, to the effect that he had received a communication from the state railroad and warehouse commission in answer to a request that the Northern Pacific be compelled to erect a new station in West Duluth. The commission,. states the reply, intends investigating the alleged conditions of the present station, and if the request is found meritorious, will recommend that the railroad erect the station within the year.

A resolution was also passed last evening requesting the city council to reopen the old county road to New Duluth, which was vacated a year ago at the request of real estate dealers and the Minnesota Steel company. The members claim that the company and real estate dealers have not lived up to their promise to furnish a highway in its place and ask the council to rescind its former action.

President A. G. Macauley was instructed to appoint a committee of nine members for the annual banquet to be held the latter part of next month. This committee will have complete charge of the affair and their names will be announced at the meeting next Friday evening.

The following committee was appointed to attend the annual meeting of the St. Louis county club: P. H. Martin, J. J. Frey and D. C. Moore.

The members of the club voted to take up the matter of a public market in West Duluth at a meeting two weeks from last night. The club will also take up the proposition of asking the council to appropriate more money for the construction of the Getchell road, which is now nearly finished.

BOULEVARD APPROACH TO NEW WATERFRONT PARK

What is probably the first step for a boulevard to the new Fairmont park is now being planned by the residents and property owners of Fifty-ninth avenue west. They have suggested a park drive on the street with trees and shrubbery in the center, leaving enough room for teams and automobiles on each side. Trees and shrubbery will also be planted at the curb and with the paving of the small strip from Elinor street to Main street branching off to Sixty-third avenue west and the park front, it will give a direct boulevard to the new proposed park and water front.

The street here is one of the widest in the city, having been first laid out for a business street, but the business depression in the early 90's caused it to be abandoned for this purpose. It is now a residence street and would make a good park drive to the water front.

WANT EXTENSION OF RAMSEY STREET PAVED.

Residents and property owners on Ramsey street from Central to Grand avenues, which the council condemned last fall at a cost of $8,000, will start a campaign to pave the street immediately after the election. The residents are anxious that the new paving ing amendment pass, so that the cost of paving the new street will not be so hard to meet.

The entire cost of the improvement and the building and paving of the street will amount to about $7,000. The street runs diagonally from Central avenue to Grand, crossing the railroad tracks at Fifty-sixth avenue west.

Surprised By Friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Roberts, 303 North Fifty-sixth avenue west, were pleasantly surprised at their home last evening by a number of their friends. The evening was spent in music and games, and refreshments were served to the following: Messrs. and Mesdames H. Moody, M. Marden, Peter Lund, N. C. Bisley, F. Walker, T. F. Olsen, William Hislop, H. Entertains Friends.

Mrs. J. B. Keller, 6205 Raleigh street, entertained for a number of her West Duluth friends at her home yesterday afternoon. A guessing contest was held and the prizes were won by Mrs. R. Grover and Mrs. S. Trombley. A light luncheon was served the latter part of the afternoon to the following guests: Mesdames T. Sennott, R. Grover, R. Santaire, S. Trombley, T. Thomas, M. Mallory, R. Ramsey, F. Pokomey, C. Kauppi and G. Dunleavey.

"SOLD OUT" BY ATTORNEY

That Is the Claim Made By Clients in Affidavits.

Charging that Attorney J. De La Motte had betrayed the trust of his clients in the numerous White Iron Lake fire cases, which he has been handling and that he "sold out" to the Adriatic Mining company and the Duluth & Iron Range Railroad company, Mrs. C. C. Buell, Duluth's woman attorney and a former partner of Mr. De La Motte has brought an action in the district court on behalf of several of Mr. De La Motte's former clients to have his power of attorney set aside.

Mrs. Buell appeared in Judge Cant's court this morning with affadavits from a large number of Mr. De La Motte's former clients which stated in effect that without their consent, knowledge or authority, Mr. De La Motte had settled the petitioners' cause of action with the Adriatic Mining company for $1,750, at the rate of $34 a case, and that he had received $3,200 from the Duluth & Iron Range Railroad company in the same manner.

The affidavits also stated that Mr. De La Motte had wasted valuable time in the drawing up careless and incorrect pleadings and in so doing had violated the confidence reposed in him as an attorney an dthat more than a year had elapsed since the fires before he put the case on the district court calender for trial and that this delay in time gave the defendants in the action an unfair advantage.

It was also stated in the affadavit that Mr. De La Motte had gone to Embarrass on Aug. 22, 1910, following the fire which had destroyed the Knox and Adriatic locations and had called a mass meeting at which a large number of settlers were induced to put their damage cases against the mining and railroad company into his hands.

The petitioners ask the court to have his power of attorney set aside and that he be deemed to have been sufficiently recompensed for his services without further pay from his clients.

Mrs. Buell has stated her intentions of putting the cases on trial again.

ANNA HELD NOT SEEKING DIVORCE

An emphatic denial of the recently published statement that Anna Held, the famous actress, is planning to sue her husband, F. Ziegfeld, Jr., for a divorce, was made today by her business manager, Leon Friedman, who arrived in Duluth this morning.

The story of the suit was telegraphed from Seattle and published in The Herald last Monday.

Mr. Friedman says that Miss Held herself declares that she and her husband are on the best of terms, and that the story of an estrangement between them is utterly without foundation.

PLAN TO TEST THE ROOSEVELT SENTIMENT.

Chicago, Jan. 27.—"If Roosevelt is nominated he should carry Michigan by at least 100,000 votes," said Governor Chase Osborn at the Roosevelt national committee headquarters here today.

The governor said he believed Roosevelt would be a candidate if the people of the country demand it. Governor Osborn suggested that a meeting of the committee be held here Feb. 6 to determine whether the people really desire Roosevelt for a candidate. A meeting was called for late today to act on his suggestion.

COUNTY MUST SELL DITCH BONDS AT PAR.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Commissioners of Beltrami county cannot legally pay $7,000 for floating $270,000 in ditch bonds, according to an opinion rendered to the county attorney there by Lyndon A. Smith, attorney-general, today.

For the $270,000 in bonds, the county must receive $270,000 in cash. If it wants to pay the $7,000 from some other county fund from which it may be legally paid, there is no objection, but it must not come from the $270,000 in any such way that it might appear as a subterfuge for selling the bonds below par.

Dock Laborer Injured.

Ignatz Malinowski, a laborer at the Reiss coal dock, Superior, was probably fatally injured yesterday afternoon when a lage chunk of coal dropped on his head, fracturing his skull. He was rushed to St. Marv's hospital, where he remained in an unconscious condition for several hours. He was 30 years old and single.

Freed of Murder Charge.

Barnesville, Minn., Jan. 27.—After a hearing which lasted for ten hours, Lander Nyeng, who was charged with killing his mother last Christmas, last night was freed of the accusation. Nyeng's mother was found lying in a pool of blood on the porch. According to Nyeng's statement, she told him that she had been kicked by a cow.

RAILROAD NEWS

"IT PAYS TO ORGANIZE," SAYS HEAD OF SECTION MEN

"It pays to organize," says F. H. Flojozdal of Warroad, Minn., who is general chairman of the Canadian Northern railroad of the maintenance of way employes. He was in the city today.

"At Warroad we have a peculiar situation and a fine opportunity to show that it does pay to organize. At this little town we have two railroads, the Great Northern and the Canadian Northern. On the Great Northern the men are not orgonized and they receive from $1.25 to $1.50 per day, while on the Canadian Northern the men have a strong organization and receive $2 a day.

"Warroad is small and about all the work offered men is of a railroad nature. The instance shows what organization does for the men.

"In Canada, the maintenance of way men, who are more commonly called section men, have a strong organization. They take up thei ditteences in a friendly manner with the railroads and they are as much interested in their work as the railroad officials.

"In the United States the men are not so well organized. That they are not is shown by the difference in their pay."

Mr. Flojozdal is much interested in the organization of the section men all over the country. He says that in Minnesota, statistics show that railroad foremen employed over the different roads get on an average of about $1.75 to $2.00 a day, while in Canada the foremen receive from $75 to $100 per month.

The Warroad man states that the minimum wage paid throughout Canada is $2 a day. The wage, he says, was once as low as it is at the present time in Minnesota. Since organizing the men have been paid more, he claims.

Mr. Flojozdal passed through Duluth on his way home from St. Paul, where his daughter is attending school. Twenty years ago he was employed by the old Scott & Holston mill, now Scott-Graff, as a woodworker. Later he worked on the local street railroad line when the change was being made from mules to electricity.

VISITS OLD FRIENDS.

H. A. Jackson Now Assistant Traffic Manager of Great Northern.

H. A. Jackson, assistant traffic manager of the Great Northern railroad, arrived from St. Paul Friday evening accompanied by Assistant General Freight Agent William Power of St. Paul, formerly general agent here.

Mr. Jackson today renewed old acquaintances, for he formerly lived in Duluth and incidentally drummed up business for the Hill road.

About a dozen years ago Mr. Jackson began his railroad career here when he was traveling freight agent of the Great Northern out of Duluth. Since then he has been assistant general freight agent at Butte, Mont., and Portland, Or., being promoted from the latter position to assistant traffic manager several months ago at the time Mr. Broughton retired as general traffic manager. Mr. Jackson says he finds many changes in Duluth since he lived here and notes a general improvement in a civic and business way. He will return to St. Paul this evening.

CRIMINAL COURT WORK

St. Louis county promises to lead all other counties in the state in the number of criminal cases handled through the office of County Attorney John H. Norton in the percentage of convictions, according to the annual report which has just been prepared by Assistant County Attorney Warren E. Greene.

Last year, Hennepin county, in which the city of Minneapolis is located, was in first place with reference to the number of cases handled. St. Louis county was a close second and Ramsey county, in which the city of St. Paul was located was third.

A total of 478 cases was handled through County Attorney Norton's office during 1911, as compared and 344 in 1910. This is an increase of nearly 30 per cent and will probably put St. Louis county in the lead.

Increase in Number.

Of the 478 cases handled, 367 were in district court and 111 in justice and municipal courts. During 1910, the office handled 250 different court cases and 94 in the lower courts. The figures for both years include the work of Assistant County Attorney Boyle of Virginia.

The total number of convictions for the year were 212, there being 163 in the district courts and 49 in the lower courts. In both the district and lower courts, the total number of acquittals was 39. The percentage of convictions is about 86 per cent. In 1910, when there were 166 convictions and 35 acquittals, the percentage was 87 per cent.

A highe percentage of convictions has been maintained by the office for the past three years. The average percentage of convictions is about 60 per cent.

Larceny Common.

As in former years, cases of grand larceny in the second degree are the most numerous. In 1911, there were an even 100, as compared with fifty-two for 1910. There were during the calendar year just closed, thirty-nine cases of assault in the second degree heralded, as compared with thirty-four for the year previous.

Forty cases involving infractions of the liquor laws were disposed of during 1911 as compared with thirty-six in 1910. Of burglary there were twenty cases during 1911 and eight in 1910 and of robbery, eleven in 1911 and ten in 1910.

The most important cases handled during the year were the murder trials of the two boy bandits, Charles Melodrowski and Algot Johnson, who were convicted, for killing a policeman, Harry Chesmore. Melodrowski for second degree murder was sent up for life. He has since died. Johnson is now serving a thirty-year term.

Three cases were carried to the supreme court in which the county attorney's office was involved. This high tribunal affirmed the lower court's findings in two of the cases; that of Henry C. Henrickson, charged with arson, and J. M. Harris, horse thief and reversed the lower court's decision in the Jackson McPherson murder case.

There was a slight falling off in the amount of revenue derived from the collection of fines during the year of 1911 as compared with 1910. Last year, $4,507.50 was collected while in 19910, the amount was $5,069. One factor in the decrease was the collection 1910 of about $500 from a Chinese lottery game.

The principal source of revenue from fines comes from the liquor law violations. In district court last year $470 was collected from those who broke the game laws, as compared with $200 in 1910. From the keepers of immoral houses who paid fines in court, the county received $800 in 1911, as compared with $1,200 the previous year. Some revenue is also derived from fines in minor assault and larceny cases, but in most cases jail sentences are imposed by the court.

SKI RIDERS ON A STRIKE

If the statement of a friend of Ole Feiring is true, that Duluth ski rider participated in the Stoughton, Wis., meet at the invitation of the professional and amateur riders that were entered for that tournament. This statement was backed up by a telegram and letter that were received here.

Friends of Feiring want to have the matter of Feiring's standing placed right. They say that he did not force himself into the meet at Stoughton, but consented to enter only, after all the riders asked him to participate. It is stated that had the officials of the Stoughton meet refused to allow Feiring to ride, the other riders would have boycotted the tournament.

This statement may mean some trouble at the forthcoming tournament of the Duluth Ski club. According to Sextus Lindahl, who spoke for Feiring, the professional riders of the Northwest have declared that if Feiring and Evenson are barred from participation in any of the ski tournaments, that they will also remain out. They have declared, according to the statement of Lindahl, that all the riders will stick to the last.

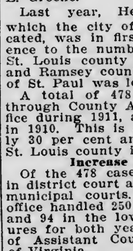

Some action is expected to be taken at Chicago on the cases of Feiring and Evenson. It is expected that the trouble between the riders and the officials of the Northwestern Ski clubs will be amicably adjusted.

Should the trouble not be settled and should Feiring insist on riding at the local meet, there may be some complications.

DULUTH BOAT CLUB SAILORS HOLD MEETING.

A get-together meeting of the sailors of the Duluth Boat club was held last evening at the Kitchi Gammi club. While nothing definite was proposed for the coming season, several propositions of importance came up for consideration and will be further considered at a later meeting of the members of the sailing branch of the club. According to the general sentiment of the meeting the coming season should be a very good year. Several new boats are promised for the fleet, and in general the situation, as outlined at the present time, looks very rosy. The meeting was the first of the year and also the first since the annual banquet last fall.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS

Some Promises Made by the Press Agents for Coming Attractions

AT THE LYCEUM

Robert Hilliard will appear under the direction of Klaw & Erlanger at the Lyceum theater on Friday and Saturday, Feb. 2 and 3, in "A Fool There Was." It is a play of symbolism suggested in a peculiar way. Sir Philip Burne-Jones displayed at the National gallery in London a startling picture entitled "The Vampire." There was little question about the identity of the persons pictured. The vampire woman and her victim over whom she was bending, were both people of the London stage and readily recognizable. Rudyard Kipling, cognizant of the reasons that impelled the painter in his thinly veiled portraitures, wrote his bitterly satiric poem beginning "A fool there was, and he made his prayer, to a rag and a bone and a hank of hair."

Robert Hilliard, eager for a play with which to re-establish himself as a dramatic star, suggested this theme to Porter Emerson Browne, the magazine writer, and collaborated with him. The result has proved one of the best drawing plays of recent years. The man of the drama is a distinguished New Yorker, rich, respected, who leaves his family in Larchmont to go to the court of St. James upon a confidential government mission. Upon the crowded deck of the outgoing steamer, at the moment of sailing, he encounters the vampire woman, who has ruined at least three other men of social position. He becomes her dupe and she drags him down, morally, mentally and physically, as she has the others. It is a blend of comedy and psychic drama, with a tragic crisis in which Mr. Hilliard has been credited with intense and impressive dramatic achievement.

How strangely Mr. Hilliard's characterization in this curious play has gripped the public's fancy is indicated by the fact that he has within the past three seasons, played thirteen distinct engagements in the theaters of greater New York, five in Philadelphia and three in Chicago. During the most recent in the latter two cities the orchestra was nightly crowded beneath the stage.

Lyceum Notes.

"The Red Rose," New York's latest and most successful musical comedy with Valeska Suratt and her original company will be the attraction at the Lyceum in the near future. Miss Suratt will appear here with the original company and production. In addition to the "Student's Glide," a dance which has been the sensation of the year with "The Red Rose," there are ten other musical numbers that have been whistled and sung all over America, which include "If You Can't Sing, Dance," "I'd Like to Go On a Honeymoon With You," "Bye, Bye, Baby," and "Men, Men, Men."

Valeska Suratt's visit with "The Red Rose" is an approaching theatrical event of much interest. The volatile, versatile and voluptuous Valeska, with her new and highly successful musical comedy, will appear at the Lyceum on Sunday and Monday, Feb. 4 and 5, and her reputation gives assurance that she and her big company will make the occasion memorable.

"The Red Rose" has to do with life in the artists' quarter of Paris—a realm in which romance has held undisputed sway for centuries. A roster of the names of men and women renowned in art, science, music and letters, who underwent their early struggles in the Quartier Latin would read like a roll call of the Hall of Fame. No other part of any city has exercised so great an influence upon the imagination of the world.

This musical comedy is believed to reflect the fascination of the Quartier Latin and to present its joys, humors and romance in the most attractive form ever seen on the American stage. Miss Suratt herself might, with but little exaggeration, be called a Parisienne, as she has lived much in the French capital, plays regular engagements in the Paris variety theaters using the French language, and is thoroughly acquainted with the Quartier Latin life which "The Red Rose" depicts.

The star's role is that of an artist's model, who falls in love with a young painter living in the Quartier Latin, who is the son of an American millionaire. The latter objects to his son's choice because of his belief that she is the daughter of a lowly concierge. When in the end it transpires that she really is the offspring of a rich baron, true love meets with its customary comic opera reward. Before that happy consummation, however, there are many complications upon which the wit, humor, pathos, melody and rhythm of the entertainment are hung.

Some twenty musical numbers are scattered among the three acts and many of them carry tunes which stick in the memory. The chorus of these naturally fall to Miss Suratt herself, and she makes especially riotous impressions upon her audiences with "Come Along My Cherie," "Spanish Love," "The Queen of Vanity Fair," "Love and Beauty," "Mysterious Moon," "The Students' Glide," done with the aid of the pulchritudinous chorus, and the dance of the seven Saturnalias, in which Miss Suratt is helped by the "Six Beauteous English Rosebuds."

Anna Held, the noted comedienne who is making a farewell tour of the principal American cities, is to be seen at the Lyceum for three nights and matinee, commencing Thursday, Feb. 8, in F. Ziegfeld, Jr.'s, massive musical entertainment, "Mlle. Innocence," which is coming here with the New York stamp of approval, the piece having enjoyed a run of one solid year at the New York theater, New York. In "Mlle. Innocence" Miss Held takes the audience on tour through Paris, and not a point of interest is left out. She starts in a girl's seminary, located on the isle of Innocence, but quickly gets to Paris, where she can see the lights of the Moulin rouge, visiting it from the neighboring Abbaye restaurant, which is an exact reproduction of that famous resort.

The pace is lively, and one of the leading art studios of Paris, an equally well-known hotel, a ballet school in Vienna and even a flying machine are shown. And throughout it all is Anna Held with new gowns and new songs. It is safe to predict that local playgoers who have been loyal to her since the days when she invited them to "Coome and Play Weez Me," will like equally as well her latest and greatest song hits entitled, "I am Learning Something Every Day," "I Wonder What's the Matter With My Eyes?" "I've Lost My Little Brown Bear" and "We Two in an Aeroplane." Mr. Ziegfeld has surrounded the celebrated star with a company numbering over 150 entertainers. The cast carries the names of such well-known talent as Harry Watson, Jr., Ernest Lambart, Ethel Kelley, Richard Ridgeley, Grace Leigh, Isadore Marcti, Donald Hall, Lillian Rice, Marjorie Bonner, Angy Weimer, Evelyn Westbrook, Violet Bowers, Eva Stuart, Ann Ford, Ray Morris, Flo. Thompson, Ethel Donaldson and numerous others and what is claimed to be the world's largest and handsomest chorus. Harry B. Smith contributes the book and lyrics of "Mlle. Innocence," while Ludwig Englander and others composed the tuneful music. The work is in two acts and eight brilliantly illuminated scenes.

It is welcome news to Duluth theatergoers that "Bright Eyes" will return to the Lyceum soon with exactly the same cast as was seen here last August, including Florence Holbrook and Cecil Lean. Duluth will have another chance to hear Miss Holbrook sing "Mrs. Casey" and Mr. Lean, "He's A Fan, Fan, Fan."

The best description ever written of "The Balkan Princess" in which Louise Gunning will be seen in Duluth soon, was a comparison which spoke of the play as a musical "Prisoner of Zenda." It was in London that "The Balkan Princess" was first brought to light and that it has proven one of the most successful plays on the American stage today is due to William A. Brady and the Messrs. Shubert. It is after a run of six months at the Casino theater, New York, that the original company and production will be seen in Duluth.

The Big circus, three rings, clowns, acrobats, bareback riders, gymnasts, aerial and horizontal bar acts, and horses, ponies, dogs and mules with the noise and lights, and the smell of the sawdust all on the stage of a theater, comprise one of the scenes in Frederic Thompson's big New York success "Polly of the Circus," which comes to the Lyceum in March.

Al. H. Wilson, the German dialect comedian and singer, will be seen here in a new play this season.

Lyman H. Howe's famous travel pictures will be shown at the Lyceum with entirely new pictures soon.

Klaw & Erlanger will present the much talked of musical comedy success, "The Pink Lady," at the Lyceum soon. It is easy to understand why theatergoers should take an active interest in this event when it is recalled that "The Pink Lady" was the sensational musical comedy success of the past two seasons in New York and was written by C. M. S. McLellan, the author of "The Belle of New York," and Mrs. Fiske's play, "Leah Kleschna," while the music was composed by Ivan Caryll, musical director of the aGiety theater, London.

ANNA HELD,
In "Mlle. Innocence" at the Lyceum for Three Days Beginning Feb. 8.

AT THE ORPHEUM

The entrance into vaudeville of Robert T. Haines in a Broadhurst sketch is another indication of the growing importance of this branch of the amusement business.

Mr. Haines may rightfully be regarded as among the foremost leading men in the country. During the last few seasons he has appeared in leading roles with such satirists as Mrs. Fiske, Grace George, Blanche Bates and Olga Nethersole. With Blanche Bates he shared honors in "The Darling of the Gods," and with Olga Nethersole he appeared in "The Writing on the Wall."

Broadhurst's work as a dramatist is equally well known. His "Man of the Hour" brought him most prominently before the theater-going public, and his new play, "Bought and Paid For," is having a most successful run. Mr. Broadhurst has given little attention to vaudeville until recently, but the success of Mr. Haines in "The Coward" has caused the latter to secure a contract for Mr. Broadhurst for a new sketch every season.

Such will be the headliner of the Orpheum bill next week. Mr. Haines will present "The Coward" at the Duluth Orpheum. It is a one-act melodrama in two scenes. It is said to be a gripping little drama, with a strong comedy vein in it. Mr. Haines is said to have a most capable company of players in his support, and the playlet has been one of the most successful and satisfying sketches on the Orpheum time this season. It was the headliner of the Minneapolis bill this week and proved one of the most popular playlets the Minneapolis patrons have seen this year.

The original Rice & Provost team will be the act of next importance on the billing next week. Their original tumbling act, which they call "Bumpety Bumps," is one of the old time vaudeville acts, and one of the most popular acts of its type ever presented. There are all grades of comedy acrobatic acts, just as there are all grades of dancing acts, and this original team of Rice & Provost is said to be as much superior to the ordinary comedy acrobatic act as Mille. Genee is to the ordinary musical comedy or vaudeville dancer. Their act consists of acrobatic tumbling, but their pantomime is one of the big features of their work.

"Little Miss Manicure" is the name of the comedy sketch which serves as a vehicle to exploit the cleverness of Charles Nevins and Ada Gordon. The fun starts over the manicure table, where a number of witticisms are uncorked. The two performers then offer some songs and dances followed by the famous "Scarecrow Girl" number, an eccentric dance in which Nevins tosses his partner about in such a manner that it is said to be hard to believe that she is a human being. Miss Gordon is said to be an exceptionally pretty girl who makes up for her apparent lifelessness in the scarecrow number by her appearance when she is a little manicure artist.

The members of the Lancton-Lucier company admit that their act is built for laughing purposes only. No effort is made to confine the hilarity. There are three members of the little company, and they present an act that, while it has more or less horseplay, is said to be clean and entertaining throughout. It is difficult to describe the act, as they do not confine their efforts to any one line of fun making.

Roy Cummings and Helen Gladyings are said to have a very neat and up-to-date singing and dancing turn, featured by handsome gowns special scenery, and picturesque settings. Singing and dancing acts are always a hit with vaudeville audiences when they have some novel features and attractive settings, and Cummings & Gladyings have been one of the most popular teams on the circuit this season.

Duluth has had several singing comediennes this season, including Ray Samuels and Lily Lena, and almost without exception they have been among the most popular acts on the bill. Next week Miss Sue Smith will be seen in the local theater with some new songs and newer gowns.

The first black wire walker of the season will be seen next week in Claude M. Roode, who is claimed to be close to the top of his chosen profession. He walks and does a cake walk on the slack wire, and goes through a performance that is said to be a marvelous exhibition of balancing.

The kinodrome will show the latest happenings in the world's events, and the concert by the Orpheum orchestra will complete the bill, which will continue all week with a daily matinee.

The bill for the week of Feb. 4, will be featured by "The Slang King," otherwise known as Dick Crollus who will present his famous character of "Shorty" in a comedy sketch.

Joseph Hart's symbolic play, "Everywife," is an immediate booking for the Orpheum circuit. The piece is by George V. Hobart, and is unquestionably one of vaudeville's most superior offerings. It is an elaborate production in four scenes, requiring twenty-one players to portray the various roles.

The foreign department of the Orpheum circuit has notified Martin Beck that contracts have been signed for the exclusive appearance over the Orpheum circuit of Elliott Sovana, La Maize Trio, the Gypsy Queen, the Schmettans, the Four Cliftons, Chiquo and M. Kaufman, the Rajuno Trio, Bert Terrell, G. S. Melville, Fred Russell and the great Yileroms.

Fred Keenan, whose wonderful performance of the sheriff in David Belasco's production of "The Girl of the Golden West" is considered the finest bit of character acting of its day, will shortly be seen over the Orpheum circuit in a one-act play of a serious nature.

Owen McGuivenley, the great Irish actor, is coming to America to appear exclusively for the Orpheum circuit.

ROBERT T. HAINES,
Who Will Be Seen in the George Broadhurst Farce, "The Coward," at the Orpheum Next Week.

GEORGE AUGER AND ERNEST ROMMEL,
At the Empress Next Week.

Mr. McGuivenley appears in a protean sketch called "Bill Sykes," founded on Oliver Twist, and introducing the following Dickens characters: Monks, Fagin, Bill Sykes, the Artful Dodger and Nancy Sykes. This engagement is doubly important, occurring as it does at the time of the Dickens centennial.

Eva Tanguay's Orpheum tour is an assured fact. The cyclonic comedienne will play at least eleven weeks on the Orpheum circuit and an effort is being made to extend the engagement.

AT THE EMPRESS

The Empress show for the week commencing Sunday matinee will not only keep up the pace that has been set by the high grade offerings of the past few months but it is expected to be even a little stronger still.

The headline feature will be the entertaining fable farcette, "Jack, the Giant Killer," made from the familiar fairy story of the same name and played by Capt. George Auger, who is one of the tallest men in the world and positively the lengthiest actor that has ever appeared on any stage. He will be assisted by a company of lilliputian actors, who are said to be the smallest and cleverest on earth. "Jack, the Giant Killer," is one of the greatest attractions in stage annals for children of all ages, and it is also a splendid entertainment for the grown ups, who are said to take keen delight in the fabled characters therein portrayed.

Capt. Auger quite naturally has the role of "The Giant," and little Ernest Rommel will appear as the intrepid "Jack." The contrast in the statures of these two men is funny in itself, and then the bright lines, laughable situations and the interesting story of the little farce are all so excellent that it furnishes one of the most amusing and entertaining offerings in present day vaudeville. Not only is the farce a brilliantly clever one, full of humor and character, but it is the old story in actual reality. There have been juvenile comedy acts galore in vaudeville, and some clever ones too, but advance reports say that "Jack, the Giant Killer" stands in a class by itself. On Wednesday and Saturday afternoons, during Mr. Auger's engagement at the Empress, he will hold informal receptions on the stage for the benefit of the children who will be able to meet him and his company personally, at the conclusion of the performance. This should prove a source of delight to the little ones and an incident which will remain fresh in their minds for many weeks.

That women can equal men in physical as well as mental accomplishments will be further substantiated at the Empress next week by Anita Bartling, Europe's phenomenal lady juggler, who is making her second American tour. This clever little lady performs all of the feats attempted by jugglers of the sterner sex and then presents some that are even far more difficult than those usually attempted by the cleverest male jugglers. Her offering consists of many new and novel features in the balancing art, which are presented with an unusual grace and charm that makes them doubly enjoyable. Miss Bartling is a winsome miss and her athletic prowess wins hearty admiration from the most blase. She is a superb specimen of physical health and culture and will prove a distinct favorite to both the ladies and the opposite set who are athletically inclined.

Josie Flynn, a clever and gifted character comedienne, will no doubt be one of the surprise hits of the Empress bill next week, if reports from other cities are to be given full credence. Miss Flynn is said to be a distinctly clever girl, with a style and manner of working, entirely original. Included in her varied repertoire of characterizations is that of a minstrel man, in which she displays remarkable facial expression, intonation and gesture. She makes up for this part of her performance in view of the audience, thereby giving the spectators a glimpse of the working behind the scenes. "Blessed with a pleasing personality and a beautiful voice, Miss Flynn is ably equipped for the coldest of audiences and wins the complete admiration of all before she leaves the stage," says a Milwaukee critic. "Her songs and incidental patter are all smiles and jolity and her costumes a brilliant array of gorgeousness."

Tom Ripley, whose mission on earth seems to be to dispel gloom, comes to the Empress with a fusillade of topical tales and comic songs. Mr. Ripley has been identified with many musical comedy organizations and is widely known as a most clever comedian and monologist. He is seen to excellent advantage in vaudeville for his humor is of the subtle and refined order which appeals to everyone. All of his material is new and bears the stamp of approval of New York, Boston, Philadelphia and other cities. Mr. Ripley has ingratiated himself into the hearts of all lovers of fun with his clever style of working and his clean-cut comedy.

Waterbury Brothers & Tenny, the Cohan & Harris minstrel stars, will be the extra added attraction with next week's bill. The announcement should awaken considerable interest as but few combinations in vaudeville have attained the popularity of these famous comedians. Their offering is comprised of a jumble of laughable musical tomfooleries and brand new side-splitting humor, and in each department they stand supreme. Those who saw Waterbury Brothers & Tenny with Cohan & Harris will say that never have they seen a trio of comedians of such sterling ability. Critics in the East report that as funny as they were with this production, they seem to out-do themselves since their entrance into vaudeville and everywhere they are meeting with tremendous success. The Cincinnati Inquirer says about their offering: "Cohan & Harris had a minstrel show and it was some considerable show. It was an aggregation of sure enough stars all the way through and the brightest, most luminant stars of the whole constellation were Waterbury Brothers & Tenny. They were lured away from the burnt cork realm finally and booked over the Sullivan & Considine circuit and now we have them at the Empress this week. Their act is musical and comical and last night's audience went fairly wild about them. Anyone nursing a grouch will find a sure cure for it by just dropping into the Empress and witnessing the performance of these boys."

The motion pictures will consist of a beautiful colored subject entitled, "A Trip down the Ganges," and a comedy subject to be selected later. The Empress is now showing daylight motion pictures which are projected by the famous Rothapfel De Luxe system, under the personal supervision of the inventor. The motion pictures from now on will be a special feature of the Empress shows.

Commencing Monday, Jan. 29, the the Empress will present a bargain matinee. It will cost only ten cents for one to witness the Empress vaudeville production and the daylight pictures any afternoon, except Sundays and holidays. A matinee is given daily at 2:45. Evening performances are given at 8 and 9:30. Seats may be reserved one week in advance by either phone. Special attention is paid to the comfort and entertainment of ladies and children at all times.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS

Some Promises Made by the Press Agents for Coming Attractions

AT THE LYCEUM

Robert Hilliard will appear under the direction of Klaw & Erlanger at the Lyceum theater on Friday and Saturday, Feb. 2 and 3, in "A Fool There Was." It is a play of symbolism suggested in a peculiar way. Sir Philip Burne-Jones displayed at the National gallery in London a startling picture entitled "The Vampire." There was little question about the identity of the persons pictured. The vampire woman and her victim over whom she was bending, were both people of the London stage and readily recognizable. Rudyard Kipling, cognizant of the reasons that impelled the painter in his thinly veiled portraitures, wrote his bitterly satiric poem beginning "A fool there was, and he made his prayer, to a rag and a bone and a hank of hair."

Robert Hilliard, eager for a play with which to re-establish himself as a dramatic star, suggested this theme to Porter Emerson Browne, the magazine writer, and collaborated with him. The result has proved one of the best drawing plays of recent years. The man of the drama is a distinguished New Yorker, rich, respected, who leaves his family in Larchmont to go to the court of St. James upon a confidential government mission. Upon the crowded deck of the outgoing steamer, at the moment of sailing, he encounters the vampire woman, who has ruined at least three other men of social position. He becomes her dupe and she draws him down, morally, mentally and physically, as she has the others. It is a blend of comedy and psychic drama, with a tragic crisis in which Mr. Hilliard has been credited with intense and impressive dramatic achievement.

How strangely Mr. Hilliard's characterization in this curious play has gripped the public's fancy is indicated by the fact that he has within the past three seasons, played thirteen distinct engagements in the theaters of greater New York, five in Philadelphia and three in Chicago, during the most recent in the latter two cities the orchestra was nightly crowded beneath the stage.

Lyceum Notes.

"The Red Rose," New York's latest and most successful musical comedy with Valeska Suratt and her original company will be the attraction at the Lyceum in the near future. Miss Suratt will appear here with the original company and production. In addition to the "Student's Glide," a dance which has been the sensation of the year with "The Red Rose," there are ten other musical numbers that have been whistled and sung all over America, which include "If You Can't Sing, Dance," "I'd Like to Go On a honeymoon With You," "Bye, Bye, Baby," and "Men, Men, Men."

Valeska Suratt's visit with "The Red Rose" is an approaching theatrical event of much interest. The volatile, versatile and voluptuous Valeska, with her new and highly successful musical comedy, will appear at the Lyceum on Sunday and Monday, Feb. 4 and 5, and her reputation gives assurance that she and her big company will make the occasion memorable.

"The Red Rose" has to do with life in the artists' quarter of Paris—a realm in which romance has held undisputed sway for centuries. A roster of the names of men and women renowned in art, science, music and letters, who underwent their early struggles in the Quartier Latin would read like a roll call of the Hall of Fame. No other part of any city has ever raised so great an influence upon the imagination of the world.

This musical comedy is believed to reflect the fascination of the Quartier Latin and to present its jaunty humor and romance in the most attractive form ever seen on the American stage. Miss Suratt herself might, with but little exaggeration, be called a Parisienne, as she has lived much in the French capital, plays regular engagements in the Paris variety theaters using the French language, and is thoroughly acquainted with the Quarter Latin life which "The Red Rose" depicts.

The star's role is that of an artist's model, who falls in love with a young painter living in the Quartier Latin, who is the son of an American millionaire. The latter objects to his son's choice because of his belief that she is the daughter of a lowly concierge. When in the end it transpires that she really is the offspring of a rich baron, true love meets with its customary comic opera reward. Before that happy consummation, however, there are many complications upon which the wit, humor, pathos, melody and rhythm of the entertainment are hung.

Some twenty musical numbers are scattered among the three acts and many of them carry tunes which stick in the memory. The choicest of these naturally fall to Miss Suratt herself, and she makes especially riotous impressions upon her audiences with "Come Along My Cherie," "Spanish Love," "The Queen of Vanity Fair," "Love and Beauty," "Mysterious Moon," "The Students' Glide," done with the aid of the pulchritudinous chorus, and the dance of the seven Saturnalias, in which Miss Suratt is helped by the "Six Beauteous English Rosebuds."

Anna Held, the noted comedienne who is making a farewell tour of the principal American cities, is to be seen at the Lyceum for three nights and matinee, commencing Thursday, Feb. 8, in F. Ziegfeld, Jr.'s, massive musical entertainment, "Mlle. Innocence," which is coming here with the New York stamp of approval, the piece having enjoyed a run of one solid year at the New York theater, New York. In "Mlle. Innocence" Miss Held takes the audience on tour through Paris, and not a point of interest is left out. She starts in a girl's seminary, located on the Isle of Innocence, but quickly gets to Paris, where she can see the lights of the Moulin rouge, visiting it from the neighboring Abbaye restaurant, which is an exact reproduction of that famous resort.

The pace is lively, and one of the leading art studios of Paris, an equally well-known hotel, a ballet school in Vienna and even a flying machine are shown. And throughout it all is Anna Held with new gowns and new songs. It is safe to predict that local playgoers who have been loyal to her since the days when she invited them to "Coome and Play Weez Me," will like equally as well her latest and greatest song hits entitled, "I am Learning Something Every Day," "I Wonder What's the Matter With My Eyes?" "I've Lost My Little Brown Bear" and "We Two in an Aeroplane." Mr. Ziegfeld has surrounded the celebrated star with a company numbering over 150 entertainers. The cast carries the names of such well-known talent as Harry Watson, Jr., Ernest Lambart, Ethel Kelley, Richard Ridgeley, Grace Leigh, Isadore Marell, Donald Hall, Lillian Rice, Marjorie Bonner, Anzy Weimer, Evelyn Westbrook, Violet Bowers, Eva Stuart, Ann Ford, Ray Morris, Flo. Thompson, Ethel Donaldson and numerous others and what is claimed to be the world's largest and handsomest chorus. Harry B. Smith contributes the book and lyrics of "Mlle. Innocence," while Ludwig Englander and others composed the tuneful music. The work is in two acts and eight brilliantly illuminated scenes.

It is welcome news to Duluth theatergoers that "Bright Eyes" will return to the Lyceum soon with exactly the same cast as was seen here last August, including Florence Holbrook and Cecil Lean. Duluth will have another chance to hear Miss Holbrook sing "Mrs. Casey" and Mr. Lean, "He's A Fan, Fan, Fan."

The best description ever written of "The Balkan Princess" in which Louise Gunning will be seen in Duluth soon, was a comparison which spoke of the play as a musical "Prisoner of Zenda." It was in London that "The Balkan Princess" was first brought to light and that it has proven one of the most successful plays on the American stage today is due to William A. Brady and the Messrs. Shubert. It is after a run of six months at the Casino theater, New York, that the original company and production will be seen in Duluth.

The Big circus, three rings, clowns, acrobats, bareback riders, gymnasts, aerial and horizontal bar acts, and horses, ponies, dogs and mules with the noise and lights, and the smell of the sawdust all on the stage of a theater, comprise one of the scenes in Frederic Thompson's big New York success "Polly of the Circus," which comes to the Lyceum in March.

Al. H. Wilson, the German dialect comedian and singer, will be seen here in a new play this season.

Lyman H. Howe's famous travel pictures will be shown at the Lyceum with entirely new pictures soon.

Klaw & Erlanger will present the much talked of musical comedy success, "The Pink Lady," at the Lyceum soon. It is easy to understand why theatergoers should take an active interest in this event when it is recalled that "The Pink Lady" was the sensational musical comedy success of the past two seasons in New York and was written by C. M. S. McLellan, the author of "The Belle of New York," and Mrs. Fiske's play, "Leah Kleschna," while the music was composed by Ivan Caryll, musical director of the aGiety theater, London.

AT THE ORPHEUM

The entrance into vaudeville of Robert T. Haines in a Broadhurst sketch is another indication of the growing importance of this branch of the amusement business.

Mr. Haines may rightfully be regarded as among the foremost leading men in the country. During the last few seasons he has appeared in leading roles with such artists as Mrs. Fiske, Grace George, Blanche Bates and Olga Nethersole. With Blanche Bates he shared honors in "The Darling of the Gods," and with Olga Nethersole he appeared in "The Writing on the Wall."

Broadhurst's work as a dramatist is equally well known. His "Man of the Hour" brought him most prominently before the theater-going public, and his new play, "Bought and Paid For," is having a most successful run. Mr. Broadhurst has given little attention to vaudeville until recently, but the success of Mr. Haines in "The Coward" has caused the latter to secure a contract for Mr. Broadhurst for a new sketch of equal caliber.

Both will be the headliner of the Orpheum bill next week. Mr. Haines will present "The Coward" at the Duluth Orpheum. It is a one-act melodrama in two scenes. It is said to be a gripping little drama, with a strong comedy vein in it. Mr. Haines is said to have a most capable company of players in his support, and the playlet has been one of the most successful and satisfying sketches on the Orpheum time this season. It was the headliner of the Minneapolis bill this week and proved one of the most popular playlets the Minneapolis patrons have seen this year.

The original Rice & Provost team will be the act of next importance on the billing next week. Their original tumbling act, which they call "Bumpety Bumps," is one of the old time vaudeville acts, and one of the most popular acts of its type ever presented. There are all grades of comedy acrobatic acts, just as there are all grades of dancing acts, and the original team of Rice & Provost is said to be as much superior to the ordinary comedy acrobatic act as Mlle. Genee is to the ordinary musical comedy or stage dancer. Their act consists of acrobatic tumbling, but their pantomime is one of the big features of their work.

"Little Miss Manicure" is the name of the comedy sketch which serves as a vehicle to exploit the cleverness of Charles Nevins and Ada Gordon. The fun starts over the manicure table, where a number of witticisms are uncorked. The two performers then offer some songs and dances followed by the famous "Scarecrow Girl" number, an eccentric dance in which Nevins tosses his partner about in such a manner that it is said to be hard to believe that she is a human being. Miss Gordon is said to be an exceptionally pretty girl who makes up for her apparent lifelessness in the scarecrow number by her appearance when she is a little manicure artist.

The members of the Lancton-Lucier company admit that their act is built for laughing purposes only. No effort is made to confine the hilarity. There are three members of the little company, and they present an act that, while it has more or less horseplay, is said to be clean and entertaining throughout. It is difficult to describe the act, as they do not confine their efforts to any one line of fun making. Rag-time songs and parodies are said to have a very neat and up-to-date singing and dancing turn, featured by handsome gowns special scenery, and picturesque settings. Singing and dancing acts are always popular with vaudeville audiences when they have some novel features and attractive settings, and Cummings & Gladyings have been one of the most popular teams on the circuit this season.

Duluth has had several singing comediennes this season, including Ray Samuels and Lily Lena, and almost without exception they have been among the most popular acts on the bill. Next week Miss Sue Smith will be seen in the local theater with some new songs and never-before-seen gowns.

The first slack wire walker of the season will be seen next week in Claude M. Reeder, who is claimed to stick close to the top of his chosen profession. He walks and does a cake walk on the slack wire, and goes through a performance that is said to be a marvelous exhibition of balancing.

The kinodrome will show the latest happenings in the world's events, and the concert by the orpheum orchestra will complete the bill, which will continue all week with a daily matinee.

The bill for the week of Feb. 4, will be featured by "The Slang King," otherwise known as Dick Crollus who will present his famous character of "Shorty" in a comedy sketch.

Joseph Hart's symbolic play, "Everywife," is an immediate booking for the Orpheum circuit. The piece is by George V. Hobart, and is unquestionably one of vaudeville's most superior offerings. It is an elaborate production in four scenes, requiring twenty-one players to portray the various roles.

The foreign department of the Orpheum circuit has notified Martin Beck that contracts have been signed for the exclusive appearance over the Orpheum circuit of Elliott Sovana, La Maize Trio, the Gipsy Queen, the Schmettans, the Four Cliftons, Chiquo and M. Kaufman, the Rajuno Trio, Bert Terrell, G. S. Melville, Fred Russell and the great Yleroms.

Fred Keenan, whose wonderful performance of the sheriff in David Belasco's production of "The Girl of the Golden West" is considered the finest bit of character acting of its day, will shortly be seen over the Orpheum circuit in a one-act play of a serious nature.

Owen McGuivenley, the great Irish actor, is coming to America to appear exclusively for the Orpheum circuit. Mr. McGuivenley appears in a protean sketch called "Bill Sykes," founded on Oliver Twist, and introducing the following Dickens characters: Monks, Fagin, Bill Sykes, the Artful Dodger and Nancy Sykes. This engagement is doubly important, occurring as it does at the time of the Dickens centennial.

Paris will soon make the acquaintance of Vernon Castle, the lanky comedian who has contributed much fun to Lew Fields's entertainments. On Wednesday he and his wife are sailing for Europe, to begin an engagement at the Olympia, in Paris. Castle will present scenes from the Fields productions in which he has appeared.

Following the engagement of "Ben-Hur" at the New Amsterdam theater Klaw & Erlanger will present "The Trial of the Lonesome Pine" at that house. Charlotte Walker has the principle role. The opening date is Jan. 29.

William Brady has accepted a play tentatively called "The Miracle," by Bayard Veiller. Grace George is to use it. The central figure is best described as a "female Jimmy Valentine." Miss George's role is that of a young girl who turns crook, and thereby becomes concerned in several stirring and melodramatic episodes.

From Graham Moffat, author of "When Bunty Pulls the Strings," Martin Beck has acquired a one-act play, called "Concealed Bud," which was originally produced at the Pavilion in London. The play will be presented exclusively in the theaters of the Orpheum circuit, and the acting will be intrusted to a company of Scotch players especially imported for this purpose.

VALESKA SURATT'S GOWNS

"Valeska Suratt's dressing room down underneath the stage of the Princess theater, is a shoplifter's idea of Paradise," says Myra Campter in the Chicago Tribune. "There are gorgeous gowns, magnificent coats, beautiful hats and lovely jewels scattered about the room. Boxes, piled high fill the corners; in the center of the room is a little square of white sheeting on which Miss Suratt stands while her maid assists her in getting in and out of each extravagant outfit."

Miss Suratt's changes in "The Red Rose" are as frequent and varied as Chicago weather. A gown of spangles and tulle is followed by a velvet frock covered with a magnificent, warm chinchilla coat. During a performance she wears nine gowns, nine head-dresses, seven pairs of shoes and stockings, two coats and one petticoat.

There is also a change of jewelry.

Miss Suratt "works" nearly as hard off the stage as she does on. She is constantly changing from one gown to another; there is hardly a moment for her to sit down and rest between acts.

In the first act Miss Suratt wears a gay Carmenesque costume made of bright colored Spanish shawls. A bandanna is tied about her head almost covering her Titian hair. This she quickly changes for a typical art student's outfit, a straight black velvet dress and a jaunty black velvet tam.

Just before the end of the act she appears in a royal purple crepe meteor gown, extremely simple in line and effect and trimmed only with wide purple fringe of the same shade. To harmonize with the dress is a long coat of purple velvet, lined with cerise velvet brocade and banded with natural racoon. A fascinating little purple satin hat with a small rolling brim and trimmed with a smart little pompon of the satin completes this outfit.

At the beginning of the second act Miss Suratt appears in a most unusual gown of flesh toned crepe—entirely covered with opal escent sequins. Three rows of wide bead fringe trim the skirt. The weight of the dress is considerable and it clings closely to her sinuous figure. A band of lettuce green chiffon encircles her head and directly in front over the center of the forehead are two long green ostrich feathers. A corsage bouquet of apples, a large pink feather fan, a jeweled scarf of shaded green, and a diamond anklet are the other accessories completing this extravagant outfit.

The unusual note of the Vanity Fair costume is the petticoat. Under the frock of rose pink silk, effectively draped with a beaded net tunic is a black lace petticoat, not more than two yards round and edged with black chenille fringe. The black chiffon bodice is ornamented with diamond trimming. A black velvet bonnet trimmed with a huge pink bow is carried—not worn—with this outfit. A little beaded net cap edged with bead fringe fits closely over her head.

Bride's Costume.

Then follows an exquisite bride's costume. The upper part of the bodice and the sleeves which are extremely long are of chantilly lace. A band of ermine outlines the edge of the sleeves at the wrist. A panel of the lace trims the front of the gown. It is long reaching almost to the floor, and is banded with ermine. At the back there is a long heavy panel of the satin heavily embroidered with silver thread.

In "The Dance of the Seven Saturnalies" she wears a simple gown of supple white crepe, which falls straight from the shoulders. A green Greek urn with a brilliant red rose and heavy foliage is embroidered on the front, while a Greek border of gold beads outlines the edge of the skirt.

Dress No. 8 is of black velvet cut low in the back, almost to the waist line. There are three wide bands of diamond trimming on the skirt, which is edged with a band of skunk. The sleeveless waist is finished with the same trimming. A little mercury hat of black feathers is trimmed with a long black wing placed at either side.

Gown No. 9 is made of supple black satin entirely covered with blue and black spangles. The gown is cut V shaped. Miss Surratt wears a vivid red rose both back and front. A small black hat with black paradise aigrette and a long chinchilla coat with collars and cuffs of silver fox completes the costume.

"It is downright work to change your clothes nine times every night and eighteen on Wednesday and Saturday," said Miss Surratt. "I get so tired of the eternal dressing and undressing that I sometimes feel like running away. The next play I'm in I want a part that calls for a calico dress in the first act, and any other act there happens to be."

FACTORY GIRL GIVES UP

Too Sick to Work—Doctor Advised Operation. Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y.—"I run a sewing machine in a large factory and got all run down. I had to give up work for I could not stand the pains in my back. The doctor said I needed an operation for female trouble but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helped me more than the doctors did. I hope that every one who is suffering will get the Compound. My pains, nervousness and backache are gone and I have gained five pounds. I owe my thanks to your medicine for it is the working girls friend, and all women who suffer should write to you for special advice."—Miss TILLIE PLENZIG, 3 Jay St., Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

When a remedy has lived for over thirty years, steadily growing in popularity and influence, and thousands upon thousands of women declare they owe their very lives to it, is it not reasonable to believe that it is an article of great merit?

We challenge anyone to show any other one remedy for a special class of disease which has attained such an enormous demand and maintained it for so many years as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

CONSOLIDATIONS IN GERMANY

Small Factories Displaced By Large Ones and Products Increased---Regulation of All PublicClocks By Wireless Energy.

Berlin, Jan. 27.—The trend toward consolidation in industry and the displacement of small factories and establishments by large ones, which nowhere has been more marked than in Germany during the past forty years, is brought out by statistics just published.

These show an actual decrease in the number of plants in some of the leading industries in Germany, while the aggregate product has been multiplied many times. The number of works producing crude iron has decreased since 1873 from 244 to 99, the number of blast furnaces from 379 to 303, yet the average annual output of each establishment has risen from 9,182 tons to 149,430 tons, and the total production of pig iron from 2,240,000 tons to 14,793 tons.

In 1870 the amount of coal produced by the 220 mining companies averaged only 53,693 tons per company, but in 1910 the average was 430,590 tons for each of 318 companies.

In the beet sugar industry, though the entire production of Germany has risen from 256,412 tons in 1875 to 2,512,928 tons in 1910, the number of factories increased only from 333 to 354, but their average annual output increased almost tenfold, from 770 tons to 7,098 tons. The greatest change occured in the brewing industry, the 13,030 breweries of 1874 being now represented by only 4,329. Each brewery produced only 199,000 gallons of beer in 1874, but now the 4,329 establishments are averaging 3,287,000 gallons.

The regulation of all the public clocks by wireless energy is the progressive and ambitious plan just adopted by the secretary of the imperial postoffice department.

According to the project of the inventor, an electrician named Ferdinand Schneider, which has received the support of the military and naval authorities, a central station will be erected near Fulda, centrally situated for the whole empire. It will have a tower 325 feet high, from the top of which the electric waves will be discharged at one minute intervals, affecting the hands of all the clocks in the system. Three clocks will be employed in the central station, switching in interchangeably to guarantee absolute accuracy.

It is planned to have only one receiving clock in each town, other timepieces in the same place being connected with it on the ordinary electric circuit now in use.

Preparatory steps have already been taken toward erecting the central establishment at Fulda. The inventor guarantees that the system will work with absolute accuracy and that the waves cannot be interfered with by those of other wireless stations. The service, it is thought, owing to the great number of clocks which can be controlled from the one station, will be comparatively inexpensive and the obvious advantage of absolutely uniform time throughout the country has also, it is understood, appealed to the postoffice authorities.

Ireland exports $4,000,000 worth of poultry and $14,000,000 worth of eggs every year. Last year the eggs exported by Russia numbered 2,998,000,000.

TAXES UNDER MAYOR CULLUM.

The ordinary citizen, while of course interested in more abstract matters as a citizen should be, is chiefly concerned in having an administration of public affairs that will apportion the tax burden equitably, that will make it as light as possible upon all, and that will see to it that those best able to bear it do not shoulder a part of their load off upon those who, while least able to pay taxes, are helpless unless the public officials they elect safeguard their interests.

It is on this point that Mayor Cullum is able to make a very practical and very potent appeal to the voters.

For all these things his administration has accomplished so far as it could—state, county and school taxation being beyond its control.

There has been a reduction of 8 per cent in the taxes in this city for the coming year, and that is one strong point in Mayor Cullum's favor.

But there has been, in addition, a readjustment of personal property valuations that has shifted the burden of taxation; and this is being followed by a similar readjustment of real estate valuations that will, if it is not interrupted, bring about a further equalization of the tax burden. And in these changes the man with a small property has benefited because a large part of the burden has been shifted where it belongs—upon those with large holdings.

One tangible result of this has been that 704 workingmen have been taken from the tax rolls altogether. This was made possible by an increase of $2,400,000 in valuations, almost entirely applied to people of means who, because of under-valuation in the past, have been escaping a part of their due share of taxation.

This is justice, and it comes of following an enlightened policy. Many people overlook the importance of a just distribution of valuations. If the rich man's property is assessed for taxation at 10 per cent of its value and the poor man's small holdings are assessed at 40 per cent, the poor man is paying four times what he should pay, and the rich man only a quarter of the amount due from him. It is against this condition that Mayor Cullum's administration has directed its efforts, and the result is a revolutionary change in personal property assessments and a complete readjustment of the tax burden. For this Mayor Cullum should have credit and support.

THE DIFFERENCE.

Harper's Weekly was supporting Woodrow Wilson for the presidency, and when he found that this support involved entangling alliances with trust promoters Governor Wilson rejected it.

The New York Sun, these days, is supporting President Taft with great fervor.

Such support, from a brilliant newspaper which, without hypocrisy or pretence of service to the people, openly and professedly champions Big Business and opposes any change likely to curb organized greed or benefit the people, is damaging to a presidential candidate.

Will President Taft say so, as Wilson did, and ask that this support be withdrawn?

He will not, for there's a difference.

The support of Harper's Weekly does not and never did fit Woodrow Wilson.

The support of the New York Sun, sad to say, does fit President Taft.

And that calls up another curious subject for speculation: Why should the Sun, professed champion of Big Business, be supporting Taft, who has belabored Big Business with the stuffed club of the Sherman act, apparently with might and main and without mercy?

If the enforcement of the Sherman law has any terrors for Big Business, why should the organ of Big Business be enthusiastically for President Taft, who has launched himself on a career of trust-busting in which, he says, no mercy shall be shown?

THAT EPISODE PROVES IMPORTANT.

How impotent are the slings and arrows cast by malice against a man who is firm in his integrity and secure in his steadfast insistence upon what is right and just!

Now that the Wilson-Harvey-Watterson episode turns out to have been a Wilson-Harvey-Watterson-Ryan episode it is much easier to understand, and it develops an importance not hitherto suspected.

It appears now that when Col. Watterson gave what purported to be an account of the meeting at which Governor Wilson rejected the support of Col. Harvey's Morganized newspaper, he was not quite so frank as he has been since in private conversation.

He omitted from his report, according to reliable testimony as to what his private conversation has been since, the fact that the break with Harvey was preceded by and caused by Governor Wilson's indignant refusal to permit Thomas Fortune Ryan, trust promoter, to finance his campaign.

It is not to be wondered at that when Governor Wilson heard his friend Col. Harvey propose such an alliance, he realized, if he had not begun to realize before, what his association with Harper's Weekly meant.

Nothing but a break could follow such a proposal. Nothing but a break should follow it.

The talk of "ingratitude" would be laughable if it did not illustrate a fact so dangerous and so subtle that it has made many an honest man in public life act like a crook.

The kind of gratitude which Wilson's enemies are lauding when they condemn him for ingratitude is the tie which has bound statesmen to the will of party bosses who were acting for and financed by grasping special interests. Many a man of reasonably good intentions, though weak, has gained power, which he has used to betray the people, through maintaining gratefully the relations of patron and beneficiary with bosses who brought about his nomination and election, and then in the name of political gratitude demanded that he turn over the keys of the public treasury to those who financed his campaign.

Woodrow Wilson was "ungrateful" to Boss Smith because he refused to let him control his public acts. He has been "ungrateful" to the editor of Harper's Weekly because he refused to let him inveigle him into a damning political alliance with T. F. Ryan, trust promoter and exploiter of the people.

This country needs more such "ingratitude". It needs more gratitude in public men, but it needs a type different from that which has been customary in the past.

The country needs public men who shall be grateful to the plain people whose suffrages put them in office; and that gratitude should take the form of faithful and uncompromising service to the people.

There has been enough "gratitude" of the type which takes the form of opening the gates of the citadel of free government to the agents of Special Privilege in return for political favors.

CHARTER AMENDMENT NO. 4.

The fourth charter amendment is the simplest of the lot, and while it may not be so vitally essential to the material well-being of the community as some of the others, it appeals to a side of citizenship that is fully as important as the material side, and that is all too much neglected in most communities. Therefore it is as important as any in the lot.

This amendment gives the city power to use public funds to provide band concerts in the public parks.

Now, the city has no power to spend money for such a purpose. The band concerts that have been given in the parks recently have been held without the city's aid. The Herald gave them not only for the purpose of providing wholesome entertainment for the people but to interest the public in making provisions by which the city itself can carry on this work.

The amendment does not bind the city to provide band concerts. It merely permits it to do so if it sees fit and can afford it. The outcome will be that the people will demand band concerts in the parks, and that the city will see fit to provide them and will be able to find the comparatively small amount needed to carry them on.

The argument for the amendment hardly needs rehearsing. It practically argues its own case.

The city provides parks and keeps them attractive, so that the people shall have breathing places that delight the eye and refresh the mind. It can make these parks more attractive and bring about greater use of them by providing band concerts on Sunday afternoons. By so doing, it will cultivate a public musical taste, it will give the people pleasant outings, and it will make itself closer to the people and more useful and beneficial to them.

There is another side of the case for the band concert amendment. It will help keep in Duluth professional musicians that will maintain bands and orchestras which will be a credit to the community. The famous Third Regiment band has lost many of its best members because they could not find employment enough in this city. Such a band is a credit to the community, and when it goes abroad it is an excellent advertisement. So there is a material side of it, after all.

This amendment is fourth on the list, and last. It is to be hoped that nobody will overlook it. Some voters don't vote on the amendments at all. Others seem to think they are through when they have voted on the first one. So the last amendment on the list has the hardest row to hoe. Therefore it needs more help than the rest.

If all those who have attended the Herald band concerts in the public parks and enjoyed them will vote "yes" on this amendment and get their friends to do so, and if everybody who would like to see park band concerts a regular feature of the community life will do the same thing, this amendment can be passed.

Don't forget the fourth amendment, the last in the list, when you go to the polls to vote Tuesday, Feb. 6. It makes it possible to have music for the people in the public parks. Vote "Yes" on it.

A UNIVERSAL LAW OF JUSTICE.

Therefore all things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so unto them; for this is the law and the prophets.—Matthew vii: 7.

Those who seek a royal road to justice, to liberty, equality and fraternity and all their fruits of peace and love and comfort, need go no farther than the Golden Rule.

The Golden Rule is not only the essence of Christianity; it is the essence of every moral precept that seeks to direct the relations of man with man.

If it could be made the universal law of humanity, as it is the fountainhead of all just laws, it would solve every human problem. It would banish wars, empty jails, abolish poverty, destroy crime. It would end all human suffering caused by injustice, greed or misused power.

It would solve the problem of the tariff. It would make the trusts humble and efficient and well loved servants of society. It would put an end to strikes and lockouts. It would make labor and capital one in purpose, with hands joined and hearts atune with the glory of human brotherhood.

It is so simple, this splendid law of justice, that though Christ laid it down as a fundamental of Christianity nearly two thousand years ago, it is the most neglected and the most frequently violated of all laws. Because it is neglected and because it is violated wars still plague the world, nations groan under a burden of armaments that robs the needy of their bread, the hand of man is set against the face of his brother, commerce is infested with treachery and corruption, governments are prostituted at their source, capital and labor fight, often to the death, over the distribution of the fruits of their joint enterprise, caveat emptor—"let the buyer beware"—is the law of trade, and "the devil take the hindmost" is the ruling principle of society.

War, oppression, scandal and preventable disease are the world's worst scourges. All would vanish by the magic of the Golden Rule if the world would apply it to human conduct.

Wars come because each nation struggles to gain advantages without regard to whether or not gaining them works injustice to other nations. If each nation did with all other nations as it would have those other nations deal with it, there could not possibly be any more war. Armies and navies could be disbanded, soldiers and sailors put at work useful to humanity and the gigantic sums devoted now to their upkeep could be spent in bettering human living conditions the world over.

Oppression comes—in a monarchy through regal tyranny, in a republic through Special Privilege, prostituting political power stolen from the people—because powerful individuals fight and scheme to gain more than their share of the world's bounties. If each individual in all the world dealt with others as he would have others deal with him, the world never more would endure the disgrace of oppression.

Scandal sends its poisoned barbs into human hearts because thoughtless and malicious tongues spread evil reports. If those who spread these tales stopped to consider how they would like others to treat their good names, and would treat others as they would have themselves dealt with, scandal would cease as though no such thing had ever been.

Preventable diseases, which kill their millions, which cause long and painful and expensive illness, and which lose to society the services of thousands every day, come because greed or neglect or contempt for the rights of others allow insanitary conditions to exist. These conditions would vanish if the guilty ones treated their neighbors as they would have their neighbors treat them.

Somebody said, not long ago, that the Golden Rule is impracticable. It seems impracticable because nobody is trying it. It is the most practicable and practical law in all the world. It is the essence of Christianity, the essence of decent human relationships; and there can be little real Christianity and little harmony in human associations where it is neglected.

GETTING RESULTS FROM SCHOOL WORK.

The Chicago board of education has announced that radical changes will be made immediately in the public schools of that city. These changes, which are nothing short of revolutionary, are in harmony with modern ideas of education. They should be studied, and the results watched, by those having control of educational machinery everywhere.

The essential features of the new plan are as follows:

Extension of practical vocational training;

Complete rearrangement of high school courses;

Improvement of the textbook system;

Extension of instruction in household arts;

Education of defective, delinquent and dependent children;

Extension of social centers and school yard improvement.

Classification of pupils according to their physical capacity is recommended as a basis for establishing the selection of courses, and extra-hour schools for children compelled to work part of the time are contemplated.

Chicago, evidently, is going to cease trying to squeeze all pupils, regardless of physical or mental capacity or special fitness for special subjects, into the same mold.

Chicago, evidently, is going to abandon a system which aims, if it aims anywhere, to make every boy, after he goes through college, a doctor, a lawyer, a preacher or an editor, and every girl a lady of leisure.

Chicago is going to relegate to the rubbish heap of the past a system of education that, engaged in the above absurdities, stifles individuality, throttles special talents, and turns a majority of the boys into ill-paid clerks and salesmen and a majority of the girls into poor and ill-equipped housewives or "saleslades" on starvation wages.

Chicago, clearly, has recognized that the country needs not only professional men and ladies of leisure, but farmers, mechanics, artisans and skilled housewives.

Chicago recognizes, too, that it is the duty of the public school to cease its antiquated attempt to put square pegs into round holes and to make everybody conform to the same pattern; and that it is the duty of the public school to provide society not only with professional men and women but with artisans, farmers and housewives.

THE OPEN COURT.

The Open Court column on this page is the people's forum. In it, subject to certain reasonable rules, they are free to express their ideas, and their communications are welcomed and valued. The Herald is always glad when its readers avail themselves of this privilege, and considers this one of its most interesting departments.

It is necessary, however, to call attention again to the rules governing the use of the Open Court. There are so many demands upon it that in justice to all these rules must be strictly enforced.

Communications are limited to 300 words, which is enough to express almost any idea of public interest. Only by special arrangement can communications longer than that be entertained, and they must be of peculiar public interest and importance.

The names of the writers must in each case accompany the communication, not necessarily for publication though signed communications always are more effective. No anonymous communications will be accepted.

The Open Court is not to be used as an advertising medium, to advance individual candidacies for public office, or to discuss sectarian differences in religious belief. It is not to be used to attack individuals, and personalities must be avoided.

And, finally, communications must be written on one side of the paper only.

With these restrictions, which all will agree to be reasonable and necessary, the Open Court is open to all.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

HOW BORDER TOWN SOLVES THE PROBLEM.

To the Editor of The Herald:

The interest taken in the lumberjack and your very practical editorial note shows the deep sympathy felt for such cases. International Falls is the big center for lumbermen and for months we have thought about some way of helping the hundreds who call here. With much thought and not a little fear we took a suitable building on what we might call Lumberjack avenue, that is Second avenue on the way from the Canadian ferry to the saloons. We opened a week ago and after heating up provided papers, magazines, games, writing materials, hoping to add the books and papers of the different nationalities represented here. Years ago I mixed with every nation and tongue in Glasgow Seamen's Bethel and believe as the old book says, we are all made of one blood.

About $200 will run us till May, and although I am minister of one of the churches here, I don't wish to put the burden on my people, but mean to make an effort to give the brave fellows a fair chance even if I have to stand part of it myself.

I am writing this letter surrounded by lumberjacks who are enjoying the heat, reading, and one poor fellow is sleeping. If a lumberjack drops into the Falls or Fort Frances, don't let him or any of his kind pass the Men's Reading and Recreation Room. Thanking you heartily for your honest interest in the men's cause which is very dear to so many of your readers, yours,

WALTER DUFF.

THE CHURCH AND SOCIETY.

To the Editor of The Herald:

To my letter in the Open Court of Jan. 20, Rev. W. T. Hughes of Ely has taken exceptions. His letter appeared in The Herald of Jan. 25.

Dispute, for its own sake, is a sin, while the grim tragedies around us call for united service. The relation of the church to society is a question of life and death to thousands and to millions. If I can add something to a more effective modus operandi for even one pastor or church worker, I shall not have written in vain.

I would commend to Mr. Hughes a re-reading of my letter of Jan. 20. I did not have in mind to answer either an editorial or a letter on the subject, "Christianity and Hypocrisy." I had in mind only the editorial of Jan. 13, under the caption, "Church and Society."

A careful re-reading of my letter would have saved Mr. Hughes the carelessness of stating, "He failed to tell us why they (social workers) severed their relations with the church." Please note that I gave two reasons for their desertion of the church, viz.: "because they have lost their spiritual vision," and again, "in the interests of tact."

My critic would have appeared more fair-minded if he had not given the impression that the words he put in quotation marks were extracts from my letter. His fairness could have been shown to better advantage had he not made this unreasonable accusation against me. "The writer wants us to get up on the hill and preach and pray, but etc." A fair-minded critic does not try to beg the question.

My critic was not careful when he said that I said, "that the uplifting of the unfortunate is a by-product," (of legitimate church activity.) We are closer together than he fears. The uplifting of the unfortunate or sinful men is the chief work of the true church; but entering into a work to directly change physical or civil or industrial conditions, that is a by-product of church work. Her primal foundation is in curing the disease of the spirit, viz. sin and unbelief, and in gathering together for service, a people saved by grace. If that is not uplifting men I do not know what uplift means. In contrast with this, ministering to bodily relief and comfort is a by-product. It is a necessary work. It interprets the gospel and illustrates what Christ would do for the spirit. Still that work is a by-product.

Uplifting men is the great work. Even a novice in spiritual work should know that the only real uplift for any man is from within outward. In bringing financial and temporal relief to deliverance we are dealing only with symptoms. Sin is the cause and the only cause of distress. The Holy Spirit is proving over and over again that the radical sin of men is unbelief in Jesus Christ as Saviour and Lord. Until we deal with the sin question and the relation by faith in Jesus Christ we have not touched the cause of modern distresses. The unbeliever is blind, but you, Mr. Hughes, are sent to proclaim this message, and not too confuse it. You understand this. We don't expect the unregenerate to applaud this paragraph.

So let me repeat, "It is not a question shall the church seek to lead men to accept Christ as a personal Saviour. She should do both, but she is to remember that she can most efficiently and permanently do the former class of work by focusing her attention and specializing her activity in the latter class of work."

The distinction Mr. Hughes makes between plebeian and aristocratic churches is well made. Amen. He is on the right track. I am with him. And some of us pastors, who have a working man constituency are not the only ones who give notice that if we are forced to regard classes, we will minister to those who are not children of industrial privilege.

Mr. Hughes will not take it unkindly if I advise him to be careful in his use of such phrases as:

"The poor unfortunate classes."

"As well as spiritually."

"Get heaven into men."

These phrases and other terms of expressions in themselves are harmless, but they connote a literature and a trend of thought that ignores sin, ignores the hunger for God and has no interest in the supernatural. Mr. Hughes understands what I mean.

If a man begins to talk about "safe and sane temperance legislation," I sit up and take notice. Ninety-nine times out of a hundred, that man is a booster for the booze business. So I say, let us be careful of what our phrases connote.

Neither Mr. Hughes nor any one has questioned the main contention of my thesis. To this I call attention. The spirit of Pentecost should dominate the church. When that condition obtains, her regular meetings will usually be scenes of conversions. If the walls of the church continually echoed with the cries of penitence and the songs of newfound faith coming from converted harlots, drunkards, worldlings, smug industrial murderers, and sleek political corruptionists, the world would not sneer at prayer, preaching and Bible study.

EVELETH POLICEMAN AND HIS METHODS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

During the years I have lived in this town or city I have observed many acts of cruelty to helpless men and beasts, which I am sure would not be tolerated by the people in larger places. Yesterday, on the main street, two dogs engaged in a fight, despite the efforts of the owners to stop them. A policeman took a hand in the trouble, and belabored severely one of the dogs. The owner of the dog protested, when the arrogant policeman sought to put the owner under arrest. The owner of the dog, being somewhat under the influence of liquor, refused to go with the policeman, when the policeman used his club on the man's head with all the force he could command, cutting deep gashes in the poor man's head, from which the blood flowed freely. A number of onlookers called to the officer not to beat the man; that they would assist in bringing him to jail; but he, the officer, paid no heed, but continued to beat the helpless man, who, in addition to being drunk, is nearly blind. Is that justice?

AN OBSERVER.

Eveleth, Jan. 25.

OFFENSE NOT A TRIVIAL ONE.

To the Editor of The Herald:

My attention has been called to the enclosed clipping referring to efforts being made to secure a pardon for P. J. MacAlpine of this city, former water and light collector of the city of Two Harbors, and which appears in both the Duluth News Tribune and Herald of the 25th inst.

The statement made therein that MacAlpine had made good his shortage is untrue. The bonding companies have turned over to the city $3,500 in cash. MacAlpine has made over to the city, property valued at approximately $5,000, making a total of about $8,500. This still leaves a balance of about $7,000 that has not been provided for.

It is not the desire of the people of this city to inflict needless punishment on any one, but on the other hand neither do they wish to see clemency exercised on account of misrepresentation. Furthermore our sense of justice revolts at the idea of one man being set free for embezzling $15,000 while another is made to serve two years for stealing two pounds of butter. Trusting that the governor and the board of pardons will keep the above in mind while making their decisions and that the above mentioned newspapers will give this communication the same publicity they gave the enclosed clipping, I beg to subscribe myself, Respectfully,

ALEX HALLIDAY,
Mayor of Two Harbors.

MORE ECHOES OF HARMONY.

Destinies Differ.

Red Lake Falls Gazette: There seems to be many people anxious to prove that the "man of destiny" isn't.

The People's Opportunity.

Buhl Advertiser: Lieutenant Governor Sam Y. Gordon of Browns Valley, Monday announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for governor, creating a sensation and at the same time a very favorable impression throughout the state among people suffering from corporate domination. The present joke on the people of the state of Minnesota—Eberhart—has shown his hand too plainly to ever again even hope for return to office although he may have the brazen effrontery to seek the support of the people he has betrayed into the hands of special interests. The arrogance of the brewers, railroads and other corporations doing business in the state is reflected through their tool and catspaw and the people certainly will stand the pressure no longer. Lieutenant Governor Gordon pledges himself to destroy the oppressive power of special interest and to return to the people the power they rightfully should possess.

Politically Dead.

Cass Lake Times: We are not partial to any candidate who promises too much, rather like the old homely promise: "If elected I'll do my whole duty." As the game now looks, Gordon seems to have the lead and we don't apprehend that Adolph, though now claiming to be virile, will come to the line when the convention is called. Now he is politically dead, he don't seem to know it, and the newspapers of the state, or 90 per cent of them have told it to him for months. He will finally come to believe it and on convention day he will conveniently be "out of town."

"Watch 'er!"

Hibbing Mesaba Ore: Lieutenant Governor Gordon's gubernatorial train is started, and it's headed straight for the state capitol building at St. Paul, and the cry from now on will be "watch 'er." You'll want to watch 'er close, too for there will be several similar trains headed inn the same direction—but they won't get there.

The reason why is because—together with several other very good reasons. First Mr. Gordon is to be the people's choice. He is going to the people of the state of Minnesota and he is going to ask them to instruct their delegates to the Republican state convention to nominate him for governor. And unless the rotteness of the Republican party has gone farther than the people of the state, generally, have surmised, he will be nominated. Then, look out for the cars. It will take more than a mere figurehead and tool of the interests, such as our present sea-to-sea traveler governor, to beat him—even though the latter may have the interests, "organization" and Boss Ed. Smith back of him. There is a rang that is true to Mr. Gordon's platform. It doesn't sound like a party platform, but more like that of a man of the people, that has the ability to lead them back to the rights that are their's by right of citizenship, and is willingn to do the leading. The word "Republican" simply seems to indicate that he had to be classified somewhere, and, being a member of that party, decided that such classification would be as good as any as long as he had the right platform under him. His appeal will be the "common folk," just as was that of our lamented Governor Johnson, and we sincerely hope he will win.

Only One Probably.

Red Wing Free Press: The Republican party is doing pretty well, thank you. Four candidates for governor already, and only half of January gone. How many will there be next June or July?

More Than Wind.

Minnesota Mascot: Sam Y. Gordon is a candidate. He has announced that henceforth he will be very much on the lookout for anything that may help to make him governor. In fact he intimates that he will use his best influence to get himself nominated and elected. He comes out with a platform that is pronounced and progressive. He says the wrong bunch has got the upper hand in Minnesota politics and he intimates that nothing would give him greater pleasure than to clear out the whole works. Well, it's more than wind with Gordon. He showed what he could do when he organized the last senate and he showed during the whole of the legislative session that he was not afraid of anyone and that the "interests" could not do business with him. Gordon is "true blue" and will be found doing what he thinks is right regardless of consequences. It is too early in the game to make any predictions as to what will happen, but if the rank and file of Minnesota voters know a friend when they see him they should show it by supporting Sam.

The Progressive Fever.

Hibbing Tribune: The Progressives have a cinch in Minnesota. The next governor of Minnesota will be a Progressive. There is not the least doubt about it. Look at the candidates. Eberhart is for Roosevelt conservation, rural school consolidation, intensive and scientific farming and administrative reform. Can you beat that for a bunch of progression? Gordon is determined to beat the brewers if he has to drink their breweries dry, he's for the initiative and referendum and county option and he's got a platform of reforms that's a mile long. Lee is all that Gordon is and he demands the recall of judges to boot. Every letter of Holmberg's name is redolent of progressivism. There's simply "nothing to it." Progressives to the right of us, Progressives to the left of us, Progressives before us and behind us volleying and thundering, how can we escape 'em?

Sayings of Famous Men.

Chicago Tribune: John Quincy Adams—I wonder how I'd look with a pompadour!

Rabelais—That reminds me of a—er—any ladies present?

Gutenberg—Will somebody move that I have leave to print?

Dante—Yes, I have friends in both places.

Methuselah—See what I've saved by not carrying life insurance.

SATURDAY NIGHT TALK

More Beyond.

On old Spanish coins may be seen the pillars of Hercules with the motto surrounding them, "Ne plus ultra," that is, "nothing beyond." When these coins were struck Spain owned both sides of the Mediterranean and imagined there was no land beyond the waste of water that stretched westward. There came a day, however, when a Genoese sailor pointed his little fleet of caravels toward the sunset and left leagues of blue water behind him. Coming finally upon a new world he forced Spain to revise the old instription. The pillars of Hercules were retained, and the "plus-ultra," but the "ne" was omitted. For Spain had found that "beyond" there was more than the imagination of man had dreamed.

We often write the old motto on experiences in our lives that seem final. It may be either some loss sustained or some goal reached that has the effect of a damper on aspiration for the future. Through good fortune or through ill, men reach the point where they assume that there is nothing beyond. They have come to the confines of their world.

Distressing loss often has that effect. One loses his health or his money or his reputation and concludes that there is nothing left for him in life. He has reached the limits both of desire and of duty. Any possible beyond seems like a barren waste.

Personal sorrows are not infrequently pillars of Hercules beyond which the voyager on life's ocean will not venture. The passing out of our circle, for instance, of some personality that has meant companionship and happiness seems to put up the bars against us. We see nothing ahead that is pleasant or desirable. The Israelites of old, led captive across the desert, felt that their national existence was at an end. They hung their harps on the willows and refused to sing the songs of Zion in a strange land. Not otherwise men and women everywhere, in the presence of those tragedies of which life is full, feel that the music, buoyancy, and delight of existence is clean gone forever.

It is useful at such times to reflect that the march of the years may still bring us gifts that we have never suspected could come our way. Columbus, on his weary voyage, must often have concluded that the old motto was right after all, and that there was nothing beyond the horizon, when one day there swung out of the mist a whole new hemisphere. Similarly people often find a delight in work and a joy in companionship that almost surprise them after losses that have shattered life to its foundations. It is a sane and right hope that, in the providence of God, life should continuo to be interesting and useful to the end.

Likewise there is "more beyond" for every man who thinks he has reached a final success. A great unexplored ocean of truth, of experience, and of attainment lies before us all the time. The most learned scholar is, like Isaac Newton, only a child picking up a few pebbles on the shore of an infinite sea. The most gifted artist has not sensed more than a fraction of the world's beauty. When any worker begins to be perfectly satisfied with his product it is a sign that he has begun to fail.

This present life itself is only a preparation. It is only the vestibule to the temple that shall one day be revealed. Let the outlook be extended beyond this narrow spot that men call earth. Browning is a true poet and a true thinker when he sings with infinite cheer:

"Grow old along with me!
The best is yet to be,
The last of life for which the first was made;
Our times are in His hand
Who saith, a whole I planned,
Youth shows but half; trust God, see all, nor be afraid!"

—THE PARSON.

A Ballade of the Law.

Two hopeful men for office seek—
The one a Democrat,
The other named Republican;
But lawyers both, at that.
One serves a trust, the other serves
The proletariat.

And I, who am a common man,
I snatch from toil an hour,
And hie me to the polling place
With visage grim and sour;
I make my choice—and straightway vote
A lawyer into power!

Now one must lose and one must win—
This much is understood.
And one must sometime try again
The fickle public's mood;
But one must legislate amongst
A legal brotherhood.

For in those halls where laws are made,
No common man may draw
The breath that makes for eloquence,
Nor spring the ancient saw;
But lawyers come with lawyer minds
To make a lawyer's law!

And when a law all newly born
These staid law lovers spring,
'Tis decked with words all obsolete
And dead with some dead king,
With Latin phrase and quirk and crook—
A truly fearful thing!

And I, who am a common man,
Seek for the truth between
The cryptic lines, and when I seek,
I find it not, I ween,
The truth may be within them, but
I don't know what they mean!

For lawyers—made by lawyers—law,
It may be truly said,
In all its many moods must be
By them interpreted;
While Justice sits outside the door
And holds her aching head!

That Wrong I name is truly Right,
One able judge will show;
That Right is only Wrong disguised,
Another bids me know;
And both—because so said a man
Dead many years ago.

That Right as Right is sometimes Wrong,
I learn with hanging jaw;
That Wrong is Wrong, but sometimes Right,
Is truth without a flaw;
I know not which be Right or Wrong,
But Law is always Law!

And I, who am a common man,
Must linger on the fence,
And wait the word from legal lips
To know the why and whence
Of laws so framed that legal phrase
Crowds out plain common sense.

So laws are reared by lawyers wise
In many a stately hall,
And lawyers know that they should stand,
And know that they should fall;
But I, the common man, I know
That I know naught at all!

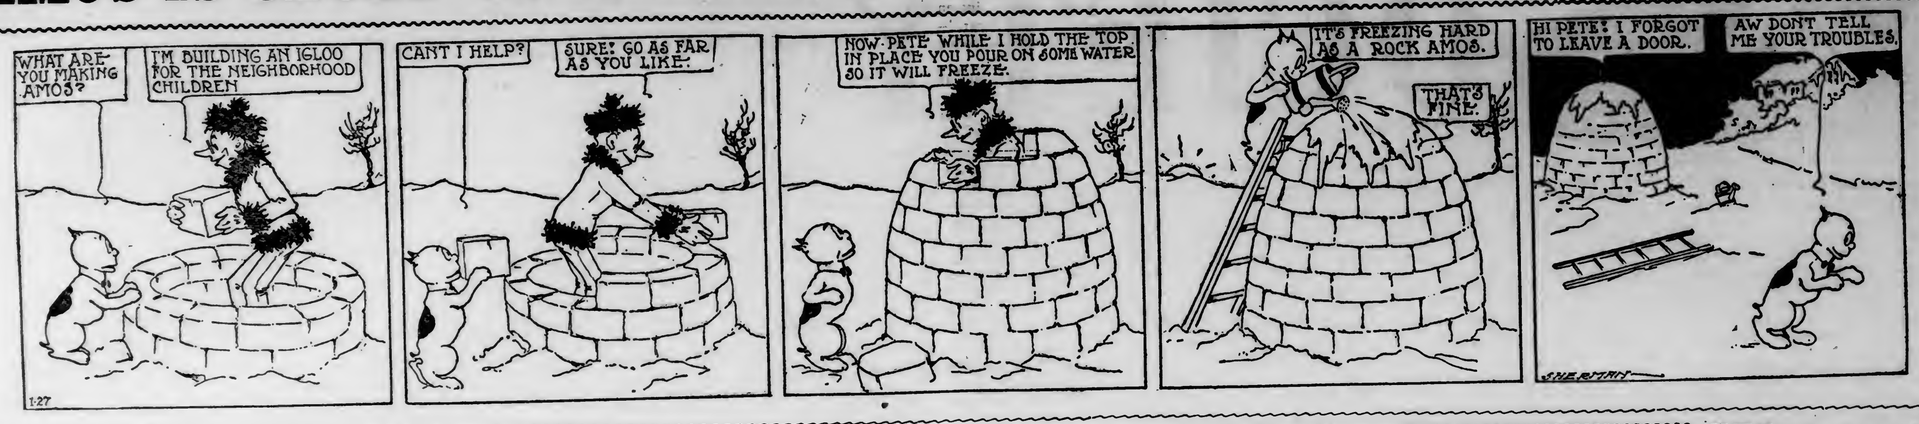

—Charles C. Jones in Life.

But It's True Here.

Toledo Blade: The city engineer of Duluth, who has recently been South, says he suffered more from cold in New Orleans than in Minnesota, though it had been 30 deg. below zero when he left his home city. The Herald of Duluth, sagely remarks that this "shows that recorded temperatures are not reliable guides. * * * The cold in Minnesota is not the least of its beauties. Though it is very real, it is mercifully dry, and that means that it is bracing, invigorating and life-giving." Duluth is some hundreds of miles away from Toledo, but a bond of brotherhood and sympathy ties the two communities together. We always say the same thing when we want to make out a case of extenuating circumstances for our climates.

A YELLOW DEMOCRAT

By SAVOYARD.

The one and singular painful and absurd incongruity of the Jackson day banquet, at the Raleigh hotel in this town Jan. 8, was William R. Hearst. If one may appropriate a thought of Rufus Choate it is pertinent to say that in a political way some men a Democrat hates for cause, but William R. Hearst a real Democrat hates impenitently. Mr. Hearst is a liability rather than an asset on the hands of any political party he may billet himself upon—even the Hearst party, which he is pleased to name "The Independence League."

He protests and re-protests and re-re-protests that he is a Democrat, as if that were important even if true, which it is not. He has no more conception of real Democracy, as preached by Jefferson and practiced by Jackson, than Nicodemus had of the second birth, and he is so bewildered when he "discusses" it that whatever of his preachment is not fallacy is cant. Here are specimens of sham and ignorance that Mr. Hearst delivered himself of at the Raleigh dinner the other night:

"The greatest Democrats of our history were Thomas Jefferson, Andrew Jackson and Abraham Lincoln. * * * Lincoln revived the Republican party which Jefferson had founded, and revived it upon the principles which Jefferson had promulgated. * * * I always have been a devoted Democrat, as I understand the meaning of the word. I always have been a sincere believer in the principles of Jefferson and Jackson and Lincoln."

And here are some words, words, words, with which he concluded:

"My friends the opportunity for true Democracy is in sincere support of the cause of the people, and the opportunity for the people is in united support of the cause of true Democracy. If the Democratic party shall prove true to its name and to its trust, it will advocate the equal rights, the equal justice, the equal opportunity which the people demand. It will declare for the principles of Jefferson and Jackson and Lincoln and rally round its standard from whatever party all the faithful followers of Jefferson and Jackson and Lincoln."

And here are some words, words, words, with which he concluded:

"My friends the opportunity for true Democracy is in sincere support of the cause of the people, and the opportunity for the people is in united support of the cause of true Democracy. If the Democratic party shall prove true to its name and to its trust, it will advocate the equal rights, the equal justice, the equal opportunity which the people demand. It will declare for the principles of Jefferson and Jackson and Lincoln and rally round its standard from whatever party all the faithful followers that had come up for discussion and that were dealt with by them. Lincoln idolized Henry Clay and he loathed Andrew Jackson.

Somebody ought to teach Mr. Hearst some history. When scarce old enough to vote, Stephen A. Douglas kept school and studied law in Illinois. A year later he was the ablest and most feared champion of Gen. Jackson in the state, and Lincoln, five years older, was his political rival then, and continued to be his bitter adversary until 1860—a period of nearly thirty years. If Lincoln was a Democrat, what was Douglas? In their early rivalry Jackson's principles, Jackson's conduct, and Jackson's personality were the political issues in Illinois, and Lincoln assailed all of them even more bitterly than subsequently he assailed slavery.

As for Jefferson, he believed in the "Resolutions of '98." As president of the United States, a successor of Jefferson in that great place, Lincoln recruited an army of 2,500,000 soldiers, to say nothing of the navy, and expended billions of treasure, to shoot to death the idea clothed in those resolutions. Jefferson would have "encouraged" our manufactures by the voluntary act of the citizen in patronizing them, Lincoln would have enforced the "protection" of the manufacturers by means of a high customs tariff.

As for Jackson, he fulminated a proclamation against Nullification in South Carolina when the "tariff of abomination" was the issue. Lincoln applauded and encouraged Wisconsin and Vermont when they nullified and successfully annihilated in those communities the law of the land, fundamental and statutory, as interpreted in the Dred Scott decision by the supreme court of the United States.

Abraham Lincoln was a very patient man. That quality of his character was one of the chief attributes of his greatness, but rage volcanic from his heart would have possessed him had anybody mustered the temerity and effrontery and been so absurd as to call him a Democrat while he was living. If Lincoln was a Democrat, what was Henry Clay, whom he worshipped as a very demigod of statecraft? If Lincoln was a Democrat, how did it come that nobody found it out until he had been dead nearly half a century? Hardin, Speed, Stuart, Oglesby, Linden, Medill, Davis—all Whigs—believed he was of them as well as with them. Douglas, Trumbull, Palmer, Logan, Shields, Morrison, Cartwright—all Democrats—never suspected that Lincoln was of them, although he made it almighty plain that he was not with them.

I believe it was Ben Tillman who first dug up—with his pitchfork, doubtless—this preposterous rot about Abe Lincoln being a Democrat. In the name of pride, have we not enough saints in our own calendar, without stealing from the Republicans their arch-saint?

Samuel J. Tilden could dream more Democracy than Abraham Lincoln could think, for Lincoln could not think it at all. When he was president Lincoln turned a considerable section of the army into a posse comitatus and set it to arresting Democrats, thousands of whom he denied the right of the writ of habeas corpus, and other thousands of whom escaped to Canada and went into voluntary exile to avoid the bastile.

It was a war policy, possibly justified on the plea of military necessity; but it was not Democracy, and nobody at the time pretended it was.

It is "norated around" in this town that Mr. Hearst is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for president this year—in a receptive sense, a dark horse.

This world is still deceived with ornament.

* * * * *

How many cowards, whose hearts are all as false
As stairs of sand, wear yet upon their chins
The beards of Hercules and frowning Mars!

And yet they are as real Hectors as Hearst is a real Democrat.

Mr. Hearst will get no support outside of California, other than his sansculottes in New York and Chicago. I would rather bet that he will oppose the ticket named at Baltimore than to put my money on the favorite of any horse race that will be run this year; but his opposition will be of material benefit to our cause.

He is a very rich man and there is no doubt he got his money legitimately, but his millions only attract those miscreants who illustrate some lines from Sir Charles Hanbury Williams: Since then you're changed from what you were before,
And have a just disdain for all that's poor;
And since to think you wisely now begin
That poverty's a crime, and want a sin;
That gold to every wish its object draws,
Can purchase honor, can command applause,
Can laugh at punishment and mock at laws.

Mr. Hearst's Democracy is like his journalism—yaller, very, very, very yaller.

DOCTORING A CITY'S ARTERIES

Planning Streets So as to Facilitate Circulation---Importance of These Channels of the Common Life--City Planning a Continuous Job.

By CHARLES MULFORD ROBINSON, Specialist in Town and City Planning.

(Exclusive Service the Survey Press Bureau).

Few persons have been privileged to lay out whole towns and see them live. The popular term in connection with town platting appears, indeed, almost prophetic, for of the towns "laid out" so many lie dead upon the landscape. Cheap little markers—sometimes small wooden crosses—designating the graves of buried hopes, are the only evidence of that which might have been.

It is not enough to say that usually such towns are platted inexpertly in a real estate office. A live town needs more than a good plan. It must have a reason. These are not new ideas. And so, though the public has learned a great deal on the subject of "city planning" from the recent attention to the subject, a person cannot yet, very comfortably, apply the term "city planner" to himself. If he tries it, he is bound to wonder what the other fellow is thinking of him. There is ground for the suspicion that he is being classified as a fool or a visionary.

So, between the blight of conspicuous failures in speculative town promotions and the handicap of a term misunderstood—or too little understood—it is remarkable that the sacrifice of perfectly good real estate necessary to make the rest of the land saleable. It ought not to be treated, as city ordinances so generally do, as an urban element which can be taken care of by general rules, standardizing width and grade and proportions of roadway and sidewalk; nor, on the other hand, as a matter of so little consequence that any land owner should be allowed to please himself in the platting of it. In the last analysis, the purpose of the street is to serve in the best way possible those who live upon it and who use it. Unless it makes for their convenience and their comfort, unless it gives them good homes and facilitates the transaction of their business, it is a failure. Social enthusiasm falls short of its full duty if it gives only institutions—churches, parliaments, schools, libraries, baths and clubs, even though it group these into effective centers. A greater gift is the facilitation of a wholesome family life and of personal efficiency. The duty of the street to those who live upon it, to those who traverse it, and the contribution it makes to the life of the community at large—these are the great questions which make its problems vital and social, and which justify the science of city planning.

That science, as properly understood, does not consist only of architectural drawings of civic centers, of great plazas, of fountains, statues and monuments. It may include some or all of those things; but it is to be justly measured only by the closeness with which it centers into and betters the lives of citizens. It has nothing to do with the "laying out" of towns that cannot live, with the planning of towns that have no reason for existence. The manifold problems, economic and social, of the arrangement of streets, affect fundamental matters such as, for instance, the housing problem and the cost of living. This makes it possible to understand the basis of the city planners' courage, faith and enthusiasm, or pain of life, the comfort or hardship of it, its efficiency or failure are due in surprising measure to the wisdom of thoughtlessness with which streets are platted.

The street, when carefully studied, gains a new dignity and value. No more can it be despised. One does not very often to speak in reproach of those whose existence is most palinly identified with it—as the "children of the street," the "women of the street"—for one finds the fortunes of us all are but little less bound up in it. Even as a mere passage-way, it is the channel of the common life. The study of how best to plan the streets, how to adjust them most perfectly to life as it ought to be is no mean subject or dry technical problem.

"I fancy," said Dr. Delos F. Wilcox, in an address before the City Club of Philadelphia some months ago, "that the civic renaissance which must surely come, which indeed has already appeared in its sporadic beginnings, will never get very far until we have awakened to a realization of the dignity of the street—the common street, where the city's children play, through which the milk wagon drives, where the young men are educated, along which the currents of the city's life flow unceasingly."

The street, then, ought not to be thought of as simply a line in a drawing or a mark on a map; or as only a sacrifice of perfectly good real estate necessary to make the rest of the land saleable. It ought not to be treated, as city ordinances so generally do, as an urban element which can be taken care of by general rules, standardizing width and grade and proportions of roadway and sidewalk; nor, on the other hand, as a matter of so little consequence that any land owner should be allowed to please himself in the platting of it. In the last analysis, the purpose of the street is to serve in the best way possible those who live upon it and who use it. Unless it makes for their convenience and their comfort, unless it gives them good homes and facilitates the transaction of their business, it is a failure. Social enthusiasm falls short of its full duty if it gives only institutions—churches, parliaments, schools, libraries, baths and clubs, even though it group these into effective centers. A greater gift is the facilitation of a wholesome family life and of personal efficiency. The duty of the street to those who live upon it, to those who traverse it, and the contribution it makes to the life of the community at large—these are the great questions which make its problems vital and social, and which justify the science of city planning.

That science, as properly understood, does not consist only of architectural drawings of civic centers, of great plazas, of fountains, statues and monuments. It may include some or all of those things; but it is to be justly measured only by the closeness with which it centers into and betters the lives of citizens. It has nothing to do with the "laying out" of towns that cannot live, with the planning of towns that have no reason for existence. The manifold problems, economic and social, of the arrangement of streets, affect fundamental matters such as, for instance, the housing problem and the cost of living. This makes it possible to understand the basis of the city planners' courage, faith and enthusiasm.

POLES OBSERVE ANNIVERSARY

Commemoration of Last War With Russia for Poland's Independence—Raged for Over Two Years.

By PROF. R. PIATKOWSKI.
Chief of Press Bureau of Polish National Alliance, Chicago.

The last week of January has been dedicated by the Poles in Poland and America, in commemoration of the last war with Russia for Poland's independence. Forty-eight years ago, Jan. 22, 1863, an armed insurrection was proclaimed by the secret national government in Warsaw, and what looked in the beginning to be a small fire developed into a tremendous conflagration that raged for over two years and swept all Poland and Lithuania.

When in 1856 Russia, beaten and humiliated by France and England in the Crimean war, was making in Paris her peace with the Western powers, Czar Alexander made two promises, which were not included in the treaty itself, but were added to it in a secret clause. He promised to grant Poland a moderate amount of liberal reforms and to allow Polish in his empire the state of servitude in which the peasants had lived in his domains for many centuries. But as soon as foreign troops left Russia the Czar seemed to forget his promises. The reforms failed to materialize and the liberation of serfs, it was found, would be premature and injurious to the economic interests of Russia.

The first signs of unrest made their appearance in Poland in the beginning of 1861. People began to gather in church and to sing patriotic hymns with the sublime refrain at the end of each strophe: "To Thy altar, O Lord, we raise our prayers, that Thou mightst give us back our fatherland and our freedom." From the churches the people emerged into the streets in all cities and towns and continued their prayers to God for freedom. The Russian authorities knew by those signs what was coming. All insurrections in Poland used to begin in the same way. Troops were sent against the peaceful gatherings of the people, blood began to flow and as the people did not desist from praying for freedom, stronger measures had to be taken.

Warned in Time.

In the beginning of 1865 the Russian government conceived a plan to prevent Poland from arming herself for the impending struggle. An order came from St. Petersburg to arrest in one night 50,000 or more ardent young men in Warsaw and other Polish cities and to take them away as recruits to various distant places in Russia. The secret Polish agents learned of this plan and even managed to secure partially the lists of intended victims. The boys, warned in time, fled from their homes to the nearest woods, armed themselves as well as they could and began to offer resistance to the detachments of Russian troops which were dispatched after them. So the actual struggle began, and the Polish national government, maintained secretly in Warsaw seeing that the general outbreak could not be detained any more, declared war on Russia, Jan. 22, 1863.

This passage occurs in the manifesto of the Polish national government: "In this first day of our holy struggle for Poland's independence we declare all inhabitants, without differences of creed and race, of classes and occupations, free citizens and equal before the law. The land which the peasants have been tilling as serfs or otherwise becomes by this decree absolute property of the tillers; the land owners will be paid for their losses from the treasury of the republic."

So the question of serfdom, which the czar refused to solve, was solved by the Polish insurgents. To the Russian government nothing was left but to comply with this declaration in order to deprive the insurgents of the help of numerous millions of peasants, not only in Poland, but also in Russia.

It is true that the czar two years before, at the first signs of the movement in Poland, gave to the serfs partial freedom, but he did not accord them the right of property in their lands. They were left with their old obligations towards the land owners and had to serve them with their labor, against their will and without any renumeration. Now in the face of things underwent a change. The peasants in all the empire received their economic independence and the state undertook to renumerate the land owners.

The success of the Polish insurrection depended much on the intervention of western Europeon powers. Napoleon III contemplated such intervention and opened negotiations for that purpose with the governments of England and Austria. But Prussia stepped in and Bismarck made haste to form an open alliance with Russia against the Poles and everybody who might try to help them. Austria was the first to hesitate, and against the combined forces of Russia and Prussia, France and England did not care to commit themselves. So the heroic Poles were left alone to fight it out with Russia. And how they fought! There were in all over 600 battles and skirmishes in the period of two years. Some good arms were smuggled through Austria from Belgium, but most of the Polish warriors, especially in Lithuania, had only their hunting guns and scythes. Some cannon was taken from the Russians, but through lack of ammunition had to be abondoned. Over 20,000 Poles and Lithuanians served their country in this insurrection. About 50,000 of them died on the field of glory or succumbed to their wounds. The loss of Russian regular troops was about 40,000, according to Russian statistics. Among Polish officers who most distinguished themselves were Generals Langlewicz, Mieroslakski, Hauke, Hejderaich, Sierakowski, Jezioranski and Suzin. There were many others of distinction.

The struggle was directed in its second and more difficult part by Gen. R. Traugutt as dictator and a cabinet of five ministers that constituted the last Polish national government. They resided secretly in Warsaw, which was all the time in the hands of the Russians, and held their meetings at night in the zoological cabinet of the University of Warsaw. In April, 1864, they were detected; they were court-martialed and executed in Warsaw, Aug. 5, 1864. The last skirmish in that war was fought in March, 1865, where a handful of Poles made their last stand under the command of a priest, Father Brozoska.

The war was over and Poland settled down to another long term of oppression. But the freedom from servitude of all the peasants, Polish and Russian, was won forever by the blood of those heroes, whose memory is deeply imbedded in the hearts of all Polish men, women and children.

NEW SCOURGE IS THREATENED

Parasite Which Attacks Potatoes Appears in France ---Yvette Guilbert's "House of Art"--- Statistics Regarding Microbes.

Paris, Jan. 27.—French farmers are threatened with a new scourge in the form of a parasite which attacks potatoes. It is an insect which in its adult state becomes a butterfly, but which as a larva burrows tunnels in the potatoes and stalks, killing the plant and rendering the root totally unfit for food, even for animals.

In New Zealand, Algeria and Portugal the parasite has caused veritable disasters. In France its ravages have been confined to the department of the Var, where it has been practically impossible to pick up one sound potato from the last crop.

The ministry of agriculture is taking measures to prevent the spread of this insect plague and farmers are being shown how the insect may be destroyed by a frequent use of sulphate of carbon.

Madame Yvette Guilbert has finally completed the plans of her "House of Art," the little theater in which she proposes to have played only the works of the leading poets and playwrights, as well as those of members of society whose talents as authors remain yet undiscovered.

"I am going to give," said Madame Guilbert, "real poetry and real music. With that object in view I have gathered together a carefully-picked little orchestra and I have addressed myself to a number of poets who will reveal to the public their favorite works. I am convinced that there are a number of persons of great talent whose works only reach a small, exceptionally cultured circle of readers, and I flatter myself that I have discovered some minds whose productions would be very acceptable to the intellectual world."

Researches of two French scientists show, it is asserted, that no fewer than 14,000,000 microbes per cubic yard were found in the air of the room at a recent exhibition of pictures in Paris. Tests made show that in the crowded downtown section of Paris each cubic yard of atmosphere contains an average of 45,000 microbes, while in the late afternoon when the crowd is densest, the number leaps to 98,000. The top notch figures for the open air come from the fashionable avenue of the Bois de Boulogne, where on a dusty Sunday afternoon a total of 575,000 microbes per cubic yard were measured. In a general way it is found that the number of microbes has doubled in Paris in the last thirty years.

The war in Tripoli, which continues in a desultory fashion, has given scientists, particularly archaeologists, an opportunity to make valuable examinations and discoveries in ancient ruins. When the Arabs and Turks were driven from Ain-Zara, a great mosaic, consisting of many temples and of numerous magnificent pieces of sculpture, was found in the outskirts.

A little further on the scientists came upon an even more interesting discovery. This was a vast Roman villa, with fountains, baths and bathing pools. During the life of the Romans, Ain-Zara and its environs was a center of elegant life, according to several historians, and these discoveries go to prove the truth of their statements.

The great feature in the Paris world of fashion this winter is the mantle. In making this garment the wonderful skill of the furrier is shown at its best. The way in which furs are draped, cut, fashioned and disposed like the supplest velvet in hundreds of tasteful combinations has never been seen before. One of the most surprising adaptations of furs is the reversible coat, the inside of which is made of one kind of fur and the outside of another, both so perfectly put together that they seem to be a single skin and permitting the wearer to put on the coat inside out. Thus a coat made of black breitchwantz with collar of ermine, on being turned inside out appears as a coat of ermine with collar of breitchwantz, adapting itself at will to the color scheme of the dress worn under it.

With the absence of such an unusually large number of Duluthians who have gone to warmer climes, society is not enjoying as many large affairs as usual at this time of the year. However, what the affairs lack in size they make up in number, and teas, luncheons, bridge parties and out-of-door sports are keeping society interested.

Next week the Twin Cities will entertain a number of Duluthians who will go down to attend grand opera. Among those who will be entertained in St. Paul are: Misses Louise and Helen Frerker, Miss Gladys Reynolds, Miss Lucille Albachten, Mrs. F. G. Bradbury and many others.

On account of the absence of many, several club meetings and little affairs have been postponed for a week. The regular meeting of the Cecilian society which was to be held next Thursday is postponed until Feb. 8 and the drama league committee, which meets with Mrs. Seymour Monday mornings at the Endion M. E. church, will not meet this week.

Weddings

At a pretty wedding ceremony Wednesday morning at the cathedral of the Sacred Heart, Miss Emilie Irene Reau, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Reau, became the bride of Edward Augustine McConville of St. Paul, Rev. P. J. Lydon read the service at 7 o'clock in the presence of a number of guests.

The bride was effectively gowned in a beautiful creation of white satin with an over dress of lace garnished with pearl trimmings. A pretty ornament of white satin and pearls covered her dark hair and she carried a bouquet of bridal roses.

Miss Nell Reau, a sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a charming gown of pink satin with lace trimmings and carried Killarney roses.

Mr. McConville was attended by his brother, Arthur J. McConville of Akeley, Minn., as best man.

The church was prettily decorated in pink and white, roses and lilies being prettily arranged. The Girls' Sodality of the cathedral, of which the bride has been a member, arranged the decorations.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents, 529 Fourth avenue east. The decorations in the dining room were of green and white, roses and ferns being artistically arranged in the appointments of the table. Covers were laid for twelve at the breakfast.

In the living room, red and white roses in fragrant clusters added their beauty to the scene.

The bride is a graduate of the Duluth Central high school and the Duluth state normal school and has been a teacher in the Monroe school for the past few years until last June.

Miss Gertrude De Noble of Virginia, Minn., and Arthur McConville of Akeley, Minn., were the only out-of-town guests.

"SHRINE GIRLS" WILL BE GUESTS OF HONOR AT LEAP YEAR PARTY GIVEN BY ARAB PATROL

S. L. FRAZER, Secretary.

T. P. BRADLEY, President.

A. F. M. CUSTANCE, Musical Director.

WALTER WELBANKS, First Lieutenant.

J. W. McDONALD, Vice President.

W. J. JOHNSON, Treasurer.

ALBERT H. PAUL, Captain.

A leap year dancing party will be held at the Masonic temple on Friday next, at which the Aad temple's fifty "Shrine girls" will be the guests of honor.

The members of the recently organized Arab Patrol will act as a floor committee and chaperons.

The entertainments given by these young women at the ceremonials have made Aad temple famous all over the country. On the recent occasion of the visitation of the imperial potentate, John F. Treat, they fairly outdid themselves and gained the most enthusiastic praise from Mr. Treat and other visiting potentates and nobles. No other temple in the country has anything to compare with these entertainments. Aad temple is therefore taking this opportunity of showing its appreciation, and of making the girls some little return for their assistance at the ceremonials. Being a leap year party, the girls will invite their friends and escorts, while the various details and floor management will be looked after by the patrol, which body, in addition to its military duties, has charge of the social functions of the temple. Among those of the "Shrine girls" who take a leading part are: Frances Burris, the "leading lady," Myrna Newell, Mary Whitcomb, Annabelle McLeod, Marion Ingalls, Elfua Smith, Mildred Prudden and Maude Matteson. The officers of the Arab Patrol are: T. P. Bradley, president; J. W. McDonald, vice president; S. L. Frazer, secretary; captain; Wallace Welbanks, first lieutenant; W. J. Johnson, treasurer; A. H. How a Woman May Retain Her Youth

"The woman who wants to look young must taboo massage creams and liquid rouge. She will only harden the structure of her face and destroy the fine texture of the skin," said Mrs. Margaret Holmes Bates, the well-known author, to a Chicago Journal representative.

"Reputable physicans have declared that if she indulges in artificial methods she risks losing her health," she continued. A perfectly natural method of treating a bad complexion is by using ordinary mercolized wax; this adds nothing to the complexion, but removes it instead. This wax, obtainable at any drug store, flakes off the sallow or blotchy outer skin in fine particles, gently, without harming the skin beneath, which gradually makes its apearance. The brilliantly beautiful complexion thus obtained is a new one—quite different from a patched-up old complexion. This is one way to retain youthful looks. An ounce of mercolized wax is sufficient. It is applied at night like cold cream and washed off in the morning.

EVENTS OF WEEK IN CLUB AND MUSICAL CIRCLES

Flonzaley String Quartet Coming—Guild of St. James Has Ambitious Plans—Matinee Musical Program—Amateur Plays.

THE Flonzaley String Quartet recital which will be given Wednesday evening, Jan. 31, at the Pilgrim Congregational church before the members of the Matinee Musicale, is the second artists' recital of the year. This is the first visit of this well-known organization to Duluth.

The New Orleans Times Democrat says: "Word had come that the quartet was the greatest in the world, but the audience was hardly prepared for an evening of such unalloyed delight as the concert afforded. When the Flonzaleys are next heard in this city it is safe to say there will be ten persons to greet them for every one who applauded last evening."

"The Flonzaleys," a Boston critic says, "need fear no rival. The three concerts given here this season are among the musical delights of the year."

Much of the success of the famous Flonzaley Quartet is due to the highly interesting personality of the four artists. Adolfo Betti, first violin; Alfred Pochon, second violin; Ugo Ara, viola and Iwan d'Archambeau, violoncello. All are of the Latin race, but of different nationalities. Mr. Betti and Mr. Ara are Italians, Mr. Pochon, Swiss, and Mr. d'Archambeau, French. Three of them are pupils of the same master, the famous Cesar Thomson. They are a distinguished group of men, all intensely temperamental and all wholly absorbed in their art. Under their present contract, lasting for a number of years, they cannot play singly or at any other times than in the concerts arranged for them. They each have to practice three hours a day separately and three hours a day together and none of them can marry or take any other step which will greatly affect their lives during the duration of the term.

The summers of the Flonzaley players are always given up to constant rehearsal in a poetic retreat near Lausanne, Switzerland, where they have a quaint little cottage.

The finish of their technique and the perfection of their ensemble playing are two qualities which have everywhere been commented on.

The visit of such a quartet is a treat out of the ordinary for they have made for themselves a place among the greatest chamber-music organizations in the world.

The usual custom in the artist recitals will be observed in the admission of gentlemen and out-of-town ladies with the members of the club.

The program which the quartet will present follows:

Quartet No. 2 in D minor. Allegro moderato, Andante, Minuetto, Allegretto ma non troppo.....Mozart
Allegro moderato, Assez vif—Tres rythme, (from the quartet in F major) .....Maurice Ravel
"Sonata a tre," for two violins and cello. Introduzione quasi recitativo—Allegro con brio, Dolente, Andante amoroso, Allegro con fuoco .....Giuseppe Sammartini Lento e molto cantabile, Molto vivace, (from the quartet in A flat major, op. 105) .....Dvorak

"THE ADVENTURER."

Local Talent Production Aroused Interest in the Drama League.

THE most interesting event of the week was the performance of "The Adventurer," a four-act play by Alfred Capus, by local actors under the auspices of the Dramatic Structure class which Mrs. Robert Morris Seymour has been conducting this winter.

Interesting from every standpoint, the play was a delightful surprise to the audience. Dignified, and finished to a remarkable degree for an amateur play, it met with hearty interest and response on the part of the audience.

M. Benedict Papot of Chicago, under whose professional coaching the play was rounded into shape in ten days' time, was particularly praised, both for his fine work in the leading role of Etienne Ranson and for his work as director.

A clean, wholesome play in every respect, unlike the usual French plays presented in this country, "The Adventurer" was highly enjoyable in its evolution of the characters and its atmosphere of refinement and culture. Given as a means of raising a fund to make possible the mingling of speakers such as Dr. Richard Burton, Jane Addams, and President Vincent of the University of Minnesota to Duluth, to speak at a big mass meeting to be held at the Lyceum theater, the play demonstrated what can be done along this line under professional instruction and with an organized audience. At this mass meeting which will be held as soon as Dr. Burton, vice president of the Drama League of America returns from the East, the Duluth branch of the league will be formed under the direction of Mrs. Robert Morris Seymour, chairman of the local organization.

Until the time of this mass meeting the Drama league committee will meet every Monday morning with Mrs. Seymour at the Endion M. E. church to discuss plans for the working up of enthusiasm and the forming of chapters in the city, and for the discussion of modern plays.

At a meeting yesterday afternoon of the King's Daughters a chapter of the league was formed, and the members expect to work along dramatic lines the rest of the season.

On the whole, the play was one of the finest things ever done in Duluth by amateurs, and the production surpassed many professional companies. Every actor took his or her part with dignity and an earnestness which brought out the best in the play. The play was well staged, the arrangements were good and the stage settings excellent. The third act in particular made a beautiful picture, which received an ovation on the rise of the curtain.

CIVIC WORK IN NORTH DAKOTA.

DULUTH club women may be interested in the work of the Women's Civic League of Grand Forks, N. D., in the social service work which they are taking up this winter. The following is a clipping from a Grand Forks paper of Jan. 25:

"The members of the Women's Civic league have been busy for some time making preparations for the social service work which has been taken up this winter. This branch of the work has been carried on in other cities and has been productive of great results.

"The first meetings were held yesterday afternoon in the Belmont, Wilder and Winship schools, and there was a splendid attendance at all of the meetings which were very interesting. A regular course of study will be taken up along the lines of domestic art and science and aside from the work, social afternoons will be enjoyed. Meetings will be held soon in the Central, Washington and Roosevelt schools.

"Miss Katherine Whitely, principal of the Belmont school, acted as hostess and was assisted by two of the ward presidents of the league, Mrs. C. E. Brawner and Mrs. J. S. Hatcher. The meeting was called to order by Miss Whitely, who gave an interesting talk on the work that is to be accomplished. Miss Mary Sutherland, supervisor of domestic art in the city schools, gave a short address, telling of the plans for the demonstration cooking lessons which she will have charge of during the winter. Mrs. Hatcher spoke on the relations of the home to the school and Mrs. Brawner gave a brief talk on the benefits that will be derived from the association of the mothers and teachers. Following the addresses a social hour was enjoyed and light refreshments were served.

"Another meeting was held at the Wilder school under the supervision of Miss Aldrich, the principal, and Mrs. George Jauss. An interesting program was given and at the close refreshments were served. Mrs. Jauss spoke briefly on the plans for carrying on the work.

"The meeting at the Winship school was in charge of Miss Agnes O'Donnell and Mrs. J. M. Gillette, the ward president. Miss Ida Lamson gave pleasure to the company by singing a group of songs. Miss Genevieve O'Keefe gave a reading and musical numbers were given by members of the seventh grade. Miss O'Donnell gave an interesting talk on "The Homekeepers' Club," and a dainty luncheon was served. The assisting ladies were Misses Dudley, Gallagher, Skinner and Sampson, who received the guests. Those who served were Mrs. Harold Lamming, Mrs. Barney Dreeland, Mrs. J. E. Stevens, Misses Sargent, O'Keefe, Wiltse, Henderly and Crawford."

WANT 1,000 MEMBERS.

Guild of St. James Will Assume Full Responsibility for Orphanage.

WITH a membership of 1,000 as its goal the Guild of St. James' is starting on a campaign for new members. Organized only last fall it has already attained a membership of 300 without special effort.

The Guild of St. James' was organized for the benefit of the St. James' Orphanage and all of its work has been for this worthy institution. Composed of representatives from all the Catholic churches of the city the guild aims to eventually assume the running expenses of the home and at present it is assisting in every way possible.

The first meeting of the guild was held in September by ten women from the various Catholic churches of the city and in October the organization was perfected and the following officers elected: President, Mrs. Otto Hartman; vice president, Mrs. A. V. Ouellette; secretary, Mrs. Eugene Huot, and treasurer, Mrs. J. D. Kenna.

A finance committee consisting of Mesdames M. H. Kelley, B. J. Tobin, C. B. Nunan, L. K. Daugherty and Funk was appointed.

Since that time regular monthly meetings have been held in the Bishop's clubrooms.

The guild is open to anyone interested in the work and it has the hearty support of Bishop McGolrick, who is anxious for its steady growth.

Anyone wishing to apply for membership may do so by communicating with Mrs. J. D. Kenna, 27 West Fifth street.

While the active members of the board are the women of the church, many men have already given their support to the work by becoming members of the guild.

During the fall and winter the guild has paid for the piano at the orphanage and has provided clothing for the children whenever necessary. The Christmas tree festivities were under its supervision and the 118 little tots there have been comfortably looked after. The members are now getting out a cook book of tried recipes for the benefit of the orphanage and expect to have it ready for sale by Easter.

WOMAN'S COUNCIL WORKING TO ESTABLISH OPEN AIR SCHOOL FOR DULUTH CHILDREN

REST HOUR AT ROCHESTER OPEN AIR SCHOOL.

ROCHESTER OPEN AIR SCHOOL DURING STUDY PERIOD.

The practical advantage of the open air school from a physical standpoint is rapidly being recognized all over the country and the plan is being adopted in practically all of the large cities.

The establishment of an open air school in Duluth is one of the chief plans of the Woman's Council and the educational committee has been investigating the best means of establishing one soon.

Open air schools have been established in Germany, France and England, as well as the principal cities in the United tates.

In summer they are not such a necessity as in the winter season, because school rooms in summer are open and the children get plenty of fresh air. Many of the schools are kept open the year round, especially for the younger children.

During the recent cold spell, when the thermometer was below zero, the children in Rochester, Cincinnati, Providence, New York and other cities studied, slept and ate in the open air. Tubercular children generally are kept in these schools, but the treatment is also recommended for anemic children and others whose health is below the normal.

The accompanying cuts show the children studying in thick woolen suits and in their arctic sleeping bags.

Finds New Arguments to Back Votes for Women

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 27.—Miss Jane Addams of Hull House, Chicago, speaking for woman suffrage here last night, advanced a new argument. She asked consideration of a hypothetical condition of society in which women already were the voters and men sought the ballot.

"What would be man's state of mind," she asked, "if only the following half dozen objections to his franchise, so frequently heard, were offered?

"Men would find politics corrupting.

"They would vote as their wives and mothers did.

"Men's suffrage would double the vote, but not change the result.

"It would diminish the respect for men.

"Most men do not want to vote.

"The best men would not vote.

"If those voting women should add: 'In every man-ruled city is a great army of women, so set aside as outcasts that it is considered a shame to mention the name which designates them, because their very existence is illegal. The men whose money supplies their tawdry clothing and provides them with intoxicants and drugs are never arrested or considered lawbreakers. Franchise for men is unsafe.

"What then?"

JANE ADDAMS.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

TO RESUME RATE CASE

Hearing on Minneapolis & Rainy River Case at St. Paul Monday.

Further Probing of Charges of Road's Rates Are Excessive and Partial.

Deer River, Minn., Jan. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—What is expected to be the final hearing in the Minneapolis & Rainy River railroad rate reduction case will open in Minneapolis next Monday. It is expected that three days will be consumed in the introduction of evidence, and that the history and expenditures and receipts of the railroad will be gone into at length.

The hearing will be conducted by the entire commission. In view of the importance of the proceeding, Mr. Yapp, traffic expert of the commission, and Mr. Jurgenson, engineer of the commission, will also probably attend.

The M. & R. R. was incorporated in 1904 with $400,000 common stock. This has since been increased to $1,700,000. As was brought out by Mr. Spear in cross-examining officers of the corporation at the Deer River hearing, the stockholders in the Itasca Lumber company own a majority of the stock in the M. & R. R. and the Deer River Lumber company.

What Complaint Alleges.

The complaint alleges excessive rates and also that rates were made to the Itasca Lumber company and the Deer River Lumber company which were less than those charged the general public.

It is expected an attempt will be made to justify these lower rates to the two lumber companies, on the ground that the same were contracted at the time the road was bought.

In making collection of the gross earnings tax, it is said that state officers have discovered that the M. & R. R. has failed to report gross earnings in excess of $400,000. This is disputed, and an action in the courts will probably result. The gross earnings tax on the amount claimed by the state will exceed $16,000.

The rate proceeding is of vital interest to this section of the state, and the outcome will be watched for eagerly, as lower rates will mean much.

CANNOT GET CARS.

Upper Peninsula Loggers Are Making Bitter Complaints.

Iron Mountain, Mich., Jan. 27.—Warren Flanagan's logging operations are progressing in a highly satisfactory manner, but like most all other business men, he complains of a very unsatisfactory railway service. Loggers in general complain bitterly of inattention in the matter of securing cars, the railway companies simply ignoring their requisitons for cars. Mr. Flanagan says that he is now operating four camps and is working about eighty men. He is banking about 25,000 feet of timber daily and employs about thirty-six horses in hauling the timber. Mr. Flanagan now estimates his output for the season as folows: 2,000,000 feet of logs, 500 cords of pulpwood, 4,000 telephone poles, 70,000 cedar posts, 4,000 pieces of lagging and 12,000 railroad ties. The timber is cut from lands recently purchased by Mr. Flanagan.

SOO LINE MOVE SEEN IN DEAL

Swartz Driving Park addition at the east end of the city for Chicago people, the consideration being $29,000. This tract was platted some time ago but the plat was never recorded. In the additon are about 116 acres and so the purchase price went over $200 per acre. It is rumored that the land is being bought for the Soo Line as an entrance to the city. Others believe the land is to be drilled for iron as it may lie in the same belt found in Judge G. W. Holland's land. The fourteen acres in the tract of Anton Mahlum adjoining were also taken over by Mr. Stetson and Milwaukee, Wis. people are interested in this venture.

CLOQUET LISTENS TO WARM DEBATE

Cloquet, Minn., Jan. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The biggest crowd ever seen in the Nelson opera house heard the debate Thursday night between Attorney Floyd T. Presinger of Cloquet and Morris Kaplan, the well-known Duluth Socialist, the latter upholding the social form of government and Mr. Presinger condemning its policies and principles.

Al standing room was occupied and people stood for hours closely packed. Hundreds were turned away.

Mr. Kaplan contended the present form of government conforms to the conditions of a past age, an environment that has been outlived, and should be superseded by laws to fit the present needs. He claimed that no man ever lived or would be born who could lay down a law or establis ha guide of conduct by which all the people yet unborn could live to their best interests. Mr. Kaplan read from the Duluth Herald the statement that congress had given to the railroads 77,594,792 acres of land—good land—and then he scored the railroads for discriminating in their operations so that in various Western states crops rotted in the fields for want of proper transportation facilities. "And this," said Mr. Kaplan, "is a government by the people and for the people."

Attorney Persinger Reply.

Attorney Persinger arraignment of Socialism was caustic and he was applauded loudly. He argued, not for capitalism nor the present form of government, but for an evolutionary reform of present conditons and the continuing of the individual form of government and the principles which have been the backbone of the nation. He declared food, shelter and clothing, the material things, not to be the essentials, but that the essentials are rather the principles of life that men from the time of Moses to Christ and through all the centuries since have lived for. He cited instances of the overthrow of communion and of the final triumph of principle. He attacked Socialism as a "class" government. He ridiculed the idea of confiscation, and amid cheers declared that in a country where 45,000,000 people own their homes somebody would start something were any property to be confiscated and it would soon be apparent who was boss in these United States. When Mr. Persinger said that the "working man in the United States stands head and shoulders, ace high, above the working men in every country on God's green earth," the working men who comprised the larger part of the audience, arose en masse and cheered.

The rebuttal was short and sharp, but no decisions were made. Mr. Kaplan declared he would come to Cloquet again at any time to debate with his adversary. Mayor William Kelly presided over the meeting. During the respite between the debate and rebuttal, Miss Odiel Loisel rendered "The Star Spangled Banner," every one in the audience rising to their feet. Moody's orchestra played several selections.

M. J. O'Rourke, J. A. Johnson, Elmer Oss and W. H. Haley of Duluth accompanied Mr. Kaplan to Cloquet.

Every Week-day is a Work-day in CALIFORNIA

No snow No bad weather

Think of what this means to men and women who have to labor out of doors. The time that is usually wasted in the winter months in the East, staying indoors to avoid the snow and blizzards, is spent in California in labor that results in profit—not only on the farms, but in the big cities.

Metal workers and laborers in the building trades lose no time blowing on their hands to keep them warm. Every work-day and every hour in that day can be utilized for work in California, and everybody can work 313 days in the year and enjoy rest 52 Sundays.

HIS ECZEMA GONE AND BOILS CURED

Eczema Began When Three Weeks Old. Arms, Shoulders and Breast a Solid Scab. Boils Broke Out During Teething. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and He Was the Picture of Health.

224 E. Jackson St., Colorado Springs, Colo.—"My son was about three weeks old when I noticed a breaking-out on his cheeks, from which a watery substance oozed. A short time after, his arms, shoulders and breast broke out also, and in a few days became a solid scab. The little fellow was under treatment for about three months. By the end of that time, he seemed no better. I became discouraged. I commenced the use of Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and in a few days noticed a marked change. The eruption on his cheeks was almost healed, and his shoulders, arms and breast were decidedly better. When he was about seven months old, all trace of the eczema was gone.

"During his teething period, his head and face were broken out in boils which I cured with Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Surely he must have been a great sufferer. During the time of teething I used the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment, nothing else, and when two years old he was the picture of health. His complexion was soft and beautiful, and his head a mass of silky curls. I had been afraid that he would never be well, and I feel that I owe a great deal to the Cuticura Remedies." (Signed) Mrs. Mary W. Ramsey, Sept. 24, 1910.

NEW LIBRARY PLANS FILED

Handsome Building Is Being Constructed for West Duluth.

Plans for the new Carnegie library, which is under construction at West Duluth, have been filed with the building inspector this week.

Jacobson Bros., contractors, have the foundation well under way. The dimensions are 65 by 44 feet with a large and high basement and one main floor, the general assembly room of which will be 50 by 29.

Flate glass, terra cotta and handsomely designed brick work will go to make the exterior of the new building attractive. With the exception of the roof the building will be entirely fireproof. The heating and ventilating systems will be the most improved.

Ellerbe, Round & Sullivan are the architects.

MANY INQUIRIES FOR FARM LAND

D. & I. R. Land Department Preparing for Busy Season.

From the tone of the inquiries which are being received from Iowa and Southern Minnesota points as to the agricultural lands of Northern Minnesota by L. B. Arnold, land commissioner for the Duluth & Iron Range railroad, a busy season is in prospect for the company's land department.

Most of the inquiry comes from an experienced class of farmers from the Iowas. A number of Iowans are now permanently settled on Northern Minnesota farms.

Last year, the company's land department vigorously prosecuted a campaign to open up Red Lake county in the Western part of the state and has practically disposed of its holdings there.

This year, tracts of land in St. Louis, Cook and Aitkin counties will be offered. Prices have advanced generally throughout Minnesota. Three years ago acreage now held for $15, went for $5. Even at $15, there are many who think that the buy is a good one and will return profits from an investment standpoint alone.

ENGINEERS WILL VISIT PANAMA

Minnesota Men to Inspect Work on the Big Ditch.

Duluth civil engineers have been asked to join the party of Minnesota engineers which is now being formed to take the trip to Panama the latter part of February. It is expected that more than 100 engineers from all parts of the state will go.

The trip is to be made under the auspices of the Minnesota Surveyors and Engineers' society, the Civil Engineers' society of St. Paul and the Engineers' club of Minneapolis.

The itinerary provides for leaving the Twin Cities via the Burlington on the evening of Feb. 20 for Chicago and leaving that city Feb. 21 at 9:30 a. m. for New Orleans via the Illinois Central, arriving Feb. 22. Two days will be spent at New Orleans and on Feb. 24 the party will take the steamship Atenas for Colon, to arrive there early on the morning of Feb. 29.

A week will be spent at Colon and the trip over the isthmus. The return trip will be started March 7 from Colon by the steamer to New Orleans, arriving there by March 12. Members of the party will have the option of spending from one to three days in New Orleans or of coming straight through to Chicago.

Arrangements have been completed for through car service to New Orleans. Some of the members expect to take their families along. L. S. Pomeroy, room 115 state capitol building, St. Paul, is taking care of the reservations.

TWENTY-ONE MILES OF NEW SIDEWALK.

Twenty-one miles of new sidewalk were laid in Duluth last year, according to the annual report of the board of public works.

All but eight miles were of concrete and were laid in the new residence districts. Plank walks were put down along unimproved streets.

The amount of sidewalk construction fell off from forty-two miles in 1910 to twenty-one in 1911.

NEW HOME FOR CURLING CLUB

Fire-Proof Building Will Provide Quarters for All Branches of Sport.

Architect F. G. German expects to have the plans for the new home of the Duluth Curling club worked out shortly. It is hoped to be able to let the contracts within a month.

The new rink, when completed, will cost $100,000, including the site. It will be located on London road.

The new rink will be of fireproof construction. The floors and supporting columns are to be of reinforced concrete construction with an iron truss roof. The rink will have twelve sheets of ice, clubrooms, bathrooms, galleries, banquet hall, 50 by 60, janitor's quarters, a hockey and skating rink, 90 by 190, with a balcony encircling it and with quarters for the home and visiting teams.

BIG INCREASE IN BUILDING PERMITS.

IMPROVEMENTS TO GIDDING STORE.

At a cost of between $30,000 and $40,000, two floors will be added to the store of J. M. Gidding & Co., First avenue west and Superior street. Plans are now being prepared by a local architect. It is expected that the plans will be ready and bids called for before May 1, so that the improvement will be ready for next fall's trade.

Will Build Creamery.

Farmers residing in the vicinity of Pike Lake organized a creamery association this week, and are now pushing plans to erect a building suitable for their purposes. WEST END INDUSTRIAL HOME FILLED

Busy Days at West End Salvation Army Headquarters.

Soup Kitchen Is Popular—Lodgings and Baths in Demand.

At the present time the Salvation Army home at 1202 West Michigan street is one of the busiest places in Duluth. There has never been such a demand for old clothing, household furniture, rooms in the lodging department or for work as at the present time, said Capt. Fred Krause yesterday afternoon.

The newly opened soup kitchen which is in charge of Lieut. Sorenson, is the most popular place in the city today, if the large number of men that visit the place is any evidence. The fact that a meal consisting of soup, bread and coffee is sold for 5 cents is enough to bring hundreds of working men to the army home. Those who are not able to pay for their meal are given food free of charge.

The rooms in the new hotel are nearly all filled every night, and the local officers are well pleased with the results. The prices for a night's lodging and bath are 15 and 25 cents, while those who are not able to pay anything for their rooms are given their lodging free until some work is found for them. "The rooms are filled every evening," said Capt. Krause, "and the army could easily find fifty more lodgers nightly if we had the room."

The local department is also trying to help the poor of the city by supplying them with clothes and furniture during the cold weather. The department wagons will call at any address in answer to a telephone call to headquarters.

The new home has widened the scope of the work and now gives employment to a number of men in return for which they receive their room and board free together with a small compensation. Capt. Fred Krause, who is in charge of the industrial department, has been here for the past two years and has made an enviable record during that time. He had been in the work for the past ten years in different parts of the country and has adopted the latest methods in the Duluth branch. He came here in the summer of 1910 and increased the department from a relief store at 907 West Michigan street to its present quarters at 1202-4 West Michigan street, with a hotel, relief store and industrial home combined.

One of the main features of the work of the local corps is the waste paper department, which now gives employment to about twenty men. The paper is baled and when a carload is secured, it is shipped away to be manufactured into pulp. Not only waste paper is sold, but hard and soft shavings are also handled by the department.

DR. RICE LECTURES AT GRACE CHURCH.

Rev. M. S. Rice of the First M. E. church last evening lectured at Grace M. E. church on "Rambles." He gave his own impressions of the various sights in Egypt, Palestine and Jerusalem.

A large crowd attended the affair, which is the first of the series of entertainments the Sunday school of the church has planned for the winter. The next event of the series is a concert to be given Feb. 24 by the Scottish Rite quartet, under the direction of Prof. A. F. M. Custance. The members of the quartet are: Don Gearhart, Charles Applehagen, Done Cole and A. J. Bjorkquist.

Proposed Charter Amendments to Be Voted Upon at Municipal Election to Be Held in the City of Duluth February 6, 1912.

Amendment No. 1.

Amend section 64 of the Duluth city charter by adding at the end thereof the following words:

"Eighty-eighth. To acquire and hold by gift, devise, purchase or by the exercise of the power of eminent domain through condemnation proceedings, property, for public use, either within the corporate boundaries of the city or outside of such corporate boundaries, for work houses, work farms, detention homes and like corrective institutions, and all other places of confinement, public lodging houses, houses of refuge and similar institutions for the well-being of the unfortunate and delinquents of the city, and public baths, gymnasiums, public halls and similar places of public recreation, convenience and amusement, and to provide for the erection of buildings thereon and the maintenance, management, control and operation of all of the same, and do all or any part of the same, either solely or jointly with the county of St. Louis and the state of Minnesota, or with either such county and state."

Amend said charter by adding a chapter thereto to be known as chapter XVIII-A, to read as follows:

"Section 244-a. There is hereby created a board of public welfare which shall be composed of five members, who shall be appointed by the mayor. The members of said board shall be selected with reference to their special fitness for the position and shall serve without compensation. The members of the board shall be appointed on the second Tuesday in March of each year, or as soon thereafter as may be, their term of office to begin on the first day of April following. The term of office of each of the members of said board shall be five years; provided, that the members of the board first appointed hereunder shall determine by lot at their first meeting the terms of service of each member so that the term of one such member shall expire April 1, 1913, and the term of each of the others shall expire yearly thereafter. Said board shall elect from its members at its first regular meeting after April first in each year a president and vice president. It shall also appoint a secretary who shall not be a member of said board and who may be removed by the board at its sole discretion. Subject to the other provisions of this charter, the board shall employ, dismiss and fix the compensation of all such other employes as the board may deem necessary to employ in the performance of the duties of said board.

"Sec. 244-b—The board shall have authority and it shall be its duty to maintain, manage, control and operate any workhouses, work farms, detention homes and like corrective institutions, and all other such places of confinement, and any public lodging houses, houses of refuge, and similar agencies for the well-being of the unfortunates and delinquents of the city, and public baths, gymnasiums, public halls and similar places of public recreation, convenience and amusement, as may be established under the sole direction, ownership or management of the city, or in which the county of St. Louis and the state of Minnesota, or either said county or state is jointly interested with the city. The board shall employ one or more assistants whose duties it shall be to attend all sessions of the municipal or other courts at which criminal cases are or are likely to be heard or considered, and to advise and co-operate with other officials engaged in the duty of administering the criminal laws of the city and state. It shall also be the duty of said board to make such investigations and surveys of social conditions having a tendency to induce crime, poverty and personal delinquencies of any kind as may to said board seem proper.

"Sec. 244-c—The comptroller, the conference committee and the common council shall include in their annual estimates and apportionment of funds, made under sections 301 and 302 of this charter, a sum of money to be set aside out of the general fund for the exclusive use of the board of public welfare for the ensuing year, and when so set aside said fund shall be used for no other purpose, and separate accounts thereof shall be kept by the treasurer and comptroller. Expenditures from such fund so set aside shall be ordered and allowed by said board of public welfare, and shall be paid by the city treasurer only upon orders of said board, signed by its president or vice president, attested by its secretary and countersigned by the comptroller. Said board shall have authority to make all contracts on behalf of the city authorized by this chapter, and the name shall be signed for the city by the president or vice president and attested by the secretary of said board.

"Sec. 244-d—Any person desiring to make donations, bequests or devises of money or property for the benefit of the board of public welfare shall have the right to vest the title to the same in the city, to be held and controlled by said board, when accepted according to the terms of the donation, bequest or devise of such property, and as to such property the city shall be held and considered to be a special trustee, such trust to be managed and administered exclusively through and by the board of public welfare as an agent of said city."

Amendment No. 2.

Amend next to the last paragraph of section 284 of the city charter so as to read as follows:

"The aggregate amount levied by the common council, in any one year, for said funds numbered third to sixteenth inclusive, shall not exceed 11 mills of the assessed valuation of all taxable property in said city; a levy in excess of this limitation shall be void as to such excess."

Amendment No. 3.

Amend paragraph numbered seventeenth of section 284 of the city charter so as to substitute for the first three sentences thereof the following:

"Seventeenth. There shall also be a permanent improvement revolving fund, which shall not be supported by taxation. There shall be paid into the permanent improvement revolving fund moneys received from all special assessments assessed and levied under this charter for local improvements under the provisions of sub-chapter 2 of chapter 23 of said charter, and also such amounts as may be realized by the sale of the $150,000 worth of bonds authorized herein. When the board of public works shall make the report to the common council provided for by section 364 of this charter as to the estimated cost of any public improvement described in section 356 of this charter, the common council may by resolution determine the aggregate amount of the assessments for such improvements which, in its judgment, will be extended for payment, as is elsewhere provided for in this amendment, but in no case shall such aggregate amount exceed 75 per cent of the total estimated cost of such improvement, and order the issuance and sale of extended assessment certificates representing such aggregate sum, which shall entitle the holder thereof to demand and receive from the city of Duluth, upon the surrender of such certificates to the city treasurer on or after the date of payment thereof, the amount of money named to be paid therein, with the rate of interest stipulated to be paid thereon to the due date thereof and not after such date. Such certificates may be issued in such amounts and become due on such dates as the common council may determine, but none of the same shall be payable more than five years from the date of the same. The proceeds of the sale of said certificates shall be paid into the permanent improvement revolving fund. Such certificates shall bear a rate of interest not exceeding 6 per cent per annum. The common council may, in its discretion, contract in advance for the sale of all such certificates that may be issued during any calendar year. No sale of such certificates shall be made except after advertising for bids at least one week prior to sale in the official newspaper of the city, and sales shall be made to the highest responsible bidder. Bids may be asked either on the basis of a rate of interest specified in the proposals or on the net interest basis on which the bidder will pay par for the same. The city treasurer shall keep a separate account of each assessment levied, and of each issue of bonds and certificates, the proceeds of which go into said fund."

Amend section 372 of the city charter so as to read as follows:

"Sec. 372. When said board shall be ordered by the common council to make any improvements described in section 356 of this charter, and said improvement so ordered shall have been completed and the final estimate therefor shall have been allowed by the common council, or the total cost of such improvement shall otherwise be determined, the board shall thereupon proceed at once to assess the total cost of such improvement as is assessable, including therein such additional amount as will defray the necessary expenses of making surveys, plans, specifications, superintendence, inspection and assessments, on the property to be benefited by said improvement, in proportion as nearly as may be to the benefits resulting thereto, but in no case in excess of such benefits. In making such assessment roll the board shall describe each piece of property assessed, and the amount assessed against the same, and shall state the name of the owner thereof, so far as known to said board. No mistake in or omission of such owner's name shall in any wise affect such assessment."

Amend section 378 so as to read as follows:

"Sec. 378. Said assessment shall be entered by the board of public works in a book kept for that purpose. As soon as said assessment roll is delivered to the comptroller he shall insert forthwith in the official paper in two successive issues a notice briefly describing the improvement for which the assessment is made and state that the assessment is payable in the city treasurer's office within thirty days after the publication of said notice and that unless the same is so paid within forty days after such publication, or an application is made to the common council for the extension of the time of payment of the same as provided by law within thirty days after the publication of said notice, a penalty of 10 per cent will be added to such assessment. Within the time limited within which the assessments made as hereinbefore provided for may be paid to the city treasurer without penalty, upon application to the common council duly signed by any owner of real estate against which an assessment is made, when the assessment exceeds $25 for each 3,500 square feet of property benefited by the improvement, and upon payment to the city treasurer of 25 per cent of such assessment, and when the remaining portion of such assessment does not exceed the assessed valuation of such real estate, and when the applicant waives all defenses and questions as to the legality of such assessment, whether such defenses be interposed in proceedings by the state for the collection of general taxes or otherwise, the common council may by resolution extend the time for paying the remaining portion of such assessment into not exceeding three installments, payable in one, two and three years from the first day of October next following the date of the passage of such resolution. In case such assessment is made between Oct. 1 and Dec. 31, and application is granted for an extension of the time within which to pay the same, the first installment of such extended assessment shall be due and payable on the first day of October next thereafter. Each of said installments of said extended assessments shall bear interest at the rate of 7 per cent per annum from the date the original assessment would be payable without penalty, and the 10 per cent penalty provided for in section 386 of this charter shall not be added to such extended assessments until they become delinquent. Such installments of extended assessments, together with the accrued interest thereon to the first Monday of January following, shall be considered to be delinquent under section 384 of this charter when they shall severally become due and payable, but not before. Any such installment of extended assessments may be paid at any time prior to its maturity, with interest to date of payment only. No assessment for the construction of sidewalks shall be payable in installments unless they are built in connection with other street improvements. The owner of any property making the application hereunder shall be determined according to the records of the office of the register of deeds or registrar of titles of St. Louis county.

"Any provision of the charter conflicting with any of the provisions of this amendment is hereby repealed."

Amendment No. 4.

Amend section 201 of the city charter by adding at the end of said section the following:

"The board of park commissioners shall also have authority to provide free band concerts and other musical entertainments in the public parks of Duluth."

Amend the thirteenth sub-division of section 284 of the city charter by adding at the end of the first sentence in said sub-division after the words "maintenance of public parks," the following words, viz.: "and for free band concerts and other musical entertainments in the public parks."

POLICY OF BUTTE & ELY IS CAUSE OF DISSENSION

New Directors Elected and J. B. Cotton Again Chosen President.

Contract Awarded for Concentrator of Butte Central Company.

Butte, Mont., Jan. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—Thomas F. Cole and the Giroux company, represented at the annual meeting of the Butte & Ely Mining company by John W. Neukom, a young attorney from Duluth, did not abide by the action of the officers in adjourning the meeting for one week. Mr. Neukom, holding a majority of the stock by proxy, assisted by one or two local shareholders, held another meeting and elected the following directors: Joseph B. Cotton, J. W. Neukom and Edward Maney, all of Duluth; John Pope and T. B. Moore of Butte. The new directors re-elected Mr. Cotton president and Mr. Maney treasurer and elected Mr. Pope vice president and Mr. Neukom secretary. Hereafter the Butte office will be in the office of the North Butte company and a member of Mr. Pope's office force will be selected as assistant secretary.

The Butte stockholders, who left the meeting after declaring an adjournment, claim to be in the right and that the subsequent election of a board of directors was not legal. The cause of dissension among the stockholders, it is said, is merely as to a question of future policy of the company, the local stockholders naturally being anxious to have the property developed. The company is in good financial condition, the report of the president showing that on Jan. 1 the treasury contained something more than $256,000. Since then, however, $100,000 has been transferred to Duluth from the Butte banks.

There is expectation that the contending stockholders will reach an agreement, as the difference, it is claimed, is not serious. As one of them said yesterday, "It is only a question of getting together and shaking hands."

Want Property Operated.

It appears to be the desire of the local stockholders to bring some influence to bear on the directors of the Giroux Consolidated Mining company, which holds a controlling interest in the Butte & Ely company, to either operate the ground of the latter, which adjoins the Giroux, or to allow it to be operated separately. It is understood that an agreement can be entered into with the Nevada Consolidated company, operating an adjoining property, to operate the Butte & Ely ground.

A controlling interest in the Butte & Ely company was purchased by the Giroux Consolidated in July, 1909, the latter paying $1 a share for the stock. Nothing has since been done with the property in the way of development, although considerable churn drilling has been done, showing the ground to be well mineralized. It is known that the deposit now being mined by the Nevada Consolidated extends into the Butte & Ely ground, and General Manager Lakeman is quoted as saying that there is $1,000,000 in every acre of the Nevada Consolidated ground.

The work that is now being done by the Giroux company on its own property in the way of development has a most important bearing on the future of the Butte & Ely, especially if the Giroux can be induced to give the same attention to the Butte & Ely.

Mines In Good Condition.

"The mines of the Anaconda company were never in better condition than they are today," is the statement of President Ben B. Thayer, who arrived in the city recently on his semi-annual inspection of the properties of the company in this city and state. Since coming here Mr. Thayer has been very busy looking over the mines and going underground to ascertain conditions and to see for himself the amount of ore blocked out and in sight. He goes about in the mines closely inspecting the various levels and takes nothing for granted. He spent some time at the big compressor plant which supplies the air through electrical power for the operation of the hoisting of ore from the depths of the Mountain View, Diamond, West Gray and High Ore mines and after his inspection expressed the opinion that the compressed air system was giving even more satisfaction than was anticipated. "Why, it is working perfectly," he said "and the success of the system is now established beyond the question of a doubt. We were so well satisfied with the operation of the compressed air plant that before the mines which were under contract to be equipped had been completed, we gave orders to the firm having the work in charge to go ahead, enlarge the plant and change the engines of all the mines. This will take time, but in another fifteen or eighteen months every mine on the hill will be hoisting ore by compressed air." Mr. Thayer would not venture to give an opinion as to the saving which would be brought about through the substitution of compressed air for steam, but did say that it would amount to considerable. He also said that under the compressed air system there was more steadiness and generally the work was more satisfactory.

Use of Electricity.

When asked about the general use of electricity, Mr. Thayer said that there was no doubt that wherever it could be used in preference to steam and the cost was less, it would be used. He said that electric fans were being used to supply fresh air to the men, thus making the conditions much better than they ever were before.

In speaking of the use of electricity for underground haulage of ore, Mr. Thayer said that this system was in use for some time, but it was being made more general and eventually all the ore on the lower levels would be conveyed to the hoisting point by electric cars. It is just possible that there may be a change decided on in the near future, storage battery locomotives being substituted for the trolley system. It has been found that the wiring necessary for the trolley system entails a large expense and in addition the overhead wires are dangerous to men going about the various levels with steel drills as they are liable to receive shocks. For the past two weeks a storage battery locomotive has been at work in the Berkely mine and the experiments so far carried on show that it can haul a tain of cars without any difficulty.

Butte Central Concentrator.

The Colorado Iron Works has been given the contract for the construction of the concentrator of the Butte Central Copper company, which owns the Ophir mine in this city. According to the agreement the mill is to be completed by June 1. It will have a capacity of 100 tons and will be modern in every respect. A representative of the Colorado company will arrive in the city in the course of the next ten days prepared to start the construction work. The work of excavating the ground has been in progress for the past two weeks and will be completed in a few days. Up to about two months ago the company had been shipping a carload of ore every week, but discontinued the shipments in order to allow the full force of the equipment to be given over to development work. The ore body on the 300-foot level has been enlarged and now there is a large body blocked out, sufficient, according to Superintendent McConnell, to admit of shipments being made for many months to come. Development work is now being prosecuted with vigor on the 550-foot level and before the concentrator is completed it is intended to have sufficient ore blocked out to keep the mill going at its capacity for an indefinite time. No decision has yet been reached as to continuing the depth of the mine below the 1,000-foot level and it is not likely that any further effort will be made to find sufficiently hard ground to cut a station at that depth until after the mill is in running order. The money is in the treasury for the payment of the mill and the shipment of one carload a week which was again commenced this week will pay for all operating expenses.

Rich Gold Strike.

A rich strike of gold ore assaying from $3,000 to $5,000 a ton was made recently in the Spotted Horse mine, located near Malden in Fergus county. The Spotted Horse in years past was one of the most famous gold producers in the West, but several years ago the rich vein was lost and all efforts up to the present time to find it have been fruitless. The Spotted Horse is owned by James Breen, the millionaire, but is at present being worked under a lease, and the lessee is now sacking the ore for shipment, not running it through a mill. While millions have been taken from the property years ago, of late it has not yielded anything, but on the contrary has been a source of loss. Should the vein just opened up continue as appearances would indicate, millions more will be extracted from the mine.

Raven.

The Raven company has decided on a vigorous policy of development for the purpose of either bringing the property into the producing class or abondoning it altogether. Manager Packard is of the opinion that within a few months the directors will be well repaid for the money which has been expended during the past year. The new air compressor is now in operation and the work of unwatering the mine from the 1,100-foot level to the lowest depth, 1,500 feet, is progressing so favorably that it is believed in another week all of the water will have been removed from the workings. It is now more than a year since a fine body of ore was opened up on the 1,300-foot level, but the facilities were inadequate to keep the mine clear of water and the exploration of the level had to be given up. Just as soon as the water is all removed, Manager Packard proposes to have this body of ore worked from the 1,500-foot level and he is of the opinion that it will be found much richer at depth than on the 1,300-foot level. A large force of men will be put to work on two shifts to explore the levels mentioned. The leasers, who are at work on the upper levels, secured handsome returns during November and December, the returns during the latter month being the largest at any time since they secured the lease, nearly one year ago.

Belmont Mine.

The Belmont mine of the Anaconda company has reached a depth of 2,000 feet and connection is being made with all the properties of the company. It is intended in time to make the Belmont the main hoisting center for all the mines, but this will not come to pass for some time yet. The Belmont engine will first have to be equipped for operation by compressed air and all the underground workings of the various properties supplied with electric cars for the hauling of the ore. When this plan of operation is put into force the cost of production is going to be greatly reduced.

Wickes-Corbin District.

The coming spring and summer is going to be a busy one in the Wickes-Corbin district. The Robert Emmet is being worked and the shaft is now down over 500 feet. In order to carry on more extensive development work heavier machinery is required and this has been ordered and is expected in the course of a few weeks.

Th Boston-Corbin company is down to a depth of 1,200 feet and a large quantity of ore has been blocked out, much of it high grade. There is some talk of the company erecting a smelter for the treatment of its output and looking after the ore from the various mines in the district, but it is not believed that the question has yet been seriously considered by the directors.

The Blue Bird is making regular shipments, while the Corbin Copper company has opened up a good body of ore in the course of shaft sinking.

Tuolumne.

A few days ago steam was turned into the new surface plant of the Tuolumne company, but it will be some days yet before the plant is put into commission, as the cables, guides and such like have to be adjusted. It will be about the first of the month before the company starts the plant up permanently. Then the production will be increased to about 400 tons a day and the sinking of the shaft to a further depth of 200 feet will be commenced, bringing the depth of the mine to 2,000 feet. The force of men will be considerably increased on the first of the month in order to carry on more extensive development work.

TUNNEL IN ORE IN STEWART MINE

Important Strike After Passing Through Fault 250 Feet Wide.

According to reports from Spokane, ore was struck in the lower tunnel of the Stewart mine last Wednesday and since that time the drift has been showing constant improvement.

The strike was made immediately after the tunnel had got through the Osburn fault, which, at this point, proved to be only 250 feet wide. Driving through this fault proved much less difficult work than was encountered by the Caledonia company in the same belt, for the reasons that the fault was 200 feet narrower and the filling, though badly broken up, was not so finely crushed.

The strike is of unusual importance because it unquestionably proves the continuity of the Stewart ore shoots and their persistence at depth.

The mine now is shipping between 450 and 500 tons of ore daily, which is about all that the mill at Wallace can handle. The strike will mean the taking up of the option on the Tiger mill at Burke, as greater milling capacity will be required in the near future.

As the Stewart company has been entirely out of debt for some months, there is no reason why it should not shortly be placed on a substantial dividend-paying basis. F. Augustus Heinze, the controlling stockholder of the company, is expected to visit the mine about Feb. 1.

INTEREST IN THE OUTCOME

Exploratory Work on Norman Company's Lands Northwest of Republic.

Volunteer's Success in Cascade District Causes Others to Explore.

There is much interest in Marquette iron range mining circles in the outcome of exploratory work upon which the Jones & Laughlin Steel company has embarked in the territory some miles northwest of Republic. Diamond drilling is being done. The lands upon which operations are in progress are those of the Norman Iron company. They comprise 320 acres in section 30, 47-30. The tract will be thoroughly and systematically tested. It has been taken over by the big Pittsburg corporation under a one-year option, the provisions of which convey a right to acquire the property on a fifty-year lease, based on terms as to royalty and otherwise that are considered very favorable to all concerned. The Norman lands are traversed by the Negaunee iron-bearing formation. They have, however, in all the long history of the Marquette range, been explored only to trifling extent, and then only spasmodically. The discovery of ore adequate as to quantity and quality would be a boon limited not to the field directly concerned, but of much importance to an extensive district now undeveloped. The Norman Iron company is controlled by the estate of the late Norman McLeod of Minneapolis, formerly of Negaunee, Mich., and was organized more than three decades ago by the man whose name it bears. Associated with the McLeod interests are a number of prominent Negaunee men who are the officers of the company. Former Mayor E. C. Anthony is president, J. M. Edgerton, secretary-treasurer, and ex-Mayor Joseph H. Winter, a director. The United States Steel corporation is exploring a Michigan Iron & Land company tract directly north of the Norman lands.

Drift From the Beacon.

An interesting exploration operation recently concluded has been the driving of a long drift from the bottom level of the Steel corporation's Champion mine at Beacon. This level is down 2,000 feet and is the deepest on the Marquette range. The drift was driven by the Buckeye Iron company, under an arrangement with the Steel corporation and to obviate the necessity of sinking a shaft. The Buckeye interests are the owners of the land directly west of the Champion, in which direction the ores of the latter have been pitching ever since the mine was first opened many years ago, when the initial product came from surface workings at the eastern end of the property. Only one small seam of ore was encountered in the drift, and this one was not followed, all attention being centered on the lateral work. Pending the determination of the method of future exploration, the Buckeye operations are held in abeyance. It may be that a shaft will be sunk or diamond drills employed on drifts driven from upper levels of the Champion property. The Buckeye tract lies between the Champion and the east end of Lake Michigamme, and in the opinion of mining men familiar with the field, the property is one of important prospective value. The Champion produces hard specular and magnetic ores, for which there always is an excellent demand. The ores lie in lenses, one lens overlapping another, and each separated by barren ground. The mine has been operated on a meager scale for a number of years. It is owned in fee by the big corporation and its ores are held in reserve.

Cascade District.

The success which the Volunteer Ore ccmpany of Duluth is meeting in the Cascade district, where it is developing a deposit of Bessemer ore, is attracting increased attention to that portion of the Marquette range. Important exploratory operations have recently been started by the E. J. Longyear company of Minneapolis, to which a diamond drilling contract has been given by Minnesota interests holding an option on lands owned by J. C. Kirkpatrick of Escanaba, Mich., and associates. Three drills will be employed and a thorough test of the tract will be made. L. D. Cooper, M. E., is in charge of the work. The Heidelback interests of New York, owners of lands two miles distant from the Volunteer, instituted similar operations some months ago. Until the Volunteer people, prominent among whom is Thomas F. Cole of Duluth, demonstrated the existence of Bessemer ore, apparently, in considerable quantity, the Cascade district was little regarded, the mines previously opened having produced only a siliceous product low in metallic iron. Bessemer ore is in pressing demand. It has been mined in the Lake Superior region with profligacy for many years past, with the result there has been a great drain upon supplies and new deposits are eagerly sought. The product grows more valuable with each succeeding year. There have been important discoveries of this grade of ore in the Iron River district of the Menominee range. This field for many years had been held in no particular favor. It was looked upon as a producer only of low grade material. Sufficient depth had not been attained, however. When this fact finally was realized there were instituted aggressive diamond drilling operations that have resulted in the addition of a great tonnage of high-grade ore to the former stores of low-grade material, until now Iron River has moved well to the front among the most valuable mining districts and has more operating concerns than any other field in the Lake Superior country.

Iron River District.

The Iron River district last year had fifteen shipping mines. A number of others will be added to the list this year, two of which will be Rogers, Brown & Co.'s Rogers mine and the property, the development of which the Jones & Laughlin Steel company has recently started. The shaft at the latter tract will be one of the largest and very finest in the field. In inside dimensions it will be 10 by 12 feet. The shaft is sinking in hardpan and will attain the ledge the middle of February. The ore body will be reached and will be opened sufficiently so that some shipments can be made towards the end of the coming season of navigation. Contracts for important construction work at the Rogers mine have been awarded by Rogers, Brown & Co., to the Warner-Allen Iron company of Milwaukee. Five buildings will be erected, all of steel and brick and modern in every particular. They will comprise a machine shop, 48 by 160 feet; engine house, 48 by 128; miners' change house, 40 by 106; boiler house, 48 by 66; and warehouse, 40 by 96. In addition, the Milwaukee concern will erect a steel shafthouse, 150 feet in height and equipped with an ore-crushing plant and a large steel ore bin. The new construction is to be completed by June 1. The result will be a group of mine buildings unexcelled in the district.

Loretto to Continue Work.

Reports in circulation lately have been to the effect that the Loretto Iron company's Loretto mine, east of Iron Mountain, Menominee range, was about to suspend operations. These stories are denied. The Loretto is being wrought on a reduced scale, as for some months past, and for the time being at least operations will continue on this basis. Warren J. McLaughlin of Iron Mountain, until recently mining engineer at the Loretto, which position he resigned to accept a similar post with M. A. Hanna & Co., of Cleveland, has gone to the Trenton district of Ontario to take up his new duties. The Hanna interests, organized as the Canada Iron Mines company, control a large deposit of magnetic ore near Trenton and will open it on an extensive escale. Mr. McLaughlin has been connected with the Loretto Iron company nearly the entire time since his graduation from the Michigan College of Mines a number of years ago and under his direction various notable engineering problems have been successfully solved. It was at the Loretto that the feat of constructing a new channel for the Sturgeon river, which flowed directly over the underground workings, was successfully consummated.

OUTPUT OF IDAHO MINES INCREASED

Most Noticeable in Zinc, Silver and Lead—Copper Decreases.

A general increase was shown in the production from Idaho mines in 1911, according to C. N. Gerry of the United States geological survey. This was attributable to all ores except those of copper, the output of which decreased in Shoshone county and siliceous ore, which diminished particularly in Owyhee county. The most noteworthy increases were in zinc ore, silver and lead, and gold from placers. A gain of near 13 per cent in the gold output brings the production back to a normal figure for 1911, after the strikingly low output of 1910.

The Coeur d'Alene region, Shoshone county, was unusually free from interruption to production. The old producers increased their shipments and several new producers were added. These lead mines produce nearly 90 per cent of the state's output of silver, the concentrate and ore assaying between twenty-five and fifty ounces to the ton. Gold production in this county was small, from placers, lead ore, and copper ore.

According to preliminary figures furnished by the director of the mint Idaho produced in 1911 gold valued at $1,169,261 and 7,507,802 fine ounces of silver, valued at $4,129,291, against $1,036,900 in gold and 7,027,000 ounces of silver, valued at $3,794,000, in 1910.

GOOD SHOWING IN BOSTON & CORBIN

Drift on 1,200-Foot Level Shows 2 1-2 Feet of Good Ore.

No. 1203 drift on the 1,200-foot level of the Boston & Corbin has advanced twenty feet, following two and one-half feet of high grade chalcopyrite (or copper sulphide ore) and is improving with every foot driven. The upraise started from the twelfth level to follow the vein up to the ninth level, has advanced six feet. This raise will prove up the vein 300 feet in height, between the ninth and twelfth levels and furnish air connections between all mine levels. Face of the raise has now over four feet of pay ore, or over twice the width that the pay ore was at the point where the raise was started. The 1,300-foot level station is now being cut and as soon as completed a cross-cut will be driven to tap the Bertha vein, when drifts will be driven each way on the vein. Shaft-sinking will again be resumed another 150 feet, to the fifteenth level, as soon as the cross-cut on the 1,300-foot level has been extended far enough so as not to interfere with workings in the shaft.

FAY-CANANEA MINE IS SOLD

Purchased By New York Investors for $300,000 and Royalty.

Cananea, Mex., Jan. 27.—A deal has been consummated whereby the property of the Fay-Cananea Copper company, comprising over 250 pertenencias, passes to a group of New York investors headed by A. C. Charlot, president of the El Triumfo Consolidated Mining company. The property is known locally as the Cananea-Eastern and is located about twenty miles east of Cananea, in the Ajo mountains. The consideration is stated to be $300,000 United States currency.

Mr. Charlot announced that work will be commenced as soon as all the details regarding transfer of the property are completed and that development work and actual mining will be vigorously prosecuted.

The sale of the Cananea-Eastern property is one of the most important occurring in the Cananea neighborhood in the past five or six years and will be the cause of a revival of mining in that locality, the Ajos, after a lapse of several years.

It is understood that $100,000 is to be paid within the year and that the Fay-Cananea company is also to receive a royalty on all ores taken from the property.

The Fay-Cananea is considered a good company and the ground is highly mineralized, much work being done to demonstrate this fact. The ores carry copper and silver in commercial quantities and are highly silicious, making a good flux. About five years ago considerable ore was treated in Cananea for the company, with good results.

The officers of the Fay-Cananea (American organization) are: Marcus L. Fay, president; G. A. Daugherty, vice president and treasurer; George M. Fay, secretary; the foregoing comprise the board of directors with William J. Schulze, John McDaniels and Lee Kannaple. The secretary of the Mexican corporation is Pete Kemp of Cananea. The company was organized in 1904, capitalized at $3,000,000; shares $5 par.

UNEXPECTED STRIKE MADE

Another Find of Copper Ground By the Algomah Company.

Winona Preparing to Double Output and Force Being Increased.

Houghton, Mich., Jan. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Algomah Mining company has made a third and unexpected strike of copper ground in the No. 6 drill hole which is going down vertically in the territory directly south of the South Lake acreage. The latest find was encountered at a depth of 2,297 feet and discloses a thickness of twenty feet with copper in commercial quantities. This is the third bed found in this drill hole, the first occurring at a depth of 1,867 feet and the second at 2,090 feet. These beds showed widths of 100 feet and 22 feet respectively. Work elsewhere about the property is centered in crosscutting and drifting in the exploratory shaft sunk to a depth of 210 feet on the Algomah ore body. The crosscut is driving for the Lake lode extension and the drift is following the course of the Algomah ore body.

Winona.

The Winona is preparing to double its output. Working forces are being increased as fast as new labor can be had. The stamp mill continues to operate 50 per cent of capacity treating 600 tons of rock daily with a 70 per cent extraction. The rock is yielding arround fifteen pounds fine copper per ton of rock milled. Tailing losses are still high, but are being gradually reduced. Development work is showing much good ground in the lower reaches of the Winona shaft and in the King Philip shaft to a lesser degree. Neither shaft is sinking at the moment. Operations are resulting in a small profit.

North Lake.

The North Lake has driven a sand pipe to a depth of 520 feet in an unsuccessful attempt to reach the ledge preparatory to diamond drilling. This was to be the fifteenth hole of the series put down in this tract for the punrpose of taking a geological cross-section of the property. The attempt will likely be abandoned. In the vicinity of the No. 7 drill hole the ground is being cleared for the first shaft which will be opened without further delay. Rail connections are promised by early summer. The company is in good shape financially and in its exploratory work has succeeded in locating several promising copper bearing amygdaloid lodes.

Ojibway.

The Ojibway reports a recovery of 15.3 pounds fine copper in an early period of the present mill test, and is now obtaining something better than this figure. The improvement in more recent shipments is quite marked and a conservative estimate will put the average for all shipments to date well over sixteen pounds fine copper per ton of rock milled. The product is being treated in the Tamarack mill. At the mine activity continue centered in the north shaft, which has attained a depth of over 1,700 feet. At this depth and on the 1,600-foot level plats are being cut preparatory to cross-cutting. There has been a persistent improvement in the character and copper content of the lode at depth and the general situation here is altogether encouraging.

Hancock.

The Hancock is still in copper ground in an unidentified formation opened in the big vertical shaft at a depth of 3,220 feet. A width of twenty-four feet is thus far disclosed without signs of the foot wall which may be expected to mark the limits of the deposit in that direction. The new find, probably one of the several Quincy-Pewabic series of lodes, is of apparent commercial value though not so far as can be determined of a richness comparable with any of the several other lodes opened in this acreage. The fact that mineral is being found in any quantity at this depth is the most encouraging feature and the entire situation is most promising for values in the main lode of the series yet to be tapped.

Superior.

The Superior is installing a second skipway in the No. 1 shaft and expects soon to be able to increase production. The present small output of the mine continues to be handled by the Atlantic stamp mill, but may be diverted to one of the Calumet subsidiary mills at an early date. The Tamarack mill will probably be selected for this work. The situation in the mine is little changed from the past, being entirely satisfactory in No. 1 shaft and without much encouragement in the No. 2 shaft, in which latter work is centered in the drift on the thirteenth level for the purpose of giving connections with the workings of the No. 1 shaft. The No. 1 shaft is sinking below the seventeenth level.

Victoria.

The Victoria reports the disclosure of commercial copper in a cross-cut on the twelfth level of the new No. 6 shaft. This opening is designed to develop the eastern end of the Forest lode, upon which the company's energy has been centered from the very first. A cross-cut on the eleventh level in this shaft failed to make the desired showing. In the older workings of the deeper No. 2 shaft further good ground is being had at many points particularly on the twelfth, eighteenth, nineteenth and twenty-second levels east. The average yield of this ground has steadily bettered and though still below general average of this district is now yielding a small profit. The December output was ninety-five tons mineral.

The Famous Rayo Lamp

The best part of the day is the evening, when the whole family is gathered together around the lamp.

The old days of the smoky fireplace and flickering candle are gone forever. In their place have come the convenient oil stove and the indispensable Rayo Lamp.

There are to-day, in the United States alone, more than 3,000,000 of these Rayo lamps, giving their clear, white light to more than 3,000,000 homes.

Other lamps cost more, but you cannot get a better light than the low-priced Rayo gives. It has become so popular we may almost call it "the official lamp of the American family."

The Rayo is made of solid brass, with handsome nickel finish—an ornament anywhere.

DOUBLE BILL FOR VOTERS

Every Good Citizen Should Vote Twice on Feb. 6

Municipal Light Plant Advocates Have Opened Headquarters.

One week from next Tuesday the voters of Duluth will cast their ballots in the annual election. They will vote for mayor, municipal judge and eight aldermen and express themselves on four charter amendments and the question of issuing $700,000 bonds for the erection of a municipal electric plant.

The bond issue question will be separated from the other issues at the election by the fact that it is to be voted upon at a special election. The judges will be the same as at the general election, the polling places will be the same and the booths will be the same, but two separate poll lists will be issued and each voter will be required to vote twice.

The situation in regard to the bond issue is unique. The law provides that any amendment or other question, to carry, shall have a three fifths affirmative vote of all the ballots cast at the election. Thus in the ordinary case, a voter who fails to express himself on a question, while voting at a regular city election really votes against it. Voters opposed to questions have thus become accustomed to merely failing to vote on them.

A voter who casts a ballot in the city election this year and does not vote on the bond issue will not be counted against it. He must cast a ballot on the bond issue as well if he wishes to express himself, for the total votes cast on the question of the bond issue only will be considered in determining the result.

The interest in the bond issue is warming up. The advocates of the municipal plant have opened headquarters on Fourth avenue west. They have assumed a non-partisan attitude and are pushing the bond issue independent of the city election. Henry Truelson, former mayor of Duluth, will be here next week to take part in the campaign.

Opponents of the bond issue are also working. They have appeared at improvement club meetings to advance their arguments and several warm debates between the opposing sides have resulted.

Interest in the mayoralty overshadows everything else. Both the Democratic and Republican parties are working hard for their candidates. Both candidates have made a number of speeches and others will follow during the coming week. Mayor Cullum has thus far confined his public speeches to the West end and West Duluth and hundreds of people have heard him in each place.

The Socialist party is making a hard contest. Meetings are held nearly every night and the candidates for mayor and aldermen are busy spreading the propaganda. The Socialists will pool a comparatively heavy vote, but there appears to be little likelihood of the election of any of their candidates. They claim they will cast 2,000 votes for their candidate for mayor and will elect their aldermanic candidates in the Seventh and Eighth wards.

In the wards there are some warm contests. The campaign has not assumed a very exciting stage, but there is well-defined interest and a heavy vote will be cast.

SWIMMING HAS BECOME CRAZE WITH DULUTH WOMEN

Y. W. C. A. Tank Is Popular Even in Zero Weather--Many Becoming Expert in Fancy Diving.

Splash!

Then a lot of little splashes and a whole lot of ripples and a gasping young woman arose to the surface of the water and laughed and yelled "great!"

"Come on in, girls, the water's fine!"

It is at the Y. W. C. A. that Duluth women are learning to swim.

During the past few weeks the art of learning to swim has resembled a craze among local women.

With the thermometer hovering zero to 48 below they have appeared regularly for their lessons. Every time the pool is open it is taxed to capacity.

So great is the demand that several new classes have been formed and the tank opened more regularly than formerly. Additional classes may soon have to be formed.

Miss Bertha F. Parmlee, physical director, is swimming teacher. She is said to be "some swimmer" by the girls who are just learning to take their first strokes.

Duluth women are conducting almost daily raids on the Y. W. C. A. tank. Suits are provided by the association at a small fee and an instructor is in charge. Even an electric arrangement for drying hair has been provided. Miss Tremble, secretary of the association, says that the tank and its equipment are probably as complete as any in a city of Duluth's size in the country.

"Can Duluth women swim?" was asked Miss Parmelee and her answer was "indeed they can."

"Why the idea! We have some of the best women swimmers. Many of them are good swimmers and come in regularly for their exercise. Others come in to learn and they are apt pupils.

"Climbing Duluth hills is good exercise. It develops muscles and therefore Duluth women are strong and able to learn much quicker than women of other cities. There are but few puny examples of womanhood in Duluth, at least we fail to see them."

"Who is the best swimmer in Duluth?"

"Well, really," said Miss Parmalee, "they are all so good that it would be a pretty hard matter to determine. No, I don't know as I will express an opinion."

But the girls—well, the girls were not slow to remark:

"Miss Alice Lautenschlager swims like a fish," enthusiastically, and a chorus of "you ought to see Mrs. Massey," echoed from a dozen throats.

These two women are said to be expert swimmers, swimming under water, diving and doing other fancy stunts that many are yet unable to attempt.

Among the other Duluth women said to be expert in the water are: Miss Hilda Olson, Miss Elsie Dear, Miss Moran, Mrs. Miller McDougal, Mrs. E. D. Edson, Mrs. F. P. Clark, Mrs. Lee Farmer, Mrs. John MacGregor, Mrs. W. C. Winton and Mrs. J. J. Foreman.

Among the younger girls who are proficient in the art are: The Misses Winton and Alexander, Marion Dight, Penelope Turle, Millet Davis Ruth Hoxie, Mildred Wall and many others.

Swimming is the rage just now in Duluth and no matter how cold the weather, the women are on the job for their daily swim.

SOME FORMER DULUTHIANS WHO ARE "MAKING GOOD ON THE COAST"

Alf Gillon, a former well known resident of Duluth, has written an exceedingly interesting letter to John G. Ross, clerk of the municipal court, telling him of his experiences and observations while traveling through the West. Mr. Gillon has been in most of the coast cities and was recently in British Columbia.

A feature of the letter which will appeal to all of the older residents of Duluth is where he speaks of former Duluthians he has met while on his journeys. Among them are the best known citizens of former days. Mr. Gillon does not attempt any biographies, but gives a few words about each of them.

The first mentioned is Tom Hayden, a former member of the local detective force. He is now in Seattle in a similar capacity and Mr. Gillon says that he was pleased to see him getting along so well.

Tom McLaughlin, formerly a captain on the Duluth police force, is acting as a special officer for a large transportation company and has "made good."

Mr. Johnson, formerly associated with the Suffel Shoe company, two of the largest shoe stores in Seattle, and Miss Walsh, also known to the shoe trade, is in his employ.

Mr. Gillon says that he spent a pleasant evening with George Randall, who has many relatives in Duluth. He saw "Dunk" McKinly, now engaged in the real estate business. He mentioned "Old Man" Miles, a colored barber who at one time had considerable property in this city, and also Geer, another former member of the Duluth police force. He also called on "Shoe" Street, a former Duluth druggist who had his store in the East end. He is now in the insurance business at Seattle.

He had a pleasant visit with John Panton, a former owner of the Glass Block store, who left this city recently to open a large drygoods business at Seattle. He says that Seecamp, the cigar man, is in the same business in that city, and that Frank Lozier has been prospering, holding a position as city ticket and freight agent of the Alaska-Pacific Steamship company.

At Vancouver, B. C., he had quite a chat with "Dad" McFarlane, a brother of A. R. McFarlane, and received a visit from Dan McIntosh and his family. He says that "Dan" is an inspector on the Vancouver police force. He also met Alex McLennan and ran across George Little, a brother of "Ham" Little, in Tacoma, Wash., where he is holding a position as a filer in a large sawmill.

CREDIT MEN WILL DISCUSS FIRE PROTECTION AT ANNUAL MEETING

On Jan. 31 the Duluth Credit Men's association will hold its annual meeting at the Commercial club. This meeting will be notable in that several credit men of national prominence will be here as well as the mayors of Duluth and Superior, the fire commissioners of the two cities, other city officials, the presidents of the two Commercial clubs and a number of the most prominent men of Duluth.

Franklyn H. Wentworth of Boston, secretary of the National Fire Protection association, will be the principal speaker. Charles E. Meek of New York, one of the directors of the protective association and vice president of the National Credit association, will also be one of the speakers. J. H. Tregoe, secretary of the National Credit Men's association, and Fred Salisbury of Minneapolis, one of the directors of the national association, are also on the program.

One of the vitally important subjects that is to come before the meeting is the subject of fire protection. The problem of national fire protection is one vast in its scope and one that is commanding attention from board of fire commissioners, business men and public men in general. The fire commissioners of both Duluth and Superior will, it is expected, be very much interested in the discussion of this national subject.

In addition to the visitors and the city officials of Duluth and Superior, there will be the sixty members of the Duluth association. The guests will reach Duluth on the morning of Jan. 31 and will be shown around the city during the morning. They will be entertained at noon by the local credit men.

ORIENTAL BALL DAZZLES ELECT

San Francisco Function Is Said to Have Surpassed That in New York.

San Francsco, Cal., Jan. 27. — San Francisco society was entertained by Mrs. Templeton Crocker last night with an Oriental ball. In point of magnificence of setting and costume, it is said to have outshone any similar entertainment given in the West, and there were many who contended that it surpassed the celebrated affair given by Mrs. Crocker's cousin, Mrs. Jack Gourand, in New York not long ago.

The ball room of a fashionable hotel had been converted into the semblance of the throne room of King Solomon's temple. Swarthy attendants, clad in the fantastic dress of Asiatic principalities, lurked in the picture. The costumes of the participants were varied and wondrous. Mrs. Crocker's daughter, Mrs. G. Irwin, flashed upon the guests in Oriental trousers of coral pink, veiled with a brocaded cloth of gold, worn as a tunic, with breast pieces, bodice and broad girdle of turquoise, pearls and sapphires.

The hostess was regal as Scheerazade.

Her mauve pantaloons were embroidered with gold and silver thread. Sapphires and pearls woven into a sort of harness covered the dress and her coronet there fell to her bejeweled ankles a veil of silver in a suggestion of the flashing scales of fish.

North Dakota Courthouses.

Cavalier, N. D., Jan. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—On Feb. 6 the county commissioners of Cavalier county will receive plans from the architects of the Northwest for the proposed new courthouse which will be erected here this year. In Richland county the commissioners have called for bids for their proposed new courthouse, Feb. 19, to cost about $50,000.

PLAN BIG TIME FOR CHURCHILL IN BELFAST.

Belfast, Ireland, Jan. 27.—The Liberal party, according to reports current here, hopes to compensate Winston Spencer Churchill, the first lord of the admiralty, for his disappointment at his plans in regard to speaking in favor of home rule at Ulster hall being upset. To do this they will organize a demonstration in connection with his visit to Belfast on more striking lines than would have been the case if the home rule meeting had been allowed to proceed without molestation.

The military authorities in Dublin have arranged to send troops here both from the capital and other points should their presence be considered necessary to maintenance or order.

EXPECT ADJUSTMENT OF ENGINEERS' DEMANDS.

New York, Jan. 27.—Conferences to consider the demands made by engineers on lines east of Chicago and north of Ohio river for increased wages to conform with the standards on Western railroads will be held here and in other cities in the east some time during the next four weeks. Neither the railroad officials nor the engineers expect any trouble in effecting an adjustment of a satisfactory wage scale.

TAFT ASKS FUNDS TO HELP STARVING CHINESE.

Washington, Jan. 27.—The appeal issued through ordinary channels having failed to elicit a response in any way commensurate with the situation, President Taft, as president of the American Red Cross, has sent out an appeal for funds to relieve the famine-stricken people of China.

WANTS INSURANCE ON MURDERED WIFE'S LIFE

Is August Boo, wife-murderer and adjudged insane, entitled to collect $500 on his dead wife's life insurance policy?

The Modern Samaritans, the company in which Mrs. Boo carried $500 insurance, have refused payment, although Boo, through his attorney, Andrew Nelson, has requested it. Boo, it is claimed, is the beneficiary named in the policy.

On Nov. 9 last, Boo, in a fit of insanity, killed his wife, Carrie Boo. He attempted to commit suicide at the time, but was unsuccessful. At his trial, on Jan. 17, Boo was pronounced insane, and he has been committed to the hospital for the criminal insane at St. Cloud.

Today, Otto Boo, a brother, filed with the clerk of the district court, a petition askin the court to appoint a guardian for Boo, so that suit against the insurance company could be brought in regular form.

BUSINESS VOLUME WELL MAINTAINED

New York, Jan. 27.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade today says:

The situation in business is of a mixed character. While there is a lessened demand for iron and steel products—a natural reaction from the November and December activity—the volume of business is well maintained, in spite of the falling off in new railroad buying.

New business includes additional orders for about 200,000 tons of rails. There is under negotiation in Eastern markets 60,000 tons of plates and shapes for vessels and contracts have been placed for two large freighters for delivery on the lakes next summer. There is still a lack of complete confidence in the trade, and consumers in many instances restrict purchases to immediate needs. Prices are slightly irregular, there being an advance in wire products of $1 per ton, and iron bars have strengthened. Specifications for tin and sheet bars are heavy. The coke output for the week was 407,185 tons, the largest total for eighteen months.

Trading in the dry goods market showed noticeable expansion this week. Demand for cotton goods was more general, and while there was some tendency toward conservatism, there was good buying in all standard lines and little or no complaint was made regarding prices.

Miscellaneous trade is holding up steadily, but bids from China are too low to induce trade. Trade from the Red sea comes in small lots. In woolen goods, Western jobbers report improved conditions and are buying more freely in the primary markets. In overcoatings, chinchillas, shetlands and mixed rough fancies are being well taken. New rough woolens in suitings are ordered.

In dress goods the demand for nearby shipments in whipcords and fancies is noticeable. Silks are in more liberal request and both cotton and woolen yarns are in fair demand.

Visiting footwear buyers have operated liberally in spring and summer goods in the Boston market and a fair business is being received through traveling salesmen.

Leather is irregular in demand.

Hides are firm.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Yesterday morning each student was given a blank program to take home and fill out, naming the subjects and the course of study preferred for the second semester. Formerly, Principal Young and Miss Taylor took direct charge of the filling out of the records, but owing to the entrance of grade school graduates in the middle of the school year, the new plan was inaugurated whereby the work of adjusting the classes will be materially lessened.

Coach Schilling met the basket ball squad in his room Monday afternoon.

Mr. Schilling discussed the games on the schedule, and also made several suggestions pertaining to the work in the gymnasium.

The coach intends to give several blackboard lectures on the fine points of the game to the members of the first team, before the Central contingent meets the Superior normal on the pedagogues' floor, next Friday.

WOODMEN VOTE TO RAISE THEIR RATES

Chicago, Jan. 27.—The proposition for revision upwards of the insurance rates in the Modern Woodmen of America was adopted at the convention today by a vote of 460 for higher rates against 307 opposing the proposition.

The plan is that which is being urged for adoption by all fraternal insurance societies by the insurance departments of many states. It increases the rate of insurance in the order from 50 to 100 per cent and provides for twelve assessments each year. Members have heretofore contributed from nine to eleven assessments yearly.

ELOPERS WILL BE DEPORTED

Horace Laramee and Camilla Laramee, who eloped from Montreal, Can., some months ago, will be taken to Fort Frances and turned loose by the United States immigration inspector.

They have been held at the local county jail for several months past, having been arrested upon complaint of Victor Laramee of Montreal, brother of Horace and husband of Camilla.

Horace went to visit his brother in Montreal about a year ago and fell in love with Camilla, the brother's wife. He induced her to come to Duluth. She left her husband and five children for life with Horace.

Oskar Kallmark, subject to epileptic fits, will be taken to New York Monday and will be deported to Sweden from that point.

Kallmark has been an inmate of the Douglas county poorhouse.

RECORD VOTE ON NEW STEEL BILL

Washington, Jan. 27.—The house today took up the steel bill for amendment. Democratic leaders predicted it would be passed before adjournment.

When Democratic Leader Underwood moved to close general debate, the Republican leaders objected and demanded a record vote, which was taken. The bill should reach the finance committee of the senate on Monday, where the hearings will be held.

OBITUARY

Dennis F. Taylor, vice president of the F. E. Satterlee company of Minneapolis, is dead from Bright's disease, after a month's illness. He was born in Rochester, N. Y., but had resided in Minneapolis more than thirty years. A widow and two children survive him.

Rev. Thomas C. Thomas of L'Anse, Mich., a Chippewa Indian clergyman, widely known in the Northwest, is dead in a Marquette hospital, aged 53. He had labored as aminister among his own race since a boy. He was born in upper Michigan. The late Bishop Nindle of the Methodist church ordained him a clergyman in 1881.

Unknown Man Frozen.

Sykeston, N. D., Jan. 27.—An unknown man, lost in the storm, was frozen to death Friday, his body being found last night in a clump of bushes beside the road three miles northwest of here. He was well and warmly dressed. Thre inches of snow fell over the state yesterday and the weather is much colder.

BONDS HELD BY STATE ARE ORDERED RENEWED.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 27.—To insure the state against loss through insufficiency of the sureties on bonds held by the state, State Treasurer A. H. Dahl is sending notices to banks whose bonds have become old to have them renewed. It appears that some subscribers on the bonds have died and the securities may not be worth the face value unless renewed. The amount qualified by personal sureties on bonds held by the state is over $7,000,000. Changes are continually being made in the sureties on bonds and some banks habitually overlook the necessity of informing the state treasurer thereof.

ASKS EBERHART TO RAISE RELIEF FUND.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 27.—(Special to The Herald.)—President Taft, as head of the Red Cross society, telegraphed Governor Eberhart last night that appalling conditions resulting from the famine in China had been brought to his attention so forcibly that he was making an appeal to the United States for funds to relieve suffering. He recommended that Governor Eberhart issue a proclamation calling on Minnesotans for assistance. Governor Eberhart has not yet taken action, but probably will call in members of the Red Cross committee to consider ways and means for obtaining funds for the stricken country.

LOCK BANKERS IN VAULT AND RANSACK PLACE.

Vancouver, B. C., Jan. 27.—The Royal bank branch at Main street and Seventh avenue was robbed of its cash by two robbers yesterday morning. Manager A. A. Stevens and the members of his staff were backed into the vault and locked there while the robbers helped themselves to everything in sight. The sum taken is probably high up in the thousands.

LONG CROW WING COUNTY COURT TERM.

CANDIDATE FOR MUNICIPAL JUDGE

TO THE QUALIFIED ELECTORS OF THE CITY OF DULUTH:

Without regard to the policy of any incoming city administration, if elected to the office of judge of the municipal court of the city of Duluth, the Democratic nomination for which is received by myself, I will as such judge, see that the criminal laws of the state, and also the ordinances of the city for the prosecution of violations of which such court has exclusive jurisdiction, are observed and executed as required by the provisions of the Municipal Court Act creating and defining the duties of such office.

This will mean, for one thing, that the open brothels for the allowance of which under the present condition of the laws of the state and ordinance of the city of Duluth, there is no excuse to be offered on the part of those who are officially concerned and responsible therefor, will in the event of my election to such office, be discontinued for the full term of my incumbency, at least. The fact that such unlicensed institution, wherever it exists, is the recognized mart for the white slave trader, is practical reason sufficient for the demand for law enforcement in that particular, which is not one now voiced by me for the first time or for the mere purpose of a political campaign on my own part, as a candidate for the office in question.

In regard to the matter of the regulation and control of the sale of intoxicating liquors and conduct of licensed saloons or public drinking places, provision for which is made by law. Such traffic of a public nature and subject to supervision by the police power of the state as well as of the city where the license is issued, in for the most part governed by the general provisions of the liquor laws of the state, not subject in case of such laws to any interference therewith by the provisions of city ordinances, nor is there any room by means of the latter to restrict or require any act to be done or omitted in relation to such business, save where such requirement or restriction may have been omitted by the provisions of the statute itself; and in this respect the power of enactment by city council is strictly limited by the law to ordinances not in any wise altering or interfering with the jurisdiction conferred upon the several district courts of the state for the trial of all criminal cases arising under the general provisions of law in question.

The owner of licensed saloon is entitled to the benefit and protection of the laws of the state to which the retail liquor business is thus subject, as much as the owner of any other business or property interest; and the moral issue, if any, involved by the policy of the law licensing public drinking places is one not to be considered by any judge for the purpose of a decision or reflection by the court, in my own view of the matter.

We get at the root of your troubles, we don't treat symptoms, but we clean out the whole system. We have the means to do it. We paid $10,000 for our machinery—there is not one doctor's office in Duluth where patients can be cured as quickly as they can in our office. Our X-Ray machines penetrate every fiber and nerve of the whole body, and fill a man with new life and vigor.

SKIN DISEASES, ECZEMA.

We will give you treatment that will in a few days cure all rash, sores and every sign and symptom. Our treatment gets the poison out of the system instead of driving it in like other treatments. We cure blood poison and skin diseases so they cannot come back.

VARICOSE ENLARGEMENT, KNOTTED OR WORMY-LIKE VEINS.

Our one treatment cure is what you should have and what you will have to have to be cured right. Only a few visits are required. We do no cutting and you suffer no pain nor trouble. All signs disappear in a few days.

We have spent over $10,000 for our office equipment, library, X-Ray machines. We have acquired the most high-powered microscope which every disease can be diagnosed with.

NERVOUS TROUBLE, LOST VIGOR.

Our combined treatment for these troubles so common among men—men who have become weak and worn out, who have caused it by neglect, indiscretion and excesses, is remarkably good. No one believes how quickly it benefits until they have taken it. It overcomes weakness, nervousness, pain in the back, lack of energy, ambition and strength—it's just the treatment we have found so effective in treating such weaknesses of men.

KIDNEY AND BLADDER TROUBLES

Are scientifically cured by us. Our methods immediately benefit you, and the majority of cases we cure come from other specialists who failed.

STOMACH AND CONSTIPATION.

Medicines you purchase from the drug store will only relieve you temporarily. If your stomach has troubled you longer than two months, that is proof that the causes are deep-seated. The glands of the stomach secrete hydrochloric acid and other constituents necessary for digestion. This cannot be secreted when the stomach is sick. This condition gradually prepares you for cancer of the bowels and intestines. You can avoid all woes of pain and misery if you come to us, for we have cured thousands of these cases.

PILES, FISTULA, RUPTURE.

We can cure you so quickly and easily that you will be surprised. We will give you just the result and cure operation, chloroform or other dangers.

SITUATION IS BULLISH

Small Arrivals of Wheat From the Country Send the Prices Up.

Dull Day in Flax—Decline at Buenos Ayres Reduces Demand Here.

Duluth Board of Trade, Jan. 27.—The wheat situation looks decidedly bullish. There are continual reports that the amount of wheat in the farmers' hands from the 1911 crop is very small and that the heavy receipts from the country during the last part of the year merely meant that the farmers were in urgent need of money, not that they had a great deal of wheat to sell. It is cerain that the American visible supply is rapidly going down and the primary receipts are almost invariably smaller than those of the corresponding day of last year. Today the primary receipts were about 390,000 bu against 430,000 bu a week ago and 649,000 bu a year ago.

There were higher closes in wheat on all the leading wheat markets of North America today. Duluth May wheat closed at a gain of ½c over the closing price of yesterday. Duluth July closed at a gain of ¼c.

Foreign cables were almost uniformly bullish. Buenos Ayres wheat last evening closed ½c to ¾c up and this morning opened at a further advance of ¼c. This was due to a good foreign demand and light arrivals from the interior of Argentina.

Liverpool wheat closed ¼d to ⅜d higher, on account of bullish Argentine news, a forecast of lighter American shipments, light La Plata offers, firmer Manitoba offers and the strength of corn.

Chicago early in the day reported quite a scarcity of the contract grades of wheat. Word was received from Montreal to the effect that bids for export wheat were very high, and the demand strong. The Winnipeg car receipts, however, were large in comparison with those of last year, as has been the case almost throughout the present crop year thus far.

Duluth cash wheat closed ⅜c to ½c over the May price. Durum closed ½c up, outs ¼c up and rye and barley unchanged.

Dull Day in Flax.

As is almost invariably the case when there are bearish flax reports from Buenos Ayres, the demand for flax on the Duluth market was very slack today. Duluth February flaxseed last night closed at $2.01⅝, being ¼c lower than the close of yesterday. Today it opened at a further decline of 1¼c. This had the usual effect of making American buyers bearish, as such news invariably renews the hope of cheap flax from Argentina. The offers at Duluth, however, were not large. There were thirteen cars of flaxseed on the track today for inspection. There was therefore no great decline in flax at Duluth. January lost ½c and May 1c.

Rycroft wired from Chicago: "I wish to call your attention to the strength in the French wheat markets. Paris has been advancing steadily for several days. George Dornbusch's Floating Cargoes Evening List of London speaks concerning the world's flaxseed situation as follows: "As America will again be an importer (and may be expected to figure more or less in this light for the future) it devolves upon India in again being the chief contributor to the world's needs. Fortunately that country's area this season is much larger than last year, while the germination has been good and prospects thus far are most promising. Indications therefore are that while India in 1911 provided 48 per cent of the world's requirements, this season may witness a greater percentage, and with the increase some reduction in prices follow as soon as the present scarcity is materially relieved."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Prices Rise on Reports of Winter Grain Condition.

Chicago, Jan. 27.—Ohio and Indiana reports of poor condition of winter wheat acted today as a stimulus for the price of the cereal. The market reflected also strength at Liverpool, due to light world shipments and scarcity of contract quality. Smallness of Argentine offerings formed a special source of worry to shorts. The opening was the same as last night to ⅜c higher. May started at $1.07⅞@1.02 to $1.02⅛, unchanged to ⅛c up an advanced to $1.02¼.

An estimate that 20,000,000 bu of wheat would be required by France before the new crop came in brought about an additional upturn. There proved to be no lack of buying power to be cut. Closing prices were firm, with May at $1.02⅞, a net gain of ⅞@1c.

Longs sold out corn, and depressed the market. Desire to realize profits seemed to lead holders to disregard bullish sentiment in other pits. May opened a shade lower to a like amount up at 67⅛ to 67⅝c and declined to 67¼c.

The advance in wheat finally steadied the corn market. Closing figures were 67¼c for May, a decline of ¼@⅜c net.

Fair buying on the part of commission houses tended to lift oats. The pit crowd, however, leaned to the bear side on account of the weakness of corn. May started at last night's level of ¼c higher at 50¾ to 50⅞c and rose to 50⅞@51c.

Provisions showed an unexpectedly strong tone. Trade, though, was not large. First sales were unchanged to 5@7½c up with May deliveries $16.30 for pork, $9.37½ to $9.40 for lard, and $8.80@8.82½c for ribs.

Longs sold out corn, and depressed the market. Desire to realize profits seemed to lead holders to disregard bullish sentiment in other pits. May opened a shade lower to a like amount up at 67⅛ to 67⅝c and declined to 67¼c.

The advance in wheat finally steadied the corn market. Closing figures were 67¼c for May, a decline of ¼@⅜c net.

Fair buying on the part of commission houses tended to lift oats. The pit crowd, however, leaned to the bear side on account of the weakness of corn. May started at last night's level of ¼c higher at 50¾ to 50⅞c and rose to 50⅞@51c.

Provisions showed an unexpectedly strong tone. Trade, though, was not large. First sales were unchanged to 5@7½c up with May deliveries $16.30 for pork, $9.37½ to $9.40 for lard, and $8.80@8.82½c for ribs.

George Dornbusch's Floating Cargoes Evening List of London speaks concerning the world's flaxseed situation as follows: "As America will again be an importer (and may be expected to figure more or less in this light for the future) it devolves upon India in again being the chief contributor to the world's needs. Fortunately that country's area this season is much larger than last year, while the germination has been good and prospects thus far are most promising. Indications therefore are that while India in 1911 provided 48 per cent of the world's requirements, this season may witness a greater percentage, and with the increase some reduction in prices follow as soon as the present scarcity is materially relieved."

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Heavy Selling for Both the Long and Short Accounts.

Prices Crumble Rapidly and the Market Closes Very Weak.

New York, Jan. 27.—Prices of the market leaders were lower at the opening today, although the declines were small. Trading was in small proportions. Activity among the tobacco stocks continued. American Snuff rose 3 points. American Tobacco, which had gained 27 points yesterday, fell back 4 points on the first sale today. American Sugar advanced 1½.

Speculation became weaker after the opening. Reading was bid up sharply, but as this maneuver failed to have any substantial effect on the market buying of the stock ceased, and it reacted to below yesterday's close. Lehigh Valley was the weak feature, falling over 2 points, to 161¼.

Losses in the other representative stocks were confined to sharp fractions. American Tobacco slumped 11 points to 275, the bulge in the stock on Wednesday and Thursday inviting selling by holders who had a good profit in sight.

The market closed very weak. The statement by the chairman of the St. Paul board explaining the reasons for the cut in the dividend and his pessimistic views regarding the outlook for business caused heavy selling of stocks. Large blocks were disposed of for both the long and short accounts and prices crumbled rapidly.

Western stocks were particularly affected, but the coalers, coppers and United States Steel also broke badly. Lehigh Valley and Union Pacific slumped 3 points, Reading 2¾ and the active list generally 1 to 2 points. St. Paul yielded 1¼.

BOSTON COPPER STOCKS

The Boston stock quotations furnished by Gay & Sturgis, 326 West Superior street.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 27.—The local market looked splendidly today until the last half hour, when a big break in the New York market caused a slight recession. The break is not explainable by anything apparent on the surface. It is suggested that it is manipulation in Union Pacific, for the purpose of bringing about a railway deal.

The immediate future of the local market depends upon the influence of the general list. Interest is growing, and if no big general decline occurs, which does not seem likely, we shall get a broader market here.
